

1896 – 1899

Our Meeting at Ralston
---December 24, 1896
Questions
---February 1, 1897
My Tour in Missouri
---July 19, 1897
How Glaring!
---May 1, 1899

1900 - 1905

Debate at Perkins
---January 15, 1900
Fashion
---January 27, 1902
OH CONSISTENCY, ETC.
---April 26, 1904
MEETING AT MOUNT TABOR
---August 30, 1904
MISSIONARIES SEVENTY YEARS OLD
---March 28, 1905
Going Too Fast
---March 28, 1905
MASONRY SUPERIOR TO SOFTSHELLISM
---April 4, 1905
WHAT ARMINIANS PREACH
---June 13, 1905
Cayce – Tucker
---July 25, 1905
OCCUPYING SAME GROUND
---July 25, 1905
OUR FATHER IS DEAD
---September 5, 1905
OUR WORK ENDORSED
---October 10, 1905
REMARKS TO J. E. CRON
---October 10, 1905
OUR ASSOCIATION
---October 17, 1905
Who Are The Primitive Baptists?
---November 7, 1905
Cut Them Off
---November 21, 1905
Educated African Turned to Heathenism
---November 21, 1905
Sin Against The Holy Ghost
---November 28, 1905
Luke 13:34
---December 5, 1905
A Debate
---December 5, 1905
Mode of Baptism
---December 12, 1905
Close of Volume Twenty
---December 26, 1905

1906

Introduction to Volume Twenty-One

---January 9, 1906
The Black Rock Address
---January 6, 1906
Why We Baptize Them
---January 16, 1906
Baptists in Georgia
---January 23, 1906
Brother Sidwell's Letter
---February 20, 1906
Some Plain Facts
---February 27, 1906
John 10:12
---March 13, 1906
Home From Georgia
---March 20, 1906
Elder Hassell Again
---March 20, 1906
ELDER WALLACE'S LETTER
---March 27, 1906
Brother Vickers' Acknowledgment
---April 10, 1906
First Church Association
---April 17, 1906
Secret Orders
---April 17, 1906
Acts 13:3
---April 17, 1906
John 10:12 Again
---May 1, 1906
Sunday School Affiliation
---May 1, 1906
Does He Want Peace?
---May 15, 1906
John 11:39
---May 22, 1906
Galatians 3:1; 3; 6:18
---May 22, 1906
Matthew 8:22
---May 29, 1906
That Basis of Agreement
---June 12, 1906
Remarks to J. F. Leonard
---June 12, 1906
Who Are The Primitive Baptists?
---June 26, 1906
Matthew 24
---June 26, 1906
THE SPIRITUALITY OF THE GOSPEL
---July 24, 1906
The Word Made Flesh
---August 14, 1906
THE PRODIGAL SON
---August 14, 1906
Elder Crouse's Letter
---September 18, 1906

Acts 26:18,20
---September 25, 1906
OUR COLORED BRETHERN
---October 2, 1906
Matthew 12:43-44
---October 2, 1906
WHAT DOES HE BELIEVE?
---October 9, 1906
STARS IN THE CROWN
---October 9, 1906
OF THE WORLD
---October 9, 1906
DEBATE AND MEETING AT BUFFALO
---October 16, 1906
BEGAN TWENTY YEARS AGO
---October 16, 1906
TOUR IN OHIO AND INDIANA
---October 16, 1906
1 Peter 3:18-21
---October 23, 1906
SALVATION BEFORE FAITH
---October 30, 1906
Selah and Luke 16:1-9
---October 30, 1906
1 Corinthians 3:14-15
---October 30, 1906
Parable of the Sower
---November 6, 1906
Matthew 8:11-12
---November 13, 1906
Hebrews 6:4-5,6
---November 20, 1906
A WRONG IMPRESSION
---December 11, 1906
John 8:31,47
---December 11, 1906
VARIETY OF BAPTISTS
---December 18, 1906
CLOSE OF VOLUME TWENTY-ONE
---December 25, 1906

1907

INTRODUCTORY TO VOLUME TWENTY-TWO
---January 8, 1907
INFORMATION WANTED
---January 8, 1907
Romans 5:14
---January 22, 1907
Information Wanted
---January 29, 1907
EXPLANATION WANTED
---January 29, 1907
HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF
---February 5, 1907
ENTER INTO REST
---February 12, 1907
QUESTIONS BY A PRESBYTERIAN

---February 19, 1907
FOR WHOM IS THE GOSPEL?
---February 19, 1907
WHEN WERE THEY WRITTEN?
---February 26, 1907
PARABLE OF THE TARES
---February 26, 1907
WHEN WAS CHRIST BORN?
---February 26, 1907
Matthew 24:19
---February 26, 1907
CAYCE IS WILLING
---March 5, 1907
INFORMATION WANTED
---March 5, 1907
THE RIGHTEOUS SCARCELY SAVED
---March 12, 1907
Matthew 5:13-16
---March 19, 1907
HAS CHANGED
---March 26, 1907
IS IT ANNOYING?
---March 26, 1907
DEBATE WANTED
---March 26, 1907
THE LAW SATISFIED
---April 9, 1907
SOME QUESTIONS
---April 9, 1907
DEBATE IN MARTIN
---April 9, 1907
KEEP A RECORD
---April 9, 1907
Romans 8:9-10
---April 16, 1907
Galatians 3, Galatians 6:18
---April 16, 1907
WOMEN PREACHERS
---April 23, 1907
Matthew 5:32
---May 7, 1907
CHRIST AND BELIAL
---May 14, 1907
NEW WINE IN OLD BOTTLES
---May 14, 1907
GOOD REPORT OF THEM WITHOUT
---May 21, 1907
TOUR IN INDIANA AND OHIO
---June 18, 1907
WHOM DID JOHN BAPTIZE?
---June 25, 1907
SALOONS AND CHURCH MEMBERS
---June 25, 1907
LIARS NOT ALL DEAD
---June 27, 1907
REMARKS TO J. H. HALL

---July 2, 1907
CHRIST OUR SURETY
---July 2, 1907
WOMEN HELPERS
---July 2, 1907
HAVE BEEN BAPTIZED
---July 23, 1907
LADIES' AID SOCIETY
---July 30, 1907
Matthew 23:37
---August 7, 1907
ANOTHER ONE GONE HOME
---August 13, 1907
WITH OR WITHOUT MEANS
---August 20, 1907
Jonah 3:10
---August 20, 1907
KNOW AS WE ARE KNOWN
---August 20, 1907
Isaiah 14:12
---August 27, 1907
REPLY TO M. C. COLE
---September 3, 1907
IN EAST AND MIDDLE TENNESSEE
---September 10, 1907
REMARKS TO V. P. FERGUSON
---September 10, 1907
MISSIONS A FAILURE
---November 5, 1907
Genesis 6:1-4
---November 12, 1907
GREENFIELD-PHILESIC ASSOCIATION
---November 19, 1907
QUESTIONS OF ORDER
---November 19, 1907
Romans 10:13-15
---November 19, 1907
QUESTIONS FROM J. H. KUYKENDALL
---November 26, 1907
Galatians 5:4
---November 26, 1907
VALID BAPTISM
---November 26, 1907
PRIMITIVE
---December 3, 1907
FOOTBALL AND MISSIONS
---December 3, 1907
SOME DIE IN DISOBEDIENCE
---December 10, 1907
CLOSE OF VOLUME TWENTY-TWO
---December 24, 1907

1908

Introduction to Volume Twenty-Three
---January 7, 1908
1 Corinthians 8:8-13
---January 7, 1908

Sin Unto Death and First Resurrection

---January 21, 1908

The Prodigal Son

---January 21, 1908

Is Our Faith Wrong?

---January 28, 1908

What Do They Think?

---February 18, 1908

Questions from W. M. Cross

---February 18, 1908

PRIMITIVE AGAIN

---February 25, 1908

Elder Mayo

---March 10, 1908

Instrumental Music

---April 7, 1908

Kind Words

---April 14, 1908

John 3:16-17; Hebrews 2:9; Romans 9:15-25

---April 21, 1908

Acts 22:16

---April 21, 1908

Romans 7:24-25

---April 28, 1908

Eleventh Article of Faith

---April 28, 1908

Acts 8:16-17

---April 28, 1908

Backed Down

---May 19, 1908

Sin Unto Death

---May 19, 1908

2 Peter 2:2

---May 19, 1908

The Slothful Servant

---May 19, 1908

Women Preachers

---May 19, 1908

John 3:5

---May 26, 1908

Hebrews 2:2-3

---May 26, 1908

Wonderful Historian

---June 2, 1908

Pray For Laborers

---June 9, 1908

Information Wanted

---August 4, 1908

Converts for Nine Dollars

---August 18, 1908

Predestinarian Baptist

---September 8, 1908

2 Corinthians 4:3

---September 8, 1908

Revelation 22:18-19

---September 8, 1908

2 Peter 2:22
---September 8, 1908
1 Peter 2:13
---September 8, 1908
Romans 8:1
---October 6, 1908
IS IT TRUE?-SOMETHING NEW
---October 20, 1908
NO MISREPRESENTATION
---October 20, 1908
FAIRCHILD PEACE PROPOSITION
---October 27, 1908
NO FELLOWSHIP
---October 27, 1908
INFANT SALVATION
---November 17, 1908
Genesis 3:22-24
---November 17, 1908
A DOUBLE MINDED MAN
---November 24, 1908
THE SOUL AFTER DEATH
---November 24, 1908
Deuteronomy 6:6-7
---November 24, 1903
THE SCAPEGOAT
---November 24, 1908
CLOSE OF VOLUME TWENTY-THREE
---December 22, 1908

1909

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME TWENTY-FOUR
---January 5, 1909
OUR TRIP WEST
---January 12, 1909
OUR TRIP IN AUGUST
---January 12, 1909
ACCUSATION ANSWERED
---January 12, 1909
FEET WASHING NOT A TEST
---January 19, 1909
WHO IS RIGHT?
---January 19, 1909
NO NON-FELLOWSHIP
---January 26, 1909
AWAY FROM HOME
---January 26, 1909
STILL IN GEORGIA
---February 9, 1909
NOW IN FLORIDA
---February 9, 1909
Hebrews 7:1-4
---February 23, 1909
2 Peter 2:18-21
---February 23, 1909
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
---February 23, 1909
CONDUCT OF DEACONS

---February 23, 1908
Zechariah 4:14
---February 23, 1909
Matthew 19:8, and Romans 13:1-8
---February 23, 1909
STILL IN FLORIDA
---March 9, 1909
REPLY TO T. H. COTTON - FEET WASHING
---March 9, 1909
THE VERY ELECT
---April 27, 1909
THE GREAT INVESTMENT
---May 4, 1909
ORDERLY BAPTISM
---May 18, 1909
HOW MANY ARE THERE?
---May 25, 1909
VIEWS GIVEN
---June 1, 1909
RICH MAN AND LAZARUS
---June 8, 1909
MILL CREEK THEN AND NOW
---June 15, 1909
Matthew 5:32
---July 20, 1909
REMARKS TO ELDER A. B. WHATLY ON ORGANS
---July 20, 1909
Got His Papers
---July 27, 1909
In The Days of Noah
---August 10, 1909
Titus 3
---August 17, 1909
In Indiana
---August 31, 1909
SPIRITS IN PRISON
---August 31, 1909
In Missouri
---September 28, 1909
Sad Conditions
---October 5, 1909
God The First Cause
---October 26, 1909
Missions and Methods
---November 9, 1909
Organs in Churches
---November 16, 1909
Not Surprised
---November 23, 1909
Questions
---November 23, 1909
Sinners and Ungodly
---November 23, 1909
Questions From W. C. Moore
---November 30, 1909
Remarks to J. C. Biggs

---December 7, 1909
First Cause Again
---December 7, 1909
Questions
---December 14, 1909
Close of Volume 24
---December 28, 1909

1910

Introductory to Volume 25
---January 11, 1910
In Alabama
---January 18, 1910
Who Will Debate For The Primitive Baptists?
---February 15, 1910
That Court Decision
---February 22, 1910
John Calvin
---March 15, 1910
Baptists in America
---March 15, 1910
Predestination
---March 15, 1910
Dram Drinking
---March 15, 1910
Predestination Again
---March 15, 1910
High and Low Seats
---April 5, 1910
Gives It Up
---April 5, 1910
1 Samuel 19:9
---April 5, 1910
1 Corinthians 16:2
---April 12, 1910
What Adam Lost
---April 12, 1910
John Exiled
---April 19, 1910
What Is Changed?
---April 19, 1910
Acts 2; Acts 28:31 AND Ephesians 2:10
---April 26, 1910
Luke 15:8
---April 26, 1910
A Wrong Impression
---May 3, 1910
He Will Not Debate – Who Will?
---May 3, 1910
Matthew 24:19-22
---May 10, 1910
2 Corinthians 12:2-5
---May 17, 1910
Jeremiah 23:19-20
---May 24, 1910
Record It
---May 24, 1910

Debate on Missions
---May 31, 1910
James 5:20; Mark 9:43; Luke 11:30
---May 31, 1910
A Challenge
---June 7, 1910
Watertown Debate
---June 7, 1910
Baptism
---June 7, 1910
Debate on Missions
---June 21, 1910
Ministerial Aid
---June 28, 1910
Debate on Missions
---July 19, 1910
Twin Brothers
---July 26, 1910
The Heathen Question
---July 26, 1910
That Challenge
---August 2, 1910
The Footprints
---August 2, 1910
That Debate on Missions
---August 9, 1910
Challenge
---August 9, 1910
Missions Again
---August 16, 1910
Luke 13:6-9
---August 30, 1910
1 Corinthians 9:7-15
---August 30, 1910
Elder Sikes Did Challenge
---September 6, 1910
Keys of the Kingdom
---September 20, 1910
Foreign Missions Again
---September 27, 1910
Our Challenge
---October 4, 1910
Gifts in the Ministry
---October 4, 1910
Educate The Japs
---October 25, 1910
My Impressions
---November 8, 1910
AUTHORITY TO ORDAIN
---November 15, 1910

1911

SELECTED EDITORIALS FROM THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST

Beginning with 1911

Introduction to Volume 26

---January 10, 1911

Tour in Alabama

---January 10, 1911
DEADLY PARALLEL ---January 10, 1911
Information Wanted
---January 17, 1911
Luke 17:17
---January 24, 1911
He Can Get It
---February 7, 1911
Luke 16:19-31
---February 7, 1911
Secret Orders
---February 14, 1911
The Soul of Man
---February 14, 1911
Remarks to C. A. Clemons
---February 14, 1911
Wheat and Tares
---February 21, 1911
Romans 5:18
---February 21, 1911
Luke 5:4,7 AND John 21:11
---February 21, 1911
Hulsey - Cayce Debate
---February 28, 1911
Authority Again
---March 7, 1911
Acts 13:48
---March 21, 1911
1 Corinthians 15:22
---March 28, 1911
Plagiarism
---March 28, 1911
2 Corinthians 7:10
---April 11, 1911
John 1:9
---April 11, 1911
Can't Help It
---April 18, 1911
What Is The Reason?
---April 25, 1911
Baptist Missionary Centennial
---April 25, 1911
A Right Step
---April 25, 1911
Christian Churches Plan Joining Forces Unity Foundation Embraces Protestant, Greek and Catholic Bodies
---May 2, 1911
Missionaries Not Wanted Chinaman Writes Book Against Their Activities - Says They Harm His People
---May 2, 1911
Foe to Freedom
---May 9, 1911
How Can They Help It?
---May 9, 1911
Origins of the Denominations
---May 23, 1911

False Reports
---May 30, 1911

Questions
---May 30, 1911

Mark 3:14,19
---May 30, 1911

1 Timothy 3:12
---June 6, 1911

Matthew 18:14
---June 11, 1911

2 Peter 3:9
---June 13, 1911

Feet Washing
---June 20, 1911

That Challenge
---June 20, 1911

Adultery
---June 20, 1911

Romans 7:1-3
---July 4, 1911

Jonah 3: Jonah 4:11
---July 4, 1911

Wheat and Tares Again
---August 8, 1911

A Suggestion
---September 5, 1911

Concerning Organs
---September 12, 1911

Made It Plain
---September 12, 1911

The New Birth
---September 19, 1911

Adultery Again
---September 19, 1911

Birth and Adoption
---September 19, 1911

Revelation 12:1-8
---September 19, 1911

The Commission
---October 31, 1911

Do You Mean It?
---November 21, 1911

Nashville, Tennessee
---November 21, 1911

Question of Order
---November 21, 1911

Questions
---November 21, 1911

The Organ
---November 28, 1911

Elder J. V. Kirkland
---December 5, 1911

Close of Volume Twenty-Six
---December 26, 1911

1912

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME TWENTY-SEVEN

---January 9, 1912
Adam's Death
---January 16, 1912
1 Corinthians 7:15
---January 16, 1912
More Proof
---February 13, 1912
Who Are Asleep?
---February 13, 1912
A Pleasure Trip
---February 20, 1912
Luke 10:30-37
---February 20, 1912
The Nashville Debate
---March 5, 1912
Acts 8:33
---March 5, 1912
Elder Waters With Us
---March 5, 1912
Feel Thankful
---March 19, 1912
Repentance
---March 26, 1912
Here's A Mixture
---April 16, 1912
Hebrew Alphabet
---April 16, 1912
Questions
---April 23, 1912
Not Consistent
---April 30, 1912
Galatians 5:17 AND Romans 6:12
---April 30, 1912
Two-Seedism
---April 30, 1912
Answered Prayer
---May 7, 1912
Is This The Doctrine of Primitive Baptists?
---May 7, 1912
A Dream
--- May 7, 1912
Takes Exception
---May 14, 1912
Galatians 4:4-5
---May 14, 1912
Denies It
---June 4, 1912
Debate in Arkansas
---June 11, 1912
Reply to Elder J. B. Hardy
---June 25, 1912
Luke 21:31-35
---July 9, 1912
1 Corinthians 15:29
---July 9, 1912
The Cayce-Srygley Discussion by E. G. S.

---July 9, 1912
Questions On The Organ
---July 9, 1912
Carnell Inconsistencies
---July 16, 1912
Expect to Attend
---July 30, 1912
Luke 9:13
---July 30, 1912
Missionary Statistics
---September 17, 1912
Daily Throgmorton Debate
---September 17, 1912
We Got It Next
---September 17, 1912
Challenge Accepted
---September 24, 1912
Matthew 12:43-44
---November 19, 1912
The Jews Chosen
---November 19, 1912
Romans 9:7
---December 10, 1912
1 Peter 3:21
---December 10, 1912
Kingdom of God
---December 17, 1912
Close of Volume 27
---December 24, 1912

1913

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME XXVIII

---January 7, 1913
The Debate That Didn't Materialize
---January 7, 1913
Gambling
---February 4, 1913
Matthew 11:12
---February 18, 1913
1 Peter 2:10
---February 18, 1913
Hebrews 6:4
---February 18, 1913
Some Ideas Presented
---February 18, 1913
Musical Instruments
---February 25, 1913
The Church
---April 1, 1913
Questions on Regeneration
---April 1, 1915
Matthew 24:19-20
---April 8, 1913
Revelation 12:1
---April 8, 1913
Luke 23:43
---April 22, 1913

Matthew 18:18
---May 20, 1913
Habakkuk 2; Habakkuk 3:19 AND Malachi 4
---May 20, 1913
Missions
---May 27, 1913
Isaiah 45:7
---June 3, 1913
Romans 8:15-23; Galatians 4:5
---June 3, 1913
1 Corinthians 7:14,15
---June 10, 1913
London Confession and Fall of Man
---June 10, 1913
Questions
---June 17, 1913
Genesis 6:6 AND Exodus 32:14
---June 24, 1913
Matthew 16:19
---June 24, 1913
Warning
---August 19, 1913
Penick Croaks
---August 26, 1913
Job 14:10-12
---September 2, 1913
Bogard Objects
---September 2, 1913
Cows Laugh
---September 2, 1913
Job 7:1 AND Job 14:6
---September 9, 1913
Not Worth Much
---September 9, 1913
Question of Order
---September 9, 1913
Good Meetings
---October 7, 1913
Mormon Questions
---October 28, 1913
Baptism
---November 4, 1913
Mark 16:16-18
---November 4, 1913
Who Are Landmarkers?
---November 18, 1913
Mr. Slover Denies It
---December 9, 1913
Mt. Zion Association
---December 30, 1913
Close of Volume 28
---December 30, 1913

1914

Introduction to Volume 29
---January 6, 1914
Tour in Illinois

---January 6, 1914
Pour or Spill
---January 20, 1914
False Prophets
---February 3, 1914
Feet Washing
---March 24, 1914
Misrepresentation
---March 24, 1914
Reply to Elder Petty
---April 7, 1914
Questions Answered
---April 14, 1914
Do We Need Baptist Churches?
---April 21, 1914
---May 19, 1914
Fraternal Effort in Religion
---May 19, 1914
Baptism
---June 2, 1914
He Gives It To Cayce
---June 23, 1914
Our Debt to the Missionary Reply to Rev W. Bruce Doyle
---July 14, 1914
A Letter That Helps Us
---July 21, 1914
Ephesians 2:15 AND Hebrews 1:1-3
---July 28, 1914
Isaiah 45:7
---July 28, 1914
Adultery and Fornication
---July 28, 1914
Man Is To Blame
---July 28, 1914
Campbellism
---August 4, 1914
Quacks
---August 18, 1914
Three Questions
---August 18, 1914
General Judgment and Eternal Hell
---August 18, 1914
Christmas and Easter
---August 18, 1914
Questions on Order
---August 25, 1914
Genesis 6:6; Jonah 3:10; Malachi 3:6
---August 25, 1914
Wine or Grape Juice
---September 15, 1914
John 3; John 14
---October 6, 1914
Revelation 22:18-19
---October 13, 1914
On A Tour
---October 13, 1914

Question Of Order
---October 20, 1914
Tour In North Carolina
---October 27, 1914
Matthew 25:1-13
---November 10, 1914
Hebrews 5:9; John 3; John 5; Revelation 22:14
---November 10, 1914
Unknown Tongues
---November 17, 1914
Matthew 19:24
---November 17, 1914
Pinkstaff and Kirkland
---November 24, 1914
Questions on Order
---November 24, 1914
Hebrews 10:38-39
---December 1, 1914
Jonah 3:10
---December 1, 1914
Apostasy
---December 1, 1914
1 Peter 2:8
---December 8, 1914
Views Given
---December 8, 1914
Ezekiel 36:25-27
---December 8, 1914
Questions Answered
---December 15, 1914
Psalms 55:12-14
---December 22, 1914
Romans 14:10
---December 22, 1914
Matthew 16:9
---December 22, 1914
Luke 18:15-17
---December 22, 1914
Close of Volume 29
---December 22, 1914

1915

IINTRODUCTION TO VOLUME XXX
---January 5, 1915
Out of Order
---January 5, 1915
Among The Filipinos
---January 12, 1915
Revelation 12:7
---January 12, 1915
Federal Council of Churches
---January 12 1915
Elder J. B. Little
---January 12, 1915
Elder Little Objects
---January 19, 1915
Foreign Medical Missions

---January 19, 1915
Why Did Christ Die?
---January 26, 1915
John 6:47
---February 2, 1915
Elder Little and Party
---February 9, 1915
Christmas
---February 9, 1915
Drunkards and Tunkers
---February 9, 1915
The European War
---February 16, 1915
Foreign Mission Gifts
---February 16, 1915
More About Elder Little
---February 16, 1915
John 9:6-7
---February 23, 1915
Remarks to W. T. Morrisett
---March 2, 1915
Foreknowledge of God
---March 2, 1915
Exodus 2:12 AND Proverbs 9:1
---March 9, 1915
Matthew 5:13 AND Mark 9:49-50
---March 9, 1915
Romans 6:1-6, 23
---March 9, 1915
John 17:20 AND John 20:31
---March 16, 1915
2 Corinthians 5:20
---March 16, 1915
Foreknowledge and Predestination
---March 16, 1915
Revelation 5:6
---March 23, 1915
Jacob and Esau
---March 23, 1915
Remarks to Elder C. L. Clark
---April 13, 1915
Sunday School Frauds
---April 13, 1915
Paul's Regeneration
---April 13, 1915
Revelation 22:17-19
---April 13, 1915
Hosea 2:3 AND Isaiah 50:1
---April 13, 1915
Isaiah 35:6-7
---April 13, 1915
Tour in Illinois and Missouri
---April 20, 1915
Throgmorton vs Throgmorton
---April 20, 1915
Mourners Benches

---April 27, 1915
Free Moral Agency
---April 27, 1915
Ephesians 2:1-5
---May 4, 1915
The Christian Sun
---May 4, 1915
Missionary Hope of Salvation
---May 11, 1915
Gill on Romans 7:2-3
---May 11, 1915
Close Communion
---May 18, 1915
Heathen Souls
---May 18, 1915
Princeton and Billy Sunday
---May 18, 1915
A Debate
---May 25, 1915
Luke 16:19-31
---May 25, 1915
“ Pastor” Russell
---May 25, 1915
All Infants Saved
---May 25, 1915
Atonement
---May 25, 1915
Matthew 25:14-30
---June 1, 1915
1 Corinthians 14:34,35 AND 1 Timothy 2:9-12
---June 1, 1915
News and Truths
---June 8, 1915
1 Corinthians 15:22
---June 8, 1915
The Word
---June 15, 1915
Mark 16:16-18
---June 15, 1915
1 Corinthians 15:29
---June 15, 1915
Hebrews 10:26-27
---June 29, 1915
Won't Let God
---July 20, 1915
Regeneration
---November 16, 1915
Statistics
---November 30, 1915
About “The Good Old Songs”
---December 7, 1915
Remarks On An Experience
---December 21, 1915
Endorsement on Regeneration
---December 21, 1915
Close of Volume 30

---December 21, 1915

1916

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME THIRTY-ONE

---January 4, 1916

Reply to J. M. Hicks

---January 4, 1916

Acts 20:9-10

---February 15, 1916

Discipline

---February 15, 1916

Difference in Belief

---February 15, 1916

King James Translation

---February 22, 1916

John 3:5-6

---February 29, 1916

Acts 22:3

---March 7, 1916

Matthew 10:39

---March 14, 1916

Salvation By Grace

---March 14, 1916

Questions of Order

---March 14, 1916

Should Be Excluded

---March 21, 1916

1 Corinthians 15:29

---March 21, 1916

Campbell's Movement

---March 21, 1916

The Two Witnesses

---March 28, 1916

MISSIONARY CLAIMS

---May 30, 1916

Matthew 11:21

---June 13, 1916

In Georgia

---June 13, 1916

The Beloved Disciple ---June 20, 1916

Campbellite Leaflet

---June 20, 1916

The Baptist Church

---June 20, 1916

Acts 2; Acts 28:31

---June 27, 1916

John 8:30-47

---June 27, 1916

Ephesians 1 AND 2 Timothy 1

---June 27, 1916

ELDER C. H. CAYCE:

Trial of the Robbers

---July 11, 1916

Matthew 12:28; Luke 11:20; Luke 17:21

---July 11, 1916

Greater and Lesser Sins

---July 18, 1916

Views Wanted
---July 25, 1916
Sunday Work
---August 1, 1916
About The Ministry – Questions Answered
---August 8, 1916
EXTRACT FROM BOOK OF MORMON
---August 22, 1916
A CONTRADICTION
---August 29, 1916
A Debate
---September 5, 1916
Article Copied
---September 5, 1916
The Curtain Raised
---September 5, 1916
Elder J. B. Little
---September 12, 1916
Curtain Raised Again
---October 3, 1916
CURTAIN RAISED AGAIN
---October 10, 1916
Questions and Answers
---October 31, 1916
An Enquirer
---October 31, 1916
Curtain Raised Again
---November 14, 1916
The New Birth
---December 12, 1916

1917

Time Salvation
---January 2, 1917
Revelation 12:7-8
---January 9, 1917
Old Editorial
---January 16, 1917
Confusion
---January 23, 1917
The Real Issue – An Old Editorial
---January 23, 1917
The Resurrection - Old Editorial
---January 30, 1917
PLEADING FOR PEACE
---January 30, 1917
The Inner and Outer Man
---February 6, 1917
The Christian Warfare
---February 13, 1917
AN OLD ARTICLE
---February 20, 1917
Circular Letter
---February 20, 1917
Good Meetings
---February 27, 1917
A Pleasant Tour

---February 27, 1917
Glorious Hope - An Old Article
---February 27, 1917
ORIGIN OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS
---March 6, 1917
A DEBATE
---March 13, 1917
Romans 6:17
---March 13, 1917
Remarks to Elder J. W. Richardson
---March 13, 1917
Letter to Elder Leonard
---May 8, 1917
The New Birth
---June 12, 1917
John 3; John 5
---July 3, 1917
Card Playing
---July 3, 1917
Debate Postponed
---July 10, 1917
A Progressive Mixture
---July 10, 1917
An Old Article
---July 17, 1917
John 11:39
---July 17, 1917
Galatians 3; Galatians 6:18
---July 17, 1917
An Oversight
---July 31, 1917
McARTHUR SQUEALS
---August 14, 1917
Will Not Publish
---August 14, 1917
What Shall We Do?
---August 14, 1917
Elder Murray's Statement
---August 14, 1917
Made Acknowledgment
---August 21, 1917
Explanation by Elder Ross
---August 21, 1917
A False Statement
---August 28, 1917
HAIR AND RAIL SPLITTERS
---September 4, 1917
NOT CHANGED
---September 11, 1917
REMARKS TO W. R. MOORE
---September 11, 1917
WAS HE A MASON?
---September 11, 1917
PEACE RESTORED
---September 11, 1917
PEACE PREVAILS

---September 25, 1917
REMARKS TO ELDER JAMES DUNCAN
---September 25, 1917
WILL NOT BE PUBLISHED
---September 25, 1917
BIBLE EVIDENCES
---November 6, 1917
GOSPEL BAPTISM AND COMMUNION
---November 13, 1917
THE YOUNG MEMBERS
---December 11, 1917
CLOSE OF VOLUME THIRTY-TWO
---December 18, 1917

1918

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME XXXIII
---January 1, 1918
CONSOLIDATION
---January 8, 1918
WELCOME TO COME
---January 15, 1918
CANNOT SIN
---February 5, 1918
ELDER J. B. LITTLE
---February 12, 1918
Ephesians 1; Ephesians 6:24
---February 19, 1918
Song Service
---February 19, 1918
Joshua 24:15
---March 5, 1918
Revelation 16:13
---March 5, 1918
A Debate
---July 16, 1918
Prayer Book
---July 16, 1918
Red Cross and Woman Suffrage
---September 3, 1918
Church Organized
---September 17, 1918
A Debate
---September 17, 1918
Government Rulings
---September 24, 1918
Close of Volume 33
---December 24, 1918

1919

A Breakdown
---January 14, 1919
Elder John R. Daily in the Daily-Hughes Debate
---January 21, 1919
Some Questions
June 3, 1919
Preacher Not Wanted
---June 10, 1919
A Magnetic Healer

---July 1, 1919
Some Questions
---July 1, 1919
1 Corinthians 15:29
---July 1, 1919
Wrong To Gamble
---September 23, 1919
Questions of Order
---September 23, 1919
A CHILD BY BIRTH
---September 23, 1919
ELDER C. H. CAYCE:
Moved
---November 18, 1919

1920

NEW WAY OF SALVATION
---January 6, 1920
The Small Size
---January 13, 1920
What Shall Be Done In The Case of Disorderly Elders or Preachers? - IS IT A PROBLEM?
---February 3, 1920
What Next?
---March 2, 1920
PAPER SHORTAGE
---March 9, 1920
WHO IS TO BLAME?
---April 20, 1920
Question of Order
---June 1, 1920
Malachi 4:2; Isaiah 58:8; Isaiah 30:15
---June 1, 1920
Question on Discipline
---June 15, 1920
Remarks To A Letter
---June 15, 1920
Mark 12:31
---June 15, 1920
Appreciated Gift
---July 1, 1920
Judas' Feet Not Washed
---July 1, 1920
Heresy
---July 1, 1920
Desire To Encourage
---July 1, 1920
Debate In Alabama
---July 15, 1920
Two-Seed Doctrine
---July 15, 1920
Some Questions
---August 1, 1920
Some Questions
---August 1, 1920
Paper Not Wanted
---August 15, 1920
Articles Left Out

1921

A Misrepresentation

---May 15, 1921

Guilty of Robbery

---May 15, 1921

Suppose You Try It

---September 15, 1921

The Sacramental Supper

---October 15, 1921

The Service of God

---December 1, 1921

1922

Where Are We Drifting?

---January 15, 1922

One Hundred Years Old

---February 1, 1922

That Peace Move

---February 1, 1922

Christian Conflicts

---March 1, 1922

Should Make Acknowledgment

---May 1, 1922

To "One In The Woods"

---May 1, 1922

Parson Crook\(ed\) Again

---May 15, 1922

Should They Be Retained?

---May 15, 1922

An Endorsement

---May 15, 1922

Baptism In The Name Of The Lord

---May 15, 1922

What Do You Say?

---June 1, 1922

An Old Circular Letter

---June 1, 1922

Hot Shot Objected To

---June 15, 1922

Blessed Hope

---June 15, 1922

A Suggestion

---June 15, 1922

Where Are We At?

---July 1, 1922

Secret Order Insurance

---July 1, 1922

A Debate

---July 1, 1922

Endorsement

---July 1, 1922

Should Be Separate

---July 15, 1922

Questions Of Order

---July 18, 1922

Regeneration After Death

---July 15, 1922

Tour In Tennessee And Mississippi

---August 15, 1922

Query

---September 1, 1922

The Debate Near Lebanon, Mo

---September 15, 1922

Sugar Creek Association

---September 15, 1922

Mountain Springs Association

---September 15, 1922

Old-Fashioned Church Service To Be Presented

---October 1, 1922

Wildcat Whisky

---October 1, 1922

Position Endorsed

---October 1, 1922

John 13:8

---October 15, 1922

Explanation Wanted

---November 1, 1922

Repentance

---November 1, 1922

How To Get Peace

---December 1, 1922

1923

Remarks To Olive Dodd

---January 15, 1923

Tour In Alabama

---January 15, 1923

Debate At Parrish, Alabama

---February 1, 1923

Remarks On A Council

---February 1, 1923

Pastor Should Quit

---February 1, 1923

Replies To "Where Are We At?"

---March 15, 1923

Call For Meeting

---April 1, 1923

A Call For Prayer And For Peace

---April 1, 1923 \(From Gospel Messenger by request.\)

Request Granted

---April 15, 1923

Matthew 18:8-9, 15-17

---April 15, 1923

The Debate At Parrish

---April 15, 1923

Debate At Watertown, Tenn

---April 15, 1923

Questions On Predestination

---May 1, 1923

Is He An Absoluter?

---May 1, 1923

Debate With Ben M. Bogard

---May 1, 1923

Apology and Explanation

---May 15, 1923
Peace Meeting At Greenfield
---May 15, 1923
Greenfield Meeting
---May 15, 1923
Tour In Alabama
---May 15, 1923
Gospel Messenger Sold
---May 15, 1923
Back On The Staff
---June 1, 1923
Trip In Tennessee
---June 15, 1923
Remarks To W. R. Blasingame
---June 15, 1923
Remarks To A Letter
---June 15, 1923
John 9:31
---July 1, 1923
On Our Staff Again
---July 1, 1923
Acts 19:1-3 AND 1 Corinthians 14:34-35
---July 1, 1923
Debate At Leedy, Miss.
---July 1, 1923
Remarks To J. T. Jackson
---July 15, 1923
Lesson Learned By Experience
---September 1, 1923
God's Work Not Man's Work - Remarks To C. D. Willis
---September 15, 1923
Bible Conference
---October 1, 1923
Do Not Care To Publish
---October 1, 1923
Both Sides
---November 1, 1923
Association Rule
---November 1, 1923
Names Removed From Staff
---December 1, 1923
The Mount Olive Association
---December 1, 1923
Elder Hull Restored
---December 15, 1923
The Cayce-Bogard Debate
---December 15, 1923
Close of Volume Thirty-Eight
---December 15, 1923

1924

Introduction To Volume Thirty-Nine
---January 1, 1924
A Servant Is Worthy Of His Hire
---January 1, 1924
Remarks To Elder J. H. Fisher
---January 1, 1924

Pray For Zion
---February 1, 1924

Elder O'Neal's Proposition
---February 1, 1924

Another False Report
---February 1, 1924

Special Heresy Issue
---February 1, 1924

Remarks To James M. Mayer
---February 1, 1924

Extracts Published
---February 15, 1924

Matthew 24
---February 15, 1924

Debate Near McEwen, Tenn.
---March 15, 1924

Remarks To Elder R. O. Raulston
---March 15, 1924

We Feel So Thankful
---April 1, 1924

Enoch Translated
---April 1, 1924

Carey The Father
---April 15, 1924

Remarks To Elder J. W. Hoppes
---May 1, 1924

Remarks To Elder T. W. Lindsey
---May 1, 1924

Progressives Lose Suit
---May 1, 1924

Trouble Among Them
---May 1, 1924

Is It Lawful?
---May 1, 1924

The Debate Near McEwen
---May 1, 1924

One Suffers On Account Of Others
---May 15, 1924

Going To California
---May 15, 1924

Present For Baby
---May 15, 1924

Fullerite Lost His Pants
---June 1, 1924

J. B. Hardy Causing Trouble
--- July 1, 1924

Trip In California
---July 15, 1924

Time Changed
---July 15, 1924

He Got Pinched
---August 15, 1924

Pamphlet by Elder A. V. Simms
---September 1, 1924

Trip In Tennessee And Alabama
---September 1, 1924

Reply From Elder Simms

---October 1, 1924

Our Mother Gone

---October 15, 1924

Call For A Peace Meeting

---October 15, 1924

Our Mother Gone

---November 1, 1924

Away From Home

---December 1, 1924

A Good Meeting

---December 1, 1924

Peace Is Desired

---December 15, 1924

Close of Volume Thirty-Nine

---December 15, 1924

1925

Introduction to Volume Forty

---January 1, 1925

John 6:44-45

---January 1, 1925

On The Warpath

---January 1, 1925

Good Evidence

---January 15, 1925

Elder Wilson's Confession

---February 1, 1925

A Question of Order

---February 15, 1925

1 Corinthians 16:1-2

---March 1, 1925

Remarks to Mrs. C. N. Brown

---March 15, 1925

God's People in the Flood

---March 15, 1925

Remarks to Mrs. W. M. Hopson, Jr.

---April 1, 1925

A New Thing Under The Sun

---April 15, 1925

"Murder Will Out"

---April 15, 1925

What They Desire

---May 1, 1925

Peace Meeting Called

---May 1, 1925

Private Letters

---May 15, 1925

Matthew 8:11-12

---May 15, 1925

Some Questions

---May 15, 1925

Filling Appointments

---May 15, 1925

Church Discipline

---May 15, 1925

Remarks Concerning J. T. M'Rae

---June 1, 1925
Another Name On Our Staff
---June 15, 1925
Our Trip in Virginia and North Carolina
---June 15, 1926
Letter from D. V. Spangler
---July 1, 1925
Another Editor Added
---July 1, 1925
Bear Creek Association
---July 1, 1925
Law of God on Baptism
---July 15, 1925
Lost in the Flood - Remarks
---July 15, 1925
Appointments Called In
---August 1, 1925
Would Not Hear Them
---August 1, 1925
Woe Because of Immoral Preachers by Price Billingsby
---August 15, 1925
Work Legal
---August 15, 1925
Don't Want the Paper
---September 1, 1925
Acts 10:36-39
---September 1, 1925
The Infant Question
---September 1, 1926
Mountain Springs Association
---September 15, 1925
Elder W. S. Broom
---September 15, 1925
Another Move For Peace
---October 15, 1925
Heresy and Heretics
---October 15, 1925
Isaiah 5:8
---December 1, 1925

1926

Introduction to Volume 41
---January 1, 1926
More Editorial Help
---January 1, 1926
Peace Restored
---January 1, 1926
Another Unprofitable and Deplorable Strife of Words
---January 15, 1926
Appointments Called In
---January 15, 1926
Remarks to Elder Lee Hanks
---February 1, 1926
Judas and the Sacramental Supper
---February 15, 1926
Ordered Name Dropped
---February 15, 1926

The Word Shall
---March 1, 1926
What Elder Newman Said
---April 1, 1926
Predestination
---April 15, 1926
Peace Desired
---April 15, 1926
Roger Williams
---April 15, 1926
The Meeting at New Hope
---April 15, 1926
Questions and Answers
---April 15, 1926
Dancing and Such Like Things
---April 15, 1926
Makes Acknowledgment
---May 1, 1926
Oneness for Twenty-Four Years
---June 1, 1926
A Statement
---June 1, 1926
Imposed Upon
---June 15, 1926
Some Good Meetings
---June 15, 1926
Immortality of the Soul
---July 1, 1926
An Endorsement
---July 1, 1926
Words of Encouragement
---July 15, 1926
Church Act
---July 15, 1926
God's Determinate Counsel
---July 15, 1926
Luke 16:19-23
---July 15, 1926
Can They Disobey?
---August 1, 1926
1 Timothy 4:10
---August 1, 1926
Deuteronomy 11:26; 30:15
---August 15, 1926
Union of Separate and Regular Baptists
---August 15, 1926
Who Owns The Child?
---August 15, 1926
The Dallas Meeting
---September 15, 1926
Another Trouble Settled
---September 15, 1926
On The War Path
---September 15, 1926
Tired Creek Church Settlement
---September 15, 1926

Big Sandy Association
---September 15, 1926
A Trouble Maker
---October 1, 1926
Flint River Association
---October 1, 1926
History Suggested
---October 15, 1926
A Confession
---October 15, 1926
Not A New Doctrine
---October 15, 1926
Thinking of Mother
---November 1, 1926
Our Trip to Tennessee
---November 1, 1926
Is It Of The Devil?
---November 15, 1926
Do Not Pay Him
---November 16, 1926
A Society
---November 15, 1926

1927

Introduction to Volume Forty-Two
---January 1, 1927
Lordship Among the Ministry
---January 1, 1927
Church Evidence
---January 15, 1927
Elder Petty's Name Dropped
---February 1, 1927
Back on the Staff
---February 1, 1927
Should Report Them
---February 1, 1927
Claim They Are Not Excluded
---February 15, 1927
The Thing in the Way
---February 15, 1927
The Dallas Meeting
---March 1, 1927
Wild Gourds
---March 15, 1927
A Correction
---March 15, 1927
Paying the Preacher
---May 1, 1927
John's Baptism and the Communion
---June 15, 1927
Missionaries Do Harm in China
---June 15, 1927
Jesus and His Friends
---August 1, 1927
Whale Swallowed Jonah
---August 15, 1927
Published by Request

---August 15, 1927
Wine Used in Sacramento
---August 15, 1927
Romans 9:13
---August 15, 1927
Trip in Alabama
---September 15, 1927
Our Trip in Texas
---October 15, 1927

1928

Introduction to Volume 43
---January 1, 1928
Another Name Added
---January 15, 1928
Remarks to John R. Whitfield
---January 15, 1928
At Oxford, Mississippi
---February 1, 1928
Meeting at Little Rock
---April 1, 1928
Elder Fisher's Name Dropped
---May 15, 1928
Moving to Thornton
---July 1, 1928
Obey God or Man?
---August 15, 1928
Remarks to \(Miss\) Inez Vaughn
---September 15, 1928
1 Corinthians 15:22-23
---October 1, 1928
Elder Hassell Dead
---October 1, 1928
Requests Name Dropped
---October 1, 1928
Our Association
---October 15, 1928
Remarks to Elder D. M. Vail
---October 15, 1928
Flint River Association
---November 1, 1928
Remarks to Elder J. W. West
---December 1, 1928
Brother Hollingsworth's Letter
---December 15, 1928
Close of Volume 43
---December 15, 1928

1929

Introduction to Volume 44
---January 1, 1929
Enjoys the Paper
---January 1, 1929
Remarks to Elder W. P. Merrell
---January 1, 1929
Thirty-Nine Years Ago
---January 15, 1929
Brother Fairchild in Mississippi

---February 15, 1929
Deacons and Preachers
---February 15, 1929
From the Gospel Standard
---February 15, 1929
God Was There First
---March 1, 1929
Unreasonable Demand
---March 1, 1929
An Anonymous Letter
---March 15, 1929
Change Made
---March 15, 1929
No Sin, No Salvation
---April 1, 1929
Change of Form
---April 15, 1929
Evolution Disproved
---April 15, 1929
Organs in Churches
---May 2, 1929
Secret Orders
---May 2, 1929
Matthew 16:18-19
---May 16, 1929
Contradicted Himself
---May 16, 1929
In Mississippi
---May 30, 1929
Christ's Birthday
---May 30, 1929
Another Change
---June 13, 1929
Trip in Mississippi
---June 27, 1929
Billy Sunday
---June 27, 1929
An Appreciated Letter
---June 27, 1929
Now A Weekly
---July 4, 1929
Matthew 10:6 AND Matthew 28:19
---July 4, 1929
Can We Not Withdraw?
---July 11, 1929
Reply to H. L. Whitehouse
---July 18, 1929
Meetings in Little Rock
---August 1, 1929
1 Corinthians 5:9-13
---August 8, 1929
Ephesians 5:5,23,33
---August 15, 1929
Dan River Association
---August 22, 1929
Good Meetings

---August 22, 1929
More Good Meetings
---August 29, 1929
Romans 6:3-4
---August 29, 1929
Tour Ended in East
---September 19, 1929
Matthew 20:16 AND Matthew 22:14
---September 19, 1929
Associations Attended
---October 3, 1929
Matthew 22:30,32
---October 10, 1929
Too Much of the World
---October 31, 1929
Bible Conference
---October 31, 1929
A Good Meeting
---October 31, 1929
Call An Old Man
---October 31, 1929
Absolute Powers of Pope Reveled Legislation and Administration of Vatican City Laws Rest With Pontiff
---November 7, 1929
1 Timothy 5:9-11
---November 7, 1929
Hebrews 6:1-6
---November 14,1929
Jeremiah 23:1-2
---November 21, 1929
Ill Health Prevents Going
---November 28, 1929
Health Broken
---December 19, 1929
Close of Volume 44
---December 19, 1929

1930

Introduction to Volume 45
---January 2, 1930
2 Timothy 2; 4:22
---January 9, 1930
Many, Many Thanks
---January 16, 1930
Price Not High
---January 16, 1930
To The Subscribers of The Primitive Baptist
---January 16, 1930
Appreciated Letter
---January 16, 1930
Matthew 3:5-9
---January 30, 1930
Chosen and Predestinated
---February 6, 1930
Help Obtained
---February 6, 1930
Infant Salvation

---February 6, 1930
Elder Fairchild
February 13, 1930
Acts 9:7 AND Acts 22:9
---February 13, 1930
Another Editor
---February 13, 1930
Baptist Standard
---February 20, 1930
Revelation 11:3,7-8
---February 27, 1930
Remarks to Elder J. R. Wilson
---February 27, 1930
Our Meeting
---March 6, 1930
London Confession
---March 27, 1930
Falling From Grace Article No. 2
---April 24, 1930
Deacons Ordained
---April 24, 1930
Falling From Grace Article No. 3
---May 1, 1930
Falling From Grace Article No. 4
May 8, 1930
Falling From Grace Article No. 5
---May 15, 1930
Falling From Grace Article No. 6
---May 22, 1930
Falling From Grace Article No. 7
---May 29, 1930
Marrying After Divorce In Case Of Adultery
---June 5, 1930
Falling From Grace Article No. 8
---June 12,1930
Another Editor
---June 12, 1930
Falling From Grace Article No. 9
---June 19, 1930
Falling From Grace Article No. 10
---June 26, 1930
Eternal Life Now
---July 3, 1930
Acts 2: 28:31
---July 10, 1930
Rules of Decorum
---July 10, 1930
Will Not Our People Consider?
---July 17, 1930
Questions On Order
---August 7, 1930
Remarks to Elder W. M. Brecheen
---August 7,1930
Trip to Alabama and Mississippi
---August 14, 1930
Remarks to W. H. Hancock

---August 14, 1930
Associations Visited
---August 28, 1930
James 1:26,27
---September 4, 1930
Remarks to Mrs. Emma V. Smith
---September 4, 1930
1 Corinthians 16:24
---September 11, 1930
Mourners Are Blessed
---September 11, 1930
Will They Know Each Other?
---September 11, 1930
Communion With Trumpet Folks
---October 30, 1930
Christmas Gift
---December 18, 1930
Are You "Blue?"
---December 18, 1930
Close of Volume 45
---December 18, 1930

1931

Introduction to Volume 46
---January 1, 1931
Women Prophets
---January 1, 1931
Encouraging Letter
---January 1, 1931
Wrong At Home
---January 8, 1931
The Progressives
---January 8, 1931
Many Thanks
---January 8, 1931
Valid Baptism And Some History
---January 15, 1931
The Progressives
---February 12, 1931
Should Forgive
---March 5, 1931
General Meeting
---March 12, 1931
Valid Baptism
---March 12, 1931
Why Not Save All?
---March 19, 1931
Valley Of Dry Bones
---April 30, 1931
Glad Tidings Bought
---May 21, 1931
Bible Conference
---July 23, 1931
Elder T. S. Dalton Called Home
---August 20, 1931
Elder J. H. Phillips Dead
---October 15, 1931

Merry Christmas

---December 24, 1931

Close of Volume 46

---December 24, 1931

1932

Introduction to Volume 47

---January 7, 1932

Biographical

---January 7, 1932

Things Appreciated

---January 7, 1932

The Outlook

---February 4, 1932

Elder Hutchens Complains

---February 18, 1932

Did Not Like It

---March 10, 1932

Thirty Missionaries Waiting To Go

---April 28, 1932

Soupy Salvation

---July 7, 1932

The Lone "Pilgrinder"

---September 15, 1932

Remarks To Geo. W. Langford

---December 22, 1932

Close of Volume 47

---December 22, 1932

1933

Introduction to Volume 48

---January 5, 1933

How To Organize

---October 19, 1933

Papers Missed

---November 30, 1933

Close of Volume 48

---December 28, 1933

1934

Introduction to Volume 49

---January 11, 1934

Looking Backward

---January 25, 1934

Going To The "Bowwows"

---January 25, 1934

Getting Mixed

---February 8, 1934

Perverse Rulers

---February 22, 1934

Changed to Semi-Monthly

---March 1, 1934

God the Cause of Sin

---April 5, 1934

What Shall We Do?

---April 19, 1934

Should Be Truthful

---April 19, 1934

God the Cause of Sin

---May 17, 1934

Was Mother Right?

---May 17, 1934

They Wash Feet

---May 17, 1934

God the Cause of Sin

---June 7, 1934

An Explanation

---June 7, 1934

Light Shines Better

---June 7, 1934

What Next!

---September 6, 1934

Will You Escape?

---September 6, 1934

John 1:11-13

---October 4, 1934

Eternal Hell

---October 4, 1934

More Help

---October 4, 1934

Our Association

---October 18, 1934

More Help

---October 18, 1934

More Help

---November 15, 1934

Efforts Commended

---November 15, 1934

Greenfield Association

---December 6, 1934

Close of Volume 49

---December 20, 1934

1935

Introduction to Volume 50

---January 3, 1935

Crime Increasing

---January 17, 1935

Good Articles Left Out

---January 17, 1935

Brotherly Advice

---February 7, 1935

Church Rights

---February 7, 1935

Another Helper

---February 21, 1935

Tract Salvation

---February 21, 1935

Hymn Book

---February 21, 1935

It Is Funny

---February 21, 1935

Church Harbors Crime - Minister Won't Reveal Name of "Confessed" Kidnap

---February 21, 1935

The Man of Sorrows

---March 21, 1935

The Lord Is Faithful
---March 21, 1936
Christianity To Export
---March 21, 1935
Romans 9:13 and Future Identity
---March 21, 1935
Sunday Schools
---April 4, 1935
Compulsory Military Training
---April 4, 1935
John Newton
---April 4, 1935
Thanks, Brother
---April 18, 1935
Work Appreciated
---May 16, 1935
Fairchild, Hardy, Todd, and Bishop
---June 20, 1935
Ministerial Qualifications
---June 20, 1935
In A Sad Plight
---June 20, 1935
Words of Approval
---June 20, 1935
Ministerial Qualifications Article No. 2
---July 4, 1935
Fairchild, Hardy, Todd and Bishop
---July 18, 1935
Ministerial Qualifications Article No. 3
---July 18, 1935
Ministerial Qualifications Article No. 4
---August 1, 1935
Requests For Views
---August 1, 1935
Sheep and Goats
---August 15, 1935
1 Timothy 5:9
---August 15, 1935
Faith and Belief
---August 15, 1935
Todd's New Paper
---September 5, 1935
John 5:39
---September 5, 1935
Several Questions
---September 5, 1935
Luke 7:28
---September 5, 1935
The Last Judgment
---September 5, 1935
Sabbath Question
---September 5, 1935
Are Agreed
---September 5, 1935
More Absolute Doctrine
---September 19, 1935

Instrumental Music
---September 19, 1935
Rich Man and Lazarus
---September 19, 1935
Matthew 9:16-17
---September 19, 1935
Jude 1:25
---September 19, 1935
Matthew 19:27-28
---September 19, 1935
Another Corresponding Editor
---October 3, 1935
Revelation 20:12
---October 3, 1935
Mark 16:16
---October 3, 1935
1 Corinthians 11:33
---October 3, 1935
Revelation 12:7-8
---October 3, 1935
Destruction of Sodom
---October 3, 1935
Where Was Judas?
---October 3, 1935
Our Association
---October 17, 1935
To Our Exchanges
---October 17, 1935
Galatians 4:22-31
---October 17, 1935
Non-Attendance
---October 17, 1935
Who Crucified Christ?
---October 17, 1935
Psalms 37:25
---November 7, 1935
Administration of Baptism
---November 7, 1935
Easter and Christmas
---November 7, 1935
Elder Webb Withdraws
---November 7, 1935
Galatians 4:27
---November 7, 1935
Restoring Excluded Persons
---November 7, 1935
Some Additional History
---November 21, 1935
One Talent Man
---November 21, 1935
Building The Home Christian
---December 5, 1935
Matthew 4:16-17
---December 5, 1935
1 Corinthians 7:15
---December 5, 1935

Genesis 2:15-17
---December 5, 1935
Elder Newman Gone
---December 19, 1935
Jeremiah 2:13
---December 19, 1935
Close of Volume 50
---December 19, 1935

1936

Introduction to Volume 51
---January 2, 1936
Our Special Offer
---January 2, 1936
Holiday Remembrances
---January 2, 1936
Matthew 5:40 AND 1 Corinthians 6:1
---January 2, 1936
What Should Be Done?
---January 2, 1936
W. T. Stegall
---January 16, 1936
From Belshazzar to Roosevelt
---January 16, 1936
Radio Sermon
---February 6, 1936
Pool Halls
---February 6, 1936
John 13:14-15,17
---February 6, 1936
First Baptists in Mississippi
---February 20, 1936
Five Smooth Stones
---February 20, 1936
1 Corinthians 11:19
---February 20, 1936
2 Kings 20:1-7 AND Job 14:5
---February 20, 1936
Elder Stegall Heard From
---March 5, 1936
Elder Fisher Passed Away
---March 5, 1936
A False Accusation
---March 19, 1936
Make The Paper A Weekly
---March 19, 1936
Romans 8:1
---April 2, 1936
Ephesians 5:25-27
---April 2, 1936
Our Trip in Texas
---April 16, 1936
Revelation 20:4
---April 16, 1936
Andalusia Peace Meeting
May 7, 1936
Who Died in Adam?

May 7, 1936
Kind of Death Adam Died
May 7, 1936
The First Man
---May 7, 1936
Trip in Alabama
May 7, 1936
Tour in Alabama
---July 2, 1936
Obituaries
---July 2, 1936
Church Sovereignty
---July 16, 1936
Galatians 6:7 AND Ephesians 5:6
---July 16, 1936
An Absoluter
---July 16, 1936
1 Peter 4:18
---August 6, 1936
The Holy Calling
---August 6, 1936
Tour in Mount Zion
---August 20, 1936
1 Timothy 4:1-3
---August 20, 1936
Future Identity
---August 20, 1936
Matthew 18:8-9,15-17
---September 3, 1936
Ephesians 2; 6:24
---September 3, 1936
Missions
---September 17, 1936
Another New Bible
---November 5, 1936
A Delightful Trip
---December 3, 1936
Whiskey Drinking
---December 17, 1936
Close of Volume 51
---December 17, 1936

1937

Introduction to Volume 52
---January 7, 1937
Holiday Remembrances
---January 7, 1937
Barn Burned
---January 7, 1937
Wonderful Order
---January 21, 1937
Explanation Wanted
---February 4, 1937
Unionism
---February 18, 1937
Mutual Rights
---March 4, 1937

Questions on Scripture
---March 18, 1937
The Organ Question
---March 18, 1937
Land, A Trust and Must Be Preserved
---April 1, 1937
History of Walker County, Alabama
---April 1, 1937
Should Have Peace
---April 1, 1937
John 1:1 AND 2 Timothy 4:2
---April 15, 1937
Jeremiah 24:1-3
---April 15, 1937
Hebrews 12:6-8,12
---May 6, 1937
Meeting Suggested
---May 20, 1937
After The Flesh
---May 20, 1937
Philippians 2: 4:23 AND Jude 1:25
---June 3, 1937
Elder Cash Passed Away
---June 3, 1937
Proposed Peace Meeting
---June 17, 1937
Fenced Vineyard
---June 17, 1937
Putting Up Fences
---July 1, 1937
Elder Duncan Married
---July 1, 1937
Should Be Marked
---July 15, 1937
Remarks to A. H. Roden
---July 16, 1937
Rev Cayce Pentecost Baptized
---August 5, 1937
Call For Peace Meeting
---August 5, 1937
Our Union Meeting
---August 5, 1937
Meeting at Cross Roads
---August 5, 1937
Call For Peace Meeting
---August 19, 1937
Our Church Papers
---August 19, 1937
Will You, Please?
---August 19, 1937
The Nashville Meeting
---October 21, 1937
John 8:1-11
---October 21, 1937
Excuses
---November 4, 1937

Corresponding Editor
---November 18, 1937
Hens Furnish Church
---November 18,1937
Would Be Glad To Go
---November 18, 1937
Advice and Advise
---December 2, 1937
Close of Volume 52
---December 16, 1937

1938

Introduction to Volume 53
---January 6, 1938
Questions on Order
---January 6, 1938
Back With Us
---January 6, 1938
Softshell Stung
---January 6, 1938
Things Appreciated
---January 6, 1938
Genesis 6:2 Remarks To Reinert Varhang
---January 6, 1938
Changed Over
---January 20, 1938
Money Disappears
---January 20, 1938
Cheap Salvation
---January 20, 1938
Meddlers and Busybodies
---February 3, 1938
Mississippi Baptist History
---February 17, 1938
A Stunner
---February 17, 1938
Trip Cut Short
---February 17, 1938
Hardshellism Refuted
---March 3, 1938
A Young Dog
---March 3, 1938
An Address To Young Preachers
---March 3, 1938
Isaiah 45:7
---March 17, 1938
Preachers Should Not Lie
---March 17, 1938
Elder Fairchild Again
---April 7, 1938
Elder Monk Passed Away
---May 19, 1938
Returned Home
---May 19, 1938
Elder J. C. Ross Bereaved
---May 19, 1938
Nashville Meeting

---June 16, 1938
Tour in Tennessee and Kentucky
---June 16, 1938
Confession Changed
---June 16, 1938
Secret Orders "an error corrected"
---July 7, 1938
In Arkansas and Oklahoma
---August 4, 1938
Pie Supper Planned
---August 4, 1938
Another Correction
---August 18, 1938
Tour in the North and East
---October 6, 1938
Our Association
---October 6, 1938
Troubleth Israel
---October 20, 1938
Studies in Predestination
---November 3, 1938
Encouraging Letter
---November 3, 1938
Hardshell Bragging Again
---November 17, 1938
Titus 2: 3:15
---December 1, 1938
Close of Volume 53
---December 15, 1938

1939

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME LIV

---January 5, 1939
Remembrances
---January 5, 1939
Triune God
---January 19, 1939
When Are We Sheep?
---January 19, 1939
Could He Have Kept From It?
---February 2, 1939
Bible Classes
---February 2, 1939
Meetings Resumed
---February 2, 1939
Malachi 4:5-6
---February 2, 1939
Holy Kiss
---February 2, 1939
Doors Closed
---February 2, 1939
John 5:37-42
---February 16, 1939
Romans 8:13
---February 16, 1939
Scioto Association
---March 2, 1939

Elder Morgan Replies
---March 2, 1939
Communion Service
---March 2, 1939
Views Requested
---March 16, 1939
Some Questions
---March 16, 1939
Please Have Mercy
---April 6, 1939
1 John 2:2,15-17
---April 6, 1939
Revelation 3:5
---April 6, 1939
A Reminder
---April 6, 1939
John 10
---April 20, 1939
Ecclesiastes 9:14-16
---April 20, 1939
Proverbs 13:22
---April 20, 1939
Preaching and Singing Article Number 1
May 4, 1939
The Resurrection
May 4, 1939
No Weekly Paper
May 4, 1939
1 Corinthians 6:1-7
May 4, 1939
Condemnation and Salvation
---May 18, 1939
Exodus 3:1-6
---May 18, 1939
Preaching and Singing Article Number 2
---May 18, 1939
They Were Jews
---June 1, 1939
Communion Meeting
---June 1, 1939
---June 15, 1939
Resurrection
---June 15, 1939
Women Prophesy
---June 15, 1939
Preaching and Singing Article Number 4
---July 6, 1939
Communion at Bethel
---July 6, 1939
Some Questions Asked
---July 20, 1939
A Good Meeting
---July 20, 1939
Selling Chances
---July 20, 1939
Preaching and Singing Article Number 5

---August 3, 1939
Millennium and 2 Peter 2: 3:18
---August 3, 1939
A Drunken Feast
---August 3, 1939
Romans 11:2-5
---August 17, 1939
General Address
---September 7, 1939
Matthew 1:1 AND 1 Peter 2:9
---September 21, 1939
Likes The Good Old Songs
---September 21, 1939
God's Way – The Right Way
---October 19, 1939
Preaching and Singing Article Number 6
---November 2, 1939
Special Meeting
---November 2, 1939
Universalism, Rutherfordism, Goats, Esau
---November 16, 1939
A Short Trip
---November 16, 1939
Great Body Not Gone
---November 16, 1939
Preaching and Singing Article Number 7
---December 7, 1939
Holiday Greetings
---December 21, 1939
Moved To Thornton
---December 21, 1939
Desire Expressed
---December 21, 1939
Will You?
---December 21, 1939
Close of Volume 54
---December 21, 1939

1940

Introduction to Volume 55
---January 4, 1940
Double Size
---January 4, 1940
Fiftieth Anniversary
---January 4, 1940
Kind Remembrances
---January 4, 1940
A Tribute to Elder Cayce \(1 of 2\)
---January 4, 1940
Some Flowers
---January 4, 1940
Well Spent Life
---January 4, 1940
For The Trumpet Baptists
---January 18, 1940
The Book of Life
---February 1, 1940

Organs in Churches
---February 15, 1940

Is Ours A Christian Nation?
---March 7, 1940

Preaching and Singing Article No. 8
---March 21, 1940

An Abomination
---March 21, 1940

Quietly Passed Away
---March 21, 1940

Covenant Breakers
---March 21, 1940

Memorial to Convention
---April 4, 1940

Not Their Faith
---April 4, 1940
---April 18, 1940

John 3:8
---May 2, 1940

Streamlined Religion
---May 2, 1940

A False Claim
---May 16, 1940

Our Trip East of River
---June 6, 1940

Jeremiah 7:17-20
---June 6, 1940

John 10:16
---June 6, 1940

Preaching and Singing Article No. 9
---June 6, 1940

Messenger of Zion Sold
---June 6, 1940

Something Different
---June 6, 1940

The Term Church
---June 20, 1940

Respecter of Persons
---July 4, 1940

Trip Northwest
---July 18, 1940

Lest We Forget
---July 18, 1940

Acknowledgement of Error
---July 18, 1940

John 14:2-3
---August 1, 1940

A Great Loss
---August 1, 1940

Isaiah 14:20
---August 1, 1940

Ambassadors
---August 15, 1940

Which
---August 15, 1940

Remarks to Emerson McAfee

August 15, 1940
John 1:11-13
---September 5, 1940
Point Remove-New Hope Association
---September 5, 1940
Editorial Writings
---September 5, 1940
Mountain Springs Association
---September 19, 1940
Salem Association
---September 19, 1940
Sugar Creek Association
---September 19, 1940
Went Back To Trumpet
---October 3, 1940
South Arkansas Association
---October 3, 1940
Hard on "Hardshells"
---October 17, 1940
Associations Visited
---November 7, 1940
Experience and Call to the Ministry
---November 7, 1940
Trip in Georgia
---November 21, 1940
Meeting in Memphis
---December 5, 1940
About At An End
---December 5, 1940
Do You Want It?
---December 5, 1940
Agents
---December 5, 1940
Close of Volume 55
---December 19, 1940

1941

Introduction to Volume 56
---January 2, 1941
Remembrances
---January 2, 1941
A Good Old Letter
---January 2, 1941
Is It Sufficient?
---January 16, 1941
Trip in Georgia
---January 16, 1941
Another Editor
January 16, 1941
Acts 18:24-28 AND Acts 19:1-6
---February 6, 1941
Temperance Facts
---February 6, 1941
Waldensian Confessions
---February 20, 1941
What Is That To Thee?
---March 6, 1941

For The Poor
---March 6, 1941
Little Things
---March 6, 1941
1 Corinthians 2:9-10
---March 20, 1941
Elder Pittman Passed Away
---March 20, 1941
Special Service
---March 20, 1941
Book Wanted
---March 20, 1941
By Grace
---March 20, 1941
Matthew 19:16-26
---April 3, 1941
Hope and Belief
---April 3, 1941
For The Poor
---April 3, 1941
Hebrews 9:27-28
---April 3, 1941
Another Good Man Gone
---April 3, 1941
Romans 5:6-10
---May 1, 1941
Elder Webb's Book
---May 1, 1941
Are They God's Choice?
---May 15, 1941
A Serious Charge
---May 15, 1941
A Pleasant Trip
---June 5, 1941
Isaiah 42:3
---June 5, 1941
What Unity!
---June 5, 1941
Revelation 5:1-3
---June 19, 1941
Is It Deception?
---June 19, 1941
Requests Not Answered
---June 19, 1941
A New Pamphlet
---June 19, 1941
Church Organized
---July 17, 1941
What To Do
---August 7, 1941
Hebrews 13:10
---August 7, 1941
Our Association
---August 7, 1941
Associations Attended
---August 21, 1941

A Good Fight
---August 21, 1941
Beautiful Feet
---September 4, 1941
Should Be Careful
---September 18, 1941
Ahead Of Time
---September 18, 1941
Baptists In All Ages
---September 18, 1941
A Wonderful Meeting
---October 2, 1941
Characteristics
---October 16, 1941
Two Parents
---November 6, 1941
Let God Be True
---November 20, 1941
Tour In Illinois
December 4, 1941
Close of Volume 56
---December 18, 1941
Church Organized
---December 18, 1941

1942

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME 57

---January 1, 1942
Longing For A Home
---January 1, 1942
Remembrances
---January 1, 1942
Advocate and Messenger Sold
---January 1, 1942
Ordination of Deacons
---January 15, 1942
Charge Delivered by Elder C. H. Cayce to the Church and to the Brethren Ordained to the Office of Deacon, at Oak Grove, La.
---DECEMBER 14, 1941
Question on Divorce
---January 15, 1942
Messenger of Zion Bought
---February 5, 1942
Corresponding Editors
---February 5, 1942
Receiving the Word
---February 5, 1942
John 11:48
---February 5, 1942
Luke 2:52
---February 5, 1942
Unconditional Election
---February 19, 1942
Ishmaelites
---March 5, 1942
What School?
---March 5, 1942

May Be Too Late
---March 19, 1942

Church News
---March 19, 1942

Eternal Punishment
May 7, 1942

For Our Boys
May 7, 1942

Romans 8:8-10
---May 21, 1942

All Alike
---May 21, 1942

From A Soldier Boy
---May 21, 1942

Recent Survey
---June 4, 1942

We Will Do Thee Good
---June 18, 1942

A Stranger
---June 18, 1942

Is This The Morning Or Evening Of Civilization?
---June 18, 1942

Election and Predestination
---July 2, 1942

Election and Predestination
---July 16, 1942

To Our Soldier Boys
---July 16, 1942
---August 6, 1942

Election and Predestination
---August 20, 1942

Complainings
---August 20, 1942

Election and Predestination
---September 3, 1942

What Will Men Not Say?
---September 3, 1942

Election and Predestination
---September 17, 1942

Carcass and Eagles
---September 17, 1942

Election and Predestination
---October 1, 1942

Election and Predestination
---October 15, 1942

Election and Predestination
---November 5, 1942

No Objection Then
---November 5, 1942

Election and Predestination
---November 19, 1942

Election and Predestination
---December 3, 1942

Then and Now
---December 3, 1942

Election and Predestination

--December 17, 1942
Holiday Greetings
--December 17, 1942
CLOSE OF VOLUME 57
--December 17, 1942

1896 – 1899

Our Meeting at Ralston

---December 24, 1896

We had a pleasant meeting indeed with our home church, at Ralston, Tenn., on the first Sunday and Saturday before, in this month (Dec. 5 and 6). Elders K. M. Myatt and W. W. Sammons were with us, and preached both days.

After the brethren had preached on Saturday the church went into conference, and after attending to all other business coming before the church, agreed to postpone the ordination of Brother C. H. Cayce until next day (Sunday). It was also agreed that we have services at our homes every night (up to the next Friday night) during the week. Sunday Elders Myatt and Sammons both preached. Then the writer made a few remarks and gave an opportunity for the reception of members, when Sister Mattie Blacknall came forward and was received into the fellowship of the church as a candidate for baptism. We then gave a few minutes intermission, after which the church came together, and, during the singing of a song, the congregation reassembled. Next, proceeded to ordain Brother C. H. Cayce (my son) to the work of the gospel ministry, as follows:

MINUTE OF PRESBYTERY

The Primitive Baptist Church of Christ at Ralston having requested, or called upon Elders W. W. Sammons and K. M. Myatt, and they, in answer to that call, having met with said church at the time of their regular meeting in December, 1896, together with Elder S. F. Cayce and Deacons W. I. Tucker and T. P. Rawls, all formed themselves into a presbytery and proceeded with said ordination as follows:

The Moderator called upon the church for one of her members to act as spokesman, when Brother I. P. Rawls was appointed to so act.

1st. Examination of the candidate by Elder Sammons.

2nd. Prayer by Elder Myatt.

3rd. Charge delivered by Elder Cayce.

4th. Laying on of hands by the presbytery.

5th. Hand of fellowship extended by the church.

W. W. SAMMONS, Moderator.

S. F. CAYCE, Clerk.

As stated above, the meeting was a very pleasant one indeed; the brethren both preached with good liberty and greatly to the comfort, seemingly, of all our brethren and sisters. Not only did we enjoy their preaching, but the writer felt greatly encouraged because of the fact that they both endorsed our views, or believe just as we do, on the question of Christian obedience, time or "common" salvation.

Brother Sammons stated that he had never heard me advance a single idea or express any sentiment whatever that he did not fully endorse. This was very encouraging indeed. So much so, that I could but let our brethren know (after he was done preaching) that he had heard me at his own (the Mississippi River) association, in October upon the very points, and in expression of the same ideas for which I have recently been denounced as an Arminian. I know that when I first became identified with the Baptists in this country (in 1866) they ALL believed that our eternal salvation is wholly unconditional, altogether the work of God, but that the time salvation, or Christian enjoyment, of the children of God (those already born of God) in this life depends greatly upon their obedience, and that it (their timely salvation) is in that sense conditional. And I know that this is what I believed and tried to preach when I first began to speak in public. Hence it is very encouraging to have such brethren as Elders Myatt and Sammons visit us and preach to our brethren at home just what we try to preach wherever we go.

The brethren both preached at my residence Saturday night, and Brother Myatt preached Sunday night at the Presbyterian church house in Martin. They had good liberty also at these meetings, as well as at our church house. Elder Sammons bade us farewell and boarded train for home at 3 o'clock Monday morning, and Elder Myatt left that day at noon. We feel to hope these dear brethren will visit us again soon, and can assure them that our brethren and sisters of Ralston church would be glad to have them come at any time.

According to agreement, on Saturday, we (self and wife, and after Monday night Claud also) visited brethren through the week and held services at their homes "from house to house" as follows: Monday night at Brother W. I Tucker's; Tuesday night at Brother Doe Staulcup's; Wednesday at 3 o'clock p. m. at Brother John Lewis'; Wednesday night at Linn' Staulcup's; Thursday night at Brother Haywood Ellis'. An opportunity was given every time for the reception of members, and on Wednesday night Brother Polk Fields came forward and related a reason of his hope in Christ and was received into the fellowship of the church as a candidate for baptism. And on Thursday at 2 o'clock p. m. we met at Mr. Clint Moore's pond (near where Brother Ellis lives) where the writer baptized the two candidates (Sister Blacknall, who was received on Sunday, and Brother Fields, who was received Wednesday night).

Friday night the writer filled an appointment at Brother J. W. Stanfield's house where we had no Baptists to hear us except Brother and Sister Stanfield and Brother Polk Fields, who conveyed me next morning to Sandy Branch. This closed our weeks meeting with the brethren and sisters of Ralston Church, and it was, indeed, a glorious time with the unworthy writer. To the Lord be all the glory. C.

Questions

---February 1, 1897

1. Does God will the eternal salvation of all mankind?
2. Will all mankind be saved eternally?
3. If not, is it true that God does all His pleasure?

A. HARDSHELL

ANSWER

1. We answer emphatically, Yes. (II Peter 3:9), "Not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance." All who come to repentance will be eternally saved, therefore it is the will of God to save all.
2. No! All mankind will not be saved. "And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire." - (Revelation 20:15).

Yes, it is true that God does all His pleasure. "But it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe." You see the pleasure of our Lord is to save those only who believe in His Son through the preaching of the gospel.

Why can't God will to save the race through faith in His Son, and yet do His pleasure in saving only those who believe, and condemning those who live and die impenitent?

Provisions were made in the death of Christ sufficient to save all Adam's race, but all will not accept offered mercy and hence must be lost. "He was made under law to redeem them that were under the law," but not whether or no. "He came to seek and to save that which was lost." All men were lost, hence He came to save all through His own appointments. Man must accept or be eternally lost.

Baptists can answer any question pertaining to their faith without contradicting themselves. Do you see?

The above appeared in the Baptist Reaper of December 17, 1896, a Soft-shell paper published in Martin. I have been requested to pay some respect to the same, and according to promise will proceed to "make it pleasant for Tommy" for a little while.

1st. Elder Moore says "yes," and quotes a part of (II Peter 3:9). Here is the whole verse as it reads in the Bible: "The Lord is not slack concerning His promise, as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance." Then he says, "all who come to repentance will be eternally saved, therefore it is the will of God to save all." Let us quote (Romans 2:4): "Or despisest thou the riches of His goodness and forbearance and longsuffering; not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance?" Elder Moore says God does all His pleasure, and tries to prove that it is God's will that all the race repent. We have shown that God leads those to repentance who do repent. If God does all His pleasure, and His pleasure is that all the race come to repentance, it follows that He will lead all of them to repentance; and according to Elder Moore's position Universalism would be the truth. That is not all. Peter says God is not slack concerning His promise. Hence, as God leads those to repentance who do repent, it follows, if God's will is that all come to repentance, He will certainly lead them to repentance. According to Elder Moore's position God is very slack. The Elder is not like Peter in his belief. Elder Moore's position says God is slack. Peter says he is not slack. I guess Peter was correct, and Elder Moore mistaken. Elder Moore quotes a part of (I Corinthians 1:21). Here it is as it reads in the Bible: "For after that in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe." According to Elder Moore's position it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save the unbeliever. The text shows conclusively that the preaching of the cross is foolishness to the world-to the unbeliever. No man will believe any proposition that is foolish to him. It may be ever so sensible to you, but as long as it is foolishness to him he will never believe it. Hence, according to Elder Moore's position, no one will ever reach heaven and immortal glory.

The Elder says Baptists can answer any question pertaining to their faith without contradicting themselves. If you can do so, you will have to try it again, for you failed this time. See these two statements: "Therefore it is the will of God to save all." "You see the pleasure of our Lord is to save those only who believe in His Son through the preaching of the gospel." God wills to save all the race, and His pleasure is to save only a part of the race-yet no contradiction!

"He was made under the law to redeem them that were under the law." If the purpose was to redeem them that were under the law, and He fails to do so, was not the coming of Christ in vain? The text Elder Moore quotes a part of is (Galatians 4:4-5), and reads as follows: "But when the fullness of the time was come, God sent forth His Son, made of a woman, made under the law, to redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons." The next verse says: "And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of His Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father." This shows conclusively that those for whom Christ was made under the law are redeemed from under the law, and that God sends forth the Spirit of His Son into their hearts crying, Abba, Father. Not only so, but it shows that they are all sons-or children-of God, hence heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ. If one of those for whom Christ was made under the law fails to be redeemed from under the law and its curse, then all may fail, and heaven be a blank at last-so far as the redeemed family of our God is concerned.

But Elder Moore quotes another text: "He came to seek and to save that which was lost." Brother Moore, please tell us why you contradicted this text. You say mercy is offered. This text does not say a word about such a thing as offered mercy. It plainly says He came to seek and to save.

If He came to seek and to save, He did not come to offer to save those who would accept. If the salvation of a sinner depends upon his seeking God, then none will be saved, if Paul told the truth, for in Rom. iii. ii he says "there is none that seeketh after God."

Elder Moore says provisions were made in the death of Christ sufficient for the salvation of all the race, but he failed to tell where the text is in the Bible that says so. He has good reason for not doing it-because it is not there. Jesus says, in (John 10:15), "And I lay down my life for the sheep." In verse 26 He says, "But ye believe not, because ye are not of my sheep, as I said unto you." This shows conclusively that He did not make provision for the salvation of all the race, as Elder Moore affirms. If He did make provision for the salvation of those who were not His sheep, it was not made by His death, because He did not die for them. He died for the sheep, and did not die for those who were not sheep.

Softshell Baptists cannot answer many questions propounded by "Hard-shells" without contradicting themselves and also the Bible. Do you see?
C. H. CAYCE.

My Tour in Missouri

---July 19, 1897

I left home on Thursday night, May 27, to visit the churches of the Current River and Cape Girardeau Associations in Missouri, and some other churches in Arkansas. I visited New Hope, Buffalo, Antioch, Ellsinore, and Mt. Zion churches, of the Current River Association, and Macedonia, Little Hope, Bethel, Providence and Harmony, of the Cape Girardeau Association, then Little Flock, Harmony, and Mt. Zion, in the Harmony Association in Arkansas; then El Bethel and Indian Creek, in the Mississippi River Association, in Tennessee. I was away from home thirty-five days; delivered forty-four discourses, and traveled nearly 800 miles. I baptized eleven dear saints on the trip—two sisters into the fellowship of the church at Buffalo, three sisters and three brothers at Ellsinore (dear Brother Pace has already given an account of the meeting there), two sisters at Providence, and one sister at Mt. Zion, near Jonesboro.

At Jonesboro I learned that the church at Memphis had not published the appointment for me there, though I would not have known it had it not been for the kindness of a dear brother who lives in Mississippi. They did not want me because I do not believe and will not preach that God unconditionally predestinated all things whatsoever come to pass, whether good, bad, or indifferent, and that people cannot help doing the meanness they are guilty of.

Just here I want to say that I will not preach such God-dishonoring doctrine as that if every Baptist Church in the universe closes her doors against me. But I have no fear of that, for it is impossible for me to go to all the places where I am requested to go. I do not mention this Memphis matter to wound the feelings of any dear brother or sister, but feel it to be my duty to do so for the sake of other brethren in the ministry.

One circumstance I want to mention about the meeting at Ellsinore which Brother Pace said nothing about. On Saturday evening or Sunday morning when Brother Hill learned that his wife had joined the church, he raised his hand and cursed me and the church. On Monday night before services at Elm Branch he told me about what he had said and done, and told me also that on Sunday when I arose and had been talking only a few moments he was made to see how wrong he had done, and that he then loved me; and he fell on my shoulder and wept like a whipped child and said, "Mr. Cayce, I love you more than any man on earth, and if you can find it in your heart to do so, I beg you to forgive me." I told him that I would forgive him as freely as I ever did anything in my life. As Brother Pace has already stated, he joined on Thursday following, and I baptized him on Friday morning. I thought of the language of one of old, "This is the Lord's doing, and it is marvelous in our eyes" The sister I baptized at Jonesboro was only 14 years old. I feel to hope that the dear Lord was surely with me on that tour; and I feel amply repaid for all of the toil and suffering I endured to make the trip, it is no use for one to tell me that there is no such thing as reward in the service of God. As certain as I am, indeed, a servant of God, that certain it is that He rewarded me on this tour. Such reward as I felt to realize is worth more to me than all the combined salary of the Arminian preachers of the universe for twelve months. I would rather know that I am a called minister of God, and that I had been of benefit, and that even the least of the Lord's humble poor had been comforted by my weak and feeble efforts in trying to preach, than to be president of the United States. When I have the evidence that one of the dear saints of God is benefited by my weak efforts, it is enough to pay me for the toil and pain and afflictions that I endure in trying to preach Jesus and Him crucified.

I met many dear brethren and sisters on this tour, and their kindness to me shall never be forgotten. May our dear Redeemer abundantly bless each of them. And I want all of them who see this to just consider this as a personal letter to them.

In conclusion, I desire to ask an interest in the prayers of all God's dear people. James says, "The fervent effectual prayer of a righteous man availeth much." It would do me good to know that the least one of God's humble poor was sending up a petition to the throne of God's rich grace in my behalf.

Yours in humble hope of a home where there is no more toil, pain, sickness, sorrow, sin nor death,
C. H. CAYCE.

NOTE:-The church in Memphis, Tenn., in the foregoing article is not the Morris Memorial Primitive Baptist Church now in Memphis of which Elder James Duncan is at present the pastor. The above incident occurred before the Morris Memorial Church was constituted.

How Glaring!

---May 1, 1899

I have thought all along since the trouble has been up among the Baptists that I would keep out of print-that is, I would not write on the questions that are causing strife and confusion. All are aware that so far I have written but little, if anything, on these questions. Many times I have had a deep desire to put in a "little mite," but have resisted until now. I believe I could resist longer, but don't think I will. I see some statements that are so glaringly contradictory in themselves, and some that are so foreign to truth, that I want to say a few things.

In the first place, I want to say that I have before me a copy of a paper called "The Standard of Truth," vol. 2, No. 8, published by Elder Wm. R. Welborn, Mecca, N. C. If the "editor and proprietor" would change the name of his sheet, and call it "The Standard of Untruth," the title would not then be so misleading. Yet the name may-and does-signify the disposition of those who believe the doctrine advocated. If anyone fails to drink in and advocate the doctrines held to by them-that God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated all things that come to pass, and that man is an irresponsible machine, and no matter what meanness he does, he can't help it-he is at once branded as an Arminian, or some other epithet is thrust at him, and they at once declare non-fellowship for him. This simply means that whatever their opinion is, it is the standard, and all must come up to the standard, or be left out. But I want to show the inconsistencies of some expressions over the signature of the editor of the aforementioned sheet. On page 13, volume and number mentioned, under the head, "Two Salvations," he says:

Some of the brethren claim that there are two kinds of salvation taught in the Scriptures; and they charge me with teaching that there is but one salvation taught in the Bible, which is not true. I have always tried to teach just what the Holy Scripture teaches, and that is that God is an unchangeable God. That salvation is of the Lord from first to finish. That is not of him that willeth, nor him that runneth, but of God that sheweth mercy, i. e., that all of God's blessings bestowed upon us are purely by grace. That God has delivered and will yet deliver us; not because of righteousness that we have done, but because of His mercy and grace. That God is but one, and besides Him there is none other, and has but one salvation, and that is salvation by grace.

Now there are different salvations spoken of in the Bible, but only one, as touching the salvation of God's people, whether in time or eternity. W. R. W.

Now, notice this expression: "And they charge me with teaching that there is but one salvation taught in the Bible, which is not true." Now look at this: "I have always tried to teach" -what have you always tried to teach? Among other things, you say you have tried to teach "That God is but one, and besides Him there is none other, and has but ONE salvation!" It "is not true when they charge you with teaching there is but one salvation, yet you say you have always TRIED to teach it! We can only conclude that if they had charged you with trying to teach that there is but one salvation taught in the Bible, then their charge would have been true. Will you please tell us how we are to know when to believe what you say?

Now look at this expression: "There are different salvations spoken of in the Bible, but only one, as touching the salvation of God's people, whether in time or eternity." If there is only one salvation spoken of in the Bible as to God's people, and yet there is more than one salvation spoken of in the Bible, then there must be a salvation of others than God's people spoken of. Will Elder W. please tell us who are embraced in the "different salvations" spoken of? If you say God's people, we will not think you believe it, for you have said there is "only one, as touching the salvation of God's people," or you did not believe this last expression when you wrote it. According to what the Elder says, he does not believe Timothy was a child of God. Paul said to him, (I Timothy 4:16), "Take heed unto thyself and unto the doctrine; continue in them; for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee." Paul says he shall save himself and them that hear him. Elder W. says there is only one salvation spoken of, as touching the salvation of God's people. Hence, Timothy was not a child of God, and those that hear him were not children of God either!

I believe if I could not get up a better pet theory than this thing you brethren have gone into, I would quit. It would be a long ways better for you just to own up that you are wrong, and quit advocating such heresy, for when one is in such a "pinch" that he has to contradict himself as Elder Welborn has in the above, he is bound to know he is wrong, and not contending for the right way. C. H. CAYCE.

1900 - 1905

Debate at Perkins

---January 15, 1900

Debate began at Perkins' Mill, twelve miles east of here, August 21st, and continued four days; subject, "Identity of the Church;" each affirming two days; W. D. Craig of the Church of Christ, Bibby, Miss., and C. H. Cayce, of the Primitive Baptist Church, Martin, Tenn.

Principal points discussed: Origin or Establishment of the Kingdom or Church; Conditionality of Salvation; Possibility of Apostasy; and Close Communion.

Brother Cayce is a strong man and a very rapid speaker; a year communion and foot washing; but these points he would not try to defend. Elder Cayce was very indefinite as to the origin of the church, and was at times very rough towards Brother Craig, calling him names, "Campbelite," "Little Pope," "Godfather," "Ain't he a pretty-looking Thing," etc. This was not argument, but sounded ugly, Let us hope that he will not indulge again in such methods. Elder Cayce is a strong man and a very rapid speaker.

Brother Craig spoke in an earnest manner and with telling effect. He compared Baptist teaching with Bible teaching, and tried to get Elder Cayce to harmonize the two. Elder Cayce's failure to do so, I think, placed the cause of Christ in the front. I think the debate will do a great deal of good. One lady made the confession at the close of the debate.

Tillatoba, Miss, Sept. 21, 1899.

J H. HARRISON.

REMARKS

The above "item" was copied from the Christian Standard of October 7th, 1899, published at Cincinnati, O., and sent to me I am not surprised nor astonished. I don't know how the gentleman learned that I was "a year communion and foot washing," unless he learned it from Mr. Craig, his godfather, for I never said so. The people who were present know that I did defend our practice of feet washing, and that Mr. Craig did not refute the argument. He only made one very weak objection to its being a church ordinance. Mr. Harrison knows-as well as all persons present-that I showed from the Scriptures just when and where the church was organized, and how many and who were the members, and traced the church on down to the present time by history. But what hurt so badly, was, I showed by an abundance of testimony that Mr. Craig's church was set up by Alexander Campbell, at Brush Run, Washington county, Pa., in May, 1811, with thirty members. Hence Mr. Craig is a Campbellite. Poor boy! he is ashamed of his father. If the father was living today, I believe he would be ashamed of his child. I did not use the term, "Little Pope" during the discussion, but I did call him by names that he assumed in his own arguments and assertions. Of course the whole thing "sounded ugly" to Mr. Harrison and some others of the Campbellite persuasion when I was talking; but it would not "sound ugly" for Mr. Craig to say, "it's none of your business!" and other like expressions, in answer to decent and pertinent questions! No; God bless his little sweet soul-he couldn't do ugly-no, no! not for the memory of his mother! Dear me, I wonder what he could do if it was not for remembering her!

Yes; Elder Craig spoke with telling effect-and the affect was that the unbiased and unprejudiced persons present could, and did, plainly see the fallacy and rottenness of Campbellism, as championed by Mr. Craig.

"Elder Cayce" harmonized Baptist doctrine with the Bible; but he was not required to harmonize everything with the Bible that Elder Craig might be pleased to call Baptist doctrine; and I would be a fool if I should undertake such a job, for he has very little idea of what Baptist doctrine is. And he was so bewildered in that discussion that when I would tell him, he did not seem to remember it long enough to make one speech. Yes; I think, too, that the cause of Christ was placed in the front, which is unmistakable evidence that the cause of Campbellism (which was championed by Mr. Craig) was left in the rear. Glad Mr. Harrison was honest enough to acknowledge it. So did Mr. Craig's moderator acknowledge his defeat. I took the train at Coffeerville for home. While I was there waiting for the train, I was in a store belonging to one Mr. Hall. Mr. Craig's moderator entered the room and began a conversation with me. In the conversation I asked him: "Now, be right honest with yourself and with me; are you not bound to acknowledge that your brother was not equal to the task?" He replied that he was bound to admit it-that Mr. Craig was not equal to the task. I have witnesses that he made this admission.

Yes; one lady "made the confession" at the close of the debate. I had heard of the lady before the last day of the debate-so I was not surprised. But she was certainly mad when she "made the confession," for her countenance betrayed her feelings. I have heard that she was not baptized for some time after the debate; and it may be that she has not yet been immersed. Poor woman! according to Elder Craig's theory, if she dies without being immersed, she will go to hell after all! If Campbellism is true. Talmage was correct, sure enough, when he said, "Procrastination is hell's deception." Are you not glad that Campbellism is not true? I am.

I, too, think the debate did good. I remained there for four days following the close, and held meeting each day. During the meeting seven were received into the fellowship of the church, and I had the privilege of baptizing them while there. Some of them said they were fully convinced during the debate that the doctrine believed by the Primitive Baptists was the doctrine of God our Saviour-the doctrine taught in the Bible. I learn that the Campbelites had been rather expecting one of the seven to join them, and they were very much disappointed and chagrined when they heard what had taken place.

The reason the Campbelites were so badly defeated is simply this- they have no solid ground (or rock) upon which to stand. They can't stand on water. One must have a stronger and more solid foundation-the eternal Rock of Ages, the Lord Jesus Christ-and that's what Old Baptists have.

Mr. Craig doesn't want any more of it. He had thirty minutes time for his last speech, in closing the discussion. When he had been speaking about fifteen or twenty minutes, he said: "Well, I believe I am done; and, so far as I am concerned, the debate is over with!" I don't blame him. If I had been in his position it would have been over sooner than that, I think, for every day's work only made it worse for him and his theory. I actually felt sorry for him sometimes-and so did others

If the Campbelites want more, perhaps we can find some one to "pass the ham" for them again.

C. H. CAYCE.

Fashion

---January 27, 1902

"Thus saith the Lord, Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls. But they said, We will not walk therein." -(Jeremiah 6:16).

Did the Lord command these Israelites to "walk therein," and also "absolutely predestinate" that they should not do so?

Did the Lord command them to "walk therein," and promise them rest as a result of doing so, and "absolutely predestinate" that they should say, "We will not walk therein?"

If God "absolutely predestinated" that they should not "walk therein," was it possible for them to do so?

If it was not possible for them to "walk therein," why did God command them to do so?

Is any doctrine true which is not in harmony with all the divine attributes of Jehovah?

Is not Jehovah a God of justice, and is not justice one of His attributes?

"Hear, O earth: behold, I will bring evil upon this people, even the fruit of their thoughts, because they have not hearkened unto my words, nor to my law, but rejected it." -(Jeremiah 6:19).

Those Israelites did not "walk therein." If God had "absolutely predestinated" that they should not, then they could not.

Where is the justice in commanding them to "walk therein," at the same time having "absolutely predestinated" that they should not, and bringing evil upon them for not doing so?

Is not such what would be called "double-dealing?" And, does God deal that way?

How old is the term "absolute predestination of all things?" Was not Elder Gilbert Beebe the author of it?

Was that term ever heard of before Elder Beebe invented it?

If Elder Beebe is the author of the term "absolute predestination of all things," and the inventor of it, is it any older than Elder Beebe?

If it is no older than Elder Beebe, is it not a "new way," or a "new path?"

Should we be "for the perpetuation" of the new path? Or, should we "ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein?"

Is it not a fact that in the division between the Baptists and the Missionaries, the Missionaries went to an extreme on the one hand, and those who advocate the doctrine of the "absolute predestination of all things," and use the term without any qualification, went to an extreme on the other?

As both are extremes, are they not both wrong?

Would we not do well to "ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein," and find rest to our souls, and let both these extremes alone?

Yours for the "good old way,"

C. H. CAYCE.

OH CONSISTENCY, ETC.

---April 26, 1904

In the Signs of the Times of April 15th, 1904, is a communication signed by J. B. & Lavinia Dawson. The following are some extracts from the communication:

I am not a member of the visible church, but my wife has been for many years, and my parents were members. I believe in the predestination of all things, and the Signs has always been the firm advocate of that doctrine.

It is plain to me that God has a purpose in everything, both good and bad. It has pleased the Father to reveal to His children as much as He wants them to know.

Moses, when told by the Lord that he must go and bring Israel out of the land of Egypt, did not feel equal to the task, but desired to be excused. Finally the Lord asked of him, "Who hath made man's mouth?" But you know all these things better than I can speak of them. There are many, yes, very many, such proofs that God rules all things, that He never fails to make His people willing in the day of His power.

The foregoing has been written because I could not help it; it is in the providence of the Almighty if it be right; if it be wrong, it is of the evil one, over whom we know God rules according to His will and to His own glory.

I have no apology to make for writing this.

To the writer of the letter from which the above extracts are taken there is a short admonition given, which is signed "Ed." "We see no good reason why the dear aged friend who wrote the above good letter should not become a member of the church. They that gladly received the word were baptized on the day of Pentecost, we are told. In the New Testament we read of no delay in any case when one had come to believe in Jesus as the Saviour of their souls."

There are a few things in the foregoing extracts I want to notice. I do not wish to appear conspicuous; neither do I wish to be out of place. I trust I sincerely have in mind the fact of the advanced age of all the writers in the foregoing, and I have all due respect for them from that standpoint. But I have more respect for the teaching of God's word than I have for any man or set of men. Hence, the remarks I wish to make are, I trust, made with all due respect.

The writer says it is plain to him that God has a purpose in everything, both good and bad, meaning, we suppose, that God wants everything to take place just as it does. If it is so plain to him, I wish he would tell us what God's purpose was in the assassination of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley. Was Citeau right when he argued that he could not help killing Garfield, that he was doing God's will; that God predestinated from all eternity that he should do this very thing, and that he could not have done otherwise? What is God's purpose in the many instances of murder, crime, theft and robbery, that are being committed all through our country from Maine to California? Where is the Scripture that says God has a purpose in everything, both good and bad? If there is no Scripture that plainly says this, how can it be plain to the writer that it is true? If the Scriptures do not say it, and it is plain to him, did God make it known to him by a direct revelation? Where is the Scripture that says God makes all these things known by direct revelation? if the Scriptures do not say this, shall we believe such a revelation comes from God? If God reveals this to some of His children and does not reveal it to others, I suppose He tells some things to some of His children that He will not tell to others. So, He is better to some of His children than He is to others.

If it has pleased the Father to reveal as much to His children as He wants them to know, why does the Saviour say, {(John 5:39)} "Search the Scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me?" And why did Paul say, {(II Timothy 2:15)} "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth?" And why did the Saviour say, {(Matthew 28:19)} "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations?" Who can tell why these things were said? If God reveals as much to His children as He wants them to know, then no one can teach them any more, unless they are taught more than God wants them to learn. What purpose does God have in a man being taught more than He wants him to know?

Again, in regard to God making His people willing in the day of His power. Amos I to understand by the argument made that as long as Moses was unwilling to lead the children of Israel it was not the day of God's power? Is not that the inevitable conclusion of the argument? if it was not the day of God's power, pray tell whose power? Is not every day the day of His power? If not, why not? Are not God's people given a righteous will in regeneration? If so, is not that a manifestation of the power of God? And is not that "the day of His power?"

The writer says the foregoing has been written because he could not help it, and that he has no apology to make for writing it. If he could not help it, we do not ask for any apology. There is no apology needed or required of anyone for doing that which they cannot help. According to this argument, or statement, rather, Giteau was correct in saying he could not help murdering Garfield. Now, I am going to take your own sword and say, according to your own statement, the whole foregoing is a conglomerated mess of contradictions and inconsistencies, and I have written this "because I could not help it." Will you take your own medicine? If not, for the sake of consistency, if for nothing else, do not try to force others to take it.

The editor says he sees no good reason why the writer of that letter should not become a member of the church. Why, dear brother, that is plain enough. As young and as ignorant as I am, I can understand that. According to his own statement in regard to doctrine, and which he says has been the doctrine of the Signs, it is because God has predestinated that he should not join. The day of God's power has not yet come. God has a purpose in his staying out of the church. He could not join the church. He can't even try to become a member. When the day of God's power rolls round in the annals of time, if it ever does, then he will do as the Pentecostians did, be baptized.

When God no longer has a purpose in his staying out of the church, then he will become a member. Dear brother, don't you see why he doesn't become a member? It seems to me your and his doctrine settles the matter as to why everything takes place just as it does. And your brother, Elder R. H. Boaz, swore that a man could not do or will to do a sinful act unless God predestinated that he should do it. Don't you think it would be more honoring to God to abandon such doctrine and such expressions, and be consistent in admonishing God's people to duty? Don't you think it would be better to tell them that God has no pleasure in wickedness, than to tell them that God has purposed it, and that it is His will? Do you not think it would be better to tell them that God was not well pleased with many of the children of Israel on account of their disobedience, and that He is not pleased with the disobedience of His children now, than to tell them that God has a purpose and is pleased with all these things? Don't you think it is better to advocate a doctrine that is consistent with itself and with the Scriptures, than to advocate the doctrine expressed in the extracts above?

I have written the foregoing-not because I could not help it-because I hope I love the truth, and because the inconsistencies were so glaring I felt a desire to notice them. I do wish God's people would wake up and study the Scriptures, and thus come to a knowledge of the truth. May the Lord grant to bless us all with wisdom, and then may we improve what God has blessed us with, and get knowledge.
C. H. C.

MEETING AT MOUNT TABOR

---August 30, 1904

For some time I had a desire to visit Mount Tabor Church once more, where Elder W. W. Sammons held membership at the time of his death. Elder J. C. (Clark) Sammons is the pastor of the church. I have visited this church frequently in years gone by, as well as other churches in the same section of the country. I left home on Friday afternoon before the first Sunday in July and went to Toone, Tenn., and on Saturday morning went with A. S. Anderson and his wife, Sister Anderson, to Mount Tabor Church, about eighteen or twenty miles. This was their regular meeting time, and they were not aware of any intention of mine to be there until they arrived at the church and found me present. I tried to preach on both days, and we had a very enjoyable meeting and a most pleasant time, especially on Sunday. I tried to preach the same doctrine there that I have been trying to preach ever t since I first began, and which I have believed all the time since I have had membership among the Baptists, and which I used to preach when I visited those churches so often. I tried to show by the plain teaching of the Scriptures, as well as by the Christian experience, that our eternal salvation is all of the Lord—that it is all by the work of the Lord for us and in our hearts, and that we are blessed in obedience. I tried to show that the child of God receives blessings in obedience which cannot be realized or enjoyed by those who live in disobedience. The brethren all endorsed what I advocated, and Brother Sammons stated that it was the doctrine he believed. He also said he had heard many things about what I preached, but that he could endorse all I had said there, etc. I hope the brethren will see that it is a great mistake to condemn anyone before they are heard on any point. We should never do this. I do feel to hope that some good may come of this meeting. I was glad to be there, and they all expressed themselves as being glad also, and insisted that I visit them again, which I hope to do at some time. I believe these are good brethren, and I trust the Lord may bless them, and they may be guided aright in all they do. C.H.C

MISSIONARIES SEVENTY YEARS OLD

---March 28, 1905

Brother Pigue expresses his ignorance in saying that the Missionary Baptists are but seventy years old. The records of history contradict him, and the records of God's word utterly overthrow his bald assertions.—Baptist Flag, March 3, 1905.

Brother Pigue did not miss it so much after all. You Softshells held your one-hundredth anniversary meeting in 1893. The minute of one of your associations that year said “This is our centennial year.” Brother Pigue did not miss the truth on that as far as you do in claiming to be the church of Christ. You miss the truth on that claim about 1900 years. The Hall is too small to hold the Pig(ue).
C. H. C.

Going Too Fast

---March 28, 1905

But in our judgment we need some one to put on brakes and check us up, we are going too fast. In a short time we will land in the main thoroughfare of Rome unless such men as Millard are stopped—Baptist Flag, Fulton. Ky., March 23, 1905.

That's what we have thought for a long time. We had little idea that Parson Hall would “own up,” but he has. We don't think you are very, far from that main thoroughfare now. Don't be uneasy; the trip is not such a long one but what it can be made quickly without traveling so fast as to take your breath.

C. H. C.

MASONRY SUPERIOR TO SOFTSHELLISM

---April 4, 1905

Some of the brethren in their write-ups, claim that they do not believe in Masonry. Brother, how do you know? It does not require much qualification to disbelieve any sort of proposition. Unbelief is only negative in its character. Masonry does not claim to save people, neither does it claim to be a church, but it is far superior to many so-called churches.- J. K. P. Williams, under "News and Views," in American Baptist Flag.

"But it is far superior to many so-called churches" -yes, superior to all Softshell Baptist churches. Masonry does not claim to save people; Softshell Baptists do. Masonry does not propose to do what Christ alone can do and has done; Softshell Baptists do. I think I would quit the Softshell mess, and if I could do no better, would be a Mason. I am not a Mason, and do not want to be; but I would rather be that than to be a Softshell-so-called Baptist. C. H. C.

WHAT ARMINIANS PREACH

---June 13, 1905

Dr. Cayce says Arminians do really believe and preach some things that are true. That shows that debates do good, for Penick has learned our Hardshell brother that there are some other folks in the earth besides Hardshells.-Baptist Flag, June 8, 1905.

Yes, some Arminians do really preach some things that are true-but some of them are like Parson J. N. Hall-they will contradict it afterwards. We knew there were Softshell tree-frogs before we ever saw Elder Penick. We knew Parson Hall before we knew Elder Penick. Say, Parson, isn't your hat too small?

C. H. C.

Cayce – Tucker

---July 25, 1905

They sure had a bantam fight of it when Claud Cayce (Hardshell) and W. G. Tucker (Campbellite) met in debate. Each disputant should have been furnished with a rattle and a rubber ring to harden the gums.-Baptist Flag, July 20, 1905.

Claud Cayce-Hardshell, as you call him-doesn't need to have his gums hardened to chew the "stuffin" out of your Softshell bombastic hallucination.

C. H. C.

OCCUPYING SAME GROUND

---July 25, 1905

When all the Hardshell Baptists get back to the Missionaries, from whence they started, we wonder what little trundle bed we can get for our little Bro. Claud Cayce? He is a sweet little fellow.-Baptist Flag, July 20, 1905.

“When all the Hardshell Baptists get back to the Missionaries!” Who ever did hear of such a thing as one getting back to a place they have never been? The Primitive Baptists stand just where we did before the division, which was brought about by the organization of a missionary board by Fuller and Cary in October, 1792; and we have been occupying the same ground all the while. Your own people did the starting from primitive grounds, and you have gone so far, after the starting, that you said, yourself, “We need some one to put on brakes and check us up, we are going too fast. In a short time we will land in the main thoroughfare of Rome,” etc. You'll never need your trundle bed, parson, for little Claud. He is going to stay where he is. The Lord has reserved to Himself seven thousand men who have not bowed the knee to the image of Baal, and there is yet a remnant according to the election of grace. We don't know whether Parson Hall is sweet or not. We have never tried Softshell eggs.

C. H. C.

OUR FATHER IS DEAD

---September 5, 1905

Our father is dead! Oh, how solemn, how heart-rending are those words! It seems to me I can hardly bear the great trial. Many of you never had the sweet pleasure of being associated personally with him, but you have read his able and humble writings, and thereby you learned to love him. He was just as kind and tender in his home and in his office and in every place as he was in his writings-he manifested the same kind and humble spirit everywhere. In the death of Elder S. F. Cayce we have sustained a loss that cannot be estimated. My own loss in giving him up is more than I have ever endured heretofore, and it is hard for me to be reconciled to it. While it is true that father has given but little attention to the financial matters connected with THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, or with our business, for several years, yet we who had these things to attend to always had his safe and conservative advice and counsel. We could always go to him and ask him what to do, or what would be best, and his kind advice and loving admonitions, I believe, were always right. Mother has lost one of the best-if not the best-of husbands. He was kind, considerate and affectionate. We children have lost as good a father as ever lived. Is it out of place for me to thus say so much about my dear sainted father? If so, please pardon my weakness. I cannot say as much as I would say-for words fail me. He was kind to all with whom he came in contact, and was generous to a fault. I do not believe any poor, destitute one ever asked him for help and for pity that was sent empty away. He was always ready to administer to those who were in need.

His loving admonitions and kind advice will be missed by us, his children; we have no father now to advise us as to what is, or is not, best for us to do. Oh, how lonely and sad we feel! We can only put our trust and confidence in Jesus, the blessed Saviour, and hope He will heal our broken hearts and give us to be perfectly reconciled to our lot, and enable us to say with our whole hearts, "Not our will, O Lord, but thine be done." Lord, help us.

THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST was founded by Elder S. F. Cayce at Fulton, Ky., on January 1, 1886. In the latter part of August of the same year he moved to Martin, Tenn., with his family, and bought an interest in the printing office here, which was owned by J. B. Gilbert. Mr. Gilbert was owner and editor of the Martin Mail, a county newspaper which was published in the office. Mr. Gilbert and my father continued their partnership in the office for some time-I do not remember how long-until my father bought Mr. Gilbert's remaining interest. On the first day of September, 1886, I did my first work in the office; and ever since that time I have been closely connected with my father in the work and business of the office. It is true that for a short while at one or two different times since then I was not connected with the business on account of poor health, but even during that time I was informed as to how his affairs were progressing. All this being true, I feel that the Lord has wonderfully and abundantly blessed me with his sweet company, kind and loving advice, and godly examples for so many years.

His whole heart and life were devoted to the service of the Lord, his blessed Master. His whole desire was for the welfare of the Old Baptist cause, and it was such an earnest desire of his heart that THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST be conducted in a way to be of the greatest benefit and comfort to them. He expressed to me at different times his wishes that I should continue to conduct the paper as he had tried to do when he should pass away. I do now feel so much and so forcibly my inability to take his place. I feel that no man on earth can fill his place, much less a poor, weak sinner like I am. I promised him the day he left home that I would do the best I could, and I can only try to conduct the paper like he did conduct it. Oh, I feel so weak and so imperfect, and that I am altogether inadequate to the task. Dear readers, will you please pray that the dear Saviour my father served so faithfully will help me to continue editing and publishing the paper in such a way as that it may still be a great blessing to the dear Old Baptist cause? Pray that the Lord may direct me in wisdom's ways, and bless me with strength and holy boldness that I may have the same undaunted courage of my sainted father to always contend for the true principles of the glorious gospel of Christ and for the ancient landmarks and principles that have always identified our people as separate and distinct from the world. Lord help me also to fight a good light and to keep the faith.

Dear brethren and friends, father spent his precious life serving you. He was never daunted by hardships; it was never too hot or too cold; he has gone away from home when some of his family were afflicted, for no other purpose than to serve you. He always answered your calls when it was possible for him to do so, either to proclaim to you the glad news of salvation through the merits of a crucified and risen Redeemer, or to defend the cause we love so well in face to face combat with those who would oppose the truth he and you loved. It is sad to know he can answer no more of our calls. He died in our service.

As to his finances, I want to say that he died in debt. His home was not paid for, besides the office is in debt. We, his children, are proposing to assume every debt he owed, and we are going to do our very best to pay it all. So, dear brethren, we need your help and assistance in this way too. Mother has spent many a lonely hour at home while father was away from her, preaching to your comfort and joy, and we pray you may remember her now, and that you will help us by renewing your subscription and sending us all the new subscribers you can. We want to pay all he owed and we will do so as soon as possible, and we humbly ask your help in this way.

Once more I want to say that a great responsibility has fallen on the unworthy writer, and no one but Jesus can enable me to bear it. I know that I am not able to bear it alone, and I do feel to have a longing desire to live in such a way as to never bring reproach on the blessed cause of our heavenly Master, and never cause strife and discord or confusion among the dear Old Baptists. May God grant that there may never be such a thing among Baptists as a Cayce party. And may the blessed Saviour help me to conduct THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST in such a way as to be a comfort and benefit to His dear people, and to continue it in the way marked out by my precious sainted father, so that the standard to which it has attained may never be lowered, and that the blood-stained banner of King Immanuel may still be upheld in its columns. Dear readers, pray for us to this end.

In much sorrow, yet with a sweet trusting hope in Jesus, I am your poor unworthy brother,
C. H. CAYCE.

OUR WORK ENDORSED

---October 10, 1905

We are much gratified to be able to say that at the present time we can state to our readers that many dear and able brethren, many churches, besides union meetings and associations, have directly and indirectly endorsed the action of our union meeting held in Martin on Friday, Saturday and fifth Sunday in July, in dropping Fulton Church from our union. We have already published letters in our columns from a number of brethren, and in our issue of September 26, we published the minute of the proceedings of a union meeting in the West Tennessee Association endorsing our act. We also have letters from several other able brethren endorsing the same act, which will yet be published. Our association, the Greenfield-Philesic, corresponds with the Big Sandy, Forked Deer, Obion, Predestinarian and Soldier Creek Associations. At the time we are writing this editorial all the associations named, except Soldier Creek, have met, and this one is to meet before this issue of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST is sent out.

The Big Sandy Association was held with the church at Mud Creek, Carroll county, Tenn., beginning on Friday before the first Sunday in September, 1905. Elder E. B. Simmons was chosen moderator and J. S. Browning clerk, both of Huntingdon, Tenn. The following appears in their minutes as the eighth item of their proceedings on Friday: Unanimously agreed that we heartily endorse the action of the union meeting of the Greenfield-Philesic Association in dropping Fulton church from their union while in session with the church at Martin on Friday and Saturday before the fifth Sunday in July, 1905, and we request that this endorsement be published in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST and that other papers of same faith and order please copy. The Forked Deer Association met with the church at Flowers Chapel, near Rutherford, Gibson county, Tenn., on Friday before the second Sunday in September, 1905. Elder John Grist, of Friendship, Tenn., was moderator, and L. J. Law, Trenton, Tenn., was clerk. The following appears in their minutes as the third and fourth items of their business on Saturday:

By motion and second, agreed that we adopt as the sense of this association the action of five of our churches as expressed in their letters, that we declare non-fellowship for the idea of a federal form of government, that the commission was given to the church and not to the apostles or ministry, that it is the duty of the ministry to admonish the alien sinner to repent and believe the gospel, and against affiliation in and with secret institutions

The messengers from Mt. Moriah and Shady Grove withdrew from the association and called for their letters and contribution. The money was given them by their request, but we retained their letters.

By motion and second, we agreed to admonish Mt. Moriah and Shady Grove churches to rid themselves of their disorderly pastor, Elder J. V. Kirkland.

The Predestinarian Association met with the church at Turman's Creek, Decatur county, Tenn., on Saturday before the fourth Sunday in September, 1905. Elder W. M. Weaver, Sardis, Tenn., was moderator, and W. B. Williams, Beech Bluff, Tenn., was clerk. On Saturday, Elder S. E. Reid, Henderson, Tenn., and J. M. Malone, Muffin, Tenn., were appointed as a committee to draft suitable resolutions for the consideration of the association on Monday. The following appears in their minutes in Monday's proceedings:

Called on the committee on resolutions. They reported the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Information has reached us, the truth of which we have no reason whatever to doubt, that certain ministers of the church at Fulton, Ky., within the bounds of the Greenfield-Philesic Association, viz., Elder J. V. Kirkland and Elder R. S. Kirkland, are, and have been, introducing new doctrines and practices among the Primitive Baptists, which are contrary to the time-honored principles of the fathers, and is destructive to the peace of the Baptists, to-wit: "federal government of the churches," "that the commission was given to the churches," "a national publishing house for the "Baptists," affiliation with, and membership in, secret organizations." Now, therefore, Be it resolved by the Predestinarian Association, now in session, that we consider all the above things unauthorized by the word of God, contrary to the principles held by the Primitive Baptists for hundreds of years, and is a complete surrender of the principles for which the church has contended since its organization, and we heartily endorse the course of the union meeting held at Martin Church of the Greenfield-Philesic Association in withdrawing fellowship from Fulton Church for holding to and endorsing the principles and practices set out above; and we make this declaration that all our correspondents, and the Primitive Baptists in general, may know where we stand on this question, and further, that we do not desire these things advocated in the churches composing this association.

Resolved, further, that it is the wish of this body that a copy of these resolutions be published in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST that our brethren everywhere may know at once where we stand on these questions.

Respectfully submitted,

ELDER S E. REID,

J. M. MALONE.

Committee.

The Obion Association was held with the church at Nelson's Creek, Henry county, Tenn., on Friday, Saturday and fourth Sunday in September. In another column of this paper is a letter from the clerk of that association, in which he states that they heartily endorse the action of our union meeting.

This includes all our corresponding associations except the Soldier Creek, which has not yet met.

The writer attended the West Tennessee Association at Burns, Tenn., on Saturday and third Sunday in September and Monday after. They showed very plainly that they recognized the action of our union, by their appointing and not appointing ministers to preach during the meeting, besides the statement was plainly made in the beginning by one of their ministers who is now an old father in Israel, and who stands high as a minister, and was moderator of the association several years, that Fulton Church was in disorder.

In another place in this paper will be found a general corresponding letter from the Salem Association in Indiana. It can readily be seen that they are with us. The letter speaks for itself. We think, just as they do, that those who are not satisfied to be plain Old Baptists, and who are wanting to introduce new measures among us, should go to a people who are practicing those things and leave the Old Baptists in peace. In fact, we think it much more honorable to do as Elders Todd, Hackleman and Strickland-leave the Old Baptists and unite with the Missionaries-than to try to remain with us and advocate new measures to the destruction of the peace and the confusion of the brotherhood. If the time should ever come that we are not satisfied to be an Old Baptist, of the same kind they were when we became a member, sixteen years ago, and of the kind Elder S. F. Cayce was when he established this paper in January, 1886, and as he was when he baptized the unworthy writer in September, 1889, and as he was when he was called to his blessed eternal home on Aug. 27, 1905,-we say if that time should ever come, we will leave the Old Baptists in peace, and not try to "make the division larger on our side." We want to be a plain Old Baptist as long as we live in this world, for it is the visible, organized kingdom which Christ set up or established while He was on earth; and it is today organically the same that it was in the days of the apostles, although "of your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw away disciples after them." Let us be meek and humble followers of Jesus, and not followers of men, and then we will have peace. May the Lord help us so to do, is our prayer.

C. H. C.

REMARKS TO J. E. CRON

---October 10, 1905

Such letters as the above are a great encouragement to us. They give us courage to press onward, following our dear sainted father, as he was "also a follower of Christ." Yes, by the help of our Lord, we are determined to press onward in his footsteps as much as we can. We feel that although the Lord has promised to never leave Himself without a witness, yet no one can ever fill our dear father's place. Again we ask you all to pray the Lord to enable us to conduct THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST in such a way as that the standard it has attained to may be maintained and that it may continue to be a comfort and benefit to the dear Old Baptists and all lovers of truth who may read its columns. We desire to always be found doing as the Lord commands:

"Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls." -Jer. vi. 16 Our dear father preached the introductory discourse in our union meeting in Martin in July using that language as his text. This was his last discourse in our little church at home. May the Lord help us to continue in the good old way until we, too, are called away. Brethren, pray for us. C. H. C

OUR ASSOCIATION

---October 17, 1905

Our association met with the church at Little Zion last Friday, according to announcement and agreement. Elder Hopper, of the Obion Association (we do not remember his initials or post office), Elders J. W. Lomax, J. L. Butler, J. M. Johnson and J. K. Stephens were with us. The preaching was all a unit, from first to last, and there was a season of rejoicing, although there was a feeling of sadness on account of some being called away since the last association. There was also a feeling of sadness because of the work it was necessary for us to do because of the new measures that have lately been advocated by some brethren in our association.

In accordance with the action of the union meeting which was held at Martin beginning on Friday before the fifth Sunday in July, 1905, and in accordance with the action of our churches, the following motion was adopted:

By motion and second agreed that we drop Fulton Church from our association, as they have withdrawn from us, and until they put themselves in order, because we do not think the Baptists should have a federal form of government; neither do we think the commission was given to the church, but to the apostles or ministry; neither do we think it the duty of the ministry to admonish the alien sinner to repent and believe the gospel, which things are being advocated by the ministry of Fulton Church; neither do we think it to be good order for Baptists to hold membership in and affiliate with secret institutions, which some of their members are doing. We beg them to cease advocating and practicing these things, and to come back to us without them.

We think all of our churches, except Little Zion, are almost, if not altogether, a unit, and will continue to stand firm against these measures. We publish this so that Baptists everywhere may know where we stand. C. H. C.

Who Are The Primitive Baptists?

---November 7, 1905

In July, 1887, a debate was held at Fulton, Ky., between Elder W. P. Throgmorton and Elder Lemuel Potter, the question being, "Who are the Primitive Baptists?" Elder Throgmorton represented the Missionary Baptists and Elder Potter represented the "Regular Old School Baptists." The debate began on Tuesday, July 12, and continued four days and two nights. Elder J. V. Kirkland, then of Farmington, Ky., now of Fulton, Ky., was moderator for Elder Potter. In the committee on the publication of the debate the "Regular Old School Baptists" were represented by Dr. H. C. Roberts and Elder S. F. Cayce. We know that Elder Potter was recognized as being a representative man among our people then, and we yet consider that he was. Elder J. V. Kirkland certainly recognized him then as such. There are a few things in that debate that we wish to give our readers the benefit of, and we feel that all our brethren everywhere would do well to take heed to them at the present time. First we give a statement, as it appears on page 18, in Elder Potter's first speech in the debate, while Elder Throgmorton was affirming that the Missionaries are the Primitive Baptists:

Brother Throgmorton, in his speech, has represented the Missionary Baptists as very liberal. I want to show you some of his liberality, according to his speech. However, I wish to make this statement; and I want him to understand that I shall have use for it (and if he does not agree with me, I want him to say so); I claim that if an organization of any kind be rent by the introduction of new rules, regulations or doctrines, that the innovators, and not the party that adheres to the old rules, regulations and doctrines, are the seceding party. That is my position. It occurs to me that it is sound doctrine. I apprehend that he will have no objection to that. I am going to take it for granted that he agrees to it.

Please notice that he speaks of Elder Throgmorton's "liberality" This refers to the "liberality" of the Missionary Baptists in tolerating and fellowshiping so many different kinds of doctrines and practices. By reading Elder Throgmorton's speeches you will observe that he claimed his people were the Primitive Baptists because they had no bars to fellowship. Now observe that Elder Potter said, "I claim that if an organization of any kind be rent by the introduction of new rules, regulations or doctrines, that the innovators, and not the party that adheres to the old rules, regulations and doctrines, are the seceding party." From this it is evident that the party who introduces the new measures is the party who departs from the original ground, and not the party who puts up a bar to the new measures. The party who puts up a bar against the innovations, new rules, doctrines or practices, is the party standing on the original platform or order of things in the organization. Elder Kirkland accepted Elder Potter's position then as being a correct and true one. We accept it now. When the new measures were introduced among the Baptists that finally brought about the division between our people and the Missionaries, those who introduced the new measures plead for "liberality" on those things, and Elder Throgmorton gives us to understand they yet have the "liberality." So it is at this time-those brethren who have introduced the new measures that are causing distress in our beloved Zion are pleading forbearance and "liberality." But it is now as it was then- the innovators, and not the party that adheres to the old rules, regulations and doctrines, are the seceding party. The innovators claimed then that "liberty" should be allowed on those things, as they were not sufficient to cause a division. So, the brethren who are now advocating the measures causing the distress in the church say liberty should be allowed; as the things are not sufficient to cause a division and are not fundamental, but are minor points. We would ask, in all candor, if they are minor points, and are not fundamental, why not cease advocating and contending for them? And if they are minor points, if they are not fundamental, then why does the minute of the St. Louis meeting say they are vital points? The word vital means, "Being the seat of life or that on which life depends; contributing to life; essential to or supporting life; necessary to existence or continuance." If they are vital; if they are the seat of life of the church of Christ; if they are that upon which the life of the church depends; if they are essential; if they are necessary to the existence or continuance of the Old Baptist church, then are they minor points?-are they not fundamental? If they are necessary to all these things, why say they are not fundamental? If they were vital one year ago, are they not vital now? If not, why not? If they were vital one year ago, were they not vital from 1792 to 1832? (Remember that some of these things were involved in that period.) If not, why not? Do principles ever change? If they were vital one year ago. they were vital in 1832; and if they were vital in 1832, then the Missionaries were right in the division, and are now the original Baptist Church, or else the points are unscriptural. One of these two things are bound to be true-there is no escape. If we believed the points to be Scriptural, we would also necessarily conclude that the Missionaries are the original order of Baptists; and if we believed that, we would certainly leave the Old Baptists in peace and unite with the Missionaries. But we do not believe they are Scriptural; so we must conclude that the "Regular Old School Baptists" are the original or Primitive Baptists.

How did Elder Potter stand in the debate above mentioned? On Thursday, July 14, 1887, Elder Potter began in the forenoon in affirming that our people are the Primitive Baptists. We quote from Elder Potter's first affirmative speech, beginning on page 179 of the Throgmorton-Potter debate:

I am happy to have the opportunity of standing before you today, in order to set forth the principle features of what I deem to be the gospel truths of Christianity. As a matter of course, from the position in which I stand, you will expect me especially to set forth what is known by the people throughout this country as the features of the "Hardshell" Baptists. When I am through, whatever you may think of my claims to the church of Christ must be optional with you. I feel thankful to God that we have the liberty of exercising our own judgment upon these important things; that there is no law to govern us religiously, outside the Bible, except our own conscience. You have been listening to the discussion for a few days in which my friend has affirmed that his denomination, or the Missionary Baptists, are the Primitive Baptists. I am now to affirm that the Regular, or Old School Baptists, commonly known and universally called by my opponent, "Hardshells," are the Primitive Baptists. I hope that you will pay respect both to the speakers and the arguments that may be introduced, the application of evidence and the general conduct of the discussion.

In the first place, I will state that I believe that God has a church in the world;-that He is the author of it Himself, through His Son;-that it was predicted by the Prophet Daniel, in the interpretation of Nebuchadnezzar's dream, when he said, "And in the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed. And the kingdom shall never be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever" - (Daniel 2:44). I believe that all Bible scholars that I have any knowledge of, on this passage of Scripture, agree that Daniel, in the Scripture, had allusion to the gospel church; and the time he alluded to was in the days of the Roman powers. Even Pedo Baptist scholars admit that this is the proper interpretation of that Scripture. I presume there will be no controversy between us as to the date of the origin of the church of God; also that we agree that it has stood from the time it was first established until now. There is one more feature that we Baptists claim, that from the time of its organization on earth, it has stood distinct and visible, until the present time. The reason we claim that is, because the prophet says it shall never be destroyed. It was said to Peter, "On this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." Any statement that may be made by any person, coming from any quarter, that would have the tendency to make the impression that the church died for a while or was entirely out, contradicts God's word. Another feature of this church is, that Jesus Christ was its only law-giver. I want all parties to pay particular attention to that feature, that Jesus Christ was its only law-giver, so that no person is to be held under obligation by the church to observe any ordinances or perform any religious services, for which there can be found no warrant in the word of God. It does not matter how great that service may seem to other people; it matters not how popular that service may be, nor how zealously its claims may be urged by its advocates as great means in the hands of the Lord to facilitate the salvation of men, if there is no intimation of such a thing in God's word, it occurs to me that a Christian might conscientiously leave it entirely outside of all the catalog of religious duties or services. We stand upon that platform. We contend that the Bible teaches all that we ought to know, believe and do religiously.

We limit our knowledge of the will of God to what the Bible says. We limit our obligations, religiously, to what the Bible requires. We believe in nothing, religiously, that we cannot find a warrant for in God's word. We believe that Jesus Christ Himself instituted the church; that it was perfect at the start, suitably adapted in its organization to every age of the world, to every locality of earth, to every state and condition of mankind, without any changes or alterations to suit the times, customs, situations and localities. We claim that a great many things change, but principles never change, that when the revelation of God was closed, that we have no right to make any demands upon the people religiously, that are not found therein.

I predicate the arguments I have just made upon the commission, recorded by (Matthew 28:19-20). "Go, ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you, and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world Amen. Now remember that here is a commission given by the Saviour, directly, to His apostles. While a great many people seem to notice the grand scope of this commission, who rejoice at the duty of conquering the world, I do also find a limitation to that commission, and it occurs to me from what I see here, that there are men that fail to see that limitation; that the minister is required to go and preach, I do not question, neither do "Hardshells," as we are called that is charged upon us by my opponent and we deny the charge. We think it is our duty to preach everywhere. We contend that it is our duty to preach to every person wherever we go; both to saint and sinner.

And we think it is the duty of the minister who has been called of God to the holy work to make this his first calling, paramount to everything else pertaining to life. It is his business to preach. Now, then, as he goes forth to teach all nations and baptize them, in addition to teaching in accordance with the commission-it says, teaching them, the people, that is teaching them whom you baptize, to observe all things that are right and expedient. No sir! What then? "All things whatsoever I have commanded you."

I wish to make a statement here. That is, it is even charged that we do not believe in good works. I stand here to speak for my people. I am going to make a proposition now and we will have opportunity perhaps to be corrected in this matter. I claim that our people do every good work, as a people, that is enjoined upon the people of God in the New Testament. If we do not, if there is anything we have overlooked, we will do it if it is pointed out to us. Brethren, are you all willing to do that?

Voices in the audience: Yes, sir; yes, sir! point it out.

Mr. Throgmorton: You have proved it, Brother Potter.

Mr. Potter: Brother Throgmorton is learning. Perhaps our brethren are as willing to do everything that the Bible says do, as any people in the world. I make this remark in order to show that the charge against us, that we do not believe in good works, is a false charge that we do everything that the New Testament enjoins upon us as Christians to do; that we do not oppose good works. If we do not, let him show us wherein we do not and we will go at it. The brethren have pledged themselves to do so. While we make this proposition I wish to quote also another text of Scripture upon which we base this principle, which will be found in Timothy somewhere. I will vouch for the quotation if it is questioned: "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." We take it for granted that all good works are to be found in the Scriptures. All the catalogue of good works are there, and if so, then those works, that are deemed to be good works, that are not to be found in the Scriptures, are entirely outside of the catalogue of good works; and we leave them entirely undone, with as clear a conscience as any other people on earth do them.

I will make a statement of our religious principles. That is this, our faith is that if the church and minister will teach exclusively what the Bible teaches, and practice just precisely what it requires, that all the good results that God intended to accomplish by the means will be brought about. That is our position. We are not uneasy for fear that the Lord will leave something back that is essential to the salvation of the people or the glory of His name.

I presume that my opponent will not deny that the church continued until the days of Constantine, or even until now. I want to show you some of its distinguishing features. You have heard a great deal said upon foreign mission work. I wish to travel out on that road and give you some of our views on that subject. Because I wish to set ourselves right before this people, on the subject of the ministry. I have objections to the foreign missionary work, not because I think it is likely to spread the gospel. That is not it. My friend urges that as our position on the foreign missionary work; that is not it. We object to it because of the plea for it. As I have clearly shown during this discussion, that it is indirectly preaching the doctrine of the universal damnation of all people that do not hear the gospel. I object to foreign mission work with that plea. I would not contribute to that sort of doctrine I think this doctrine is unscriptural and unwarranted; that God is going to damn a majority of the race of men because they do not hear the gospel. That is the very foundation of the foreign mission work, as I intend to prove before the close of this discussion. I object to it on another ground. I do not believe it is warranted in God's word. Because in order to find even a shadow of authority for it in the Scriptures its advocates say that the great commission was given to the church, instead of the apostles and ministers. Remember the position that I am here to prove is that the Missionary Baptists believe that doctrine, and that the advocates of modern missions say that the great commission was given to the church, instead of the apostles and ministers. To prove that they do put forth that claim I wish to quote from the "Great Commission and its Fulfillment by the Church," by Mr. Carpenter He says, in speaking of the great commission:

"All forms of evangelistic work and enterprise are based upon these words. (That is the words of the great commission.) Not ministers only but all Christians, ordained and unordained, male and female, old and young, are bound by them. Some can go further than others but all are to go on this errand of mercy; some are to give more than others, but all are to give, according to their ability, the means requisite for saving the lost; some are to preach officially and more regularly than others, but all are to preach in the sense of communicating saving truth to those in spiritual darkness; and all are to contribute to that great unceasing volume of earnest prayer which has only to become general and tenderly importunate to secure the salvation of a great multitude of God's elect who are now wandering unsaved on the mountains of sin in every land."

A Missionary document says that the commission is assigned not only to the ordained but the unordained, male and female; that all are bound by the words of the great commission all are to go. Some may go further than others, for the commission is given to the church and that is the meaning of the commission, that the church must send ministers abroad in obedience to the commission. The Saviour said in the commission, "Go ye into all the world He did not say "send." It would have been proper to say "send" if it was given to the church. But He said, "Go ye into all the world," talking directly to the apostles. They understood it that way and preached it that way. Turn to (Matthew 28:20):

"Then the eleven disciples went away into Galilee, into a mountain where Jesus had appointed them. And when they saw Him they worshipped Him: but some doubted. And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you. And, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen."

To whom did He speak this language? To the eleven, not to the church, but to the eleven, so says the text itself. Let us also notice (Mark 16:14-16): "Afterward He appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen Him after He was risen. And He said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." To whom was this commission given by this text? To the eleven, not for the church. The church was not included there. But He gave it to the eleven, to the apostles, to the ministry. It belongs to them. And the command of Jesus comes to the minister and tells him to go; it does not come to the church and tell her to send.

Elder Potter went on to show how that the apostles went in obedience to the command, but we have not space to give more along that line. This is abundance of proof that we are occupying the same ground on this point that the Baptists occupied then. But we wish to give another extract from this same speech. We find the following language on pages 194 and 195:

(Acts 13:1-2,3): "Now there were in the church that was at Antioch certain prophets and teachers; as Barnabas and Simeon, that were called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaen, which had been brought up with Herod the Tetrarch, and Saul. As they ministered to the Lord and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them. And when they had fasted and prayed and laid their hands on them, they sent them to school? No, not to school, "sent them away." The Lord had called them. He called upon the brethren of the ministry and they laid their hands on them and sent them away. He said, "Separate me Barnabas and Paul for the work whereunto I have called them." That is, they ordained them, if I understand it. If I am not correct in thinking that they were to be ordained, let my brother correct me. I claim they were to be ordained, and set apart for the work-that is, to the full functions of a gospel minister, because God had called them to it. "And when they had fasted and prayed and laid their hands on them, they sent them away." I know that sometimes the Missionaries claim that text.

In the next place I will ask my opponent, if he has anything to say about it, if he thinks that the whole membership of the church laid their hands on the apostles and sent them away, or was it a presbytery of ministers whose work it was to ordain them and set them apart for the work of the ministry. If not the whole church it does not suit his cause very well. The Lord had called them to the work, and instructed the brethren to separate them from the world, and "they laid their hands on them and sent them away." Was this a mission board? Is not this the way our brethren do, when the Lord calls one of our brethren to the work of the ministry? If he gives proof of his ministry among us, we believe that we are authorized by the same Spirit to ordain him and send him away. We pray and lay our hands on them, and send them away, and we implore the blessings of God upon them and upon their labors. We send them to where ever God in His providence may cast their lot. They did not send Paul to any particular place. They had no mission board, if they did travel extensively. He preached at Antioch for a long while, he labored at Antioch, Corinth, Galatia, Ephesus and other places. Still, if those brethren who laid their hands on them and sent them away designated any particular place on God's earth where they should go, the record fails to give us any account of it.

As already stated, these extracts are abundantly sufficient to show that we are occupying the same ground now we were then. We are sorry our brethren will not continue in these same principles; but by the help of the Lord we expect to remain there while our mortal life lasts. The Baptists occupied that ground when we united with them sixteen years ago, and we do not believe all of them will ever forsake those principles. The Lord has promised to never leave Himself without a witness.

Let us all try to "let brotherly love continue" by standing firm on the time-honored principles given to us by the one great King and Lawgiver, for which many of our fathers have hazarded and given their lives, sealing them with their blood. And let us also be kind and gentle, and forbearing, where and as long as forbearance is required by our King.

Brethren, pray that the Lord may sustain us and enable us to hold up the blood-stained banner of Prince Immanuel. C. H. C.

Cut Them Off

---November 21, 1905

The following was written as a private letter, but since writing it we have decided to publish the same. So much has been said lately about Scriptural authority for "cutting off" that we thought perhaps it might do no harm to call attention to this one place as pretty good authority. Many other places in God's word the same idea is taught, we think. It is true that it is painful when we cannot reclaim, or "convert," or "save" a brother from the error of his way; but when we cannot do so, there is only one thing left for us to do, if we obey the teaching of our Master, and that is to "cut off," or "withdraw." If the brother is a great man-a "hand," or "foot," or "eye" -that does not release us from the duty. May the Lord guide and direct us aright, and sustain us, and help us to contend earnestly, yet humbly, for the right way. C. H. C.

THE LETTER

ELDER W. W. POLK: Dear Brother-Your question propounded to my father, Elder S. F. Cayce in your letter mailed Aug. 5, did not reach his hands until just a few days before his death.

For myself I would say, I think the Scripture referred to {(Matthew 18:8-14)} teaches, first, that we should try to save our erring brethren from the error they may be in; and that if we fail to save them, or convert them, {(James 5:19-20)} then to "cut them off," or cast them from us. It is better to be without them, no matter how much they may be esteemed, or how important they may seem to be, than for the whole cause to be allowed to suffer on their account. It is better to lose a member who is highly esteemed by the church, than for the whole church to be led astray. Much could be written along this line, and many other passages, I think, teach this same lesson. But as the question was asked my father, I will offer only these thoughts, trusting the same may be blessed of the Lord to our benefit. Your brother in hope,
C. H. C.

Educated African Turned to Heathenism

EDUCATED AFRICAN TURNED TO HEATHENISM

---November 21, 1905

The following account of the education of a heathen and making a missionary of him, and his "falling away," was clipped from the Indianapolis (Ind.) News.

This is only one more instance, out of many, which shows the utter failure of the modern mission system to Christianize the world. The return of Wilberforce to heathenism only proves again that it is impossible for men to "bring souls to Christ." The question naturally arises, was he really regenerated? If so, did he apostatize, and go to hell? Or was he really regenerated, and a backslider? Men-made Christians often return to their former ways. But comment is unnecessary. The following is what appeared in the Indianapolis News, Aug. 12, as a special from Huntington, Ind.:

A message received in this city from the Rev. A. F. Stolts, a missionary in Freetown, West Africa, says that Daniel Flickinger Wilberforce, the educated African, whose escapades have interested the religious world, is dead. For years Wilberforce was one of the powers in the missionary field and was attached to the United Brethren church. After long service as a missionary he became a backslider and returned to heathen customs, indulging in plural marriages and other vices of heathen Africans.

His is a strange story. Nearly forty-five years ago Dr. Daniel Kumler Flickinger was secretary of the board of missions of the United Brethren church. He was a frequent visitor to the mission fields of Africa, and one day, while in the interior, learned that a baby had been born in one of the tribes. He was asked to name the baby. He christened it Daniel Flickinger Wilberforce.

MEETS THE BOY IN NEW YORK

Twelve years after the christening Dr. Flickinger was in New York packing some goods to be shipped to Africa. He was at the office of the missionary society and asked for a boy to assist him. A black youngster came forth and Dr. Flickinger asked his name.

"Daniel Flickinger Wilberforce," answered the youth.

The incident of twelve years before was recalled. The boy had come to America as a servant in a missionary's family. He had been promised an education, but his friend, the missionary, died shortly after arriving in this country. Wilberforce was adopted by the missionary society of the United Brethren church and given an education. He did much lecturing in America and accomplished a great deal of good for the cause of missions. He was sent to his native land to preach to his people. But he fell from grace. As soon as he became associated with his countrymen and their customs again he began to recede from Christian ways, and finally became a heathen and a backslider from the Christian faith. He was removed as a missionary, and the United Brethren church finally swept his name from its roster. After that he became a devil worshiper and was made a chief of one of the native tribes. He adopted every heathen custom and became thoroughly bad.

Wilberforce has two sons in this country at the present time. They are being educated at Otterbein University, Westerville, O. It is not known whether they have received word of the death of their father or not.

Sin Against The Holy Ghost

SIN AGAINST THE HOLY GHOST

---November 28, 1905

Brother C. H. Nicholas, of Arkansas, has requested us to give our views on "sinning against the Holy Ghost." A great deal has been written on this subject. Our father, Elder S. F. Cayce, wrote some editorials on the subject, which appeared in our columns some time ago, and so we do not feel like writing much now on that line. We know, too, that there is some difference of opinion among the brethren as to who it is that sins against the Holy Ghost. Some brethren have argued that the child of God is in possession of the Holy Spirit, and that, therefore, the child of God, only, can sin against the Holy Ghost; that the unregenerate (or those who are finally lost) are not in possession of the Holy Spirit, and therefore cannot sin against the Holy Ghost. We do not think this position is correct. We might give more than one reason why we do not think so. We do not think it is correct because all the sins of all God's people were laid on Christ, and He bore their sins in His own body on the tree and put them away by the sacrifice of Himself. See (Isaiah 53); (I Peter 2:24), and (Hebrews 9:26). Hence every sin they commit was laid on Christ, and He bore every one of them; so their sins are all against the Son, or the second person in the Trinity, and shall all be forgiven, on account of what He has done for them.

Again, there is one mediator between God and man, the man Christ Jesus. A mediator is one who interposes between parties who are at variance in order to reconcile them. Christ, the second person in the Trinity, interposed or came in between His people and the Father to reconcile them. He stands between them and the Father. Hence, as He interposed or came in between them, and stands between them as a mediator, all their sins fall to His account, and are not against the Holy Ghost.

Again, the Saviour said, in (Mark 3:29), "But he that shall blaspheme against the Holy Ghost hath never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal damnation." Not one of those people whose iniquities were laid on Christ is in danger of eternal damnation because He put their sins away and their sins are all forgiven because of what He has done for them. Every sin not atoned for by the blood of Christ is directly against the Holy Ghost, it not being charged to the account of Christ, and the person who commits the sin is in danger of receiving the just punishment for his sins, which is eternal damnation, or everlasting banishment from the peaceful presence of God.

The foregoing are some of our thoughts on the subject. We do not write them to call forth controversy. Neither do we give them as infallible. We realize our weakness and know very well our liability to do wrong. We have given these few thoughts for no other reason than that the brother asked for our views. May the Lord bless the same to the benefit of our readers.

We desire here to ask all to write on the things that may be a comfort and benefit and instruction to the dear children of God, and for the advancement and upbuilding of the cause, and the unifying of the brotherhood on the principles of the gospel, that there may be a oneness in the faith; and let us not strive about words to no profit. Let us all strive to "keep unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace" by writing and talking on those things that make for peace, and that will have a tendency to bring the Lord's people together in love and fellowship. Preaching the gospel will not have a tendency to divide them and destroy their fellowship. It is the preaching of something else, beside the gospel that does that.

May the Lord help us all to write and speak such things as will be for the benefit and comfort of His people. Brethren and sisters, pray for us.

C. H. C.

Luke 13:34

---December 5, 1905

Brother S. M. Hayes, of Ramsey, Ill., requests our views on the above passage of Scripture. It reads as follows: "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her brood under her wings, and ye would not."

This is the language of the Saviour, and was spoken to Jerusalem, or to national Israel. They were God's chosen people as a nation. It was not said to any of the Gentile nations around. We know this language is often quoted and applied to the alien sinner, and the argument made that Christ would save him, but that the sinner "would not." A friend once quoted this text in conversation with us to prove that the sinner had something to do. We asked if he thought the text had a universal application or was applicable to all the race. He said he thought it was to all the race. We then asked if he had ever stoned or killed a prophet, or a preacher. He promptly denied having ever been guilty of doing such a thing. We then assured him we had already found one to whom the language was not addressed. It says,

"Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee." The language is plainly addressed to Jerusalem, and they had killed and stoned the prophets. Elijah certainly realized that they had done this. Read (I Kings 19:10), "And he said, I have been very jealous for the Lord God of hosts: for the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and slain thy prophets with the sword: and I, even I only, am left; and they seek my life, to take it away." The 14th verse reads the same way.

It is very clear that the Saviour was talking to the people who were guilty of killing and stoning the prophets, and that people were Israel. The oracles of God (the law and the prophets) were committed unto the Jews, God's chosen nation. They often failed to keep the law, and the result was the curses of the law fell upon them, and they perished by the sword. Many times they killed the prophets the Lord had given and sent unto them, and they were slain by their enemies. But now one has come in the name of the Lord, who is greater than any of the prophets. That one is Christ. Just as many of them had rejected the prophets and had stoned and killed them, even so they rejected Christ, rejected His teachings, and sought to slay Him. They had been seeking His life from His birth. To this same people the Saviour said, in (Matthew 23:34-35,36), "Wherefore, behold, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: and some of them ye shall kill and crucify; and some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute them from city to city: that upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel unto the blood of Zacharias, son of Barachias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar. Verily, I say unto you, all these things shall come upon this generation." Then Matthew records the same expression of the Saviour as is found in (Luke 13:34), in nearly the same words, "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not!" -verse 37. The Saviour here tells these people that all the righteous blood shed upon the earth, from that of Abel unto Zacharias, shall come upon them, for they were doing just as their fathers had done. In the 38th and 39th verses of this same chapter, Matt 23, He says, "Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord." (Luke 13:35), gives the same expression. All the righteous blood shed upon the earth shall come upon these people, that generation to whom the Saviour was talking at that time; and now their house is left unto them desolate. They and their fathers had continued to kill and stone the prophets the Lord had sent unto them, and now their house is left desolate, on account of their rebellion and disobedience. They had refused to obey the Lord and to keep His commandments, and now they are to receive chastisement for their sins. The prophets foretold some of the misery and desolation of this same people. The Saviour refers to the prophecy of Daniel concerning these things in (Matthew 24:15). All this was literally fulfilled in the destruction of Jerusalem before that generation had passed away. Such abominations and such desolations had never been seen in all the world as were seen at the destruction of Jerusalem. Their house was left desolate in the utter destruction and entire ruin of the city of Jerusalem.

It is true, we think, that there may be an application made of the language now to the church of Christ. "Thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee." We think a church may sometimes now kill or stone the minister the Lord sends to her. We do not mean that they take his natural life, or that they stone him physically; but they may not regard him and esteem him as God's gift to them, as they should. They may cast him aside, instead of showing appreciation of him. And we think the Lord sometimes "removes the candlestick," because they "stone" His ministers. Their house is left desolate. Just as the prophets were given by the Lord to His people, the Jews, as a nation, so the true minister of the gospel is a gift of the Lord now to His church. See (Ephesians 4:11-12,13). The true minister is humble; and he will refrain from advocating things that destroy the peace of the brotherhood, and that confuse and divide the church. We should love and esteem all such ministers as this, as God's gift to us. We should not worship them, but we should love and care for them, and thank God for His having given them to us. A true minister, one given by the Lord, is not given as a ruler, or to be a ruler. He is a servant, and not a ruler. We should all try to remember this fact, as well as the other. It is not the business of the minister to make laws and regulations to govern the church. There is only one law-giver. The same one who has given the laws to govern the church, also gives ministers to them to be His and their servants. To be a servant of Christ and His church is the highest calling on earth. On the other hand, we think, it is very shameful for a minister to manifest a spirit of rule or ruin, for him to appear to have a desire to be a ruler and not a servant. When one manifests such a spirit as this, and is advocating things that are causing confusion, and will not cease doing so, the church does not violate the law or commandment of her only law-giver in rejecting that man.

In fact, the Scriptures just as plainly and positively teach us that we should reject one who does this, {see (Galatians 1:6-10)} as they teach that we should esteem that one as the gift of God, who is truly occupying the place of a servant. Let us all, who profess to be the ministers of Christ, manifest that spirit of humility which we feel in our hearts; and let us always try to advocate those things, and those only, that make for peace. If we are advocating something that the brethren will not receive, and that is causing division among them, let us cease advocating those things. Let us remember that the Lord has said, (Jeremiah 3:1), "Woe be unto the pastors that destroy and scatter the sheep of my pasture." Let us also remember to love and esteem, but not worship, the true humble cross-bearing minister, who manifests a desire to be a servant and not a ruler, who is willing to risk his cause in the hands of his brethren. May the Lord help us to remember and to consider well all these things.

The above thoughts are given to Brother Hayes, and to our readers, with the humble prayer that they may be blessed of the Lord to our good. We do not give them as being infallible, for we are as liable to err as our brethren.

Since writing the above, we notice that Brother Hayes requested that we or some of the other brethren give our views on the text. We do not desire that what we have said keep other brethren from writing on the subject. If other brethren feel like writing, we want you to be at liberty to do so.

Again we wish to ask an interest in the prayers of our readers, that the Lord may guide and direct us aright, and uphold us in contending for His truth. C. H. C.

A Debate

A DEBATE

---December 5, 1905

One year ago Elder S. F. Cayce and Elder A. Malone had agreed to debate the following propositions in the vicinity of Day's Cross Roads. Since the death of our father, the brethren in that section have requested the writer to meet Elder Malone in the proposed debate. We have agreed to do so, and the discussion is to be held at Bethany church, we think about fifteen miles from Lamentations Fayette, Tenn., and will begin (D. V) on Tuesday, Dec. 12. The following are the propositions:

Prop. 1. The Scriptures teach that sinners are regenerated, born of God, by the direct or immediate work of the Holy Spirit, independently of, or without, the written or preached word as a means in order to that end, and that too, without any agency on their part.

C. H. Cayce Affirms.

A. Malone Denies.

Prop 2. The Scriptures teach that regeneration is effected by the Holy Spirit through the instrumentality of the gospel.

A. Malone Affirms.

C. H. Cayce Denies.

Prop. 3. The Scriptures teach that all for whom Christ died will be saved in heaven.

C. H. Cayce Affirms.

A. Malone, Denies.

Prop. 4. The Scriptures teach that in the death of Christ provision was made for the salvation of all the race of Adam.

A. Malone Affirms.

C. H. Cayce Denies.

C. H. C.

Mode of Baptism

MODE OF BAPTISM

---December 12, 1905

Elder Cayce-Please give through the columns of Ten PRIMITIVE BAPTIST your views on (Matthew 3:11), and (Matthew 12:43-44,45). Do the words, "baptize you with water," mean that the element used was applied to the subject baptized, or the subject baptized applied to the element used?

The above request was on a postal card addressed to our father, Elder S. F. Cayce, and was received only a short time before his death. So we will try to comply with the request by writing a few thoughts on the mode of baptism, for it is clear that what the writer of the card wishes to know is, did John baptize by immersion, or by pouring? The text he refers to reads, "I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance: but He that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear: He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire." (Mark 1:8); (Luke 3:16), and (John 1:26), all have the same expression, "baptize with water." If one of them means that the water was applied to the subject, they all mean that. If the expression in Matthew does not mean that the water was applied to the subject, then the others do not. The expression in Matthew must of necessity mean the same as the expression in Mark, for both refer to precisely the same thing. In (Mark 1:8), John says,

"I indeed have baptized you with water." The fifth verse says, "And there went out unto him all the land of Judea, and they of Jerusalem, and were all baptized of him in the river of Jordan, confessing their sins." In the original (Greek) the same word which is translated "with" in the eighth verse-with water-is translated "in" in the fifth verse-in the river Jordan. If the expression "with water" in the eighth verse means that he applied the water to them, or that he poured or sprinkled the water on them, then the fifth verse should read, "and were all baptized of him with the river of Jordan," because the word "with" in the eighth verse and the word "in" in the fifth verse are both from precisely the same Greek word. John baptized them with the river of Jordan! How ridiculous! But it is not ridiculous if he applied the water to the subject. John baptized those people in water, for he baptized them in the river of Jordan-not with the river of Jordan, in the sense of applying the river to them. John immersed these people in Jordan. He immersed them in water. When he immersed them, they were buried and were completely covered with water. One does not have to apply the water to the subject to bury or immerse the candidate. The word "with" does not necessarily mean that the element is applied to the subject. Let us prove that. Take your knife now, and lay it down, with the blade open. Now strike the edge of the blade with your finger-that is, apply your finger to the blade with force. Now what have you done? Cut your finger? Yes. What did you cut your finger with? The knife? Certainly; but you did not apply the knife to the finger. So, the expression "with water" does not necessarily mean that the water is applied to the subject.

(John 3:23) says, "And John also was baptizing in Aenon near to Salim, because there was much water there." If baptism may be performed by pouring or sprinkling a little water on a person's head, why the necessity for "much water?" A small pitcher full of water would be an ample supply to pour or sprinkle a little on the head of a great many persons. But pouring or sprinkling is not baptism; therefore "John was baptizing in Aenon near to Salim, because there was much water there." More than a pitcher full was needed for John to administer baptism, because he did not baptize by pouring or sprinkling. Hence he did not apply the water to the subject. He was baptizing where there was much water. He was immersing the people in the pools that were in Aenon near Salim.

The word "baptize" is a Greek word, the word simply being transposed into English by changing the Greek to the English letters, the last letter being changed from the Greek "o" to the English "e." Hence the word is Greek "baptizo," which is from "baptoi" and this means "to dip, plunge, immerse. So those people were "dipped," or "plunged," or "immersed" by John in the river of Jordan, or were baptized of him in Jordan.

We do no violence to language if we take a word out of a sentence and put another word in its place that means the same thing as the word taken out. If we do this we are doing no violence, and are not changing the meaning of the sentence. The word sprinkle means "to scatter in drops or small particles." Now let us try the language, "And were all baptized of him in the river of Jordan." The sentence reads all right that way, and is found in (Mark 1:5). Remember, we do no violence by removing or taking a word out, and placing the true meaning of the word in the sentence in the place of it. So, "And were all dipped of him in the river of Jordan." The sentence still reads all right. "And were all immersed of him in the river of Jordan." It is all right yet. "And were all scattered in drops or small particles of him in the river of Jordan." The sentence is all wrong now. Why? Because baptism is not sprinkling; it is dipping, immersing. Read the account of the baptism of the eunuch in the eighth chapter of Acts and apply the same rule, and you will have it that Philip scattered the eunuch about in drops or small particles. He did not do this, but "they both went down into the water, both Philip and the eunuch," and Philip "baptized him," dipped him, immersed him.

Suppose some of your dear friends or near relatives were to die, and some person should carry their body to the cemetery and pour or sprinkle a little dirt on their head, and then say we have buried your relative or friend. Would you consider the people to be your friends who would do this? No; you would consider them as your enemies. Now read (Romans 6:4): "Therefore we are buried with Him by baptism into death." The apostle here plainly says we are "buried with Him by baptism." If we are buried by baptism, then baptism must be a burial-it must be an immersion. Anything short of a burial, therefore, is not baptism, for we are buried by it. Then as baptism is a burial, how can we claim to be Christ's friends when we say we baptize His friends who are dead to sin by sprinkling or pouring a little water on their heads? Let us prove our faith by our works. We have faith that Christ died, was buried, and rose again. Let us show that faith by being buried with Him by baptism, and arising to walk in newness of life.

Much more might be written on the subject, but lack of time forbids us writing more now. May the Lord bless these thoughts to the good of our readers, is our prayer.

C. H. C.

Close of Volume Twenty

CLOSE OF VOLUME TWENTY

---December 26, 1905

With this issue of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST another year of its publication closes. Twenty years ago the first issue of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST made its appearance at Fulton, Ky., with Elder S. F. Cayce as editor. Since then time has brought many changes. Many of the dear brethren and sisters who were readers of the paper and who wrote for its columns during that year have passed to their reward. Even during the year just now drawing to a close there have been many changes. One year ago our father, Elder S. F. Cayce, wrote the editorial, "Close of Volume Nineteen," but now his hands are still, and he writes no more for our comfort and encouragement. Others, too, have been called to their reward during the past year, who have written for our paper, and whose writings were able and comforting, and whose names will be missed from the pages of our paper for perhaps years to come. We wish here to give an extract from the pen of our father in his editorial one year ago, in the close of volume nineteen:

Another year with all its sorrows, disappointments, mournings of soul and bleedings of heart, as well as its joys, pleasures, gladness of heart and rejoicing of soul, has past and gone, and the year 1904 will have passed before another issue of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST reaches your homes. Not only so, but we are all, both editors and publishers, and readers, one year nearer the end of our pilgrimage on earth. As the year 1904 has passed and all the occurrences and happenings of same are, or soon will be, numbered with the things of the past, so also will we all soon be numbered with the dead; the times and places that know us now, will soon know us no more forever. Many who wrote for the columns of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST during the first year of its publication, 1886, and many dear brethren and sisters who were readers of our first volume have stepped off the stage of action, been called to try the realities of a world unknown to us; their souls being present with the Lord and their bodies being asleep in Jesus. Every year only brings us that much nearer the end of our journey, or stay in this world. How careful, therefore, we all ought to be, to make good use of our time and talents while life lasts. Little did we realize one year ago that our father was so near the end of his journey, and that we would soon be deprived of reading his able writings, and of hearing his sweet preaching, and having his able service in defending the blessed cause of our heavenly Master. But the Lord has called him to Himself, and he is now resting from his labors, and much of the great burden has fallen on us, and our humble desire is to fight a good fight and to keep the faith. The faith that was once delivered to the saints still remains the same, and we believe THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST has contended for that faith all of the past twenty years, and it is our humble desire that if the writer lives and continues to edit the paper for the next twenty years that it may still be said that the paper is the same in doctrine as it was at the first. In regard to the principles and doctrine, we wish to give another extract from the same editorial by Elder S. F. Cayce, as published last year. The extract was in close of volume eighteen and copied last year:

The doctrine of God our Saviour is the same now that it was then, and we love, have tried to preach, defend and publish the same "doctrine-on all parts of the ground" -during our eighteenth volume (now nineteenth) that we did during our first volume, or that we did eighteen (now nineteen) years ago. But while this is true, "as true as gospel." so to speak, and while it is also true that the doctrine which we try to preach, and are publishing abroad, the doctrine believed and advocated by all true Primitive Baptists, the doctrine of God our Saviour-we might say-will stand as unsullied truths "amidst the wreck of worlds and the crush of nature" yea, stand untarnished after everything else, as we humbly believe, has failed, yet we feel that we will soon be done battling for these blessed truths, that we will soon have to "lay our armor by," that our race is almost run, that we will soon reach the end of our journey, that all our labors will soon be numbered with the things of the past, for we have reached and passed over the top of the hill of life and are fast going down, as it were, on the other side. Besides our physical frame and constitution has been greatly impaired by the ravages of disease, having passed through three or four very long spells, or attacks of sickness. Hence we desire to be faithful in the discharge of our duties what little time remains for us to spend in the service of God, and in trying to serve His people.

We humbly ask the prayers of all our readers that the Lord may enable us to continue to contend earnestly for the holy principles of the doctrine of God our Saviour, and never bring reproach on the cause of our heavenly Master.

Our father lived to see THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST established on a firm basis, although he was not out of debt, and we can say that the financial condition of the paper is better at the close of this year than it has been for many years-at least we think it is, and we trust the brethren will continue to lend us their patronage and support. We will certainly appreciate it for any of our brethren to send as many new subscribers for the paper as possible. And we also hope the brethren will renew promptly. There are a great many of our subscribers whose time expires with this issue, and we trust you will all renew promptly. Again we ask an interest in your prayers, and ask you all who feel impressed to do so to write for the paper on such things as will have a tendency to make for peace. C. H. C.

1906

Introduction to Volume Twenty-One

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME TWENTY-ONE

---January 9, 1906

It is with a deep-felt sense of our insufficiency for the task that we enter the present year in editing and publishing THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. We feel our inability to even write a proper introductory to the present volume. With this issue of the paper it enters the twenty-first volume. For twenty years the paper has been published and sent to its readers, and it now enters its twenty-first year. Many joys and pleasures, as well as many trials and sorrows, have been passed through during these twenty years. It was with a feeling of great comfort and satisfaction in his heart when the first issue of the paper was sent out twenty years ago by our dear father, Elder S. F. Cayce. From that time until his death on the 27th of last August he was the editor of the paper. In all those years he earnestly and fearlessly contended for the everlasting principles of the faith that was once for all delivered unto the saints. He feared no man. He unflinchingly contended for what he believed to be right, with the single aim to be obedient and faithful to his heavenly Master. The following extract is taken from the introduction to volume twenty, which he wrote one year ago:

Our custom is to give an editorial "Introductory" with the beginning of each volume, and we suppose our readers will expect it with the beginning of this, the twentieth, volume, or year, of our publication. We began editing and publishing THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST Jan. 1, 1886, nineteen years ago; hence we begin, with this issue, our twentieth volume; but, though this be true, we feel our weakness and inability, and the great responsibility resting upon us, as editor of a religious periodical, as forcibly, perhaps, as we ever have in life. An old adage, as we all know, is that "practice makes perfect." But this does not seem true with us in editing and publishing an Old Baptist paper. No more so than in preaching. It seems that we feel, with regard to preaching the gospel or editing a religious paper, like David, (Psalms 139:6), that "Such knowledge is too wonderful for me; it is high, I cannot attain unto it." But, while we feel inadequate to the task-altogether incompetent-so far as our own power or ability is concerned-to either preach the gospel-orally-or to edit and publish a Baptist periodical, yet we feel impressed to try, in our weakness, to do both, and feel also that, if not deceived, our impressions are of the Lord. Not only so, but we look to Him-to Him who is the giver of every good and perfect gift, the author and finisher of our faith, the upholder, protector and preserver of His people-to strengthen, guide and direct us in our efforts. And, in this connection, we do most sincerely ask and request all our readers-all our dear brethren and sisters in the Lord-to pray for us. Will you, dear kindred in Christ, pray the good Lord to be with us, not only in the introduction, or beginning, of this year's work, but through the entire year? Pray Him to so strengthen and guide us by His Spirit, that we may be enabled not only to preach the gospel of Christ to the comfort, instruction, development and upbuilding of His dear children; but that we may also be enabled to edit and publish THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST through the year 1905-if indeed our life should be spared-in such a manner that it will prove a greater blessing to the people of God than ever before.

If Elder S. F. Cayce felt his weakness and inability to properly edit and conduct THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, it is no wonder we realize our insufficiency for the task. We realize the great responsibility, especially in these perilous times, that rests upon us in editing THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, as well as in preaching. It is a grave responsibility that rests upon an editor and upon a minister of the gospel. He is responsible to God, the Creator of all this vast universe, not only for what he teaches, but also for the way he teaches. We realize that we are under obligation to God to earnestly contend for the truth, the doctrine of God our Saviour, and that we are as much required to contend in meekness as we are required to contend for the truth. "In meekness instructing those that oppose themselves," is the instruction given by the inspired apostle. We humbly ask all our readers to pray the Lord to guide and direct us by the sweet influence of His Holy Spirit, so that we may be enabled to heed this admonition of the apostle, and that we may be kept humble, with a desire to live at the feet of our brethren. Just here we want to say that a number of years ago we thought the Old Baptist Church was so far beneath us that we could never condescend to go down to where it was and live with its members.

But a change was wrought. There was no change wrought in or with the church. The Old Baptist Church stands now on the same high plane it has ever occupied. The blessed King and only Law-Giver established His kingdom in the top of the mountains, far above all the kingdoms of this world, and the promise of Jehovah was that it should not be left to another people, and that it should not be broken or destroyed. It has continued to occupy the same high position all along the line. The change was wrought with us, and then we realized that the church was so far above us as to cause us to feel that we would never be able to climb up to where it was and ask for a home there. Never, since then, have we felt that we have been sufficiently exalted as to be able to elevate the church. But we do feel a great desire that the brethren would reach down to where we are and lift us up high enough for us to be at their feet, and let us live there while our stay on earth lasts. Dear brethren, will you please hold us up in your prayers, and help us live in such a way as to honor and glorify our heavenly Master?

No doubt we will make mistakes. We know we are weak and liable to err. If we do err and make mistakes, please do not be hurt or wounded, but throw the mantle of charity over our imperfections and watch over us for good. If you see a mistake in us, please do not take it to others, but come to us with it and show us our wrong, and we will do our best to correct it and make amends for it.

It is our desire that THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST be a comfort and benefit to every lover of truth, and to that end we desire to contend for the ancient landmarks. We do not wish to introduce anything new among God's people, and thereby cause strife, confusion and discord in the church. God forbid that we should ever do so. "Woe be unto the pastors that destroy and scatter the sheep of my pasture!" is the sentence pronounced on such by the God of the whole earth. We desire to publish only such things as will have a tendency to bind the brethren together in love and fellowship on the true principles of the gospel. "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." There is nothing more pleasant than for brethren to dwell together in unity; and there is nothing more unpleasant and disagreeable than for brethren to dwell together in strife and confusion. It is unpleasant for people to dwell together where there is not unity. If the time ever comes that we cannot dwell in the Old Baptist Church in unity with them, we will not stay with them and destroy their peace and happiness-at least we do not now think we would do so. With these desires and intentions before us we enter upon the arduous task before us in editing and publishing the twenty-first volume of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, and again ask an interest in the prayers of all our readers.

C. H. C.

The Black Rock Address

THE BLACK ROCK ADDRESS

---January 6, 1906

For some time we have noticed that some of the brethren who are advocating the idea that the commission was given to the church seem to take great delight in quoting a part of a sentence from the address of the Black Rock convention of 1832. For this reason we thought it might be profitable to give space in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST for the entire address. We earnestly request all our readers to study the address carefully, and see for yourselves what those brethren believed.

The sentence, or part of the sentence, that some brethren have been quoting so much of late is, "The Lord has manifestly established the order, that His ministers should be sent forth by the churches" Now, this expression, taken alone, would make it appear that the brethren believed the obligation of the commission rested on the church, when they believed no such thing. That they did not believe it is very apparent from this expression contained in the address: We will now call your attention to the subject of missions. Previous to stating our objections to the mission plans, we will meet some of the false charges brought against us relative to this subject, by a simple and unequivocal declaration, that we do regard as of the first importance the command given of Christ, primarily to His apostles, and through them to His ministers in every age, to "Go into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature, and do feel an earnest desire to be found acting in obedience thereunto, as the providence of God directs our way, and opens a door of utterance for us." Please study the address carefully. It is directly opposed to the very thing these brethren are now teaching who argue that the commission was given to the church, and that the church should send the gospel. Note, also, that they say, "Formerly not only did preachers feel themselves bound to devote a part of their time to traveling and preaching among the destitute, but the people also among whom they came dispensing the word of life, felt themselves bound to contribute something to meet their expenses. These were the days when Christian affections flowed freely." This was "formerly" -before the mission spirit was among them-before the idea sprang up among them of sending the gospel. Christian affections flowed freely then.

So would they flow freely now if brethren would leave off advocating such things.

Please also study that part of the address relative to making associations a kind of legislative body. Read it over two or three times, and see now that corresponds with the federal government idea suggested, and which was advocated in St. Louis, and which is now advocated in a paper at Fulton, Ky. The Black Rock brethren positively and fully condemn such a move, and let us know they have no fellowship for it.

Another point some have been saying a great deal about is bars to fellowship. It is plainly seen that in this address these brethren have put up a strong bar to fellowship against some of the very things being advocated now. How can the brethren who are advocating those departures, and are raising such a cry against "bars" claim to be in line with those Black Rock brethren? The claim is absurd, as any unprejudiced person can readily see if they will study the matter carefully.

Again, we would ask the question, "Who are the Primitive Baptists?" If those brethren assembled at Black Rock were Primitive Baptists, so are we who propose to do as they did-withdraw from those who are advocating and teaching such things as are contrary to the things they taught.

May the Lord help us all to stand firmly on primitive grounds, and to be humble and faithful, and to be honest in all our dealings, is our prayer.

C. H. C.

Why We Baptize Them

WHY WE BAPTIZE THEM

---January 16, 1906

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Sir and Brother-Why do we baptize Missionaries and Methodists, and what Scripture have we, as Primitive Baptists, to do such things? Please answer me through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST or by letter.

Yours truly,

ELDER I B. BARREL

321 Windelkin St., Dallas, Texas.

In answer to the above question we would say, first, that baptism is administered by the servant of Christ, or minister of the gospel, who has been called of God and set apart by the authority of the church of Christ, or come under the imposition of hands of a presbytery.

Baptism must be administered by one who has been set apart by the church to the work whereunto God has called him, if it be gospel baptism. "As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them. And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away. So they, being sent forth by the Holy Ghost, departed unto Seleucia; and from thence they sailed to Cyprus." - (Acts 13:2-4). Here we have the called ministers of Christ set apart by the church for the work whereunto the Lord had called them. It is a part of the work of the ministry to administer the ordinances. Those who are commanded to teach, as ministers of the gospel, are the same who are to baptize. "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." -(Matthew 28:19,20). In this text the same persons who are commanded to go teach are also commanded to baptize. It is the work of the ministry to go teach the things concerning the kingdom of Christ, and it is the work of those who teach these things to baptize those who are taught. The Primitive Baptists are the only people, in our judgment, who are teaching as Christ commanded. They are teaching the true doctrine of God our Saviour. Those who are teaching that doctrine are commanded to baptize. Hence, the Primitive Baptist ministers are the persons who are authorized by the Saviour to administer baptism. Others are not teaching the doctrine of God our Saviour, are not teaching the things commanded by the Saviour, so are not authorized by Him to administer baptism. If they baptize, it is without the authority of Christ. Baptism administered without the authority of Christ is not gospel baptism. This is a good reason why Primitive Baptists do not receive the baptism administered by Methodists, Missionary Baptists, or other people. We do not think the doctrine or principles they hold to and teach are true, and the baptism they administer is no better than the doctrine they teach.

"And I appoint unto you a kingdom, as my Father hath appointed unto me; that ye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel." -Luke 22:29,30. The Saviour has appointed a kingdom for His people here in the world, that they may have a blessed home here on earth, that they may eat and drink at His table in His kingdom. His kingdom is only one. He did not appoint kingdoms, but a kingdom-only one. "There are three-score queens, and four-score concubines, and virgins without number. My dove, my undefiled is but one; she is the only one of her mother, she is the choice one of her that bare her." - Solomon's (Song of Solomon 6:8-9). The church of Christ is but one. There are many institutions, but of all the institutions in the world, only one is the church of Christ. The Saviour has never authorized the queens nor concubines nor the virgins to administer the ordinances of His house. These queens, concubines and virgins represent the many institutions that are in the world. Jesus has never commanded that His ordinances be administered in these institutions. His love, His dove, His undefiled, is but one. That is His church or kingdom, which is but one. He has authorized and commanded that His ordinances be administered in this one kingdom. They cannot be administered elsewhere so that they will be recognized or approved by Him. He does not approve of anything being done in a place where He has not commanded. We think the Primitive Baptist Church is the true church of Christ, the kingdom He set up while He was on earth. If it is, then that is the place where the ordinances are to be administered. This is another reason why we do not accept the baptism administered by other people. If the Primitive Baptist Church is the church of Christ, the others are not. If any of the others are the church of Christ, then the Primitive Baptist Church is not the church of Christ.

"Wherefore, my brethren, ye are also become dead to the law by the body of Christ; that ye should be married to another, even to Him who is raised from the dead, that we should bring forth fruit unto God" -Rom. vii. 4. Those who are dead to the law are those who have been born again. They are dead to the law, and they should now be married to Christ. In order that they be married to Christ the marriage ceremony must be performed by one who has the proper authority to perform it. If two people desire to marry, in order that they carry out the desire, they must have the ceremony performed by one who is authorized to do so. They may get a good man to pronounce the ceremony for them, but unless he has the proper authority, the marriage would not be legal. It would make no difference how good the man may be who pronounces the ceremony, his goodness and honesty, or sincerity, would not make the marriage legal. To be married to Christ, the rite must be performed by one authorized to perform it. Baptism is the ceremony, or the rite, by which God's people are married to Christ. It is the work of the ministry who are set apart by His church to administer baptism, they are the persons who are authorized to administer the ordinance. They are the only persons who can perform the marriage ceremony. Others may go through the form, but it is not recognized by the Saviour. The form may be all right, but a form without reality or authority is without value. So the baptism administered by others is without authority, hence without value, so far as the true church of Christ is concerned.

These are some of the reasons why we Primitive Baptists do not recognize the baptism administered by other people. Many other reasons and Scriptural proof texts could be given, but want of time and space forbid us writing more at present. We pray that these few thoughts may be blessed of the Lord to the benefit of our readers. This is written while we are at the home of Brother Jackson Denmark, near Groveland, Ga. We left home one week ago today, and have met some good humble brethren here in Georgia. We find them here who are standing firmly on the time honored principles of the fathers, contending for the ancient landmarks, and who love the good old way, though there are some few in this country, as in our own, who do not seem to be perfectly satisfied with the church as it came to us from the fathers. May the Lord sustain us all, and keep us by His grace, and help us to walk in the good way and find sweet rest to our souls, and thereby let brotherly love continue, and fellowship abound throughout the borders of our beloved Zion. Brethren, pray for us.
C. H. C.

Baptists in Georgia

BAPTISTS IN GEORGIA

---January 23, 1906

At this writing, on Friday, Jan. 12, we are at the home of Brother L. M. Lanier, near Pembroke, Bryan county, Ga. We left our home two weeks ago today, and arrived in Statesboro a little after night on Saturday.

On Sunday we attended a general meeting at Upper Mill Creek Church. It was a three days meeting, and began on Friday. There were quite a number of brethren present on Sunday, but not more than half as many as would have been there had the weather been fair that day. It was a rainy day, and the weather very unfavorable, and a goodly number were present, considering the inclemency of the weather. Since we left the general meeting we have visited eleven other churches. We have found many good humble brethren and sisters who love the doctrine of God our Saviour, and who are contending for the ancient order of the gospel, and who are content to be plain Old Baptists; and they want to hold to the ancient order of the gospel and to the principles that have ever characterized the church of Christ as a people separate from the world. Elder F. H. Sills, of Model, Tenn., was at the general meeting mentioned, and has been with us during these two weeks. We have appreciated his company and association.

The brethren have all been kind and good to us, and we have been heartily received by them. We do pray that the Lord may bless our visit among them, and help us to preach to their comfort and encouragement. We ask an interest in the prayers of our readers. Pray the Lord to bless us in ministering to His people, and pray for our loved ones at home, that the Lord may sustain them and keep them from harm in our absence. C. H. C.

BROTHER SIDWELL'S LETTER

---February 20, 1906

In another column in this issue of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST is a letter from Brother I D. Sidwell, of Woodson, Mo., in which he expresses the idea that the ministers always get all the temporal things they need. We trust Brother Sidwell will not become offended at us if we offer a few words of warning on this point. Remember, dear brother, that it is possible for us to go to an extreme on either side of this question. We do not think it will do to say that all our ministers are neglected, and that they do not have the necessary carnal things administered to them; we think some of them are well cared for. Neither do we think it correct to say that all of them have all the necessaries of life ministered to them. If they do, then the church always does her duty in this respect, and we think it is possible for a church to fail to do her duty in this particular, as well as in other matters. So, we think that our poor and afflicted ministers-especially the pastors-are sometimes neglected by the churches or brethren. While this is true, we do not feel like condemning our brethren on this account. The Old Baptists are the best people in the world, and there is no people on earth who are more willing to do their duty than the Old Baptists, when they understand what their duty is. It may be that some of our brethren in the ministry fail to teach the brethren their duty along this line, and then the brethren fail to do their duty because they have not been taught what that duty is; and in such cases the minister is at fault and the brethren are not. We do not think a salaried or contract system is Scriptural, and such a system should not be taught by the ministers or tolerated by the churches, and the duty of the minister is to kindly warn his brethren against the evils of such a system. At the same time, the Scriptures abundantly teach that it is the duty of the church, the duty of the brethren, to minister of their carnal things to those who minister spiritual things to them, and the minister is under obligation to lovingly and kindly teach this duty. It is just as much right that he teach this duty as it is right for him to teach the people of God any other duty. So far as we are concerned we have no complaint to make against our brethren. We feel that our efforts among them in ministering spiritual things are poor and weak, but they have been good and kind to us. We do not feel to be worthy of their love and esteem and sweet fellowship, and we have not written these things because we feel they have not been good to us, for we do not feel to deserve the many acts of kindness they have shown to us in the many different places where we have been among them; but we want to kindly and lovingly ask our dear brethren to be conservative and not go to an extreme either way. Let us try to be found contending lovingly for the right way. We should be careful and not go to an extreme on one side just because some go to an extreme on the other side. May the Lord direct us aright, and keep us humble and at the feet of our brethren, in the "good way," is our prayer.

C. H. C.

Some Plain Facts

SOME PLAIN FACTS

---February 27, 1906

For some time we have been in possession of some plain facts which we felt the brethren everywhere should know, but we have waited quite a while withholding them, in the vain hope that the Elders Kirkland, and those who are with and following them, would abandon or cease advocating the principles they have been teaching, and which are dividing the Baptists; but as it clearly appears that they are determined not to do this, we have decided, after prayerful consideration, that we should make these things known to the brethren generally. We are indeed sorry that circumstances are such as to call forth from us statements concerning these things, but we love the cause of Christ more than we love any man, and we feel under obligation to the Lord to tell our brethren of some things they may not be aware.

As some of our readers know, Elder J. V Kirkland started a paper last fall at Fulton, Ky., called the Apostolic Herald. In this paper he has been defending his positions previously taken, that the Baptists should have a federal form of government, that the commission was given to the church, that it is the duty of the ministry to admonish the alien sinner to repent and believe the gospel, and that the Baptists should tolerate affiliation with the institutions of the day, etc. He has also raised a great cry against bars to fellowship, and has said that we have gone contrary to the advice of the brethren who met at Fulton, Ky., in 1900.

With reference to the question of bars, we will say that Elder J. C. Ross, of Greenfield, Tenn., who was in the meeting at Fulton, has already written an article on that question, and we wish to say only a few words on that matter, but will quote the following language from the general address of that meeting:

We do most solemnly and prayerfully beseech all our churches and people that they raise no bars of fellowship against any Primitive Baptist with whom they are agreed on fundamental principles—such as the eternal salvation of sinners, wholly by grace and entirely unconditional on the sinner's part, and who are sound and orderly in the ordinances of the church, administering baptism by immersion to penitent believers only by ministers of the gospel clothed with authority by the gospel church, and administering the Lord's supper to such baptized believers only, and who manifest a willingness to labor for the peace, union and fellowship of the whole body.

Heresy being so positively forbidden by the Scriptures, we deem it important to have a clear, accurate, and concise understanding of what the word implies. We take heresy to mean a departure from the teachings of the Scriptures as explained in our acknowledged Confession of Faith, but not mere differences of opinion upon immaterial points of doctrine and practice upon which the Bible makes no positive statements.

The Bible does not state the day nor the hour upon which members shall be received in the church, nor the Lord's supper administered. It mentions neither hymn books, associations, formal letter correspondence, nor general hand shaking. So upon all such matters liberty should be allowed, provided that everything is done in decency and in order, and the books used are sound in sentiment.

No doctrine or practice that violates neither the Scriptures nor acknowledged confession should be construed as heresy. The treatment of heresy requires but little comment. The Bible plainly states that a heretic, after the first and second admonition, shall be rejected, {(Titus 3:10)} but let it be fully known that an action or doctrine is heresy before action is taken against it. We deem it unsafe to deal with a man as a heretic unless he avows the heresy.

In the first paragraph quoted above we are asked to not declare non-fellowship for any who contend for certain principles, "And who manifest a willingness to labor for the peace, union, and fellowship of the whole body." This is manifestly one thing Elder Kirkland has not done. Instead of manifesting a willingness to labor for peace, he has all along stoutly continued to advocate measures and principles that were causing confusion and discord among the churches and brethren. He has done this, too, when brethren were lovingly and humbly begging him to cease advocating those things. A certain person, whose name we can give if necessary, and who is very close to Elder J. V Kirkland, said in Martin, while at the home of the writer, concerning some of the things Elder Kirkland is advocating: "He has not been a month or a year getting this up, he has been studying it for years; and you need not think he will quit advocating it, for he will not do it. He always has had followers, and he will have them this time." The person who said this was then, and is yet, in a position to know. This all shows he was not laboring for peace, but for followers. As to heresy, the address, as quoted above, says, "We take heresy to mean a departure from the teachings of the Scriptures as explained in our acknowledged Confession of Faith," etc. Elder Kirkland's teaching is "a departure from the teaching of the Scripture as explained in our acknowledged Confession of Faith," so it must be heresy. He has repeatedly expressly avowed those principles. So we took the advice of the general address, as quoted above-" The Bible plainly states that a heretic, after the first and second admonition, shall be rejected."

Before Elder Kirkland began the publication of the Apostolic Herald he sent out a circular letter, a copy of which was sent to us by Elder P. E. Whitwell, of Bennett, Mo. The following is a copy of said circular letter:

Dear Brother-You doubtless have noticed that the union meeting at Martin, Tenn., has dropped the church at Fulton, Ky., from the union for reasons, as they stated them, which are trifling and foolish, and in open violation of what we all agreed upon in the National Convention at Fulton, Ky., in 1900.

After asking me to not agitate the question discussed at the St. Louis meeting, but to let everything get quiet and save a division of our people, and I had held up in hope of saving a division, they have gone right on with all the opposition against us, and by private manipulations have induced the churches to drop us and break our fellowship, which shows clearly that they were not aiming to avoid the division, but trying to make it small on our side.

Now, I am fully decided to begin the publication of a paper, not through revenge at all, but in defense of our cause against these awful abuses, and, if possible, avert this dreadful combination, which seems bent on the destruction of a number of ministers in our denomination who are full of light and piety, and on whom much of the success of our cause depends. If they are allowed to take them, one at a time, and can keep the rest quiet, they can, and no doubt will, continue to, in some way, drive them from our Zion, and destroy their usefulness to our blessed cause. They cannot now say that I will cause a division by starting a paper, since they have forced the division, while we were all laying quietly and begging for peace. It will not only tend to stop the division, and if that is impossible, it will unite all of us who are for peace on fundamental principles, and make our side of the division larger. I am sure if something is not done to avert this destructive influence, that it will completely discourage our people, and bring us to desolation. I have received letters from brethren in all directions since the union meeting at Martin, expressing sympathy for us, and stating that they will not recognize the action of that union meeting.

At a union meeting in the Forked Deer Association, which convened with a church that I am pastor of, and where the pastor of the church where the union is held is the moderator of the union there was a persistent effort made to knock me out of the moderatorship of the union. Elder Cayce and four other preachers, who took part in the union at Martin, were present, and used their influence against me, but they made a complete failure; and their effort initiated in my favor and against them. The church unanimously voted for me to start a paper at once to defend the cause against those dreadful abuses, and they voted a donation of $17.35 to help in starting the paper, and almost every family represented in the church subscribed for the paper. I received a letter from a brother in Mississippi last evening, who said that he would subscribe $100.00 for the support of the paper, and named four more members of his church that would give $25.00 each. I believe that our people are ready for the paper, and will lend a helping hand, and sustain it. I feel assured in my soul that God will bless it to the good of our afflicted cause and the glory of His matchless name.

I think I will call the paper the Apostolic Herald. I aim to start it at once. The price will be $1.00 per annum. You will please do all you can for it, and send me as large a list of subscribers as possible.
Yours in hope, J. V KIRKLAND.

We have already shown that our dropping Fulton church from our union was not a violation of the advice or agreement of the Fulton meeting.

It will be noticed in the above that Elder Kirkland says he had held up in hope of saving a division. To this we would say he had not held up. He has all the while since the St. Louis meeting been defending and contending for those same principles, by private correspondence, and would not agree to cease advocating them. Elder J. N. Wallace, of Providence, Ky., and others wrote him a number of letters begging him to just say he would quit advocating those things, and he would not agree to do so. Again he says they "were all laying quietly and begging for peace." As Elder Kirkland said in the pulpit in our church here in Martin, "I would not be afraid to have my cause plead before intelligence; if it were, I am sure it would be sustained, but if it were plead before ignorance and superstition I am sure it would be rejected," we will not assume to criticize his grammar, but will simply say he surely knows that the brethren who oppose those measures he has been advocating were the ones who did the begging, and he has positively been deaf to their pleadings. Then as to their being quiet, will say he was quiet so far as the columns of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST were concerned, for the simple reason that our father, Elder S. F. Cayce, who was editing the paper, refused to publish more in defense of those principles. At the time the discussion was stopped through our paper Elder Kirkland had no right to complain, as some brethren were deprived of the opportunity of replying to some things he had said, yet he sent us one or two more long articles in defense of his position, one of the articles having fifty-four pages of note paper, closely written. So it is clear that he was not "holding up" because he was desiring peace, but because we wanted peace, and would no longer give space in our columns for the things that were destroying peace.

Note again that he urges in this circular letter that the starting of his paper "will unite all of us who are for peace on fundamental principles, and make our side of the division larger." This clearly shows again his determination to have followers-make his side of the division larger. How can a man truthfully say he loves peace, and wants peace, and desires no division, and at the same time begin the publication of a paper with the avowed purpose of making a division larger? We leave the question for our readers to answer for themselves. As to uniting those who are for peace on fundamental principles, we suppose the fundamental principles are the "vital" measures advocated and proposed at St. Louis, as the purpose of the paper is to make the division larger.

With reference to the union meeting in the Forked Deer Association, we will say that Elder J. B. Halbrog, of Greenfield, Tenn., was moderator of that meeting. The circular letter, it is plainly seen, conveys the idea that Elder Kirkland moderated, which is a wrong impression. The union accomplished all they desired-that some one other than Elder Kirkland be put in the moderator's seat, and that was done.

On Friday before the second Sunday in October we were at the Soldier Creek Association in Kentucky. Elder J. V. Kirkland was there. At our association the year before Elder Kirkland agreed to bear our correspondence to the Soldier Creek at the above time. Then before he went to the Soldier Creek Association his church had been dropped from our union meeting on Friday before the fifth Sunday in July. Not only so, but his church had by her own act withdrawn from our union and association. Yet, notwithstanding all this, when they called for the correspondence from our association, Elder Kirkland promptly arose and read our letter, which was printed in our minutes, and had his name enrolled on their minutes as a messenger from our association. Now, you may draw your own conclusion as to an action of this kind.

On our way home from this association we were thrown in company with Elder J. N. Hall, who was editor of the Baptist Flag, and who lived in Fulton, Ky. We remembered having read an editorial in the Flag with reference to the Elders Kirkland, so we determined to question Elder Hall. We asked him if he had held any conferences with them, and if it was no secret we would like to know if he knew anything about their intentions. He very promptly told us that he had several conferences with them, and that so far as he was concerned it was no secret; that they had told him they felt that they should be engaged in preaching the gospel to the lost, but that they could get no hearing among our people (the Primitive Baptists) and could have no cooperation among them in that work; and that they felt that they would like to be represented where they could have a hearing and cooperation in that work. Elder Hall stated that he and they were agreed in being opposed to the board system. He also said that it had been his expectation that they would represent in their meeting in the fall at Texarkana, which was an anti-board Missionary meeting; but that he did not know Elder Kirkland's intention since he had started his paper; that he might conclude he could be heard sufficiently through that. All of this plainly shows the movement which has been on foot to unite the Primitive Baptists with the anti-board faction of the Missionaries. It would be a blessing to the cause of Christ if those who are advocating those departures would leave the Old Baptists in peace and go on to the Missionaries where they belong. Now, in support of what we say Elder Hall told us, we here give the editorial from the Flag of Aug. 24, 1905:

In Hardshell circles we are having some interesting developments. It is known pretty generally that Elders J. V and R. S. Kirkland are about the most active and able preachers of that denomination in the South, if not in the whole country. These two brethren have fully reached the conclusion that their people are not doing their duty in refusing to send the gospel to lost sinners, and they are not willing to sit down and whine over the doctrine of unconditional election and predestination while sinners are going to hell. This has enraged a big portion of the "Can't-help-its" until they are determined to kick the Kirklands and their followers entirely out. But the Kirklands are not losing much sleep over the situation, for they know they are merely aiming to do the will of the Lord. God bless them in this noble purpose.

This editorial from the Flag very clearly establishes our statement, and has never been denied by Elders Kirkland. We have patiently looked for a denial from them, but have never seen it.

Now, these are plain statements of facts. We do not publish these things to persecute anyone. It is not persecution to tell the truth on anyone. We feel that the cause demands that the brotherhood know these things. It is not pleasant to be engaged in affairs of this kind, and we hope it will not be necessary for us to take the matter up again.

May the Lord give us all grace and courage and Christian fortitude to enable us to stand firmly against all innovations and to expose all error, from whatever source it may come, and may the Lord deliver us from ever introducing things among His people to the destruction of their peace and fellowship.

We are now in Southwest Georgia. We have been from home now seven weeks in this state, and have met many good, humble and faithful brethren who are standing firmly with us on the time honored principles of the Baptists. We feel greatly encouraged. May the Lord be praised, and may He help us to continue in the path our fathers trod. Brethren, pray for us.

C. H. C.

John 10:12

(John 10:12)

---March 13, 1906

Brother T. G. Bridges, of Crump, Tenn., asks for our views on this text; he asks, "Does the wolf catch the hireling or the sheep?" The 11th, 12th and 13th verses of the chapter read as follows: "I am the good Shepherd; the good Shepherd giveth His life for the sheep. But he that is an hireling, and not the Shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth: and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep. The hireling fleeth, because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep." The hireling sees the wolf coming and he runs away. When the wolf gets there the hireling is not there to be caught. If he was there, the wolf is not after the hireling. The wolf is after the sheep. When the wolf comes, the hireling runs away, and the wolf catches what he wants-sheep. "The wolf catcheth them" The word "them" is a personal pronoun and must have an antecedent, and must agree with its antecedent. "Them" is in the plural number, denoting more than one. "Hireling" is in the singular number; hence it cannot refer to the hireling. If the hireling were caught, the language must read "catcheth him, and scattereth the sheep," but it says "catcheth them." The true meaning of the text is that the hireling runs away and leaves the sheep at the mercy of the wolf, and we know the wolf has no mercy, so he catches and scatters the sheep-he "catcheth them (the sheep) and scattereth (them) the sheep" C. H. C.

Home From Georgia

HOME FROM GEORGIA

---March 20, 1906

We arrived home from our tour in Georgia on Monday night, March 12, at midnight. We were gone from home on this tour ten and one-half weeks. We missed four appointments in that time on account of bad weather, and traveled about 3,000 miles. We met many good brethren and sisters, who were kind to us, and who tried to make our stay among them pleasant. We shall ever remember their many acts of kindness. We were heartily received, and the brethren generally, so far as we know, endorsed our feeble efforts in trying to preach Jesus as a full and complete Saviour of sinners, and in trying to contend for the sufficiency of His kingdom as He left it here on earth as a home for His humble children while they stay here. We had much to comfort and encourage us on the way. Many of the dear brethren assured us of their endorsement of our positions, and that we should have their hearty cooperation in extending the circulation of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST in that country.

The lists of appointments that were published in our columns for us will show that we were at quite a number of churches. We believe we missed only two or three of the places entirely. We met many dear brethren in the ministry, and were treated kindly by all of them. We had a pleasant tour, and we wish each one we met to accept this as a personal letter to them, and as an expression of our heart-felt thanks for the many kindnesses shown to us while we were among you. The brethren and sisters were all kind and good to us, and we have no complaint to make. We felt to be so unworthy of the love and kindness manifested to us. May the Lord bless every one of you, is our humble prayer. We trust the Lord may open a way for us to visit you all again at some time in the future. But if we meet no more on earth, we hope to meet you where sorrows and trials never come. Remember us in your prayers. C. H. C.

Elder Hassell Again

ELDER HASSELL AGAIN

---March 20, 1906

From the February issue of the Gospel Messenger we clip the following question, which was asked Elder Hassell, the editor of the Messenger, together with his reply:

Question: Was the commission or commandment of Christ to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature and baptize believers, and teach them to observe all His commandments, given to the church and ministry or to the ministry exclusively, and, if to the ministry to the exclusion of the church, how can we escape receiving alien baptism if we admit that God has called any man to preach who is not a member of the visible church of Christ? From whom does the minister receive his authority to baptize, from the church or from Christ, and, if from the church, is she not in some sense included in the commission? Do you consider it in good order for us to invite into our stands the elders of the church in Fulton, Ky., who maintain that the commission was given to the church?

Answer: To my mind and to the minds of nearly all Primitive Baptists, and I think to all intelligent, candid, and unprejudiced minds, it is not more certain that two and two make four than it is certain that Christ's command in (Matthew 28:16-20) and (Mark 16:14-16) to go everywhere and preach the gospel and baptize and teach was, according to His plain and simple language, given to the apostles as representing the gospel ministry; certainly He did not command the whole church to go into all the world and preach and baptize believers and teach His commandments. And all the churches in the world cannot now call and qualify one single man to preach the gospel of Christ. We know that this is the work of Christ, as well as we know our own existence. But, when Christ calls and qualifies a man for the work, the church will see the gift and gladly recognize it, and help him on his way, as in the apostolic times. And if the church can be present, he will certainly prefer for them to be satisfied of the regeneration of an applicant before he baptizes him; and if the church, or men whom she appoints for the purpose, cannot be present, she will be satisfied with the baptism of an applicant by the chosen minister of Christ; but if the minister is not a member of the visible church of God' the church will consider the nominal baptism as no real baptism. The authority to baptize comes from Christ in the commission, and the church will always gladly recognize this authority. I think that those who have an opportunity should lovingly labor with the elders of the Fulton church, and try to induce them to abandon their preposterous perversion of Christ's commission or commandment to His apostles to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature and baptize believers and teach them to observe Christ's commandments. I cannot understand how any sane mind, that knows anything of the meaning of words, can possibly believe that all His church, male and female, were to do these things. It is impossible for the elders of the Fulton Church to believe it. Unless they abandon this transparent and monstrous perversion of God's word, I do not see how any church can ask them to preach.

The foregoing from the pen of Elder Hassell needs no comment from us. Suffice it to say that Elder H. E. Pettus, one of the ministers of Fulton church, we are informed, has lately been in the eastern part of our state (Tennessee) preaching for and affiliating with an excluded faction from the Powell's Valley Association. Their works clearly show that they are determined to divide the Baptists, and to carry as many with them as possible, even if they must get the following from those who are excluded. How any church that is sound and orderly in the faith and practice, and loves order in God's house, can receive these brethren into her pulpit and preach them until they abandon their present positions and put themselves in order with their brethren at home, is something we cannot understand. For a church to invite them into her pulpit and affiliate with them is to partake of their disorder and encourage I them and bid them God-speed in it, which is plainly and positively forbidden in the Scriptures, {see (Romans 16:17-18); (II Thessalonians 3:6); (II Timothy 3:1-5); (Titus 3:10-11); (II John 1:13)} and is to disregard order in the house of God. We earnestly request all our readers to take your Bible now and turn to all the above references and read them, and may the Lord give us grace and courage to humbly obey His instructions. C. H. C.

ELDER WALLACE'S LETTER

---March 27, 1906

There are just a few things we want to speak of that are mentioned in Brother Wallace's letter on another page in this paper. We love Brother Wallace and think he is a good man, and he says the best men may make mistakes. This is true; and we will add that "the man who never made a mistake never made anything." So, we know we have made many mistakes; we make them every day we live. Knowing and realizing this, we do not desire to kill anyone because they make mistakes. Neither do we desire to kill anyone because of every little wrong they may do. We do not desire to kill Brother Kirkland, either, because of his views, nor because he has made mistakes, as we think. We do not desire to kill him at all, and we are very sorry to see him continue to advocate some principles he is advocating. No, indeed, we do not wish to kill Brother Kirkland, and if he will only say he will stop advocating these things that are causing so much trouble in our beloved Zion, we will gladly give him our hand, and take him into our embrace as a brother, and will walk with him. We are perfectly willing to allow him liberty of conscience to believe the things, but we think it is wrong for him to advocate them, when he surely can see it causes confusion. If Brother Kirkland really thinks the points are not fundamental, then he cannot say it is unreasonable to ask him to not advocate them, as doing so disturbs the peace of the brotherhood. If they are fundamental or vital, as the minutes of the St. Louis meetings say-then we think it is wrong for him to divide the Old Baptists by advocating those things among them. It seems to us that if the points are fundamental, it would be better to advocate them among a people who would receive them and who would not be divided on account of them. So, it seems to us that Brother Kirkland is making a very serious mistake, whether the points are fundamental or not; and we would again beg him, as a brother, to lay these things down-just say he will advocate them no more, and allow us all to walk together to the house of the Lord once more. If he cannot do this, then it looks to us like he is trying to force his views on the Baptists. We make this appeal in all good feeling, and we are confident this would settle all the trouble.

Now, we want to say a few words in regard to associations. We are aware that associations conducted as a kind of higher court, to which an appeal must be made to settle or decide troubles, have often been a source of extending troubles, instead of settling them. We think it is right and Scriptural for brethren to meet together for worship and mutual edification, but we do not think it is right that an association be a legislative body. We do not think, either, that it is exactly right to condemn associations as a whole because some of them have been conducted as a kind of higher court or legislative body.

Nine hundred and ninety-nine times out of a thousand, trouble in the Old Baptist Church originates with the preachers, and is agitated and kept up by them. Because this is true is no reason why all preaching or all preachers should be condemned. The wrongs should be condemned, no matter where they are; but it should be done in love and meekness and humility.

We think it is sometimes the case that the preachers are the "bosses." The churches should remember that the ministers are given them by the Lord as servants and not lords. The true minister is the servant of the church, and is not a ruler, and is and should be amenable to the church.

As to religious papers, would say that our papers are not owned or controlled by the church. The Old Baptist Church does not engage in the publication business. If they did, they would be engaged in something that is unscriptural. All the Old Baptist papers are owned and published by individuals as private enterprises, and it is no more unscriptural for a member of the Old Baptist Church to engage in publishing a periodical in defense of the principles of the church, than it is for another to engage in farming, or any other honorable business for an honest living. The Scriptures do not tell us whether we should make a living by farming, or by running a printing office, or by building houses. We are required to live right, but we are not required to engage in any certain specific occupation. But it is true that a religious periodical may be conducted in such a way as to be a disadvantage to the cause. It will not be a blessing to the cause, and will not tend to unite the Old Baptists, when the columns of the paper are used to disseminate unscriptural doctrine or practice. When the paper is used for such a purpose as this-to promulgate a wrong doctrine or practice-the tendency will be to bring strife, confusion, discord and division in the church. Preaching a false doctrine or practice from the pulpit will do the same thing, and there is where it most always begins. Some preacher introduces a new theory, and some faithful servant raises a warning cry, either through the pulpit or press, after having, perhaps, labored privately, and then the faithful servant is sometimes called "a troubler," "a kicker," "a moss-back," "a sore-head," "hide-bound," "old fogy," "jealous," "ignorant," "superstitious," or some other such name. The one who raises the warning cry is not the one who causes the trouble. The trouble is caused by the introduction of the things the faithful servant raises the warning against. The faithful servant who condemns the wrongs, either from the pulpit or through the press, may be assured that he will be called "a troubler" of Israel by those who introduce the things he condemns. It was true in the case of Ahab and Elijah. The servant who will not raise a warning cry and condemn a wrong doctrine or practice is not faithful, and he will have to give account for his unfaithfulness. We should be kind and gentle, yet firm and faithful. We should regard the feelings and views of our brethren, but we should have more regard for the cause of Christ than for these. We know we have no desire to injure anyone, but if we are not deceived in our own heart, we do desire to be found faithful to our trust, even if we have to condemn some things taught and done by some brethren we have walked with and loved.

We would be glad to see all the dear brethren united once more in love and fellowship, and perfect peace restored and reigning throughout all the borders of our beloved Zion. May the Lord help us all to labor to this end, and help us all to earnestly and faithfully labor for the things that make for peace, is our prayer.

C. H. C.

Brother Vickers' Acknowledgment

---April 10, 1906

On another page of this paper is a communication from Elder W. R. Vickers, of Broughton, Ill., in which he makes an acknowledgment to the brethren. We want to say to you, dear brother, that you have our warmest love and fellowship. We are so glad, indeed, to see you make such a full confession. It does us much good, and we pray the Lord to abundantly bless you.

If those brethren would only say they would cease advocating and agitating those questions, it would settle all the trouble at once. We have said this before, and many have begged them to do so. We do not want to kill those brethren, neither do we want to be idle and say nothing while those things are being advocated. We feel under obligation to beg our brethren to let those things alone. We think they are a departure from original Baptist principles, and it grieves us to see brethren depart from the original principles of the Baptists. We think, too, that whatever is Baptist is Scriptural. If it is not, then the Primitive Baptist Church is not the church of Christ. Some may say, sometimes, "I do not care so much about what the Baptists have always believed or practiced; I only want to know what the Bible teaches." It is true that the Bible is our only divinely authorized rule of faith and practice; yet if the Baptists, as a denomination, have not been occupying Bible ground all the while, then the Baptist Church is not the church of Christ. We believe the Primitive Baptist Church is the church of Christ, and that all that is Baptist is Scriptural, and that whatever is Scriptural is Baptist. We must admit this, or we must admit that the Primitive Baptist Church is not the church of Christ. One or the other is bound to be true.

We do humbly trust our dear brethren everywhere will prayerfully study these things, and not be led into them. We trust that many other dear brethren will see the good example of Brother Vickers and do as he has done.

May the Lord help us all to see our errors and wrongs, and give us grace and Christian fortitude to acknowledge them and turn from them, and help us all to labor for peace is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

First Church Association

FIRST CHURCH AND ASSOCIATION

---April 17, 1906

Brother J. B. Miller, of Shepherd, Ga., has asked us to give the date of the organization of the first Baptist Church and association in the United States. The first Baptist Church constituted in America was at Newport, Rhode Island, in 1638, by Dr. John Clark (a physician) and eleven other persons. The pastors and members of this church were Predestinarian Baptists-like the Primitive Baptists are now-until about the year 1820.

The Welch Tract Church, near Newark, Newcastle county, Delaware, is the oldest Primitive (or Old School) Baptist Church in the United States. It was constituted in the spring of 1701, by sixteen Baptists, in South Wales. They moved, as a church, to the United States, and first settled near Philadelphia, where they remained about a year and a half. Then they purchased a tract of land where the church is now located. They moved there in 1703.

The Philadelphia Association was formed in 1707; the Charleston in 1751; the Sandy Creek in 1758; the Kehukee in 1765. The Kehukee Association stands today upon the ancient order of the gospel, just as they did when constituted.

C. H. C.

Secret Orders

SECRET ORDERS

---April 17, 1906

Some brethren in some portions of the country seem to be under the impression that the whole trouble among the Baptists in this part of the country is on account of secret orders. We wish now to state again, once for all, that this is not the case.

The Baptists here do not believe the commission was given to the church, and this was being preached among us. Neither do we believe it to be the duty of the minister to admonish the alien sinner to repent and believe the gospel, and this was also being advocated among us. These things were causing confusion and trouble in the minds of our brethren before the secret order question was made an issue in our association. The secret order question is not the sole trouble. If those brethren who have lately gone into this were to quit it, and yet continue to advocate the idea that the commission was given to the church, and that it is the duty of the ministry to admonish the alien sinner to repent and believe the gospel, this could not settle the trouble in this country. The Primitive Baptists in this country do not believe in mission boards; neither do they believe in the so-called gospel mission plan.

The brethren have been begged and plead with both publicly and privately to agree not to advocate these things, but so far as we have been able to learn, all these pleadings have been in vain.

As to secret orders, we will just say this, that it has been against the rules of the Baptists of the South to allow their members to affiliate with them- such as Free Masons, Odd Fellows, etc. This is so well known in this country that everyone, who knows anything at all about our people here, knows it is against our rules. To try to "reform" the churches here and press upon them the idea that they should no longer hold to this rule, would simply divide our people and cause a disruption. Perhaps in some places the churches have allowed their members to affiliate with those things. Where this is the case, if one should endeavor to "reform" them, and try to force upon them to withdraw from those institutions, it would cause a disruption in those churches-cause a division among them. To try to force those churches to withdraw from them would cause a division. So, to try to force our churches in this country to tolerate them would do the same thing- cause a division. We would say further that we do not think Baptists should affiliate with those institutions, and we think we have good reasons for thinking as we do, but do not deem it necessary now to state any of our reasons. We think enough has been said on that line for the present, at least, and we humbly suggest to our brethren that we do not write any more on that question for a while.

Let us all try to be patient and humble, and pray the Lord to sustain us.

C. H. C.

Acts 13:3

---April 17, 1906

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-Will you please give your views on (Acts 13:3)? What does the word "they" in that verse refer to?

Please answer privately or through the paper, and oblige, your sister in hope of eternal life.

Macoupin, Ill., R. 26.

Miss DAISY RUSHER.

OUR ANSWER

In order to have a fair understanding of what the word "they" refers to in the third verse it is necessary to read the first and second verses of this chapter. The first verse reads, "Now there were in the church that was at Antioch certain prophets and teachers; as Barnabas, and Simeon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaen, which had been brought up with Herod the tetrarch, and Saul." The second verse reads, "As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto. I have called them." The third verse reads, "And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away."

The word "they" in this third verse are the same persons who are referred to by the term "they" in the second verse. Those referred to in the second verse ministered to the Lord and fasted. These are the same persons referred to in the first verse as prophets and teachers. There were five of them named, three besides Barnabas and Saul. These prophets and teachers "ministered to the Lord, and fasted;" as they did so, "the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them." Then when these prophets and teachers had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on Barnabas and Saul, they (the prophets and teachers -Simeon, Lucius and Manaen) sent them (Barnabas and Saul) away. It was not the church that sent them away-so it seems to us-but these prophets and teachers, for the word "they," it seems, refers to them in both the second and third verses.

Gill, in his commentary, says, "Now when they had thus prayed for them, and wished them well, they sent them away; to do the work they were called unto; not in an authoritative way, but in a friendly manner they parted with them and bid them farewell."

The Interlinear Literal Translation of the Greek New Testament renders the third and fourth verses thus, "Then having fasted and prayed, and having laid hands on them, they let them go. They indeed therefore having been sent forth by the Spirit the Holy (or by the Holy Spirit), went down to Seleucia," etc.

We trust these thoughts may be of some benefit to you, Sister Daisy, and that the Lord may not only bless them to your good, but to the benefit of all our readers.

C. H. C.

John 10:12 Again

---May 1, 1906

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother in the Lord-I read your views on (John 10:12), and your view was the wolf caught the sheep. Does the wolf represent the devil and the sheep God's people? If so, did the devil catch one of God's people?

Yours in hope, W. M. MANESS. Montezuma, Tenn.

ANSWER

We will again give the reading of the text referred to: "But he that is an hireling, and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth: and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep." Again, we would say that the word "hireling" is in the singular, and the pronoun "them" is in the plural. This being true, it follows that it is impossible for the word "them" to refer to "hireling."

In answer to the question, "Does the wolf represent the devil, and the sheep God's people," we answer, yes. Then, "If so, did the devil catch one of God's people?" We say no, because the Saviour is not a hireling. The Saviour here uses a flock or natural sheep as an illustration. A hireling may be caring for a flock of sheep, and when he sees danger approaching he will flee to escape the danger himself, and will leave the sheep to the mercy of the enemy. We know that in nature this is true. But the true shepherd, who is the owner of the sheep, will not leave the sheep in time of danger, but will stay with them and protect them to the extent of his power and wisdom. The Saviour is the true Shepherd, and owns the sheep, and will not flee when trouble or danger approaches. He is the good Shepherd, and as such laid down His life for the sheep. In nature the hireling will flee when the wolf approaches, and leave the sheep to be caught and scattered by the wolf. The true shepherd, or owner of the sheep, in nature, will not leave the sheep when the wolf comes. The Saviour is teaching the fact that He is the good Shepherd, and not a hireling, and that, therefore, He will not leave them to be devoured by the enemy. If the devil catches one of God's people it would be because the Saviour is a hireling and flees from them and leaves them to the mercy of the devil. The true shepherd does not leave the sheep, and Jesus is the true Shepherd, the good Shepherd; so He stays with them and protects them from the power of the devil. As the true shepherd in nature, who is the owner of the sheep, will protect the flock to the extent of his power and wisdom, it follows that not one of his sheep would ever be destroyed, or caught by the wolf, if he has power and wisdom to prevent it. Jesus, the good Shepherd and Bishop of our souls, has all power and is perfect in wisdom. So He has power and wisdom sufficient to protect His sheep, His people. All this being true, the lesson taught is that all the Lord's people are kept safe and secure from the destructive power of their enemy, and will be brought off more than conquerors at last through the power and wisdom of the good Shepherd.

We trust we have made our position sufficiently plain now, and that the Lord may bless these thoughts to the benefit of Brother Maness and all our readers.

C. H. C.

Sunday School Affiliation

SUNDAY SCHOOL AFFILIATION

---May 1, 1906

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-Will you please say through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST what you think of the propriety of, or is it orderly for a member and deacon of a Primitive Baptist Church to affiliate with, or act as superintendent of a Sunday School? A SUBSCRIBER.
OUR ANSWER

To the question above, propounded by "A Subscriber," we answer that we do not think it proper for a deacon or any other member of the Primitive Baptist Church to affiliate with modern Arminian Sunday schools. The avowed and expressed object of these schools is to bring children up in such a way as to make Christians of them-to give them such training as that they will accept Christ as their Saviour, and thereby ultimately reach the climes of glory. This object of the Sunday school we know to be an open violation of the teaching of Holy Writ. "All thy children shall be taught of the Lord," says the prophet. The Lord is the teacher. This teaching is in the work of regeneration, and is by a direct and immediate work of the Holy Spirit. For this reason Primitive Baptists should have nothing to do with them.

It is also claimed that the Sunday school is a nursery or help to the church. The church of Christ has no such helps or nurseries; nor does she need them. If the Sunday school had been needed by the Lord's kingdom, then the Saviour would have instituted it. The modern Sunday school was instituted by Robert Raikes, of Gloucester, England, in the eighteenth century, and is, therefore, an institution of man. The ancient Waldenses "held in abhorrence all the inventions of men in the affairs of religion as an abomination in the sight of God," and the Primitive Baptists of today, as a body, do the same thing, and all her members should do so.

The Scriptures teach everything we ought to believe or practice religiously, and a Sunday school is mentioned at no place in the Bible. So we should let it alone. The idea that we are at liberty to practice anything religiously that the Bible says nothing about, we think is erroneous. The Scriptures are given that the man of God may be thoroughly furnished unto all good works, and therefore teach everything we ought to practice religiously. This being true, we should practice nothing religiously which is not commanded in the Bible.

Other reasons could be given why Old Baptists should not affiliate in the modern Sunday schools of today, but we think these are sufficient. We would be glad for all Old Baptists to "touch not, taste not, handle not the doctrines and commandments of men," and stand aloof from the world in all our religious service, and join not house to house, nor field to field, with the nations around us. It is right and proper for us to be neighborly, friendly and sociable with them in our worldly or secular affairs, but in religious matters we should be a separate people. May the Lord help us to so live as to say by our life that there is a reality in the profession we make, that the Primitive Baptist Church is the true church of Christ, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Does He Want Peace?

DOES HE WANT PEACE?

---May 15, 1906

On the 19th of April we went to Fulton, Ky., to see Elders J. V. and R. S. Kirkland and to confer with them, and to try to draft a basis of agreement for a settlement of the differences, or one upon which we all might agree, so as to settle the existing troubles among the Baptists on the points that have been troubling us so much lately. Although so many have said we were so fond of confusion, yet we felt to be willing to make every possible concession to bring about peace, and to save a division in our beloved Zion, and to reconcile the differences. At the home of Elder R. S. Kirkland, in Fulton, we three, Elders J. V. and R. S. Kirkland and the writer, talked and wrote until about midnight, writing the agreement. The article was finally completed, and all three of us signed it. Of course we signed it only as individuals, and there was no church authority in it. We (the editor of this paper, THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST) put our name to it in good faith, with a sincere desire, if we are not deceived, for the good of the cause. This was on April 19th. Since that time we have carefully guarded our columns, trying to keep everything out of the paper containing reference to these things, and trying to keep everything out of the paper reflecting on Elder Kirkland's position. We here give the first three paragraphs of the basis of agreement:

Whereas, There has been so much written and spoken on the subjects of the "Commission," "Repentance," and other things of late, and

Whereas, It seems there has been much misunderstanding, and our denomination has been thrown into a state of confusion in so many places, and

Whereas, We greatly desire to do all in our power that is lawful, or Scriptural, and right in order that peace and harmony be once more restored throughout the borders of our beloved Zion; and after careful and, as we humbly trust, prayerful consideration of all the circumstances and points involved, we have thought it best to submit the following as an explanation of what we all believe on the points involved, and agree to the same as a basis of agreement and settlement of our troubles, and to come together once more in peace, and labor to live together as brethren in the Lord.

Notice carefully the expression in the latter part of the last paragraph quoted above, "we have thought it best to submit the following as an explanation of what we all believe on the points involved, and agree to the same as a basis of agreement and settlement of our troubles, and to come together once more in peace, and labor to live together as brethren in the Lord." In this, you see, it was agreed that we would "labor to live together as brethren in the Lord." After this follows a statement on the questions of the commission, federal government, repentance and secret orders. We do not think it is necessary to take up space in the paper to give the statements on these four points, but will here give all that follows these statements in the agreement:

We do sincerely think that these subjects as above explained are not sufficient to destroy our peace and fellowship, and that all should come together upon this and mutually forgive each other and live in peace, and where any churches on either side of any of these issues have made actions interfering with fellowship over these questions that such actions be removed, and all come together in love and fellowship; and we do solemnly and prayerfully beseech all of our dear brethren that they now cease agitating these differences and manifest a tender regard for the feelings of each other, and be guarded in their expressions about each other and not indulge in such language nor manifest such a spirit as to hurt the feelings of others, nor to be so exacting as to make a brother an offender for a word, and endeavor to use such words as will not justly give offence to any.

Trusting that the Lord may bless the foregoing to the sweet peace and good of our beloved Zion, and that union and fellowship among us may be restored, we hereto mutually and cheerfully subscribe our names.

J. V KIRKLAND.

C. H. CAYCE.

R. S. KIRKLAND.

Now, notice carefully the expression in the above, "And we do solemnly and prayerfully beseech all of our dear brethren that they now cease agitating these differences and manifest a tender regard for the feelings of each other, and be guarded in their expressions about each other and not indulge in such language nor manifest such a spirit as to hurt the feelings of others, nor to be so exacting as to make a brother an offender for a word, and endeavor to use such words as will not justly give offence to any. If we know our own poor heart, we do desire the peace and welfare of the Old Baptist Church, and we were hopeful that this agreement would be the means of getting the agitation of these questions stopped, and we hoped that the troubles might be thereby settled; but we were altogether disappointed in this, for although we had guarded the columns of our paper, as stated above, to keep out reference to these things, yet the Apostolic Herald contained some very harsh expressions over the initials of J. V Kirkland in the issue of May 1st. So it is very clear that Elder J. V Kirkland has gone contrary to the agreement. Remember that the agreement was signed on April 19th, and the Herald was dated May 1st. We here quote from Elder Kirkland's remarks to a letter written by Mrs. L. M. Lovelace. Sister Lovelace wrote to Elder Kirkland. He published the letter and made some remarks following it, and the following language was used in said remarks:

This good, kind, faithful letter from dear Sister Lovelace, was a sweet comfort to my wounded heart, and greatly lightened the burden of my weary soul. I feel glad that such true noble saints, who have known me so long, believe me to be true and faithful to God according to my sincere convictions, notwithstanding all the flood of abuse and hard sayings that have been poured out upon me for the last eighteen months, and the great industry and artful efforts employed to represent me as a vile person, and to thereby destroy the confidence of my brethren in me. I know, if I know anything about honesty and sincerity, I have been honest and sincere in all I have done in my religious life. I have always groaned over my weakness and imperfections, but I have been true to my conviction. Oh! how unfeeling and destructive is human tradition, backed by prejudice and jealousy, when it gains hold in the hearts of the people of God. It seems to have no respect for truth, honesty, sincerity, years of faithful service, gray hairs, tears, piety nor learning. Where such is the case all are frequently sacrificed in order to protect some deformity of human creeds, which will not bear the light of investigation.

Now, notice that he says a flood of abuse and hard sayings have been poured out upon him for the last eighteen months. Of course he must mean that this has been done by those who have been opposing him in his views. Then he says, "Oh, how unfeeling and destructive is human tradition." This must also refer to those who have differed from him; so, according to this, all of us who have differed from Brother Kirkland have been only following human tradition, and are all unfeeling, or without feeling. Not only so, but he must mean that our human tradition has been backed by prejudice and jealousy. Does it not seem that he accuses us, all who have opposed his views during the past eighteen months, of being humanly traditionized, prejudiced and jealous? It seems to us that the language not only has this in it, but that our human tradition, backed by our prejudice and jealousy, "seems to have no respect for truth, honesty, sincerity, years of faithful service, gray hairs, tears, piety nor learning." If we can understand the meaning of words this certainly means that all of us who have opposed him during the past eighteen months have no respect for truth, honesty, etc. How does that compare with the expression in the agreement, "and we do solemnly and prayerfully beseech all of our dear brethren that they now cease agitating these differences and manifest a tender regard for the feelings of each other, * * * and endeavor to use such words as will not justly give offence to any?" Is it manifesting a tender regard for the feelings of each other to write in such a way as to leave the impression, to say the least of it, that we are actuated by human tradition, backed by prejudice and jealousy, and have no respect for truth, honesty, sincerity, years of faithful service, gray hairs, tears, piety nor learning? We repeat, is this manifesting a tender regard for feelings? Is using such language as this laboring to live together as brethren in the Lord? Is this "endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bonds of peace?" If it is any of these things we admit that we have not "so learned Christ." We do not profess to be so wise as many, and we would prefer to be a poor ignorant sinner, saved by the grace of an all wise God, than to boast of our "learning," if we knew it all. "My speech and my preaching was not with enticing words, which man's wisdom teacheth." "For ye see your calling, brethren; how that not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble are called; but God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise," etc. Again, can the use of such language as that of Brother Kirkland "justly give offence to any?"

Perhaps if we were to say he has no respect for truth, honesty, etc., it would justly give offence-or if we were to intimate such a thing perhaps it would justly give offence. But as Elder Kirkland has used the language about those who have differed from him we suppose he thinks it will not justly give offence, and if anyone becomes offended at it, they do not justly do so. If it would justly give him offence for us to use such language with reference to him, why should it not justly give us offence for him to use such language about us? Are all those who differ from Brother Kirkland so utterly insignificant and so unlearned, illiterate, ignorant and worthless that they could not be justly offended at anything he might say?

We are sorry to have seen such a spirit manifested by Elder Kirkland right in the face of the agreement signed on April 19th, but there it is, staring us in the face, and we must admit is there. After seeing the paper we tried to give the matter prayerful thought as to what we should do, and as to what such a course as all this means. We could arrive at no other conclusion than that Brother Kirkland had failed utterly to keep the agreement. We could only conclude that he is not desiring peace-if he is, why should he have written such after signing that agreement? We tried to pray over the matter, and tried to ask the Lord to direct us aright. And being able to come to no other conclusion than that stated above, we wrote a letter to Elder Kirkland on May 9th, of which the following is a copy:

ELDER J. V KIRKLAND:

Dear Brother-Your letters of the 5th and the 8th were forwarded to me here and I received them this morning, and hasten to write to you.

I saw a copy of the Herald of May 1st a few days ago, and I was somewhat surprised at its contents. I must say, my brother, that I do not, at all, consider the contents of that paper to be at all in harmony with the agreement, nor with the advice it contained. I was hopeful that all parties would hold to the agreement, and govern themselves according to it; but I see it seems my hope was in vain. Your remarks to Sister Lovelace, as well as some other things you had in the paper, it seems to me, are contrary to the agreement. I have tried to carefully guard the columns of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, and keep everything out that might have the least tendency to be offensive. I had even laid aside a number of communications that made reference to these things. But now, my dear brother, in all kindness I must ask that you simply erase my name from the article, and that my name be considered with it or in connection with it no more. I feel that under the circumstances it is my duty to write this to you at once. So I say, in kindness, that as long as this state of affairs exists I am done making any further effort along the same line as that contained in the agreement. I signed it in good faith and so far as I am concerned, would have had no more to say on these matters but for the facts stated. So that now, so far as that agreement is concerned, I shall consider that I am loosed from it. So for the present it is all at an end. I trust you are all well, and remain,

Yours in humble hope,

C. H. CAYCE. Eagleville, Tenn.

We will now only say further that it seems to us that all our dear brethren everywhere who have been thinking we were too severe on Brother Kirkland, and that he wanted peace and fellowship, can surely see now that we have made a fair and earnest effort to settle the trouble, and Brother Kirkland has failed to abide the agreement. Dear brethren, we beg you to think of these things and ponder them well, and may the Lord guide and direct us aright and sustain us by His grace, and help us to walk in and follow the right way, is our humble prayer. These things are trying to us, and we humbly ask an interest in the prayers of all the brethren.

C. H. C.

John 11:39

---May 22, 1906

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Sir and Friend-When you have the time I would like for you to write a short editorial on (John 11:39), that is if you think there are any spiritual applications beyond the historical fact that Lazarus was dead. Christ went to the grave and said, "Take ye away the stone." I have heard two Arminian friends preach from this text, but to my mind they got it somewhat mixed. They would apply the stone to the stony heart, and would say to their penitents at the altar to take away the stony heart. But it seemed to me that the stone was placed over the grave of Lazarus to make it more secure; if so, then the above is no part of a spiritual application. I guess I had better quit before I say too much. Come and see us sometime.

Yours truly,

JOSEPH B. ANDERSON.

Ponder, Mo.

OUR ANSWER

We suppose Brother Anderson merely wishes our opinion of the expression, "Take ye away the stone." He says he has heard two Arminian friends preach on that text, and that, to his mind, they got it somewhat mixed. We would be somewhat surprised if they did not get things mixed. Their whole theory is a "tangled hank," from first to last.

It seems to have been the custom in those days that a stone be placed over a grave or sepulchre. A stone was placed over the sepulchre where the Saviour was buried, and the women who went to His grave early in the morning of the first day of the week said, "Who will roll away the stone?" The stone over the grave of Lazarus has no reference whatever to a stony heart. It simply shows that Lazarus was dead, and that he was buried according to the usual custom. In the resurrection of Lazarus was a wonderful display of the power of God. He could have raised Lazarus just as easily without the stone being rolled away as after it was taken away. The stone being over the grave did not binder His ability to raise Lazarus. But if He had raised him without the stone being first taken away, then those unbelieving Jews would have said it was all a "sham" and that Lazarus was not dead. Then the question might be asked, why did the Saviour not roll the stone away Himself? We answer, it was not necessary that He roll it away. They could do that themselves. They could not give life to Lazarus, but they could roll away the stone. The Saviour did what they could not do. So He tells them to roll away the stone, and when it is taken away, they can see Lazarus lying there now dead, and "behold he stinketh." Now, the Saviour cried with a loud voice, "Lazarus, come forth," and he obeys, the Saviour imparting life with the command. They have seen Lazarus was dead, and they have seen that life was imparted to him, and he came forth. There is absolutely no room to dispute the fact that the dead was raised. Hence this is a wonderful display of the power of Christ, showing that He has power to raise the dead. Even so now He has the power to raise the sinner out of a state of death in sin to a state of life in Christ.

The sinner is not commanded to take the stony heart away, or to take the stony heart out of his flesh. In (Ezekiel 11:19-20), the Lord says, "And I will give them one heart, and I will put a new spirit within you; and I will take the stony heart out of their flesh, and will give them an heart of flesh; that they may walk in my statutes, and keep mine ordinances and do them: and they shall be my people, and I will be their God." Here we have the positive promise of the Lord, the God that cannot lie, that He will take away the stony heart and that He will give a heart of flesh. He does not tell us to do what He has promised to do for us, and He does not promise to do for us what He commands us to do. Having the stony heart taken away, and a heart of flesh given, is equivalent to being born again, and sinners are no where commanded in God's word to be born again. This taking away of the stony heart and giving of a heart of flesh is something the Lord will do "that they may walk in my statutes, and keep mine ordinances, and do them." Then the stony heart must be taken away in order that acceptable obedience be rendered to the Lord. If the stony heart must be removed in order that acceptable obedience be rendered to the Lord, then the stony heart must be removed before the sinner obeys. So, if the Lord commands the sinner to remove the stony heart, and the sinner cannot render acceptable obedience until the stony heart is removed, and the Lord cannot or will not save the sinner until the stony heart is removed, it looks to us as though there is no hope for the poor sinner. They do get it somewhat mixed, sure enough. But the Lord takes away the stony heart and gives them a heart of flesh and puts a new spirit within them. The Lord thereby qualifies them for His service.

But someone might ask, "Does not the Lord somewhere command somebody to purify their hearts?" Certainly He does, but He is not talking to alien sinners. (James 4:8) says, "Draw nigh to God, and He will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded." James is not talking to unregenerate sinners; he is talking to the brethren, to children of God, those to whom the Lord has given a heart of flesh. In the 11th verse he says, "Speak not evil one of another, brethren." He uses the term "brethren" all along in different places, so it has no application whatever to the unregenerate. Some brother, then, might ask, "How are they to purify their hearts?" Peter tells us how. (I Peter 1:22-23):

"Seeing ye have purified your SOULS in obeying the truth through the Spirit unto unfeigned love of the brethren, see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently; being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever." They purified their souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit. To obey the truth through the Spirit, one must first be in possession of the Spirit, or must have the Spirit before they obey. Then they do not purify their souls unto eternal life, but unto the unfeigned love of the brethren. They are in possession of the Spirit before the obedience is rendered; and the Lord promised to put a new Spirit within them, and when the Lord puts that Spirit within them they are "born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever." All the Lord's dear children, to whom the Lord has given a heart of flesh, should endeavor to "purify their souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit unto unfeigned love of the brethren." We think Brother Anderson should do this. We pray the Lord to bless these thoughts to your good, and to the good of all our readers. Dear brethren and sisters, pray for us. C. H. C.

Galatians 3:1; 3; 6:18

---May 22, 1906

In another column in this paper is a communication from Brother H. L. Morgan, of West Grove, Iowa, in which he requests our views on (Galatians 3:27), which reads as follows: "For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." We do not wish to set up our view as a standard, for we realize our weakness, and that we may be wrong; so we do not wish our readers to accept our views only so far as they are in keeping with inspiration. So we ask that what we may say be compared with the Bible, and unless it holds good and is sustained by the Bible, do not receive it.

To our mind this text represents our becoming in possession of eternal life as being baptized into Christ. To be born of God is to be baptized into Christ. To be baptized into Christ is to pass out of a state of death in sin into a state of life in Christ; is to be killed to the love of sin and made alive to the love of holiness. It is to be quickened into divine life; it is to be raised up together with Christ. It is also set forth in Scripture as a regeneration, being born again, born of God, begotten again, being translated; and other figures are used to represent the same thing.

This becoming in possession of eternal life is called being baptized into Christ, because a true baptism signifies that the one baptized is dead to sin, has become dead to sin, and is alive unto God. So, in becoming in possession of eternal life one dies and is made alive at the same time—they are become dead to sin and alive unto God at the same time. So, to be baptized into Christ is to be killed to sin, killed to the love of sin, and made alive to God, alive in Christ. It is to be raised up into a state of life in Christ. This baptism is not a water baptism. It is a baptism of the Holy Spirit. John, who baptized the Saviour and those in the region of Jordan, said of Jesus, "He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire."

The Apostle Paul, in (I Corinthians 12:13), says: "For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free; and have been all made to drink into one Spirit." To be baptized into one body is to be baptized into Christ; it is to be baptized into the body of Christ. The redeemed of the Lord are represented as being the body of Christ. To be baptized into the body of Christ, or into Christ, is to be brought into the family of the redeemed, or into the heavenly or spiritual family. This is not done by many preachers, but by one Spirit; it is a work of the Holy Spirit.

There is a washing in baptism. In water baptism there is an outward washing which is a symbol or figure of the inward washing by the Holy Spirit.

The baptism or washing of the Holy Spirit is an inward work, and it is the work which brings us into a saved state, or into Christ, or the body of Christ. "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost; which He shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour." -(Titus 3:5-6). In this text it is expressed as the "washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost." It is a work of washing or cleansing by the Holy Ghost. So by one Spirit we are baptized into one body, baptized into Christ. In this work the Holy Spirit comes in direct touch or immediate contact with the heart. In water baptism, the outward washing, the water comes in direct touch or immediate contact with the body or person baptized. So in the inward washing or cleansing, the Holy Spirit comes in direct touch or immediate contact with the heart or soul.

These are some of our thoughts in connection with the text. We haven't time to write more now. At some time in the future, perhaps, we will try to comply with Brother Morgan's request to write some few thoughts on the other subject mentioned in his letter. If we overlook the matter he is at liberty to call our attention to it again. We trust the Lord may bless these thoughts given to his benefit, and we pray the Lord to bless him in his declining years.

This is written at the home of Brother J. H. Hay, near Eagleville, Tenn. We are now on a tour among the churches of the Cumberland Association. We ask an interest in the prayers of all our readers. C. H. C.

Matthew 8:22

---May 29, 1906

Brother James Tubb, of Magazine, Ark., asks us to give our views of (Matthew 8:22), which reads, "But Jesus said unto him, Follow me; and let the dead bury their dead." Perhaps it would be better to give some of the connection. Beginning with verse 18 we have the following language: "Now when Jesus saw great multitudes about Him, He gave commandment to depart unto the other side. And a certain scribe came, and said unto him, Master, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest. And Jesus saith unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay His head. And another of His disciples saith unto Him, Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father. But Jesus said unto him, Follow me; and let the dead bury their dead."

We do not think the idea is intended to be taught here that if our father or mother dies a physical or corporeal death we should not bury them, or see after their burial. It is right and proper for us to perform our duty toward them, not only in this particular, but also while they are living. We think this language teaches that we should let nothing come between us and our duty to God. We should not let father, mother, nor anything else come between us and our blessed Saviour. He has done for us what father and mother, or even all the world, could not do for us. While our fathers and mothers and friends are all good and kind to us, and perhaps have been, and would be, glad to do for us everything in their power to promote our happiness and well being, yet they could not do for us what the adorable Redeemer has done. This being true, we should not allow anything to come between us and our service to Him. Our duty to the Lord should be considered first. We should "seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness. We "ought to obey God rather than man."

Sometimes we are ready and anxious to find some excuse for not serving the Lord, but our excuses are not sufficient. We have often thought that if we would, all of us, be always as ready to remove the excuses we might think we had for not serving the Lord as we are to look for them as reason for not engaging more in His service, we would all get along much better. If we would always try as hard to serve the Lord as we sometimes try to find an excuse for not doing so, how much better it would be for us, and how much better we would all get along.

If it is necessary for us to forsake father, mother, brother, sister, wife, children, houses and lands in order to serve the Lord, and do what He requires at our hands, we should do that. "If any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, and wife and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple." -(Luke 14:26). "So likewise, whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple." -(Luke 14:33). "He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me; and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me." - (Matthew 10:37). These all teach that we should let our service to the Lord be first; we should not serve the world first, and then serve the Lord afterward, or when we cannot serve the world, but we should let our duty to our Saviour be first and the world second. We should not allow anything of a worldly nature to keep us from serving the Lord. Of course we may sometimes be providentially hindered, by illness or misfortune, so we cannot render such service to the Lord as we would wish; but we should not look for excuses for our failures and try to ease our conscience with the thought that we are providentially hindered, when we could go on in the Lord's service very well in the face of the little obstacles which may be in our way.

Let us all try to serve the Lord first, "seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness;" try to serve the Lord more and the world less. May the Lord help us so to do, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

That Basis of Agreement

THAT BASIS OF AGREEMENT

---June 12, 1906

In our issue of May 15 we gave some extracts from a basis of agreement which we signed with Elders J. V and R. S. Kirkland on April 19th, and also an extract from some of his writings in his paper of May 1st, in which he pointedly and openly violated the agreement. We did not publish the agreement in full because it was not necessary, as it had been broken by one of the makers. We published enough for any fair minded and unprejudiced person to see that it was broken. We also published a copy of our letter of May 9 to Elder J. V Kirkland. We would suggest that every one of our readers now get the issue of May 15 and read that letter again. The following is a copy of Elder Kirkland's reply:

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: My Dear Brother-I was very touch surprised and disheartened at yours of the 9th inst., which I received today. As to Sister Lovelace's article, to which you refer as not being in harmony with our agreement, I will say was arranged for the paper and in the office when we wrote the basis of agreement. I do not think, my dear brother, that you should at all allow this to interfere in our reconciliation. It was not my intention, and is still not my intention, to make references to these troubles.

I have withheld some writings that referred to it that was already set up in type. You remember that you published that article of Elder Vickers (which was one of the most disagreeable pieces, to our feelings, at all) after we had our first talk, and agreed to undertake a settlement, but as our effort had not been made public I said nothing about it, but felt very much discouraged when I read it.

I have stated in the paper of today (that is already in print) that we have come to an agreement, and asked my contributors not to further agitate those differences, and should any persist in doing so I will hold it out of the paper provided you stand to the agreement you signed with us.

I have asked you in both of my letters to tell me if Brother Oliphant, or any of the rest who stood with you, had signed the agreement, to which you have made no reply. I can't help but think that they have failed to sign it is why you write as you do. You know you promised us faithfully that you would stand to it whether anybody else did or not, and we still expect to stand to it whether you do or not. Now if there is nothing in your way except the reference made to the trouble in Sister Lovelace's piece (which was more in your favor than mine), I know it can all yet be carried out as first agreed to, and if this is all, I know you will not allow that to interfere with this settlement, on which so much depends. I can assure you, and God knows that I signed it in good faith, and intend to strictly adhere to every item in the agreement. We have sent it to the following named brethren (and everyone has signed it), to wit:

Elders E. W. Thomas, J. W. Richardson, P. F. Watkins, Jno. T. Oliphant, M. G. Mitchell, Geo. A. Shoultz, W. L. Murray, Ira Turner, S. L. Pettus, Wm. H. Crouse, A. M. Kirkland, H. E. Pettus, W. A. Pinkstaff, A. J. Willis, W. M. Smith, Wm. E. Williams, B. F. Querry.

Now, Brother Claud, if you are sincere in this agreement, let us still be quiet until we have a thorough understanding of your dissatisfaction. If what you state is all the matter can easily be adjusted. We will not take your name off of the agreement. We would not expect you to take ours off under the same circumstances. We have stated in the paper that we will publish the agreement in full in our next issue, and we want to see or hear from you before then, and have what names have signed yours, if any.

Hoping to hear from you at your earliest convenience, I am yours for peace,

J. V KIRKLAND.

We answered this letter on the 18th, and the following is an exact copy of our reply:

ELDER J. V KIRKLAND: Dear Brother-Yours of the 14th was sent to me at Burns last Monday night, but failed to reach me until Thursday at McEwen.

In my letter to you of the 9th I made no reference whatever to Sister Lovelace's letter, as you are surely aware, if you will only read my letter again. I referred very plainly to your remarks to her letter. You surely know, my brother, that your remarks to that letter was a positive violation of that agreement. We have never used such language as that in referring to you, or those with you, in this trouble. My father never did use such expressions in referring to you, and I never have; and you certainly should have known that I would not consent to go on in this agreement after your using such expressions, when we had signed that agreement. Your statement that the article was prepared for the paper and was in the office when the agreement was signed, is no reasonable excuse to me for its going before the public. If such language as was used in your remarks had been in an article in our office, and already in type for our issue of April 24th, we would not allowed it to go in the paper, and rather than to have done so, we would have paid five times the cost of having other matter set to take the place of it. We would have had only three days to do this, while it was one week and three days to the date of your paper. There was ample time to have kept that article of yours out of the paper. So this explanation does not at all explain to the satisfaction of one who knows anything about the printing business.

Your reference to our publishing Elder Vickers' article is also without just cause in this case. His article was published before any agreement had been written, and before we knew it would be done. Besides, you were continuing to publish matter referring to those things as though nothing had been said along that line. But I had held back some communications before the agreement was signed. So this does not excuse.

You say, "I have asked you in both of my letters to tell me if Brother Oliphant or any of the rest who stood with you, had signed the agreement, to which you have made no reply. I can't help but think that they have failed to sign it is why you write as you do." Then I suppose you can't help but think I did not tell the truth. I wrote you very plainly why I was writing the contents of my letter of the 9th, but your expression shows you, do not believe it, for you say you "can't help but think" it is something else. This expression is in perfect harmony with what you said in the Herald, that somebody had "no respect for truth, honesty," etc.

My brother, if you think I will continue on under that agreement, and say nothing, as long as you are using expressions like this, let me say, once for all, that you are very much mistaken. When I sent out the copies of the agreement, I asked no one to sign it. I merely asked for an expression from them in regard to it. If no other one had ever agreed to sign it, if you had abided the agreement, I would have never said any more about the trouble. But the agreement is broken, and I am bound by it no more; and I still have to say I am done with it. I am sorry, but as I view the matter there is no one to blame but yourself. The only terms I know now for a settlement, at least this is my own feeling in the matter, is for you brethren to simply agree to cease advocating the things complained of. This is all I know to say further in regard to the matter. I have tried in all I have said to be kind, but firm, and I know my sainted father never spoke unkindly of you, and I consider you have often reflected upon him, as well as myself and others.

Again, I ask that my name be considered no more with the agreement. I suppose you have seen this week's PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. It shows where I now stand on these matters, as also does this letter. Yours in hope,
C. H. CAYCE.

We also received a letter from Elder R. S. Kirkland dated May 15. The following is an extract from it:

When J. V. came home at noon, and told me the pieces you referred to were set up before our agreement was written, and that he would so state to you, and when I saw how determined he was to stand by our agreement, and the piece he had written for this paper, asking the brethren to write nothing else for publication, concerning the troubles that had existed, I felt some hope again, that this would be satisfactory to you and that we could soon move on together, in accomplishing the blessed purposes that we had in view when you were here.

It seems to us that the statements of these two brethren do not exactly agree. Elder R. S. K. says Elder J. V. told him the article referred to as being a violation of the agreement, which was published in the Herald of May 1, was already set up (already put in type) before the agreement was signed, and that J. V. would so state to me; but J. V. does not so state. Elder J. V. says the article was already prepared for the paper and in the office before the agreement was signed, but this is absolutely no reason for its being published. Notice, too, that Elder J. V. says in this letter: "I have stated in the paper of today (that is already in print) that we have come to an agreement, and asked my contributors not to further agitate those differences, and should any persist in doing so I will hold it out of the paper provided you stand to the agreement you signed with us." Then in the same letter he says: "You know you promised us faithfully that you would stand to it whether anybody else did or not and we still expect to stand to it whether you do or not." It seems to us that one statement means that he is going to stand to the agreement provided we do, and that the other statement means that he is going to stand to it whether we do or not. Elder R. S. says Elder J. V. was determined to stand to the agreement. So we wonder if he was determined to stand to it when he signed it. If he was determined to stand to it when he signed it, then he must have been determined not to break it; and if he was determined not to break it, we wonder how it was that he did break it. We wonder if he did something he was determined not to do. Or, did he determine to break it and then determine to stand to it, provided we would stand to it, after he had broken it? Or, did he determine to break it and then determine to stand to it, whether we would or not, after he had broken it? We cannot understand this "determination." The following is a copy of our reply to Elder R. S. Kirkland:

ELDER R. S. KIRKLAND:

Dear Brother-Yours of the 15th was received several days ago, and I would have answered sooner, but have been so much behind with my work on account of having been away from home, that I have let your letter wait and answered others older-received before yours was, knowing you would see my letters to Brother J. V., I note you say he told you the article I referred to was already set up, and that he would so state to me; but he does not say that in his letter to me. If it had been, it should have been kept out. I know I would have kept it out of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. But besides the article I referred to, which he wrote, there were others. When any number of parties enter into an agreement, and one of them breaks the agreement, that releases all the others. So I consider that I am out of it. I am sorry, but under the circumstances I cannot conscientiously remain in it. Yours in hope,
C. H. CAYCE

In a letter from Elder J. V. dated May 21 he has the following to say with reference to the language he used in the Herald of May 1st, which we say was a violation of his agreement:

It mentioned no one. I only spoke of the unkind spirit and hard words that I had endured, as indulged in by some, and attributed it to human tradition when backed by jealousy and prejudice, and it was this spirit that I said seems to have no respect for truth, honesty, sincerity, years of faithful service, gray hairs, etc.

In this he admits that he had reference to things indulged in by some. It was, of course, the things indulged in by some who differed from him. He attributed the things they indulged in to human tradition when backed by jealousy and prejudice, and it was this spirit of human tradition, backed by jealousy and prejudice, that "seems to have no respect for truth, honesty, sincerity, years of faithful service, gray hairs, tears, piety nor learning." Then, some who differed from him were in possession of a spirit of human tradition, backed by jealousy and prejudice, and this spirit they were in possession of seems to have no respect for truth, honesty, sincerity, years of faithful service, gray hairs, tears, piety nor learning." Verily, we did not misconstrue his meaning. There is no way to "explain" it away. Every effort made to "explain" it away only drives our conclusion more plainly to the point.

In this same letter, of May 21, he says we quoted from a Missionary Baptist publication to prove what he claimed as his intention was not as he said. We suppose he has reference to the clipping from the Baptist Flag which we published in our editorial headed "Some Plain Facts," in our issue of Feb. 27, 1906. He surely knows that what we quoted from the Flag was for no such purpose as he says here, but we quoted it in support of our statement of what Elder J. N. Hall told us, that Elders Kirkland had considered the matter of representing in the Missionary Baptist meeting at Texarkana last fall, where they could have a hearing and cooperation in the work of preaching the gospel to the lost. The clipping from the Flag said they were concerned about preaching the gospel to the lost, etc. Elder Kirkland asked in the Herald, after this, why we did not tell what Elder Hall said to us before Elder Hall died. If we had known Elder Hall was going to die at the time he did, we would have told it before. We would be glad to have him for a witness, for we are sure he would not deny a word we quoted from him as his statement to us. He also says that in our statement, "It seems to us that all of our dear brethren everywhere who have been thinking we were too severe on Brother Kirkland, and that he wanted peace and fellowship can surely see now that we have made a fair and earnest effort to settle the trouble, and Brother Kirkland has failed to abide the agreement," that we "as same as acknowledge" our severity on him, but talk as if it was just. We did not "as same as acknowledge" anything of the kind. We acknowledged that some dear brethren had been thinking we were too severe, but we did not acknowledge that they were correct in their thoughts. The language itself implies that we thought they were mistaken in thinking we had been too severe, which is the very opposite of what Elder Kirkland says.

The following is a copy of our reply to Elder Kirkland's letter of May 21:

ELDER J. V KIRKLAND:

Dear Brother-Replying to yours of the 21st, just received, will say I see but little necessity for discussing the matter further. As to you calling us names in the article you published, will say that every reader would judge you to have had reference to those who differed from you on the points involved, and the names of the parties had just as well been called. This is a reasonable view to me. Not only was this language used which I mentioned, but the different points (or some of them) were discussed. I have honestly and candidly given you my opinion and told you my feelings in regard to the matter. I just cannot conscientiously allow my name to continue in connection with the agreement under the circumstances. If you want to continue to charge me with falsehood, etc., I suppose you have the privilege, if not the right. So far as I am concerned I expect to have but little to say about those things, perhaps nothing. I shall refer to them only when I think it is really necessary. I would be glad the matters could all be dropped and settled, yet under the circumstances I do not consider myself bound by that agreement. I have given the reason.

As to who signed it with me will say that I wrote you I asked no one to sign it. I only asked for an expression from them in regard to it. So no one signed it, though I had expressions of willingness from some to accept it (or words of that import) If it would bring peace to our churches. Some did not approve of some of the wording. Now I have told you as plainly as I know how. And I wish you to remember I asked for no signature. For the present I do not deem it necessary to say more.

Yours in hope, C. H. CAYCE.

We received another letter from Elder J. V Kirkland dated May 28 in which he says:

You say: "Not only was this language used which I mention, but the different points were discussed." I was only answering in a kind way her questions. The agreement does not forbid us teaching our views on these points but says: "We only claim the liberty to express our opinion on this subject in kindness to our brethren," etc. Besides I have told you repeatedly that this was written long before we signed the agreement and that I had no intention of agitating these differences. You say: "If you want to continue to charge me with falsehood, I suppose you have the privilege, if not the right." Now, Brother Cayce, you know that I have never charged you with falsehood. Why do you use such language?

Of course Brother Kirkland "was answering in a kind way her questions" when he said a flood of abuse had been heaped upon him for the past eighteen months, and when he used the other language already quoted from him in that article, "No respect for truth, honesty," etc. If that is kindness shame would blush in the presence of unkindness, we should think.

The expression, "We only claim the liberty to express our opinion on this subject in kindness to our brethren," appears in the agreement only with reference to Elder Kirkland's proposed plan of federal government, but this does not give the privilege of continually advocating it. Besides, what could possibly be the use or benefit of an agreement if the different points embraced therein are to be continually advocated or agitated? The article being written before the agreement was signed is no excuse for its being published. If Brother Kirkland had no intention of agitating the differences when he wrote and published that article, we wonder what he would have said if he had intended to agitate the differences. He says we know he has never charged us with falsehood, but we happen to know he has. His own letter of May 14th, and our reply of the 18th, as copied above, will speak for themselves, and are too plain on this point. If it were necessary we could produce more. So, we will say we used such language simply because it is true.

In this same letter he says further:

If you should sign a note with several parties and one should hurt your feelings, even if it were intentional, would that give you a lawful excuse to take your name off the note? Could you just take it off any way whether the other parties were willing or not? When a man signs a contract with others can he just take his name off because they or one of them hurt his feelings, even if it were intentional?

If we were to sign a note agreeing to pay you a certain amount for a certain consideration, and you were to fail to perform the consideration, that would give us a lawful excuse to refuse to pay the note, and no court of justice would require the payment of it. If a man signs a contract with others, and one of the others breaks the contract, or fails to do as the contract stipulates, then he is released. If we sign a contract with you, and you fail to carry out your part of the contract, then we are released from the obligation, and we are no longer bound by it. If we were to sign a contract with you, and we should fail in a single instance to carry out our part of it, you would have a perfect right to refuse to be bound further by it. Even if we should say we are going to carry out our part of it, this would not binder you being released, after we had failed on our part, and we would have absolutely no right whatever to call in question your withdrawal. So, we consider we signed a contract, or agreement, or covenant, with you. You broke the agreement, or covenant. That makes the whole thing null and void, and makes it appear to us that the only terms of peace that will reach the case are that you continue to advocate the things which are causing the confusion and distress among our people, and those who do not believe them must say nothing, and utter no protest whatever. This is the way it looks to us. As we stated before, we state again that we signed the agreement in good faith, and would have said no more about the trouble if Brother Kirkland had not broken it; but he did break it, so we are free to do as we see proper, or as we feel the cause to demand. And we would also say, as we have said before, that the only way we can see for a settlement is for those brethren to simply lay those things down and cease to advocate them, etc.

We humbly beg our readers to consider these things, and may the Lord help us to stand with the truth in humbleness, yet with boldness, is our prayer.

C. H. C.

Remarks to J. F. Leonard

REMARKS TO J. F. LEONARD

---June 12, 1906

We think it is as much wrong to advocate an error through the press as in the pulpit. We should contend against false ways through the press as much as from the pulpit. And we should do this both ways. We think Old Baptists do sympathize with and pray for mourners; but they do not need the modern mourners' bench revival machinery invented by the world and used by them. The Bible teaches everything we ought to practice religiously, and it says nothing about the mourners' bench. Neither do we think Old Baptist churches should have organs. Of course if they want them, we cannot prevent them having them. And if they want a Sunday school, or a kissing party, or an ankle show, we cannot prevent that either. But this does not make it right. Because a church wants a thing does not make it right. We do not wish to declare non-fellowship for our brethren who have the organ, but we do not approve of it. May the Lord help us all to lay aside every thing that causes confusion.

C. H. C.

Who Are The Primitive Baptists?

WHO ARE THE PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS?

---June 26, 1906

In the Baptist Banner, a little Softshell sheet, of May 23, 1906, published in Martin is a windy effusion under the above heading. The wonderful (?) display of wisdom (?) and learning (?) is over the signature of C. H. Bell, a little preacher of the Softshell persuasion, in which he has this to say concerning "these people known among us as the Primitive Baptists:"

They oppose, or once did, (and that is the principle today) an educated ministry and say it is wrong to educate our preachers, when it is a well grounded fact that many of the Primitive preachers were highly educated, Paul especially. These with many other peculiar ideas have made a very wide difference between what are known as Missionary Baptists and these people.

We wonder where the Rev. Parson Bell was educated? Wonder if he graduated in Harvard or Yale? We doubt if he ever even had any schooling in "Whale college." Allow us to suggest, Mr. Bell, that Paul was educated in literary and law affairs before he was called of the Lord to the ministry. After the Lord's call he did not spend a few years attending a man-made theological incubator to learn how to preach, but "immediately conferred not with flesh and blood." If the Lord needs an educated man now, or has a work for an educated man to do in His vineyard, He knows where to find him and is able to call him, as in the case of Saul of Tarsus. "For ye see your calling, brethren, how that not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called." -(I Corinthians 1:26). But this, with many other peculiar ideas Paul had, has made a very wide difference between him and the Softshells. Was Peter an educated man? Was Matthew? Was Mark? Was Luke? Was James? Was John? Oh, the proud, boastful spirit of these Softshells!

But Elder Bell says "Peter caught the spirit of what is called Hardshellism." Then Peter must have been what you now call a "Hardshell." Well, we are in good company. But Elder Bell says Peter was convinced that he was wrong.

If Peter was wrong, then we are wrong. If we are right, then Peter was right. In the Baptist and Reflector of April 28, 1892, Rufus C. Burleson says we "cling to all the doctrines and ordinances as they came from heaven-pure, simple, holy and sublime." He also says we "have never rejected any ordinance or doctrine of the Baptist Church as founded by Christ and the apostles 1892 years ago on the banks of Jordan." We are clinging to all the doctrines and ordinances as they came from heaven, we are right, we have never rejected any ordinance or doctrine of the Baptist Church as founded by Christ and the apostles. The Softshells have done this. Then the Softshells are wrong, and have departed from the simplicity of the gospel. Hence they are not primitive. Mr. Burleson also says, "Scores of our Missionary Baptists are only immersed Methodists in the Baptist Church." Elder J. R. Graves said, in the Tennessee Baptist of Sept. 8, 1860, "Let it be borne in mind then that our Missionary organism is of human origin, and of very recent date, entirely outside and independent of the churches, and not known in the primitive ages of the church." These quotations are from leading men in your own church, and according to their own admissions you are not Primitive Baptists. Your claim sounds very much like, "And in that day seven women shall take hold of one man, saying, we will eat our own bread, and wear our own apparel: only let us be called by thy name to take away our reproach." - (Isaiah 4:1).

Elder Bell says we have no gospel only for the sheep. We must still be in the right, for the Saviour told Peter to feed His sheep; but the elder says "it don't make good sheep feed sometimes," he fears. We suppose the reason he thinks it does not make good sheep feed is because he does not like it. This does not prove that it is not good sheep feed, for the Apostle Paul tells us "the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned."

Elder Bell further says, "In the debate between Elders S. F. Cayce, Hard-shell, and I N. Penick, Missionary, Elder Cayce said there was no message for the sinner and when he looked at the figures showing the number now in heathen lands without Christ the Saviour he became indignant and assured if they were ever saved at all it was before the foundation of the world and that our preaching to them would not change their case." To this we would say that Elder S. F. Cayce conducted himself as a Christian gentleman in the debate here with Elder Penick, and treated his opponent with all possible courtesy and fairness, and gave no cause for such misrepresentation of his position as this. We will not say Elder Bell has willfully misrepresented him, but we do most emphatically state that Elder S. F. Cayce did not say that "if they were ever saved at all it was before the foundation of the world." He did argue that they were saved "according as He hath chosen us in Him before the foundation of the world." He argued that the saved were chosen in Christ before the foundation of the world and saved in time according to that choice. But if you are not satisfied with that debate, "trot out" your "big brother" again and we will try him a few rounds. Elder S. F. Cayce has fallen asleep, and his labor is ended in defending the cause of Christ, but while his son lives, by the help of the Lord we are ready to defy this Philistine army. Bring out your Goliath, if you are wanting more.

There is just one more sentence we wish to notice at present in the Elder's article, and that is this: "See the success and blessings of the Missionary Baptists, while the other is growing beautifully less all the while." Does worldly splendor, pomp, vain pride and show, denote that the Lord is with you, and that the Softshells are the church of Christ? Does wealth and numbers prove that your denomination is the church of Christ? If it does, it will also prove the same thing for the Methodists, or the Catholics, or others. An argument that proves too much is as bad as one that proves nothing. As to the "other growing beautifully less" -this only manifests a spirit of hatred and malice, and shows that the Elder would be glad if they were all dead. But false prophets of his kind have been saying for years- long before he was born-that they would soon all be dead. Are they all dead yet? No, there are enough left yet to put the whole Fullerite army to flight, and it doesn't take long to do it, either. "One shall chase a thousand, and two shall put ten thousand to flight." They are not quite so few yet as you would like. When the last Old Baptist dies, Elder, if you are living, you better be about winding up the last of your little affairs here, for just then the elements are going to melt with fervent heat and time will be no more. He also says we were once about equally divided, but now it is not so. Yes, it has been true all along the line, and is true yet, that the children of the bond woman are more than the children of the free woman. Ishmaelites are more numerous than Israelites.

Now we would suggest to Elder Bell that we have on file some things in his own writing, and that it might do very well for him to cast no more reflections or insinuations about the Primitive Baptists. C. H. C.

Matthew 24

---June 26, 1906

Brother G. B. Thomasson, of Agnes, Texas, has requested our views of (Matthew 24). As he does not call for our views on any special portion of the chapter, we suppose he wishes to know our opinion of the same as a whole. So, we will offer only a few words. In the thirty-fourth verse the Saviour says, "This generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled." All those famines, pestilences, wars, rumors of wars, desolations, earthquakes, and other distresses mentioned-these were all to be fulfilled before the passing away of that generation. So this prophecy could not be of something that is yet in the future. Those things have all been fulfilled. In the fifteenth verse He says. "When ye therefore shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, stand in the holy place," etc. The holy place was in the temple, and in the destruction of Jerusalem the "abomination of desolation" was seen standing in the holy place. Dead bodies were found there. So, taking it all together, we think this chapter is foretelling the destruction of Jerusalem and the overthrow of the temple. In verse 2 it is said, "There shall not be left here one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down." This was said with reference to the temple. Then the Saviour tells of some things that were to come to pass before the destruction of the temple, and says these shall all be fulfilled before that generation passes away. For these reasons we think the chapter is foretelling, mainly, of the overthrow of the temple and the destruction of Jerusalem. We offer these thoughts simply as our own views. We are not infallible, and may be wrong; but if what we have given can be any benefit to anyone, we shall have nothing to regret. C. H. C.

THE SPIRITUALITY OF THE GOSPEL

---July 24, 1906

In the Apostolic Herald of May 15, 1906, is a communication signed Albert Oliphant, Forest, Ind., which contains some things we wish to notice. The following is an extract from the letter:

I suppose for a good many years there has been among God's people more than one notion as to the spirituality and effectiveness of His gospel, which is greatly to be lamented. This concerted condition resulted in the formation of two factions, or parties. Each, in their devilish enmity, have wandered into very dangerous extremes. One party believes that the "gospel of Christ is the power of God" and man, addressing only the regenerate, discarding the accountability of the unregenerate, and the preaching of repentance to them; however, they proclaim the inability of the unregenerate with great emphasis (but for what profitable purpose, with consistency, I cannot comprehend), since they believe the unregenerate are not subjects of gospel address; for it is supposed that a minister is preaching the gospel while he is in the pulpit- not merely "lecturing." This disregard and unconcernedness for the religious welfare of the souls of the unregenerate, they plainly see while the minister is in the pulpit, or in their society. Consequently to them, the gospel is destitute of sweetness, the house of God its preciousness, or sacredness; the audience decreases, the church declines for the want of gospel food, and in many places becomes extinct for the want of recruits.

We wish, first, to call attention to the expression, "devilish enmity." We do not desire to offer any comment on these words-we only call attention to them.

Brother Oliphant says, One party believes that the gospel of Christ is the power of God and man, addressing only the regenerate, discarding the accountability of the unregenerate, and the preaching of repentance to them.

We do not understand why Brother Oliphant says this party believes that the gospel is the power of God and man. This must be a supposition of his. But we plead guilty to believing a portion of what he says this party believes, though we do not discard the accountability of the unregenerate. The law demands perfect and perpetual obedience, and the sinner is accountable and under obligation to keep the law; but the sinner is unable to keep it, as he is already under its curse, by reason of sin. The broken law requires of the sinner that which he is now unable to perform. We do maintain that the gospel is to the regenerate, and to them only. We do not believe there is a single command, admonition or exhortation in the gospel to the unregenerate requiring spiritual service of them. What is the gospel? What does the word gospel mean? The gospel is good news. The word gospel means good news or glad tidings.

For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first and also to the Greek. For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith: as it is written, The just shall live by faith. (Romans 1:16-17). Paul was not ashamed of the glad tidings or good news of Christ. Why was he not ashamed of it? Because it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth. If one preaches or proclaims the good news or glad tidings of Christ, he is proclaiming the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth. Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God.

-(I John 5:1). The literal or interlinear translation says, has been begotten of God, or has been born of God. The word which is translated born may be correctly translated either begotten or born. So if one preaches the gospel, proclaims the good news of Christ, he proclaims the power of God to save the person who is born of God. To proclaim the power of God to save the believer through Christ, is to preach the gospel, is to proclaim the good news of Christ. None of this is to the unbeliever. It is to every one that believeth. In the proclamation of the good news of Christ the righteousness of God is revealed from faith to faith. The righteousness of God is not revealed in the gospel to the character without faith, but revealed from faith to faith. The person who has faith is in possession of the Spirit, for it is a fruit of the Spirit; and if one has the Spirit he is one of the Lord's children. So in the proclamation of the glad tidings of Christ the righteousness of God is revealed to those who are born of God. This text {(Romans 1:16)} is one used by Brother Oliphant, and it very plainly contradicts the idea, we think, that the gospel is in any sense addressed to the unregenerate. Remember that the gospel is good news. What good news have you for the unregenerate? Can you tell him that Jesus died for him? Upon what principle can you tell him this, only upon the principle that He died for all the race? If you tell him that Jesus atoned for him, must it not be upon the principle of a universal atonement? Then what about the doctrine of special atonement? The most glorious, full and complete gospel sermon we have on record is the Saviour's sermon on the mount, as recorded in Matthew, beginning at the first of the fifth chapter, and the Saviour begins that wonderful discourse by presenting a speciality, Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. The good news of that discourse was for those who are poor in spirit; those that mourn; the meek; those who hunger and thirst after righteousness; the merciful; the pure in heart; the peace-makers; those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake; those who are reviled, persecuted, and who have all manner of evil said against them falsely for Jesus' sake.

We haven't space to copy all of Brother Oliphant's article from the Herald. We would be glad if we did, so that all our readers could see for themselves every argument made and every Scripture quoted in defense of the positions taken in the extracts we have given above; but the extracts are sufficient to show his positions, we think. We suppose the positions taken are endorsed by the editor, Elder J. V. Kirkland. We know that he endorses some of them. Elder Kirkland agrees with him on the repentance question. In support of the idea that the unregenerate are commanded, in the gospel, to repent, Brother Oliphant quotes a number of passages. He does not make an argument from each one, but merely quotes them. We want to notice a few of them to see if they are to the unregenerate, or if they may be rightly applied to them. First we notice (Luke 13:3), "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish," which he quoted. Remember that this text is given to show that the unregenerate are commanded to repent. If this is true, then the perishing is eternal, so the conclusion must be that the unregenerate must repent in order to life. But why not let us have the whole thing? "There were present at that season some that told Him of the Galileans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices. And Jesus answering said unto them, Suppose ye that these Galileans were sinners above all the Galileans, because they suffered such things? I tell you, Nay; but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish. Or those eighteen, upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, and slew them, think ye that they were sinners above all men that dwell in Jerusalem? I tell you, Nay; but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." -(Luke 13:1-5). It is plain that this language was spoken to the Jews, who were God's people as a nation. It was spoken to national Israel. National Israel was typical of spiritual Israel. So, instead of the language being now applicable to the unregenerate, it belongs to the Lord's disobedient children. If they live after the flesh they die to the enjoyments that are in the gospel church or kingdom. This argument might be made still further, but this is sufficient to show that the right application of the text is not to the unregenerate.

The next we notice is (Acts 2:38), "Repent and be baptized every one of YOU in the name of Jesus Christ." If the unregenerate are told in this text to repent they are also told to be baptized, for the same persons are commanded to be baptized who are commanded to repent. So, if this position is correct, the Campbelites are right. Brother Oliphant surely will not accept that. A text that proves too much is as bad as one that proves nothing at all. What is true of these two passages is true of every text the brother quoted. Not one of them requires gospel service of the unregenerate.

Now, notice what Brother Oliphant says about the gospel being destitute of sweetness to the unregenerate. We wonder how much sweetness there was for the unregenerate in the gospel Paul preached. "But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned." - (I Corinthians 2:14). Paul was talking about his preaching, the "things we speak," and says the natural man does not receive them. The gospel Paul preached was destitute of sweetness to the unregenerate. How about John's preaching? "They are of the world: therefore speak they of the world, and the world heareth them. We are of God: he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us. Hereby know we the spirit of truth, and the spirit of error." - (I John 4:5,6). If John knew what he was talking about, the man who proposes to preach in such a way as that the unregenerate will hear his preaching-hear with gladness-proposes to be of the world in his preaching. If he proposes to give a gospel sweetness to the unregenerate, the world, he admits in so claiming that his preaching is not of God, but of the world. The world hears those who are of the world in their preaching. John teaches this. The world did not hear or receive John's preaching; there was no sweetness in his preaching for them; but those who knew the Lord heard his preaching; there was sweetness in it to them. We are in good company. We would ether be in company with Paul and John in preaching a gospel that has a sweetness for the Lord's humble poor, than to be in company with the world in preaching another gospel that is received by the world. How much sweetness was there in Stephen's preaching for them? When they heard what he had to say "they gnashed on him with their teeth," and they stoned him to death. Not much sweetness to them in his preaching. If there was a sweetness in the gospel to the unregenerate, then the gospel would lose its offensiveness to the world and no one would ever be persecuted, stoned, put in prison, put to death, or be punished by the world for preaching it.

But Brother Oliphant says:

The opposite party (at least some of them), seem also to believe that the "gospel of Christ is the power of God" and man, looking to the "watchman," instead of "beyond" the "watchman;" believing in instrumentalities beyond what is reasonable-that it might be possible for it to be the minister's business (or "power") to save souls, "build the house," or "keep the city."

So far as we are acquainted, those who claim to believe in instrumentalities in eternal salvation say they believe it is God who does the saving, that the power to save is with the Lord, but that the Lord uses instruments in salvation. We know they sometimes make arguments and make remarks that would lead one to think they believed the minister has power to save; yet they do not claim to believe this. But we conclude from the reading of what Brother Oliphant has to say that he thinks some go to an extreme in this regard-that the power to save is with the ministry-but that he believes the power to "save souls" is with the Lord, and that He uses instruments in that work. We understand him to mean that he believes the Lord uses the minister as an instrument in the salvation of the sinner. If this is not what Brother Oliphant means, we have misunderstood him. But we haven't space to discuss this point at present.

The following is another extract from Brother Oliphant's letter:

The gospel also makes it the duty of "all nations of men" that "dwell on all the face of the earth" to seek the Lord. (Acts 17:26): "And hath made of one blood (Adam) all nations of men (all human creatures), for to dwell on all the face of the earth; and hath determined the times before appointed (when they should each exist), and the bounds of their habitations" (where they should each exist.) Verse 27: "That they (relative pronoun, which has for its antecedent all nations of men) should (duty) seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after Him, and find Him, though He be not far from every one of us." Verse 28: "For in Him we live, move, and have our being" (existence.)

Here is accountability in its full force, declared by the Lord in His gospel, or counsel. Since all the human specie is commanded to repent, and seek the Lord, it is each and every one's duty; and God by His gospel requires all duty to be performed; and whatever God requires of His creatures is His "counsel" to them; and He hath commanded His ministry "shun not to declare the whole counsel of God."

He does not quote all of the 28th verse. That verse, in full, and the 29th and 30th verses read, "For in Him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also His offspring. Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device. And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men everywhere to repent. Paul is here preaching to a people who are the offspring of God-born of God-a people who have been worshipping God ignorantly, having an altar erected to the unknown God. They are commanded to turn away from their ignorant or idolatrous worship, and all those who are born of God, the offspring of God everywhere, who are engaged in such worship are commanded to repent. There is nothing in this text for the unregenerate. It is to the children of God who are engaging in false worship, and it is the duty of the ministry to admonish all such persons to repent, turn away from it and worship the Lord as directed in His word.

Again we would beg our brethren to lay aside all such teaching and let us labor for the things that make for peace. Oh, that the Lord may sustain us all, and help us to declare all His counsel without fear or favor, yet in humility. May the Lord open our understanding, so that we may all see the truth and help us to earnestly contend for it. Let us be careful to avoid all extremes, and let us be faithful to our Master and to our trust, and the Lord will bless us.

C. H. C.

The Word Made Flesh

THE WORD MADE FLESH

---August 14, 1906

There is a precious sweetness in the thought that the Word was made flesh. We are all poor sinners, having violated God's law in Adam. When Adam sinned, we all sinned in him, for we are only Adam multiplied. Now, that the law of God has been violated, if we ever enter the portals of eternal glory the demands of that broken law must be met. The law must be satisfied. All the debt we owe to divine justice must be paid. Not only so, but there must be righteousness for us. As we have broken the law, we are already guilty; so we can have no righteousness of our own to plead that is sufficient of thyself. And now, having done all this for us, thou hast arisen from the dead and ascended to glory, there to appear in the presence of God for us, to intercede for thy people according to the Father's will. Oh, blessed Redeemer, thou knowest when we are tempted and when we need thy prayers. Then thou wilt pray or intercede for us when we are in need. Let us cast all our care on Jesus, having the sweet assurance that He careth for us. Dear brethren, hold up your heads, and press onward in the service of our adorable King. He knoweth all your trials and difficulties, and will never leave thee nor forsake thee. Remember us in your prayers. Pray the Lord to direct us aright and to sustain us in all our trials.

C. H. C.

THE PRODIGAL SON

---August 14, 1906

ELDER C. H. CAYCE:

Dear Sir-Will you please give me your views on the prodigal son? It will be found in (Luke 15). Was he born of the Spirit of God when he left his father or not? Or did he receive a change while he was gone? Please give your views on the above through the paper. I remain yours truly,
J. F. JOHNSON.
Sardis, Tenn.
OUR ANSWER

As Brother Johnson merely asks if the son was born of God before he left his father, we will not take space to quote all the chapter referring to the matter. It may be found in Luke 15, beginning with (Luke 15:11), "And he said a certain man had two sons." The younger son left his father and took his journey into a far country. If the father represents the heavenly Father, then the younger son was born of God before he left and took his journey. If the elder son was born of the Father, so was the younger son. He was as much a son of the father as the elder son. Both were born of the same father. And the younger son was no more a son of his father when he returned than when he left. He was his father's son when he started on the journey; he was the same son while he was gone, and the same son when he returned. While he was away from his father's home, he was a son, but was away from home, and engaged in swine feeding. We have thought perhaps some of the Lord's sons are now away from home and engaged in the same kind of business. We can only hope they may come to themselves, as this younger son did, and acknowledge their errors and their sins, and come home again, and let the fatted calf be killed and have rejoicing in the Lord's house, that the sons, who are now dead to the enjoyments of that house, are alive again.

We trust these few thoughts may be some help to you, and that the Lord may bless them to your good, and to the good of all our readers.
C. H. C.

Elder Crouse's Letter

---September 18, 1906

In our issue of Sept. 4, 1906, is a letter from Elder Wm. H. Crouse, of Winchester, Ky., under the caption "A Statement of Facts Important to Our People." Our dear brother, Elder J. K. Stephens, of Bald Knob, Ark., was here in Martin at the time, and stated that he took the responsibility of having the article inserted in that issue without comment, leaving the comment, if any, to us, and that we had not seen the article. We have a few words to offer, and we wish to offer them in the spirit of kindness, but yet we wish to speak plainly. If we had seen the article before it was published we would have written to Elder Crouse privately and offered some remarks; but as the letter has already been published we feel it to be our duty to offer some remarks publicly.

First, Brother Crouse says, "For many months a war has been waged against Elder J. V. Kirkland." We do not, at all, feel that Brother Crouse has correctly stated the case in this expression. We do not accuse him of stating it wrongly on purpose, but do think he makes a wrong charge against us. Instead of a war having been waged against Elder J. V. Kirkland, he has waged a war against the time-honored principles of our fathers, and against the doctrine and practice of the church. While he has done this, some have stood firmly by those principles, and have defended them in the face of the opposition of Elder Kirkland and some others. None of us who have opposed the new measures advocated by him, we feel sure, have done so as opposing Elder Kirkland; but we have desired to be faithful to our King in opposing his departures from the original principles of the church of Christ.

Brother Crouse also says, "but I did feel that he was unjustly opposed and persecuted." Brother Crouse does not say, in so many words, that he does not feel that way about it now, but we are hoping that he now has a different feeling. One is certainly justifiable in opposing a wrong position or false doctrine. Elder Kirkland's position on Federal government is either right or wrong. If it is right, then he was unjustly opposed in his advocating it. If it is wrong, then the opposition was just and he was not unjustly opposed. The same thing is true regarding his position on the commission, and Elder Crouse says he has "never for one moment favored his ideas of church government or the commission." As to the persecution, we have never thought persecution consisted in telling the truth. So far as we know, every charge made against Elder Kirkland has been sustained. They have not been denied by him, that we know of. So far as the points are concerned that are mentioned in Elder Crouse's letter, and on account of which those brethren have withdrawn from Elder Kirkland's paper, none of them are new. It had already been said in our paper that Elder Kirkland said our people were not justifiable in withdrawing from the Missionary or New School Baptists. Elder J. N. Hall's statement to us, which was published in our issue of Feb. 27, 1906, in our editorial headed "Some Plain Facts," in support of which we copied an editorial from the Baptist Flag, a Missionary Baptist paper published in Fulton, Ky., showed clearly that Elder Kirkland would be willing to fellowship them. Elder Kirkland never denied this. He only insinuated that we were jealous because Elder Hall wanted him to join the New School Baptists. We never thought then, and do not think yet, that this would be a very convincing reason to give that one is jealous of another. The New Schools would be glad to get anyone from the ranks of the Old Baptists at any time. It has also been stated in our columns that Elder Kirkland had said he would be willing to receive the Missionary Baptists on their baptism, provided they would come a church at a time. Not one of these things had ever been denied that we know of, and they all, therefore, stood as confessed. This all being true, these are no new things just brought to light. They are only presented in a little different way, perhaps.

Now, some might say, "If you were aware of these things, then why did you sign that peace agreement with them?" We suppose we can have no better time than now to tell why. In the first place we wish to say plainly that we did not sign that agreement as representing anyone. We simply signed it as an individual, and our signing it could bind no other person. Individually and as an individual, we were willing to sign the agreement, and allow Elder Kirkland to hold the views embraced by him, provided he would not agitate or contend for them. We hoped that as a result of the agreement the questions would be agitated no more, and that thereby a division might be averted. We were willing to sign the agreement with him, and allow him to hold those views, provided he would not agitate them, in order to save a division. On the other hand, we thought that if Elder Kirkland broke the agreement, which he did, it ought to show to fair-minded brethren that he did not want peace on any kind of reasonable terms. It ought to show that he preferred a division rather than to cease agitating those measures.

Now we wish to call attention to some of the statements Elder Crouse submitted to Elder Kirkland. The second item reads:

While we might not agree with all that our brethren did in separating from the Carey-Fuller party (we are all fallible) yet we hold that they were justified in separating from them and that such issues would be sufficient ground for separation today; viz: that eternal life is conditional, the atonement universal, and that it "rests upon the church to bring the world to Christ."

In Elder Kirkland's letter to Elder Crouse he says, "In the second item I have always thought a division could, and should, have been averted, by prudence and the proper use of the blessed truth, in patience and love. So I do not think it would be exactly honest in me to sign it as you word it." Notice that he says he has always thought this way.

In the "Cause Defended," published in 1898, is a chapter by Elder J. V. Kirkland on "Baptist History-Perpetuity of the Gospel Church." In this chapter, on page 95 of the book, the following language is found with reference to the separation of the Old Baptists from the New School Baptists:

Such gross departures from the original faith and practice of the Baptist Church as those already mentioned, with hundreds of others too tedious to mention, are sufficient ground to justify those who are true Baptists and wish to keep pure the communion and preserve the holy principles and holy church government, delivered to us by Christ and His apostles, which our holy brethren have faithfully contended for against the powers of darkness and given their lives for more than twelve hundred years during the dark ages, in withdrawing from those who have brought in those departures.

If he has always thought "a division could, and should, have been averted," then he has always thought, surely, that there was not sufficient ground to justify a division. The statement submitted by Elder Crouse says our brethren "were justified in separating from them" (the New School Baptists). Elder Kirkland does not think it would be exactly honest in him to sign the statement worded this way, as he has "always thought a division could, and should, have been averted." Of course, if it could, and should, have been averted, then there was not sufficient ground to justify it. If Elder Kirkland thought in 1898 that the departures were sufficient ground to justify our brethren in withdrawing from them, did he always think they were not justified in doing so? If he always thought they were not justified in separating from them, then did he think in 1898 that our brethren had sufficient ground to justify them in withdrawing from the New Schools? And if he thought in 1898 that the departures of the New Schools were such as to justify our brethren in withdrawing from them, but does not now think they were justified in separating from them, did he always think "a division could, and should, have been averted?" How can it be that he "always thought a division could, and should, have been averted," if he thought in 1898 that our brethren had sufficient ground to justify them in withdrawing from the New Schools? This all looks like a contradiction to us, and we do not see how the statements can be harmonized.

In Elder Kirkland's letter to Elder Crouse he offers no objection to the third item, yet there is a word changed in it, as submitted by Elder Kirkland. That item, as written by Elder Crouse, reads:

We believe the alien sinner to be dead in sin and wholly unable to rescue himself from his condition, and cannot be reached by the gospel, but can only be quickened by the Spirit of God.

As changed by Elder Kirkland it reads:

We believe the alien sinner to be dead in sin and wholly unable to rescue himself from his condition, and cannot be rescued by the gospel, but can only be quickened by the Spirit of God.

Notice that the first says the alien sinner cannot be reached by the gospel; Elder Kirkland used the word "rescued" instead of "reached." The New School Baptists, we think, will admit that the alien sinner cannot be rescued by the gospel, that the Holy Spirit rescues the sinner; but argue that the gospel reaches the sinner, and that the Holy Spirit reaches the sinner through the gospel and rescues him. We would ask why Elder Kirkland changed that word? Does he hold the New School position on this question? We cannot understand why he would use the word "rescued" instead of "reached" unless he does hold with them. We leave the reader to judge.

Again, in his letter to Elder Crouse he says: "I was asked some years ago if a Missionary Baptist church should reform and accept the true doctrine and practice of the Bible as we understand it, could we take them into our fellowship as a church, and I said that I think we could just as our brethren did the Separate Baptists in the Kehukee Association in 1777, and I so stated in my correspondence with Elder J. M. Thompson." Remember, as above stated, it has already been published in our paper that Elder John T. Blanchard heard Elder Kirkland say he would be willing to receive the Missionaries on their baptism, provided they would come a church at a time. Now, he claims this would not be alien baptism. And he would be willing to receive them just as our brethren did the Separate Baptists in 1777. Hassell's History, page 698, says, concerning the differences that existed between and among the brethren then, that "The most forcible objection of all appeared to be the retention of members who had been baptized in unbelief; and this was admitted on the part of the Regulars to be a wrong; on which account several of their churches sought to correct it, by requiring all such of their members to be baptized." These brethren, in reconciling their differences, adopted seventeen articles of faith found on pages 699 and 700 of Hassell's History. Article 12 reads: "We believe baptism and the Lord's supper are gospel ordinances, both belonging to the converted or true believers; and that persons who were sprinkled or dipped while in unbelief were not regularly baptized according to God's word, and that such ought to be baptized after they are savingly converted into the faith of Christ." Article 16 reads: "We believe that no minister has a right to the administration of the ordinances, only such as are regularly called and come under the imposition of hands by the presbytery." By these articles of faith it is clearly seen that those brethren accepted or received no baptism except that which was administered by one having proper authority, and the baptized person being a proper subject. To conform to this belief the churches then sought to correct the irregularity on this point by requiring all their members to be baptized who had been dipped before they were regenerated. To receive a Missionary Baptist church in the way Elder Kirkland is willing to do would be to receive them without requiring what the brethren required in the Kehukee Association. Besides this, suppose a Campbelite church should reform in doctrine and should accept our position on election, predestination, salvation by grace, and so on, why not accept them on their baptism? They went out from us, just as the Missionaries did, by the invention and introduction of new theories. It would be just as consistent to receive one as the other. The Campbelites party has lost its identity which it once held with the Baptist Church. On page 97 of the "Cause Defended" Elder J. V Kirkland says, concerning the Missionary Baptist cause, that it "had lost its identity with the true Baptist Church." On page 99 he says: "From this it is very evident that the Primitive Baptists are right in their claim to hold the identity of the apostolic church." If we hold the identity of the apostolic church, the Missionaries do not; and any baptism, therefore, administered by them, whether it be a single member or a whole organized body of them, is without gospel identity, and is alien baptism. So, when the whole matter is summed up, we can see no new reason for the steps taken by these brethren. We will also say that so far as we are concerned we think it is just as necessary for those brethren to renounce Elder Kirkland's position on some other points as on these. In THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST of July 18, 1905, is a letter from Elder L. E. Thomas, in which he upholds Elder Kirkland's plan of federal government, or at least it is so understood, and argues that the commission was given to the church. This letter was written to Elder S. F. Cayce, and in it he says, "Hoping you will favor me with an answer soon, either through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST or privately," etc. He was favored with a kind reply by our father, Elder S. F. Cayce. A short time after this, as our readers know, our father passed away, and we are reliably informed that Elder Thomas said, when he heard of it that "it is a God-sent blessing to our cause," etc. On our recent tour in Ohio and Indiana some of the churches served by some of these brethren refused to make appointments for us. This could be for no other reason than that we oppose the positions believed by them. Will they all now renounce those positions also? We are glad Elder Crouse has seen the error of following Elder Kirkland, and we trust he will now continue steadfast, and that the Lord may enable him to be faithful in contending against every false way and to stand firmly for the truth, letting others do as they may. May the Lord direct and sustain us all.

C. H. C.

Acts 26:18,20

---September 25, 1906

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-Will you give in the paper your views of (Acts 26:18,20). Please take up each clause in these two verses and give all the explanation necessary. I believe you are able to do this or I would not ask it of you. Yours in gospel bonds, W. A. LAMB.

Kite, Ga.

OUR ANSWER

In compliance with Brother Lamb's request we will try to give some of our thoughts on the Scripture referred to. But we wish to give some of the language in connection with the 18th and 20th verses. This was in Paul's defense before King Agrippa, as recorded in (Acts 26). Beginning with (Acts 26:15) we read: "And I said, who art thou, Lord? And He said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest. But rise, and stand upon thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to make thee a minister and a witness both of these things which thou hast seen, and of those things in the which I will appear unto thee; delivering thee from the people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I send thee." This includes the 17th verse. The 18th, 19th and 20th verses read: "To open their eyes, and to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith that is in me. Whereupon, O King Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision: but shewed first unto them of Damascus, and at Jerusalem, and throughout all the coasts of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God, and do works meet for repentance." We thus quote at length so that the reader may have the connection. We are of the opinion Brother Lamb wishes our views more especially on the clause, "that they should repent and turn to God," although he asks that we take up each clause in the 18th and 20th Verses. We haven't space to take up each clause and comment at much length on each, but will endeavor to offer a few of such thoughts as we have. Our ideas are worthless unless they are supported by inspiration, so we desire to give a "thus saith the Lord" for our positions, and we desire that our positions be in harmony with the general tenor of the Scriptures. Notice, first, the expression, "For I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to make thee a minister and a witness," and also, "delivering thee from the people and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I send thee." We wish first to call attention to the thought embraced in this language, that God called Paul to the work of the ministry-his calling was from the Saviour, and that he was sent by the Lord. The Lord said He was the sender. Paul conferred not with flesh and blood. He did not wait for a board or church to send him. He did not enquire of the church as to what he must do. He did not ask them whether he would be supported not. He did not say he could not preach and make tents too. He was a tent-maker. He did not say he could not do both. He did not want to ask the church at Jerusalem if they would support him while he was in Damascus and in Judea and among the Gentiles. He began preaching Christ at once, with all his confidence and trust in the Lord that provision would be made for him-that the Lord would be with him and would provide for him. His trust was in the one who sent him. Even so it is this day. If the church sends a man, his trust is in the church, he depends on the church, and he looks to the church for support. If the Lord sends a man, we think he is willing to trust the Lord, and to depend on the Lord's promise to be with him and to feed and clothe him. When the cry came from Macedonia, "Come over and help us," Paul did not refuse to go until they would raise a certain sum of money, as some of our preachers have done in this latter day, but went, by the direction and sending power of God, into Macedonia. If the ministry of today would follow Paul's example there would be less trouble among the dear people of God.

Paul was sent by the Lord as a witness. "A true witness will testify to the truth without money and without price." If a witness is hired to testify in the courts of our land, his testimony would be thrown out of court. Even if his testimony should be true, it would not be received by the court, if the court is apprised of the fact that he is hired to testify. If a man will not go before a certain court to testify unless he is hired to do so, he may also be hired to stay away, or to go before some other court. So, it seems that some have been hired to leave the Old Baptist court and to testify in some other court.

He was sent as a minister. "And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ: till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ; that we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive." - (Ephesians 4:11-14). "And God hath set some in the church, first apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers, after that miracles, then gifts of healings, helps, governments, diversities of tongues." - (I Corinthians 13:28). These Scriptures teach us that the gifts in the ministry are given by the Lord to the church, and are for the benefit of the Lord's people. They are "for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ."

"To open their eyes." It would do no good to open the eyes of one who is blind. To benefit one by opening his eyes, he must first have life and the power of sight. People are sometimes born in nature without the power of sight, because nature and the works of nature are imperfect; but God is perfect and His work is perfect. It is the doing of God, the work of God, by which one is born into the spiritual kingdom. When one is born into that kingdom he is born with the power of sight. He may now be benefited by having his eyes opened to every false way, and to the true teaching of the Scriptures, and to the doctrine of God and the ordinances of the church of Christ.

"And to turn them from darkness to light." If one has his eyes closed, it is apparently dark. The Lord sent Paul to open the eyes of those who had been born of God, and to turn them from darkness to light. He was to open their eyes to the truth in a doctrinal way, and to the ordinances of the gospel; he was to turn them from the darkness of false worship, and from law worship, to the light of the true gospel worship of God. He was to declare unto them the whole counsel of God, and knowing the terror of the Lord he would persuade men. He would not persuade unregenerate sinners to be born again; it is the work of God that sinners are born again. He would persuade those who have been born again, those who have a sweet hope in Jesus, to turn away from the darkness of law worship and law service to the true light of gospel worship and gospel service. The foolish virgins said, "Give us of your oil, for our lamps are gone out." The light of law service has gone out. "A great wonder appeared in heaven, a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet." The light of the moon, representing the law, has gone out-it is under feet, and the sun has risen. The true light of gospel service is now shining. Paul was sent of the Lord to turn the children of God from the darkness of the law to the true light of the gospel. No minister who preaches law for gospel can rightly claim to be doing what Paul was sent to do.

"And from the power of Satan unto God." To be turned from false worship to the true service of God is to be turned from the power of Satan unto God. "Take heed unto thyself and to the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this, thou shalt both save thyself and them that hear thee." The minister of the gospel, by taking heed unto himself and unto the doctrine, will save himself and those that hear him. He will not save all those who hear the sound of his voice, but those who hear-understand and heed his preaching. "Consider what I say; and the Lord give thee understanding in all things." The Lord opened Lydia's heart, that she attended unto the things spoken of Paul. The Lord regenerates, gives the understanding, opens the heart. Then the minister who is sent of the Lord, by taking heed unto himself and unto the doctrine, may save himself and those who hear-may save those who have been regenerated, who have understanding, whose hearts the Lord has opened. He saves himself, first, from false ways, from the power of Satan. "But I keep under my body, lest after I have preached to others I myself should be a castaway. Then he saves those who hear with the same salvation, in the same way that he saves himself-from false ways, from false doctrines, from the doctrines of men and devils-thus turning the Lord's children from the power of Satan unto God.

“That they may receive forgiveness of sins, and inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith that is in me.” “He came unto His own, and His own received Him not. But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name: which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God.” -(John 1:11-13). Those who hear, or heed, the preaching of the gospel have already been born of God, and they receive forgiveness of sins in a manifest sense. When Jesus came unto His own, those who received Him had been born of God; those who believed on His name had been born of God. So, those who had been born of God were given power to become sons of God. They were not given power to become the sons of God in regeneration, for they were already born of God. They were given power to become sons manifestly. Paul was sent to preach the gospel, that those who had been born of God might receive forgiveness of sins, or become sons of God, in a manifest sense. It was not that the unregenerate might receive forgiveness of sins, or become children of God, or that they might be born of God. “But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him. But God hath revealed them unto us by His Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God. For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? Even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God. Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God. Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual. But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned.” - (I Corinthians 2:9-14). As no man knoweth the things of a man only by the spirit of man, even so no man knoweth the things of God only by the Spirit of God. No man who is destitute of the spirit of man can know the things of man; even so no man who is destitute of the Spirit of God can know the things of God. Paul's preaching, therefore, could be of no spiritual benefit to those who were destitute of the Spirit of God. He spoke the things of God, but the natural man, the man who did not possess the Spirit of God, did not receive those things. He could not know them, because they are spiritually discerned. Those who were in possession of the Spirit could discern those things, could receive the things he preached; and in taking heed to them they would show their faith by their works, thereby receiving forgiveness of sins in a declarative way. And they also thereby received "inheritance among them that are sanctified by faith that is in" Jesus. They received the inheritance among them who are in the visible kingdom or organized church of Christ here on earth. "Therefore I endure all things for the elects' sakes, that they may also obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory." -(II Timothy 2:10). Paul was willing to endure all the trials and persecutions that might be heaped upon him by the enemies of the cross of Christ for the sake of God's elect, for the sake of God's little children, that they might "also obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus;" that they might walk in obedience to the loving commandments of Jesus, and thereby enjoy the manifestations of His divine presence and have His approving smiles, thereby receiving some sweet assurances that they are indeed the Lord's children.

"But shewed first unto them of Damascus, and at Jerusalem, and throughout all the coasts of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God." We have already seen that Paul's preaching was to those who had been born of God, and for their benefit. This being true, it cannot be that Paul shewed to the unregenerate that they "should repent and turn to God;" but he did show that those who were the children of God should repent, turn away from every false way, and turn to God, turn to the true worship and service of the Lord. On the day of Pentecost there were present Jews, devout men, out of every nation, who heard the preaching of Peter, and "they were pricked in their heart" -they were cut in their heart. This is proof that the Lord had already taken away the stony heart out of their flesh and had given them a heart of flesh, a heart susceptible of feeling. They were pricked in their heart, and said unto Peter and to the rest of the apostles, men and brethren, what shall we do? Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." They were the Lord's children; they were devout men; they had been circumcised in heart. Peter told them to repent, to turn away from false ways, to come out from among the world and be separate therefrom. Verse 40 says, "And with many other words did he testify and exhort, saying, Save yourselves from this untoward generation." He did not command the untoward or wicked generation to repent nor to save themselves. Surely Paul and Peter were both sent of the Lord, and their preaching was of the same kind. And surely Peter did not fail to preach according to the commission given him. He surely preached on this day according to the command of the Lord. Then if Paul was to admonish the untoward or wicked generation or unregenerate sinner to repent, Peter should do the same thing; but he did not do that on this occasion. No command is recorded that he gave to the untoward generation. God's children are commanded or admonished to repent, come out from among that generation, to save themselves from them by coming out and being separate from them.

We might go on and on, giving instance after instance and Scripture after Scripture, but we deem it unnecessary. What is true in the foregoing references, is true in every case that might be referred to. God's word nowhere contradicts itself. It is all a perfect chain of harmony from first to last, and all other Scriptures treating on the same subjects are in perfect accord with these.

We have tried to comply with Brother Lamb's request to such an extent as that he may understand our position and know where we occupy on the points involved. We trust the Lord may bless the remarks to the good of all our readers. Let us all try to contend for the faith that was once delivered to the saints, and pray with, and for each other. Remember us in your prayers.

C. H. C.

OUR COLORED BRETHERN

---October 2, 1906

We see a move on foot among our colored brethren for a National meeting to be held in Huntsville, Ala., in 1907 to organize a National Association. We note that they have a National Moderator, a National Vice Moderator, a National Secretary, a National Financial Secretary, a National Treasurer, a National Statistical Secretary, fourteen National Field Secretaries, National Executive Committee composed of thirteen, a Board of Directors composed of members from sixteen associations, with the Moderator and Clerk of sixteen other associations, a Press Bureau composed of four members, a committee on Sunday School Work composed of seven members, a committee of seven women on National Woman's Work, a committee of two on History of Colored Primitive Baptists and Hymn Book. We would kindly advise our colored brethren to let these things severely alone. Where, in the Bible, do you find any of these secretaries or committees? This whole affair looks very much to us like the new inventions and ponderous machinery of the New School Baptists, and is foreign to the Bible. Our opinion is they will cause trouble among our colored brethren, and we think it would be better to let these things alone and follow the plain and simple teachings of the Scriptures in all church matters. C. H. C.

Matthew 12:43-44

---October 2. 1906

Brother J. B. Miller, of Shepherd, Ga., has requested us to give our views of (Matthew 12:43-44), which reads, "When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest, and findeth none. Then he saith, I will return into my house from whence I came out; and when he is come, he findeth it empty, swept, and garnished." We do not feel any impression to write at much length upon these words. If we are not mistaken this Scripture has already been explained in our columns perhaps more than once; but we will offer in a very brief way what we think is taught in the parable or illustration used by the Saviour in the language. We would call attention to the fact that the unclean spirit went out of the man. He was not bound nor cast out. This man could be nothing better than a nominal professor. He professed to be good, possibly; but the unclean spirit had only gone out for a season. 'The strong man armed was not bound. The strong man keeps his house and his goods are in peace until a stronger comes upon him. The unclean spirit keeps his house, the sinner, until a stronger comes upon him. The stronger is Jesus. He is stronger than all powers of darkness, and He comes to the poor sinner and binds the strong man, and spoils his armor wherein he trusted. The last state of this man is never worse than the first. The strong man, the unclean spirit, is bound. But when the unclean spirit goes out of his house he is not bound. It is his own house he goes out of. When he returns he finds it empty. If it is empty, it is not occupied by the Spirit of Jesus. The Lord has not taken up His abode there by the operation of His Holy Spirit. The Lord is not there. The Interlinear translation says he finds it unoccupied. So he can be no better than merely a nominal professor. The unclean spirit "taketh with him seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell there," so says verse 45. So instead of being better after his outward profession he is worse than before, "and the last state of that man is worse than the first." We have known some nominal professors in our lives who were worse after than they were before-that is, their practice was worse and they were more wicked. The last state was worse than the first. But when the Lord binds the strong man, the last state is never worse than the first. The Lord's work is perfect and will stand. Men may persuade and scare the sinner so that he may for a while profess to be so very good; but scared religion will not last and is worthless. God knows the hearts of all men, and no outward profession when the heart has not really been changed can deceive the Lord. These few thoughts are offered in love to all our readers. C. H. C.

WHAT DOES HE BELIEVE?

---October 9, 1906

We take the following from the Western Recorder: "Elder R. S. Kirkland, of Fulton, Ky., joined Walnut Street Church in this city on last Sunday morning and preached there Sunday night. He was one of the best known and most highly esteemed ministers of the 'Primitive' Baptists. His study of the Bible convinced him that the commission was given to the church instead of to the apostles as individuals, and hence is of perpetual obligation; and that it is the duty of the church to preach the gospel to all the world. He received a most cordial welcome, and his sermon Sunday night gave great satisfaction. On the advice of friends, including the writer, he engaged in evangelistic work for a number of years, and this he will continue for a time, at least. He is a preacher of unusual force and originality, and he is sound in the faith—a thorough Missionary Baptist. We cordially commend him to our people. We have known of Brother Kirkland for some time. He has been quite a prominent preacher in the ranks of our Primitive Baptist brethren. A number of them, however, objected to his missionary teachings. We are glad to have him join a Missionary Baptist church, where we believe, he belongs. May we ask one or two questions? 1. Does he believe that a person must have repentance toward God and faith toward the Lord Jesus Christ in order to be saved, or that a simple feeling of desire to be saved indicates that he is regenerated? 2. Was he received in the Walnut Street church on his Primitive Baptist baptism, or was he rebaptized? The Recorder does not state. We ask these questions for information—Baptist and Reflector, Sept. 27, 1906.

The Reflector is glad, and so are we. We are glad for any to leave us who are not satisfied with the teaching of God's word and the old order of gospel service, as handed down to us through the ages from Christ and the apostles. You are welcome to any others we may have who may be in line with him. We suppose he can tell you whether or not he believes a person must have repentance toward God and faith toward the Lord Jesus Christ in order to be saved. We have been informed that he was received in the Walnut Street church on his Primitive Baptist baptism; that they did not "re-baptize" him. Why not take him that way? A. J. Holt, a leading Missionary Baptist of this state, corresponding secretary of the Tennessee Baptist convention, said, "My reasons for receiving the baptism of the Anti-Missionaries are, they have the same baptism we have. * * * They are a congregation of baptized believers; that is what we call a church." Elder W. P. Throgmorton said in a letter dated Sept. 26, 1893, "I believe that the baptism of our 'Hardsbell' brethren is valid. * * From the time of the division between us and the 'Hardshells' it has been the general custom of our people to receive 'Hard-shell' baptism as valid. * * As to the supposed case (or real case is it?) you mention of the 'Hardshell' preacher who wants to come to the Missionaries.

I would take him on his baptism, and would accept him as a minister on his 'Hardshell' ordination, provided his views as to doctrine and practice accords with those of Missionary Baptists." Of course they took Elder Kirkland on his baptism, and would be glad to take many more the same way, and you are welcome to every one who wants to go. C. H. C.

STARS IN THE CROWN

---October 9, 1906

After a great revival in a town, when the hymns sung in the meeting had sung themselves down into the hearts of the people and were being sung on the streets, a brother was going along singing, "Will there be any stars in my crown?" Across the street another brother sang: "No, not one; no, not one. We fear there may be too much truth in this with many a Baptist. What about it?-Baptist and Reflector, Sept. 27, 1906.

We suppose the Reflector knows whether it is true or not. C. H. C.

OF THE WORLD

---October 9, 1906

The world is coming to the Baptists. Let Baptists rise and take the world.-Baptist and Reflector, Sept. 27, 1906.

"They are of the world: therefore speak they of the world, and the world heareth them." - (I John 4:5).

C. H. C.

DEBATE AND MEETING AT BUFFALO

---October 16, 1906

We arrived in Doniphan, Mo, on Monday, October 1, on our way to the debate at Buffalo Church, near Bennett, Ripley county, Mo. Elder P. E. Whitwell, of Bennett, and Brother J. J. Seymore, of Doniphan, met us at the train. Mr. Borden, our opponent, boarded the same train at Naylor, Mo. Brother Whitwell conveyed us to his home that afternoon, and we spent the night there. Tuesday morning we went to the church. The weather was very disagreeable and rainy, so we had a small crowd Tuesday and Wednesday. The crowd increased each day, so that the house was about full on Friday. Elder Borden opened the discussion and continued in the affirmative for two days, he affirming that "The church with which I (E. M. Borden) am identified is apostolic in origin, doctrine and practice." On Wednesday morning we began in the affirmative, we affirming that "The church of which I (C. H. Cayce) am a member, known as Primitive Baptists, is apostolic in origin, doctrine and practice." Mr. Borden represented the Campbellites. He is a pleasant man, and conducted himself in a gentlemanly manner all through the discussion. We had a pleasant discussion, and if there was the least unpleasantness between the disputants we were not aware of it. Of course we think we sustained our position fully, and our brethren all expressed themselves as being perfectly satisfied with the result. They were all exultant and happy. According to our previous arrangement we remained with the church on Saturday and Sunday and had meeting both days. On Sunday a dear sister came to the church and gave a reason of her hope in Christ, and was gladly received by the church. She is to be baptized at the next regular meeting, the fourth Sunday in this month. The meeting was a pleasant and joyful one, and will long be remembered by us. We tried to serve them as an humble pastor some years ago, and they have a warm place in our heart, and we pray the Lord to revive and prosper them. We would kindly and lovingly admonish them to be diligent in the discharge of their every duty and to fill their seats at their meetings, and "forsake not the assembling of themselves together." May the Lord bless every one of them, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

BEGAN TWENTY YEARS AGO

---October 16, 1906

Since the last issue of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST we looked into the first subscription book kept by our father, Elder S. F. Cayce, when he established, or first began publishing, THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. In turning through its pages we saw the names of several parties who are yet taking the paper; some of them have been subscribers since the first issue, Jan. 1, 1886; others began taking the paper during that year whose names are yet on the list. But many of those whose names are on that book, who subscribed for the paper during the first year of its publication, have passed away and gone to their long eternal home. Some of them have passed away during the past twelve months. Some of them have seemingly gone off after strange doctrines-some, too, who were dear, good brethren. They have allowed prejudice to lead them astray, it seems. It is now nearly twenty-one years since the first issue of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST was mailed to its subscribers. The present editor was only a lad of a boy, then, though he entertained a precious hope in the Saviour and loved the Old Baptists and their doctrine and order. In our childhood days the dear brethren often gathered at father's home, and peace and fellowship abounded. It seemed that they all loved each other and loved the cause. They enjoyed each other's company and association. They lived for each other. Oh, how we long for those happy days to be restored in our beloved Zion. What is wrong? Surely there is a wrong somewhere. It seemed to us that the brethren then all had confidence in each other, and a brother's word was as good as his bond. Now, it seems that there is so much distrust and a lack of confidence. Dear brethren, what is the matter? Have some gone too much after the world? And have some gone to an extreme one way and some the other? We believe the true Old Baptists love each other now; but do we show it-do we manifest it as it was in years gone by? "Let us not love in word only, but in deed and truth." Let us all try to prove our love by our works. In those days of old the dear old soldiers of the cross would go to church for miles and miles. They would visit other churches. Let us visit each other more, and associate more with each other, and thereby cultivate our love one for another. Let us try to throw off any spirit of slothfulness and lethargy we may have, and "serve the Lord with reverence and godly fear."

But we did not begin this to write on that line. We thought to mention a few things that passed through our mind as we looked over the pages of that old book. We have also lately been looking over some old copies of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. We find the same doctrine defended in those old papers that we are trying to contend for now. The articles of faith put forth in the prospectus and in the first issue were the same that we publish now, except the eleventh article has been added since the paper started. Although that article has been added since then, yet the sentiment of it was contended for in the paper at the first. All the sentiments of those eleven articles were believed and taught then. Those same principles are good enough for us now.

The Bible teaches them, and we are content with them. We hope, by the grace of God, to continue to contend for them while we live, whether our stay on earth be long or short. We humbly ask all our readers to pray for us to that end. The "good old way the fathers trod" is good enough for us. They walked in the Bible way, for whatever is Baptist is Scriptural. We would rather have the sweet fellowship of the Lord's humble poor and afflicted people than to have all the applause and praise of men and the pleasures the world affords. We ask for only an humble low place among them, and trust they may graciously grant it unto us while we live. When we have to die and pass away, we desire that they may be gathered around us then. "Mid scenes of confusion and creature complaints, how sweet to my soul is communion with saints." "The friends of my Master most cheer me on life's rugged way." Brethren, watch over us for good, and pray for us.

C. H. C.

TOUR IN OHIO AND INDIANA

---October 16, 1906

We left home on Tuesday, July 31, for a six weeks' tour in Ohio and Indiana. This was our first visit among the brethren in those states. We filled appointments on Aug. 1 and 2 at Dry Ridge, Ky. Elder James J. Gilbert, of Winchester, Ky., is the pastor of this church. At this place we met Elder J. Seldon Steers, who lives in Dry Ridge, and Elder C. P. Beadle, of Indiana. On the 3rd we went to Salem Church, near Walton, Ky. Elder Beadle went with us. At these two places we met a number of dear brethren and sisters, who were kind and good to us. Then we went to Indiana, and attended the White Water Association, held at Second Williams Creek Church, Aug. 10, 11 and 12. This was a pleasant meeting, indeed; the preaching was all a unit, and the brethren all seemed to be of one mind. Love and fellowship abounded. At this association we met Elders E. W. Harlan, John R. Daily, R. W. Thompson, Hiram Dale, F. T. Taylor, C. W. Radcliffe, T. C. Williams and W. A. Chastain.

We also attended the Scioto Association at Mt. Pleasant Church, near Sabina, Ohio, on Aug. 15, 16 and 17. Besides the writer, the following ministers were present: Elders J. C. Reed, J. W. Wyatt, J. W. McClanahan, J. W. Taylor, U. C. Porter, L. V. Hite, W. A. Chastain, Wm. Cory, Wm. Fisher, Walter Yeoman, R. W. Peters, J. W. Hoppes, Ceo. Waddle, L. T. Ruffner, Z. K. Holliday, Thos. Cole and T. C. Williams, and Licentiates D. P. Spitler, Fred Chester and J. R. Smith. This was another pleasant meeting.

Peace and harmony prevailed throughout the entire service.

The next association we attended was the Muskingum, at Jonathan Creek Church, near Gratiot, Ohio, on Aug. 22, 23 and 24. The names of their home ministers are Elders W. H. Fisher, E. Barker, Frank McGlade, U. C. Porter, O. L. Daily, C. J. Carmichael, W. H. H. Francis, J. J. Vanhorn, and Licentiate J. T. Neel. These were all present, we think. The visiting ministers present were Elders Z. K. Holliday, A. S. Shoemaker, L. V Hite, T. C. Williams, J. W. McClanahan, J. Harvey Daily and the writer.

The next association attended was the Miami, at Mt. Zion Church in Blanchester, Ohio, on Sept. 7, 8 and 9. The ministers of the association are Elders Wm. Cory, J. C. Reed, T. C. Williams and Licentiate Harvey Adams.

These were all present. The visiting ministers present were Elders J. C. Hanover, C. J. Carmichael, M. Silveus, J. W. Hoppes, J. W. Taylor, and the writer.

These were all pleasant meetings. At the Muskingum Association two dear sisters came home to their friends telling what great things the Lord had done for them. Many hearts were made glad. From this (the Muskingum) Association we went to Falls of Licking Church, having appointments there for Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 25, 26. Elder L. T. Ruffner was with us at this church. We had an enjoyable service here. On Sunday Sister Lillie German came to the church and gave a reason of her hope and was gladly received. As our next appointment was at Newark, Ohio, for Monday night it was requested that we have services the next day at this place again and that we also attend to the ordinance of baptism. This we agreed to do. So the unworthy writer had the privilege and pleasure of baptizing the sister on Monday.

We haven't the space to mention all the churches and homes we visited nor all the persons met. We visited a number of churches in different associations and it is with a feeling of gratitude that we say we were heartily received at every place we went. The brethren and sisters were kind to us-taking us into their homes, and conveying us from place to place. They were so much better to us than we feel to deserve. Many of them we never expect to meet again in this world of sorrow, but while we live we shall ever remember their many expressions of fellowship and love and encouragement, and their many acts of kindness. These things all made us feel so little and unworthy and insignificant. We feel so unworthy of the many expressions of fellowship from the dear brethren, both in word and deed. And we humbly ask every one of them to pray the Lord to sustain us and keep us in the right way, and help us to live in such a way as to always retain your love and fellowship. It seems to us this world would have but little for us if we were deprived of your fellowship. The Lord has been good and kind to us, in permitting us to be among those dear brethren and sisters. May heaven's richest blessings be showered upon every one of them, is our humble prayer. We ask every one of them to take this as a personal letter to them, expressing our thanks and feelings of gratitude for their kindness. We would write many of you personally, but it is impossible for us to write to as many as we would be glad to write to. We shall always be glad to hear from any of you, and when any of you feel disposed to do so, you are requested to write for the columns of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. We want you all, both North and South, to feel that it is your own medium of correspondence. Send us all the news of your good meetings. Help us to make THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST better, more interesting and comforting all the time. Pray the Lord to so lead and direct us that we may conduct the paper to His glory and the comfort of His people and the advancement of His blessed cause. Pray Him that we may do our duty-regardless of what men may say, think, or do-and that we may be possessed of a spirit of true humility.

May the Lord bless every reader, and help us all to fight the good fight of faith a little longer, until the warfare is over and we lay our armor by in death, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

1 Peter 3:18-21

---October 23, 1906

We have been requested by Sister Lizzie Herston, of Killen, Ala., to give our views on ((Pet 3:18) (I Peter 3:18-20)). Brother D. P. Mason, of Citronelle, Ala., has asked for our views of the 19th verse. We do not offer our views as a standard but will cheerfully offer a few of our thoughts on the passage. It reads: "For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the Spirit: by which also He went and preached unto the spirits in prison; which sometime were disobedient, when once the longsuffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved by water. The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God,) by the resurrection of Jesus Christ." Christ suffered for sins. He had no sins of His own for which to suffer. He was the just one. Then He must have suffered for the sins of others. Those for whose sins He suffered were unjust-they were sinners. He must have suffered to render satisfaction for sins. ((2:4) (Isaiah 42:4)) says: "He shall not fail." ((3:10) (Isaiah 53:10)) says, "Yet it pleased the Lord to bruise Him; He hath put Him to grief: when thou shalt make His soul an offering for sin, He shall see His seed, He shall prolong His days, and the pleasure of the Lord shall prosper in His hand." If He suffered to render satisfaction for sin, He accomplished that object, or else He failed. The prophet said He should not fail. Then He surely did render satisfaction for sins. Not only did He suffer to render satisfaction for sins, but it must be true that He suffered to render satisfaction for all the sins of all those for whose sins He did suffer. If Christ suffered for you, it was to render satisfaction for all your sins. This is true concerning every one for whom He suffered. Then if it be true that "He shall not fail," it follows that He did render satisfaction for all the sins of all those for whose sins He suffered.

When He suffered for sins He made an offering for sin. Isaiah says, "When thou shalt make His soul an offering for sin, He shall see His seed." He made an offering for sin for His seed-or His people. He saw, in His eternal mind and purpose, every one of them. They were all embraced in the offering. He suffered for their sins that He might bring them to God. Their being brought to God was the object to be accomplished by His suffering for their sins. He did not suffer for their sins to bring them back simply to their original condition, Adam occupied in the garden of Eden, nor to give them an opportunity of coming to God, or to make their salvation possible, or to give them a chance to be saved; but He suffered for their sins to bring them to God. If it is true that "He shall not fail," then it must also be true that every one for whose sins He suffered will be brought to God. He suffered for their sins to bring them to God, and the prophet says "He shall not fail," so they will all be brought to God.

Jesus says, "For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of Him that sent me. And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which He hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day." -(John 6:38-39). The Father's will was that He should lose nothing-that every one be brought to God for whose sins He suffered. The prophet says "the pleasure of the Lord shall prosper in His hand." If the Lord's pleasure shall prosper in His hand, and the Lord's pleasure is that He should lose nothing and that they all be brought to God, then all those for whose sins He suffered will be brought to God. Not one of them will be lost. Christ was put to death. He died, to this end. He was put to death in the flesh. His body was offered for sins. "By the which will we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ Once for all." - (0:10) (Hebrews 10:10). But on the third and appointed morning this same body that died and was offered for sins was quickened by the Spirit, and Jesus arose from the dead a mighty conqueror over death and the grave in the behalf of every one for whose sins His body was offered. If the offering had failed to render satisfaction for the sins of one for whom it was made, He could have never come forth from the grave. But the offering rendered satisfaction, and His body was quickened by the Spirit and He arose from the dead.

By the same Spirit by which His body was quickened He went and preached unto the spirits in prison. This shows very clearly that there is a work upon spirit which is performed by the direct work of the Spirit. "And came and preached peace to you which were afar off, and to them that were nigh. For through Him we both have access by one Spirit unto the Father." -(Ephesians 2:17-18). There is a preaching, or a work, which Jesus does by His Spirit, or by the Holy Spirit. This work is what is also called regeneration. Through the work of Jesus, His offering, both Jews and Gentiles have access to the Father by one Spirit in the work of regeneration. The Holy Spirit makes the application of the blood of Christ in the work of regeneration. People were saved, or brought into spiritual relationship with God, in Noah's day by the work of the Spirit, just as they are now, and just as they were in the days of the apostles. He preached unto spirits in prison by the Spirit in Noah's day. "I, the Lord, have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles; to open the blind eyes, to bring out the prisoners from the prison, and them that sit in darkness out of the prison house." -((2:6) (Isaiah 42:6-7). "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; He hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound; to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all that mourn; to appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning; the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that He might be glorified." -((61:1) (Isaiah 61:1-3). The Saviour, by His Spirit, goes to the poor sinner who is in the prison house of sin, and by that Spirit proclaims liberty to the captive, delivers him from the bondage of sin, applies the blood of Christ in regenerating the sinner, and makes him a tree of righteousness, the planting of the Lord. He is not the planting of the Lord and the preacher, but the planting of the Lord. The whole work that is necessary to his eternal salvation, and that qualifies him to live in heaven, is the work of the three-one God. This was true in Noah's day, and it is true now. They were brought into the benefits of the atoning blood of Christ in Noah's day by the work of the Spirit; and it is even so now.

Noah and his family, eight souls, were saved in the ark by water. Noah was a righteous man, and was a preacher of righteousness before the flood, before the ark was built. So the salvation in the ark was not the salvation which qualified him to live with God in glory. He was already a righteous man, had already been made righteous. The salvation in the ark was enjoyed after the other work had been done, after he had been made righteous. He was saved from the old world to the new world. He was saved from the wicked generation. "The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us." Baptism is a figure of something, and it is like another figure, and they are a figure of the same thing. Baptism saves in a figure, just as the ark saved in a figure. If the apostle was correct, and baptism is a figure like that of the ark, and saves in the same way, then baptism saves those only who are made righteous before baptism. Some might ask, "How could they be saved by baptism if they are saved, or made righteous, before they are baptized?" They are saved by baptism just as Noah and his family were saved in the ark. They were children of God before the flood came, and were saved in the ark from the old world to the new. So God's people now who are baptized are saved from the world to the church; they arise from baptism to walk in newness of life. There is a blessed salvation to be enjoyed by the child of God—that one who has been born of God, been made righteous, in baptism. In being baptized we say we have been killed to the love of sin and made alive to the love of holiness. When we had the sweet assurance in our hearts that we had indeed been made alive to holiness, and the blessed hope sprang up in our hearts that we had an interest in the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus, a sweet peace filled our souls that the world knows nothing of. So, when we follow the Saviour in baptism there is a sweet peace enjoyed which cannot be realized any other way. This portrays, in the figure, what was done for us and in our hearts in the work of regeneration. It is an outward washing symbolical of the inward cleansing already performed in our hearts by the work of the Holy Spirit. By being baptized the child saves himself from the untoward or crooked generation, as Peter exhorted those on the day of Pentecost who were pricked in their hearts. We are glad to see the Lord's children come to the church, telling "what great things the Lord has done for them," and being baptized and enjoying the salvation which is enjoyed therein.

May the Lord bless these thoughts to the good of all our readers, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

SALVATION BEFORE FAITH

---October 30, 1906

ELDER C. H. Cayce: Dear Brother-Which is first-salvation or faith? I ask this so you can answer through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, as I want to show it to those who say "faith precedes salvation." I write like I know you see it as I do-that a child must be born first, which is life, and life is salvation, and it is to the living that God gives gifts, and faith, I think, is a gift. If I am wrong and you see differently, I hope you can make it plain to me. May the good Lord help and bless you and yours in all things, is the prayer of a poor, unworthy sister, Rocheport, Mo., R. 2.

MRS. ROBT. ALEXANDER.

OUR REPLY

We most assuredly think you are correct in saying salvation precedes faith. If faith is used in the sense of belief, then it is a mental act, an act of the mind. The unregenerate man is in possession of a carnal mind, and the carnal mind is enmity against God. He is not in possession of a spiritual mind, or the mind of Christ. For one to be in possession of a natural mind, or carnal mind, he must necessarily be in possession of the natural life. Then no act produced in or by the natural or carnal mind can be in order to the receiving of natural life, but proceeds from that life. No stream can possibly rise higher than the fountain head, and no effect can be higher than the source from whence it comes. Then a belief or faith produced in or by the carnal mind can be no higher than the mind, the source from whence it springs. The mind can produce nothing above itself. Then in order that one have true spiritual faith or belief he must first have the spiritual life-he must first possess a spiritual mind.

We learn from (Galatians 5:22) that faith is a fruit of the Spirit. Anyone can understand that in nature the vine produces the fruit. The grape is an evidence that the vine existed first. The first grape sprang from the first vine. It is the vine that produces the grape. This is true with reference to every kind of natural fruit. The tree or vine produces the fruit. Hence the tree or vine must necessarily exist first. One must first possess the tree in order to produce the fruit. So one must possess the Spirit in order to produce faith, which is a fruit of the Spirit. If one is in possession of the Spirit he is already a child of God, is already in possession of eternal life, has already been born of God. In (Romans 8:9) the apostle says, "Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His." Every proposition has two sides to it- an affirmative and a negative. In this proposition the apostle affirms the negative side of the question, and the other side of it must, of necessity, be "if any man have the Spirit of Christ, he is one of His." As it is true that one must have the Spirit in order to produce the fruit of the Spirit, it follows that one must be Christ's in order to have faith. This means that he must be Christ's in the sense of regeneration-in possession of the Spirit of Christ.

(I John 5:1) says, "Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God." This is the King James translation. When we see one who is a true believer in Jesus we know that one is born of God. How do we know it? We know it from the fact that the belief is the fruit and the evidence of the birth. Being the fruit and the evidence of the birth it cannot possibly precede the birth. The Interlinear or literal translation of this passage reads, "Every one that believes that Jesus is the Christ, of God has been begotten." To translate the words so they would read easier in the English we have it this way, "Every one that believes that Jesus is the Christ, has been begotten of God," or "has been born of God." The word is correctly translated "has been born" as well as "has been begotten," for it means the same. Then the one who truly believes in Jesus has been born of God. The birth is first.

(John 1:11-13) says, "He came unto His own, and His own received Him not. But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name: which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God." We are told here that those who believe on Him were born of God. The birth preceded the belief, and their believing was an evidence that they were born of God. Those who believed had been born of God. Eternal life is given first, and faith follows after, and is an evidence of the previous existence of life. These are only a few of the reasons which might be given and evidences that might be produced showing that eternal salvation or eternal life precedes true faith in Jesus, but we deem these to be sufficient. May the Lord bless these remarks to the good of every reader. C. H. C.

Selah and Luke 16:1-9

---October 30, 1906

Will you or someone answer some queries for me?

1. What does the word "Selah" mean that is found in the Psalms so often?
2. (Luke 16:1-9), and most especially the 9th verse.

Your brother in hope,

LOT CORNY.

Dalton, Ga.

OUR REPLY

Selah means a "suspension (of music), a pause."

With reference to the text referred to in (Luke 16:1-9) will say we have heard different opinions expressed on this; but it has often been a puzzle to us as to what it really does mean. We have heard it said that the Saviour taught in the language that we should make friends, or be friendly, with the ungodly or unrighteous persons, so that they may receive us into their homes, etc. We may have said sometime ourselves that this might be the meaning of the text, but we do not now think so. From the 1st to the 8th verses in this chapter is recorded the parable of the unjust steward. Get your Bible now and read it, as we haven't space to give here the entire quotation. The 8th verse reads, "And the Lord commended the unjust steward, because he had done wisely, for the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light." The lord of the steward, the rich man, commended the steward, not for his unjust works, but for being wise. It was the wisdom he displayed that was commended. "The children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light." How true this is! Instead of acting wisely, as we should, in spiritual or church affairs, we so often act so very foolishly or unwisely. Acting in a wise way is commended, and acting unwisely or in a foolish way is condemned. Let us be wise, not in our own conceits, but in doing what our Lord requires, wise in attending to our religious duties, as well as all the duties devolving upon us.

The 9th verse reads, "And I say unto you, make to yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness; that, when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations." The word mammon here means riches, and the literal or Interlinear translation renders the text, "Make to yourselves friends by the mammon of unrighteousness." We think the true meaning of this language is that we should distribute of our carnal means or riches to those who are destitute and in need of food and raiment, that those who have of this world's goods should bestow their goods to those who are in need.

Verse 10 reads, "He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much: and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much." Verse 11, "If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon (or riches) who will commit to your trust the true riches?" If one is not faithful to distribute of his carnal things, when he has plenty, and to administer to those who are destitute, how shall it be thought that he will be faithful in other matters? "But whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him? My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth." - (I John 3:17,18). We Old Baptists do love one another. Of course we do; the world admits it; but, dear brethren, do we not sometimes forget to love in deed? Are we not sometimes forgetful of the deed, and allow the word to go for the deed? We are not accusing anyone. Let each of us ask ourselves the question, and all our readers can answer in your own hearts whether this is not sometimes true, but we will acknowledge here that we have been guilty. We acknowledge our shortcomings, not only on this line, but we so often fail to do the right. Lord, help us to serve thee more and better in days to come than we have done before. Dear brethren and sisters, remember us in your prayers. We could write more in connection with the above parable and lesson drawn from it, but we feel this is sufficient for all to see what we understand it to teach. We may be wrong; we are fallible and liable to err, but we freely give our ideas on the subject. May the Lord bless the same to the good of all our readers.

C. H. C.

1 Corinthians 3:14-15

---October 30, 1906

Brother Arthur Davis, of Boaz, Ala., has requested our views on the above mentioned Scripture. Verses 11, 12 and 13 read, "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ. Now if any man build upon this foundation gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble: every man's work shall be made manifest: for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is." The 14th and 15th verses, on which he requests our views, read, "If any man's work abide which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a reward. If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss: but he himself shall be saved; yet so as by fire." It seems to us that this language teaches plainly that there is a reward to be enjoyed or had by obeying the Saviour. It does not teach, however, that we receive eternal life by obeying the Lord. Eternal life is the gift of God, as is abundantly taught in the Scriptures, and the Lord imputes righteousness without works. "Not by works of righteousness which we have done; but according to His mercy He saved us." "Who hath saved us, and called us with a holy calling; not according to our works, but according to His own purpose and grace which was given us in Christ Jesus before the world began." "By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God; not of works, lest any man should boast." Many expressions besides these might be given showing that eternal salvation is not obtained by rendering obedience; that the reward of living with God in glory is not obtained by our works. Every poor sinner who is so fortunate as to enjoy heaven, with all that heaven means, will enjoy it for no other reason only for what Christ has done for him. It is all the work of God, from first to last, that will give us to enjoy heaven. But when the Lord has imparted divine life to us, we are then spiritually alive. The Lord then preserves and cares for us in that life, and has promised never to leave nor forsake us. His grace is sufficient, and is always present. We may not always realize the presence of His grace, but it is present and sufficient, whether we always realize it or not. In nature, those who are alive, those who have the natural life, enjoy that life and enjoy the blessings in the life by being diligent and by rendering strict obedience to the laws of nature. So the person who has the divine life enjoys that life and the blessings of that life while here in this world by rendering obedience to the laws of Christ's kingdom. Those who have the divine life are under law to Christ, so the apostle says. Being under law to Christ, they enjoy the Christian life here by obeying Christ. This does not obtain a home in heaven. The Lord gives that to us by His grace. But when the Lord has given us the life that will give us to live with Him in glory, we are then made alive to righteousness, we have the righteous life; and by being diligent in the discharge of our duties which pertain to that life we have a reward of the blessings that pertain to that life while here in this world. "The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple. The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart; the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes. The fear of the Lord is clean, enduring forever: the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether. More to be desired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold; sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb. Moreover by them is thy servant warned, and in keeping of them there is great reward." - (Psalms 19:7-11). "But whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work) this man shall be blessed in his deed." - (James 1:25). Many passages might be quoted showing that there is a blessed reward to be enjoyed by the child of God when he lives in obedience to the adorable Redeemer.

On the other hand, when we live in disobedience we suffer loss. We lose all the blessed reward which is ours when we obey the Saviour. We lose the blessings of His approving smiles; we lose the blessing of an easy conscience. When we try to obey our Saviour we have an easy conscience, realizing that we have tried to do what the Lord requires. But when we disobey, we have a guilty conscience which smites us for our wrong doing.

While all these things are abundantly taught in the Scriptures, we think, yet acceptable obedience is rendered from a principle of love. If we try to serve the Lord because we love Him and because we love the right, the Scriptures teach that these blessings will be enjoyed by us. If we propose to serve the Lord simply because the blessings are promised, and not because we love God or right, then the blessings are not promised to us. While all this is true, we think these things are all laid down in the Scriptures for our encouragement, and we think they should be taught in the right way for the comfort and encouragement of the poor tempest-tossed child of God. We think they should be taught as an encouragement to the poor child who is halting between two opinions, and fearing to take up his cross on account of his own weakness and unworthiness. The Lord has promised to never leave nor forsake such; and when those who feel poor and unworthy and insignificant walk in the Lord's commands they enjoy the blessings of the life He has given them-they enjoy the reward promised.

May the Lord help us all to walk in obedience to His commands, help us to build of gold, silver, precious stones, so that our labor may not all be lost or burned up; but that we may have the reward. If we fail to do what He requires of us, then we are building of wood, hay, stubble, and our works will all be burned up and we lose what we have done; we are thus living a life of disobedience. Though we may thus suffer loss, we will not be banished at last from the peaceful presence of God, for "he himself shall be saved; yet so as by fire." Oh, how good, kind and merciful is our God-though we disobey Him and are so sinful, yet we shall be saved! How faithful we ought to be to do what little He requires of us. May the Lord help us so to do, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

Parable of the Sower

---November 6, 1906

Brother R. F. Deason, of Centerville, Ala., has requested us to give our views of (Matthew 13:4-8), in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. (Verses 3 to 8)read as follows:

And He spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow; and when he sowed, some seeds fell by the wayside, and the fowls came and devoured them up: some fell upon stony places where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth: and when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away. And some fell among thorns, and the thorns sprung up, and choked them: But other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold.

We do not wish to set our views up as a standard. We know we are poor and fallible and liable to err. We know we make mistakes, and our views will not do for a standard, but we are willing to give our brethren our views on any portion of God's word, when we feel to have any light on its teaching; but if they differ from us we do not propose that our way of looking at it is the standard. On this parable of the sower we do not agree with many of our brethren. They may be right and we wrong. This makes us fearful of expressing our views-not that we are afraid of our brethren, nor afraid of the position we hold. But we trust we realize the great responsibility resting upon us to teach and advocate the truth. Feeling this great responsibility we will give some of our thoughts in regard to this parable, and if any of our readers see the matter differently, we ask them to cast the mantle of charity over us, and remember that we are as liable to make mistakes as other people.

We are aware that many of our brethren hold the position that the hearers denominated as the "wayside," the "stony places," and the "thorns" were all unregenerated, and that the hearers called the "good ground," and these only, were children of God. We know that there is a preparation of heart that is necessary in order that the preaching of the gospel be of spiritual benefit to anyone. "But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned." - (I Corinthians 2:14). Read all (this chapter). It clearly teaches that the natural man, the unregenerate man, cannot be taught spiritual things. The unregenerate man does not receive the teaching of the gospel. "They are of the world: therefore speak they of the world, and the world heareth them. We are of God: he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us. Hereby know we the spirit of truth and the spirit of error." - (I John 4:5,6). This is an infallible rule by which we may know whether a man is of God or of the world in his preaching. If the world receives or endorses his preaching, it is proof positive that he is of the world in his preaching. On the other hand, if God's people receive it, and there is a witness in it to them, it is proof positive that his preaching is of God, that the doctrine taught is the doctrine of God. These, as well as many other expressions in Holy Writ, teach conclusively that the unregenerate do not receive the preaching of the gospel, that a preparation of heart is necessary in order that one receive the gospel teaching. "He that is of God heareth God's words," says Jesus. If "he that is of God heareth God's words," then one must be of God in order to hear God's words. If one must be of God in order to hear God's words, then his hearing is an evidence that he is already of God. "The Lord opened Lydia's heart, that she attended unto the things spoken of Paul." So, the work of the Spirit in the heart must be done first before one can hear, or understand, or receive the preaching of the gospel. The Saviour, in speaking to unregenerate persons, said, "Why do ye not understand my speech? Even because ye cannot hear my word." They could not hear His word because they were destitute of the spiritual life. They were not of God. It is true, they did hear the sound of His voice, the natural sound, but they did not hear in the sense of receiving His teaching.

Now, one other point we wish to notice here. If our brethren are right in their view that the wayside hearers, the stony places and the thorns all represent alien or unregenerate persons, and only the good ground represents children of God, it is still true that the preaching of the gospel is not in order to eternal life. With this view of the matter, the sowing of the seed does not prepare the ground. The ground is prepared before the seed is sown. No man sows seed in order to prepare the ground. He always prepares the ground and then sows the seed.

But we do not think these represent three classes of unregenerate and the good ground, and that only, represents the regenerate. This would give us three classes of unregenerate and only one class of children of God. All God's children, according to this view, would be a fruit-bearing class. It is true they all have that faith that God gives, which is called a fruit of the Spirit, but they do not all bear fruit in the sense of this parable, for the fruit bearing here, we think, is in rendering obedience to the Saviour. Notice the Master's explanation of the parable. Verses 18 and 19, "Hear ye therefore the parable of the sower. When any one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the wayside." Many of the Lord's dear children hear the word of the kingdom and do not understand it. They get many precious crumbs, perhaps, from the experimental truths the servant of the Lord proclaims, but when the minister begins to apply these same truths in a doctrinal way they cannot understand it, and the wicked one catcheth away that which was sown in their hearts. Many of God's dear children, too, are not in the way, but are by the way-hence way side bearers. "These received seed by the way side." Mark the expression, the statement of the Saviour, "they received seed." Then remember Paul says "the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God." These received seed.

Verses 20, 21, "But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it; yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth for a while: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended." Many of God's people cannot stand persecutions. Many of them are good soldiers and are faithful as long as there is no fighting to do and as long as there are no persecutions to endure, but many of them have turned away from the service of the Lord by and by, when there were persecutions or trials to endure. "And they come unto thee as the people cometh, and they sit before thee as my people, and they hear thy words, but they will not do them: for with their mouth they shew much love, but their heart goeth after their covetousness. And, lo, thou art unto them as a very lovely song of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can play well on an instrument: for they hear thy words, but they do them not." -(Ezekiel 33:31-32). These heard with joy, but did not do. The hearing was all right, but the trouble was in not doing. "For thus saith the Lord to the men of Judah and Jerusalem, Break up your fallow ground, and sow not among thorns." -(Jeremiah 4:3). This was spoken to the men of Judah and Jerusalem, to the Lord's people. This does not apply to the unregenerate. "Today if ye will hear His voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation." -(Hebrews 3:15). How careful we should be to not harden our hearts, but to attend strictly to the Lord's ordinances and commandments in time of trials and persecutions, as well as in times of refreshing seasons. These received seed. "The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God."

Verse 22, "He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the cares of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful." Have you not known some of the Lord's dear children who would hear the sweet sound of the gospel with joy and gladness, and then allow the cares of this world and their desire for riches choke the word, and they fail to bring forth fruit to the honor and glory of God in rendering obedience to Him? "But they that will be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition. For the love of money is the root of all evil: which while some men coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows." -(I Timothy

6:9-10). The Lord's dear children often follow after the things of this world instead of seeking first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, as they are commanded to do, and pierce themselves through with many sorrows, and become unfruitful. These received seed, though among thorns. "The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God."

Verse 23, "But he that receiveth seed into the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty." These all bore fruit, but some bore more fruit than others. These took heed to the word; they endeavored to follow the Saviour, and in doing so brought forth fruit. "And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge;" "For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ." -(II Peter 1:5,8). Beside what the Lord has done for us- after He has given us a sweet hope in Jesus, we should be diligent; and when we are diligent in doing His commandments, which are not grievous, we are not barren or unfruitful. Oh, that we all might be more diligent in the discharge of our every duty.

We have given some of our thoughts in connection with this parable. We haven't space for more at the present. If you do not see it as we do, we ask your kind forbearance. We want no controversy, and trust the Lord may bless these thoughts to the good of some inquiring child of God. C. H. C.

Matthew 8:11-12

---November 13, 1906

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Esteemed Brother-If not asking too much of you I would like very much to have your views on (Matthew 8:11-12). Who are those that shall come from the east and the west? What kind of children are under consideration in the 12th verse? I do not ask these questions to raise a controversy, but I ask them with no other motive than to obtain information. My greatest desire is to understand the teachings of God's Holy Word, and I often ask God in my feeble petitions to give me wisdom and knowledge that I may be enabled to learn more and more of His wonderful ways and goodness toward the children of men.

May God's rich grace and sovereign mercy ever be with you, and may lie enable you by His Spirit to proclaim His everlasting gospel to the glory of His name and the upbuilding of His glorious cause. I am, I humbly trust, your unworthy brother,
CHAS. M. FOSTER

Broughton, Ill.

R. 2.

OUR REPLY

The Scripture referred to by Brother Foster reads as follows: Verse 11, "And I say unto you, that many shall come from the east and west, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven." Verse 12, "But the children of the kingdom shall be cast out into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth."

We think those who "shall come from the east and west" are children of God among the Gentiles. The benefits of the kingdom in a visible form, separate from other kingdoms, as a visible, organized body, had not then been extended to the Gentiles. They had not then been admitted into the kingdom. Under the law dispensation, or before the gospel dispensation, the kingdom was a natural one, and that kingdom was committed to the Jews. "What advantage then hath the Jew? or what profit is there of circumcision? Much every way: chiefly, because that unto them were committed the oracles of God." - (Romans 3:1-2). The services, the ordinances, the divers washings and all the ceremonies were among the Jews. These things were all committed to them. That "many shall come from the east and west, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven," signifies, to our mind, that the privileges and benefits of the service of God will soon no longer be confined to the Jews. The privileges of this service is soon going to be extended to the Gentiles, or to the nations. Isaiah foretells the same, we think. "And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. And many people shall go and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob; and He will teach us of His ways, and we will walk in His paths: for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem." - (Isaiah 2:2-3).

"The law and the prophets were until John: (Luke 16:16). Until John's day the service was law service, which was all confined to the Jews; but now gospel service is required, and the benefits and privileges of it are to be extended to the Gentiles. Abraham, Isaac and Jacob rendered service to the Lord. Many shall come from the east and west, and shall sit down with them in the kingdom-that is, they shall come from the east and west and engage in the service of the Lord.

(Luke 13:29) says, "And they shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God." The expression, "sit down in the kingdom," does not mean that there is nothing for the child of God to do in the kingdom, for there is much to be engaged in; but it means that there is a sweet rest to be enjoyed by the child of God in the Lord's kingdom in doing the things the Lord commands to be done there. As Abraham and Isaac and Jacob enjoyed the blessings of the Lord in obedience, and as the children of Israel (national Israel) enjoyed the blessings of the promised land (Canaan), so those who come from the east and from the west and sit down with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom, the child of God who enters into and goes on in the service of the Lord, enjoys the blessings of the gospel Canaan (the church). As we have seen, this refers to the extending of the privileges of the service of the Lord to the Gentiles, as we understand it; then we think the "children of the kingdom" that "shall be cast out into outer darkness" refers to the Jews, as a nation. They refused to enter into the gospel service; they were enemies to that service. "As concerning the gospel, they are enemies for your sakes." - (Romans 11:28). Because of their unbelief and wickedness they were cast out into outer darkness, and they remain there to this day, so far as gospel service or worship is concerned. (Luke 13:28) says, "There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets, in the kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrust out." The 29th verse was quoted above. The Jews were, therefore, thrust out, for He was talking to Jews when He used this language. We think the parable of the householder, as recorded in (Matthew 21:33-43), teaches the same lesson. "The kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof."

Oh, how thankful we, the Gentiles in nature, should be that the blessings and benefits of the gospel kingdom have been given to us. They were glad in the days of the apostles. "Then Paul and Barnabas waxed bold, and said, it was necessary that the word of God should first have been spoken to you: but seeing ye put it from you, and judge yourselves unworthy of everlasting life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles. For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, I have set thee to be a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldest be for salvation unto the ends of the earth. And when the Gentiles heard this, they were glad, and glorified the word of the Lord: and as many as were ordained to eternal life believed." -(Acts 13:46-48).

The salvation mentioned here cannot be the receiving of eternal life, for eternal life is not given through the instrumentality of preaching, but by a direct work of the Holy Spirit. Their judging themselves unworthy of everlasting life does not mean that they did not think they were good enough to have everlasting life, or that they felt to be too unworthy, too unrighteous, or too unholy for the Lord to bestow everlasting life upon them. The grace of God manifested in the bestowal of that life makes the poor sinner feel his unworthiness. It gives him to realize that he is unworthy and that he has no righteousness to plead. It causes him to realize that he is a poor sinner, and to pray like the poor publican, "Lord, be merciful to me, a sinner." But they would not heed the teaching, they refused to enter into the gospel service, thus judging themselves unworthy of everlasting life. We repeat, we should be thankful for the glorious privileges which we enjoy-or rather, which we have vouchsafed to us. Many of us, perhaps, feel sometimes that the service of the Lord is a great burden, and that it is so grievous that we cannot engage in it. Oh, how cold and careless we are sometimes. Let us awake to our duties, and not consider the sweet service as a drudgery, but remember it is a sweet and blessed privilege of which many of the Lord's dear children are deprived. Let us remember that some of the saints have endured severe persecutions for the service of our blessed Lord, and the time may come when some of us may be deprived of the glorious privileges which we now have. Let us show by our works that we appreciate the blessed privileges we have. May the Lord enable us and help us so to do, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

Hebrews 6:4-5,6

---November 20, 1906

Brother J. D. Berry, of Horton, Ala., has requested that we give our views of (Hebrews 6:4-5,6), in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. The language is as follows:

For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost, and have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put Him to an open shame.

This language is often quoted by those who believe in the possibility of final apostasy in their effort to substantiate that theory. The argument is made that the expression, "if they shall fall away," implies that it is possible for one to so fall away as to be finally lost. Or, that it, at least, implies a possibility that they fall away, and that therefore they may fall; and if they do fall, it must be a final fall as it is impossible to renew them again unto repentance. Instead, however, of the apostle teaching the possibility of apostasy in this text, he is plainly teaching the very opposite of that theory. To our mind it is one of the strong statements in support of the God-honoring and soul-cheering doctrine of the final preservation of all the saints to glory.

In the first place we wish to notice, briefly, what the idea that he is here teaching the possibility of apostasy would involve. If, for argument's sake, we grant that it is possible for one to fall away, the apostle tells us it is impossible to renew him again unto repentance. The apostle Peter {(II Peter 1:5-6,7,9-10)} says, "And beside this," -that is, beside what God has done for you which made you partakers of the divine nature-"giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; and to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity." "But he that lacketh these things is blind, and cannot see afar off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old sins. Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never fall." If Paul is arguing the possibility of final apostasy in (Hebrews 6:4-6), then they fall in that sense when they fail to do the things commanded, or admonished, by Peter. If they fail to add either virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness or charity, then they fall away, and Paul puts up an eternal bar to their ever entering eternal joys by saying it is impossible to renew them again unto repentance. Why would it be impossible to renew them again unto repentance? "Seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put Him to an open shame." The Son of God was crucified once for them, and has given them the divine life, they have been made partakers of the divine nature, or partakers of the Holy Ghost, and have tasted the heavenly gift and the good word of God and the powers of the world to come; and now, after all this has been done for them, if they fall away the Son of God must be crucified again. If they fall away they cannot be renewed again unto repentance; the death of Christ in their behalf was a failure, and He must now be crucified again and make another effort in their salvation. But the Son of God can never be crucified again; His death was not a failure; so instead of it being possible for them to fall, it is impossible for them to do so. Again, if they fall away after all has been done for them which we see has been done, then the Son of God is put to an open shame. Why and how would He be put to an open shame? If one of them should fall away, it could be said, Here is one for whom Christ died, shed His blood for him, suffered for him, was buried for him, arose for him, ascended to the Father and interceded for him, made him partaker of the Holy Ghost, gave him to taste of the heavenly gift and the good word of God and the powers of the world to come, and all this has failed to land him safely in glory-he has fallen away at last-and the Son of God, therefore, put to an open shame. But the Son of God will not be put to an open shame. Therefore they cannot fall away. This is just what the apostle is teaching-that they cannot fall away.

The language is in the form of a hypothesis. This is one of the strongest ways of establishing the truthfulness of a proposition. To prove the truthfulness of the proposition the impossible opposite of the original, or true, proposition is supposed, and the result of the supposition argued. This failing, then the proposition reverts back to the original, and the truthfulness of the original thereby established. So, upon this mode of reasoning the proposition supposed is "if they shall fall away." This is the impossible opposite of that which is true; but supposing it is true, the reasoning is that Christ must be crucified again, and that He would be put to an open shame. But Christ cannot be crucified again, and cannot be put to an open shame; and as He cannot be crucified again nor put to an open shame, then the supposition cannot be true that one may fall away, and the original proposition is established.

The apostle uses the same manner of reasoning in (I Corinthians 15:13-15). "But if there be no resurrection of the dead, then is Christ not risen: and if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain. Yea, and we are found false witnesses of God; because we have testified of God that He raised up Christ: whom He raised not up, if so be that the dead rise not." He goes on with the same manner of reasoning in verses 16, 17 and 18. But what professed Christian will argue that Christ was not raised from the dead? We all believe with all our hearts that Christ was raised from the dead. But Christ was not raised if there is no resurrection of the dead; that is, if our bodies are never to be raised from the dead, then Christ was not raised. In this place the apostle again supposes the impossible opposite of that which is true-he supposes there is no resurrection of the dead, that our bodies will never be raised, then argues the result of that position, which is that Christ is not raised, their preaching was vain, the faith of the saints was vain and the apostles were false witnesses. All these things were true if there is to be no resurrection of our bodies. But is it true that the apostles were false witnesses, the faith of the saints vain, the preaching of the apostles vain, and the body of Christ not raised-are these things true? No, a thousand times, no. Then if they are not true, the supposition upon which they rest cannot be true, and the truthfulness of the original proposition is established, that there is to be a resurrection of the body. The reasoning here is precisely the same, upon the same hypothesis, as that in (Hebrews 6:4-6).

How could it be true that the apostle is teaching the possibility of final apostasy in verses 4, 5 and 6, when other language in the same chapter is so clearly in opposition to that idea? It cannot be. He begins to argue, as we have seen, by showing the result if any should fall away; all this argument showing conclusively the truthfulness of the proposition he starts out to prove-the certainty of the final salvation of all the saints. Though he argues thus, he says in verse 9, "But, beloved, we are persuaded better things of you, and things that accompany salvation, though we thus speak." He is persuaded better things of them than that one of them will ever be finally lost, because the original proposition is true, all God's people are finally saved. Although he would reason upon a hypothesis, though he would thus speak, yet he is persuaded the supposition is not true. Dear child of God, are you not also persuaded of the same thing? Are you not persuaded that the apostle was correct in his reasoning, and that not one of the Lord's little ones shall ever perish?

Now, remember that "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise." -(Galatians 3:29). "In hope of eternal life, which God, that cannot lie, promised before the world began." -(Titus 1:2). If they are heirs according to promise, and the promise is eternal life; and God, who made the promise, cannot lie, then not one of them will ever perish.

See what a glorious promise God has made, and confirmed that promise with an oath, as recorded by Paul in (Hebrews 6:17-20): "Wherein God, willing more abundantly to shew unto the heirs of promise the immutability of His counsel, confirmed it by an oath: that by two immutable things, in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us: which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast, and which entereth to that within the vail; whither the forerunner is for us entered, even Jesus, made an high priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec." God's counsel is immutable (this is one of the two immutable things), and it was His counsel or design that they should never perish. It being His counsel or design that they should never perish, He promised them eternal life. God's promise is immutable, because it is impossible for God to lie. So His promise is another one of the two immutable things. As God's promise is immutable, and as He promised them eternal life, not one of them will ever perish. God has not only made the promise, but He has confirmed that promise with an oath. He could swear by no one greater than Himself, because He is greater than all, so He swore by Himself. Then if one of these to whom He has promised eternal life, and confirmed the promise with an oath, should ever perish, then God has not only failed to fulfill His promise, but has also sworn falsely. Oh, horrible thought that men would go so far in their self-righteous esteem and arrogant presumption as to argue a doctrine that would bring our blessed and holy and merciful and loving Benefactor so low! "Oh, shame, where is thy blush?" Our God is faithful and true. His promises are all sure-they are immutable, He will not-He cannot-fail to do what He has sworn to do. He has sworn by His holiness that He will not lie unto David, and David impersonated or represented Jesus in this, and that promise He swore He would not lie about was that His seed or His children should endure forever. Oh, how safe, how secure, how sure is the final salvation and future happiness of all the Lord's little children. They are poor and tempest-tossed and tried pilgrims here, only sojourners, as it were, in a strange land. But cheer up, dear ones, hold up your heads; no weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper. Jesus has conquered the last enemy for you, and even though you pass through the dark scene of death your sleeping dust will one day obey the heavenly voice of King Jesus and come forth again. "When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with Him in glory." -(Colossians 3:4). Your blessed, sweet hope is an anchor of the soul and is sure and steadfast. It will never give way; it will sustain you in the hour of death, and on the other side of the dark river that sweet hope will be swallowed up in the reality, for then we "shall see face to face." Our dear father passed away trusting in and resting on this blessed hope. The last discourse we ever heard him deliver was on the subject of this blessed hope. It was sufficient to sustain him in life, and sustained him in his last hours, and it is sufficient for us all.

May heaven's richest blessings be showered upon every one who may read these lines, is our humble prayer. Again we ask all the dear brethren and sisters to remember us at the throne of grace. C. H. C.

A WRONG IMPRESSION

---December 11, 1906

In the Apostolic Herald of Nov. 15, 1906, is an editorial over the signature of J. V. K. which contains just a few things we think justice demands some attention. This editorial is purporting to be a reply to Brother Lockett's letter which was published in our columns in No.

38. The truthfulness of Brother Lockett's positions and arguments are in no way overthrown, and we do not consider a single argument made by Elder Kirkland in reply to be of sufficient force or weight to demand any attention. But his editorial contains some statements which are misleading, and we feel they should be corrected. Concerning the agreement which was signed April 19, 1906, Brother Lockett says, "It was badly broken by Elder Kirkland before the ink, with which it was written, was dry." To this Elder Kirkland says:

Now, this is positively a mistake which I have clearly corrected before; the article which Elder Cayce claimed was in violation of the agreement, was written some two months before the agreement was made, and prepared for the paper and in the office long before we made the agreement. Besides I said nothing against anybody, but spoke of the cruelty of human tradition when backed by prejudice, which no one should have complained of unless he wished to defend human tradition when backed by prejudice.

To this we wish to say again that his explanation does not explain. Because the article referred to was already written and in the office when the agreement was signed is no excuse for the publication of the article. The agreement was signed on April 19th, and the article appeared in his paper of May 1st, which was ample time to have prepared another article to take the place of that one. And again he says, "Besides I said nothing against anybody." Here is what he said; read it and see if he "said nothing against anybody:"

This good, kind, faithful letter from dear Sister Lovelace was a sweet comfort to my wounded heart, and greatly lightened the burden of my weary soul. I feel glad that such true, noble saints, who have known me so long, believe me to be true and faithful to God according to my sincere convictions, notwithstanding all the flood of abuse and hard sayings that have been poured out upon me for the last eighteen months, and the great industry and artful efforts employed to represent me as a vile person, and to thereby destroy the confidence of my brethren in me. I know, if I know anything about honesty and sincerity, I have been honest and sincere in all I have done in my religious life. I have always groaned over my weakness and imperfections, but I have been true to my conviction. Oh! how unfeeling and destructive is human tradition, backed by prejudice and jealousy, when it gains bold in the hearts of the people of God. It seems to have no respect for truth, honesty, sincerity, years of faithful service, gray hairs, tears, piety nor learning. Where such is the case all are frequently sacrificed in order to protect some deformity of human creeds, which will not bear the light of investigation.

You see in this he says "the flood of abuse and hard sayings that have been poured out upon me for the last eighteen months, and the great industry and artful efforts employed to represent me as a vile person, and to thereby destroy the confidence of my brethren in me." Did anybody pour out a flood of abuse and hard sayings against him? Did anybody employ great industry and artful efforts to represent him as a vile person, and thereby endeavor to destroy the confidence of his brethren in him? Elder Kirkland says these things were done. If they were done, did "anybody" do it? If he was not saying anything against anybody, then there did not anybody do these things he said were done. He simply said these things were done, and of course he had reference to them being done by those who had opposed him. Then he speaks of human tradition, prejudice, etc. He could have reference to nothing else only that those who had opposed him had poured out a flood of abuse upon him and had employed great industry and artful efforts to represent him as a vile person, and that in doing this they were actuated by human tradition, backed by prejudice and jealousy, and that in engaging in this, which he says had been done, they had no respect for truth, honesty, sincerity, years of faithful service, gray hairs, tears, piety nor learning. He can no more explain away the meaning of his language in this than he can explain away the existence of the sun.

In the same editorial in Nov. 15th issue, in reply to what Brother Luckett said about his little book called "A Condensed History," he says:

As to the "valuable little book," it was highly commended by some good, able brethren before some decided that I was doing all I was doing for pretentious show and undertook to destroy my influence among our people. Elder S. F. Cayce said of it:

Elder J. V. Kirkland has written and published a very valuable little book, a condensed history of the church, notice of which appears on another page, which we have read very carefully and can cheerfully recommend its perusal to all lovers of truth—all who feel interested in the welfare of Zion—S. F. Cayce, in P. B., July 26, 1904.

Elder Kirkland publishes this statement as though it was all our father ever said about it. Why did he not publish also the statement which appeared over the signature of S. F. Cayce in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST of Nov. 8, 1904? Here is the explanation about that endorsement:

When we gave notice of, and recommended, Elder J. V. Kirkland's new book, "A Condensed History of the Church," we had not then read his proposed plan for the "federal government of the churches," but had read from the beginning up to the chapter on "Church Government," and was so well pleased with what I had read that I wrote said notice, feeling that we would be equally as well pleased with the remainder of the work. But, alas, when I had read the balance of the book, after our notice of same had been published, I felt so disturbed that I turned back and read it again-re-read the chapter on the "Plan Suggested for the Federal Government of Our Churches," and felt so grieved and so "torn up" that my wife saw that I was in trouble about something and asked me to tell her what was the matter, and I finally told her, and stated, too, that I was very sorry indeed that I had "recommended Brother Kirkland's history without offering any objection whatever to his proposed plan for the 'federal government of the churches,' and that I was very much opposed to such a move." This was just before I started on my long tour in Alabama and Mississippi, about the last of July, and I decided that I would write Brother Kirkland in regard to the matter, before condemning the proposition through our paper. So I commenced to write him personally two or three times while on the tour, but would quit and put it off, from time to time, fearing that I might not be able to express myself as I wished, and that I might wound his feelings. So I concluded that I would, therefore, wait until I could see him and talk face to face. But as we have not yet had an opportunity of talking privately with Brother Kirkland-but have written him however-and as we have been informed that the convention-or the brethren composing the meeting-held in St. Louis recommended the inauguration, or adoption, of said proposed plan of "federal government, and as the work has been recommended through our columns, and as our brethren in different parts of the country are anxious to know whether we favor the movement, we feel it to be our indispensable duty to speak out; we feel that the cause absolutely demands it, hence we propose to make our objections known. We wish it distinctly understood, however, that we entertain the very best of feelings toward Brother Kirkland, and that we have no ill feelings whatever toward him or any brother who may have favored the proposed plan of "federal government." Not only so, but we firmly believe that Elder Kirkland's motives, or intentions, are good, and we think, also, that the evils, the factions, the divisions, etc., which he refers to should be remedied. But, as stated to him in a private letter, we do not believe that a "federal government" is the thing needed; and we oppose the idea for the following reasons.

Notice in the foregoing that our father had such confidence in Elder Kirkland that after reading the historical part of the book he felt perfectly free to recommend it, but was so much grieved after reading the remainder of it. Notice, too, that he says he entertained the very best of feelings for Elder Kirkland and firmly believed that his motives or intentions were good. And now, after our father has passed away, and can no longer speak for himself, will Elder Kirkland or someone else please tell us why the editor of the Apostolic Herald will continue to endeavor to leave such impressions on his readers concerning him? If he could be raised to life here again now and see the things Elder Kirkland has said of him, and the impressions he has endeavored to make concerning him, could he say now that "we firmly believe Elder Kirkland's motives, or intentions, are good?" These things are all so painful to us. It grieves us much to feel called upon to correct such things from the pen of one we have loved and esteemed as a true minister of the gospel of Christ. Not only is it grievous to us on this account, but much more so that Elder Kirkland cannot let the ashes of our dear sainted father rest in peace, after he has worn himself out in the service of the cause Elder Kirkland has professed to love. We had much rather he would endeavor to leave a wrong impression concerning us (and we feel that he has done so several times) than for him to leave a wrong impression concerning our father. It is deplorable that people will resort to such measures.

Oh, that the Lord may give us all grace to enable us to bear all the trials and persecutions of life, and enable us to stand in the right way in humbleness and devotion to His blessed cause. Dear brethren and sisters, will you all please pray the Lord to help us to bear all these sore trials? C. H. C.

John 8:31,47

---December 11, 1906

BROTHER CAYCE: Please give your views on (John 8:31,47). It seems that the same people are under consideration in verse 47 that are in 31. Your unworthy sister in the fear of God. Boydsville, Ark.

VINA CAREY.

REMARKS

If you will notice verses 13 and 14 you will see this language: "The Pharisees therefore said unto Him, Thou bearest record of thyself; thy record is not true. Jesus answered and said unto them, though I bear record of myself, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go; but ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go." This conversation, or discourse, of the Saviour to the Pharisees continues unbroken to verse 29, which says, "And He that sent me is with me: the Father hath not left me alone; for I do always those things that please Him." Now, in verses 30, 31 and 32 is a break in the conversation. These verses say, "As He spake these words," -the words in the preceding verses-"many believed on Him. Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on Him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Then in verse 33 the conversation goes back to the Pharisees again, "They answered Him, We be Abraham's seed, and were never in bondage to any man: how sayest thou, ye shall be made free?" The conversation with the Pharisees continues on unbroken to verse 47, and even after. By noticing this break in the discourse of the Saviour we think your difficulty will disappear.

C. H. C.

VARIETY OF BAPTISTS

---December 18, 1906

We have a great variety of people in our denomination. Some are BAPTISTS, some BAPTISTS, some BAPTISTS, some Baptists, some "baptists," some baptists (?), and some - - - Western Recorder, Dec. 13, 1906.

We also had some of the latter class of "baptists (?)" but we think most of them have left us and gone to the Missionaries. C. H. C.

CLOSE OF VOLUME TWENTY-ONE

---December 25, 1906

This issue of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST closes the twenty-first volume. One more year, with all its changes and shifting scenes, is numbered with the past. During the past twenty-one years many sorrows, trials and difficulties have been encountered and endured by us. Some of us have had to endure bodily afflictions, as well as pass through many dark seasons of doubtful disputations of mind. Temptations have been encountered along life's journey; fightings without and fightings within. Loved ones have been taken away from us, and their places are vacant in our homes and their kind and cheerful voices are heard no more. Day by day we continue to miss their kind words and tender watch-care. Not only have we had all these things to endure during the past twenty-one years, but many of us have passed through some of these sore trials during the last twelve months. Some of our loved ones who were with us one year ago are now numbered with the pale nations of the dead, and their spirits are sweetly resting in the presence of God. Sorrows, trials, troubles, afflictions, sufferings and distresses are all over with them, and they are indeed resting now.

Yet, with all our sorrows and trials, the Lord has been good to us all. Oh, how kindly He has watched over us and preserved our unprofitable lives. His goodness and mercy still endures, and will endure forever. Those of us who are yet spared are monuments of His grace. Realizing the Lord's goodness and long-suffering in His continuing our lives through another year, we should render praise and adoration to Him. We feel to be thankful for His continued blessings, though we know we have been forgetful all along the journey of life.

During the year 1906, and since the death of our dear father on Aug. 27, 1905. the present editor has endeavored to continue to conduct THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST in such a way as to be of comfort and benefit to the Lord's dear children, and to also endeavor to defend the eternal principles of truth-the doctrine of God our Saviour-the time-honored principles loved by our fathers. How well we have succeeded is not for us to say. We are conscious of the fact that we have made mistakes. No one, we are sure, can see and realize our mistakes and short-comings more plainly than we do ourselves. We greatly deplore every mistake we have made, and humbly ask all our readers to cast the mantle of charity over us and remember that we are only human and as much liable to do wrong as other people are. And please remember that we are ready to hear your entreaties and kind admonitions and brotherly pleadings when you see us going in the wrong way doing that which we should not. If we know our heart it is our desire to do right and to contend for the right way.

This volume closes with as large a list of subscribers as we have ever had- perhaps larger. Our subscription list has steadily increased during the past two years, for which we feel thankful. We stated when father died, as well as one year ago, that the office was in debt. We are glad to say that the indebtedness is being gradually cut down, and we hope to have all debts paid in a few more years. While we have been enabled to reduce our indebtedness some during the past year, we admit we would be glad if we could have made a better showing along this line. Taking all things into consideration, we suppose we have no room to complain in regard to these things. We trust we are thankful to the Lord for all His wonderful blessings, and to the dear brethren, sisters and friends who have given us their loyal support, and who have helped us in extending the circulation of the paper. We appreciate your many favors, and pray the Lord to bestow His rich blessings upon you.

We humbly ask all our readers to continue taking the paper. Help us make it better next year. And will you, each one, do all you can to extend the circulation of the paper? Will you do your best to send us some new subscribers? We trust each one will do all you can in sending new subscribers for the paper during the year 1907. Is the paper a benefit and a comfort to you? If it is, do you not think it would comfort others? And if you think it would comfort others, can you not insist that they take it for a year? You don't know how much this would help us, and we would appreciate it.

Again thanking every one of you for every kindness shown and for every kind word, and again expressing a feeling of gratitude to God for His many blessings, we bid you all farewell for the year 1906, with an earnest desire that we be remembered in your prayers. C. H. C.

1907

INTRODUCTORY TO VOLUME TWENTY-TWO

---January 8, 1907

Another year of the publication of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST has been completed, and we now begin the twenty-second volume. Day by day we realize our weakness and imperfections, and our inability to perform the task of editing the paper as we feel it should be done. We realize our dependence upon the Lord for grace and guidance, and know that without His sustaining grace we must fail. As stated in the close of volume twenty-one, we are aware that we have made mistakes; we are human and liable to err. When we make a mistake we regret it as much as anyone could, and we are always willing to make amends, as much as possible. It seems that we realize our weakness more and more, as the days go by.

We desire to conduct the paper in such a way as to benefit the Lord's humble poor, and so that it may be a benefit to the cause of Christ. If we are not deceived in our own heart, we love the Lord's dear children, and we love the Primitive Baptist Church. We believe that church to be the kingdom our Lord established while He was here on earth. He gave laws, rules and regulations to govern His kingdom, and He is the only King and Lawgiver in the kingdom. We desire to be loyal to Him, and reverence and honor Him as our only King, who is love, mercy and truth. We desire to conduct the paper in such a way as to encourage all our readers to honor and glorify our blessed Master while we all live in this low ground of sorrow. And we desire to reach as many as possible. That is, we desire to try to benefit and comfort as many of the Lord's humble poor as possible. We would be glad to send the paper into the home of every poor, weak, halting lover of the Lord. We are sending the paper to many poor widows and preachers who are destitute and unable to pay for the paper, and who desire to read it. During the year 1906 some of our dear brethren have contributed some funds to aid in sending the paper to such persons, but we have sent the paper to a great many more. In fact, we have given away on this account nearly $400 during the year, more than has been contributed by others to aid in sending the paper to the poor.

Some brethren have objected to our printing so many advertisements. Now, we will say that we would be glad if we were able to leave them out of the paper entirely. But all the money we get for the advertisements is used to aid us in sending the paper to poor brethren and sisters who are not able to pay for it. If we leave the advertisements out, then we would be compelled to stop sending the paper to a great many of them. Now, which shall we do? Shall we continue to print the advertisements, and continue to use the money derived therefrom in sending the paper to the poor? Or shall we quit printing the advertisements and stop sending the paper to them, and thereby deprive them of the comfort they receive from the paper? Which shall we do? We have given the matter much thought, and our judgment was that it is best to print the advertisements and use the money as we are using it. If we are wrong, we are open for conviction. How many will say for us to leave the advertisements out? The subscription list is growing some, and our prospects are good so far as the circulation of the paper is concerned. Many good brethren and sisters have taken an interest in procuring new subscribers for us, and we appreciate their kindness to us in doing this, and humbly ask every one of our readers to continue to do all you can in this way for us in the future. Remember that THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST was enlarged last year, and contains each week a great deal more reading matter than it did before, and one dollar a year is an extremely low price for the paper. While the quantity is thereby so much increased, we desire that the quality be kept up to the standard attained in former years. We ask all our readers and correspondents to help us to do this. Write on such things as will have a tendency to bind the brotherhood together in love and fellowship. If you have troubles at home, that can be of only a local nature, do not send them to the editor to publish. The editor always regrets to refuse to publish such things, yet it is not for the best many times for them to go before the public. Write short articles, and send all the good church news you can and help us to make the paper interesting to all lovers of truth. We want you to all feel that THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST is a medium of correspondence for the mutual benefit and comfort of the Lord's dear children all over the land, and help us to put the paper in the home of every Old Baptist in the country.

Asking an interest in the prayers of all our readers, we enter the new year with renewed determination, by the Lord's help, to continue in our weak way to contend for the faith that was once delivered to the saints. C. H. C.

INFORMATION WANTED

---January 8, 1907

Does anybody know of a church of the "Disciples" or Campbellites, commonly called, that will endorse one of their representative men in denying that there is immediate touch or contact of the Holy Spirit in regeneration and salvation? And can anyone tell us of an anti-mission, or Hardshell, church that will endorse a representative man who will deny that the Lord uses means in the regeneration and salvation of sinners? There may be yet some of each kind, but where are they? No, we are not seeking debates, but simply wanting information, and rejoicing at the coming back to the truth from both of these extreme and erroneous points. However we will say that it is possible that we can find a man who will be present and make feeble remarks in case all parties should want a clean discussion of the truth.-Baptist Banner, Dec. 12, 1906.

The above from the Baptist Banner reads to us like Elder Penick is "hankering" for a 'spute. In regard to the Campbellites, we have nothing to say more than that we are sure they have a number of able men among them who will deny the direct or immediate work of the Holy Spirit in regeneration. It seems to us that this is the very thing E. C. L. Denton denied while in debate with Elder Penick not many miles from Martin.

As to the people Elder Penick is pleased to style anti-mission or Hardshell, will say that the Primitive Baptist Church here in Martin endorsed the writer quite a while ago to meet the elder in public discussion. Now, Brother Penick, just come over any day and sign propositions. It is "up to you" now to debate. We will meet you in public discussion on the same propositions you debated with Elder S. F. Cayce, or on the same propositions we debated with your brother, Elder A. Malone, in Macon county, in December, 1905. We are willing to discuss either set of these propositions. Now, brother, come on and sign 'em up, or else just take it all back and say you don't want any debate, you were just "making like." Come over tomorrow and sign them. What say you?
C. H. C.

Romans 5:14

---January 22. 1907

We have been requested to give our views of (Romans 5:14), which reads as follows: "Nevertheless death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over them that had not sinned after the similitude of Adam's transgression, who is the figure of Him that was to come." Adam sinned by actual personal transgression of the law God gave him. Those persons who lived and died from Adam to Moses did not transgress by actual personal transgression, as there was no other law given from Adam to Moses, yet death reigned over them. Adam was a figure of Christ-"Him that was to come." Eve, the bride of Adam, "being deceived, was in the transgression." Adam went down under the law where his bride was. So Christ came down under the law where His bride was. He was "made of a woman, made under the law, to redeem them that were under the law." Adam had but one bride. So, Christ has but one bride. These are only a few of the thoughts we have had in connection with this text, and which we think it teaches. C. H. C.

Information Wanted

---January 29, 1907

In our issue of January 8, we clipped a little article from the Baptist Banner, in which Elder Penick was making inquiry for a "Hardshell" to deny that the Lord uses means in regeneration. We told the elder that our church here endorsed us quite a while ago to meet him in public discussion, and invited him to come over and sign propositions. It seems that he has taken particular pains not to come-anyway, he did not come. Now we want some information. Does anybody know whether Brother Penick will come over and sign propositions? Can anyone tell us if Brother Penick was really in earnest when he spoke about being present to make remarks, etc.? Or, was he just joking? Is Brother Penick sick?-is that the reason he did not come? We want information on the subject-and we want him to sign propositions now, or "take it back." What are you going to do? C. H. C.

EXPLANATION WANTED

---January 29, 1907

To the Dear Contributors of the Ever Precious PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, a source of imparting much edification to such as have eyes to see, ears to hear and hearts to understand-I am an enquirer after consistency, ask for an explanation that I can see a consistency in. God says (Ephesians 2:1), "You hath God made alive, who were dead in trespasses and sins." Also (I John 5:12), "He that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son (or Spirit of Christ) hath not life." I fail to comprehend how or in what sense the dead can perish, unless, as our Arminian friends have it, the alien is not dead, as above stated, but have a little spark of life that may be kindled by gospel fanning. So what I am enquiring after is, can anyone dead perish? and if the dead cannot perish, are we not authorized to say Paul was referring in (I Corinthians 1:18) to wayside, stony ground and thorny ground hearers? for we are certainly taught in God's most Holy Word that the way of truth is strait (difficult) and narrow, by reason of which many of God's dear children treat the true gospel as foolishness, for Jesus says that the wayside hearer is so unmindful of his duty in adding to his faith, virtue; and to virtue, knowledge, etc., that Jesus said Satan caught away that which was sown in his heart. Bear in mind, had he been an alien the gospel would never have gone into his beset. The gospel does not enter the heart of the dead. We understand the Primitives to hold that it is the Spirit first, then they have the life of Christ; and then failing on the practical line they may perish from their enjoyment of their inheritance, and in their actions treat the glorious gospel of the grace of God as though it was foolishness. But Paul says in the chapter, "We preach Christ to the Jews a stumbling block, and to the Greeks foolishness, but to the called (from death to life) Christ the power and wisdom of God;" but all do not continue in the practical or life of correspondence with God as would be for their good; So what we are enquiring after is, was Paul having reference to alien, dead, sinners when he said, "The preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness;" and if dead sinners can perish, are not the Arminians close to correct when they state he is not so dead as we think, or as Paul, Christ and others said? Now, what your enquiring brother, as I hope, wants and asks is an explanation how the dead can perish, and the living often perish from the practical life and die to the life of correspondence with God. I hope to meet you all in a better world. AN ENQUIRING PILGRIM.

REMARKS

We feel a delicacy in offering a few of our thoughts to the dear brother who wrote the above enquiry, and we beg all to not think it presumption in us to do so. We desire to offer a few thoughts in the spirit of humility, and if any are benefited, to the Lord belongs the glory.

In the first chapter of Paul's first letter to the Corinthians you will observe that some of them claimed to be of Paul, some of Apollos, some of Christ, and so on. After the apostle asks them "Is Christ divided? was Paul crucified for you? or were you baptized in the name of Paul?" he goes on to argue and to show that the preaching of the gospel is not to regenerate or quicken alien sinners into life. "The preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God." The word rendered perish may also be rendered perishing without doing violence to the teaching. They are dead in trespasses and sins, and are perishing in their sins. Being in this condition, the preaching of the cross is foolishness to them. They must be saved from death in sins, from perishing in sins, in order that the preaching of the cross be otherwise than foolishness to them. The apostle goes on to argue this thought through the second chapter, in which he says "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him. But God hath revealed them unto us by His Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God. For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God. Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God. Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual. But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned." He is here talking along the same line as in chapter i.-about the unregenerate receiving the preaching, those things he speaks, and uses the same expression (foolishness)-as in first chapter. The alien sinner is dead, or destitute of spiritual life. He is dead to God and godliness. He perishes in receiving the punishment due for his sins.

This is the way we view the matter, and we do not see that there is any inconsistency in the view, or that it allows the Arminian any ground for saying "the sinner is not so dead as you Old Baptists say he is." The alien is simply dead, and being dead he perishes (or decays) in his sins-is everlastingly banished from the peaceful presence of God in eternity. We do, not understand, either, that this in any degree interferes with the truthfulness of the fact that the Lord's children may (and many of them do) perish from the enjoyment of the manifest presence of the Lord here by living in disobedience.

May the Lord bless these thoughts to the good of all our readers, and guide us all in the right way, and keep us from harm, and at last receive us unto Himself, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

---February 5, 1907

In the Southern Department will be found an article by Elder Lee Hanks headed "An Explanation," which was called forth by Elder Kirkland demanding a retraction of a statement made by Elder Hanks in this paper some time ago. With reference to that matter we have this to say:

Elder Kirkland was labored with privately by a number of brethren, and he would not agree to cease advocating the measures and theories he advocated. Then some of the churches of the Greenfield-Philesic Association wrote kind and brotherly letters to Fulton Church, begging them to labor with those brethren. All the churches in the association, except one, took action in their conferences and stated in their letters to the union meeting of the Greenfield-Philesic Association, held with the church in Martin on Friday, Saturday and fifth Sunday in July, 1905, that "We favor dropping Fulton Church from our union and association unless they will cease advocating and practicing these things" -the things complained of, and which have been disturbing the peace of the churches since they began to be advocated. The letters sent to Fulton Church were handed to the moderator in conference, but were not read to the church. Thus they refused a hearing to their sister churches. So at the convening of the union meeting the Fulton Church was dropped from the union, they refusing a hearing to their sister churches, and the churches saying in their letters they favored this being done unless they would cease advocating the things then enumerated. The association also took action, dropping Fulton Church from the association, when convened with the church at Little Zion on Friday, Saturday and third Sunday in October, 1905. All the corresponding associations, except one, took action in their bodies, endorsing our act, namely, Big Sandy, Forked Deer, Obion and Predestinarian. The matter stands that way today. There is not a church in the Greenfield-Philesic Association, and we do not believe there is one in the Big Sandy, Forked Deer, Obion or Predestinarian Associations, all in West Tennessee, that would recognize Elder Kirkland or his church as being in order. It is true he has some followers, but the main body of Baptists here consider him as being entirely separated from them.

As it seemed necessary for us to make this statement again, we wish to notice the thought presented in the heading of this article that history is repeating itself. In the days of Gill and Brine there were no disturbances among the Baptists on the question of the commission or missions. Concerning the preaching and teaching of those men and the work of the churches in those days Cramp says in his history, page 499, "And this is certain that those eminent men and all their followers went far astray from the course marked out by our Lord and His apostles. They were satisfied with stating men's danger, and assuring them that they were on the high road to perdition. But they did not call upon them to 'repent and believe the gospel.' They did not entreat them to be 'reconciled unto God.' They did not 'warn every man and teach every man in all wisdom.' And the churches did not, could not, under their instruction, engage in efforts for the conversion of souls." Here is a period of time before the days of Fuller and Carey that the churches did not engage in mission work- they did not engage in efforts for the conversion or salvation of souls. They recognized the truthfulness of the teaching of Holy Writ that it is the work of God alone to save from sin and all its ruinous consequences. Gill and Brine were eminent men, they were representative men, of the Baptist Church in their day, and they did not call upon the unregenerate to repent and believe the gospel. The churches were having no trouble on the mission question in those days. It is evident that the Baptist ministers and churches of that day did not hold to the idea that the obligation of the commission was resting upon the church, for they were not engaged in mission work.

But this state of peace and quietude did not continue. Andrew Fuller and William Carey rose up among the Baptists and began teaching a theory which had been taught by Rome for centuries-that the church should convert the world to Christ. Their theory resulted in the organization of the first missionary board or society among the Baptists on Oct. 2, 1792, at the home of Beebe Wallis in Kettering, England. It is manifestly true that this was not in harmony with the sentiment of the Baptists as a body, for when Mr. Carey first made mention of the matter, or proposed the move, Dr. Ryland said, "When God gets ready to convert the world He will do it without your help or mine." This is the substance of his expression. B. H. Carroll, Jr., in his work called "The Genesis of American Anti-Missionism," page 25, says, "It is unquestionable that missionary activity in the United States, among all denominations, was, in a sense, a direct growth of William Carey's work. This great Baptist was the founder of missionary activity in two continents and was the father of American, as well as English. missions." This work of Mr. Carroll's has been well received among the New School Baptists. If Mr. Carey was the father of missions among the Baptists, it follows that this mission child, born since 1761, the year Mr. Carey was born, is entirely too young to claim to be the original practice of the Baptists. The Baptist Church is older than the father of this little child-yet those who are followers of this late move claim to be the original Baptists.

Mr. Carroll says on page 58, concerning Adoniram Judson, that "The conversion of this man to Baptist views, and his missionary labors and successes severally, contained the genesis and stimulus of American Baptist Missions." The genesis is the beginning. So Mr. Carroll says here was the beginning of American Baptist Missions. There were American Baptists prior to Mr. Judson's conversion to baptism by immersion (for this is really what he was converted to), yet they were not Missionary Baptists, for Mr. Carroll says this is the genesis of American Baptist missions. Luther Rice was also a great leader in this new mission movement among the Baptists.

In a letter to Dr. Bolles, of Salem, Mass., written by Mr. Judson while in Calcutta, he says concerning places where there were openings for missionaries, "At present Amboyna seems to present the most favorable opening. Fifty thousand souls are there perishing without the means of life," etc. The Boston Female Society for missionary purposes was organized in 1800. This appears to be the first female society formed in this country among the Baptists; and Mr. Carroll says, page 34, "After Judson, there were many spinning, weaving, knitting and other feminine societies to promote the mission cause.

After bearing with, though all the while contending against, these departures from primitive practice and teaching, as well as gross departures from the Scriptures and the simplicity of the gospel, a number of brethren met at Black Rock, Maryland, on September 28, 1832, and made formal declaration of non-fellowship against these departures. In their address they say: "We will now call your attention to the subject of missions. Previous to stating our objections to the mission plans, we will meet some of the false charges brought against us relative to this subject, by a simple and unequivocal declaration, that we do regard as of the first importance the command given of Christ, primarily to His apostles, and through them to His ministers in every age, to 'Go into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature, and do feel an earnest desire to be found acting in obedience thereunto, as the providence of God directs our way, and opens a door of utterance for us." This expression from these brethren is unmistakable evidence that the commission was a "bone of contention." They differed from the Missionaries on this point. We have already seen that the mission idea was a new thing, and a departure; and we will state this as a true principle, that the whole mission scheme, as well as a salaried system for the ministry, is based on the idea that the commission was given to the church, and that the obligation of the commission rests on the church. If you remove the idea from the minds of men that the commission is binding on the church, you would have removed the foundation from under the whole mission theory and the fabric would crumble and fall, having no foundation upon which to stand.

Those brethren at Black Rock did not believe the commission was given to the church, but to the apostles and ministry, for they said so. Fuller, Carey, Judson, Rice and others had invented new schemes and theories, based upon their view that the commission was given to the church and that the church should convert the world to Christ, and introduced those measures into the Baptist Church. These brethren at Black Rock held the original view, that the commission was given primarily to the apostles and through them to the ministry in every age. This was Gill's view. He says:

“Go ye into all the world:” not only into Judea, and through all the cities of it, where they had before been confined; not only into the Roman empire, which is sometimes so called, because a great part of the world was under that government; but into every known and habit' able part of the whole universe, to all the nations of the world under heaven; and it is to be observed, that this command is not enjoined upon every apostle separately, as if each of them was to go into all the world, and travel over every part; but that one was to go one way, and another way; every one had his line, or that part of the world marked out for him, whither he was to steer his course, and where he was to fulfill and finish his ministry: and besides, this commission not only included the apostles, but reaches to all the ministers of the gospel in succeeding ages to the end of the world; and since this, one part of the world which was not known, is now discovered: and the order includes that, as well as the then known parts of the world; and the gospel accordingly has been sent into it.

This shows that Gill held that the commission was to the apostles and ministry and not to the church.

But someone might ask, “Did not the brethren at Black Rock believe that it was the duty of the church to send the ministry?” Yes, they believed it this way, that it was the duty of the church to ordain or set apart to the work those the Lord called. They did not hold that a church in Tennessee or Kentucky should support a man while he was preaching in the “regions beyond,” or in Burmah or China. They held that it was the Scriptural plan for those to contribute their carnal things to aid the minister among whom he labored, and this is the way they give us to understand it was done before the mission scheme was invented. See their address.

Now, in this latter day some others have arisen among the Old School Baptists holding that the commission was given to the church, among them Todd, Strickland, Hackleman, R. S. and J. V Kirkland, and others. Where will you now find the four first named? Among the New School Baptists.

Mr. Carroll says the Missionaries "pleaded in vain for a spirit of toleration." Their measures were tolerated for years, but forbearance had ceased to be a virtue. Mr. Carroll, page 165, in quoting from Holcombe's History of the Baptists of Alabama, describes a circumstance that is claimed to have occurred in the Flint River Association. He says the Missionaries "most affectionately and earnestly besought their anti brethren to suffer them to do as they felt bound in conscience to do as they would with their own, and not let those things be a bar to Christian fellowship. They intreated, they plead by the mercies of God-by the love of the Saviour, and by the joys of heaven; they wept-tears flowed; they cried to heaven-heaven smiled! But the adamantine hearts of the anti brethren were not touched; they were apparently as hard as the nether mill-stone." Does this not sound very much like some favorite expressions in use so much in this day? Does it not have the appearance that some in this latter day have almost borrowed some expressions that were used in those days in pleading for forbearance? But, did our brethren do right in bearing with those departures no longer? What Old Baptist can afford to say our brethren should have longer borne with all the heresies they had to contend with? For our part, we think that if they made a mistake it was in bearing with those heresies for so many years. The Saviour says "beware of the leaven of the Pharisees," and the apostle tells us that "a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump."

Mr. Carroll, page 188, says "the attack always comes from the antis. They forced the fighting and necessitated the division." This we say is to their credit. But the same charge is now made against those who are contending against the idea that the commission was given to the church, that the alien sinner should be admonished to repent and believe the gospel, as well as other theories that are not according to primitive doctrine or the Scriptures.

One instance of the result of continued forbearance with error is shown by the departure of the Hephzibah Association in Georgia, as recorded on pages 182 and 183 of Mr. Carroll's work. In 1832 they were opposed to the new mission schemes, but they continued to bear with and tolerate the teaching of Elder Kilpatrick, which teaching was done privately as well as publicly, until in 1836 the association passed a resolution to "become a component member of the Baptist Convention of the State of Georgia." Verily, the rule given by the apostle is a good and safe one to follow-" an heretic, after the first and second admonition, reject."

After trying the board and society scheme for years, it seems that many of the New School Baptists are becoming aware of the fact that the scheme is a failure, though the cry has so often been made, "Give us money and we will take the world for Christ." Now they are entering into another new scheme, and have organized a kind of national missionary association with J. B. Sellman as secretary and treasurer. This organization was effected, we think, in the latter part of 1905, at Texarkana. We cannot see any material difference between this and their former way; but now if a church or individual wishes to contribute to the mission cause their contribution may be sent to Mr. Sellman, who will keep a record of it and forward it to the missionary in the field. Mr. Sellman was appointed by the association.

In the Apostolic Herald of August 1, 1906, Elder J. V. Kirkland editor, Brother Kirkland mentions the names of Elders H. F. Pettus (who is now with the New School Baptists) and W. L. Murray, and insists that they should spend their time preaching among the destitute and where there are no churches, and that the brethren should arrange as best they can to get up means to pay their expenses while there. He says: "And I wish to kindly ask all of our brethren and churches to lay by a donation to help in their expenses. If any church or individual wishes to make a donation for that purpose, they can send it to the A. H. with their instructions and I will see that it is expended just as they say, and a true record is kept of it for the inspection of all concerned." For our life we cannot see the difference between the position occupied by Mr. Sellman and that which Elder Kirkland proposes to fill in the above statement, except that one was appointed by a kind of national association while the other was not. Verily, history continues to repeat itself.

Yet, amidst all the changing and shifting scenes that are continually going on in the world, the Lord has never left Himself without a witness. In all ages there have been some who were not carried about with every wind of doctrine, and there will be a few of that kind when the Lord comes again. His kingdom continues to stand, notwithstanding the many efforts to reform and reconstruct. Jesus is her King and Lawgiver, her Husband, and will never leave nor forsake. Let us press on, fighting as true soldiers under the banner of Prince Immanuel. Only a few more trials, difficulties, dark seasons and heartaches, and we can lay our armor by. May the Lord sustain us all, and help us to contend earnestly for the faith that was once for all delivered unto the saints. C. H. C.

ENTER INTO REST

---February 12, 1907

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother in Christ, I hope-If it is not asking too much please give me your views of the "rest" spoken of in Hebrews 3 and Hebrews 4. I think it is a rest for the children of God while here in this world, if they have faith and trust in God at all times.

I have great sympathy for you in wanting to defend your dear father, but why not let God right all wrongs? If you can let God fight all your battles you can find a great rest of mind. I know this by experience. I am a lonely widow, and have had many ups and downs in this world. When things go as I think they should not, or not the way I wish they should, I sometimes worry over them a great deal; but when I can carry it to God in prayer and trust fully in Him everything works out so nicely, and then I can see that my way was not the best. I fully believe our dear Saviour when He said: "First seek the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." I believe these things mean carnal things, such as are necessary for life. I think if we would enter into that rest we must trust wholly in God for everything, and work every moment of our lives as though we were working for God, and trust wholly to Him for the reward of the same. Oh, how hard this is to do! Do you think there is anyone these days that enters into that rest? I think if Brother Kirkland had trusted in God and prayed to Him to bring all those factions together instead of praying to find a way himself, as he speaks of in his little book, the "Condensed History of the Church," he might have been a great help to Zion. But as it is he seems to be making another faction. Oh, that he would cease from his own works, trust wholly in God, and enter into that rest prepared for the people of God.

Please pardon if I have worried you, and please give some remarks on this rest; I may be wrong.

MARY E. CHAMBERS.

REMARKS

We don't know that we have any special remarks to offer on the subject of that "rest" just now. We judge that if all the Lord's children would cease their many works in endeavoring to "save souls" from an endless hell, and turn their attention toward doing what the Lord commands, they would enter into a sweet "rest." There is a rest enjoyed in laboring to do what the Lord requires; but an awful bondage and weariness in laboring to do those things God has not commanded. May the Lord help us to do His bidding, and thereby enjoy the sweet rest from other labors. As to defending our father will say we felt that justice demanded that we expose the false impression, which it seemed to us was intended to be made, that our father endorsed certain measures. His life and deportment need no defense; but when effort is made to make it appear that he endorsed that which he did not, we feel called upon to refresh the memory of our readers on those matters.

C. H. C.

QUESTIONS BY A PRESBYTERIAN

---February 19, 1907

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-A Cumberland Presbyterian minister asked me to send you these questions, and for you to answer them through your paper. They are as follows:

1. Have the Primitive Baptists any written creed outside of the Bible?
2. Do you consider man responsible to his Creator for his salvation?
3. Is faith the act of the man, or is it the gift of God? He asked me if I thought you would answer them, and I told him certainly. Yours in hope, D. M. RAULSTON.

Chattanooga, Tenn.

OUR ANSWER

Brother Raulston says the above questions were propounded by a Cumberland Presbyterian minister, but does not give the gentleman's name. We answer:

1st. The Primitive Baptists have no written creed stating all their belief in full outside of the Bible. Our Confessions of Faith are only a written statement or explanation of our belief on some points which we understand the Scriptures to teach. The Bible is our rule of faith and practice.

2nd. Man is not responsible to his Creator for his salvation. Man is responsible for his damnation. By transgression man is lost, and man is responsible for it. If a man jumps into a well he is responsible for being in there, but he is not responsible for not jumping out again.

3rd. Faith is the gift of God. "For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith." - (Romans 12:3).

"For to one is given by the Spirit the word of wisdom; to another the word of knowledge by the same Spirit; to another faith by the same Spirit; to another the gifts of healing by the same Spirit." - (I Corinthians 12:8,9). Faith is a fruit of the Spirit; (Galatians 5:22- 23). Faith is the evidence of things not seen; (Hebrews 11:1). Evidence is not the act of a man, so faith is not the act of the man. Since the gentleman has asked questions of us, and "turn about is fair play," we wish to submit a few questions for his consideration.

When Philip baptized the eunuch did they both go down into the water? (Acts 8:38).

Was the water in a jug?

How large was the jug?

Did Philip baptize the eunuch?

Did Philip sprinkle or pour the eunuch?

Can the Greek word baptizo be translated pour or sprinkle?

Did not Philip immerse the eunuch?

Did not Paul say "We are buried with Him by baptism?" (Romans 6:4).

Can a man please God while in the flesh?

Is not the unregenerate man in the flesh? If the man who is in the flesh cannot please God, and the unregenerate man is in the flesh, what can the unregenerate man do in order to his salvation?

Did not the Cumberland Presbyterian church spring from the Old School Presbyterians?

Is not the Cumberland Presbyterian church too young to be the church of Christ?

If a man has an experience of grace and is a member of a young institution should he not forsake the worldly kingdom and become a member of the kingdom set up by Christ while He was in the world?

We trust our friend will consider the answers to his questions, and also think seriously of the questions we have given, and may the Lord open his heart so he may receive the truth. C. H. C.

FOR WHOM IS THE GOSPEL?

---February 19, 1907

Brother Noah Ellis, of Henderson, Texas, asks, "To whom was the gospel sent-the saved or unsaved, and for what purpose was it sent?" and requests that we answer through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. We receive so many requests for views that we have not space to write at much length on many of them. We will endeavor to give some of our views in compliance with the request made by Brother Ellis.

The gospel is for the benefit of the child of God. The unregenerate have no part in the matter whatever. The natural man, which is an unregenerate man, one who is not in possession of the Spirit of God, "receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God," says the apostle in (I Corinthians 2:14). In this text he is talking about the things which he preaches-that the natural man does not receive them. The gospel is good news, glad tidings. It is the news of what Christ has done for poor sinners. It is the news of what Jesus has done for those He has saved. There is no news in the gospel for or to the sinner who has not been saved by Christ. So the gospel is to the ones who have been saved with an everlasting salvation by Jesus Christ. The good news of the gospel is to them. Jesus says: "He that is of God heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God." - John 8:47. This statement being true, one must be of God in order that he hear God's words. If one must be of God in order that he hear God's words, the gospel cannot be to or for the one who is not of God.

"All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." - (II Timothy 3:16-17). All Scripture is given for the benefit of the man of God- so the apostle teaches in this language. Then the gospel is to the man of God, to the one who has been born of God.

The gospel is for the comfort of God's children. "Comfort ye, comfort ye, say ye to Jerusalem, saith your God. Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, cry unto her that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned: for she hath received of the Lord's hand double for all her sins." - (Isaiah 40:1-2). The prophet was to speak for the comfort of the Lord's people, not in order to make people for the Lord. His speaking was to comfort the Lord's people. "Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee." - (I Timothy 4:16). Timothy was already a child of God, had already been born of God. But by taking heed unto himself and to the doctrine he would save himself and those who heard him. He would save those who heard him from the same things he thereby saved himself from. He would save himself and those who heard him from error and false doctrine by taking heed unto himself and unto the doctrine and continuing therein. So the gospel is to save the Lord's children from false doctrine and from the errors of false and idolatrous worship. May the Lord help us all to take heed unto ourselves and to the doctrine and to continue in the right way, and may we be found walking in the paths of righteousness and contending earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

WHEN WERE THEY WRITTEN?

---February 26, 1907

Brother R. L. Edwards, of Paragould, Ark., writes:

I want you, or someone that will, to write an article setting forth when the names of God's children were written in the Lamb's book of life. The preacher here tells us they are registered in the book of life when the sinner accepts God as his or her personal Saviour. To all of the ministering brethren, if the good Lord ever directs you this way we will be glad to have you visit us. Pray for me and mine.

It is not necessary to write a lengthy article to show when the names of the redeemed, those who will finally enjoy heaven, were written in the book of life. Any man who says they are written there now, when they accept Christ as their personal Saviour, contradicts the plain statement of God's word. "The beast that thou sawest was, and is not; and shall ascend out of the bottomless pit, and go into perdition: and they that dwell on the earth shall wonder, whose names were not written in the book of life from the foundation of the world, when they behold the beast that was, and is not, and yet is." - (Revelation 17:8). This is a plain statement that those whose names were not written in the book of life from the foundation of the world shall wonder. This being true, those whose names were written in the book of life from the foundation of the world shall not wonder. No statement could be clearer that the names of some were written in the book of life from the foundation of the world. "And all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world." - (Revelation 13:8). "My substance was not hid from thee, when I was made in secret, and curiously wrought in the lowest parts of the earth. Thine eyes did see my substance, yet being unperfect; and in thy book all my members were written, which in continuance were fashioned, when as yet there was none of them." - ((9:15) (Psalms 139:15-16). David is here impersonating or representing Christ. God's children, the redeemed, those who will finally enter heaven, are represented as being the body of Christ. The eyes of the Lord saw His substance, His children, when they had not been created; and in His book they were all written when there was none of them. They were, therefore, written in the book of life from the foundation of the world-before they "accept Christ as their personal Saviour." Their names having been written in the book of life, Jesus atoned for their sins on the cross, and they are regenerated in time by the direct work of the Holy Spirit in the heart; and when this work has been done in their hearts they accept Christ as their personal Saviour, the Holy Spirit having witnessed in their hearts that Jesus is their Saviour, which enables them to accept Him as their Saviour. This is the plain teaching of God's word on these points. Let us continue to contend for them, notwithstanding the false teaching of men. C. H. C.

PARABLE OF THE TARES

---February 26, 1907

We have been requested to give our views on this parable, which is recorded in (Matthew 13:24-30). It reads as follows:

Another parable put He forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field: but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares? He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn.

The Saviour gave some light on this parable, in declaring it unto His disciples, as recorded in verses 36 to 43:

Then Jesus sent the multitude away, and went into the house: and His disciples came unto Him, saying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field. He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man; the field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are the children of the wicked one; the enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels. As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world. The Son of man shall send forth His angels, and they shall gather out of His kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity, and shall cast them into a furnace of fire; there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth. Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

Now, it seems to us that this parable has reference somewhat to the end or closing out of the old or law dispensation and the ushering in of the new, or rather to the end of the Jewish age or Jewish world. Jesus says the harvest is the end of the world, and the reapers are the angels. The word angel, in Scripture, often means minister. "Unto the angel of the church," as used several times in Revelation, certainly refers to the minister of the church. So the reapers or angels were the ministers of Christ, sent by Him. They were not sent by the church or by a board, but were sent by Him. They are sent the same way now as they were then-that is, Christ sends His ministers or His angels now.

As the tares are gathered and burned in the fire, so it was in the end of the Jewish age or Jewish world. Those wicked Jews were cast out; there was wailing and gnashing of teeth. The Lord's kingdom, or church, came forth from all the darkness of that age, her subjects shining as the sun. Though they suffered persecution and martyrdom, yet loyal subjects were there, and the kingdom of Christ was 'fair as the moon, clear as the sun, and terrible as an army with banners.'

These are a few of the thoughts we have had in connection with this parable. We do not know that this is the correct view of it, but it is the way we view it, and we offer these thoughts for our readers, and not as a standard at all. We know there is a difference among brethren on many of the parables, and we do not propose that our views are a standard.

C. H. C.

WHEN WAS CHRIST BORN?

---February 26, 1907

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-What day of the month was Christ born, and what month was He born in? Does the Bible say when He was born? Please answer through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

Yours in hope of eternal life,

A. D. MAUBRAY,
Palmerston, Tenn.

W. M. POUNDS.

OUR ANSWER

The Bible does not give the date of the birth of Christ, neither the month nor the day of the month. No living man knows the exact date of His birth. We are supposed to count time from the birth of Christ. That is, it is supposed that time is counted, as we now compute time, from the birth of Christ, but it is conceded generally that He was born at least four years before the period from which our time is counted. Some chronologists place the time of His birth five or six years prior to the period from which our time is counted. The day, nor month, nor year of the birth of Christ is not certainly known. The beginning of His ministry is more definitely known than the date of His birth.

C. H. C.

Matthew 24:19

---February 26, 1907

We have been requested to give our views of (Matthew 24:19), which reads: "And woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days." We think this language simply has reference to the literal destruction of Jerusalem, which is being foretold in much, if not all, this entire chapter. In the destruction of Jerusalem, when the city was surrounded by the Roman army, mothers were driven to starvation, and literally ate the flesh of their own offspring who had died of starvation. This prophecy of the Saviour refers to this, and was fulfilled then.

C. H. C.

CAYCE IS WILLING

---March 5, 1907

Has our Brother C. H. Cayce decided to try his hand on the same propositions we discussed with his beloved father? And does he know of any community wanting us to discuss these issues? Just get yourself good and ready, brother, and "the Lord willing," we will be on hand and try to make a few feeble remarks.-I. N. P.-Baptist Banner, Feb. 21, 1907.

It is not a late thing, Brother Penick, that we are willing to discuss those propositions. Yes, we know where the debate is wanted. There are some persons in the town of Martin, Weakley county, Tenn., who are wanting the debate. It is a good place, and the Primitive Baptist meeting house is open for our use. Yes, Martin will do. We will be home (D. V) on Monday, March 18. Come over and let us agree on the time. C. H. C.

INFORMATION WANTED

---March 5, 1907

Under the above caption our Brother C. H. Cayce manifests some anxiety for a debate with us, and seems to think we may be only joking as to our willingness to "make a few feeble remarks" if the Lord so wills that a debate will do good in any community. Find the place, Brother Cayce, where both people want a debate and want us to serve them, and get yourself good and ready, and don't suffer any uneasiness about your brother's willingness to show his faith that the Lord will use His word as a means to convert you from error on this very important issue. The propositions discussed with your beloved father suit me quite well. If these suit you, then the time and place are all that we need. We are very busy, but our Lord would have us be all things to all men that we may, by all means, save some, and we are certainly willing to endure all things. Something, at least, for the elect's sake, that they may obtain the salvation with eternal glory.

The Lord willing, we will try to accommodate you, brother-I N. Penick, in Baptist Banner, Feb. 21, 1907.

Under the caption of "Information Wanted" in the Banner some time ago Brother Penick seemed very anxious to know if there was a Campbellite that would defend one side of a question and if there was one he called a "Hard-shell" that would deny the Lord uses means in regeneration. He seemed to be so anxious about it, and we like to be accommodating, so we told him, as our readers remember, to come over and sign propositions. As he did not come, we did not know what the trouble was, and so made enquiry. Now, Brother Penick says the propositions he discussed with Elder S. F. Cayce will suit him, so we suppose this part is now agreed on. Brother Penick says for us to find the place where both people want a debate, and that the time and place are all that we need. Well, we think we can name a suitable place. Some time ago some of your brethren in Martin wanted our brethren to get a man to deny a certain proposition in debate. If they did not want a debate this was the wrong kind of request to make. This was in Martin, Brother Penick, and our church house is open for our use. So now all we need to agree on is the time. We will (D. V) be home about March 18. Call on us then and we will see about the time. Don't be uneasy about us being ready. We will try to be on hand to accommodate you. C. H. C.

THE RIGHTEOUS SCARCELY SAVED

---March 12, 1907

We have been requested to give our views of the text recorded in (I Peter 4:18), which reads, "And if the righteous scarcely be saved where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?" The question has been asked, "Who is the ungodly man?" Perhaps it would be better to read also the 17th verse, which says, "For the time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God: and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God?" Verse 18, "And if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?"

"The time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God." This judgment has to do with the house of God. The alien or unregenerated sinner is not embraced in this language at all. It is the regenerate character that this language embraces. The apostle is talking about the Lord's children. In verse 15 he says, "But let none of you suffer as a murderer, or as a thief, or as an evil-doer, or as a busybody in other men's matters. The Lord's children should not live in such a way as to "suffer as a murderer, or as a thief, or as an evil-doer, or as a busybody in other men's matters." They should not be busybodies; they should each engage in their own calling, doing what the Lord requires of them, and not meddle with the affairs of others. They should not be evil-doers. They should endeavor to do right at all times and under all circumstances. Doing right will not bring confusion and division in the church of God, where the judgment begins. The judgment is in the house of God, and that one who brings trouble in the church by wrong living or by introducing new means and measures, is necessarily judged as an evil-doer, or as a busybody. He cannot escape such judgment-he cannot be saved from it.

"Them that obey not the gospel of God," we think, are the Lord's children who hear the gospel, or understand it, but do not obey it. There are commandments, admonitions and exhortations in the gospel, which are all to the Lord's children, to those who have been born of God; but all the Lord's children do not obey those commandments and admonitions, nor heed the exhortations. Hence the Lord says, "If His children forsake my law, and walk not in my judgments; if they break my statutes and keep not my commandments; then will I visit their transgression with the rod, and their iniquity with stripes." The "end of them that obey not the gospel of God" will be in suffering the chastening rod for their disobedience. "For if we sin willfully, after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins, but a certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries. He that despised Moses' law died without mercy under two or three witnesses: of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace? For we know Him that hath said, Vengeance belongeth unto me. I will recompense, saith the Lord. And again, The Lord shall judge His people." - (0:26) (Hebrews 10:26-30). The Lord judges His people, and punishes them for their disobedience. The one who does not according to his Master's will, yet knows His will, shall be beaten with many stripes. When we disobey our blessed Saviour, our punishment is sometimes very sore We render ourselves worthy of sore punishment, indeed, by refusing to obey our blessed Saviour, who has done so much for us.

"If the righteous scarcely be saved." If those who live right, who endeavor to obey our blessed Master, "scarcely be saved" -scarcely escape the chastening of the Lord, scarcely escape sore punishment, "what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God?" And "if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?" The grace of God in the heart teaches us that we should live soberly, righteously and godly in this present world. If we do not live as His grace teaches us, we live ungodly lives, our lives are not then God-like. We suffer for our wrong doing in consequence.

May the Lord help us to keep His commandments, help us to live godly lives, and to walk in humble obedience to His commandments while here in this world, and save us in heaven by His grace, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Matthew 5:13-16

---March 19, 1907

Brother M. C. Grubb, of Osyka, Miss., requests our views of (Matthew 5:13-16), which reads as follows:

Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt has lost his savor, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men. Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house. Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.

Some of this language is often applied to the unregenerate sinner by the man who is of the world in his preaching, but such application of it is a perversion of God's word. This is found in the Saviour's sermon on the mount, the most full, perfect and complete sermon, doubtless, on record. Verses 1 and 2 of this chapter {(Matthew 5)} read, "And seeing the multitudes, He went up into a mountain: and when He was set, His disciples came unto Him: and He opened His mouth, and taught them, saying" -and among other things which He said to them was the language of the text, "Ye are the salt of the earth," etc. It was not said to the multitude; He left the multitude, departed from them, and went up into a mountain. His disciples came unto Him, where He was in the mountain, and the multitude was not there. Then He opened His mouth and taught them, the disciples, who were present with Him, saying unto them, "Ye are the salt of the earth," etc.

There is some sense in which the Lord's church or kingdom is the salt of the earth. It is for their sake that this wicked world is preserved and spared and perpetuated. Salt has a preserving or saving quality. It does not make or produce meat, but it preserves or keeps the meat already made. "Ye are the salt of the earth;" for your sake the earth is preserved. "But if the salt have lost his savour" -if you live in such a way as to lose your influence, and to bring reproach on the cause, then "it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men." If one lives in this way, so as to lose his influence, bringing reproach on the cause, he should be cast out, he should be excluded from the church, and allowed to be trodden under foot of men. He is no benefit to the church when living in that way. He has lost his savor, and is good for nothing.

"Ye are the light of the world." There is a light in the true gospel service and worship of God. During the law dispensation there was a light in law worship and law service; but the law dispensation is ended, and the light of that service is gone out, and those who engage in that kind of service now manifest no light in that service. Gospel worship and gospel service has now begun; and you who worship God this way, under the gospel, are the light of the world. The light is now in gospel service and worship, and not in the law.

"A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid." The church of Christ was established in the top of the mountains, and it cannot be hid. The light of that city will shine throughout all ages while time lasts. The powers of men and devils may all be exerted to hide, cover up, or destroy this city, but it cannot be hid. "It shall stand forever," says Daniel. It is above all other kingdoms. The light of other kingdoms is darkness when compared to the light of this kingdom. All other kingdoms are low, in the valleys, and are completely hid when compared with this kingdom, the city of our God. His church, this city, is high above all others. Let us who are members of this kingdom, who have a home in this beautiful city, not go down into the valleys in the darkness of the worldly kingdoms, but let us put forth all our best efforts in the service of God, doing His will and His commandments in this city which is high above the world, and where the light of gospel service and worship is to be found.

"Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel," etc. In the affairs of nature, men do not light a candle and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick. "The spirit of man is the candle of the Lord," says the prophet. If our spirit or soul has been lighted up with a flame of eternal life, we have the light and should not put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick. The candlestick is in the church, and not in the world, you know. How careful we should be as to where we put that light. It would look very foolish in nature, you know, for one to put a lighted candle under a bushel, or under a box. So in grace, we should put the lighted candle on the candlestick, in the church, where it will give light, and not put it under a bushel, or in some place where the gospel worship and service is not found. When our light is put under a bushel, or in the place God has not appointed for His gospel worship and service, it does not give light to those who are in the house or church.

“Let your light so shine before men.” Let your light shine before men like a lighted candle on a candlestick. Do not let your light shine like a lighted candle under a bushel, but on a candlestick. “Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.” By letting our light shine, on the candlestick, in the church, where the Saviour has commanded, we glorify our Father which is in heaven. We thereby give glory to God. We cannot thus glorify God by putting our light elsewhere. We should keep our lamps trimmed, and burning, and always on the candlestick, and thereby glorify our Father which is in heaven. “Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works.” We should let our light shine in such a way that others may see our good works. We should be so devoted to the service of God, and so attentive to His service, as to let that be first. “Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness,” says the Saviour. We should be so attentive to the service in the church that others may see that we love the service of God more and better than we do the world and all that the world contains. Let us give our energies to His service. There is nothing in the world so pleasant or sweet as the service of God. “I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service.” The service the Lord requires of us as His children is not unreasonable. We owe all to Him. Let us prove that we love Him, and let us honor Him by doing what little He requires. “Come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and I will receive you. Let us, as His children, whose spirits have been lighted up with a flame of eternal life by a direct touch of God's Holy Spirit with our spirit, be separate from the world. The world does not love us. They may try to deceive us, and try to make us believe they love us, but they do not. If they can so tempt us as to draw us away from the true service of God, they will have accomplished all that they desire. They may think well of us as neighbors and as earthly friends, but they do not love us as pertains to our service, and they are only too glad when they can succeed in drawing us away from it. Let us keep ourselves unspotted from the world. Let us not follow after their inventions. May the Lord help us to deny ourselves of all that the world would place before us to draw us away from His service, and help us to let our light shine out in rendering service to Him and in doing what He requires of us as His children, and enable us to live humbly at the feet of our brethren, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

HAS CHANGED

---March 26, 1907

We clip the following from the Baptist and Reflector of Jan. 31, 1907, and give it to our readers without comment:

A few weeks ago Rev. R. S. Kirkland, of Fulton, Ky., closed a meeting with Rev. D. T. Marlin, at Tennessee Bend, Ill., resulting in thirty-one accessions, seventeen by baptism. Brother Kirkland, after preaching the contrary some years, now seems to be very effective in proclaiming that people can help going to hell.

IS IT ANNOYING?

---March 26, 1907

Rev. Claude H. Cayce, a Primitive Baptist disputant, of Martin, Tenn., is annoying Rev. I. N. Penick, of the Baptist Banner, for a debate. It is pitiful to see the risks some headstrong men will run.-Fleetwood Ball, in Baptist and Reflector, Feb. 28, 1907.

If Brother Penick is annoyed, he should not have begun the "annoying" business. If he had not run the risk in beginning the matter, he would not have been annoyed. He will probably be annoyed more than he is now when we engage in the discussion, which we will do if he will "come to time." C. H. C.

DEBATE WANTED

---March 26, 1907

In the Baptist Flag of March 21 we notice a request from a Missionary Baptist Church, under the above heading, that we and Elder Penick engage in a discussion at their church. If you want a debate in your section, please confer with our brethren there. If they want a debate and think it will do good, and want us to represent them, we are ready to agree on the time. We suppose they have a right to say whether they want a debate or not; and if they do, they have a right to get someone else to represent them.

In accepting Elder Penick's call for one to deny the Lord uses means in regeneration we were acting for ourselves, and our people in Martin want the debate, and one of his brethren here made a challenge. When we get through with the debate here, we will meet him at other places where a debate is wanted. But Martin is first. Come on, Brother Penick.
C. H. C.

THE LAW SATISFIED

---April 9, 1907

We have been requested to state, in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, our views as to what law Christ satisfied for His people. He rendered satisfaction for every sin committed by His people. He became the surety for those the Father gave Him, and He suffered for all their sins; He atoned for every sin each and every one of them commits. All their sins are charged to His account, as He is their surety. Sin is transgression of law. So that as Christ renders satisfaction for all their sins, He satisfies every demand of law against them.
C. H. C.

SOME QUESTIONS

---April 9, 1907

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-I was asked to send you some questions for your views on them.
1st. Did Adam's transgression cause eternal condemnation on all the human race?
2nd. Do the children of the devil sin?
3rd. What are the children of God before regeneration?
Yours in hope,
FRANK HARDER.
Linden, Tenn.

OUR ANSWER

In reply to the first question will say that when Adam transgressed God's holy law, the life he lived became poisoned with sin. We are nothing more nor less than Adam multiplied. When we are born into this world we are born with a life that is poisoned with sin; we are in possession of a nature that is sinful, and when we begin to practice anything at all we practice sin. The practice is like the nature it springs from. So that without the work of Christ to remove our guilt and the poison and stain of sin we would be everlastingly banished from the presence of God. "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." -(Romans 5:12).

To the second question we say yes.

In answer to the third question we reply, natural men and women, children of Adam by ordinary generation. C. H. C.

DEBATE IN MARTIN

---April 9, 1907

We have seen Elder Penick, and the propositions have been signed and the time agreed on for our debate in Martin. The Lord willing the discussion will begin on Tuesday morning, July 9, 1907, in the Primitive Baptist church house. The following are the propositions:

1. The Scriptures teach that all for whom Christ died will be saved in heaven. C. H. Cayce affirms; I N. Penick denies.
2. The Scriptures teach that in the death of Christ sufficient provision was made for the salvation of all the race of Adam. I. N. Penick affirms; C. H. Cayce denies.
3. The Scriptures teach that sinners are regenerated, or born of God, independently of, or without, the gospel as a means. C. H. Cayce affirms; I. N. Penick denies.
4. The Scriptures teach that in regeneration, or the new birth, the Lord uses the gospel as a means. I. N. Penick affirms; C. H. Cayce denies.

One day will be devoted to each proposition. It is hoped that we will have a clean and fair investigation of the propositions, as truth is what we should want. C. H. C.

KEEP A RECORD

---April 9, 1907

A brother has asked us if we think a record should be kept of church conference We think the clerk of the church should make a record of all the business transacted in every church meeting whether the regular moderator is present or not. Not only should a minute of the meeting be made, but a record should be made of everything done. Besides this, we think a record should be made on the church book of all the meetings. If the church meets and has preaching, it is proper that a record be made, the record stating who did the preaching. This will show in after years where the church has stood all along the line, and will be matters of history that may at some time be of invaluable benefit to our brethren in years now in the future. We cannot tell how much benefit some little record like these may be in the future. All records should be full and complete, so that they can be clearly understood by coming generations.

C. H. C.

Romans 8:9-10

---April 16, 1907

Brother J. F. Mitchell, of Iconium, Mo., has requested our views of the above text, which reads as follows: "For I was alive without the law once: but when the commandment came, sin revived, and I died. And the commandment, which was ordained to life, I found to be unto death." Some of our brethren may not see this as we do, and if any brother has something better to offer, he is at liberty to present: his views. We shall make only a few remarks.

"For I was alive without the law once." He was alive to sin, he loved sin, but was dead to holiness and righteousness. He was not then dead to sin, but dead to righteousness; dead in sin, but alive to it. To be dead in sin is to be alive to sin. To be dead to sin is to be alive from sin or alive to God. He was alive to sin without the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus. He was alive to sin without the "law of the Lord," which is "perfect, converting the soul." - (Psalms 19:7). While in a state of nature, in the flesh, he was married to the law-the Sinai law. He was a Pharisee of the Pharisees. He thought he must do many things contrary to Jesus of Nazareth, which things he also did He consented to the death of the martyr Stephen. He obtained letters of authority from the high priest to bind and cast in prison those he found calling on the name of the Lord, both men and women. Starting on his journey from Jerusalem to Damascus to carry out his mission we hear him breathing out threatenings. But, lo, before he reaches Damascus-"the commandment came, sin revived, and I died." He now became dead to sin. Before this he was dead in sin, but now he is dead to it. The law that is "perfect, converting the soul," has been written on the fleshly tables of the heart by the Spirit of the true and living God, and he is raised up from a state of death in sin to a state of life in Christ. He is killed to the love of sin, hence "sin revived;" he sees what a great sinner he has been all his life; he dies to hope in legal righteousness; he dies to sin; he loves sin no more; but now he loves holiness and righteousness. He is now alive unto God, and so should bring forth fruit unto Him. He found the commandment to be unto death, in that he was killed to the love of sin; but the commandment was nevertheless ordained to life, for he is now alive unto God. His cry now is, "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" Instead of binding the saints and casting them into prison, he now comforts them and suffers trials and hardships for their sake. He endures all things for them. He is willing to lay aside comforts and pleasures for their sake. He is willing to endure afflictions, to endure hardness as a good soldier. He is willing to be beaten with rods, with stripes, be cast into prison, shipwrecked, tried and condemned by his countrymen, and to be bound and scourged by them. "Neither count I my life as dear unto myself, so I finish my course with joy, and the ministry which I have received of the Lord Jesus." "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." May the Lord help us all to follow in his footsteps, to be followers of him as he was of Christ, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

Galatians 3, Galatians 6:18

---April 16, 1907

A brother in Mississippi has asked our views of (Galatians 3:17) and (Revelation 20:8). We have no thoughts regarding the latter that we feel like offering to our readers now, but will give a few words in connection with the former, which reads as follows: "And this I say, that the covenant, that was confirmed before of God in Christ, the law, which was four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disannul, that it should make the promise of none effect." The apostle is teaching in this language and in the context that the inheritance, eternal life, is not received by obedience to law. In verse 16 he says, "Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, and to seeds, as of many; but as of one, and to thy seed, which is Christ." The promise to Abraham was an unconditional one, "In thee shall all the nations of the earth be blessed;" "In thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed." "Thy seed" is Christ. The blessing of our eternal inheritance is in Christ, and not in our obedience to law. The law given to Moses on Mount Sinai was four hundred and thirty years after the promise to Abraham, "In thee shall all the nations of the earth be blessed." Yet this did not make the promise of none effect. The promise was an unconditional one, and did not depend upon obedience to the law given on Mount Sinai for fulfillment. This law did not make the promise of none effect. Obedience to the law could not give life. "If there could have been a law given that could have given life, verily righteousness should have been by the law." If a law could have been given that could have given life, then Christ would not have come into this world of sin and sorrow as a sin bearer to suffer and bleed and die for poor sinners, for righteousness would have been by the law. "If righteousness come by the law, then is Christ dead in vain." All of Christ's suffering and death is in vain, He has accomplished absolutely nothing by it all, if poor sinners could be saved by their own obedience. This teaching of the apostle forever and eternally overthrows every Arminian theory and conditional system of theology-that sinners are saved in heaven by complying with conditions-no matter by whom that theory is invented nor what the conditions are. Sinners are not saved that way. Our eternal salvation is solely by virtue of what the Lord does for us, and not what we do for the Lord nor for ourselves. Then to the Lord alone belongs the praise and the glory. In the heavenly world there will be no discordant sound. No such song will be heard as "Thank you, thank you for the gospel," as some money-hunting theologians have said; but the heavenly strain will be "Not unto us, not unto us, but unto thy name be glory, honor, majesty, might and dominion; for thou wast slain and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood, out of every tongue and people and nation." God's promise of eternal life is sure to all His children, and "the foundation of God standeth sure, having this seal, the Lord knoweth them that are His." May His blessed sweet presence sustain us and enable us to realize that the promise embraces us, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

WOMEN PREACHERS

---April 23, 1907

We have been requested to write an article giving our views as to women preaching. We do not think there should be much necessity for writing an extended article on this subject. The Scriptures are too plain on this point. The most disgusting sight we have ever seen in affairs of religion is a woman occupying the pulpit. Which one of the prophets was a woman? Which one of the apostles was a woman? When did the apostles ordain a woman to preach?

To preach is to teach. The eminent apostle to the Gentiles, Paul, says: "But I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence" -#ITi 2:12|. If he did not suffer a woman to teach, then he did not suffer a woman to preach. No one would say he was a woman hater, and was not correct in his teaching on this line. We had just as well reject his teaching on any other subject as on this. In the third chapter of this same letter he says, "If a man desire the office of a bishop, he desireth a good work. A bishop then must be blameless, the husband of one wife," etc. If women as well as men may preach, Paul would have said, "If a man or woman desire the office of bishop." But God does not call women to fill this office-hence "if a man desire the office of bishop." May not a bishop be the wife of one husband? No! not if Paul knew what he was talking about. A bishop should have only one wife. He should be the husband of one wife. "One that ruleth well his own house." The husband is the head of the family, as Christ is the head of the church. "The same commit thou to faithful men." Why did he not say men and women? It is a flagrant and open violation of God's word for a woman to preach-occupy the place of a teacher in the church. Yet the so-called Christian world seem to care but little what the Bible says or teaches. They are for anything and everything that will tickle the fancy of the world and gain the applause and praise of men. May the Lord deliver His church and kingdom from such heretical and abominable practices.

C. H. C.

Matthew 5:32

---May 7, 1907

We have been requested to give our views of (Matthew 5:32), which reads, "But I say unto you, that whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery: and whosoever shall marry her that is divorced committeth adultery." What is true with reference to the husband is also true with reference to the wife. If it is wrong for the wife to put away the husband, it is also wrong for the husband to put away the wife. If the Scriptures allow the wife to put her husband away and marry again, it will also allow the husband to put away his wife and marry another. Now, remember this, that what is admissible in the one is admissible in the other, for "they are no more twain, but one flesh." Then, the question is simply this, Can a man for any cause, expressed in Scripture, put away his wife and marry another, and he not be an adulterer?

In the text quoted above the Saviour tells us that if a man shall put away his wife for any other cause than that of fornication, he causes her to commit adultery. If she has committed fornication, and for this cause be put her away, he does not cause her to commit adultery. If she has been put away for any cause, and then marries another man, the man commits adultery, in marrying one who has been put away.

Now, notice the Saviour's language recorded in (Matthew 19:9), "And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery." If the wife commits fornication and the husband puts her away on this account, and marries another, he does not commit adultery. If the husband puts his wife away for any other cause except fornication, and marries another, he commits adultery. If the Saviour had said, “Whosoever shall put away his wife, and shall marry another, committeth adultery,” then a man would have no Scriptural reason whatever to put away his wife and marry again. But the Saviour gives only one exception to this universal rule, and that one exception is, “except it be for fornication.” So that if the wife commits fornication, and the husband puts her away on this account and marries another he is no adulterer. If the wife commits fornication she becomes dead to her husband, and if she thereby becomes dead to him, he may marry again and be no adulterer.

In (Luke 16:18) the Saviour says, “Whosoever putteth away his wife, and marrieth another, committeth adultery: and whosoever marrieth her that is put away from her husband committeth adultery.” In this place it is laid down as though it was a universal rule with no exception, but the Saviour expresses the exception, and the only exception, in (Matthew 19:9), as quoted above.

If the husband commits fornication, and the wife puts him away on this account, and then she marries another man, she is no adulteress. Neither is the man an adulterer whom she marries. To try to make it plainer: B. commits fornication; on this account Mrs. B. puts him away; then Mrs. B. marries Mr. C. In this case Mrs. B. is no adulteress, and Mr. C. is no adulterer. This is true, by reason of the fact that Mr. B. is a fornicator, and thereby becomes dead to Mrs. B., and this gives her a Scriptural right to marry again. This is clearly the exception to the rule, as laid down by the Saviour, and none have this right, except for fornication.

The language of the apostle in (I Corinthians 7:15) does not contradict the Saviour's teaching. He says, “But if the unbelieving depart, let him depart. A brother or a sister is not under bondage in such cases: but God hath called us to peace.” If the unbelieving husband or wife departs, let them go; you are under no obligation to follow them. But the believing one should not help the unbeliever to go; but if they will depart, let them go. But if they do go, this does not release the marriage bond. It does not give the one left the privilege of marrying another, for the apostle says in verses 10 and 11, “And unto the married I command, yet not I, but the Lord, Let not the wife depart from her husband: but and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband: and let not the husband put away his wife.” It is plainly taught here that if one departs the other has no right to put them away on this account, but they should remain unmarried—hold themselves in readiness at all times for a reconciliation.

If the wife puts the husband away for any other cause than for fornication and marries another, she becomes an adulteress, and the man she marries becomes an adulterer, and to continue to live in this state is simply to continue to live in adultery.

The woman who was brought to the Saviour, having been caught in the very act, is no example to resort to as an excuse, in our judgment. She was brought before the Saviour by those who were seeking to entangle and condemn our Lord. This lesson teaches us that the Saviour's mission was not to administer the law, neither was He to sit as a judge to pass sentence on those who violated it. This was not His mission, which is clearly taught in this circumstance. His work was to fulfill the law, to render satisfaction to it.

These are our views on this subject. We do not propose to give them as a standard for our people, but we feel it is a safe position. We trust our brethren everywhere will study the matter carefully and prayerfully. Then may the Lord enable us to go in the right way, knowing no man after the flesh, but to have a true regard for the right, and give us Christian fortitude to walk in that way, and help us to always do that which is well pleasing in His sight. C. H. C.

CHRIST AND BELIAL

---May 14, 1907

A Brother Moore, of Nolen, Miss., requests our views of (II Corinthians 6:15). That verse reads, "And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel?" We may be wrong about the matter, but we think this language teaches us that the Lord's children should keep themselves out of all the institutions that are partly composed of infidels. Verse 14 says, "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?" For a believer to be yoked with an unbeliever is to be unequally yoked. How can we engage with them in worship without being yoked with them? It seems to us that we should not do this. Then follows the language of the 15th verse, as quoted above. "And what concord hath Christ with Belial?" The word "Belial" means a vile, worthless person, reckless of God and man. It seems to us that we should hold ourselves aloof from all such characters. The institutions of the world, which are called benevolent, are largely composed of men who are reckless and who are infidels and who reject Christ. The orthodox Jew rejects Christ. So, also, does the Mohammedan. We do not say they are all bad, but many of them are not good men, many of them are "reckless." The man who denies or rejects Christ is to that extent an infidel. Should we "brother" them, and meet on a common level with them in any kind of religious service or ceremony? It seems to us we should not. To pray a prayer the orthodox Jew will receive we must not approach the Father in the name of Christ. If we must not pray in the name of Christ, then we must deny Him just to please the one who despises our blessed Lord. Should we do this? We do not think so. Search the prayers and forms of service of the different institutions called benevolent and see how many of them have the name of Christ in them. Some of them have the altar erected to the "beloved. St. John." May we not just as well approach the Father through the mediatorship of the virgin Mary? We think so.

Verse 16 says, "And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people." Surely the temple of God hath no agreement with idols. Verses 17 and 18 read, "Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty." We would humbly beg our brethren, in the language recorded here, to come out from among all those things and be separate from them, and the Lord will receive us. We have no desire to unite with those things or to affiliate with them. The Lord's kingdom is above them all, and we do not wish to go down to them. We would be so glad, and rejoice so much, if all our brethren would come out from all those things. We feel that we love our brethren and the church so well that we would be willing to give those things up for their sake, even if we were affiliating with them and thought there was no harm in our doing so. If our brethren thought it was wrong and thought we should quit it, we believe we love them so well that we would quit for their sake. Jesus is our only Mediator, and He has promised, "If ye ask anything in my name I will do it." We should pray in His name only. We can come to God in no other way. Dear brethren, "Let us draw near with a true heart, in full assurance of faith." We cannot draw near any other way. The Lord will not recognize any other way. Let us all give our time of service in the Lord's church, and draw near to Him there, and He will bless us. He has not promised to bless us in these other things. If we desire to perform acts of benevolence, let us remember to "Do good to all men, especially to the household of faith." If we would give our time to the church and spend the same means that way that is spent in the other things, would it not be much better, and would not the church then be what some brethren say it lacks? Dear brethren, let us all try it for awhile. Is there one brother who will write us he will try it for a time? May the Lord help us to know and do His will.

C. H. C.

NEW WINE IN OLD BOTTLES

---May 14, 1907

Brother J. H. Malone, of Watertown, Tenn., has requested our views of ((21) (Mark 2:21-22)), which reads: "No man also seweth a piece of new cloth on an old garment: else the new piece that filled it up taketh away from the old, and the rent is made worse. And no man putteth new wine into old bottles: else the new wine doth burst the bottles, and the wine is spilled, and the bottles will be marred: but new wine must be put into new bottles." We think this has reference to the closing out of the old or law dispensation and the setting up of the gospel dispensation. The old or law worship is not to be engaged in now. The gospel service is to be engaged in now. This service is in the gospel kingdom, which Daniel said the God of heaven should set up. The new service is in the new gospel kingdom. This is the way we view the matter. The new or gospel service is not to be engaged in, as under the old or law dispensation, or in the national kingdom; but is to be engaged in the new, the church of Christ. C. H. C.

GOOD REPORT OF THEM WITHOUT

---May 21, 1907

Brother E. D. Clayton, of Smithville, Miss., requests us to say to the brethren in the ministry who are traveling in his section that when they desire to cross Tombigbee River, if they will go to White Springs he will put them across free, as he owns the ferry there. He also requests us to give our views concerning (I Timothy 3:7), the expression, "Moreover he must have a good report of them which are without," and also (II Timothy 3:12), "Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution." He thinks there is a seeming contradiction. In the language first quoted the apostle is giving the qualifications a man should have before he is set apart or ordained to the office of bishop or elder. If a man does not possess these qualifications as recorded in verses 1 to 7 of this chapter he should not be ordained. Those without are those who are not members of the church. If a man's character is not good his influence will not be good. He should have a good character; his character should be above reproach. If different kinds of evil reports are continually being circulated about him, as to his moral or upright standing, it is a bad omen. "Where there is so much smoke there is apt to be some fire" is an old saying, and often proves true. His life should be such that his neighbors and those who know him will speak well of him as a man, even though they may despise or hate the doctrine he advocates.

The text referred to in 2nd Timothy does not in any wise contradict this teaching. A man does not have to engage in card playing, whisky drinking, gambling, swearing, or other immoral practices in order that he be of good report of them who are without. If he engages in any of these things the wicked and profane man, even, who is without the church would not speak well of him. The drunkard speaks well of the man who is sober and temperate. The profane man who takes the name of God in vain will speak well of the man who refrains from all such evil practices. The servant of Christ does not have to engage in immoral practices in order to be of good report of them that are without; but if he engages in these things his character will not be good-he will be of evil report of them that are without. The servant of the Lord-even all His children-should live in such a way that no one can have an evil thing to say of his character. His character should be above reproach.

People are not persecuted for doing evil. They may sometimes be punished for it, but never persecuted. Those who live godly lives and contend for the doctrine of God our Saviour are sometimes persecuted because of the doctrine they hold to. Many of them have been persecuted in ages past. Paul was sorely persecuted, but not for unrighteous practices. No one could say aught against his character as a man. It was his doctrine or teaching that they objected to. The same may be said of many of the Lord's servants since his day.

History gives us an account of the burning of some of the followers of the Lord in the year 1022. In those days the Catholic church was united with and supported by state and those who refused to accede to the teachings of Rome were tried and punished by law. In the case referred to those persons "were charged, among other things, with holding that there is no washing away of sins in baptism, that in the Lord's supper the bread and wine are not changed to the body and blood of the Saviour, and that it is unlawful to pray to the saints. These were unpardonable sins. The accused were men of learning and piety, whose unimpeachable characters and holy lives were well known, and by whose benevolence many poor were daily relieved; but they did not believe in baptismal regeneration, transubstantiation, and saint-worship, and therefore they must be burned alive, and burned they were on the very day of their trial." - Cramp's History, page 83. History abounds with other instances like this.

May the Lord help us to live so that no one can truthfully speak evil of our lives, even though we suffer persecution. It is better to suffer for well doing than for evil. May the Lord sustain us and give us all grace for our day and trial, and enable us to glorify Him, that we may be counted worthy to suffer for His sake.

C. H. C.

TOUR IN INDIANA AND OHIO

---June 18, 1907

We left home on Saturday night, April 6, on our tour in Indiana and Ohio. We went first to Pimento, and then to Crawfordsville, the home of Elder J. H. Oliphant. We saw three willing ones come home to the church at Crawfordsville. We visited the home of Elder John R. Daily in Indianapolis. We visited some of the churches in the White Water Association. Then we visited some of the churches near the home of Elders R. W. and John M. Thompson, including Greenfield, Ind. At Lebanon Church four were received for baptism. Elder John M. Thompson is pastor there, and he remained with them the next day to administer the baptism, and we have heard that another joined on that day.

From this section we visited some of the churches in northern Indiana, near the home of Elders W. L. Lines and Geo. A. Bretz. Then we went into northern Ohio, and filled appointments arranged by Elder A. F. Dove. Then we came into southern Ohio, and visited the church at Middle Run, in Miami Association, which we had promised some time ago to do. This was an annual meeting, embracing the third Sunday in May. During this meeting a Sister Collins came to the church and related a reason of her hope and was received. Then we were at Blanchester on Monday and Tuesday. Sister Bertha Smith united with the church here, and was baptized by the unworthy writer on Tuesday afternoon. After this we visited some other churches in the Scioto Association, and some perhaps in the Muskingum. We were kindly and heartily received. The brethren and sisters were all good to us- far better than we feel to deserve. Their many deeds of kindness will never be forgotten. We wish we could give a more extended account of this tour, but our space forbids it. We met a number of dear and faithful brethren in the ministry, too. May the Lord abundantly bless all the dear ones we met, and those who so kindly cared for and ministered to us, is our humble prayer. We trust they will remember us kindly, and that they will pray the Lord to sustain us.

C. H. C.

WHOM DID JOHN BAPTIZE?

---June 25, 1907

A. O. Jones, of Chattanooga, Tenn., asks, "When John was baptizing in the river of Jordan, was he baptizing sinners?" He was not baptizing unregenerate sinners. He came to make ready a people prepared for the Lord. They were already prepared in heart before he baptized them. When the Pharisees and Sadducees came and demanded baptism at his hands he refused them. He told them to bring forth fruits meet for repentance-that is, they must bring fruits of repentance; they must give some evidence of repentance before he would baptize them. Those he baptized confessed their sins. They realized that they were poor, sinful creatures. That person whose heart is untouched by the Spirit of God, or the sweet influence of the love of God, does not realize the exceeding sinfulness of sin; hence he does not confess his sins, is not sorry for his sins, thinks he is as good as anybody and better than most people, and is not a subject fit for baptism, and John baptized no such characters.

C. H. C.

SALOONS AND CHURCH MEMBERS

---June 25, 1907

Some of our brethren seem to want to know what we think about church members visiting saloons or bar rooms. It does not seem to us that there is room for any discussion on such a point as this. We are positively commanded to abstain from every appearance of evil, and the very mildest thing that can be said of such places is that they have the appearance of evil. Gamblers, drunkards, and wicked, profane men frequent such places; and they are not fit places for church members to go. No brother should go to any place where he would be ashamed for his wife, or mother, or sister to go with him. Any church member who continually visits such places of vice and immorality should be admonished, and if he fails to heed the admonition and continues on in that course, we think he should be excluded from the fellowship of the church. The Arminian world has delighted to call the Old Baptists "whisky jugs" and such like names. We have always denied being guilty, and every church claiming to be an Old Baptist Church should prove that we are not whisky Baptists by excluding any member who engages in such practice. In our country the churches do not tolerate drunkenness. We suppose this is explicit enough for all our readers to understand what we think about such. C. H. C.

LIARS NOT ALL DEAD

---June 27, 1907

A clipping from the Kansas City Star has been sent to us, in which the writer proposes to give an account of the feet-washing service at Hollow Rock Church, in Carroll county, Tenn., the first Sunday in May. We never saw more falsehood crowded into so little space in our life. Concerning the custom of washing each other's feet the writer says, "The younger generation will not perpetuate the custom-which will cease with the passing of 'Parson' Stoker." This is a prophecy like so many other prophecies made by the prophets the devil and his hosts have been sending out all along the ages. It is false. The bloodthirsty murderers of the humble followers of the meek and lowly Nazarene, like this stranger to truth, have been prophesying all along that these old soldiers and their ancient customs would soon die out- all pass away and be no more. People often prophesy what they desire, and if the writer of that article in the Star was not afraid of the law of the land he would not hesitate to destroy the life of every member of the "little flock" at old Hollow Rock Church.

He says, "Hollow Rock is probably the only place in the South where the Primitives have observed the feet-washing rite during the past twenty years. Now the writer of that article knows this is as false as Satan himself. He knows there are other churches-several of them-of the Primitive Baptist faith within twenty miles of Hollow Rock that have practiced this ordinance ever since they were constituted. He knows this is the general and almost universal practice of the Primitive Baptist churches in this section of country. If he does not know these things, we are compelled to admit we did not know there was such lamentable ignorance in West Tennessee. Some of his ilk have said some people would get to heaven on their ignorance. If such a thing is possible, then we are of the humble opinion that scribe will enter the Portals. May the Lord pity such a piece of humanity as the writer of that article, if indeed he is human.

We have not space, nor an inclination to notice all the vile slander from the pen of this son of the lower region, but will simply brand his statement that the men washed the feet of the women and the women washed the feet of the men as a lie of the first water and the blackest hue. The devil himself could not, personally, invent more base, low, mean, vile, black falsehood and put it in smaller compass than the writer of that article has done. Not only do we say this, but the managers of the paper ought to know that such things as are contained in that article are untrue.

The father of lies and his cohorts will continue to speak all manner of evil against the Lord's humble followers falsely. If there is any such place as an eternal hell-and we believe there is-"all liars shall have their part in the lake that burns with fire and brimstone."

We are informed that an article appeared in the Memphis News-Scimitar about like the one in the Kansas City Star. C. H. C.

REMARKS TO J. H. HALL

---July 2, 1907

Your feelings of unworthiness is an evidence that you should offer yourself to the church. The eminent apostle to the Gentiles said, "Unto me who am less than the least of all saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ." You could not feel to be less than he did. "Whosoever loveth is born of God, and knoweth God, for God is love." If you love the cause of Christ and love the doctrine of God our Saviour, it is an evidence of the work of grace in your heart. If you would deny yourself and take up your cross and go to the church and relate to them a reason of your hope in the Saviour and follow your Lord in baptism, you would find that sweet rest the Saviour has promised those who follow Him.

May you be encouraged to do this is our humble prayer for you.
C. H. C.

CHRIST OUR SURETY

---July 2, 1907

Since Brother Radcliff asked our opinion as to whether Christ is our security, or our surety (see his letter elsewhere in this paper), we will offer a few of our thoughts on the subject. We would say, however, that we understand Christ to be the surety for His people, and have always understood this to be the doctrine of the Primitive Baptists as a denomination.

The very idea of Christ making atonement for His people on the cross is evidence that He was their surety. It is generally understood that if A is security for the payment of a debt owed by B, the creditor will look to B for the payment of the debt just as much as he looks to A. He holds B responsible equally with A. But if A is surety for B, then when the debt is due the creditor makes demand of A for the payment or settlement of the debt. He looks to A for settlement. Thus the Saviour became surety for His people. All their sins were charged to His account. Their sins were not charged to them and to Christ jointly, as partners in the affair, so that demand for payment could be made upon both. "The Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." -Isaiah 53:6. All their sins, all their iniquities, were laid on Him; they were charged to His account, so that demand was made of Him for payment of the debt which they owed to divine justice. Thus He became their substitute; He was offered in their stead. In that sense

He was their substitute. All their sins being charged to Christ and laid on Him, the law holds no demands against them. The demand was all against Christ, and He met every demand, and paid the debt in full. "The Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all" -the demand was that he pay it all, and this was upon the principle that He had assumed the debt. If He did assume the debt, it then became His, and was not, therefore, a debt owed by them both. He took upon Himself all their indebtedness, paying what they owed and setting them free therefrom.

In Paul's letter to (Philemon 18) he said, concerning Onesimus, "If he hath wronged thee, or oweth thee ought, put that on mine account." If it was put on Paul's account, it was not put on an account against Onesimus. Paul became his surety. He did not say, "If Onesimus fails to pay, or is not able to pay it all, I will pay what he lacks," but he said "put it on mine account "-that is, charge it against me; do not charge it against him. Thus Christ became surety for His people. Their sins were all charged to His account.

This blessed truth is a comfort and consolation to us, but time forbids us writing more. Go on, dear brother, proclaiming the truth that Christ is our surety.

C..H.C.

WOMEN HELPERS

---July 2, 1907

Sister M. E. Mynatt, of Charity, Mo., writes us that she read our editorial some time ago concerning women preaching and endorsed the same; but that since reading that article she has read ((3) (Philippians 4:3), and asks what part we would place those women in. The text reads, "And I intreat thee also, true yoke fellow, help those women which laboured with me in the gospel, with Clement also, and with other my fellow labourers, whose names are in the book of life." The expression, we suppose, which is referred to is "help those women which laboured with me in the gospel." We would call attention to the fact that people may labor in the gospel, and yet not be preachers. To do what the Lord requires in the gospel, to serve Him in the gospel kingdom, is to labor in the gospel. In (Romans 16:3), Paul says, "Greet Priscilla and Aquila my helpers in Christ Jesus." Aquila was a Jew, born in Pontus, and Priscilla was his wife. {see ((8:2) (Acts 18:2)} Aquila was not a preacher, but he laboured in the gospel just as his wife, Priscilla, did. Aquila and Priscilla heard Apollos preach, he knowing only the baptism of John. "They took him unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly." They taught him privately—"they took him unto them." Thus they laboured in the gospel. The apostle tells us, too, in (Romans 16:4), that they "have for my life laid down their own necks." They put their own lives in danger to help him and to save him from dangers. Persecution was great, and they hazarded their own lives to save him from danger. Oh, how comforting and encouraging are such friends and helpers in the gospel! Do the poor servants have such friends and helpers now in the Master's service? Yes, we believe there are some, even now, who would hazard their own lives for the sake of the poor tried minister and the cross of Christ. As poor and unworthy as we are, we have met with some dear saints of God who have manifested so much kindness and tender feeling for us, that we have been led to believe they would willingly endure severe trials for our sake, were it necessary. May the rich blessings of heaven rest upon them, is our humble prayer. Yes, they are helpers in many ways. Words of comfort and encouragement fall from their lips when the poor tried minister is in despair and is feeling as though he had as well "ground arms" and quit the field; but then he is encouraged to fight on a little while longer, realizing that though his efforts appear to him to be weak, yet there are some who appreciate them and who are his friends. No one knows the trials and conflicts of the life of a true minister of Christ only those who have had the experience. Though this is true, yet the true minister, who is faithful and earnestly contends for the faith will have true friends among the humble followers of the blessed Saviour.

C. H. C.

HAVE BEEN BAPTIZED

---July 23, 1907

We understand that the Missionaries have at last baptized Elders R. S. Kirkland and H. E. Pettus, who were at first received on their baptism from our people. We wonder if this will settle the stir among the Soft-shells in regard to what they term alien immersion. We suppose these two men have immersed quite a number since they were received by the Missionaries, and if the baptism they were received on was not good, the Missionary folks now have a good many unbaptized people among them that these parties immersed. We wonder what disposition they will now make of all these? If Elders Kirkland and Pettus did not have gospel baptism, then these people immersed by them are not baptized. Truly, "the legs of the lame are unequal." What will they do?

C. H. C.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY

---July 30, 1907

We see in the Apostolic Herald of July 15, 1907, that a "Primitive Baptist Ladies' Aid Society" has been organized at Boonville, Ind. It appears that the organization was effected January 10, 1907. The names of officers given are as follows:

Viola McNeely, Secretary; Melvina Jones, Vice President; Nancy Powers, Treasurer; Almeda Williams, President. These names, as officers, are signed to a letter in the Herald addressed to Elder J. W. Richardson, in which they ask his advice in the matter. They also say they laid their plans before Elder Jno. T. Oliphant, who is the pastor of the Boonville Church, and that he approved of the same. A letter is published from Elder Richardson in reply, in which he approves of the society. It seems that these letters fell into the hands of Elder W. E. Williams, who sent them to the Herald with his approval.

In the name of our only King and Law-giver, the only Saviour of sinners, who has declared by inspiration that "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God," "that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works," we would ask, where are we drifting? In the name of our King we ask, is it not time to call a halt?

This society cites (Romans 16:1), "I commend unto you Phebe our sister, which is a servant of the church," as sufficient authority for a "Ladies' Aid Society." Why, yes, of course! What a pity the poor, ignorant, old foggy Primitive Baptists have never seen until now that this meant that they should have a Ladies' Aid Society! Oh, yes! here it is: "I commend unto you Phebe our sister, which is a servant of the church and President of the Ladies' Aid Society!" "Greet Priscilla, who is secretary of the Ladies' Aid!" And so on, and on! Oh, no, that is not in the whole blessed Book! Give us book, chapter and verse, please, where they organized a Ladies' Aid in the days of the apostles. Until this is done, you will please excuse us if we condemn the baby and insist that it is an intrusion to bring the little thing into God's house. We would humbly, yet solemnly, warn our brethren to "touch not, taste not, handle not the unclean thing" -and all the inventions of men in the affairs of religion are unclean. The ancient Waldenses regarded all the inventions of men in the affairs of religion as an unspeakable abomination before God.

Suppose we try a little more new translation to suit the Aid Society. Turn to (II Corinthians 1:1), and read and compare with this: "Paul an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, and Timothy our brother, unto the church of God which is at Corinth, with all the members of the Ladies' Aid Society which is in all Achaia." Compare (Galatians 1:1-2), with this: "Unto the churches and Ladies' Aid Societies of Galatia." Compare (Ephesians 1:1) with this: "To the saints which are at Ephesus, and to the Ladies' Aid Societies in Christ Jesus." Compare (Philippians 1:1) with this: "To all the saints in Christ Jesus which are at Philippi, with the bishops and deacons, and to the Ladies' Aid Societies, with their presidents, vice presidents, secretaries and treasurers. Compare (Colossians 1:1-2) with this: "To the saints and faithful brethren and Ladies' Aid Societies in Christ which are at Colosse." Compare 1st Thess. i. 1 with this: "Unto the church and the Ladies' Aid Society of the Thessalonians." Compare (Titus 1:5) with this: "For this cause left I thee in Crete, that thou shouldst set in order the things that are wanting, and organize Ladies' Aid Societies, and ordain elders in every city, as I had appointed thee." It seems to us that a careful examination of the places cited above and a comparison with the above would be sufficient to convince any Old School Baptist who is willing to simply follow the Scriptures that there is no authority for a Ladies' Aid Society, and that it should be let alone. May the Lord help us to follow Him and His teaching and not follow after the world and the inventions of men.

C. H. C.

Matthew 23:37

---August 7, 1907

Sister J. D. Rodgers, of Warrensburg, Mo., has requested us to write our views on the above mentioned text, which reads, "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not." We have often heard this text used by the Arminian world, though they usually quote it wrong. They often change it to read "How often would I have gathered thee together." And there is another sermon that a few years ago was preached among us, called the hen and chicken sermon, in which the application was, seemingly, somewhat twisted. The old hen was so anxious to gather the chickens under her wings, but the chickens would not-so the sermon ran. The chicken was made to represent the child of God outside the church, and we suppose the hen was to represent the church. The Arminian world applies it to the alien or unregenerate sinner.

It seems to us the language is very plain. The Saviour was talking to Jerusalem, who had killed and stoned the prophets. As a result, her children were scattered and not gathered together. This Jerusalem was God's chosen nation, and they disobeyed the law, and her children were not gathered together.

Verses 38 and 39 read, "Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. For I say unto you, ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord." With national Israel, Jerusalem, this was literally fulfilled in the destruction of Jerusalem-"Behold, your house is left unto you desolate." National Israel was typical of spiritual Israel; in this language we have a type of the church, so that it may now be rightly applied to the church of Christ, and to her only, when she kills or stones one of the Lord's servants whom He sends unto her. Sometimes they do stone the Lord's ministers-not with literal stones as they formerly did, but they do stone them in different ways, by lightly esteeming them as God's servants and in not caring for them, and in not helping them to bear their burdens. And when a church thus stones one of the Lord's servants they will suffer for the same. Not only so, but their children are not gathered together as they would otherwise be, for the Saviour says "ye would not." Their house is finally left unto them desolate. They suffer for their wrong doing. Sometimes an humble servant of God is stoned, because a church thinks he is not a good enough preacher for them, he is not as able in expounding the doctrine as they want-which appears that they think they are too good for such an insignificant man to preach for them. Sooner or later their house is left unto them desolate. The Lord will not allow them to go unpunished. He will take away the manifestation of His presence, and they shall not see Him henceforth, till they say, blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. When they are ready to say. and do say, "Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord," then may they see once more a sweet manifestation of His work and presence.

We offer the above remarks for the consideration of all our readers, and pray the Lord to enable us all to walk in the right way. C. H. C.

ANOTHER ONE GONE HOME

---August 13, 1907

Rev. A. M. Kirkland, of Fulton, Ky., a Hardshell Baptist preacher, has united with the Missionary Baptists, and will continue his ministry with us. He is a brother of Rev. R. S. Kirkland, who some months ago took the same step. -Fleetwood Ball, in Baptist and Reflector, Aug. 1, 1907.

The above is an item of good news to our brethren. It would be so much better for our cause if all who are in line with the Missionaries on the commission and repentance questions, as well as some other points, would go on to the Missionaries where they belong. It does look to us like the good brethren who are following and clinging to these men, but do not believe what they advocate, ought to be able to see now where they are being led to. If you think the Primitive Baptist Church is the church of Christ and if you do not believe as do the Missionaries on the commission and repentance questions, we admonish you to cease following these brethren and come back to the old church and walk in the "good old way," and you will find rest to your souls, and we may thereby have peace.

Just here we want to give our readers the benefit of a statement from Brother P. A. Walker which we have on file in our possession. The statement is as follows:

This is to certify that on the second Sunday in October, 1905, Elder J. V Kirkland said, in conversation with me, "The time has come when we do not know where the church is." Faxon, Ky.

Signed

P. A. WALFZER.

If he cannot tell where the church is he is as likely to conclude that it is in one place as another. That expression doesn't sound much like an Old Baptist to us. Elder J. V has lately been among the Burnham people in Indiana, and wants his national meeting held at a time next year that the Burnham people can attend. Some of the Burnham people are now doing some missionary work in connection with the anti-board part of the Missionary Baptists. "Straws show which way the wind blows." The leaders of the Lord's people cause them to err. May the Lord help us to forsake men and follow Christ.

C. H. C

WITH OR WITHOUT MEANS

---August 20, 1907

I want someone to answer the following questions:

Was the preaching of the gospel the means of Paul's conversion? Was it the means of Cornelius' conversion, and Zacchaeus, and the thief on the cross, and the lunatic in the tombs?

If the preaching of the gospel is the means of salvation, and the above were saved without hearing the gospel preached-what I want to know is, are some saved by means and some without means? Has God two ways of saving the people-one by the preaching of the gospel and others without it? Someone please inform me.

D. C. WACASER.

Bangor, Ala.

OUR ANSWER

We do not know that Brother Wacaser expects a reply from us to his questions, but we offer a few remarks.

The preaching of the gospel was not the means of the regeneration of Paul, Cornelius, nor any other person. Paul was present when Stephen was stoned, and gave his consent to the wicked performance, for he held the clothes of those who stoned Stephen; but the preaching had no effect on him. John tells why Stephen's preaching had no effect on Paul at that time. Paul was yet in an unregenerate state, he was of the world, only a worldly character. "We are of God: he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us." -John 4:6. Stephen was of God in his preaching, and that character who is not of God does not hear such preaching. They may, and do, hear the vocal sound of the preacher's voice, but they do not hear understandingly, or to profit, while they are not of God. In order to hear understandingly they must first be of God. If they must be of God first, then the preaching is too late to be a means of regeneration or to make them of God.

The case of the infant cannot be reached by means of the gospel. The infant cannot understand the gospel, and the adult is saved the same way the infant is-both are saved one way. The Saviour says, "Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein. -(0:15) (Mark 10:15). The adult receives the kingdom of God the same way the little child does, or he does not receive it at all. The infant does not receive the kingdom of God, or eternal life, through the means of gospel preaching. As both infant and adult are saved the same way, it follows, therefore, that the adult does not receive the kingdom through the means of gospel preaching either.

God does not have two ways of giving life to the dead. "As the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; even so the Son quickeneth whom He will." -(John 5:21). The Son quickens the dead sinner into divine life, raises him up out of a state of death in sin into a state of life in Christ, the very same way and by the very same divine power that the Father raises the dead. Both are done the same way, and that is one way only. "No man can come to the Father but by me," says Jesus, who had just affirmed that "I am the way, the truth, and the life." If He is the way, and no man cometh unto the Father but by Him, then there is only one way of eternal salvation. Sinners receive eternal life, are regenerated, just one way. The Lord speaks to them, as He did to Saul of Tarsus when he was on his journey from Jerusalem to Damascus, and when He speaks to the dead sinner He imparts life. He regenerates the sinner. "The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit and they are life," says the Redeemer.

Life is imparted by a direct touch of life; it is not imparted through a means or medium. Hence, sinners are regenerated, born of God, or born from above, or quickened into divine life, by the Spirit of God coming into direct touch with their spirits. When they have thus been made "new creatures" in Christ they are capacitated to hear and understand the gospel, and they never are until then. We are sure that the reason why many of the Lord's children in this country of ours do not believe the gospel, or do not believe the truth, the doctrine of God our Saviour, is because of false teaching. They are blinded and led astray by false and judaizing teachers, men who are teaching for doctrine the commandments of men. There are so many, who manifest that they are willing to teach most anything, if the money flows, freely their way. They "corrupt" the word of God, or handle the word of God deceitfully for the money there is in it-making merchandise of the people, so that many of the Lord's dear children are blinded by them and are spending their money for that which is not bread and their labor for that which satisfieth not. The gospel is for the benefit of the Lord's children, for their comfort, encouragement and instruction. It cannot benefit one who does not receive it, and the natural man does not receive it. So, if it benefits any, it is the Lord's children, those who have been born of God.

May the Lord help us all to contend earnestly for the doctrine of God our Saviour. We should be aggressive, but not progressive. The same old faith and practice of the apostles is good enough. Let us not try to progress and thereby depart from that same old teaching and practice, and thereby be on the retrograde. But let us, by the Lord's help, be aggressive. Let us be ready to contend for the good old way. Let us remember to always face the enemy. The Lord has not given us a covering to protect our back from the enemy of truth. So let us be careful. May the Lord help and sustain us all, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

Jonah 3:10

---August 20,1907

Brother W. R. Moore, of Luxomni, Ga., and Brother J. D. Musick, of Walnut Grove, Ala., have requested our views of ((0) (Jonah 3:10), which reads as follows: "And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way, and God repented of the evil, that He had said that He would do unto them; and He did it not."

We would say, first, that the Scriptures do not contradict themselves. If we place a construction upon any portion of Scripture which would make that portion contradict another, it is necessarily true that the construction is wrong. This being true, it follows that any construction placed upon this text that would contradict any plain statement in the Scriptures would necessarily be wrong.

In (Malachi 3:6) the Lord says, "For I am the Lord, I change not; therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed." Here we are positively told that the Lord changes not. If the Lord ever changes, then this statement of the Lord Himself is not true. But the statement is true, and the Lord does not change. If He did change, then the sons of Jacob would be consumed. The sons of Jacob are all the heirs of promise. "The Lord's portion is His people; Jacob is the lot of His inheritance." -(Deuteronomy 32:9). Jacob was a representative character, hence the heirs of promise are called the sons of Jacob. Not one of them will ever be consumed, because the Lord does not change.

Not only is it true that the Lord does not change, but He is without variableness or shadow of turning. "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." -(James 1:17). The Lord is without even the shadow of a change. He does not vary. Men may, and do, vary, change and turn, but the Lord does neither. He is the same yesterday, today and forever more. The Lord's dealing in the case of the Ninevites was in perfect harmony with His dealings with His people. Nineveh was in wickedness and rebellion, and were not living as God required under the law. Jonah was sent to preach to them, and his preaching was a proclamation of the result of their wicked rebellion and disobedience. Their disobedience would bring destruction and ruin upon them. This was in perfect harmony with the declaration of the Lord Himself, as recorded in (8:25) (Ezekiel 18:25-30), "Yet ye say, the way of the Lord is not equal. Hear now, O house of Israel; is not my way equal? Are not your ways unequal? When a righteous man turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, and dieth in them, for his iniquity that he hath done shall he die. Again, when the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive. Because he considereth, and turneth away from all his transgressions that he hath committed, he shall surely live, he shall not die. Yet saith the house of Israel, the way of the Lord is not equal. O house of Israel, are not my ways equal? Are not your ways unequal? Therefore I will judge you, O house of Israel, every one according to his ways, saith the Lord God. Repent, and turn yourselves from all your transgressions so iniquity shall not be your ruin.

The Lord's way is equal, but their ways were not equal. Nineveh had departed from the Lord's commandments, they were His people in rebellion. A continuation in that wickedness and rebellion would bring death. "For his iniquity that he hath done shall he die." But Nineveh repented in sackcloth and ashes, and "when the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness," "and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive," "he shall not die." So Nineveh turned from her wickedness, and the Lord did not inflict the punishment of death or destruction of the city, but spared them, which was according to His promise.

The Lord's people turn away from the right way, and thereby their peace and happiness, in this age, is destroyed. When we all engage in doing what the Lord requires and what He has commanded us as His children to do, we have peace and fellowship abounding. Doing what the Lord requires does not bring strife and confusion among the Lord's people; that is always brought about by something the Lord has not commanded. Our peace is destroyed by doing things the Lord does not command. Let us all try to engage in doing what He requires and nothing more. Let us thereby "strive to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bonds of peace." "Let brotherly love continue." May the Lord help us to be faithful and true to His service, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

KNOW AS WE ARE KNOWN

---August 20, 1907

Brother James H. Mitchell, of Sturgis, Miss., asks if we think we will know each other in heaven. There is a great difference of opinion on this question, and we think much of what is said about it is only speculation. The apostle says "we now see through a glass darkly," or dimly. We only know in part now. Then may we not be safe in saying that no living man on earth today knows just how it will be in heaven, or how we shall know each other there? We are sure that when all the Lord's children reach heaven they will know each other as the redeemed of the Lord. Fleshly ties and affections will be done away. "Henceforth know we no man after the flesh." "I shall know, even as also I am known." We should know no man after the flesh here in the service of God. But we know only in part. After awhile perfect knowledge will be ours, and we will all know each other as the redeemed. We will know Jesus as our elder Brother and Redeemer, and we will know God as our heavenly Father. This will be enough, with heaven so arranged and fixed as to give all the redeemed perfect and eternal happiness and bliss. It will be enough, and that should satisfy us. It is a place of perfection, and all our imperfections will be left behind and done away. Surely the Lord's mercy is great to prepare such a home for us and then prepare us for such a home. Sometimes we feel a longing desire to pass over the river into that blessed home. Oh, is it for us?

C. H. C.

Isaiah 14:12

---August 27, 1907

Elder W. J. Leonard, of Laurel, Miss., requests our views of ((2) (Isaiah 14:12)). It reads as follows: "How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! how art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations." The language has direct reference to the falling of Babylon and to the King of Babylon. Verse 4 says, "That thou shalt take up this proverb against the King of Babylon, and say, How hath the oppressor ceased! the golden city ceased." The word Lucifer has no reference to Satan, but to Venus, the morning star. Satan is never in Scripture called Lucifer, though it is said that he transforms himself into an angel of light. It refers to a Babylonish King, who shone in all the splendor and glory of false worship, and who was exalted greatly in his heaven, a heaven of outward splendor and happiness and authority, then possessed by him. He weakened the nations "by subduing them, taking cities and towns, plundering the inhabitants of their substance, carrying them captive, or obligating them to a yearly tribute, by which means he weakened them, and kept them under." This, although referring to Babylon of old, and to King Belshazzar, in all probability typifies Romish anti-Christ, for as they weakened the nations, so Romish anti-Christ got the power over many nations of the earth, reigned over the kings, and by various methods and measures drained them of their wealth and riches, and thereby greatly enfeebled them. The one who weakened, or killed, the people was cast down to the earth. Rome has slain thousands of the Lord's children because they would not deny their Redeemer. But Babylon will finally be destroyed, overthrown, cast down.

These thoughts are offered for the consideration of our readers. C. H. C.

REPLY TO M. C. COLE

---September 3, 1907

On another page of this paper will be found a letter from M. C. Cole. He sent a letter containing some questions to the editor of the Sword and Shield, a Missionary Baptist paper, and it seems that the editor of that paper made no reply to Brother Cole's questions, so he now sends the letter to us with the request that we comment on the same. It seems to us that Brother Cole has already given a Scriptural and logical answer to his own questions, and it is our judgment that he will be disappointed if he expects his positions to be overthrown. We will answer his questions by number as follows:

1. Yes, the sinner in his unregenerate state is totally dead to spiritual things.
2. The gospel was given for the spiritual benefit or comfort of the regenerate, those who are born of God.
3. The commission, as recorded in Matthew and Mark, was given directly to the apostles. The commission was not given to the church.
4. The lost sinner, or the unregenerate sinner, cannot partake of spiritual food. The unregenerate sinner is not in possession of spiritual life. In order that one partake of natural food, he must first be in possession of natural life.

Just so, in order that one partake of spiritual food, he must first be in possession of spiritual life. The gospel food is for the regenerate character, that one who has the spiritual life.

5. There is no difference between spiritual quickening and the giving of spiritual or eternal life. To quicken is to give life, to make alive from the dead.
6. The receiving of eternal life does not depend upon the written or preached word. Sinners are regenerated in all ages the very same way and by the very same power. "Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein." So says the Saviour. Hence the adult is saved the same way the infant is saved-both are saved the same way. The infant is not saved through the instrumentality of the written or preached word, and neither is the adult.

7. Christ did that which He came into the world to do. The angel said He should save His people from their sins. He came to make reconciliation for their sins, to redeem them from under the curse of the law, and He finished the work. "By His own blood He entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us." -(Hebrews 9:12). "When He had by Himself purged our sins, He sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high." -(Hebrews 1:3). He did not leave this work to another. God does not leave His work to another. If He did not do the work He came to do, and left it for another, as no other is able to do the work, He not only did not fill His mission, but no one of Adam's race could ever be saved in heaven.

8. The gospel was not given that life might be imparted through the preached word. "As the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; even so the Son quickeneth whom He will." -(John 5:21). "The hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear His voice, and shall come forth." -(John 5:28-29). The dead will not be raised from the graves through the preached word or proclamation of the gospel; and "as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them, even so the Son quickeneth whom He will." The Son quickens the dead sinner into life the very same way that the dead will be raised from the graves; so it is not done by the preaching of the gospel. The word gospel means good news, and is good news to no others only those who have been quickened into life; hence is for the child of God, and is not for the unregenerate. To find a statement of the object of the gifts in the ministry see (Ephesians 4:11-12,13). They are given for the perfecting of the saints-not to make saints.
9. The natural child, after birth, is a child of its parents by birth.
10. No, Christ did not die that all the human race might be saved. If He had, then all the race would be saved. He died for the Lord's elect. "For the transgression of my people was He stricken." - ((3:8) (Isaiah 53:8)).

As we understand it, Brother Cole is right on these points. This doctrine does more than give you a chance, Brother Cole, for this plan of salvation is sure. As the natural man does not receive such teaching as this, it follows that you are a child of God. Therefore this makes salvation sure for you. If we had to render obedience in order to be saved in heaven, none of us would ever enter the glory world. Sinners are saved in heaven by grace only. We are sure you are not at home among the Missionary Baptists, and we would admonish you, as one that loves all those who believe and love the doctrine of salvation by grace, to come to the Primitive Baptists, who love and teach this doctrine, and ask for a home with them. We believe it would be a sweet home for you. May the Lord bless and direct you, is our humble prayer. If we can be of any service or help to you, feel perfectly free to write to us.

C. H. C.

IN EAST AND MIDDLE TENNESSEE

---September 10, 1907

We left home on Thursday, August 15, to fill the appointments as published for us. We arrived at Cedar Springs Church, in Marion county, Term., near Condra Station (Cedar Springs post office), the place of meeting of the Sequatchie Valley Association, at about noon on Friday. At this meeting we met Elders R. O. Raulston, M. A. Hackworth, A. G. Sharp and H. L. Golston, who are members of this association; and Elders J. G. Woodfin and H. F. Agee, of the Elk River; D. H. Cordell and C. H. Dykes, of Collins River. This was a pleasant meeting, and peace and harmony prevailed throughout. Brother B. F. Condra, who is a member of our home church, was with us at this association and at South Pittsburg on Monday night following. His former home was at Cedar Springs Church, and he met many of his relatives and old friends. He returned home on Tuesday. After the association closed we filled appointments at South Pittsburg on Monday and Monday night, Sweetens Cove on Tuesday and Wednesday, Jasper Wednesday night, at the home of Brother Wilson Condra, near Cedar Springs Church, who is afflicted and not able to go to the church, on Thursday, and then at Dunlap on Thursday night. Elder Raulston was with us at all these places except Sweetens Cove, and is yet with us. We are going with him in his buggy from place to place.

On Friday morning we went to the Collins River Association, at Yellow Springs Church, on the mountain. The following ministers were in attendance: Elders C. H. Dykes, D. H. Cordell, Peter Anderson, and T. B. Lankford, of the Collins River; L. F. Evans, of the Round Lick; H. L. Golston and R. O. Raulston, of the Sequatchie Valley. This was another pleasant meeting. The Collins River is the association our father, Elder S. F. Cayce, was attending when he died two years ago. On Sunday night we tried to preach at a meeting house near the home of a Mr. Moffitt, a brother in the flesh to Brother Venus Moffitt, and then spent the night with Mr. Moffitt. He lives at the old home place of his father, who was an Old Baptist minister, and who is lovingly remembered by many in that country.

On Monday we went to Sulphur Springs Church, near Irving College, where our father died. We saw where the stand was erected, a part of which yet remains there, and saw about where he stood just before he fell. We saw the spot where the cot stood upon which he lay when he breathed his last. It was in the public road and under a large poplar tree which stood near. We saw the house where his body lay on Sunday night, and went into the room. No one who has never had the experience can imagine our feelings as we viewed these things for the first time since our dear father passed away. It seemed to us that we could almost feel his presence and hear his voice proclaiming the sweet and glorious truth that "as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly," as we stood there beholding the spot where he fell in the service. Oh, that God would enable us to be faithful as he was. And we do pray that heaven's richest blessings may be bountifully bestowed upon the dear brethren and friends who were so kind and attentive to our dear father and to us.

From Sulphur Springs Church we went to Bildad Church, in the bounds of the Round Lick Association, and were there on Wednesday and Wednesday night. At this church we met Elders P. G. Byers and L. P. Potter. Brother Potter came with us to Mt. View Church today-Thursday, Aug. 29, where we had meeting today and tonight.

It is now 11:25 p. m. We are at the home of Brother T. R. Vaughan. The brethren are kind and good to us, and we have been kindly received by them at every place we have gone. We are enjoying the company of Brother Raulston, who expects to be with us until the close of the Round Lick Association next Monday, which will be before this paper is printed or mailed. We desire an interest in the prayers of all the brethren, that the Lord may keep us humble and at the feet of our brethren, who are all so good and kind to us.

C. H. C.

REMARKS TO V. P. FERGUSON

---September 10, 1907

We do not know that we fully grasp the meaning of your question. If you mean by "preparing questions and answers," the preparation of Sunday school literature, or such as is used in Sunday schools, will say that our chief objection is to the present avowed object of the Sunday school-that of teaching people to make children of God of them. Another objection is that the Sunday school is of recent origin, and Christ gave all that is necessary in connection with His church and its organization. We think our brethren in the ministry are always ready to answer any question put to them by any enquirer after truth. We would suggest, dear brother, that you take the Bible as the man of your counsel, and "pin your faith to no man's coat sleeve." The Bible is a safe guide, and our opinions are worthless unless they are in harmony with it. May the Lord bless you, and give you the sweet influence of His Holy Spirit, and bless THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST to your comfort and instruction, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

MISSIONS A FAILURE

---November 5, 1907

A remarkable case of apostasy has occurred in the missionary field of the United Brethren. A missionary in Africa took a native baby and reared it, and when he came to this country gave the boy a high school and medical-college education; then the young man was sent back to his own tribe to do missionary work. He married in this country, and took his wife from Dayton, O., with him to his former home. Their four children are now in school in this country, but the man has renounced Christianity, has turned to heathenism, and now, at the age of nearly fifty years, has become chief of his tribe, a devil worshiper, contracted plural marriages, and taken on the habits of a heathen. What is the matter? It seems to us that the mistake was in undertaking to educate a human soul into Christianity. The human appliances were all right. They did the best they could. They kept the man for half a century; but they could not get the heathen out of him, nor fortify him against heathenism when brought into direct contact with it. There is but one way to make Christians. God alone can create the soul anew and make it a new creature in Christ Jesus. God alone can take the heathenism out of the human soul. Let us never forget that man must be born again.-The Methodist (Fulton, Ky)., Oct. 23, 1907.

The above clipping from The Methodist is only another evidence of the truthfulness of the claim made by the Primitive Baptists that the "human appliances" are a failure and do not result in the salvation of sinners. Our position all along has been that "God alone can create the soul anew and make it a new creature in Christ Jesus;" that "God alone can take the heathenism out of the human soul." The editor of The Methodist has admitted our claim on this, and it is next in order to renounce all the ponderous machinery and human appliances of the modern religious world, invented by men in the name of Christianity to make merchandise of the people. The whole missionary scheme to evangelize and Christianize the world is the invention of Rome, and those who are engaging in it are following the footsteps of Rome. We are sure many are doing so unwittingly, and we believe many are honest, but deceived. Such occurrences as the above should have a tendency to open the eyes of some of the Lord's children who are deceived, and on that account fostering and aiding those enterprises. C. H. C.

Genesis 6:1-4

---November 12, 1907

Brother H. F. Holley, of Purvis, Miss., has requested our views of (Genesis 6:1-4), which reads as follows: "And it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, that the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they took them wives of all which they chose. And the Lord said, My Spirit shall not always strive with man, for that he also is flesh: yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years. There were giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown."

We think the "daughters of men" represent the institutions or inventions of men. The sons of God, or God's children, married or united with the inventions of men; they engaged in such worship as was invented by men. Long before this Cain made an offering unto the Lord of the fruit of the ground. The offering he made was produced by his own labor, and was the fruit of the ground, from "beneath" and not from "above." Abel "brought of the firstlings of his flock and of the fat thereof." His offering was of the right kind, it representing the offering which Christ should make, in which there was shedding of blood. But the "sons" of God did not continue to make such offerings as Abel made-they took them wives of the daughters of men. -They united with and joined in the offerings and services that were invented by men. Like many of God's children do now, they were married to or united with and joined in service that God did not accept.

The expression, "My Spirit shall not always strive with man," has no reference whatever to the work of regeneration. There is no reference to regeneration in the whole connection. "Yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years." Just one hundred and twenty years from that time the flood came and man was destroyed from off the face of the earth. That the destruction of man is what is referred to is clearly seen by reading the entire chapter. Verse 7 says, "I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth." This was done in just one hundred and twenty years- "yet his 2 days shall be an hundred and twenty years." If the expression, "My Spirit shall not always strive with man," has reference to the work of the Spirit in regeneration, then it would follow that the work of regeneration ceased at the expiration of one hundred and twenty years from that time. But this Was not under consideration, as we have seen.

These are a few of the thoughts we have had in connection with the passage referred to. We have not time or space to go into a more lengthy discussion of the same, but submit these to our readers, trusting they may be blessed of the Lord to the good of some of the Lord's children. C. H. C.

GREENFIELD-PHILESIC ASSOCIATION

---November 19, 1907

Our association, the Greenfield-Philesic, was held with the church at Greenfield, Tenn., on Friday, Saturday and third Sunday in October. There were thirteen ministers in attendance, besides those who were members in this association. Besides the preaching at the stand every day, there was preaching at different places every night. The preaching was all a unit, no one seemed to have a hobby to ride, and there was much rejoicing among the saints. Love and fellowship prevailed throughout the entire meeting.

Brother Latnay Miller, son of Brother L. V Miller, who has lately moved to Martin from Illinois, offered himself for membership on Saturday night after preaching by Elder C. F. Stuckey, of Norris City, Ill., at a schoolhouse about four miles west of Greenfield. He was heartily received into the fellowship of the brethren, and was baptized by the writer on the fourth Sunday in October, our regular meeting here in Martin.

Our association was a very pleasant meeting, and will be long remembered. We feel to thank the Lord for His wonderful mercies, and to press on a few more fleeting months in His delightful service. May His grace sustain us all, and may He give us all the Christian courage and fortitude to press forward all the time in praise and honor to His name, doing what little He requires of us as His children. We often feel discouraged and cast down; but we often feel to take courage from His blessed and enduring and sure promises, and are willing to go on enduring the trials of life. May the Lord help us all so to do, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

QUESTIONS OF ORDER

---November 19, 1907

Dear Editor of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST-Will you for the good of Zion answer the following queries:

No. 1. If a man is an admitted adulterer and comes to the church claiming that God for Christ's sake has forgiven his sins, and the church receives him, would it be gospel order for him to live as he was living before?

No. 2. If a brother involves himself in debt and lets his notes and accounts go unpaid until his creditors lose confidence and offer his notes or accounts for less than one-fifth face value- is it gospel order for the brother to put money into the hands of another and buy in his notes or accounts for less than 20 cents on the dollar?

No. 3. Is it gospel order for one or two churches of an association to charge a sister church with disorder in practice, when they are from twenty to forty miles away and have not visited or investigated her?
M. L. BARRETT. Bonham, Tex.

OUR ANSWER

In reply to No. 1, will say we do not consider it gospel order for a church to retain a brother or sister in her communion who continues to live in adultery. The Scriptures are very clear on this, it seems to us. See (I Corinthians 5).

In answer to No. 2 will say that we certainly consider it, not only contrary to gospel order, but contrary to common honesty for a man to refuse to pay his just debts if he can pay them. A man may be unavoidably involved in debt so that he cannot pay. Or he may be involved so that he cannot pay at a certain time; yet if he endeavors to pay, and if he does pay when he can, we do not think he is to be condemned. Of course he should be careful about going in debt. If one does become involved so that he is unable to pay what he owes, dollar for dollar, and can honorably procure a compromise from his creditors, which is sometimes done, we do not think he should be condemned. We do think, however, that he is doing wrong to pay only a part of the amount he owes, if he could pay all. It has been a distinguishing mark of the Old Baptists that they pay their debts, and we think they should tenaciously live up to that reputation.

Replying to No. 3, will say that in our judgment no one certain rule could apply in all cases. Circumstances could be such that what would be right in one instance would be wrong in another. It is not always absolutely necessary to visit a church in a certain locality to know that the church in that locality is in disorder. If a church is in disorder, and a sister church is aware of it, we do not see that they are necessarily compelled to visit the disorderly church in order to charge them with the disorder. It is right to endeavor to reclaim those who enter into disorderly practice, but we do not think it is always necessary to visit them before they can be charged with the disorder. We know nothing about what gave rise to the above queries, but have tried to give a brief answer to them, according to our humble judgment, as We understand the questions. Let us all try to do right, and do as we would be done by.

C. H. C.

Romans 10:13-15

---November 19, 1907

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother in Christ-Will you please explain (Romans 10:13-15)? I ask for information, and I feel that, with the help of God, you could give us some light on the subject. Yours in much love, W. B. SCREWS. Aline, Ga.

OUR ANSWER

We are always willing to give what views we may have on any passage of Scripture. If we are not right we want to be. The passage Elder Screws asks our views on is one much relied on by the whole Arminian world to prove that no one can enter heaven without first believing on Christ, or believing the gospel, and that therefore the gospel should be preached for this object-hence, that no one can be saved in heaven where the gospel is not preached. The passage reads: "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. How then shall they call on Him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach, except they be sent? as it is written, How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!" Verses 16, 17 and 18 read, "But they have not all obeyed the gospel. For Esaias saith, Lord, who hath believed our report? So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by word of God. But I say, Have they not heard? Yes, verily, their sound went into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the world."

The apostle starts out in this chapter by saying, "Brethren, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved. For I bear them record that they have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge. For they being ignorant of God's righteousness, and going about to establish their own righteousness, have not submitted themselves unto the righteousness of God." This shows us clearly that Israel, or the Lord's people, were under consideration, and not unregenerate or alien sinners. Many of God's people now, the Israel of God, are ignorant of God's righteousness, and are going about to establish their own righteousness. They seem to expect to reach heaven on their own obedience or right doing. They are not submitting themselves to the righteousness of God. They are ignorant of the way of salvation. They have zeal, but not according to knowledge. The zeal is all right, but it is expended in the wrong way. The zeal is of God, but false teachers lead them astray, and they are zealous in the inventions of men, endeavoring to establish their own righteousness, instead of being zealous in what God commands and requires. They have been taught the doctrines and commandments of men by false teachers, hence they are ignorant of God's righteousness. Although this is true, yet they have an experimental knowledge of the Lord in the pardon and forgiveness of their sins, for the apostle says in verse 8. "The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart: that is, the word of faith, which we preach." The same apostle says, "We preach Christ crucified." The same Christ that is preached by the true minister dwells in the heart of His regenerated people by the Holy Spirit. This being true, there is an agreement or harmony in the experience of the child of God and the gospel, good news, glad tidings proclaimed by the minister of Christ. So when the child of God bears this glad tidings, there is a witness within testifying to the truthfulness of what he hears-hence the comfort and encouragement in hearing the good news. It bears witness with what we have experienced. All this shows clearly that the first work is the inward work of grace the Lord performs in the heart, the regenerating work of the Holy Spirit. That is the first thing requisite to calling on the name of the Lord. If this is not the first thing necessary, then one must call on the name of the Lord from the heart while he yet has a bad heart. If the heart is changed, or made good, in order that he be able to call on the name of the Lord from a good heart, and those who have a good heart are in a saved state, or are children of God, then it is too late for him to call on the name of the Lord in order to become a child of God. That those who have a good heart are children of God is very evident from the Saviour's teaching in (Matthew 5:8), "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." Then if they do not call on the name of the Lord from a bad heart, the heart must be made good first. If the heart is made good before they call on the name of the Lord, they have the promise before they call that they shall see God. Then their calling on the name of the Lord cannot be in order to their seeing God or entering heaven. But if God's children were calling on the name of the Lord instead of missionary boards, men, and measures invented by them, they would be saved from many of the gins, snares, and pitfalls set by men to delude, deceive and seduce the Lord's children and to draw disciples after them.

Certainly, they will not call on Him in whom they have not believed. Inwardly, or experimentally, deep down in the soul of all the Lord's children, there is a cry which goes out to the Lord, having been taught a lesson experimentally which cannot be taught any other way. But outwardly, or doctrinally, or practically, they do not call on the name of the Lord unless they believe the doctrine of God our Saviour. And to believe the doctrine in its fullness it is necessary that they hear it. Then, "how shall they hear without a preacher?" If the Lord had no use for the preachers He would not call and send them out. Surely, the Lord has a use for His ministers. He commands them to teach; to feed, to comfort His sheep. In order that the minister do this, the subject to be taught or comforted must first be a living subject.

“And how shall they preach, except they be sent?” The preacher usually preaches the power that sent him. If he is always preaching about money, telling about how many souls are going to hell because they lack money to send the gospel to them, or if the burden of his discourses is money, it is evident money is the moving power or authority for his going. If he preaches the power of man, it is evident he is sent by the authority of man. If the power of God and love and mercy of God is the burden of his discourses, it is evidence that God sent him. Yes, the Lord sends His ministers. They are not to be sent by a board, church, society, men or set of men. “Pray the Lord of the harvest, that He would send forth laborers into His harvest.” This is the language of the Saviour as recorded in

((0:2) (Luke 10:2). Why pray the Lord of the harvest, if the men are ready and willing, and can't go, because the people will not give?-the Lord has called, the college has qualified, and the board, or society, or association, or church, can't send because the people are too stingy and covetous! May the Lord deliver us from such a theory! Truly, the harvest is plenteous and the laborers are few. There are many laborers, but oh how few are the true and faithful ones. Dear brethren, do you realize how few they are? Then “pray the Lord of the harvest, that He would send laborers into His harvest.” The Lord does the sending-and how shall one preach the truth if the Lord does not send him? “How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things.” His walk must be in harmony with his preaching. If he preaches the truth, but lives a life not harmonious with his preaching, then his preaching will have no good influence. Did you ever hear one preach in whom you had no confidence because his walk was not right? Did you enjoy the preaching? His preaching was not glad tidings to you. His walk must be upright if his preaching benefits those who know him. Oh, how beautiful should his walk be! How careful the minister of the gospel should be of his walk. If his walk is such as becometh sound doctrine, and the doctrine he preaches is sound, then the hearts of the saints are comforted, edified and built up, and the Lord's little children are united together in love and fellowship, and there are no divisions. Oh, that the Lord would send forth true and faithful and humble laborers into His harvest!

Let us strive, dear brethren, to live humble and devoted to the cause of our Master and devoted to one another, and help one another and not try to destroy; let us endeavor to "keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. The Lord will provide. Let us go in obedience to Him, not trusting in men, but in the Lord alone.

C. H. C.

QUESTIONS FROM J. H. KUYKENDALL

---November 26, 1907

ELDER C. H. CAYCE:

Please answer the following questions in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST:

Is salvation conditional or unconditional?

If unconditional, why did Christ come to call sinners to repentance?

((32) (Luke 5:32).

If unconditional, can a Gentile be saved?

If unconditional, what will become of the infant that dies and is not one of the elect?

Hillsboro, Texas, R. 8.

J. H. KUYKENDALL.

OUR ANSWER

Eternal salvation is unconditional on the part of the sinner. No one can act in order to life; so if any ever received eternal life, it could not have depended on a condition performed by them. If it is conditional on their part, and no one can act without life, or in order to life, then no one could ever be saved.

If salvation had been conditional there would have been no need of Christ coming to call sinners to repentance. If this repentance is a condition in order to the receiving of eternal life, the life depending on their repenting, they could have performed the condition as easily without Christ coming as with it. So, if this salvation is conditional, the coming of Christ is in vain, and He accomplished nothing by His coming. The text referred to says Christ "came not to call the righteous but sinners to repentance." It does not say He came to call on them to repent, but to call them to repentance. He calls them to repentance. When He calls the sinner, therefore, He calls him to repentance-the sinner thus called repents. The call precedes the repentance. If God calls the sinner, He calls him out of nature's night into the marvelous light and liberty of the kingdom of His Son. This is done in the call then repentance follows the call. Repentance, then, follows after life has been given, and is not in order to the receiving of life.

Yes, eternal salvation is unconditional, and Gentiles can be saved.

They could not be saved if their salvation depended on conditions to be performed by them.

Eternal salvation is unconditional, but you cannot, nor can any other man, ever prove that an infant dies that is not one of the elect. Your question on this point is based on a mere supposition that an infant dies not being embraced in God's election. And that's the foundation for the whole Arminian fabric-it is based on the sandy foundation of human supposition and the inventions of designing men to make merchandise of the people.

Now suppose we ask a few questions:

Is eternal salvation conditional or is it unconditional, on the part of the one saved?

If it is conditional, what are the conditions?

Does it depend upon obeying the gospel?

If one obeys either law or gospel does he not act?

Can one act without working?

If one cannot act without working, and cannot obey without acting, and his salvation depends upon his obedience, is not salvation by works?

Now will you compare and reconcile your position with that of Paul in (Ephesians 2:8-10), "For by grace are ye saved through faith: and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: not of works, lest any man should boast. For we are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them;" (Romans 9:16), "So then it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but of God that sheweth mercy;" (II Timothy 1:9), "Who hath saved us and called us with an holy calling, not according to our works, but according to His own purpose and grace, which was given us in Christ Jesus before the world began;" (Titus 3:5,6), "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost; which He shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour."

If eternal salvation is conditional, does it not follow that one must act in order to life?

Can the dead act in order to life?

If the dead cannot act in order to life, and the salvation of the dead sinner depends upon his act, does not his salvation depend upon an impossibility?

If the salvation of the sinner depends upon an impossibility, can he ever be saved? If so, how?

If the sinner is not so dead as Old Baptists say he is, then how dead is he? Is he as dead as Paul says he is? If he is as dead as Paul says he is, is he not as dead as Old Baptists say he is? How many degrees are there in death?

If eternal salvation is conditional, and depends upon obedience to the gospel, how can anyone be saved who never bears the gospel preached?

How can the heathen be damned for rejecting Christ or the gospel, when he never heard the gospel, therefore had no opportunity of rejecting it?

If the heathen is damned because he does not believe the gospel, when he has never heard it, and you have the means to send the gospel to him (therefore, you have the means of his salvation), yet you do not send it to him, are you not to blame for his damnation? Is God just if He damns the heathen and allows you to enter heaven, when the blame for the damnation of the heathen rests on you?

Would not the wrong party be sent to hell?

Can the infant obey the gospel?

If the infant cannot obey the gospel, and salvation depends upon obedience thereto, can the infant be saved?

If eternal salvation depends upon obedience to the gospel, how could any be saved before the gospel dispensation?

Many more questions along the same line might be asked, but we will just give a little argument, which no Arminian theologian can ever answer. We give it in the form of syllogisms, taking their own position as the second premise in the first syllogism, thereby placing them in a dilemma from which they can never escape.

FIRST SYLLOGISM

1st. Whatever is essential as a condition of salvation is absolute, universal and without exception.

2nd. Obedience to the gospel is a condition of salvation.

3rd. Therefore, obedience to the gospel as a condition of salvation is absolute, universal and without exception.

SECOND SYLLOGISM

1st. Obedience to the gospel as a condition of salvation is absolute, universal and without exception.

2nd. Infants cannot obey the gospel.

3rd. Therefore, the damnation of the infant is absolute, universal and without exception.

This is the inevitable result of every Arminian theory under the sun.

Try it all you please and you can never escape the conclusion. But the second premise is wrong-salvation does not depend on obedience to the gospel, nor on conditions to be performed by the sinner.

May the Lord bless these thoughts to the good of our readers, and to the good of all into whose hands this may come; and may He graciously grant an understanding that His children may see and understand the truth.

C. H. C.

Galatians 5:4

---November 26, 1907

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-Please give me your views on (Galatians 5:4). In what sense have they fallen from grace? May the Lord's richest blessings rest upon you, is my humble prayer. Your little brother in hope of eternal life, MURRY FLY.

Paris, Texas.

OUR ANSWER

The text reads, "Christ is become of no effect unto you, whosoever of you are justified by the law; ye are fallen from grace." Paul was writing to the Galatian brethren, and he recognized them as brethren. This fact is sufficient to show conclusively that they had not "fallen from grace" in the sense that apostasy is taught by the world-they had not lost their eternal life or spiritual relationship with God. These brethren had been deluded by false teachers, and were claiming justification by the law. They did not claim this before they were deluded, but since they had been deluded this was their claim. Now, if you are justified by the deeds of the law "Christ is become of no effect unto you." What Christ has done amounts to nothing if you may be justified by the deeds of the law. In claiming justification by the law you set aside all the work of Christ in your salvation. You once rejoiced in salvation by grace, you claimed salvation through the work of Christ alone. But you have fallen from that-you now claim justification by the deeds of the law. Notice verses 1 to 3 of chapter 3. The third verse says, "Are ye so foolish? having begun in the Spirit, are ye now made perfect by the flesh?" In verse 1 of chapter 5 he says, "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage." Many of God's children are entangled with the yoke of bondage and are, seemingly, expecting justification by the deeds of the law instead of resting from law worship and law service in gospel worship and service. Some who once did rest in gospel service have departed from it- they have fallen from grace-and are trusting in their own deeds in obedience to law for justification. Let us "stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free."

C. H. C.

VALID BAPTISM

---November 26, 1907

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Friend-Please answer the following questions through your paper: Suppose I join the church, and the preacher is sincere at the time of my baptism, and afterwards he turns out a public drunkard and swearer-should I fear I had not been baptized by a legal administrator? When I see this I am persuaded to say (or almost) that such was deceived in the beginning, hence all would be false. This is my idea about it. Yours truly,

J. R. FREEMAN

Eufaula, Ala.

OUR ANSWER

We do not think Brother Freeman's conclusion is correct every time. Such a conclusion would be equivalent to saying a minister could not be so overcome by the temptations of Satan as to give way to them through the weakness of the flesh. A child of God-a true minister of the gospel-may yield to temptation and go far from the path of rectitude and right, so far that there may be but little outward evidence that he is a child of God. Indeed, we do not know how far wrong the Lord may sometimes suffer one of His children to wander away in sin and wickedness. We think that if one is called of God (and the best evidence we have that a man is called to preach is that he does preach) and is set apart by the church to administer the ordinances, so long as he is in order, baptism administered by him to a proper subject in water is gospel baptism. We do not think that what the minister may do after the baptism is administered could in any way affect the validity of the baptism. If it could, then it is very doubtful if there is one living today who has valid baptism; for if the wrong doing of the minister would invalidate the baptism administered before the wrong was committed, the wrong would also invalidate all the other official acts which he may have performed. This would result in no one having gospel baptism or valid ordination. If an officer does a wrong for which he is impeached and deposed from office, that does not affect the acts performed by him while in office before; they are all just as valid as though he had not done the wrong. These things are worthy of careful thought.

C. H. C.

PRIMITIVE

---December 3, 1907

A few days ago a copy of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, published at Martin, Tenn., fell into our hands. While it had a great deal to say about experimental religion, there was an air of self-appropriation about it that was very noticeable to us. But it is more particularly the "Primitive" that we wish to say some things about.

The word primitive means "original," and of course they claim to be the original, or first Baptists. But is their claim valid? or can it be sustained? There is no doubt but what the church which Jesus Christ instituted was a Baptist church, but was it identical with the faith and practice of the so-called Primitive church of today? We are willing to admit that their faith in part is in accordance with Scriptural teaching, yet in practice they are in many things far from it. If the first Baptist churches had held in full to the same faith and practice as held to by them today, there would long since ceased to have been any Baptist churches in the world.

Their systems have the seeds of death in them, and they would long since have perished, had it not been for the Missionaries. As much as they decry us their own existence depends upon the Missionaries. They have appropriated to themselves the wrong name. Their real name is Anti-Missionary. To prove that they are not the original Baptists, they deny the commission of our Saviour, when He said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature, baptizing them in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, and lo! I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world." It is true some of them claim that the commission was fulfilled by the apostles, and is no longer in force upon the churches. The promise of the Saviour to be with them "unto the end of the world," proves this to be erroneous.

The commission was given unto the churches, and the church will exist unto the end of time, and hence "to preach the gospel to every creature" is a part of her mission in the world. Again, our Saviour says, "As the Father hath sent me, even so send I you into the world."

Christ's mission into the world was to preach His own everlasting gospel, and He says this is the church's mission also.

No people who deny the commission can be Primitive Baptists, and it is wrong for us to call them that. It always makes us feel sad to hear our people call them by that name, for we virtually thereby admit that we are not Scriptural Baptists. James says faith without works is dead, being alone, and this is verified in them-Mississippi Baptist (Newton, Miss.), July 3, 1907.

The above clipping from the Mississippi Baptist, a Missionary Baptist paper published at Newton, Miss., was sent to us by one of our brethren.

Of course there "was an air of self-appropriation about it." Of course it is an "air of self-appropriation" for one to tell what the Lord has done for him. David says, "Come and hear, all ye that fear God, and I will declare what He hath done for my soul." -(6) (Psalms 66:16). To such people as the editor of the Mississippi Baptist, to tell what the Lord has done for one's soul is an "air of self-appropriation." It is very noticeable to him to read a paper that declares what the Lord hath done for poor sinners. He is not accustomed to reading such. But if the writers for THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST had been telling of wonderful things they and others were doing for the Lord, it would not have been so noticeable to this editor of the Missionary Baptist persuasion. He is accustomed to reading and writing along that line. When he reads things that are so unusual to him, and which he so seldom sees, of course he notices it.

He says, "of course they claim to be the original, or first, Baptists." Of course we do. But we claim nothing more than what is ours and belongs to us. All well informed people belonging to other orders know we are the original Baptists; and honest well-informed men among the Missionary Baptists have admitted it. You know that the first missionary society among the Baptists was formed in 1792, by Fuller, Carey, and some of their fellow laborers. Those were new societies and new inventions introduced among the Baptists. They were unknown in the apostolic age and for centuries after among the Baptists. You know this to be true, and that your people-the Missionary Baptists-are following after and practicing those new things that were introduced by those men among the Baptists. Hence your people have departed from the original faith and practice of the Baptist Church. You know this is true; hence you must also know you cannot be the original Baptists.

He further says, "they would long since have perished, had it not been for the Missionaries." Yes, it was prophesied before you were born, perhaps, that these despised Old Baptists would soon all be dead. But they would live on if there were no missionaries of the modern sort. They lived until 1792 without any of the modern missionary soul-saving machinery now in use by the Missionary or New School Baptists; and they will continue to live, notwithstanding your deceptive efforts to make people believe you are the original order of Baptists, and your bloodthirsty desire, born of a corrupt heart, for their death. The system of salvation taught by the Primitive Baptists is the only system sufficient to reach the case of poor sinners. They can be saved in heaven no other way than by grace through the all-sufficient work of Christ, and that is the system they teach. Indeed, it is the seed of death to the blasphemous heresies taught by the Roman sprout, who call themselves Missionary Baptists. But to the heaven-born soul who understands the truth, the system taught by the Primitive Baptists is joy and peace. Your charge that the Primitive Baptists deny the commission of our Saviour is false. We do not deny it. But "He said unto them," the eleven, "Go ye into all the world," etc. He did not say to the whole church "go," but to the eleven. "As the Father hath sent me, even so send I you." Jesus came into the world by the authority of the Father, and these were to go by the authority of Christ. But your preachers go by the authority of the boards and other societies. None of the so-called soul-saving work you are engaged in is authorized by the Son of God, and you are not going by His authority. Your society is no more the church of Christ than is Rome. Your modern men-made machinery is borrowed from Rome, and your doctrine is largely borrowed from her, and you are more like the mother of harlots than the chaste bride of Christ. May the Lord have mercy on His poor deluded little children who are deluded by you and entangled with the yoke of bondage put upon them by those who "teach for hire" and "divine for money.

If your people are so sure you are the original Baptists, why doesn't your brother come to time for a discussion we were to have with him on this question in Mississippi? We have been waiting two years for him to set the time, but it seems that he is "clean gone." You, seemingly, want to be called by our name to take away your reproach, but you can't even have the name.

Poor fellows!

C. H. C.

FOOTBALL AND MISSIONS

---December 3, 1907

Saturday 40,000 people paid $68,000 to see Yale and Harvard play football. And to think that all that money would have kept thirty missionaries in China for a year -Nashville (Tenn.) American, Nov. 26, 1907.

Yes, and the poor Chinese dying and going to hell every day because the missionaries don't go! Just think how many poor Chinamen will go to hell because these "Christian" people spent this money to see a football game, instead of using it to send the gospel to them! And these same "Christian" people tell us, too, that the heathen are going to hell for the want of the gospel!

In the minutes of the Tennessee Baptist Convention of 1906 we are told that this people contributed for state missions (Tennessee) for the year, $16,582.63, and that they had 2,986 conversions. Each convert, therefore, cost them $5.55 12 each. At this rate, the $68,000 spent for the football game would have saved 12,241 souls in Tennessee! Is it not horrible that 12,241 people in our own state of Tennessee are to suffer the torments and vengeance of eternal fire because the people who profess to be engaged in the soul-saving business spent this money to satisfy their own fleshly desires and pleasure? Does it not look like the wrong party is sent to hell? Lord, deliver us from such blasphemous and damnable heresy. C. H. C.

SOME DIE IN DISOBEDIENCE

---December 10, 1907

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: `Dear Brother in the Lord-Will you kindly give me, through the columns of your paper, I- your views on (Romans 10:17)?

Will the Lord suffer one of His children, one of the elect, to wander off into sin and die in that condition? Have we such a case on record? I know that the Lord saves His people with an everlasting salvation, that there is no final falling away, or falling from grace, as some term it.

There are some Campbelites here who claim that if a child of God wanders off in sin and dies in that condition, he will be lost. I know that nothing can separate us from the love of God which is in Christ, but the point I want to know is, Will the Lord suffer one of His children to die in disobedience-in Babylon. Your views on the subject will be greatly appreciated. Yours in an humble hope,

CHARLES W. LYENS.

Holt Ave., Macon, Ga.

OUR ANSWER

In our issue of Nov. 19 we gave our views on (Romans 10:13-15), and in the article we quoted also the 17th verse, which reads, "So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." The faith referred to in this text is, we think, the historical, or rather, the doctrinal faith produced by hearing the gospel or doctrine of Christ preached or proclaimed in its purity and simplicity. But that does not produce hearing. "The word" that "is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart," produces or gives the hearing. Unless the hearing has been given by the Word of God, the character does not hear the preaching understandingly-hence no faith. We offer the above in connection with our editorial in Nov. 19th issue.

We think some of the Lord's children have died in sin or disobedience. See (Hebrews 3:7-19). Turn to your Bible now and read the entire chapter. Verse 17 says, "But with whom was He grieved forty years? was it not with them that had sinned, whose carcasses fell in the wilderness?" These were God's chosen people-national Israel-and they were a type of God's spiritual Israel. They died in rebellion in the wilderness. We think many of God's children are in other orders-in Babylon-and many of them pass away from this world without ever having united with the true church or visible organized kingdom which Christ set up here in the world. Hence many of the Lord's children die while in Babylon. The command is to come out of Babylon, but we think many of God's people do not obey this command. Many who have an experience of grace do not believe the doctrine advocated by the Primitive Baptists, which is the doctrine of the Bible, the doctrine of God our Saviour, and live and die with membership in the different societies called churches. We think they die in Babylon, but they will be, and are, as happy in heaven as others of the redeemed. Their home or happiness in the glory world does not depend upon them having membership in any church here, but alone upon the finished work of Christ. While this is true, yet there is a sweet rest and comfort enjoyed and realized by those who believe the truth and have membership in the church of Christ, which is not felt or realized by any others. The Saviour instituted this church or kingdom here as a home and resting place for His children while they are in this world, and no one can enjoy the rest in that home unless they have membership there, or unless they are living in the home.

May the Lord help us all to live as becometh His children; and may we show by our life that we appreciate the precious home our Saviour has prepared for us here in His church. Let us be satisfied with it and with what He has put in it.

C. H. C.

CLOSE OF VOLUME TWENTY-TWO

---December 24, 1907

The twenty-second volume of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST closes with this issue. Another year, with all its joys and sorrows, is gone. Oh, how swiftly time is passing! Twenty-two years ago the first issue of this paper was sent out by our beloved and sainted father, who continued as editor until his death, Aug. 27, 1905. Many changes have been wrought since the first issue of this paper was sent out to its readers. Many of those who were then living and enjoying the sweet fellowship and company of the saints on earth have crossed over the river. They are now resting from all their labors. Not only is this true, but even during the past year many changes have taken place. Loved ones, and dear and faithful friends, have fallen. We have seen them cross over the river one by one, and we sometimes wonder who will be the next to pass over. Many of us have endured sore afflictions, sad bereavements, heartaches, and deep sorrows. We look around us and miss the presence of loved ones and listen in vain for the welcome sound of their voices. No, we cannot hear them now—they are hushed in death. Then we wonder if we may not also soon pass over the river and meet our loved ones who have gone on before and join with them in perfect and everlasting praises to our blessed Saviour. We are sure it will not be long until we, too, shall come to our journey's end and shall step off the stage of action. Through all our sorrows, afflictions and bereavements the Lord has been good to us. His grace has been sufficient in all our sorrows. It has seemed sometimes that the waves of trouble and billows of distress would surely overwhelm us; but the sustaining and preserving grace of the Lord has been sufficient, so that we continue to the present. His ever gracious presence and all-sufficient power and grace has preserved us through the sorrows and trials of another year, and we feel to be under renewed obligations to adore and praise His blessed name. Surely His mercies endure forever. His blessings are innumerable, and are showered upon us all every day and every hour.

We are well aware that we have made many mistakes during the past year. We humbly trust all our readers will throw the mantle of charity over our, many imperfections, and help us overcome them. It is our sincere desire to conduct the paper in such a way that it may be for the comfort and consolation of the Lord's humble poor. We desire that it be a medium of friendly and Christian correspondence, and a welcome visitor every week to the homes of its readers. We know there has been some writing on disputed points and on things that are causing trouble in our beloved Zion. It is almost impossible to keep all these things out of the paper, but we trust the brethren will help us to keep them out of this paper by not writing concerning these things. There are local troubles, and these should all be settled at home. Do not write to the paper about them. Tell of your hopes and fears, and tell the dealings of the Lord with you. And if you have an exercise of mind on some Scripture write your views. Make your letters short as you can, so as to express your views as briefly as possible. But, above all, write on such things as will have a tendency to unite the dear children of God in love and fellowship. Let us all try to do more good and less harm next year than the past.

We have received many words of encouragement from the dear brethren and sisters during the past year. This has been a wonderful help to us. We have often felt like giving up in despair, but the comforting words from the dear saints of God have encouraged us to press onward in the battles of life. We appreciate these things more than we can tell, and we humbly pray the Lord's richest blessings may rest upon every one of you, and that His presence may be continually manifested to you.

During the past year several names have been added to our editorial staff. It is a source of consolation and encouragement to us to have such able and faithful soldiers of the cross associated with us as corresponding editors as those dear brethren whose names appear on the editorial staff. We trust they will do more writing for the paper than they have been doing.

Asking an interest in the fervent prayers of all our readers, that the Lord may sustain us and keep us in the right way, through all the journey of life, we bid you farewell for the year 1907. C. H. C.

1908

Introduction to Volume Twenty-Three

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME TWENTY-THREE

---January 7, 1908

With this issue we begin the publication of the twenty-third volume of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. Twenty-two years have passed away since the first Issue was sent out. To us these twenty-two years have passed quickly. It seems to us that it has been only a very short while since our sainted father sent out that first issue of the paper. Though the time seems to have been so short, yet many changes have been wrought. Some who were then comparatively young in the service of the Master are now looked upon as the old veterans in the warfare, while many of them have been called away from this world of sorrow to their long eternal home. Most of those who were old in the service then have crossed over the river of death and their warfare is ended. Many of the dear saints who read the first issue of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST are numbered with the pale nations of the dead, and but few who were subscribers then are subscribers now—that is, comparatively few. They are few as compared to the number who are now subscribers for the paper. But while so many changes have taken place there are some things that have not changed. Principles are eternal and never change. The doctrine of God our Saviour has not changed. It will always be the same. Men may change, and invent new theories and new practices, but the doctrine of God never changes. God made man upright, and man sought out many inventions. Every doctrine and theory of salvation taught in the world today, except the doctrine of God, is an invention of man, and there are many of these inventions.

It is our desire that THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST be published in defense of the doctrine of God our Saviour. Our humble desire is to heed the admonition given in (Jeremiah 6:16), "Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein." If all would do this, the promise is "and ye shall find rest for your souls." It is our desire to be found faithful to our heavenly Master and faithful to His cause. Our humble prayer is that we may be so guided and directed of the Lord and influenced by His Holy Spirit in the publication of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST that it may be a blessing to the cause and not a curse.

We realize that the blessings of the Lord have been wonderfully bestowed upon us, if we are not deceived. Although we have had sore trials during I the past year, yet the Lord has wonderfully blessed us. He has blessed us both temporally and spiritually. We have been blessed with food and raiment, and have not had to suffer want. Besides the many temporal blessings that have been bestowed upon us, we have had the pleasure of enjoying many sweet meetings with the Lord's children, and have been blessed of the Lord to enjoy their sweet association and fellowship. Perhaps there are many of them whose faces we shall never see again in this world, but we separated from them with the blessed hope of meeting again where separations never come.

As we stated in the close of volume twenty-two, THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST has a larger circulation now than ever before. Many of the dear brethren, sisters and friends have taken a great interest in procuring subscribers for the paper and in helping us to extend the circulation. We appreciate all this more than we can tell, and humbly pray the Lord to abundantly bless you all. We humbly trust each of you will continue to do all you possibly can in this way during the present year. It is not simply for our benefit that we make this request. We trust our desire is for the good of the cause of Christ. Simply making money is not our object in the publication of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. If we are not altogether deceived in our own heart, our first object and aim is for the good of the cause and to try to comfort and encourage the Lord's dear children. This being our sincere desire, we want, with all our heart, to continue to publish the paper every week and to give all the reading matter it is possible to give, and at as low a price as possible.

Now, again we wish to say that we do not want to publish anything more about troubles and confusions among the brethren. Brethren, please do not send articles of that kind to us. We want you to write for the paper, but we think enough has been said for the present about organs, secret societies, federal government, etc. Tell something about your hopes and fears-how the Lord has led you along and preserved you by His grace. Tell of your good meetings. Send us all the good church news you can. Help us to make the paper more interesting than ever before. Write about the good things of the kingdom, so that everyone will eagerly look for the coming of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST and be glad to read it. We do not mean by what we say here that we do not want to be faithful to the cause, but simply that we think enough has been said about those things for the present time. It is our desire to be found faithful and ready to contend against every false way, and to warn our dear brethren against any measure that is not in harmony with the teaching of Holy Writ; and to humbly and lovingly plead with them to walk in the good old ways of our beloved Zion, doing what our only King and Law-Giver has commanded, and leaving undone everything He has not commanded.

We greatly realize our weakness and insufficiency for the task that apparently lies before us for the year 1908. We realize the great responsibility resting upon us. We have before us now a letter dated October 23, 1906, from a dear and precious brother, J. D. Huffman, who crossed over the river soon after that letter was written. In this letter he said, "Now our God has said He would never leave Himself without a witness. Dear brother, He has raised you up and qualified you to defend His cause and feed His sheep. Dear brother, the responsibility is great on you...May the God of all grace ever be with you and give you wisdom and understanding to teach His people aright in all things that pertain to His glory." We surely feel that great responsibility, and humbly ask all our dear brethren, sisters and friends to pray for us as this dear and precious brother assured us he did. Will you pray earnestly that the Lord may guide and direct us in wisdom's ways, that what we do or say may be for the comfort and encouragement of His dear children and to the honor and glory of His own name? If we could only know beyond doubt that our feeble efforts were of some benefit to the Lord's dear children we feel that we could be content. Again, dear brethren, pray for us.

C. H. C.

1 Corinthians 8:8-13

---January 7, 1908

Brother S. T. Johnson, of Greenfield, Tenn., has requested us to give our views on the above Scripture through our columns. We have more requests of this kind than we can possibly comply with, it seems, so that we will be compelled to offer only a few thoughts in answer to requests of this kind. The apostle in this chapter is writing about the eating of meat offered unto idols. It was a custom of those who worshipped idols made of stone or wood, graven images, to offer meats unto them as sacrifices. Those who worshipped the idols would eat this meat with reverence to the idol. The Christian, or child of God whose trust was in Christ, knew that these idols were false gods, and that the eating of the meat, therefore, amounted to nothing. The brother who knew this, being strong in the faith and doctrine of Christ, could eat this meat with no reverence whatever to the idol. But some weak brother, who was not so well established in the doctrine of Christ, seeing the strong brother eating the meat, and not knowing but what he was eating in reverence and fear of the god to which it was offered, might be thereby emboldened to also eat-but in reverence to the idol; eat it as offered to an idol. Thus the weak brother may be led astray, led to think he should engage in that as a service to the idol, and thereby become an offender. For the strong brother to engage in such a thing, whereby he may lead a weak brother astray, is a sin against the brethren. See verse 12. Simply eating the meat, as such, is not a sin; but to eat it as a sacrifice to an idol, or with reverence to the idol, is a sin. Hence, though the thing the strong brother may engage in, may, of itself, be no harm, yet if it is liable to cause a weak brother to go astray, it is wrong for the strong brother to engage in it. In doing so he sins against the brethren and against Christ. This being true the apostle says, in verse 13, "Wherefore, if meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no flesh while the world standeth, lest I make my brother to offend." Lest he make his brother to offend, he would refrain from doing that which of itself was no harm-no wrong in it. Yet, for the sake of his brethren he would not do it. Oh, that we all might be possessed of such a spirit.

C. H. C.

Sin Unto Death and First Resurrection

SIN UNTO DEATH AND FIRST RESURRECTION

---January 21, 1908

The sin unto death in (I John 5:16) is not final apostasy. The Saviour says in (John 10:28), "They shall never perish;" and Paul teaches in (Romans 8) that there is nothing that can separate one of God's children from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. Though this is true, yet a child of God may so live after the flesh as to die to the enjoyment of the salvation of the Lord and die to the fellowship of the church. This is what John is teaching, we think. It is not what is spoken of as sin against the Holy Ghost. As to the two resurrections mentioned in (Revelation 20), or the first resurrection and second death, will say there is a difference of opinion among brethren on that question, and we do not desire to express a positive view regarding it, for we do not deem it of sufficient importance to have controversy on it. Some hold that the teaching of the passage is that the saints will be resurrected first and that Christ will reign over them on earth for a thousand years, and at the expiration of the thousand years the wicked will be raised. Others hold that the first resurrection is the raising up of the sinner from a state of death in sin to a state of life in Christ. It is certain that the work of regeneration is spoken of as a resurrection in more than one place.

In the latter part of the chapter it is evident that those whose names are written in the book of life are not judged out of those things written in the books according to their works. Those who are judged out of those things written in the books are those whose names are not written in the book of life, and they are all cast into the lake of fire, and not one of those whose names are written in the book of life are cast into the lake of fire. C. H. C.

The Prodigal Son

THE PRODIGAL SON

---January 21, 1908

Elder J. W. Parker, of Quill, Ga., has requested our views on the parables in Luke 15, especially the parable of the two sons, beginning at (Luke 15:11).

The first is the parable of the lost sheep, and reads as follows: "What man of you, having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the finery and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it? And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing. And when he cometh home, he calleth his friends and neighbors, saying unto them, Rejoice with me; for I have found my sheep which was lost. I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance. Just as there is joy in the home of the shepherd when he finds the sheep that was lost, so is there jay in heaven when the sinner repents. The word heaven does not always refer to the place of ultimate bliss and glory. Paul speaks of the third heaven; and if there is a third, there is also a first and second. The church is sometimes spoken of as a heaven, we think. And the term "sinner" does not always refer to the unregenerate-not by any means. See ((8) (James 4:8) and ((9) (James 5:19-20). Children of God are here called sinners, as is the case in many other places. We think there is joy in the church when one of the Lord's children repents who has been in disobedience and sin. We think the parable teaches this. "Likewise, there is joy." We think the next parable, recorded in verses 8 to 10, teaches the same lesson.

As to the parable of the two sons, will say they were both sons. The elder was no more a son than the younger; but the latter said to his father, "Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me." Then the father divided his living unto them unto the sons. The younger son gathered all together and took his journey into a far country-not into a fair country, but a far country. Every time one of the Lord's sons, or children, takes a journey away from the home the Lord has prepared for them here in this world, which is the church of God, and the true service of God, he goes to a far country; but he does not go to a fair country. The younger son spent all he had, wasted his substance with riotous living, and there arose a mighty famine in that land. That far country-far away from the sweet service of God, is a land of famine to a child of God who has realized the sweet pleasures of gospel service and the fellowship of the saints in the church of Christ. Then he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country He did not join himself to a citizen of the land of Canaan-the land of joy and delight, but to a citizen of the far country. He did not join himself there to the service of God. Yet he was a son, just as he was before he took the journey to that country. The husks that the swine did eat was no food to him. Swine food and sheep food is very different. "But no man gave unto him." In the Lord's economy, the gospel, he says, "Freely ye have received; freely give." But not so in the land far away from the service of God not so among the swine-feeders. But when he was pinched with famine he said, "How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger." So many of the Lord's children do this. "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price. Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labor for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness." -((5:1) (Isaiah 55:1-2). This is spoken to Israel-not to unregenerate persons. The son says, "I will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father. I have sinned against heaven and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants." He is ready now to make full confession of all his wrongs, and is content and willing to have a very low place in the home. He does not ask now for a high place; he has been brought low. Oh, how proud he was before! But how humble now! He was a proud son before, lifted up with vanity. But "pride goeth before a fall, and a haughty spirit before destruction." But what joy when the wanderer returns and confesses all his sins! True, sometimes there are some who are jealous, as was the elder son; still it is true that there is joy over the return of the wanderer.

Afflictions, though they seem severe,
In mercy oft are sent;
They stopped the prodigal's career,
And caused him to repent.
Although he no relenting felt,
Till he had spent his store;
His stubborn heart began to melt,
When famine pinched him sore.
What have I gained by sin, he said,

But hunger, shame and fear?
My father's house abounds with bread
While I am starving here.
I'll go and tell him all I've done,
And fall before his face;
Unworthy to be called his son,
I'll seek a servant's place.
His father saw him coming back;
He saw, and ran and smiled,
And threw his arms around the neck
Of his repenting child.

David says, "Before I was afflicted I went astray." ((67) (Psalms 119:67)). How prone we are to go astray, but afflictions serve to bring us back. Some of the most humble and devoted Christians we have ever seen were sorely afflicted. Afflictions will cause us to realize our own weakness, and then we are brought low before the throne of grace, acknowledging our sins and wickedness, and pleading for an humble place in the service of God.

The prodigal son has no reference whatever to unregenerate characters. There is nothing in the whole parable about regeneration or unregenerate characters.

C. H. C.

Is Our Faith Wrong?

IS OUR FAITH WRONG?

---January 28, 1908

We have before us a minute of the seventy-ninth annual session of the Conecuh River Primitive Baptist Association, held in 1906, which contains the Articles of Faith of the association. Elder C. W. Hardin was moderator. Elder J. E. W. Henderson, who is well known among our people, especially in the South, as a sound and able minister of the gospel, and who has been many years engaged in the warfare; is a member of this association. The second item in their Articles of Faith reads: "We believe the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments are the revealed word of God and the only rule of faith and practice."

We also have before us a minute of the seventy-ninth annual session of the Echeconnee Association, held in 1907. Elder S. T. Bentley was moderator. The second item in their Articles of Faith reads: "We believe the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments are the word of God, and the only rule of faith and practice."

We also have before us a minute of the sixty-ninth annual session of the Harmony Primitive Baptist Association, of Georgia, held in 1907. Deacon B. F. Markett was moderator and Elder R. H. Jennings clerk. The second item of their Articles of Faith reads: "We believe that the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments are the word of God, and the only rule of faith and practice."

We also have a minute of the Upatoie Association, of Georgia, held in 1907. Elder J. M. Murray was moderator. The second item in their Articles of Faith reads: "We believe the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments are the word of God, and the only rule of faith and practice."

We might go on and on quoting from the Articles of Faith of different associations in different sections of the country; but these are sufficient. They are all practically the same. Now, if language means anything, the teaching of this article of faith is that the Scriptures teach all that we should believe or practice religiously. If the Scriptures are the only rule of faith and practice, then it follows that the Scriptures teach everything we ought to practice. If there is one single thing a church should practice, or may rightly practice, that the Scriptures are silent upon, then the Scriptures do not furnish a sufficient rule, and are not the only rule.

This article of faith, or tenet, is not new among the Baptists. In the London Confession of Faith, put forth in 1689, we find this language, Chapter 1, Section 1: "The Holy Scriptures are the only sufficient, certain, and infallible rule of all saving knowledge, faith and obedience," etc. The same chapter, section 6, says: "The whole counsel of God concerning all things necessary for His own glory, man's salvation, faith and life, is either expressly set down or necessarily contained in the Holy Scriptures; unto which nothing is any time to be added, whether by new revelation of the Spirit or traditions of men. Nevertheless we acknowledge the inward illumination of the Spirit of God to be necessary for the saving understanding of such things as are revealed in the word, and that there are some circumstances. concerning the worship of God and government of the church common to human actions and societies, which are to be ordered by the light of nature and Christian prudence, according to the general rules of the word, which are always to be observed." The same chapter, section 7, says: "All things in Scripture are not alike plain in themselves, nor alike clear unto all; yet those things which are necessary to be known, believed, and observed for salvation are so clearly propounded and opened in some place of Scripture or other, that not only the learned but the unlearned, in a due use of ordinary means, may attain to a sufficient understanding of them."

In this language quoted from the London Confession the same idea is taught as is embraced in the second item of the Articles of Faith of the different associations quoted above. Please notice carefully section 6, "The whole counsel of God concerning all things necessary for His own glory, man's salvation, faith and life, is either expressly set down or necessarily contained in the Holy Scriptures." Notice, also, carefully section 1, "The Holy Scriptures are the only sufficient, certain, and infallible rule of all saving knowledge, faith, and obedience." If the Scriptures are an "infallible rule of all saving knowledge, faith, and obedience," it follows that every thing to be practiced in obedience is contained therein. Every thing commanded therein is to be observed, and nothing is to be observed which is not commanded, if the Scriptures are an infallible and certain rule.

Monsieur de Vignaux, who was forty years pastor of one of the churches of the Waldenses, and died at the age of eighty years, wrote a treatise concerning their life, manners and religion. He gave a summary of their doctrinal principles, for the sake of which they were persecuted, such as "that the Holy Scriptures contain all things necessary to our salvation, and that we are called to believe only what they teach, without any regard to the authority of man-that nothing else ought to be received by us except what God hath commanded." See Jones' History, page 294. This was long before the London Confession was framed-a hundred years or more. These people expressly held that "nothing else ought to be received by us except what God hath commanded." In the year 1120 they put forth a Confession of Faith, the tenth article of which reads, "Moreover, we have ever regarded all the inventions of men (in the affairs of religion) as an unspeakable abomination before God," etc. The eleventh article reads, "We hold in abhorrence all human inventions, as proceeding from Anti-Christ, which produce distress, and are prejudicial to the liberty of the mind." These people held that all the inventions of men in the affairs of religion-that is, everything not commanded in the Holy Scriptures-were an unspeakable abomination before God; and that they proceeded from Anti-Christ and produced distress.

On January 1st, 1886, Elder S. F. Cayce sent out the first issue of this paper, THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. Since that time this paper has been published and sent out in the interest of the Primitive Baptist cause and in defense of their faith. The Articles of Faith appear elsewhere in the paper, and have been inserted in our columns from time to time since the first issue. The second item says: "That the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments are a revelation from God, written by inspiration, and that they are the standard of faith, and the only rule divinely authorized for Christian practice, teaching, as they do, all that we ought to believe, know, or practice religiously." When the first issue of this paper was sent out twenty-two years ago, with the express avowal that this was one article it would defend, no Old School, or Primitive Baptist objected to it. It was received by them then. If there is one now who will not receive it he is not like they were twenty-two years ago; he is not like those were who framed and adopted the Articles of Faith of the Conecuh River, Echeconnee, Harmony and Upatoie Associations; he is not like those who framed and adopted the London Confession of Faith; he is not like the ancient Waldenses. If these people were all Baptists of the Primitive or first order, then the man who will not or does not accept the teaching of that article is not a Baptist of the Primitive order.

Now, we believe that whatever is Baptist is Scriptural. If whatever is Baptist is not Scriptural, then the Baptist Church is not Scriptural and is not the church of Christ. If whatever is Baptist is Scriptural, then the Baptist Church is Scriptural and is the church of Christ. That which is Baptist is that which has been set forth as a belief, doctrine, or tenet, of that people. We have seen that it has been declared by them all along the line that the Scriptures are a sufficient rule of faith and practice: that what the Scriptures teach or command should be practiced, and that all things not commanded or taught therein are the inventions of men and should be avoided. This has been taught by them all along the ages; it is therefore Baptist. Then if it be true that whatever is Baptist is Scriptural, it follows that this teaching of theirs is Scriptural.

We would ask in all candor and earnestness, and in love, who will dare deny that whatever is Baptist is Scriptural, and at the same time claim to be a Primitive Baptist? For one to deny that proposition or statement is simply to admit that the one making the denial is either not a Bible Baptist or that the Baptists have not been Biblical all along the ages.

Is it true that they have been wrong all these years in holding to this point? Our answer would be, most emphatically, No. But some say, if that is correct, then why do you have associations, hymn books, meeting houses, moderators, clerks and church record books? Well, now, that's easy to answer. We are commanded to meet often together, to forsake not the assembling of ourselves together. An association is nothing more nor less than a meeting together for, worship and mutual edification. We are commanded to sing; "Speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord." -(Ephesians 5:19). "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord." -((6) (Colossians 3:16). In these places we are commanded to sing psalms, hymns and spiritual songs. To do this it is necessary now, as it was then, that they be either written or printed, that the songs or hymns be collected together-hence a hymn book. Did you know a part of the Holy Scriptures might, with propriety, be called a hymn book? The Psalms of David were written in metre-hence hymns, a book of hymns. Yet some have discovered so much "light" that they have found that those who have a book of hymns (a hymn book) are practicing something that is unscriptural and for which they have no precedent. But meeting houses- what about them? ((3) (Mark 3:13-19): "And He goeth up into a mountain, and calleth unto Him whom He would: and they came unto Him. And He ordained twelve, that they should be with Him," etc.; then the names of the twelve are given, and verse 19 says, "And they went into an house." Then it is Scriptural, is it not, to "go into an house?" Numbers of times we read of the Saviour entering into the synagogue to teach and to preach. A synagogue is a meeting house. Too many instances are mentioned of meeting together and worship being conducted in houses for any well-informed person to try to "make a play" or such as that.

"Let all things be done decently and in order." -(I Corinthians 14:40). If all things are to be done decently and in order, it is necessary that one be appointed to preserve order-hence a moderator, and a clerk to do what writing is to be done. Does it not look as though a Baptist is "hard pressed" who will resort to such as this to justify himself in unscriptural teaching?

Again, we ask, Is it true that they have been wrong all these years in holding to this point? Again we answer, emphatically, No. The Holy Scriptures themselves pointedly declare the correctness of this principle, which has been so tenaciously held to by the humble followers of the Lord from the beginning of the gospel dispensation, on down through the dark ages of bloody persecution and death to the present time. "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." -(II Timothy 3:16-17). If there is one thing a man ought to practice religiously which the Scriptures say nothing about, then the Scriptures do not thoroughly furnish him unto all good works. No man under heaven is able to make it appear that there is one single thing we should practice religiously, or as a religious service, about which the Bible is silent, and let this statement of the apostle remain true. The Scriptures are given that the man of God may be thoroughly furnished unto all good works-not simply some good works, but all good works. Then all the works taught in the Scriptures are good works; and all the good works are taught therein. Then the works not taught, or commanded, or required, by the Scriptures are not good works they are not acceptable to God as religious service. If one does all that the Bible requires of him, he would be perfect in the sense of that text. He would not have reached a state of sinless perfection, for that is not under consideration, and no man can do that in this life; but the Scriptures are given "that the man of God may be perfect," that he may be "thoroughly furnished unto all good works." Then if he should do all the good works the Scriptures require of him, and one more good work that the Scriptures say nothing about, then he would be more than perfect, A would he not? If not, why not? If he would not, in that case, be more than perfect, then he would not be perfect in the sense of the text when he has done all that the Scriptures require of him. If that declaration of the apostle be true, and it is true, it follows that it is just as much a violation and a transgression of the teaching of the Scriptures to practice anything in the name of Christianity, or as a religious service, that the Bible says nothing about, as it is to leave undone anything that it expressly commands. This is an unalterable truth, and no man can gainsay it. No sort of "begging the question" or trying to mystify will change this truth.

Teaching or practicing those things which the Scriptures authorize or command does not cause strife and confusion, or distress, in the church of God. It is the teaching or practicing of things the Scriptures are silent upon that brings distress, sorrow, strife and confusion in the church. When people decide to reform the church and "start right up-to-date;" or when they decide that the Baptists have been wrong along the line, and start out to carry them back to "primitive" doctrine and practice-in either or both such cases, they usually bring trouble and distress in the church.

If the things the Scriptures are silent upon "are matters of privilege, and are to be used, or not used, as circumstances require," why not have an "ankle show," or a "cake-walk," or an "ice cream festival," or an Epworth League, or a Baptist Young People's Union, or Christian Endeavor Society, or "a living curiosity show," or any or all the many different inventions of men practiced "as circumstances require" in the name of religion and Christianity?

Oh, that the Lord would grant unto all His ministers a spirit of humility and devotion to His blessed cause, that they might love peace and harmony upon gospel principles too well to advocate or practice or teach anything not required by the Holy Scriptures. May we all contend earnestly, in love and humility, for those things, and those only, that make for peace, and thus be bound together in love and fellowship. Our heart bleeds when we see distress and sorrow in our beloved Zion. We humbly ask of our dear brethren and sisters to pray the Lord to sustain and uphold us, that we may never depart from the right way.

C. H. C.

What Do They Think?

WHAT DO THEY THINK?

---February 18, 1908

In the Apostolic Herald of Feb. 1, Elder J. V Kirkland asks us a question concerning the basis of agreement which was written in April, 1906-the question being if we still endorse a certain part of it, etc. We reply that if you had been as good as your word and had kept the agreement we would have abided by it. You know this, and there is no necessity of your making further show of pretended humility and sounding the false and misleading cry of persecution. But of course Elder J. V Kirkland never says anything that is wrong! Oh, he is so good, and so gentle, and so kind, and meek, and humble, and loving, and tender, and forgiving, and so filled with the Holy Spirit-he must be inspired and proof against mistakes and wrongs! And, oh, he is so sincere-and no one who differs from him can possibly be sincere; they are all blasphemers, and hypocrites, and persecutors, and liars, and have no respect for piety, gray hairs, nor learning; they are all a set of ignoramuses and fools! Oh, yes, of course. Why, he says, "Any sincere person would enjoy reading the Apostolic Herald." Now, if you don't enjoy reading that paper, and clap your hands for joy every time you read a column of it, and become so overjoyed that you are lost in heavenly wonder and amazement when you read a page of the editorials-you are, of course, insincere, a simpleton and a fool! Oh, Lord, do please deliver us!

Will Elder J. V Kirkland now please tell us about Elder R. S. Kirkland, Elder A. M. Kirkland and Elder H. E. Pettus? How do they stand now on the "Basis of Agreement?" What did you say, Elder?

And, say, Elder Kirkland, was not Dr. Eaton disappointed that you did not go with your brother R. S. to Louisville to join the Missionaries with him? Oh, you don't know? Oh, no, of course you don't know anything about it, and Dr. Eaton is dead now and can't tell us! But, wait, Elder K., Sam can tell, and it seems that some who are in a position to know do tell some things. And now, tell us, Elder K., why was Dr. Eaton disappointed in your not going, if there was no understanding that you would join with Sam? Can you answer these things truthfully-or will you deny them as you have other facts?

And now, one more question-are you not uniting your forces with the faction of Pence, Burnam & Co.? At least, are you not making an effort to do so? And do you not ask all to meet with you in a meeting at Marion, Ky., next June who are opposed to the money basis of representation in the modern missionary boards? And does not this invitation embrace and include the anti-board faction of the Missionary Baptist Church? And is it not your desire and aim to finally unite with them if you can?

Now, answer like a man-no dodging or denying.

C. H. C.

Questions from W. M. Cross

QUESTIONS FROM W. M. CROSS

---February 18, 1908

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-By chance I came in possession of a copy of your paper of July 2, 1907, partly mutilated by handling, in which I find what is purported to be your "Abstract of Principles;" but as before stated, partly mutilated. Having been a Baptist minister for thirty years, and anxious to know the truth, I wish to ask you a few questions for information. My grandfather, William Cross, a predestinarian and preacher of some note in that order, taught that Christ died only for the elect but exhorted all to repent, and I never could understand properly his position.

QUESTIONS

1. Do you teach that God, from eternity, ordained that Adam should eat the forbidden fruit, together with the motives and circumstances by which he (Adam) was coerced to violate the law?
2. Do you teach that Christ died only for such as will be saved?
3. Do you make a distinction between the death of Christ and the atonement? If so, what distinction?
4. Do you teach a universal, or a restricted, atonement?
5. Do you teach the doctrine of eternal justification?
6. Upon what is man's responsibility predicated?
7. Are the elect children, children before they repent in Christ?

8. Do you teach that God through Christ made no provisions for those that will be lost? These are questions in which I feel a deep interest. Will you please publish them in your paper, together with your answer, or write me giving the information desired?

I belong to the Pulaski County Association, and judging from a discussion of the subject of election the other day at Somerset, Ky., there are no two of our preaching brethren agreed on it, some taking one view and some taking another. It is only the truth that will do us all good and stand the consuming fires of the last day.

WILLIAM M. CROSS. Burnside, Ky.

OUR ANSWER

We are always willing to give any information we can to an honest enquirer after truth, and as Elder Cross says the truth is what he desires we will try to answer his questions, though we do not expect to argue our position at great length. We would suggest to him first that it may be possible that he did not exactly understand the position his grandfather occupied on some points.

In answer to your first question will say that we do not teach that God ordained from all eternity that Adam should eat the forbidden fruit in the same sense that He ordained the salvation of sinners. We do not think God's predestination bears the same attitude to sin as it does to holiness. God permits, or suffers, or allows sin and wickedness, but does not approve or sanction it; but does punish, overrule or restrain sin and wickedness. God's purpose is to punish sin. We do not teach that Adam was coerced to violate the law, but that he did so freely and willingly. "After God had created all other creatures, He created man, male and female, with reasonable and immortal souls, rendering them fit unto that life to God for which they were created, being made after the image of God, in righteousness, knowledge, and true holiness, having the law of God written in their hearts, and power to fulfill it, and yet under a possibility of transgressing, being left to the liberty of their own will, which was subject to change." -London Confession of Faith, Chapter 4, Section 2.

"Although God created man upright and perfect and gave him a righteous law which had been unto life had he kept it, and threatened death upon the breach thereof; yet he did not long abide in this honor. Satan, using the subtlety of the serpent to seduce Eve, then by her seducing Adam, who without any compulsion did willfully transgress the law of their creation and the command given unto them in eating the forbidden fruit, which God was pleased, according to His wise and holy counsel, to permit, having purposed to order it to His own glory." -London Confession of Faith, Chapter 6, Section 1.

In answer to question 2 will say, yes, we teach that Christ died for all those who will finally be saved, or for the elect, and for those only. To the third question will say, no, we make no particular distinction between the death of Christ and the atonement. "Without the shedding of blood there is no remission." When Christ died, or shed His blood, He satisfied the law; made reconciliation, satisfaction, atonement for sin.

To the fourth question will say we teach a special atonement-that Christ died for those the Father gave Him. "By the decree of God, for the manifestation of His glory some men and angels are predestinated or foreordained to eternal life, through Jesus Christ, to the praise of His glorious grace; others being left to act in their sin to their just condemnation, to the praise of His glorious justice." - London Confession, Chapter 3, Section 3.

"These angels and men thus predestinated and foreordained are particularly and unchangeably designed, and their number so certain and definite that it cannot be either increased or diminished." -London Confession, Chapter 3, Section 4.

"The Lord Jesus, by His perfect obedience and sacrifice of Himself, which He through the eternal Spirit once offered up unto God, hath fully satisfied the justice of God, procured reconciliation, and purchased an everlasting inheritance in the kingdom of heaven, for all those whom the Father hath given unto Him." -London Confession, Chapter 8, Section 5.

We do not know that we fully understand your fifth question. If you mean to ask if the justification procured by Christ is eternal, will endure throughout all future ages, and that none who are justified by Christ can ever be condemned, we answer yes. But if you mean to ask if these characters were always justified, or always in a justified state, we answer no. They were involved in sin, as all Adam's race. But in eternity God made choice of a certain number whom He gave to His Son, and purposed or predestinated their justification-so that they were justified in the mind and purpose of God. Then when Christ died for them they were justified in the eye of the law, satisfaction having been rendered to the law for them. Then in regeneration the work of Christ in the atonement and in His death is applied to them, purifying their hearts or souls-that justification being actually applied to them. "Although the price of redemption was not actually paid by Christ till after His incarnation, yet the virtue, efficacy, and benefit thereof was communicated to the elect in all ages successively, from the beginning of the world, in and by those promises, types, and sacrifices wherein He was revealed and signified to be the seed of the woman which should bruise the serpent's head; and the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world, being the same yesterday, and today, and forever." -London Confession, Chapter 8, Section 6. In answer to your sixth question will say man is responsible for his violation of God's law. By his violation he is condemned, and he alone is responsible for being in the pit. He has fallen into a pit of condemnation, and is responsible for being in the pit. The only way he can ever be taken out of the pit is by the work of God, which is purely a stoop of mercy. In answer to your seventh question will say that regeneration precedes belief in Christ as one's personal Saviour. See (John 1:11-13), "He came unto His own, and His own received Him not. But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name; which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God."

Your eighth question is answered in the answer to the second. We have tried to be explicit and plain, and trust you, and others, may gather some light from this as to what we teach. C. H. C.

PRIMITIVE AGAIN

---February 25, 1908

We are in receipt of a leaf from the Mississippi Baptist, published at Newton, Miss., of Jan. 8, 1908, on which appears an editorial under the above heading. It is an attempt at a reply to our editorial in our issue of Dec. 3, 1907, in which we replied to an article from this same paper headed "Primitive." The editor is now begging the question, and saying that some things we said were unworthy the pen of a Christian writer, etc. Yes, of course; that's all very nice of you-Of course it was nice of you to say concerning the contents of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST that "while it had a great deal to say about experimental religion, there was an air of self-appropriation about it that was very noticeable to us." And now, the aforesaid editor would try to "wheedle" out by saying he had reference to the name! Shame on such! Your language had it about the religion and not about the name. And it was so "awfully nice" for you to say the other things you said. It was so nice in you to say we deny the commission! But suppose you tell us what board sent Paul to Rome? By the authority of what board was he being sent when he was shipwrecked and escaped on the island of Melita? (See (7:1) (Acts 27) and (8:1) (Acts 28:1)) What board sent Peter to the house of Cornelius? Give us book, chapter and verse for your Sunday school, B. Y. P. U., and various other societies you have? You are not Bible Baptists unless you have Scripture authority for these things-and this you do not have. Will you please tell us where and when the first missionary board was formed among the Baptists? Did we tint tell the truth about it being in 1792? Can you show one before that date? If you could we suppose you would have done so. Unless you can show it, it follows that you are not the old order of Baptists-hence not primitive.

Did you not say in a certain sermon that Peter was a "Hardshell" until he was converted? If he was a "Hardshell" until he was converted, then he was at first what we are now. Then our sort of Baptists existed before your sort, by your own admission. Verily, the "legs of the lame are unequal."

No, your people are not the original order of Baptists, and it is a vain effort to assert it.

C. H. C.

Elder Mayo

ELDER MAYO

---March 10, 1908

On Sunday night, Feb. 23, Elder G. T. Mayo, who lives in our town, united with the Missionary Baptist church here. Elder Mayo's name has been on the editorial staff of Elder Kirkland's paper, the Apostolic Herald. It seems that Elder Kirkland's corresponding editors are leaving him one by one.

Elder Mayo first united with the Primitive Baptists; and was with them for several years. Some years ago he left us and united with the Missionary Baptists, and we think the day was set for his baptism by them; the day and hour arrived, but Elder Mayo changed his mind and sent them word he would not be there. Then he came back to the Primitive Baptists, and remained with them for a time. Again he united with the Missionary Baptists. This time they baptized and ordained him, and he preached for them about a year-possibly not quite so long, or perhaps a little more, we do not remember the exact length of time. Then again he came back to the Primitive Baptists, making full confession. He said he had found that the Old Baptists could get along without him, but he could not get along without them. But now he has gone back to the Missionaries again. Perhaps he has now learned that he can get along without the Old Baptists. Whether he can do this or not, they will continue to move along in the even tenor of their way. We like Elder Mayo as a man, and trust he may sometime become satisfied and contented religiously.

C. H. C.

Instrumental Music

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

---April 7, 1908

We clip the following from the Gospel Advocate, a Campbellite paper published in Nashville, Tenn. We think this little piece is so true and logical that we desire to give it to our readers. It was written by Mr. David Lipscomb, the editor of the Gospel Advocate. The use of organs has caused divisions among the Campbellites, and Mr. Lipscomb gives truthfully their tendency. C. H. C.
THE CLIPPING

I think it is wrong to use an instrument in connection with worshipping God "in psalms and hymns and tunes and spiritual songs" anywhere at any time. The wrong is more emphasized from the tendency to substitute an entertainment of instrumental music for the service of God in song, making melody in the heart unto the Lord. Teaching singing with a musical instrument is on a par with using a crutch to teach a child to walk. When he is taught to hobble along on a crutch he does not know how to walk. If he ever learns to walk it must be done after he lays aside the crutch. When a person is taught to carry the tune along with an instrument, he does not know how to sing. The instrument, instead of teaching him to sing, hides the deficiencies of his singing and becomes a substitute for singing. A person that has to teach singing with an instrument cannot sing himself and cannot teach singing. He is like the man with a crutch teaching walking or dancing. The universal cry for girls to learn instrumental music is a hurtful and expensive fad. It is hurtful in different ways. The girls learn to thrum the piano; the boys do not learn music at all. The trouble is, neither men nor women, as a rule, can sing. Before the rage for instrumental music became so general, much of the time of the young people when they met together was spent in singing; and all sung. Now nobody sings. The study of instrumental music is expensive, both of money and time, with no return in nine cases out of ten. There is no probability that nine out of ten of those who take music lessons will become sufficiently proficient in the practice to interest themselves or others. I once knew an excellent music teacher that gave lessons for a number of years in one of our best educated county towns. She left the town, and after some years returned on a visit, and concluded she would look up her old music pupils. She found about eighty, as I remember, that had taken lessons from her, and out of this number only two ever pretended to play. She said that she felt that her time had been greatly spent in vain, and the time of these girls and the money of their parents had been wasted. If parents would study these questions for themselves, and not be carried away with a fad of the young people, we would have better singing and better Christians generally.

Kind Words

KIND WORDS

---April 14, 1908

THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, of Martin, Tenn., came in last week in its new dress, which adds to the appearance of the paper in many respects. They have put in up-to-date machinery of different kinds. We congratulate our young brother, Elder C. H. Cayce, in his efforts and success in giving his readers a neatly printed and a sound Old Baptist paper. May the Lord continue to bless him in his efforts to serve Him and to follow in the noble examples of his lamented father, who spent his life in the service of God and like Daniel, kept his face toward Jerusalem. So many of our young ministers have fallen by the wayside of late years that when we see one who is content to walk in the good old way in which our fathers trod, our hearts go out in praise to God in their behalf, and our prayer to God is that these young men may have an abundance of grace to enable them to bear hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ.-W, in Baptist Trumpet.

REMARKS

We feel to appreciate these kind words from Brother Webb so much. We feel our own unworthiness and insufficiency for the task of editing and conducting THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. and also our inability to preach the gospel of the grace of God. Oh, how unworthy we feel to occupy the sacred desk to endeavor to speak in God's name. And what great responsibility rests upon us as editor of an Old Baptist paper! How needful it is that we be careful that what is advocated and contended for in the paper be according to sound doctrine and in harmony with God's word. We realize our dependence upon the Lord that He would guide us by the influence of His Holy Spirit and sustain us by His grace, that we stay in the right way.

If we are not deceived in our poor heart, the cause of our Master, and the comfort and benefit of His people, and the glory of His name, is our first aim -we feel that these are first and above all else with us. We desire to "know no man after the flesh." Our humble desire is to know the right course to pursue, regardless of men or their opinions. What we desire is that which is right in the sight of God, and we believe God approves of His children asking "for the old paths" and walking therein, for He has commanded it. We are satisfied with the old way-the old paths are good enough. Men have sought out many inventions, but they have never improved upon God's way. By the Lord's help we desire to continue to defend the Lord's way and to expose the inventions of men, no matter where found-even though they be introduced among the Old Baptists. We humbly ask all our brethren and sisters, who love the good old ways of Zion to remember us in your prayers, that the Lord would direct and sustain us. And we humbly ask all to stand by us in the publication of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. The brethren and sisters have done this, and we appreciate it. We believe they will patronize and support the paper that stands by the true principles of the doctrine of grace. Hence we have had no fears but what the paper would be sustained if we were pursuing the right course; and if we do not stay in the "good old way" it ought not to be sustained.

Our dear Brother Webb has spent many years in the service of our Master and such expressions of approval and encouragement from old soldiers of the cross like him are a great comfort to us. We desire to continue in the same old way. "it was good enough for our fathers," and it is good enough for us. We desire to live and die having an humble place among the dear Old Baptists and in their hearts. Brethren, pray the Lord to grant it. C. H. C.

John 3:16-17; Hebrews 2:9; Romans 9:15-25

---April 21, 1908

Brother J. L. Harder, of McKenzie, Tenn., has requested our views of the above passages. We have not space or time now to write at great length on these, but will state our views briefly.

(John 3:16-17) reads: "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through Him might be saved." This text tells us plainly that God gave His Son for the believer. He did not give His Son for the unbeliever. If God did not give His Son for the unbeliever, then Christ did not die for all the race, unless all the race are believers. To argue that the term "world" in this text embraces all Adam's race, is to make the text contradict itself. As the text does not contradict itself, it follows that the term "world" does not embrace all Adam's race, It necessarily follows, therefore, that it refers to the believers-the world of believers. Again, to make the term "world" embrace all Adam's race would be a positive contradiction of (Romans 9:13), "Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated." This tells us positively that God hated Esau. Then if Esau was a part of Adam's race, He did not love all the race. Now, notice (John 3:18-19), "He that believeth on Him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light because their deeds were evil." The Saviour here tells us plainly that the condemnation is that men loved darkness rather than light. The condemnation does not rest in their unbelief, but in the fact that "light is come into the world, and they loved darkness rather than light." This is where the condemnation rests.

(Hebrews 2:9) reads, "But we see Jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels for the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honour; that He by the grace of God should taste death for every man." (Verses 10, 11 and 12)read, "For it became Him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the captain of their salvation perfect through sufferings. For both He that sanctifieth and they who are sanctified are all of one: for which cause He is not ashamed to call them brethren, saying, I will declare thy name unto my brethren, in the midst of the church will I sing praise unto thee. And again, I will put my trust in Him. And again, Behold I and the children which God hath given me." The word "man" in the ninth verse in the King James' translation is not in the original Greek. In translating any passage, if a word is lacking and needs to be supplied, a word should be supplied that will agree with the context. This is a universal and invariable rule. In verse ten these characters are called "many sons," and in verse eleven they are called "brethren," in verse twelve they are called "brethren," and "the church;" in verse thirteen they are called "children," and in verse fourteen they are called "children." These are all the same characters, or persons, that are referred to in the ninth verse as "every man." Hence He tasted death for "every son" (many sons), for every one of His "brethren," for "the church," for every one of His "children." He died for these, and these only.

Our opinion is that Brother Harder wished the foregoing passages harmonized with (Romans 9:15-25). There is a seeming contradiction to some in these, but there is no contradiction, and the seeming contradiction vanishes when the foregoing passages are rightly applied. In (Romans 9:21) the apostle says, "Hath not the potter power over the clay, of the same lump, to make one vessel unto honour and another unto dishonour?" This refers to the case of the prophet going down to the house of the potter and seeing the potter at work. A vessel was marred in the hands of the potter. Then he took clay of the same lump and made another vessel as seemed good to the potter to make it. In the beginning, or in the morning of creation, God made the man. The vessel was marred in the hands of his Creator by sin. Now, God takes clay of the same lump (for all are alike by nature) and makes vessels unto honor, as seems good to Him to make them. He does not make a vessel unto honor provided the clay becomes willing, but as it pleases Him. He does not save one man and not another because the one man is better clay than the other, but He saves as it pleases Him. Verse sixteen says, "So then it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but of God that sheweth mercy." Salvation is of God, and He shows mercy in saving. It is His work to save. "It is not of Him that willeth." Our will is not consulted as to whether they will be saved, yet He makes them willing by the regenerating power of His Holy Spirit. They are shown the awful depravity and corruption of their own hearts, are given a new and higher order of life, and then they begin to hate and to abhor sin and to love righteousness and holiness; and their will is now sweetly inclined to that which is holy and righteous. These few thoughts are submitted in love for truth, and we trust they will be blessed to your good. C. H. C.

Acts 22:16

((2:16) (Acts 22:16)

---April 21, 1908

We have been requested to give our views of ((2:16) (Acts 22:16)). It reads, "And now why tarriest thou? Arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." This language was spoken by Ananias to Saul. Ananias was one of the Lord's ministers, and dwelt in Damascus. Saul had left Jerusalem with letters of authority to bind and cast in prison all who were calling on the name of the Lord, or all the followers of Christ. As he journeyed and came nigh unto Damascus, at about noon, a great light from heaven suddenly shined round about him. Saul fell unto the ground and heard a voice saying unto him, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?" Saul answered, "Who art thou, Lord?" "It is the Spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life." -John 6:63. When Jesus speaks life is imparted, and the dead are brought to life, and answer, always. The divine life was imparted to Saul when the Lord spoke to him, and he was awakened to his true condition in nature. Here was something he had never realized before, hence he cried out, "Who art thou, Lord?" The Lord answered, "I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest. Then Saul enquired, "What shall I do, Lord?" Saul now has a will and a desire to follow and serve the Lord. He has a new will and new desires. Will and desire spring from life. He now has a new life from which springs the new will and new desire to serve the Lord. This being true, it is too late for him to be baptized in order to his regeneration. The work of regeneration has already been completed in his case. The inward washing, or inward cleansing, we see, was done for him before he reached Damascus. He is now a praying character. The Lord was also working with Ananias, for He appeared to him and told him to go to Saul. Ananias was afraid, but the Lord told him that he was a chosen vessel, and "behold, he prayeth." Ananias was afraid no longer, when he had the evidence that the Lord had appeared to him and that he was a praying character. He then went to Saul and called him "Brother Saul." He told him that the Lord, even Jesus, that had appeared to him while he was on his way to Damascus had sent him to him, and then used the language of the text, "Why tarriest thou? Arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." This washing away of sins is, therefore, an outward washing, representing or showing forth the inward washing or cleansing that had been performed in his heart before he reached Damascus. It is a showing of one's faith by his works. It declares outwardly the work of grace that has already been performed by the Lord in the heart. These are our views, to some extent, expressed in a brief way on the text.

C. H. C.

Romans 7:24-25

---April 28, 1908

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-I want your views on (Romans 7:24-25), as I do not understand its meaning.

I have heard several different men talk about it. Please answer through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. I would be glad for any brother to write and let me know what he has to say.

Pray for me.

JESSE L. HARRIS

Atkins, Ark., R. 2.

OUR REPLY

We will try to give a few of our thoughts on this text. But it would be well to read the (twenty-third verse)also. The three verses (23, 24, 25) read as follows: But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members. O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from the body of this death? I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord. So then with the mind I myself serve the law of God; but with the flesh the law of sin.

In the twenty-third verse the apostle presents the thought that there is a warfare going on in his life. There is a warfare going on in the heart and life of every child of grace. In regeneration the old or sinful nature was not taken away. He still has the nature that is poisoned with sin. But in regeneration he received another nature; he was made partaker of the divine nature. So he now has two natures, and they are contrary to each other. They are no more alike than midday is like midnight, than bitter is like sweet, than light is like darkness, than good is like bad. These two natures being possessed by the one man, there is a warfare going on in his heart and life all the time-or nearly so. The old nature is called the flesh in many places; it is also called the old man. The new or divine nature is called the new man, the spirit, the inner man. For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would. (Galatians 5:17). Here one is called the flesh and the other the Spirit, and they lust against each other. That man who does not find this warfare in his members is not a child of God. Oh, how bitter the conflict! It is a warfare enduring for life. There is no discharge from it while we continue to live in this unfriendly world. But blessed thought, this world is the Christian's battle ground. He receives an honorable discharge from the warfare and goes to a blessed home prepared for him when he lays his armor by in death. Sweet rest awaits him there. Oh, how he longs to be free from sin! yet he daily finds himself brought into captivity by it. No wonder then he often cries out in his daily life and experience, O wretched man that I am! No wonder he would ask, Who shall deliver me from the body of this death? Or, Who shall deliver me from the body of death? This is a question so often asked by the heaven-born soul. He realizes that the arm of flesh is too short and that the power of man is too weak to deliver a poor sinner like he realizes himself to be. He knows he is not redeemed with corruptible things, such as silver and gold. He realizes that all the gold of Ophir, and the silver of Peru, and the cattle of a thousand hills, all together, are insufficient to buy a home in heaven for a poor sinner like him. He knows that father and mother, brothers, sisters, friends, preachers, churches, societies, are all unable to deliver a poor sinner like him. Then who shall deliver me from the body of this death? In the very depths of his soul he is enabled to exclaim, with joy and thanksgiving, as did the apostle, I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord. The Lord can, does and will deliver. Blessed be His holy name. Who delivered us from so great a death, and doth deliver: in whom we trust that He will yet deliver us. -(II Corinthians 1:10). So then with the mind I myself serve the law of God; but with the flesh the law of sin. With the mind, or divine nature, the new man, he serves the law of God; but with the flesh, or the old, sinful nature, he serves the law of sin. That sinful nature will continue with us as long as we remain here; but after a few more toils, pains, dark and cloudy days, after a few more storms, a few more battles, and the warfare will be over. We shall lay our armor by. The Lord alone, through Jesus Christ, will finally give us the victory. He will deliver all His children. But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. (I Corinthians 15:57). May it be yours, dear reader, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Eleventh Article of Faith

ELEVENTH ARTICLE OF FAITH

---April 28, 1908

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-For the benefit of a friend of mine who is a subscriber to your paper, I desire you, through the columns of your paper, to give an explanation of the eleventh article of the Abstract of Principles (the clause, "are all under law to Christ"). The word "law" is the objection.

Your unworthy brother,
O. P. POORE
Robards, Ky., R. 2.
OUR REPLY

The eleventh article of our Abstract of Principles, as published in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST nearly every week, reads as follows: "That the children of God (those already born again) are all under law to Christ, and that it is obligatory upon them to obey this law; that in doing so they enjoy the blessings promised; but in disobedience thereto they suffer the penalty thereof, while here in this world." Brother Poore says the word "law" in this article of our faith is the objection. Well, we suppose if the Bible says this is true, Brother Poole's friend will accept it. The Bible is our standard of faith, and we are willing for this article to be tried by the Standard. "To the law and to the testimony." Let us go there and see if we can find anything like a statement that somebody who has been born again is under law to Christ. Turn to (I Corinthians 9:20-21), and you will find this language: "And unto the Jews I became as a Jew, that I might gain the Jews; to them that are under the law, as under the law, that I might gain them that are under the law; to them that are without law, as without law, (being not without law to God, but under the law to Christ), that I might gain them that are without law."

Here the apostle says plainly, "being not without law to God, but under the law to Christ." These are nearly the same words as are contained in the article of our faith. If the brother objects to the article of faith saying we are under law to Christ, we suppose he would object to the apostle saying the same thing. The apostle did say, "being under the law to Christ," and we are sure the brother cannot object to that. If he cannot object to that, then he can no longer object to the article of faith.

"For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." -(Romans 8:2). This being true, he is delivered from the law of sin and death, and is under law to Christ. This law proclaims freedom and liberty, while the law of sin and death proclaims bondage and death. To obey the law we are under to Christ is a loving and willing service; and the one who does this is "blessed in his deed." -(James 1:25). "If ye love me, keep my commandments." -(John 14:15). "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them." -(John 13:17). "The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple. The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes. The fear of the Lord is clean, enduring forever: the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether. More to be desired are they than gold; yea, than much fine gold: sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb. Moreover by them is thy servant warned: and in keeping of them there is great reward." -(Psalms 19:7-11). "For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, saith the Lord; I will put my laws into their mind, and write them in their hearts: and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people: and they shall not teach every man his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for all shall know me, from the least to the greatest." -(Hebrews 8:10-11). This is the new covenant, and it is the claim of the Old Baptists that we are not worshipping under the old covenant. Then if we are now under the new covenant, God does write His laws in the hearts of His people; and if He does this, we are under obligation to observe those laws. To do so is not a slavish service, but a loving service. May the Lord help us to render that service, is our prayer.

Much more Scriptural testimony could be given, but we deem this to be sufficient. C. H. C.

Acts 8:16-17

(Acts 8:16-17)

---April 28, 1908

Brother W. M. Moore, of Bellefontaine, Miss., requests our views of (Acts 8:16-17), and asks if they received the Holy Ghost before baptism. Brother Moore says he heard a man who claimed to be holy in body and spirit preach some time ago on this text, and that he said those people were regenerated but had not received the Holy Ghost. He says the preacher also used ((9:2) (Acts 19:2)) to prove his position.

The text in (Acts 8:16-17) reads, "For as yet he was fallen upon none of them: only they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.) Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost." It is an immutable law in nature that everything partakes of the nature of that from which it springs. God gave this immutable law in creation. The same law holds good in grace. The work of regeneration is one in which the person regenerated is made a partaker of the Holy Spirit, or of the divine nature, in which he receives the Holy Spirit. "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost; which He shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour." - (Titus 3:5-6)

This shows clearly that there is a work of the Holy Spirit performed in the work of regeneration. The apostle emphatically declares, in (Romans 8:9), that "if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His." If the man who has been regenerated is not in possession of the Spirit of Christ, or the Holy Spirit, then he is not a child of God; and if a regenerated man is not a child of God, then whose child is he? People sometimes talk about Old Baptists being ignorant; but it is very evident that all the ignorance is not in the Old Baptist Church, not by any means. Old Baptists are not so ignorant as to say that a regenerated man is not in possession of the Holy Spirit, and therefore not a child of God.

Those persons upon whom Peter and John laid their hands after they had been baptized were children of God already; and the Holy Ghost was poured out upon them in a miraculous way by the laying on of the hands of the apostles. The same is true of those characters spoken of in the nineteenth chapter upon whom Paul laid his hands. The sixth verse of that chapter says, "And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the Holy Ghost came on them; and they spake with tongues, and prophesied." The Holy Ghost coming on them in this way was such as enabled them to speak with tongues and to prophesy. Any man who claims to have such a gift of the Holy Ghost now should be able to demonstrate the fact by speaking with tongues, and be able to tell the future for as long as one day, if no longer. The Holy Ghost fell on Cornelius before baptism. See ((0:44) (Acts 10:44-48). Cornelius was regenerated-born of God-accepted with Him-before Peter went down to his house. He was one that feared God, and the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom. He worked righteousness, "and ye know that every one that doeth righteousness is born of Him." -John. His prayers were heard and "the effectual prayer of a righteous man availeth much." -James. And Peter said, "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons: but in every nation he that feareth Him and worketh righteousness, is accepted of Him." -((0:34) (Acts 10:34-35). Then after this the Holy Ghost fell on Cornelius and his household in such a miraculous way as that they of the circumcision, or Jews, were astonished, for they heard them speak with tongues and magnify God. But we have seen that Cornelius was in possession of the Holy Spirit by being regenerated before this.

"Try the spirits," is an admonition John gives; and we should do so with diligence and care. C. H. C.

Backed Down

BACKED DOWN

---May 19, 1908

A big Missionary Baptist "divine" of Chattanooga, Tenn., made a great challenge for a debate with our people some time ago. Brother D. M. Raulston, who lives in Chattanooga, accepted his challenge and wrote us asking if we would meet the Missionary champion. We replied that we would if our brethren desired us to do so. But, lo, the boastful gentleman's voice has suddenly become so impaired that he cannot debate, and they have failed to get another man! Poor fellows! A toad sometimes "swells" to wonderful proportions, and sometimes suddenly shrinks to small size. The Primitive Baptists are such an insignificant set in the estimation of some of them, and they can boast wonderfully of what they would do to these Old Baptists if they could only have the opportunity-but when the opportunity is presented, it is astonishing to think about how their voices have become impaired. If some people would strain their voices less in their boasting, perhaps they would be in better condition to do what they boasted they would do. Some folks might do more and talk less.
C. H. C.

Sin Unto Death

SIN UNTO DEATH

---May 19, 1908

Brother Joel T. Hawkins, of Arp, Texas, asks us if the death mentioned in (I John 5:16) is the same death as that mentioned in ((20) (James 5:20); (I John 5:16-17) reads. "If any man see his brother sin a sin which is not unto death, he shall ask, and He shall give him life for them that sin not unto death. There is a sin unto death: I do not say that he shall pray for it. All unrighteousness is sin: and there is a sin not unto death." ((9) (James 5:19-20) reads, "Brethren, if any of you do err from the truth, and one convert him; let him know, that he which converteth the sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death and shall hide a multitude of sins." Yes, we think it is the same death, it is a death to the enjoyment of the fellowship of the church and to an enjoyment of the manifest presence of the Lord. It does not refer to eternal death, or to everlasting banishment from the presence of God in eternity. One might act in such a way that he should not be retained in the church, that his exclusion would be absolutely necessary-sin unto death-and there be no other way but to exclude the member: On the other hand, one might do very wrong, and yet the nature of the wrong, or sin, he such that he may be reclaimed from the sin and he retained, and thus a soul saved from death

C. H. C.

2 Peter 2:2

(II Peter 2:2)

---May 19, 1908

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: I want your views on (II Peter 2:2) and oblige, WASH HINSON.
REMARKS

The text reads, "But there were false prophets also among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction." There were false prophets among the people during the prophetic dispensation. So, in the gospel dispensation there are false teachers among us. Some of the false prophets were Israelites, of God's chosen people as a nation. So, some false teachers, some who are God's children, teach false doctrine, and deny the Lord that bought them. "There shall be false teachers among you. They will rise up in the church and will "draw away disciples after them." They deny the Lord that bought them in the false doctrines they teach. They bring upon themselves swift destruction. Sooner or later they are cut off from the fellowship and communion of the true followers of our Lord and Master. They are cut off from the church, and lose the fellowship and love the brethren once had for them. They are cast out, as the unprofitable servant. They are thus destroyed, and they bring it all upon themselves. They have no one to blame but themselves, for they "bring upon themselves swift destruction" by their false teaching. This truth uttered by the apostle has been abundantly exemplified during the past few years, and we fear there are others. Lord, help us all to contend for the right way, that we may never lose the fellowship and love of our brethren. C. H. C.

The Slothful Servant

THE SLOTHFUL SERVANT

---May 19, 1908

Sister J. S. Swicord, of Climax, Ga., requests us to give our views concerning the servant who hid his Lord's talent in the earth. The parable is recorded in the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew. This servant received one talent; he received according to his ability, but instead of improving the talent he hid it in the earth. He said that his lord was a hard task-master. If we say that we cannot do what the Lord requires of us in His service, we say that He is a hard task-master, that He requires more of us than He gives us the ability to perform. But the Lord is not a hard task-master. He gives His children the ability to do what He requires them to do in rendering gospel service to Him. The unprofitable servant, who hides his talent instead of doing as the Lord requires, is cast into outer darkness. Oh, how dense that darkness is! Many of the Lord's children have realized to their sorrow how dreadful the darkness is. When we disobey our loving Saviour's commands, we are soon groping our way in the darkness. "There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth." How bitterly we weep then! It is so much better to use our ability and our endeavors to improve the talent our Lord has given us, and endeavor to do what He lovingly commands us as His children to do, than to hide the talent, refuse to keep His commandments, and say by our disobedience that our blessed Saviour is a hard task-master. We are commanded to let our light so shine-let it shine as a lighted candle on a candle-stick-that it may give light to all that are in the house-let our light so shine before men that others may see our good works. Others do not see our good works when we disobey our Lord. We are not then letting our light shine. The light is thus hid by our disobedience. Our talent is not put to use. Let us all try to do what our Saviour requires of us. Peace and fellowship would then reign in our beloved Zion, and the approving smiles of our adorable Redeemer would be ours to enjoy. We would then be letting brotherly love continue. May the Lord help us to do so, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Women Preachers

WOMEN PREACHERS

---May 19, 1908

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-We as Primitive Baptists, believing we are the church of God, believe a woman is out of her place to attempt to preach the gospel, as some are trying to do, for it is said in the word of God, (I Corinthians 14:34-35), "Let your women keep silence in the churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak (that is, to preach); but they are commanded to be under obedience, as also saith the law. And if they will learn anything, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is a shame for women to speak (to preach) in the church."

Can we find a woman in the Primitive Baptist Church, if they are true Baptists, trying to preach?

When the twelve apostles were called why didn't Christ say, "You go, John, Mary, Susan, James," and so on, until the twelve were named? I am giving you what I think about this. It is not much, on account of me being no Bible scholar. One Sunday I was at an Arminian's for dinner and this subject came to our minds. I directed her to (I Corinthians 14:34-35), and she directed me to ((2) (Philippians 4:2), "I beseech Euodias, and beseech Syntyche, that they be of the same mind in the Lord." These were two women who were church workers at Philippi. Being no Bible scholar, I could not give an answer to her proof. Will you please compare through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST (I Corinthians 14:34-35) with ((2) (Philippians 4:2) as soon as you can? Your brother, Wadesville, Ind., R. 20.
LESTER E. RECORDS.
REMARKS

We know of no Primitive Baptist woman posing as a preacher. It makes no difference what the Arminian world may say, nor how much they may endeavor to make it appear that ((2) (Philippians 4:2) justifies a woman preaching, it still remains true that it is positively forbidden in God's word. The place referred to in Corinthians not only forbids it, but (I Timothy 2:11-12) also positively forbids it. The apostle there says, "Let the woman learn in silence with all subjection. But I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence." The apostle here plainly says, "I suffer not a woman to teach." The church that does suffer it now is not like the apostle, and therefore is not the church of God. These women mentioned in ((2) (Philippians 4:2) were not preachers. There is not even the shadow of an intimation that they were. Preaching is not the only kind of church work there is to do. The third verse of the same chapter says, "And I entreat thee also, true yoke-fellow, help those women which laboured with me in the gospel, with Clement also, and with other my fellow-laborers, whose names are in the book of life." These women helped the apostle in bearing his burdens, and encouraged him on his way. So do many of the sisters now help the poor ministers along the way; they speak words of encouragement to them and in different ways help them in their ministry, yet they themselves do not pose as preachers. In (Romans 16:3-4,5-6), the apostle says, "Greet Priscilla and Aquila my helpers in Christ Jesus: who have for my life laid down their own necks: unto whom not only I give thanks, but also all the churches of the Gentiles. Likewise greet the church that is in their house. Salute my well-beloved Epaenetus, who is of the first fruits of Achaia unto Christ. Greet Mary, who bestowed much labour on us. This shows how some of the sisters helped the apostle-but no intimation that they were preachers. There is absolutely no Scripture authority for a woman to preach; there is no precept nor example for such a thing. There is no authority for it, either express or; implied. We can see only one reason for a woman posing as a preacher, and that is she wants a name, or excitement, or wants to act "smart." The Lord in His personal ministry, never sent out a woman to preach-not one. Neither does the Lord send them now. C. H. C.

John 3:5

(John 3:5)

---May 26, 1908

Elder T. M. Hood, of Dickson, Tenn., requests our views of (John 3:5) and asks why the water is spoken of first. The text reads, "Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." Bear in mind that the subject the Saviour had under consideration was the new birth, in the third verse He says, "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." It may also be correctly rendered, "Except a man be born from above, he cannot see the kingdom of God." The Saviour, then, was talking about being born again, or being born from above. The word "and" in the fifth verse may be correctly rendered "even" -thus, "Except a man be born of water, even Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." Again in the seventh verse He said, "Ye must be born again" - or born from above. In the sixth verse the expression, "that which is born of the flesh is flesh," does not mean that one who is born of flesh is nothing more than a lump of flesh, for the man is a being composed of soul, body and spirit. Neither can the expression, "that which is born of the Spirit is spirit," be taken in an abstract sense. The Saviour teaches in these expressions the great truth that everything partakes of the nature of that from which it springs. Thus in being born of an earthly parentage one partakes of the nature of that parentage, and in being born of the Spirit one partakes of the divine nature. In this birth of the Spirit there is a washing or cleansing of the soul. In that sense the Saviour here uses the word "water," as denoting a washing or cleansing. (Titus 3:5) says, "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us, by the washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Ghost." Here it is called a washing. Water signifies the same. "Born of water and of the Spirit," and "washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Ghost." It is the work of the Holy Ghost or Spirit of God to renew the sinner, and this is done by regeneration, in which there is a washing. "That He might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water by the word." - (Ephesians 5:26). Here the work of regeneration, that work which prepares us in soul for heaven, is called "washing of water by the word." This is not the natural water, which is filthy at best. Take a powerful magnifying glass and look at a drop of clear water through it and you will see a living, working mass. But this water, or washing of regeneration, is a cleansing work.

The water does not refer to baptism, for if it did baptism would, sure enough, precede regeneration; and baptism would be the turning point upon which the eternal destiny of the sinner is hinged. Neither does it refer to the natural birth, for two good reasons. If it refers to that, it would also follow that the natural birth must precede the spiritual birth in all cases, but John the Baptist was born of the Spirit before his natural birth into the World. Besides, the text says, "Except a man be born of water." A man is one who has already been born of the flesh. Hence the Saviour was talking of those who had been born of the flesh, and if the water referred to the birth of the flesh, then the man must again be born of the flesh then of the Spirit in order to enter into the kingdom of God. C. H. C.

Hebrews 2:2-3

---May 26, 1908

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother in the Lord, as I hope-We are strangers in the flesh, but if I am what I profess and hope to be, we are not only acquainted but kin in the spirit. I have been taking your valuable paper, THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, since March, 1907, and am well pleased with it. It sets forth the doctrine of the Bible, or what I understand as the doctrine. As I have read some of your views on questions asked you to my satisfaction, I would be pleased to have your views on (Hebrews 2:2-3), "For if the word. spoken by angels was stedfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompense of reward; how shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation; which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard Him." What salvation is under consideration, and what is it we will not escape if we neglect the salvation? Some say we cannot neglect a thing we are not in possession of, and then say the salvation spoken of is common or time salvation, which I understand to be our reward in obedience, which we are not in possession of until we obey. This view seems inconsistent to me. Please answer through the paper, or privately, if you think worthy of answer.

May the God of all grace bless you and uphold you in your good work, is my prayer. Remember me and mine, if not asking too much.

Your brother, I hope,

D. M. STILL

Dickson, Tenn.

OUR REPLY

The opposite of salvation is condemnation. The question, "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?" is a stronger way of saying, "If we neglect that salvation, we cannot escape the opposite of the salvation." If the salvation here spoken of is eternal salvation, then it necessarily follows that our escaping eternal condemnation depends largely upon our not neglecting our eternal salvation. Eternal condemnation is the opposite of eternal salvation. A farmer may neglect his crop. If he does neglect it, he will have no crop—he will not reap a harvest. He must sow the seed, and not neglect to cultivate, if he reaps a harvest. "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." If the farmer sows wheat, he will not reap corn from that sowing. After he sows the wheat, it is necessary that he cultivate the crop in order that he reap a bountiful harvest. "Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip." "If ye sow to the flesh, ye shall of the flesh reap corruption." If the farmer sows bad seed he will not reap a good harvest, If he sows burrs he will not reap wheat. "Beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith, virtue; and to virtue, knowledge; and to knowledge, temperance; and to temperance, patience; and to patience, godliness; and to godliness, brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness, charity." -(II Peter 1:5-6,7).

To sow as we should and to cultivate properly in the Christian life requires diligence. It is necessary to give earnest heed. If we neglect, then we are not giving earnest heed and are not diligent. If we are not giving earnest heed and are not diligent, then we "let them slip" - we are neglecting the salvation, and cannot escape the condemnation, which is the opposite of the salvation.

Our escaping eternal condemnation does not, in any sense, depend upon what we do or fail to do. This depends altogether upon the mercy and grace of God, and what Christ has done for us. "Not according to our works, but according to His mercy He saved us," says the apostle. "Not of works, lest any man should boast," he says again. When he said this, he was talking about that work which will give us to live with God in glory. "But of Him are ye in Christ Jesus." -(I Corinthians 1:30). It is the work of God that one, is in Christ. He escapes eternal condemnation by the work of God- what God does for him-only and alone. It is the work of God only and alone by which one escapes eternal condemnation.

If the man who has natural life is slothful and neglectful of the duties of that life, he fails to enjoy the blessings of the life. He is not saved from the curses, or the opposite of those blessings. He cannot escape the opposite. So, the child of God, that one who is in Christ and who has the life of Christ implanted in his soul, who neglects the duties of that life, cannot escape the condemnation-cannot escape a guilty conscience. If he does not take heed, does not give diligence in that life, he is not saved from the pitfalls and snares set for him by Satan. It is necessary that he take heed and give diligence in doing what the Saviour requires in order that he escape those things and be saved from them. It is necessary that he give diligence and take heed, in order that he escape false doctrine and false practice. May the Lord help us to take heed, to be diligent in the discharge of our duty, that we may thereby save ourselves from the untoward generation, that we may be saved from the inventions of men and from their false doctrines and practices, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

Wonderful Historian

WONDERFUL HISTORIAN

---June 2, 1908

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Esteemed Sir-The enclosed clipping was taken from the Weekly Commercial Appeal, of Memphis. If you have the time, I would be glad that you would put the illustrious ancient historian and perambulating encyclopedia, that turns out made to order answers for every conceivable question, for the column in the Commercial Appeal, right as to date. With best wishes, I am yours very truly,

J. W. DELK

Coffeetown, Miss.

R. I

THE CLIPPING

Q.-Where, when and by whom were these religious denominations founded: 1. Presbyterian; 2. Methodist; 3. Missionary Baptist; 4. Primitive or Hardshell Baptist. READER.

A-1. John Calvin, 1509-1564, is called the father of Presbyterianism. His great work was done during his exile at Geneva. John Knox (1507-1572) was the leader in establishing Presbyterianism in Scotland, and the first presbytery was organized in England in 1572.

2. Methodism grew out of the movement led in England by John Wesley (1703-1781,) and the first organization was in 1739. The government of the church took practically its present form in 1743. Thomas Coke organized the church in America in 1784. 3 and 4. The name Baptist was first given in 1644 to an organization of English Separatists. The England Baptist Missionary Society was organized in 1792 under the leadership of William Carey. The "Hard-shell," or Primitive, or Anti-Mission body was organized about 1835 in the United States. They claim to be the original Baptists, while all others have departed from the correct principles and practices.

REMARKS

We shall not notice all of the above statements of this wonderful historian. We will simply say that the people known now as Primitive Baptists, called "Hardshells" by the enemies of truth, can trace their identity by history through the centuries to the days of the apostles by their doctrine and teaching. It makes no difference what they were called in different places and at different times, they were the same people.

The above historian (?) admits that the England Baptist Missionary Society was organized in 1792. That is true, and it was the first missionary society organized among the Baptists. This is admitted by all informed persons, be they Baptists or anything else. After that, the mission question was introduced in this country and societies begin to be organized here. The first one in this country was organized several years after 1792. For years the churches groaned and labored under these departures, until finally in 1832 a convention met at Black Rock, Md., and formally declared against the new measures and departures from the old order and simplicity of the gospel. The separation was final in about 1840. Thus the Missionary Baptist denomination came into existence. The admission that the Baptists existed prior to 1792, and that the mission system began in their ranks that year, which system the Missionaries now have, is an admission that they are the new order, and they have been adding new theories and inventions all along since their birth at such a rapid rate that their "daddy" (Andrew Fuller) would not know his "baby" if he could be brought back to earth now.

C. H. C.

Pray For Laborers

PRAY FOR LABORERS

---June 9, 1908

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-Our little band of brethren and sisters met last first Saturday, but as we have no pastor we had no preaching. We sorrowfully turned our faces homeward, thinking all along the way, "Have we done our duty?" Tell us, Brother Cayce, should we have sung some songs and then all prayed for the Lord to send laborers, for the harvest is great, or was that command to the minister alone?

Will not some brother send us an appointment? We are few, but I believe all are faithful, but my own imperfect self.

Brother Cayce, may the good Lord sustain you and give you of His wisdom from on high to proclaim the merits and the power of a never-dying Saviour to save the vilest sinner without the help of man. Dear brethren and sisters, please pray for me and my dear family. Your sister in hope of a better, brighter, world,

S. A. CARRUTH

Tupelo, Miss.

R. 3.

REMARKS

We think it would be right for the church to hold conference whether a preacher is present or not. We think one great trouble and cause of so much coldness among the brethren is that they depend too much on the preacher. It appears sometimes that the preacher is depended on to do all the singing, praying and preaching; and sometimes it looks as though the preacher is depended on to do all the hearing too. Yes, it would have been right if you had engaged in singing some hymns in praise to the Lord. The Lord is worshipped in song as well as preaching, and sometimes that is a very sweet part of the service. And if you felt your need of a laborer in the Lord's vineyard, why should you not bow in humble prayer to the Lord of the harvest and pray Him to send laborers into the harvest? It seems to us that those who feel and realize the need of true gospel laborers could very consistently pray the Lord to send them. The Lord gives ministers to the church. See (Ephesians 4:8-13). As the ministry (laborers in the vineyard) are gifts of the Lord to the church, why should they not pray to the Lord for them? Yes, pray the Lord of the harvest to send laborers into that part of His vineyard, as well as into other places.

C. H. C.

Information Wanted

INFORMATION WANTED

---August 4, 1908

Is salvation by grace or of works? My Bible teaches me that salvation is by grace and not of works. (Ephesians 2:8-9). But I notice that many of our preachers teach salvation by grace and works, especially during the protracted meetings. They will preach salvation by grace and practice salvation by works. They will preach salvation by grace in the pulpit and then come down and introduce works and make all kinds of propositions to sinners and get all they can to take the anxious seats, as they call them. (Where is the Scriptural authority for it? Book, chapter and verse, please.) Then they will turn to the Christians and begin to make propositions something like these: "If any of you have children or a friend back in the congregation, go to them; and if any of you have a son or a daughter at these anxious seats, come and bow by them." Next, "Let all the Christians come to the altar and bow with these anxious ones; get as close to them as you can." Just as if the Lord could not or would not save the people by themselves or without a lot of help. Now will some preacher or preachers that follow these practices tell me where I can find a Scriptural authority for such practices? I can't find it. Please give me book, chapter and verse, if it is in the Bible. If not, why practice something that the Lord never taught us? Is it for the purpose of creating an excitement in order to get people into the church to count numbers? Is there not great danger of creating an excitement and through animal magnetism or mesmerism, cause people to be deceived and cause souls to go to hell? I think many of our preachers ought to get back to the Bible and quit preaching after Rome and her grand-daughters-C. S. Gregory, Ratiiff, Miss., in Baptist Flag, July 23, 1903.

REMARKS

If you will examine the twenty-third chapter of Revelation carefully perhaps you will find the authority for such practices as you mention, as well as many other things engaged in by the Missionary Baptists. If you do not find the authority there for the practice you mention, you will not find it in the Bible.

Here is another point our friend Gregory may consider: The preacher will often tell the sinners that Christ is standing there at the altar ready, willing and anxious to save them; and that all that is necessary for them to be saved is for them to come to the altar and give themselves to the Lord. Then when the sinners come to the altar to give themselves to the Lord, the preacher will kneel in prayer and beg the Lord to "come now and save these poor penitent sinners." Now the question: Was the Lord there when the preacher said He was? If so, did He leave when the sinners came? If He was there at the first, then left, was He ready, willing and anxious to save them? If He was, did He change His notion, and leave when the sinners went there? If He did not leave, why does the preacher pray for Him to come? Why do they preach one way, and pray another? Why do they preach, sometimes, that salvation is by grace, and then tell the sinners they will go to hell unless they do thus and so? Do not some men judge for reward, teach for hire, and divine for money? See (Micah 3:11). Do not some people teach that they could take the world for Christ if they had money enough? Does not this make the eternal destiny of men and women depend upon money and the liberality of the people? Does your home in heaven depend upon this, or does it depend upon the mercy and grace of God? Can your home in heaven depend upon the mercy and grace of God, and the home of another in heaven depend upon something else? Is God dependent upon money and the liberality of the people to save His people? Is not the world and all its fullness His? If He was hungry, would He tell you? Does not God do His will? Is it not God's work to save? Then, will He not save all that it is His will to save? If not, why not? These questions are only a few of the many that often arise in our mind. We give them to our readers and trust they may ponder them in their hearts. Oh, that the Lord's people might see the truth and be blessed with the holy boldness to contend for the same, and to come out from among the false religionists of the day.

C. H. C.

Converts for Nine Dollars

CONVERTS FOR NINE DOLLARS

---August 18, 1908

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Here is a clipping from today's Memphis Commercial. This is the first time I ever saw anything like it in newspaper print, however I've heard of such at divers times and it just made my poor heart throb at the idea of such. I read it to a friend of mine who was sitting near by, and he just remarked: "It's the first time I ever heard that it cost money to bring men to Christ," and stated he did not believe in such and that from all appearances, he said, it looked like the way religious services are being conducted is a money machine. He is not a member of any church. Make a note of the clipping some time if you deem it proper.
With much love,
E. A. GULLEDGE.
THE CLIPPING

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 23-Converts to the Baptist faith are won in Oklahoma at a cost of but $9 each, a record in economy surpassing that of any other state or territory, according to a statement made at today's session of the Northern Baptist Convention by Rev. C. J. Stalcup, representing the Home Mission Society of Oklahoma. Dr. Stalcup recounted the history of the mission work in Oklahoma, beginning with the Christian crusade in 1865, and said it had been continued up to the present time without interruption and with very gratifying results.

REMARKS

According to the minutes of the Tennessee Baptist State Convention for 1905 and the Baptist and Reflector, converts in Oklahoma cost four dollars more than they did in Tennessee that year. They would do more good by spending their money where it costs less to save a soul. We wonder if they will sing in heaven, "Thank the Missionaries and the liberal people for spending money to save our souls." Such perversions of God's word is common in these days. It seems that the people love to be humbugged.

C. H. C.

Predestinarian Baptist

PREDESTINARIAN BAPTIST

---September 8, 1908

We have before us Vol. 1, No. 1, of a paper called "Predestinarian Baptist," published by Elders C. M. Weaver and W. I. Camel. Elder Weaver is connected with a disorderly faction in Illinois, and was a leading figure in a division in the Bethel Association in that state a few years ago. Elder Camel was born and reared in West Tennessee, and we have known him for years. He was a leader in an unholy and sad division in our churches some years ago. The Baptists in our country nearly all know him, and he has no standing among our people. Neither of these men would be received by or in any of our churches. We note some of the principles they propose to stand for and teach in their paper, which have always been a source of strife, confusion, discord and division in every place and at every time they have been taught and advocated among them. We also note some of their inconsistencies. We feel it to be our indispensable duty to call the attention of our brethren to these things, and to raise a note of warning and cry of approaching danger to the brethren in sections where these things are likely to be introduced and bring more trouble into our beloved Zion.

This paper (the Predestinarian Baptist) proposes to advocate the doctrine of the absolute and unconditional predestination of all things that come to pass, the annihilation of the wicked, and that an experience of grace is the only thing necessary to obtain and retain membership in the church of Christ.

In an article copied from the "Advocate of Truth," and endorsed by Elder Weaver, this statement is found: "Now with these facts confronting us, witnessed by inspiration, we should not wonder that the Lord said to Daniel, 'The wicked shall do wickedly.' This is an expression of the decree of God. In this chapter and the one preceding it, the word shall, in speaking of the future acts of His creatures, is used as directed by Jehovah more than 150 times, and he prefaces the whole of it by saying, 'and now will I shew you the truth.' There is no uncertainty attending these shalls; and linguists tell us that 'will' used with the first person or 'shall' with the second or third person expresses determination." According to this statement, every time God says "you shall" or "they shall" or "thou shalt," it expresses God's determination-that God has determined it to be that way. If that be true, then some of God's determination fails. The Lord said to Adam, "But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it." -(Genesis 2:17). If the term, "thou shalt," or "you shall," expresses God's determination, as that article says, then God determined that Adam should not eat of that tree; but he did eat, and therefore God's determination was a failure. The Lord has also said. "Thou shalt not kill. Neither shalt thou commit adultery. Neither shalt thou steal. Neither shalt thou bear false witness against thy neighbor." -(Deuteronomy 5:17-20). According to the statement of the paper referred to above, God determined that these people should not kill, nor commit adultery, nor steal, nor bear false witness. Yet some do these things; hence, according to that position, God's determination or predestination is a failure.

Now, the truth of the matter is that the statement made in the paper is not correct. The word shall is sometimes used in making a statement of a fact, and sometimes in giving a command. In (Genesis 2:17) and in (Deuteronomy 5:17-20) it is used as a command. These were commands given by the Lord. In the statement, "the wicked shall do wickedly," is no expression whatever of God's determination or predestination. It is simply a true statement of a fact. Upon this principle the Scriptures harmonize. The predestination of God does not bear the same relation to sin and wickedness as it does to righteousness and holiness, and when no distinction is made in one's preaching or teaching on this line, trouble and confusion always follows.

If their position regarding the annihilation of the wicked be true, then the Baptists have been wrong all along the line. Our articles of faith are wrong, and the whole denomination, as a body, is wrong. This is the first and only paper we know of among us that in its first issue comes out squarely against our articles of faith, and openly repudiates an article which is accepted by nearly all who claim to be Old School Baptists. It is true that some have held this view as their private opinion, which has been allowed, and no quarrel raised. But in every case where it has been advocated, it has caused division. Many churches in Kansas were torn to pieces by the introduction and teaching of that doctrine among them. If that position be true, our whole denomination would have to be reformed and reconstructed. This cannot be done. They may be divided and their peace and union destroyed by the introduction of new measures and heresies, but they cannot be reconstructed. The Saviour said, in (Matthew 25:46), "And these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal." The same word which is translated eternal with reference to the life of the righteous is the word used in the original with reference to the punishment of the wicked. "These shall go away into aionion punishment: but the righteous into aionion life." If the life of the righteous is eternal, then the punishment of the wicked is eternal. If the punishment of the wicked ceases, then the life of the righteous will cease, for one is as lasting as the other. If their other contention be true, that an experience of grace is all that can be required of one in order that membership be had and one be retained in the church of Christ, then the church has no right to discipline her members. The position is in direct opposition to the very idea of discipline. If one has an experience, according to their position, no matter how badly he might conduct himself, the church would have no right to exclude him from their fellowship. When Elder Camel lived in our country and helped to divide our churches, we thought then that the doctrine he advocated was a cloak for wrong doing, and this looks to us as though it is the same thing.

The doctrine of grace presents no such things as this. The doctrine of the Bible teaches that we should live as becometh children of God, and that we should not have fellowship for those who do not. Such teaching as they have put forth in the first issue of their paper can only cause strife and division in every place where it obtains a footing, and it is the indispensable duty of the brethren everywhere to let the teachers of such things alone. It grieves us to feel the necessity of raising a warning cry against these things, but we feel that it is our duty, which it is if we are what we profess to be. Dear brethren, we beseech you, in the name of Christ, and for the sake of the peace, and union, and fellowship of the churches, to take warning. C. H. C.

2 Corinthians 4:3

(II Corinthians 4:3)

---September 8, 1908

We have been requested to give our views on (II Corinthians 4:3), which reads, "But if our gospel be hid, it is hid to them that are lost." The next verse reads, "In whom the god of this world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them." We think the apostle has reference to the children of God whose minds are blinded by the god or gods of this world. The good news of Christ is hid to them. They do not believe the gospel. They have an experimental knowledge of the Lord; but their minds are so blinded by false teachers and their teaching that the gospel in its purity and sweetness is hid to them. The Saviour says in (Matthew 13:15), "For this people's heart is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest at any time they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and should understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them." It is God's people whose heart waxes gross, and whose ears become dull of hearing, and who close their eyes to the truth. The heart of the unregenerate is desperately wicked, and does not become gross. He has no spiritual ears nor eyes to become dull or to close. The heart of a child of God may become gross, his ears dull of hearing, and his eyes closed. When he is in this condition the gospel of Christ, the glad tidings, is hid to him, and he is lost to its sweetness. When one is in this condition he is not converted from his errors, or from the ways of the world, and the light of the glad tidings does not shine unto him. It is hid to him, and he is lost in the darkness of the world, false theory, false religion, false doctrine, false practice, doubt and despair. Yet, notwithstanding his losing so much while journeying here as a pilgrim, he shall not be utterly cast down nor destroyed, for the Lord upholdeth him with His hand, and will at last take the poor wanderer home to Himself, where sorrows and troubles and afflictions will be no more.

C. H. C.

Revelation 22:18-19

---September 8, 1908

We have been requested to give our views on (Revelation 22:19). Verses 18 and 19 read, "For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book: and if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book." The book of life referred to in verse 19 may be the same as the tree of life referred to in verse 2 of the same chapter, and also in verse 14. The city, or holy city, is referred to in verse 14. The holy city is the church. The tree of life may be Christ in His manifest presence to His children in the church. Their part in the church is to have sweet delight in the realization and manifestation of His presence. They feed upon His promises, and sit with Him. But when they "take away from the words of the book of this prophecy," their part is taken away, and they have not the enjoyment of the presence of Jesus nor the comfort and sweetness of His presence to feed them. They have no place in the church or holy city. They do not sit with Jesus in His kingdom or church. The plagues are added and the joys and comforts of the Christian life are taken away.

C. H. C.

2 Peter 2:22

(II Peter 2:22)

---September 8, 1908

We have been requested to give our views on this text, which reads, "But it is happened unto them according to the true proverb, The dog is turned unto his own vomit again; and the sow that was washed to her wallowing in the mire." Peter says it happened unto some people according to the proverb, which he says is a true one. A dog will turn to his vomit and again eat that which he vomited up. A sow may be washed forty times, yet will wallow in the mud at every opportunity. Their natures are not changed. They have only the one nature, so with the unregenerate. They may make great professions and much outward show of cleanliness, but when convenient opportunity presents itself, and they think they may not be found out or caught in their wickedness, they will wallow in the filth again and will again eat the sins that they have professed to hate. It is their nature, for the nature has not been changed, and they have no holy nature. God's people are sheep. A sheep will not wallow in the filth and mire. C. H. C.

1 Peter 2:13

---September 8, 1908

We have been requested to give our views on this text, which reads, "Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake:

whether it be to the king, as supreme;" verse 14, "or unto governors, as unto them that are sent by Him for the punishment of evildoers, and for the praise of them that do well." This teaches us that God's people should be a law-abiding people; that we should be subject to kings and governors, and obey their laws, commandments and ordinances in all things and in all matters not contrary to the commands of our God. We should obey the laws of our country in all respects where conscience is not interfered with.
C. H. C.

Romans 8:1

---October 6, 1908

We do not think Paul's expression in Romans, "There is therefore now no condemnation to them who are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit," has reference to obedience, or that the Lord's people are not condemned because they walk after the Spirit. We believe it is true that there is a sense in which the children of God are condemned when they disobey, but we do not think this text is treating upon that subject. The apostle continues the expression, and tells why there is no condemnation to them who are in Christ Jesus, "For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death."
This is why they are not condemned. We offer this in kindness. C. H. C.

IS IT TRUE?-SOMETHING NEW

---October 20, 1908

I am told that the long agitated question among Missionaries as to whether the boards control the churches or the churches control the boards a year ago at New Albany, Miss., assumed a new shape. E. L. Wesson, former editor of The Expositor and Journal, of Memphis, which paper was sold to J. B. Cranfill, the leading editor of the Board party, who at that time was editor of the Baptist Tribune, to which Elder E. L. Wesson became field editor, and afterwards pastor. While pastor at New Albany this same F. L. Wesson, endorsed by all the leading board people, ordered a former member of New Albany Baptist Church to sit down. The member of the church turned to the church and said, "I appeal to the church." These five words and no more. The episode is too long to record. The Lowreys, of Blue Mountain College, I N. Penick, and the Baptist Flag endorse and honor F. L. Wesson. The question I want to ask THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST to answer is, Is that the private opinion of these great men, or will they publicly say what they have privately done, namely, "No man has the right to say to a Baptist church, 'I appeal to the church?'" Or, in other words, Is the authority in the preacher or in the church?

F. L. Wesson is counted authority, and his associates stand high, too. An open debate might be healthy, too, as lawyers are not informed and differ about the legal phase of the case.

This was done in regular conference under a regular motion. A SUBSCRIBER.

REMARKS

We do not know what these men will say publicly, but we do know what the practice of the Missionary Baptist Church is. The boards control the churches, and the preachers are the bosses. It is true also that they have usually claimed that the church controls. but their practice has not been that way. Read the constitution of the Southern Baptist Convention for evidence that the churches do not control.

C. H. C.

NO MISREPRESENTATION

---October 20, 1908

Elder C. M. Weaver says in the Predestinarian Baptist of October 1: "Now before you undertake to injure us and the Predestinarian Baptist, I think it would be more becoming of you and would look much more like the right spirit for you to first take up our articles of faith and prove them untrue by the Bible, and show that we are not occupying primitive grounds. Will you do this, or will you continue to misrepresent us and poison the minds of the brethren against us?" In this you charge us with misrepresenting you. We deny the charge and demand the proof.

It is not necessary to take up one's articles of faith and prove them untrue in order to prove that he does not teach the truth, for some people sometimes teach things that are not in harmony with their articles of faith. We did refer to statements you made and some you endorsed, and if those statements were not your teaching then there is nothing in language.

But Elder Weaver teaches that God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated from all eternity all things that come to pass. He now accuses us of misrepresenting him. If we did as he accuses us. and if his teaching is true, then God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated from all eternity that we should misrepresent him. Then why complain at us? Are you not complaining at God's predestination?

He says that it would be more becoming of us to do another way than the way he says we did. Then we suppose it would have been more becoming of us if we had done differently to the way God predestinated we should do. If God predestinated that we should do the way we did, then we suppose He predestinated that we should not do some other way. So Elder Weaver thinks it would have been becoming of us to do what God predestinated we should not do. He seems to think it was unbecoming of us because we were carrying out God's predestination.

Elder Weaver indirectly accuses us of believing the Missionary Baptist doctrine, which he knows is untrue. He knows that the Missionary Baptists teach that the receiving of eternal life is conditional on the part of the alien sinner, and he also knows that we do not teach this. Hence his charge is without foundation, and he certainly knows it. Elder Weaver also intimates that he would like to have a debate. Have you a man that your brethren will endorse as an honorable man and able to set forth your doctrine and defend it? And will he affirm that "The Scriptures teach that God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated from all eternity all things whatsoever cometh to pass, both good and bad?" If you have the man and he will affirm that proposition, and you want a debate, we are sure you can be accommodated.

C. H. C.

FAIRCHILD PEACE PROPOSITION

---October 27, 1908

Some time ago we received a copy of a "Peace Proposition," by Elder J. W. Fairchild, editor of the Footprints of the Flock. Several brethren have asked us what we think of it, so we feel called upon to express our opinion of it publicly. We would have done so before this time, but we have been so far behind with our work that we could find little time to write.

We will now say plainly that we do not endorse the move, and do not endorse some of the points brought out in the proposition, besides the proposition does not appear to us to be in harmony with itself. Not only is this true, but Elder Fairchild has been a leader in advocating the things that caused the division among us on predestination and common or time salvation. In 1905 Elder Fairchild made a trip to Texas and went among those who denounce our brethren as "Bildads," "Arminians," etc. The following is a sample of what Elder Fairchild himself said of our brethren in Texas: There was one addition to the church at this association, and another one baptized who had joined some time before. The one who joined was L. E. Skinner. Brother Skinner had been a Missionary Baptist preacher, but becoming convinced that the Old School Baptists are the church of God, he sought a home among them. Not understanding the difference between the true and so-called Baptists in Texas, he joined the "Bar Baptists," or Webb faction, but soon found that they are more bitter enemies to the truth and its advocates than the Missionaries themselves.

This is a short extract from what Elder Fairchild said of our Texas brethren, and as we stand with them in doctrine, so far as we know, we feel that it includes us. Here he calls the true and faithful advocates of truth in Texas a faction, and "more bitter enemies to the truth and its advocates than the Missionary Baptists." We do not understand why Elder Fairchild would want fellowship with us while he considers us such bitter enemies to the truth. Does he want fellowship with the Missionaries too? If not, why not-seeing he asks us to fellowship him, while he considers us more bitter enemies to the truth than the Missionaries.

In another place in this paper is an article written by Elder Fairchild in 1896 and a reply written by Elder Lemuel Potter. We copy them from the Church Advocate of June, 1896. We think Elder Fairchild should retract a little before asking the brethren to fellowship him with his teaching.

When Elder Fairchild asks us to fellowship him and his teaching, with those who stand with him, and who advocate the same doctrine he has been advocating, we are asked to fellowship such teaching as the following: In the Bethel church trial in the Circuit Court of Graves county, Ky., Elder R. H. Boaz' deposition was taken in February, 1897. This question was put to Elder Boaz: "You will please state whether or not you believe that man has the power to will or to do sinful acts unless God purposed and predestinated that he should do those sinful acts?" His reply was: "I answer again that the purpose or predestination of God, according to our belief on the subject, has nothing to do with the shaping of man's will; but that man has not the power to will or to do anything that thwarts God's purpose or predestination.

I ANSWER THAT MAN HAS NOT THE POWER TO WILL OR TO DO A SINFUL ACT UNLESS GOD PREDESTINATED AND WILLED THAT HE SHOULD DO IT. For I believe that God purposed or decreed all things whatsoever cometh to pass." (The emphasis is ours.) When it comes to this, we must beg to be excused. If we must believe this in order to be a Primitive Baptist, we confess we are not one.

In Elder Fairchild's article concerning his trip in Texas, from which the above extract is quoted, he says they have been persecuted and falsely accused. In his peace proposition he says, "We unconditionalists (a great many of us at least) have learned that we were mistaken concerning the views of our conditional brethren: that they do not hold that God's regenerated people have the ability to obey independent of the Spirit, and by obedience merit blessings." In all candor we would ask why has anyone ever understood us to teach that God's people had the ability to obey independent of the Spirit? Elder Fairchild and those who have stood with him have charged us with believing and teaching this, but we have always denied it, and have always argued that it is THROUGH THE SPIRIT that they are able to obey.

He also says in his peace proposition that the bars of fellowship were set up by those who believe in limited predestination and conditional time salvation. This may be true so far as he knows; but if so, his knowledge is limited.

In our country we begged and plead and labored for peace; we begged that these things not be made a test of fellowship nor made a hobby of, but our pleadings were all in vain. It was said that we were heretics and should be rejected. If we were heretics then, we are heretics now, for we stand now just where we did then.

We would like to know if Elder Fairchild believes as Elder Boaz stated his belief in his deposition quoted from above? We do not believe what Elder Boaz said he believed, and beg to be excused when we are asked to fellowship it. Elder Fairchild says in his peace proposition that "so long as real differences exist between us there will be confusion, and peace will never be brought about by crying, "Peace, peace, where there is no peace." If he believes as Elder Boaz, then there is a real difference existing between us, and Elder Fairchild says "so long as real differences exist between us there will be confusion." Then, why not let us alone and let us have peace? Do you want to be among us again in order to have more confusion? As sore as the doctrine is preached among us again that caused the confusion before, it would cause the same thing again. The churches in our country are in peace, and they do not want that doctrine preached among them.

Elder Fairchild further says in his peace proposition, "But there can be no acceptable service rendered to God only that which is the fruit of the Spirit; therefore their obedience depends not on their own volition, but upon the Spirit of God. We 'work out our own salvation with fear and trembling.' We do the work; but the reason we work out our salvation is because 'God works in us, both to will and to do of His good pleasure.'" If the child of God has no volition in rendering obedience, then there is no obedience rendered. The windmill turns, but it does not do so voluntarily. It does not obey. The service which God accepts is a willing service, rendered from a principle of love. "If his offering be a burnt sacrifice of the herd, let him offer a male without blemish: he shall offer it of his own voluntary will at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the Lord." - (Leviticus 1:3). This was for the children of Israel. True, the offerings and sacrifices made under the law represented the offering which Christ should make for the sins of His people, yet it is necessary for us to make a sacrifice now in order that we render true and acceptable service to the Lord. As the sacrifices made then must be made willingly, so must they be thus made now. If they are made grudgingly they are not acceptable before the Lord. He requires a willing service. Hence there must be some volition. It is also true, however, that volition, or will, springs from life. A will for natural things springs from the natural life; so a will for holiness and righteousness springs from the divine life which God implants within the soul by the direct work of His Spirit. When this is done we are required to render this willing service.

Again, Elder Fairchild says in his proposition, "And should any do what Christ commands, hoping thereby to obtain a reward, they would be the servants of self, seeking their own welfare and not the glory of God. All such service is selfish, and can never be well pleasing in the sight of God." David says, "The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes. The fear of the Lord is clean, enduring forever: the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.

More to be desired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold: sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb. Moreover by them is thy servant warned, and in keeping of them there is great reward." - (Psalms 19:8-11). If there is no sense in which we should render service to the Lord in hope of reward, why would David use this language? The reader will please turn and read ((8) (Proverbs 11:18); ((21) (25:21-22); ((0:41) (Matthew 10:41-42); (I Corinthians 3:8); ((23) (Colossians 3:23-25); (Hebrews 11:6). The Saviour says, "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light." - (Matthew 11:28-30). The reward or rest is what the weary and heavy laden is longing for, and in this text he is expressly told by the Saviour to take His yoke and he shall find that reward of rest which he is longing for.

We wonder if Elder Fairchild was not laboring under a heavy burden before he went before the church and related what he hoped the Lord had done for him? And we wonder if he did not go to the church hoping to find relief there? If so, was he not hoping for a reward or rest in doing this? And we wonder if the Lord was pleased with this act of his? Again, we wonder if he did not begin preaching hoping to find rest-hoping for a reward? We wonder if he would continue preaching if he was as well satisfied when he is not thus engaged? Then, does he not continue preaching in the hope of continually finding that rest-hoping to continually receive the reward? Unless he can receive our views, then there is a difference existing between us. These things are what Elders Boaz, Perkins & Co., have continually called Arminianism in this country. There are certainly a great many commandments, admonitions and exhortations in the Scriptures. The Arminians have always applied them to the alien or unregenerate sinner. The Old Baptists have always said they belong to the child of God. Instead, therefore, of being Arminianism, it is what we have always used to defeat them and to overthrow their positions and arguments. We stand on the same old platform, and have no other place to go, neither do we desire any. May the Lord help us all to stand in that way, and help us to watch as well as pray.
C. H. C.

NO FELLOWSHIP

---October 27, 1908

The Predestinarian Baptist of Oct. 1, 1908, has an editorial over the signature of W., which we presume to be Elder C. M. Weaver, which says: "We never met Elder Fairchild, but have known of him for several years; and have always known him to be a Baptist of the old sort and one that would stick." He put out a declaration of his faith on predestination and time salvation some time ago and requested all who could stand with him to notify him. I have read his declaration of principles and find them to be just what I believe and teach, and I take this method of saying to him, I join you heart and hand on the doctrine of unlimited predestination and salvation unconditional and all of grace. * * * I am ready to walk with any of God's children in the truth, but I cannot and will not walk a single day on this earth with 'conditional time salvation,' the doctrine of chance, or any other that seeks to rob God of His glory. I want to walk with him who walks with God." Now, Elder Fairchild, there you have it, precisely! Do any of the "unconditionalists" declare non-fellowship? What do you say now? And does not Elder Weaver's statement have in it that those brethren who believe what they call "conditional time salvation" also believe in a chance system, and a system that seeks to rob God of His glory? Is not this enough?

C. H. C.

INFANT SALVATION

---November 17, 1908

In this issue of this paper is a letter from Brother James A Leake, in which he requests our views on infant salvation. He says the Arminians argue that the Primitive Baptists preach infant damnation. This old story has been told on the Primitive Baptists until it has become stale and gray-headed. No honest well informed person makes such a charge against the Primitive Baptists. The person who does it is either willfully ignorant or maliciously falsifies.

In (0:15) (Mark 10:15) the Saviour says, "Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein." This teaches us that the adult is saved the very same way that a little child is saved. Some may say that it teaches that we (adults) must become just like a little child in order that we be saved. Very good; if it teaches that, then it follows that when we become as a little child, there is nothing that will prevent our salvation. If there is nothing that will prevent our salvation when we are just like a little child, then there is nothing that will prevent the salvation of the little child. The little child is perfectly helpless and dependent. So are we. The little child is saved because of the blessing which Jesus bestows. We are saved the same way.

C. H. C.

Genesis 3:22-24

---November 17, 1908

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother in the Lord-Will you kindly give me your views on (Genesis 3:22) through the columns of your paper?

DANIEL MILLER.

Louisville, Miss., R. 5.

REMARKS

(Genesis 3:22-24) reads, "And the Lord God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil: and now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live forever: therefore the Lord God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken. So He drove out the man; and He placed at the east of the garden of Eden Cherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life." In verse 5 the tempter had said, "For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil." Notice, "ye shall be as gods," not as God, but as false gods, which are plural, more than one. The Lord is God of gods, Lord of lords, and King of kings. Now, since man has violated the law, he knows evil. He knew the good before, but now he knows both good and evil-hence "is become as one of us" -not as I am, but as one of us. Then the Lord God sent him forth from the garden to till the ground, "lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live forever." Then the Lord placed the Cherubims and flaming sword to keep the way of the tree of life. These have never been removed, and to this day they keep the way of the tree of life, so that man cannot put forth his hand and take of that tree and eat and live forever. Hence the sinner cannot be saved by his own effort.

C. H. C.

A DOUBLE MINDED MAN

---November 24, 1908

Start Brother Daniel Revs, Capital Hill, Okla., requests our views on (James 1:8), "A double minded man is unstable in all his ways." A double minded man is one who is wavering; he is always changing; he is unstable; undecided. He is not settled in his mind. He tries one position a short time, then another. He may stay with the Old Baptists a while, then go to another church or denomination; but he doesn't stay long-he soon comes back. But he is not fully decided; he soon goes again to the other denomination. Still, he is not settled. He may soon come back again; and so, on and on. He is unstable, unsettled in his mind as to who is right or as to where he belongs. This is a double minded man.

C. H. C.

THE SOUL AFTER DEATH

---November 24, 1908

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: I would like to have your views about the soul after the death of the body. Is it a living substance with knowledge of what is going on in this world?

J. C. HARRIS

Franklin, Ky.

REMARKS

The soul is a living entity which exists after the death of the body. Moses died, and the Lord buried him. His body was buried; but on the mount of transfiguration the Saviour talked with Moses and Elias in the presence of Peter, James and John. This being true, the soul of Moses was a living entity.

The Saviour told the disciples not to fear those who could do no more than to kill the body, but to fear Him that is able to destroy BOTH soul and body in hell. In Revelation we are told that John saw the souls of them under the altar of God who were beheaded for the testimony of the Lord. They were crying, "How long, oh, how long," etc. This being true, the soul must be a living entity which exists after the death of the body. We do not know how much they know, and we would, therefore, rather not express any opinion on that point. Some brethren hold that they do know all that is going on here, while others think that they do not. Perhaps much of that is only speculation. There is enough clearly revealed, and what is not revealed is beyond us. We can only speculate on that, and our speculation will not do others any good. C. H. C.

Deuteronomy 6:6-7

---November 24, 1903

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Please give your views on (Deuteronomy 6:6-7), "And these words, which I command thee this day, shall be in thine heart: and thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou heat down, and when thou risest up."

Pray for me, as I feel I need your prayers. Your unworthy brother, L. O. CARR.

R. 2, Butler Springs, Ala.

REMARKS

These words which the Lord commanded were the commandments, the statutes and the judgments which the Lord commanded that Israel might do them. See verses 1 to 5. These people should continue to teach the law to their children, not to make them their children, but because they were theirs. The law was to be taught them because they were Israelites. So, there is a teaching now, not to make people children of God. The Lord teaches the experimental lesson Himself. Then there is a gospel teaching for His children, and His ministers are required to teach this gospel lesson to God's people, and not to the unregenerate. C. H. C.

THE SCAPEGOAT

---November 24, 1908

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-I would like for you to give your views on what the scapegoat represents, and who he represents, if not asking too much of you. May God bless you all, is my prayer.

Yours in love,

ARTHUR GREENHILL

Daily, Ala.

REMARKS

In the offering in which there was a scapegoat, two goats were used. See (Leviticus 16). Both these goats represented the work of Christ in His atonement and sacrifice for sin. One of the goats was slain. So was Christ slain. The priest laid his hands on the head of the scapegoat and confessed the sins of Israel on the head of that goat, then the goat was carried away by a fit man into the land of forgetfulness. Our sins were laid on Christ; see ((3:6) (Isaiah 53:6). He bore our sins in His own body on the tree; see (I Peter 2:24). He put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself; see (Hebrews 9:26). The scapegoat, therefore, represented the work of Christ in carrying our sins away into the land of forgetfulness, where they will be remembered against us no more. Our sins are, therefore, atoned for, satisfaction is made for them; and they are also all borne away, in the work of Christ. C. H. C.

CLOSE OF VOLUME TWENTY-THREE

---December 22, 1908

The twenty-third volume of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST closes with this issue. It has now been published continuously for twenty-three years, without any suspension-hence it has not been "revived." The first issue of the paper was sent out the first of January, 1886, by our dear lamented father, Elder S. F. Cayce, and has never been suspended and then "revived." The writer has been connected with the paper nearly all the time since September 1st, 1886, in one capacity or another. Since the death of our dear father in August, 1905, we have been trying in our weakness to fill the place of editor. We were aware that it was a hard place to fill, but never realized the extent of it until the burden fell upon our shoulders. We have labored arduously and incessantly since that time, feeling that the responsibility is so great and there is so much to do that we have no time to lose. We do not dare claim, for a moment, that we have made no mistakes, for we realize keenly that we have made many of them. We are sure we know this as well as our readers do. We do not claim perfection for ourselves nor for others, yet our own mistakes give us more trouble than the mistakes other people make. It is our desire to profit by the mistakes we have made in the past, and to try to avoid the same mistakes in the future. But we are forgetful and short-sighted creatures, and sometimes make the same mistake more than once. We trust all our readers, especially the dear brethren and sisters, will throw the mantle of charity over all our imperfections, and pardon every mistake we have made, and bear with us in our weakness.

We are well aware of the fact that THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST is not being conducted to suit some people. Because we have condemned the practices of some they say we publish "wrangling" articles. Of course with some people everything is "wrangling" unless it coincides perfectly with some new-fangled notion of their own. If we were to open our columns to the defense and advocacy of those new measures and new practices, then it would not be "wrangling" in their estimation. We have been censured because we have allowed our columns to be used in condemning the new measures introduced by some among our people in different sections of the country. But THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST is being published in defense of Primitive Baptist principles and practice, and it is an obligation we feel resting upon us to condemn every wrong and false way, even though that way be introduced among our own people. One editor has even gone so far as to threaten in a private letter to us to take his "fighting gloves" off and "go at it" in earnest. "None of these things move us. We feel that we have endeavored to discharge our duty along this line, and if God has required this at our hands, the anathemas of men concern us very little. Young, ambitious men may continue to start their little "journals," and dictate to others how they should conduct an Old Baptist paper, and publish many "Don'ts" for their older brethren who are wearing themselves out in the service, but by the Lord's help we shall endeavor to continue to publish The PRIMITIVE BAPTIST in defense of the time honored principles of our fathers, and in defense of our dear precious old brethren who have stood in the heat of the battles and have borne the burdens of the day. God bless our dear, precious old brethren. They have been a comfort and consolation to us, and they are yet. We have been trying in our weakness to preach the unsearchable riches of Christ for about eighteen years (it has been, we think, about eighteen years since we made the first effort), and the dear old fathers in Israel have been kind and good to us, and have so kindly "nursed" us during these years. We love those of them who are yet spared to us, and the memory of those who have already crossed over the river is cherished by us. We trust the Lord may so keep us that we may never speak unkindly of them. We have, amidst all the conflicts and censures, been much comforted and encouraged by the many words and letters of commendation from dear brethren and sisters in different portions of the country. We receive many letters of commendation from the North, South, East and West. This has been a great comfort and encouragement to us. At times we have felt to be greatly discouraged, but perhaps the mail would bring a letter of commendation, containing words of cheer, from some dear brother or sister, perhaps in a distant place, which would revive our drooping spirit and help us to take courage to "fight on" a little while longer. Were it not for the many expressions we receive from the dear brethren and sisters endorsing the principles contended for in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, and telling how they have been comforted and encouraged by reading its columns, we feel that we would have given up in despair. We cannot tell how much your kind words and sweet letters have benefited us.

Whether THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST has been conducted to the glory of God or not, we must leave our brethren and sisters to judge. We can only say that it has been our humble desire to conduct the paper in such a way as to comfort and benefit the Lord's dear tempest-tossed children, and to the glory of God, and to contend for the ancient order of the gospel and for the order of God's house.

Now, we kindly bid our readers farewell for the year 1908. Before another issue of the paper is sent out, this year will be a thing of the past. It has brought its sorrows, trials and conflicts, as well as its joys and pleasures. May our dear Saviour manifest His sweet presence to our every reader, and may His grace sustain you in all your trials and conflicts, is our humble prayer. We beg our dear readers to please remember us in all your petitions at a throne of grace. Pray the Lord to strengthen us for the trials of the coming year, that we may be enabled to conduct THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST in such a way as to be well pleasing to our adorable Lord.

C. H. C.

1909

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME TWENTY-FOUR

---January 5, 1909

With this issue we begin the publication of the twenty-fourth volume of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. The old year, with its joys and sorrows, is numbered with the past, and the new year of 1909 has been ushered in. We know not what this year has in store for us. We cannot see into the future. Yet we are sure, if we may judge the future by the past, that there will be difficulties to surmount and trials to endure. There is "a thorn for every rose," and a sorrow for every joy. Day is always succeeded by the night. Hence we are aware that all will not be pleasure. There will be battles for some of us to fight. We should fight the good fight of faith, as valiant soldiers of the cross. We should put on the whole armor of God. The Lord has given His little children sufficient weapons for use in the warfare. He has prepared for them "for an helmet the hope of salvation, the breastplate of righteousness, the shield of faith, the sword of the Spirit," and "their feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace." A helmet is a headdress, something to be worn on the head. The blessed hope the Lord has given keeps us from giving up in despair.

The breastplate protects the breast. The righteousness our blessed Lord has wrought out for His little children protects them from the destructive darts or arrows of the wicked one.

A shield is worn on the arm, and is to be held between the wearer and the enemy to ward off the thrusts of the enemy. The Lord has prepared for His little children the shield of faith. Then He has given them a sword to use in the other hand. There is something for both hands to do. There is enough to keep our minds engaged. Our affections also should be set on things above, not on things on the earth.

The feet also have something to do. We should walk right. The feet are shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace. Oh, how careful we should be.

The Lord has been so kind, merciful and good to us, that we feel to be under renewed obligations to serve and to try to honor Him. Our humble desire is to try to honor Him both in speaking and writing. We desire to "earnestly contend for the faith once delivered to the saints" both in preaching and in writing. Of course we believe the Primitive Baptist doctrine to be the doctrine of God our Saviour, and our humble desire is to continue to contend for and defend that doctrine. So far as the doctrine and the principles are concerned which we have contended for in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST we have no apology to offer, and we expect, by the help of the Lord, to continue to contend for and to maintain those same principles during this year, if the Lord should spare our life. Those principles are dearer and more precious to us year by year, and month by month, week by week, and day by day. We are willing to live by them and we hope to be willing to die by them. They are good enough to live by, and they are good enough to die by.

-----*

Just here we wish to ask all to please stop sending us articles for publication concerning your local church troubles. Such things are neither comforting nor interesting to the household of faith. Our enemies may be glad to hear of such things, but we want to publish such things as will have a tendency to make the brotherhood feel glad. So please do not write about your church troubles, but if you have a good meeting, and if there are some additions to your church, write a short letter about that. It will be good news, and all the brethren will be glad to read it.

Now, we ask all to continue taking the paper, and to send us all the new subscribers you possibly can. We appreciate every effort that has been made by the brethren and sisters in this way, and only trust they will continue to help us in this respect. But more than this, we desire an interest in your prayers that the Lord may enable us to conduct the paper in such a way as to be a benefit to His people, and not bring reproach upon His cause, and that His name may be honored and glorified, and that we may be sustained by Him in our labors to that end. C. H. C.

OUR TRIP WEST

---January 12, 1909

We left home on Tuesday night, October 20th, starting on our trip in Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas. We were gone just nine weeks, arriving home on Tuesday night, December 22nd, finding all as well as usual. We traveled between 2,000 and 3,000 miles, and filled appointments in the three states.

We met many dear brethren and sisters who formerly lived in Tennessee and Mississippi and whom we knew in years gone by, besides meeting many we had never before met. We enjoyed many pleasant seasons, were present at many good meetings, and met many dear brethren in the ministry whose faces we had not seen until we met them on this trip. We found the brethren to be generally united on the fundamental principles of the gospel, satisfied with the plain and simple worship of the gospel, and content with the order of God's house. They love the truth, and want to hear it proclaimed in its purity and simplicity.

There were some additions to the churches at some places. Two were baptized at Bald Knob, Ark. The churches generally seemed to be alive and prosperous, though at a few places it appeared that zeal was lacking to some extent. However, it was a busy time in many places, and no doubt this was the cause of the seeming lack of zeal sometimes.

We enjoyed the trip very much. The brethren received us kindly, and made us feel welcome and at home among them. We shall always remember them and cannot forget their many deeds of kindness shown to us.

We would be glad to give a more extended account of the trip, but time and space forbids it now. We hope to have the privilege of visiting them again some time, if the Lord wills, and hope to be remembered by them in their prayers.

C. H. C.

OUR TRIP IN AUGUST

---January 12, 1909

We have had so much work on our hands that we did not take the time to write anything about this trip. We left home on July 31st, and filled appointments in the bounds of the Fountain Creek Association, closing at Lynnville on Tuesday after the second Sunday in August. At County Line Church, on the second Sunday, we tried to preach the funeral of Elder J. M. Johnson and his mother and brother, which has already been mentioned by others in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. From Lynnville we went to Knoxville, Tenn., and attended the Powell's Valley Association. It was a season of refreshing. Love and fellowship seemed to abound. The preaching was all a unit.

From there we went to Byesville, Ohio, and attended the Muskingum Association. This is the home of our dear old brother, Elder C. J. Carmichael. The ministers present were Walter Cash, C. P. Beadle, A. S. Shoemaker, J. C. Hanover, I C. Williams, L. V Hite, J. R. Wilson, U. G. Porter, W. M. Shoemaker, Frank McGlade, Thos. Cole, C. J. Carmichael,---Neal, and another brother, from Pennsylvania, whose name we have forgotten. The meeting was pleasant indeed. This was our first time to meet Elder Cash, but we trust it may not be the last. We had the pleasure of his company for several days, as he went with us to some other places.

We had the pleasure of again visiting Falls of Licking, Hebron and Newark, then to Greenfield Ind. We were later arriving there than they expected, but we had a pleasant little meeting there. The same afternoon we went on to Indianapolis. We had the sweet pleasure of again associating with our dear brother, Elder John R. Daily, in his home and church, and also met Elder E. E. Lundy, of North Carolina, whom we learned to love.

Then we filled appointments at Salem, Abners Creek, Palestine, Danville, Friendship, Roachdale and Crawfordsville, in the order named. At Danville we met Elder E. D. Thomas, who is pastor of the church. We had the pleasure of meeting Elder L. T. Buchanan for the first time, and again being at the home of Elder J. H. Oliphant. From Crawfordsville we went to the Muddy River Association, which was held near Eldorado, Ill. We do not call to mind the names of all the ministers present, so will not try to give their names. The preaching was in power and in the spirit of the Master. After this meeting closed we went to Cottonwood, Norris City, Carmi, and Crossville and enjoyed some sweet meetings at these places. Then we attended the Skillet Fork Association at the "old" church near Crossville, on Friday, Saturday and second Sunday in September. This was a very pleasant meeting. We are not sure that we remember the names of all the ministers present, so will not try to mention them. But we enjoyed the meeting generally, and shall not soon forget it. From this meeting we returned home. We shall not forget the many acts of kindness bestowed upon us at the many places we went. We are no more than a little servant in the Master's cause, and feel to deserve so little of the many acts of kindness bestowed upon us. C. H. C.

ACCUSATION ANSWERED

---January 12, 1909

C. H. Cayce, the Hardshell editor, accuses me of being insincere because I believe that God's decrees do not conflict with man's freedom. If I am insincere because I believe this, the greatest Baptists of all ages of the world would have been insincere. No Baptist ever thought of teaching that God's sovereignty conflicts in any sense with human instrumentality and responsibility until the Hardshells began preaching it in the nineteenth century. Mr. Cayce had better accuse the Apostle Peter of being insincere; for Peter certainly teaches this very thing in Acts 2:23. "The legs of the lame are unequal." -W. A. Gaugh, Jackson, Tenn., in Baptist Builder, Oct. 28, 1908.

We made no such accusation as the above. Mr. Gaugh was once a member of the Primitive Baptist Church. While among us, at one time, he argued that God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated everything that comes to pass, both good, bad and indifferent, and that there were no such things as conditions in the Bible. He argued, not only that the receiving of eternal life is unconditional upon the part of the sinner, but that the blessings bestowed upon, and the happiness of, the child of God in this life are also unconditional-just as much so as the receiving of eternal life. We asked him if he ever had any arguments with Arminians-Missionary Baptists, Methodists and others-and he replied in the affirmative. We then quoted a few passages of Holy Writ and asked him, "What do you do with such passages as these when you are in a dispute with an Arminian and he quotes them in order to prove his position, that eternal life is conditional?" Mr. Gaugh replied, "I acknowledge that when I get into an argument with them I have to take your position."

Now, this is the charge we made, and we reaffirm it, that Mr. Gaugh admitted that he would take a position which he did not believe, and argue it, just to gain a point or to gain a victory. We have no patience with such handling the word of God deceitfully-and we gave him to understand as much at the time. It seems to us that an honest man should be honest in handling the word of God.

C. H. C.

FEET WASHING NOT A TEST

---January 19, 1909

The following is an extract from some remarks; the other part of the article is not reproduced because it cannot be of any special interest now:

The Primitive Baptists of the United States, as a body, have not made feet washing a test of fellowship. As a body, they have contended that it is taught and should be practiced; but as a rule it has not been made a test of fellowship. If every shade of difference, and every different custom, and every different view are made tests of fellowship, the Primitive Baptists would, at this time, in the United States, be divided into more factions than there are states in the Union. C. H. C.

WHO IS RIGHT?

---January 19, 1909

The brethren have at last gotten Brother Cayce aroused enough to join in with them in charging that boards boss, or control, churches. Many times over has this charge been disproven since the Hardshell split off, and still it is made.-Baptist Builder, Oct. 28, 1908.

Very well, some of your own people claim to prove that the conventions and boards do control the churches. It is just like "Katy did; Katy didn't" among you. Now whom shall we believe? The boards and conventions among your people manage and control their missionary operations as they please, and the churches have no "say so" in it. It is simply "submit or get out." If it is not that way, show us.

C. H. C.

NO NON-FELLOWSHIP

---January 26, 1909

We wish to inform you of an expression of sentiment that carried unanimously by rising vote, at our last church session, viz., "That we move out of the way all unscriptural bars to Christian fellowship." This very expression carries with it the idea that such bars did exist and as you can readily see it is sweeping and far reaching. We have not yet determined just what it shall embrace. We guess the re-baptizing will in a measure cease.-Jas. Ragan, in Apostolic Herald, Dec. 1, 1908.

REMARKS

The above clipping from the Apostolic Herald refers to a resolution in a Burnamite church. Elder Kirkland, editor of the Herald, is now affiliated with the Burnam people. You see they have not yet determined just what the resolution shall embrace, although it says that they are "going to move out of the way all unscriptural bars to Christian fellowship." Of course if they have any unscriptural bars up they ought to move them out of the way. But we suppose they mean that they are going to move all bars to Christian fellowship out of the way, and that they are going to fellowship anything in the name of Christianity, whether it is Scriptural or not. We also judge that they are deciding to receive members without administering baptism to them. We have no objection to their decision, for they cannot administer gospel baptism, for they lack the proper authority; but the Primitive Baptists will continue to move on in the even tenor of the way commanded of the Lord in receiving none into their communion who are unsound in the faith, and rejecting those who introduce among them the inventions of men, and will continue to baptize those who are received into their communion, no matter if the so-called liberal parties do call us narrow minded. C. H. C.

AWAY FROM HOME

---January 26, 1909

We left home on Monday morning, January 11, for Chattanooga, Tenn., to engage in a discussion with Mr. F. B. Srygley, who represented the Campbelites. The discussion was held in the Cumberland Presbyterian meeting house, and continued from Monday night to Saturday night inclusive. A large crowd was in attendance each night, considering the fact that the weather was disagreeable some of the time. The discussion passed off very pleasantly, and we left the brethren all rejoicing.

On Sunday morning we left Chattanooga for Griffin, Ga., arriving there at about 1:30, where we met Elder Lee Hanks. Had meeting there that night and Sister Hamilton came forward and related a reason of her hope in the Saviour and was received as a candidate for baptism, which is to be attended to at their next regular meeting. From Griffin we went to Emmaus church, near Thomaston, Ga. Then to Mt. Carmel on Tuesday and at Roberta on Tuesday night. Elder S. T. Bentley was with us at Mt. Carmel, his home church, and at Roberta. We had very pleasant meetings at these places.

We left Roberta this morning and came to Macon. We are now with Elders Lee Hanks and J. A. Monsees, at the home of Elder Hanks in Macon.

This is Wednesday, January 20.

C. H. C.

STILL IN GEORGIA

---February 9, 1909

In our last issue appeared a short editorial in which we stated that we were at the home of Elder Lee Hanks at the time we were doing the writing. That was on Wednesday, January 20. We had meeting that night at Bethlehem Church in Macon.

On Tuesday we visited Cool Spring Church, near Danville, Ga., Elder Hanks going with us. At this church we had the pleasure of meeting Elder W. W. Howell, and enjoyed a pleasant meeting with his church and people.

On Friday we were at Mt. Zion Church, near Norristown, Ga. Elder John M. Thompson was with us here, and we once more enjoyed the sweet privilege of hearing him preach an able discourse in defense of the time-honored principles loved by the Primitive Baptists. It was a great pleasure to have the privilege of being with Brother Thompson again, although we were with him so short a time. We also had the pleasure of meeting Elders Mooring and H. Meeks at this church. Elder Hanks was also with us here. He went from here with Elder Thompson to his next appointments.

On Saturday and Sunday we were at Hebron Church, near Garfield, Ga. For the first time we had the pleasure of meeting Elders Lonnie Holloway, of Graymont, Ga., and W. M. Bullard, of Phoenix City, Ala. We enjoyed hearing Elder Bullard preach both days. He earnestly contends for the ancient landmarks "which our fathers have set," and wants none of them removed. We also had the pleasure of again meeting Elder S. M. Anderson, who has been the faithful pastor of this church for about thirty-one years, if we are not mistaken in regard to the length of the time.

On Monday we went to Old Canoochee Church, about two or three miles from Graymont, Ga., where we had a pleasant meeting indeed. Sister Pauline Kingery came forward, when the opportunity was given by Elder S. M. Anderson at the request of the brethren, and related a reason of her hope in the Saviour and was joyfully received, and is to be baptized at their next meeting. Besides Elder Anderson, Elders Lonnie Holloway and Herschel Hill were also present. This was our first time to meet Elder Hill.

At night we tried to preach in Garfield at the Missionary Baptist meeting house. We had the pleasure of meeting Elder H. Temples at this place. We met him when in Georgia three years ago, but did not have the pleasure of being in his company for more than a few moments.

On Tuesday (today-January 26) we were at Upper Mill Creek Church, Elder Temples coming with Us from Garfield this morning. We had the pleasure of meeting Elder A. J. Brown today at this church. The service was pleasant, and we enjoyed meeting the brethren and sisters here once more. We are now at the home of Brother J. N. Akin to spend the night.

Since coming to Georgia we learn that Elder S. L. Pettus, formerly of Fulton, Ky., now of Missouri is in this section visiting the progressive churches who have departed from the ancient simplicity of the gospel worship by the introduction of organs, and some other measures which our people are not accustomed to. Our readers will remember that an article was published in our columns a short time ago from Elder Ira Turner concerning Elder Pettus having returned to the Primitive Baptists from the Missionaries.

We find our brethren where we have been to be plain Old Baptists satisfied with the soul-cheering doctrine of grace, and satisfied with the plain, simple worship authorized by our blessed Saviour in the gospel kingdom. They have heartily and kindly received us, and have been much better to us than we feel to deserve. They have heartily endorsed our public efforts in trying to proclaim the glad tidings of salvation, and trying to contend for the plain, simple worship of the Lord's house. We feel to thank the Lord and to take courage to press on in the service of our heavenly King. We humbly ask all the brethren, sisters and friends to pray the Lord to enable us to fight the good fight of faith until we reach the journey's end. May heaven's rich blessings be showered upon every one of you, is our prayer. C. H. C.

NOW IN FLORIDA

---February 9, 1909

In our last report we stated that we were then (January 26) at the home of Brother J. N. Akin, near Statesboro, Ga. From his home we were conveyed by his son to Lott's Creek Church, in the Lott's Creek Association, on Wednesday morning. A goodly number had gathered at the church, and had about decided we were not coming, as we were late, caused by a shaft being broken, and we had to walk nearly a mile to borrow another buggy to finish the journey. We had a pleasant meeting. The brethren and sisters heartily endorsed our feeble effort in speaking to them of the goodness and mercy of God. On Thursday we were at Deloach Church, where we had the pleasure of again meeting Elder W. H. Wilkinson, whom we met while in Georgia three years ago. The congregation was not large, owing to a misunderstanding, brought about by a change in the appointment—so some thought. But we had a very pleasant meeting here any way. On Friday morning we were conveyed to Ash Branch. We were glad to again meet Elder J. H. Smith at this church. We also met him three years ago. A good sized congregation was present, and we enjoyed a pleasant season with these dear brethren and sisters once more. On Saturday morning we boarded a train at Pembroke for Claxton, where we were met by a Mr. Lynn, who is a staunch Baptist friend, and conveyed by him to Little Flock Church to attend a general meeting appointed to be held there. The weather had suddenly turned severely cold, so that only a few met at the church that day, yet the meeting was a pleasant one. Here we met Elders F. M. Donaldson, D. L. Calloway, M. L. Riner and Wm. Beasley, and Brother Bowen, who has been liberated to exercise his gift. We had another pleasant meeting at night at the home of Brother Lynn, who is eighty four years old. On Sunday the weather was so cold and disagreeable that the brethren decided to not try to go to the church. So we had no service that day, but that night we were at the home of Brother A. W. Odom with Elder F. M. Donaldson, and a few brethren and sisters came in, so we had services and enjoyed a pleasant little season with them.

On Monday Elder Donaldson conveyed us to Anderson Church, an appointment having been sent on there for us on Saturday. The congregation was good, considering the short notice and the inclemency of the weather, and we had a good meeting. Brother Bowen, mentioned above, and Elders Galloway and Riner were again with us, besides Elder Donaldson.

After meeting we were conveyed to the home of Brother J. R. Calloway, and after dinner he conveyed us to Manassas where we boarded the train for Savannah, Ga., arriving there at about 8:45 last night. This morning (Tuesday, Feb. 2) at 2:50 we left Savannah on the Seaboard Air Line Railroad for Dade City, Fla., where we begin (the Lord willing) filling the appointments made for us in Florida. At this writing we are on the train, near Ocala- just now going into the town at 1:30.

We trust the brethren and sisters will remember us in their prayers.
C. H. C.

Hebrews 7:1-4

---February 23, 1909

We have been requested to give our views of (Hebrews 7:1-4). The passage refers to Melchisedec, who was king of Salem and priest of the most high God. He met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings and blessed him, and Abraham gave to him a tenth part of the spoils. See (Genesis 14).

Melchisedec was a man; see (Hebrews 7:4), "Now consider how great this man was." As a man he was not without father or mother; but as a priest he was "without father, without mother, without descent, having neither beginning of days, nor end of life; but made like unto the Son of God; abideth a priest continually." A priest after the order of Aaron, under the Levitical priesthood, was not without father or mother. The priestly office in that priesthood went from father to son, hence not without father, and not without descent. In the priestly office of Melchisedec there were none before him and none after; hence without descent. Thus it differed from the Levitical priesthood. Christ was made a high priest after the order of Melchisedec, {see (Hebrews 6:20)} and not after the order of the Levitical priesthood. In the priestly office in which Christ officiated, there were none before Him and none since-it was "without father, without mother, without descent," just like that of Melchisedec. C. H. C.

2 Peter 2:18-21

---February 23, 1909

Some time ago we were requested to give our views of (II Peter 2:22), which we did, though briefly. It seems that some of the brethren think our views are wrong, which is their privilege. But some have asked for our views of verses 18 to 21, wanting us to harmonize these with our opinion of verse 22. If you will read verse 17 you will find these characters described. It says, "These are wells without water, clouds that are carried with a tempest; to whom the mist of darkness is reserved forever." True, verse 20 says, "For if after they have escaped the pollutions of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning." But verse 22 says, "it is happened unto them according to the true proverb, The dog is turned to his own vomit again; and the sow that was washed to her wallowing in the mire." This shows that their profession was only an outward one, that there was no inward change, no change of nature; hence only a washed sow, and not a sheep. Therefore gone back to her wallowing in the mire. C. H. C.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

---February 23, 1909

ELDER C. H CAYCE: Dear Brother-Will you kindly give me your views on the passage of Scripture relative to Christ after the crucifixion preaching to the spirits in prison. I know there are several theories advanced, but they cannot, all be correct, and I ask for information.

Also the text where Paul teaches that the Lord, by His Spirit, hath shined in our hearts. That is evidently an inspiration. But is it an intellectual inspiration, or simply a moral inspiration? Would not divine intellectual inspiration necessitate absolute accuracy in the views and opinions of the Lord's children? If a moral inspiration, would it not only affect the heart or affections, leaving the mind to be instructed by reading or hearing the truth? And would this not account for some of the Lord's children going off into error-their mistake being of the mind, or intellect, and not of the heart? Does the doctrine of election and predestination according to Calvinism differ from the doctrine as held by Old Baptists? Yours in an humble hope, CHARLES W. LYENS.

Halt Ave., Macon, Ga.

REMARKS

1. (I Peter 3:19) speaks of the Lord preaching to spirits in prison. Verses 18, 19 and 20 read, "For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the Spirit: by which also He went and preached unto the spirits in prison; which sometime were disobedient, when once the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved by water." The preaching to spirits in prison mentioned here was in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing. This is very clear evidence, it seems to us, that sinners were saved in Noah's day just like they are saved now. They were regenerated then by the work of the Spirit, and they are regenerated that way now. The Lord has never had but one way of regenerating sinners.

2. We suppose the text referred to here is (II Corinthians 4:6), which says, "For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ." Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is light, or liberty, and whatsoever doth make manifest is light. When God shines in the heart by the power of the Holy Spirit, the sinfulness of that heart is made manifest to the person. It is thus revealed to him by the Spirit of God that he is a sinner in the sight of God. The heart is made right, or made good, by the work of the Holy Spirit; yet they may be taught wrong doctrines, and thus be right in heart and wrong in the head.

3. Calvin was the founder of the Presbyterian church. The old Westminster Confession of Faith, a Presbyterian production, set forth the doctrine of unconditional reprobation as well as unconditional election. The old London Confession, which was largely copied from the Westminster Confession, set forth the doctrine of unconditional election but not unconditional reprobation. Baptists have been charged with holding unconditional reprobation, but have ever denied it.

C. H. C.

CONDUCT OF DEACONS

---February 23, 1908

We have been asked the following: "I want your views on the deaconshow they should act when not in church. Do you think it is right for them to go to ice cream parties, or to play parties, or box suppers, or any of those worldly pleasures? You may answer through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST."

If you will turn to (Acts 6:1-6) you will find the first deacons set apart in the church by the apostles-`seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom." In (I Timothy 3:8-10) we find that "Likewise must the deacons be grave, not doubletongued, not given to much wine, not greedy of filthy lucre; holding the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience. And let these also first be proved; then let them use the office of a deacon, being found blameless." It seems to us that these expressions are plain enough. No church member should be found engaging in the things mentioned, much less a deacon. Those things are worldly pleasures and inventions of men, many of them often being conducted in the name of Christianity and to "raise money for the Lord," and no meek and humble follower of the Master should have anything to do with such things. They are an abomination in the sight of God.

C. H. C.

Zechariah 4:14

---February 23, 1909

Brother N. J. Yeager, of Centerville, Ala., has requested our views on Zechariah 4 and especially verse 14. He asks "who are those two anointed ones?" The 14th verse reads, "Then said he, These are the two anointed ones, that stand by the Lord of the whole earth." We have thought the two anointed ones in this text refers to the same as the two witnesses in (Revelation 11:3). Read the entire chapter and compare with (Zechariah 4). You will see that the two witnesses are going to be killed, and their dead bodies shall lie in the street for three days and a half. We think these two are the church and the ministry. They have suffered persecutions and death for the truth's sake, and we understand they are to again pass through sore persecutions for the sake of truth. This persecution will last for three and one-half years. They will be put to death as in days gone by for the faith. We know that many of our brethren differ from us as to what these two witnesses are, but the brother requested our views, and we have tried to give them briefly, and not for the purpose of calling out a controversy on the subject. C. H. C.

Matthew 19:8, and Romans 13:1-8

---February 23, 1909

Brother J. M. Ayres, of Dossville, Miss., has requested our views of the above cited passages. (Matthew 19:8), reads, "He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives but from the beginning it was not so." Brother Ayres says, "When was the beginning, and what beginning?" The beginning of the marriage ordinance. In the morning of creation the Lord made a helpmeet for the man, and said, "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh." There was then given no privilege of putting the wife away.

The place referred to in Romans we think teaches that wholesome laws are not to be dreaded by those who are children of God and walking in His service. Such laws are given for the control and restraint of the wicked, and it is our duty to be subject to and obedient to those laws, so long as matters of conscience in the worship of God are not interfered with. So long as a law allows us to worship God as we understand His word teaches, we should be obedient to the law. We should be law-abiding citizens. And we are glad to say that so far as our knowledge extends the Primitive Baptists as a body of people are law-abiding. C. H. C.

STILL IN FLORIDA

---March 9, 1909

Our last report was written on Tuesday, Feb. 2, while on the train going to Dade City. We arrived in Dade City and had meeting there that night in the Methodist meeting house. Elder M. L. Gilbert, who lives here, met us at the train. We had the pleasure of meeting Elder W. D. Lee, of Loves, Miss., who was here visiting his son. We were personally acquainted with him, having been with him a number of times in Mississippi. We also unexpectedly met Elder J. H. Fisher here.

On Wednesday afternoon we went to Tampa, and were met at the train by our cousin, Mrs. Marian Clement, and her husband, Victor Clement, and went to their home. We had the sweet pleasure of meeting our dear aunt here, Sister Mattie Mills, whom we had not seen for twenty-four years; also had the pleasure of meeting our cousin, Oscar, Aunt Mattie's son, and spending some time with them while in Tampa. We spent the time with them Thursday and Friday. On Saturday and Sunday we were at meeting at the church in Tampa. This was the regular meeting time, and Elder Gilbert, who is pastor, was present with us. The meeting was pleasant, and we enjoyed being there.

We had meeting at Port Tampa City on Monday night, and at St. Petersburg on Tuesday night. At the latter place we met Elder W. W. Williams, of Georgia, and Elder Voorheis, of New Jersey. We were glad to meet these brethren. We also met a Brother Bozeman, of Georgia, Brother and Sister J. C. Calvin, of Calvin, Illinois, whom we had met before.

On Wednesday morning, the 10th, we went to Largo to meet the appointment at Lone Pilgrim. Elder J. D. McMullen was at the depot to board the train going south; and he told us the appointment was not known, that no word had been received concerning it. So we returned to Tampa, and had meeting in the city again on Thursday night.

On Friday morning we went to Sidney, on the "Seaboard" train, and had meeting at Salem. Elders Fisher and J. Ellis Blanton were present. Then went to the home of Elder E. J. Devane in Plant City, and had meeting in the Methodist meeting house that night, and had the pleasure of meeting Elder Devane for the first time.

Saturday morning we went to Wauchula, accompanied by Elders Devane and Blanton, where we had meeting Saturday and Sunday, which was a pleasant meeting. From here we were conveyed by Brother L. D. Doke to his home, where we spent Sunday night; then he conveyed us to Paynes Creek, where we had meeting on Monday; then to Bowling Green, where we had meeting that night. Spent the night with Brother A. C. Beauchamp.

On Tuesday we were met in Bowling Green by Brother Wingate, who conveyed us to his home, where we spent the night; then to Corinth on Wednesday. At this place we met Elders D. Wilkinson, M. Lightsey and J. M. Brewer. We also met Brother J. J. Altman again at this place, who exercises in public. We met him first at Wauchula. He conveyed us to his home, where we had meeting again that night. Then on Thursday he conveyed us to Fort Meade, where we spent the night with a Brother Wingate. On Friday morning Brother Altman conveyed us on to Elim, where we had meeting that day. Elder Brewer was also with us here.

From Elim Brother B. B. Dossey conveyed us to his home, where we spent the night; then on Saturday morning conveyed us to Mt. Olive, where we had meeting Saturday and Sunday. Here we had the pleasure of meeting Elder J. H. Kirkland and spending Saturday night at his home. We had a very pleasant meeting here.

Elder Devane conveyed us to his home in Plant City. On Tuesday Brother Devane went with us to Mt. Enon, near Plant City, where we had a pleasant meeting, then returned to Brother Devane's home.

On Wednesday morning we left Plant City for Orlando, and met our appointment at Orange Church, in the suburbs of Orlando, and enjoyed a very pleasant meeting with this church. We were met at this church by Brother E. U. Cauthen, who conveyed us to Winter Garden, where we had meeting in a Missionary Baptist house. Our appointment for this place was first made for Thursday night, but was changed to Wednesday night on account of some other conflicting appointments.

At this writing, on Thursday, Feb. 25, we are at the home of Brother Cauthen, in Winter Garden. C. H. C.

REPLY TO T. H. COTTON - FEET WASHING

---March 9, 1909

We will try to give what information we can on the subject of feet washing, as requested by T. H. Cotton, in a letter from him in another column of this paper.

First, we call attention to the fact that the feast of the passover began on the fourteenth day of the month and ended on the twenty-first day of the month, thus continuing for seven days. See (Exodus 12). Now read (Matthew 26:1-16); (Mark 14:1-11) and ((Mark 2:1) (Luke 22:1-6), and you will find that before the feast of the passover began, Judas had covenanted with the chief priests and captains to betray Jesus into their hands. Now, let us read (Luke 22:1-6), which says:

Now the feast of unleavened bread drew nigh, which is called the Passover. And the chief priests and scribes sought how they might kill Him; for they feared the people. Then entered Satan into Judas surnamed Iscariot, being of the number of the twelve. And he went his way, and communed with the chief priests and captains, how he might betray Him unto them. And they were glad, and covenanted to give him money. And he promised, and sought opportunity to betray Him unto them in the absence of the multitude.

Now read (John 13:1):

Now before the feast of the passover, when Jesus knew that His hour was come that He should depart out of this world unto the Father, having loved His own which were in the world, He loved them unto the end.

Now read (Matthew 26:17-25) and ((2) (Mark 14:12-21) and you will see how that Jesus told the disciples to make ready the passover, and also the conversation which took place while they were eating the passover concerning His betrayal. It is clear and easy to understand that Matthew and Mark agree on this. Mark says:

And the first day of unleavened bread, when they killed the passover, His disciples said unto Him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare that thou mayest eat the passover? And He sendeth forth two of His disciples, and saith unto them, Go ye into the city, and there shall meet you a man bearing a pitcher of water; follow him. And wheresoever he shall go in, say ye to the goodman of the house, The Master saith, Where is the guestchamber where I shall eat the passover with my disciples? And he will show you a large upper room furnished and prepared: there make ready for us. And His disciples went forth, and came into the city, and found as He had said unto them: and they made ready the passover. And in the evening He cometh with the twelve. And as they sat and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, One of you which eateth with me shall betray me. And they began to be sorrowful, and to say unto Him, one by one, Is it I? and another said, Is it I? And He answered and said unto them, It is one of the twelve, that dippeth with me in the dish. The Son of man indeed goeth, as it is written of Him: but woe to that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! good were it for that man if he had never been born.

Instead of proceeding with the conversation which took place during the eating of the passover supper, as Matthew and Mark did, John breaks off from the conversation and in verses 2 to 17 relates the circumstance of the feet washing. Then in verse 18 he goes back to the conversation which was engaged in during the eating of the passover supper. Verses 18 to 32 read as follows:

I speak not of you all: I know whom I have chosen: but that the Scripture may be fulfilled, He that eateth bread with me hath lifted up his heel against me. Now I tell you before it come, That when it is come to pass, ye may believe that I am He. Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that receiveth whomsoever I send receiveth me; and he that receiveth me receiveth Him that sent me. When Jesus had thus said, He was troubled in spirit, and testified, and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me. Then the disciples looked one on another, doubting of whom He spake. Now there was leaning on Jesus' bosom one of His disciples, whom Jesus loved. Simon Peter therefore beckoned to him, that he should ask who it should be of whom He spake. He then lying on Jesus' breast saith unto Him, Lord, who is it? Jesus answered, He it is, to whom I shall give a sop, when I have dipped it. And when He had dipped the sop, He gave it to Judas Iscariot, the son of Simon. And after the sop Satan entered into him. Then said Jesus unto him, That thou doest, do quickly. Now no man at the table knew for what intent He spake this unto him. For some of them thought, because Judas had the bag, that Jesus had said unto him, Buy those things that we have need of against the feast; or, that he should give something to the poor. He then having received the sop went immediately out: and it was night. Therefore, when he was gone out, Jesus said, Now is the Son of man glorified, and God is glorified in him. If God be glorified in Him, God shall also glorify Him in Himself, and shall straightway glorify Him.

This shows very clearly to be the same conversation as recorded by Matthew and Mark, and which took place while eating the passover supper. It was while eating that supper that the conversation took place as to who should betray the Saviour, and while eating that, supper Jesus gave the sop to Judas, then Judas went immediately out. Hence Judas left them while they were eating the passover supper. Now go again to (Matthew 26:28-29), and ((22) (Mark 14:22-25)) and you will find the record of the institution of the communion supper, which was done at the close of the eating of the passover supper. And remember that this was the first day of the feast of the passover. Mark says:

And as they did eat, Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave to them, and said, Take, eat: this is my body. And He took the cup, and when He had given thanks, He gave it to them: and they all drank of it. And He said unto them, This is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many. Verily I say unto you, I will drink no more of the fruit of the vine, until that day that I drink it new in the kingdom of God.

Now let us read (John 13:2-17), and we will find John's account of what transpired concerning the feet washing after the supper was ended:

And supper being ended, the devil having now put into the heart of Judas Iscariot Simon's son, to betray Him; Jesus knowing that the Father had given all things into His hands and that He was come from God, and went to God: He riseth from supper, and laid aside His garments; and took a towel, and girded Himself. After that He poureth water into a basin, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith He was girded. Then cometh he to Simon Peter: and Peter saith unto Him, Lord, dost thou wash my feet? Jesus answered and said unto him, What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter. Peter saith unto Him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me. Simon Peter saith unto Him, Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head. Jesus saith to him, He that is washed needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit: and ye are clean, but not all. For He knew who should betray Him; therefore said He, Ye are not all clean. So after He had washed their feet, and had taken His garments, and was sat down again, He said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you? Ye call me Master and Lord: and ye say well: for so I am. If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you. Verily, verily, I say unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord; neither he that is sent greater than he that sent him. If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them.

It is truly clear that Jesus has said, "Ye also ought to wash one another's feet," and we should do so for this reason. No matter if it does seem to us to be an empty rite, the Saviour said we ought to do it, and that is a good reason why we should. To say that it was an old Jewish custom, and therefore not required under the gospel, is to impeach the Apostle Peter with ignorance of the customs of his own people, for the Saviour said, "What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter." Peter did know the old Jewish customs, hence this was not done as an old Jewish custom. In washing their feet Jesus said He had given them an example, that they should do as He had done to them. An example is something to follow. If the Saviour was immersed in baptism, we cannot follow Him in baptism unless we are also immersed. If He was immersed in baptism, and if His baptism is an example for us to follow, then we cannot follow the example unless we are immersed. Even so, we cannot follow His example in feet washing unless we wash each other's feet. Doing something else is not following the example.

Washing the saints' feet is put down in the catalog of good works by the Apostle Paul in (I Timothy 5:9-10). It is clearly mentioned here as a good work. Then if we fail to do it, it is evident that we fail to do one good work the Lord has said we ought to do.

If the Saviour had commanded us to practice something symbolizing our honesty, it would be right for us to do it. In (Matthew 6:16-17) the Saviour is not teaching us that we should not show our humility. Beginning with the (first verse of the chapter), He teaches us that we should not do the things mentioned to be seen of men. We should not engage in any service to be seen of men. If that is the object we have in view, then the service becomes an empty form, and is not acceptable service. If we are not to show humility, then we should not perform any act that might be prompted by a spirit of humility. Instead of humility being something we should not show, it is something that we should show. If all the brotherhood would show and manifest toward each other more of the spirit of humility, we are of the humble opinion there would be less trouble among us. Washing each other's feet is an act of humility; Christ performed it as an example, and we should follow the example. We say, in washing each other's feet, that we have a desire to live at the feet of our brethren, and that we esteem our brethren and prefer them before ourselves. We profess this when we wash their feet; and then we should live the profession.

Mr. Cotten's argument that a church cannot be held in fellowship because they do not practice feet washing, if it be a part of the communion, would require a non-fellowship for every church, almost, in existence-upon that parity of reasoning. The church at Corinth had some wrongs among them; nearly all the seven churches of Asia had wrongs among them; the Galatians had wrongs among them. Yet they were not non-fellowshipped as churches. We would not argue, however, for the encouragement of wrongs; but the idea we wish to present is that a church may be a church of Christ, and fellowshipped as such, and yet have some wrongs existing among them. If a church that does wrong cannot be fellowshipped, then few of them could be fellowshipped, for there are very few that do no wrong. As a rule the Primitive Baptists do not make feet washing a test of fellowship, although it is in many of their confessions of faith. There are some other points in the confessions of faith which could be named, also, that some individual members have not believed, and yet they retained membership and fellowship in the church. We think a fundamental point of doctrine, or an underlying principle of doctrine, should be made a test of fellowship. So should any practice which is a departure from the fundamental principles of the gospel be made a test of fellowship.

We do not want a controversy opened up in our columns on the question of feet washing, and neither do we expect to permit it; but as Mr. Cotten insisted by private letter that we publish his letter and make some reply to it, we have decided to do so, merely to give him the benefit of some of our views of the matter. We do not give our views as standard. The Bible is the standard that Baptists propose to go by. Let us take that as the "man of our counsel" and be governed by it, and let us try to do what it says do. May the Lord help us all so to do. C. H. C.

THE VERY ELECT

---April 27, 1909

Brother D. A. Hollind, of Horton, Ala., asks us, "Who was under consideration, and who was the very elect?" The very elect are mentioned in (Matthew 24:24). The Saviour says, "For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall show great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect." The Lord will not suffer all His children to be deceived by the false and judizing teachers who are in the world. He has promised to never leave Himself without a witness. If all His people were deceived and led into false doctrines and practices, then He would be without a witness. We think those faithful ones who continue to contend for the faith which was once delivered to the saints, and who are not deceived or led astray by false teachers, are called the very elect.

C. H. C.

THE GREAT INVESTMENT

---May 4, 1909

I have just read Dr. Willingham's plan for raising $50,000 by dividing 10,000 shares at $5 each among the states. I believe it to be a very happy suggestion and a practical method. It will be easy for many to take shares in the King's business and ever after have the real joy of knowing that one investment which we have made cannot fail. When we have ceased from labor, this investment will be bearing compound interest until the end of time.

Today is a momentous moment in the kingdom of God. The world is waiting for the gospel of love, and Light and Life. "How shall they hear without a preacher? How shall they preach except they be sent?" Many of our best young men and women are waiting to be sent; a debt means they cannot go. Let us take shares in the King's business and save our Foreign Mission Board from the calamity of a great debt.-J. L. White, Greensboro, N. C., in Baptist Standard, April 22, 1909.

What next! What promoters of schemes! The very idea of issuing 10,000 shares of stock in the King's business, at $5 per share! We wonder if that is par value. Are you going to sell such "valuable" stock at par? Is the price down in the market so that it will not bring a premium? Something must be wrong with the concern if the stock is worth no more than par and buyers hard to find even at that price, for to find a buyer you have to find one who is ignorant concerning the promoters. Wonder what has become of the oil stock? Can't find any more buyers, so have to try another scheme? Poor foreign mission board! What a pity the King's business is so poorly financed the whole thing is always bankrupt and a miserable failure. There is one thing they never fail in, and that is to make merchandise of the people. But, say, what is the whole amount of capital stock of this concern, anyhow? What rate per cent interest does the concern pay at present? And what assurance have we that the concern cannot fail? It has always been in debt, and has been a beggar ever since its birth, and has always been supported by the charities of a people who were led to believe souls were going to hell for want of their hard-earned dollars. We consider it a bad investment, and may God have mercy on the poor ignorant dupes who are gulled into such nefarious schemes.

C. H. C.

ORDERLY BAPTISM

---May 18, 1909

We have been asked the following: A is a Baptist preacher in full fellowship, but he becomes disorderly by receiving Missionary baptism into his church. The true church withdraws from him, and while he is considered in disorder he baptizes B. Now B desires to be in full fellowship with the true church. Can B be received into fellowship without being re-baptized?

If A was excluded from the church he had no right or authority to administer baptism for the church. It was most assuredly out of order to receive Missionary baptism. It would be just as good order to receive an immersion as orderly gospel baptism administered by any other people as that administered by the Missionary Baptists. Then, if A was withdrawn from after he did this and immersed B while thus out of order, then B is not baptized. If A stood excluded when he immersed B, it was not orderly gospel baptism. Hence B was not baptized-he was immersed. It seems to us that if B desires to be in full fellowship with orderly Baptists, the thing to do is to be baptized by one who is authorized by an orderly church to administer the ordinance, and who is in order when he administers it. C. H. C.

HOW MANY ARE THERE?

---May 25, 1909

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-There is a Methodist preacher in our town that made the assertion the other eve that we were about 100 years old and that there is not as many now as there was then. If you have or can get them I want the statistics of the Primitive Baptist Church. I have seen it in your paper about two months ago from Brother Newman's pen. I want you to also give me the number of preachers that we have. I want to show the little fellow that he not only told one, but two. Please let me hear from you at once, and oblige. Your brother,
J. P. DARR.
REMARKS

According to the United States Census of 1890 there were in the United States, at that time, 3,107 Primitive Baptist churches with 116,271 members. We do not know how many preachers there were. We have no later statistics at hand. According to the Baptist Almanac of 1844 there were then 1,622 Primitive Baptist churches with 61,162 members. Perhaps you can get later statistics from the Census Bureau at Washington, D. C. You cannot get the exact figures, because some of the brethren refuse to give the Census Bureau the desired information.

Your Methodist preacher knows nothing about church history. There are Primitive Baptist churches in Tennessee more than 100 years old that have never changed in doctrine or practice. C. H. C.

VIEWS GIVEN

---June 1, 1909

(Luke 19:10)

"For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." This simply teaches that those characters Jesus came to save were lost. He came to seek and to save lost characters. It does not necessarily follow that He came to save all that were lost.

(Romans 6:23)

“For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.” In this text condemnation and salvation are placed in contradistinction to each other. Wages is what one gets for what he does. Sin is the transgression of the law. When a man dies he does not necessarily pay a penalty for what he does. Death is the penalty he receives. Death is a separation. Hence, on account of men's sins they are separated eternally from the presence of God. This is prevented only by the intervention of mercy-grace. So, the apostle continues, “but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.” Eternal life is God's gift. He does not give it on account of what we have done, or may do, or can do; but He gives it through what Christ has done-” through Jesus Christ our Lord.”

((9:1) (Acts 19:1-8)

We have been asked, “Were they baptized the second time in water, or were they baptized the second time with the Holy Ghost?” The expression referred to in this question is in verse 5, which says, “When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.” This has no reference whatever to a baptism of the Holy Spirit, for that followed the laying on of hands by Paul. See verse 6. It is a question in the mind of many as to whether they were “baptized the second time.” John Gill held the view that they were not. His rendering of it is that they were baptized when they heard John's preaching. In other words, verse 4 begins by saying, “Then said Paul.” Gill's idea is that Paul then said all that is contained in verses 4 and 5, and that when Paul had said this he laid his hands upon them and the Holy Ghost came upon them. If this be the correct view of the text, it follows that baptism administered by John was valid gospel baptism. While we believe the baptism administered by John was valid baptism, yet we have been inclined to a different view of this text. We have thought that these people were not baptized by John, but in John's name. We think they were baptized by Apollos, who was baptized by John. Read ((8:24) (verses 24 to 28 of chapter 18). He was a true believer that Jesus was the Christ, but bad, himself, been baptized by John; and knowing nothing of any other baptism, was administering baptism upon the authority of John instead of upon the authority of Christ. But Aquila and Priscilla expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly. Then Paul came along and found these disciples who had been baptized upon the authority of John's baptism, who, when they heard what Paul had to say in verse 5, were then baptized in the name of the Lord, or upon His authority.

(Romans 2:6-7,8)

We think this is a description of the characters who will enter eternal joys on the one hand, and a description of the characters who enter into wrath on the other hand. The Saviour says in ((0) (Matthew 7:20), "Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them." We know that those who seek the good things mentioned in (Romans 2:7) have been made good by the Spirit and power of God, because their fruits are good. And those who have thus been made good will enter into eternal joys.

(Mark 7:28-29)

We have been asked the question, "What was the condition of the daughter before the mother besought Christ, that He would cast forth the devil out of her—saved or unsaved?" We do not think that the text necessarily teaches whether her condition was saved or unsaved. She was possessed of a devil, or demon, which is a person whose volition or will is dethroned, or controlled by an evil spirit. The mental faculties were unbalanced. Hence, the daughter was possessed of a plague. This plague, or disease, was cured by the Saviour.

((9) (Jonah 3:9-10)

This does not prove, or indicate, that God is fallible or changeable. The Lord says, in (Malachi 3:6), "For I am the Lord, I change not." James says that with Him "is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." Yet Job says "God repented of the evil, that He had said that He would do unto them; and He did it not." His way of dealing was to bless them in obedience. Or when they did right, they enjoyed His blessings; and when they did wrong they were punished. Read (Jeremiah 18:8-9,10), and you will find that the Lord said that this was what He would do.

AID TO THE MINISTRY

We have been requested to write on this subject, the party making the request referring us to (I Corinthians 9:13-14); ((0:7) (Luke 10:7), and ((0:10) (Matthew 10:10). In ((0:1) (Matthew 10) is recorded the sending out of the twelve, and in ((0:1) (Luke 10) is recorded the sending out of the seventy. We have expressed our opinion regarding this question through our columns heretofore, and will only make a few brief remarks now. In (I Corinthians 9) the apostle is certainly teaching the idea that the temporal necessities of the ministry should be looked after. In verse 11 he says, "If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we shall reap your carnal things?" In verse 9 he refers to the law, which says, "Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn." In verse 10 he lets us know that this was written for our sakes. The ox should do the eating where he was doing the treading. It was not God's way that the ox do the treading in China and do the eating in the United States. He was to eat right where he did the treading. Verse 11 shows that the eating was of carnal things. Then in verse 13 he refers to the law again, calling attention to the fact that a part of the things offered in the temple and on the altar were reserved for those who waited at the altar. In verse 14 he says, "Even so hath the Lord ordained that they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel." Some have argued that this living consists of spiritual food, which the apostle refers to here; but this cannot be true, for the reason that in verse 15 he says, "But I have used none of these things: neither have I written these things, that it should be so done unto me. We think the language to the twelve and to the seventy contains the idea that they were to go, trusting the Lord that they would be cared for and sustained. The Lord's promise is better than promises of men. The man who will not go until a support is promised him shows his lack of faith in the Lord's promise. The Lord has put it into the hearts of His people to care for us, for we know they have been kind and good to us. They have been good to minister to our necessities, and we hope to never bring reproach on the cause they love. Brethren, pray the Lord to sustain us, that we may be kept in the right way. C. H. C.

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS

---June 8, 1909

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-Will you or some of the readers please give me your views on this Scripture:

"Moreover the dogs came and licked his sores." - (Luke 16:21).

Were those dogs literal, or is it only figurative? And does this rich man represent man's works? This Scripture is on my mind and I have no light on it.

May the dear Lord bless you, dear Brother Cayce, in publishing THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. Your brother in great affliction, Newtonville, Miss.

C. H. WELLS

REMARKS

The Scripture referred to is the parable of the rich man and Lazarus. We think the parable primarily refers to the Jews and Gentiles. The rich man represented the Jews and Lazarus represented the Gentiles. The Jews were scattered, and are yet in a scattered condition. They are now being tormented. They had their good things under the law dispensation. But now, under the gospel dispensation, the Jews are being tormented and the Gentiles are enjoying the privileges of the gospel. C. H. C.

MILL CREEK THEN AND NOW

---June 15, 1909

We notice that Kirkland, Burnam, Pence & Co., are to hold their great "General" or "National" meeting at Mill Creek, near Maury City, Crockett county, Tenn., this year. This calls to our mind the fact that Mill Creek Church was among the first churches, if not the first one, to enter protest in conference against some of the measures advocated by Elder Kirkland. The following is their protest:

Whereas, There has been a new departure from the faith and doctrine and practice of Primitive Baptists, as taught in the Bible, said departure being recommended by the St. Louis convention, to-wit, That the St. Louis convention recommend the adoption of, 1st, a Federal government for the churches as per plan laid down in Elder J. V Kirkland's book, or "Condensed History of the Church;" 2nd, That the commission was given to the church as a whole, and not to the ministry alone. 3rd, That there be a publishing house established, and that all Primitive Baptist papers as now published should suspend or be bought by said publishing house or company, and that there be but one Primitive Baptist periodical, and it be sent out from said publishing house or company; therefore,
Be it resolved, by the church at Mill Creek, Crockett county, Tenn., that we solemnly protest against the action of the St. Louis convention; and

Be it further resolved, that we send a copy of this protest to THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST and Baptist Trumpet for publication and ask all Primitive Baptist papers to copy.

Done and signed by order of the church while in conference on Saturday before the third Sunday in November, 1904.

ELDER L. H. STUCKEY, Moderator.

G. W. EDWARDS, Church Clerk.

That protest speaks for itself as to where that church stood in November, 1904. After this the church restored Elder H. W. Thomas, who had been excluded by the recommendation of a council. Elder J. V Kirkland was in the council and wrote the advice of the council. Their advice was that unless Mill Creek exclude Elder Thomas they should be dropped from the association. He was accordingly excluded. Then after the foregoing protest was passed they restored Elder Thomas without satisfaction being made, or even attempted. So in 1905 the association dropped Mill Creek Church, which was in harmony with the advice of the council, Elder Kirkland being one of the number. But now Mill Creek and Elders Kirkland and Thomas seem to be all in line. We wonder if that protest is yet on their book, and we wonder if Elder Kirkland now goes back on the advice given in the council? Truly, "The legs of the lame are unequal." C. H. C. At the time of the publication of this book Mill Creek Church is in line with the orderly Baptists.

Matthew 5:32

---July 20, 1909

We have been requested to give our views of (Matthew 5:32), which reads, "But I say unto you, that Whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery: and whosoever shall marry her that is divorced committeth adultery." What is true with reference to the husband is also true with reference to the wife. If it is wrong for the wife to put away the husband, it is also wrong for the husband to put away the wife. If the Scriptures allow the wife to put her husband away and marry again, they will also allow the husband to put away his wife and marry another. Now, remember this, that what is admissible in the one is admissible in the other, for "they are no more twain, but one flesh." Then, the question is simply this, Can a man for any cause, expressed in Scripture, put away his wife and marry another, and he not be an adulterer?

In the text quoted above the Saviour tells us that if a man shall put away his wife for any other cause than that of fornication, he causes her to commit adultery. If she has committed fornication, and for this cause he puts her away, he does not cause her to commit adultery. If she has been put away for any cause, and then marries another man, the man commits adultery, in marrying one who has been put away. Now, notice the Saviour's language recorded in (Matthew 19:9), "And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery." If the wife commits fornication and the husband puts her away on this account, and marries another, he does not commit adultery. If the husband puts his wife away for any other cause except fornication, and marries another, he commits adultery. If the Saviour had said, "Whosoever shall put away his wife, and shall marry another, cornmiteth adultery," then a man would have no Scriptural reason whatever to put away his wife and marry again. But the Saviour gives only one exception to this universal rule, and that one exception is, "except it be for fornication." So if the wife commits fornication, and the husband puts her away on this account and marries another he is no adulterer. If the wife commits fornication she becomes dead to her husband, and as she thereby becomes dead to him, he may marry again and he no adulterer.

In (Luke 16:18) the Saviour says, "Whosoever putteth away his wife and marrieth another, committeth adultery: and whosoever marrieth her that is put away from her husband committeth adultery." In this place it is laid down as though it was a universal rule with no exception, but the Saviour expresses the exception, and the only exception, in (Matthew 19:8), as quoted above.

If the husband commits fornication, and the wife puts him away, on this account, and then she marries another man, she is no adulteress. Neither the man an adulterer whom she marries. To try to make it plainer: B commits fornication; on this account Mrs. B puts him away; then Mrs. B marries Mr. C. In this case Mrs. B is no adulteress, and Mr. C is no adulterer. This is true, by reason of the fact that Mr. B is a fornicator, and thereby becomes dead to Mrs. B, and this gives her a Scriptural right to marry again. This is clearly the exception to the rule, as laid down by the Saviour, and none have this right, except for fornication.

The language of the apostle in 1st Corinthians vii. 15, does not contradict the Saviour's teaching. He says, "But if the unbelieving depart, let him depart. A brother or a sister is not under bondage in such cases: but God hath called us to peace." If the unbelieving husband or wife departs, let them go; you are under no obligation to follow them. But the believing one should not help the unbeliever to go; but if they will depart, let them go. But if they do go, this does not release the marriage bond. It does not give the one left the privilege of marrying another, for the apostle says in verses 10 and 11, "And unto the married I command, yet not I, but the Lord, Let not the wife depart from her husband: but and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband: and let not the husband put away his wife." It is plainly taught here that if one departs the other has no right to put them away on this account, but they should remain unmarried-hold themselves in readiness at all times for a reconciliation.

If the wife puts the husband away for any other cause than for fornication and marries another, she becomes an adulteress, and the man she marries becomes an adulterer, and to continue to live in this state is simply to continue to live in adultery.

The woman who was brought to the Saviour, having been caught in the very act, is no example to resort to as an excuse, in our judgment. She was brought before the Saviour by those who were seeking to entangle and condemn our Lord. This lesson teaches us that the Saviour's mission was not to administer the law, neither was He to sit as judge to pass sentence on those who violated it. This was not His mission, which is clearly taught in this circumstance. His work was to fulfill the law, to render satisfaction to it.

These are our views on this subject. We do not propose to give them as a standard for our people, but we feel it is a safe position. We trust our brethren everywhere will study the matter carefully and prayerfully. Then may the Lord enable us to go in the right way, knowing no man after the flesh, but to have a true regard for the right, and give us Christian fortitude to walk in that way, and help us to always do that which is well-pleasing in His sight.

C. H. C.

REMARKS TO ELDER A. B. WHATLY ON ORGANS

---July 20, 1909

We agree with Elder Whatly, if we understand him, on every point except the organ question. We agree with him in being opposed to the use of it, but we cannot understand how he can oppose making it a test of fellowship, and at the same time admit that the old temple with all its service is destroyed. The very fact that the organ, or instrumental music, was used in the temple worship, and that the temple and all its worship has been destroyed, is proof enough that it should not be tolerated or fellowshiped in gospel worship and service. If it is right to admit this into gospel service and to not non-fellowship it, then it would also necessarily be right to admit any and all of the temple worship into the gospel church. Why not have the high priests to make offerings of beasts and birds year by year? We can just as consistently admit this into the gospel church as any other part of the temple service. All the temple worship and service has been abolished and destroyed, and no part of it can be admitted into the gospel church without denying the work of our blessed Redeemer and Law Giver.

We do think the brethren who have them should be willing to dispense with them for the sake of peace. Is it possible that they desire to be entangled with a "yoke of bondage," and prefer law worship and service rather than the fellowship of their brethren? For our part we prefer the plain simple gospel worship as given by our loving Master, and the fellowship of His humble followers, rather than have any of the law or temple worship with all its pomp and noise and splendor. The plain simple gospel worship suits us. May the Lord help us all to be content therewith. C. H. C.

Got His Papers

GOT HIS PAPERS

---July 27, 1909

New York, July 8.-The Rev. George Ashmore Fitch, one of three graduates of Union Theological Seminary, who in a recent examination denied the virgin birth of Christ, the historical identity of Adam and Eve, the raising of Lazarus from the dead and the resurrection of the body of the Saviour, was nevertheless ordained last night by the New York Presbytery by a vote of 10 to 7. He will sail this week for China to take up missionary work in Shanghai.

The Rev. Dr. Daniel Seelye Gregory, managing editor of the Standard dictionary and educator of note, spoke for the opposition.

"Tonight," he said, "it was a case of the Bible against the man. One or the other had to be thrown out, and the Presbytery of New York threw out the Bible as the infallible guide of faith and practice."

REMARKS

The above clipping only shows very plainly the tendency of modern theology. The denial of those things referred to is but a flat denial of the divinity of Christ, and virtually a denial of the existence of God. To what are the people drifting! And all this, too, under the cloak of professed Christianity. It seems to us that the dark clouds are gathering thick and fast. An awful storm seems to be approaching. Oh, Lord, shelter and deliver thy poor little tempest-tossed and tried children. May the Lord look in pity and restrain the on-coming storm, if it can be His will, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

In The Days of Noah

IN THE DAYS OF NOAH

---August 10, 1909

Dear Brother Cayce, we would be glad to hear you on some words like this, "As it was in the days of Noe so shall it be at the coming of the Son of man."

DANIEL H. WIJON

Coolidge, Ga.

REMARKS

We suppose the Scripture referred to is (Matthew 24:37), which reads, "But as the days Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be." The same thing is spoken of in (Luke 17:26). The following verses tell how the people were doing in Noah's day, until he entered the ark and the flood came. The coming of the Son of man refers to His coming in the gospel kingdom after His resurrection, when the old law worship and service has been fully closed out, and the light of gospel service and worship has been fully set up; and the destruction of Jerusalem is also referred to, as may be seen in the connection. It was a time of much wickedness in Noah's day, when he entered the ark-so was it a time of much wickedness when Jerusalem was destroyed, the old law worship and service done away, and the light of gospel worship and service fully ushered in. C. H. C.

Titus 3

---August 17, 1909

ELDER. C. H. CAYCE: Dear brother-I will kindly ask you to give me information on (Titus 3:3-4,5). And you will oblige me by giving me Scripture where all things are predestinated. Yours fraternally, Atlanta, Ark.

J. F. MILLS.

REMARKS

(Titus 3:3), reads, "For we ourselves also were sometimes foolish, disobedient, deceived, serving divers lusts and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful, and hating one another." This describes the condition of these characters in nature without the work of Christ in salvation. This is the true condition of all in nature. Verses 4, 5, 6 and 7, read, "But after that the kindness and love of God our Saviour toward man appeared, not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost; which He shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour; that being justified by His grace, we should be made heirs according to the hope of eternal life." This is a clear and positive statement that they are not saved by works of righteousness which they do. Their salvation from the deplorable state described in verse 3 was wholly the work of God, and was simply and purely of His mercy. This was, and is, all bestowed upon the sinner through what Christ has done for him. He is regenerated, born again, born from above, by the power of the Holy Ghost-not because of the righteous works of the sinner, for it is altogether through what Christ has done for him. Hence, the sinner is justified by grace. This justification makes him an heir of God, and is according to the hope of eternal life. The true hope of eternal life is based solely on what the Lord has done for poor sinners, and not on what he expects to do or has done. (I Corinthians 6:11) expresses the same idea: "And such were some of you: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God." The washing, cleansing, and regenerating of the sinner is the work of the Spirit of God. God does that for the sinner which qualifies him to live in and enjoy heaven, and this is all of grace.

There is no Scripture which says all things are predestinated. The very best any can do who believe that doctrine is to infer that it is true, for there is no place in Scripture which says so. (Jeremiah 7:31) says, "And they have built the high places of Tophet, which is in the valley of the son of Hinnom, to burn their sons and their daughters in the fire; which I commanded them not, neither came it into my heart." This was one thing that God certainly did not predestinate.

C. H. C.

In Indiana

IN INDIANA

---August 31, 1909

We left home at 4 p. m. on Wednesday, August 11, to attend the White Water Association at Village Creek Church, near Connersville, Ind. We arrived at Connersville at about 11 o'clock on Thursday and were conveyed to the home of Elder E. W. Harlan. This was the one hundredth anniversary of this association. There was a division in the association about the year 1845, which was brought about by a misunderstanding more than by real difference, so that there have been two parties going by the name of the White Water Association since that time. The two bodies discovered that they were really one people, and so have been in correspondence for a number of years. At this session they all met as one body, the White Water Association. The following ministers were present: Elders R. W. and John M. Thompson, Greenfield, Ind.; J. R. Wilson, John R. and J. Harvey Daily, Indianapolis, Ind.; Lawrence Ragan, Danville, Ind.; C. W. Radcliff, Mount Vernon, Ind.; E. W. Harlan, Connersville, Ind.; N. L. Ford, Fowlerton, Ind.; T. C. Williams, Magrew, Ohio; C. F. Stucky, Norris City, Ill.; J. T. Stewart, Beans Creek, Tenn.; Joseph Taylor, North Manchester, Ind.; W. N. Tharp, Liberty, Ind.; A. F. Dove, Van Buren, Ohio; D. W. Owens, Hersman, Ill.; Joseph Ford, Seneca, Kan.; C. H. Cayce, Martin, Tenn., and Licentiate L. W. Johnson, Mathews, Ind. It was a pleasant meeting indeed. Brotherly love and the spirit of humility seemed to reign throughout the entire meeting.

On Monday, the 16th, we went to Williams Creek and filled appointments at 2 p. m. and at night, and enjoyed the meeting at both services.

On Tuesday we went to Rushville and filled an appointment at night. The privileges of the church were extended, when Sister Dora Todd came forward and was joyfully received. She is to be baptized by the worthy pastor, Elder John R. Daily, at the time of the next regular meeting, Saturday and Sunday, August 21, 22.

On Wednesday we went to Indianapolis, where we had meeting at 11 o'clock and at night. Elder Harvey Daily was with us at the night service, and Elder J. R. Wilson was with us both day and night. Elder J. R. Daily was away, filling appointments in Ohio. The two services were both very pleasant, and we enjoyed being with the brethren here again.

Today (Thursday) at 11:30 we left Indianapolis. We are now on our way to St. Louis, Mo., where we change cars to go to Rogers, Ark., to attend an association and to fill other appointments which have been arranged. We humbly ask the dear brethren and sisters to pray the Lord to sustain us. C. H. C.

SPIRITS IN PRISON

---August 31, 1909

Brother Cayce:-I see that my article has come to the light, but it appears from your remarks that it was with some degree of reluctance that you gave it space. You will notice that I did not require you to endorse it. I hope it was not expected that I should do such a thing before you publish it. Now, as you have said you did not see it as I did, many of your readers, as well as myself, want you to tell us how you do see it. If I am wrong I want to be right, and if you are wrong you ought to be set right; and all honesty, justice, fairness and brotherly-kindness demand that you give your readers something better. If I am wrong and my position is assuming, you ought to lift me out of the ditch, or said nothing about it, and let me continue therein, but it is up to you to give a better exegesis of it. I am open to conviction and honestly desire the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. Will you publish these few lines and give us your views on the subject? Yours in hope of eternal life,

D. Hoppers

Jackson, Tenn.

OUR REPLY

We will say, first, that whether Brother Hopper expected it or not, it is generally expected and understood that the editor endorses what he publishes in his paper, unless he states that he does not. This being true, a large majority of our readers would have thought that we agreed with Brother Hopper if we had said nothing. While we thought, and yet think, Brother Hopper's views on the subject were not correct, yet we did not think the matter of sufficient importance to call for more than what we said. But as Brother Hopper, in the above letter, calls us out on the question, and seems to think justice, etc., demands that we give our views, we will endeavor to do so. Just here, however, we wish to call attention to the fact that here is a way in which controversy very frequently begins. Of course, if the editor gives space for an article containing views which he does not agree with, he could not consistently refuse space for a reply by someone expressing the view which he does agree with. Then the first brother thinks he should be allowed the privilege of a reply-so there it goes. Sometimes there is hardly any end to it. There is too much controversy among our people already, and we want none on this question, especially so, as we think we are agreed with Brother Hopper in doctrine. If we are not mistaken the question between us is simply as to what this text teaches. We believe that sinners are regenerated now by the operation and power of the Holy Spirit, just as they were in Noah's day. We are sure Brother Hopper believes the same thing. We think the text teaches this truth, while Brother Hopper thinks it teaches something else. As we understand the matter, that is the difference between us.

Now, let us have the text-(I Peter 3:18-21): For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the Spirit: by which also He went and preached unto the spirits in prison; which sometime were disobedient, when once the longsuffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved by water. The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God,) by the resurrection of Jesus Christ. Christ suffered for sins; but He was the just one, and therefore had no sins of His own for which to suffer. He suffered for the sins of others, and those for whose sins He suffered were unjust. As they were unjust, they were justly condemned, and He was not under obligation to them to suffer for their sins. In suffering for their sins He was put to death in the flesh. He laid down His life for them. But He was quickened by the Spirit. On the third day He was made alive from the dead; His body was raised from the grave by the power of the Spirit, the third person in the adorable Trinity. Hence He was quickened by the Spirit, by which also He went and preached unto the spirits in prison.

He preached unto the spirits in prison by the same Spirit by which He was quickened or raised from the grave. This preaching was done while the ark was a preparing-not after the ark was prepared. The apostle refers to preaching done by the Spirit while the ark was a preparing, not to preaching done to those in the ark after it was prepared. Preaching is teaching, and there is a lesson the Lord teaches by the Spirit. See ((4:13) (Isaiah 54:13); (John 6:45). The grace of God in the heart in the work of the Holy Spirit in regeneration teaches something. See (Titus 2:11-12). In nature, or in an unregenerate state, all are alike; all are, in that state, by nature, children of wrath or children of disobedience. See (Ephesians 2:1-5). While in this condition they are in the prison house of sin, yet they are willing prisoners, for they are in love with sin, and remain so until the Lord performs His work in their hearts or spirits by His Spirit, thus preaching to the spirits in prison and proclaiming liberty to them. Thus, the Lord preached to the spirits in prison in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing. Regeneration, or proclaiming liberty to the captive of sin, the opening of the prison to them that were bound, was therefore the work of the Lord by the Holy Spirit in Noah's day, while the ark was a preparing, just as it was in the days of the apostles, and as it is yet. Sinners were regenerated by the work of the Spirit in the days of Noah, just as they are now. The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; He hath sent me to bind up the broken hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound; to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all that mourn; to appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that He might be glorified. ((61:1) (Isaiah 61:1-3). In this we are taught that the Saviour was anointed to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound. He does this by the Spirit-by the same Spirit by which He was quickened. This work was done that way in Noah's day, and in the apostle's day, and it is done that way yet. Again, ((2:6) (Isaiah 42:6-7): I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles; to open the blind eyes, to bring out the prisoners from the prison, and them that sit in darkness out. It was that way in the days of Noah, and it is that way yet.

These characters were sometime disobedient. The same thought is expressed in (Ephesians 2:1-2,3). It is also clearly expressed in (Ephesians 5:8), "For ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord: walk as children of light." They were "sometimes darkness," were "sometimes disobedient." They were this way, or in this condition, until brought out of the prison of sin by the same Spirit by which Christ was raised from the dead.

If these thoughts are not in harmony with God's word we would not have our readers accept them, but they appear to us to be in harmony with the teaching of the Scriptures, and we give them to Brother Hopper and our readers praying the Lord to bless them to your good. C. H. C.

In Missouri

IN MISSOURI

---September 28, 1909

In the close of our last report we stated that we were on our way to Rogers, Ark., to attend an association near that place. We arrived at Rogers at 6:52 on Friday morning, August 20, and were met at the train by Brother A. Verhine, who lived in our country several years ago, but who now lives near Rogers. He conveyed us to his home, then to the Sugar Creek Association, which was held on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 20, 21, and 22.

There were about fourteen ministers in attendance. We failed to get their names. The services were pleasant and seemed to be enjoyed by nearly all who were present, but there was some discord in the business of the association. It appeared that there was complaint by some of the churches about the doctrine Elder Fairchild had been advocating. On Friday there was some discussion of the differences, when it was decided that there was more of a misunderstanding than real difference. Elder Fairchild agreed not to officiate with the unlimited predestinarian Baptists where that doctrine has caused division. We trust the matter is settled, but time will develop the matter as to whether it was only a smoothing over and hiding of real differences or not.

On Monday after the association we visited Cousin Sallie Little, the widow of Elder N. W. Little, who formerly lived in Clinton, Ky. We spent Monday night at the home of Sister Kieser, who formerly lived near Cayce, Ky. Sister Luetta Hawkins, of San Antonio, Texas, sister of Sister Kieser, was there on a visit. We knew them in our childhood days. On Tuesday we went to Eureka Springs to visit our mother's sister, Mrs. R. B. Ray, whom we had not seen for several years, and remained with her until Wednesday afternoon at 5:15, when we took train for Springfield, Mo., changing cars at Seligman. Elders W. J. Taylor and W. A. Barham were on the train when we got on at Seligman. We arrived at Springfield at nearly midnight, and went to the home of Brother F. M. Morris, where we were kindly cared for. Next morning (Thursday), in company with Elders Taylor and Barham, we left Springfield for Newburg, Mo., where we were met by Brother I T. Mathis and conveyed to his home, about fourteen miles. Elder Taylor preached that night at Brother Mathis' home. On Friday we were conveyed to the place of the association (the Little Piney), where we tried to preach that night. The association convened next day, and continued through Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The following elders were in attendance: C. C. Agee, Northview, Mo.; W. J. Taylor, Garfield, Ark.; W. A. Barham, Watalula, Ark.; C. M. Harris, Putnam, Okla.; J. T. Jenkins, Relfe, Mo., and the writer. This was a good and pleasant meeting indeed. On Monday the following nine sisters came to the church, asking for a home with them: Aggie L. Mathis, Ella Jenkins, Jennie Cowan, Carrie Chit, Jennie Hamilton, Ann Evans, Katie Melton, Jennie Melton and Lorette Steele. This meeting will long be remembered.

On Monday afternoon, in company with Elder W. J. Taylor, we were conveyed to the home of Dr. S. F. Arthur, in Lecombe, where we spent the night. On Tuesday we were conveyed to Lake Springs Church, where we had services on Tuesday, Tuesday night, Wednesday and Wednesday night.

The meeting was a very pleasant one. Elder Taylor being with us, did part of the preaching.

On Thursday morning we were conveyed by Brother J. D. Bradford to Rolla, where we boarded the train for Springfield. Spent the night again with Brother Morris. On Friday morning we went to Bolivar, Mo., and were conveyed to Harmony Church to attend the Ozark Association. We tried to preach at the association ground that night. The association convened on Saturday and continued through Sunday and Monday. The following elders were in attendance: W. J. and J. G. Taylor, of Garfield, Ark.; W.

T. Branson, Houstonia, Mo.; T. H. Jenkins, Relfe, Mo.; C. M. Harris, Putnam, Oklahoma; C. C. Agee, Northview, Mo.; L. A. Green and J. H. White, Louisburg, Mo.; R. A. Wiseman, Fairgrove, Mo.; L. C. Mills, Longlane, Mo.; J. A. Ford, Buffalo, Mo.; D. E. Smith, Duncan, Mo.; W. M. Biddie, Not, Mo., and the writer. On Monday Sister Oma Breshears asked for a home in the church and was gladly received. The meeting was sweet and pleasant and will be long remembered.

On Tuesday and Wednesday we tried to preach at Louisburg. Elders White, Green, Ford and Hodges were with us here. On Wednesday Brother L. H. Rice was gladly received into the church and was baptized that afternoon by Elder Green.

On Thursday we tried to preach at New Hope Church, Elder Green being with us there. The meeting was a very pleasant one.

On Friday we had two pleasant services at Pisgah Church, and on Saturday a pleasant meeting at New Bethel Church, and at night in Niangua, although we were very nearly worn out on account of so much travel and trying to preach twice every day. In Niangua we met Elder S. F. Stone.

On Sunday morning we went to Springfield, where we enjoyed a very pleasant meeting at 11 o'clock a. m., and at 3 p. m. A Brother Edwards was received into the fellowship of the church by relation.

On Monday we went to Fellowship Church, near Northview, and tried to preach on Monday and Tuesday. Elder Green preached on Monday night. Elders Green and Wiseman were both with us here on Tuesday.

On Wednesday and Thursday we tried to preach at Ozark Church. Elders Agee and Ford were with us here. At this church the brethren camped on the ground and had two services in the day on Wednesday and had services also at night. It was a pleasant meeting, and will be long remembered by us.

The tour has been a pleasant one to us. The brethren have kindly received us and have been good to us-much better than we feel to deserve. We feel to be but a poor unprofitable servant, if a servant at all. Space forbids us mentioning the names of all whose homes we visited and who were so kind to convey us from place to place, but we feel to appreciate their many acts of kindness shown to us.

At this writing (Friday, Sept. 17), we are at the home of Elder C. C. Agee, near Northview, Mo. We expect to start in a few minutes with him and Sister Agee for Billings to attend the Center Creek Association.

Again we ask an interest in the prayers of all our brethren and sisters, that the Lord may bless our labors to the comfort of His dear children, although our labors be weak and feeble.

C. H. C.

Sad Conditions

SAD CONDITIONS

---October 5, 1909

Miss ANNIE WALL: Dear Sister, Cherishing a Precious Hope in Christ-Your kind favor of some time past received and read with pleasure. I trust you will pardon me for not answering sooner; the delay was unavoidable, as I try to serve four churches, all at a distance, except my home church, and I farm on a small scale to support my family. My sister, I wish to encourage you, as I gather from your letter you have a faithful mind, and I trust your practical life will ever be in harmony with the profession you have made, and that you may be like Mary who chose that good part which should never be taken from her, which was to sit at the feet of Him whom she loved.

I greatly fear there are many uniting with the old church today who do not realize what a solemn thing it is to publicly profess Christ, and what it requires to be a follower of the meek and lowly Lamb of God, who do not first sit down and count the cost to see whether they have sufficient to finish after they have laid the foundation. See ((28) (Luke 14:28-29). Ah, indeed, I greatly fear many of us today still remember that country from whence we came out. (Hebrews 11:15).

My dear sister, these are perilous times. Our adversary, the devil, seems to have universal sway over mankind. My sister, you rightfully state you believe God has all power, etc., and then say, "I wonder why things are as they are?" This is a question which none but God alone can answer; He has nowhere told us that we could prevent our surroundings, or prevent perilous times from coming, but told us plainly they were coming.

Therefore He cautioned His people to beware, take heed, lest at any time their hearts be overly charged with surfeiting, and drunkenness and cares of this life and that day came on you unawares (unexpected). (Luke 21:34), "Take heed, lest at any time This is one of the times the above language is applicable, but it is too late to take warning after His people have been overcome with the cares, riches, and pleasures of this life. (Luke 8:14). The caress riches and pleasures of this life are the thorns, and I have no idea the thorns ever were at numerous as they are today. The world never witnessed as prosperous times as we are now. passing through, therefore, His people have waxed fat and kicked, and lightly esteemed the rock of their salvation.-(Deuteronomy 32:15). The Bible account of God's people, they never withstand the temptations produced by prosperity. Prosperity produces a state of ease in Zion, and woe to them that are at ease in Zion. ((Amos 6:1) (Amos 6:1). Poverty is a blessing to people. He says, "Blessed be ye poor, for yours is the kingdom of God." -(Luke 6:20).

Oh, but say some, the above means to be poor in spirit. But when are they poor in spirit In prosperity, or in adversity? Nay, but in adversity. When the Spirit directed John to writs to the angel of the church in Smyrna, she was in tribulation and poverty, but rich.

(Revelation 2:9) Rich, because the kingdom of God was hers, and was all she had. He admonished her to be faithful unto death, and He would give her a crown of life. She was highly honored, but ah, how unlike the church at Laodicea who said she was rich, and increased with goods, etc. Instead of a crown of life being promised her for her faithfulness, He threatens to spew her out of His mouth (equivalent to casting her out of His sight) for her unfaithfulness, and I haven't a doubt but that we are now in the Laodicean state of the church, which is Paul's last days of perilous times, and is the end of the two witnesses' testimony in sackcloth, which is the church and God's ministry.

This is an age of ease in which the old man is seeking for, and is now enjoying, a good time; while the new, or inner man, is bowed down with sighs and groans unutterable. An age of idleness, and idleness breeds crime, which is now on the increase, and that too of the blackest hue. An age when darkness covers the earth, and gross darkness the people, etc. ((60:2) (Isaiah 60:2). I heartily agree with you, my sister, that God has called ministers in this age of the world, as in the primitive age of the church, and that His people are inspired by the same Spirit, or power, to hear and receive the gospel that they are to preach it. If not, then He has neither ministry nor church. But, my sister, have we, both minister and laity, given diligence to make our calling and election sure? (II Peter 1:10). He says if ye do these things ye shall never fall. I don't think it can be successfully denied that both minister and laity have fallen or left their first love. Of course, God's love, like Himself, never changes. He loved His people before the world began, yea, even His people of today. Our love may, and has grown cold toward Him, but His love never grows cold toward His people. He says, if any man love the world, or even the things of the world, the love of the Father is not in him. See (I John 2:15-16). He does not say the grace of God is not in him.

The sequel of the whole matter is, His people cannot love both God and the world. Either we will hate the one and love the other, or else we will hold to the one and despise the other. "You cannot serve (love) both God and mammon." -(Matthew 6:24).

My dear sister, you urge the necessity of asking and seeking, which is our Master's instruction, and I would not discourage you in urging this great lesson, but remember, my sister, that James says, "We ask and receive not, because we ask amiss, that we may consume it upon our lusts (pleasures)." -(3) (James 4:3). Our lusts (pleasures) are the channel through which wars and fightings entered our once happy home, and it seems to me that Achan has brought that goodly Babylonish garment and silver, and that golden wedge, into our camps, which has divided us, and thrown all Israel into confusion. Covetousness is the channel through which the above things entered the camps of Israel.

My dear young sister, covetousness -a desire for the good things of this life-is the channel through which we have been led away from the simplicity of the gospel, from the old paths, wherein is that good way, and we are now in a far country, where we have wasted our substance in riotous living. We are in the enemies' land among thieves, near Jerico, where we have been stripped of our raiment (peculiarities) and are in a deathly state, and nothing but the Spirit of life from the Lord will ever revive us, which will surely be sooner or later, for John saw His people revived after they had lain in the streets of the great city three days and a half. They, of course, were spiritually dead and stripped of their raiment.

Peter, looking through prophecy, saw all these things and said, "We, according to promise look for a new heaven and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness." -(II Peter 3:13). And John says he saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away and there was no more sea. (Revelation 21:1). This was after the man of sin was bound, and the sudden destruction of that great city Babylon, the mistress of the world. ((0) (Revelation 18:20-21).

This occurred between the time that John saw the Spirit of life from the Lord enter into them and they stood upon their feet, and their coming up out of great tribulation, {(Revelation 2:11)} and the time that he saw all things made new; therefore, he says, "And there came unto me one of the seven angels which had the seven vials," etc., "and he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain (the mountain of God's holiness; ((8:1) (Psalms 48:1)) and shewed me that great city," etc. This great city is the bride, the Lamb's wife, after she had come up out of great tribulation (not out of graves, but out of great tribulation), and had washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. I know (Revelation 21) is looked upon by many as giving a description of the church in her glorified state in eternity, after the resurrection of these vile bodies, but then he says, "And the nations of them which are saved shall walk in the light of it (the church), and the kings of the earth do bring their glory and honor into it." -24th verse. The nations of the earth which are saved, are the nations healed, for after she had come up out of great tribulation (out of the streets of the great city where she had been overcome, and trodden under foot so long) she bore twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month, and the leaves of the tree (her leaves) were for the healing (saving) of the nations {(Revelation 22:2)} and they shall walk in her light. Ezekiel bears testimony to the same time and things. See (Revelation 17); also (Isaiah 35) bears testimony to the same great event. He begins by saying, "The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them, and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose," etc. Then closed by saying, "And the ransomed (redeemed) of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs, and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away." The above Scriptures have never been fulfilled, but will be, and I believe everything is preparatory to, and is ready for that great day.

My sister, I have been more lengthy than I intended when I began this letter, but if you are wearied I hope you will pardon me. I know I have but poorly expressed myself, but believe my position true. I will close, and may God's richest blessings be with you, and may you ever adorn your profession, and be a bright light in our Father's kingdom, is the prayer of yours, I hope, in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ.
H. W. NEWTON.

Oak Grove, Mo.
REMARKS

By request we give space to the letter from Elder H. W. Newton in another place in this paper, but we must ask Brother Newton to please excuse us from accepting all he has said concerning the Primitive Baptists. We have never met Brother Newton, yet we love him, and we do not differ from him for the sake of difference, but because our experience and association among the Old Baptists teach us that he is wrong. We do not know how it is in Brother Newton's immediate vicinity, right at his home-brethren there may have all forsaken the right way, they may all be seeking after the inventions of men they may all be seeking after the things of the world and not after godliness their ears may be stopped, their eyes closed, and they may be "rich and increased with goods, and have need of nothing;" they may all be worldly minded, instead of spiritually minded-we say they may be this way where Brother Newton lives-but this is by no means universal among our people. It is true that there may be some errors among us in some localities, but this has always been true, and it is no worse now than it has been heretofore-and we are sure it is not as bad as it has been at times in the past. The Primitive Baptists, as a body, are a people who want to do right. They desire to know and practice the truth, and we are going to give them credit for it. We do not mean that we are going to give them the glory or honor-no. We feel to give the glory and honor to God that He preserves and keeps true and faithful witnesses for truth, and that there are many yet who have not bowed the knee to the image of Baal. We are well aware of the fact that many, very many, of the Lord's dear children are blinded by the false teachers of this world, and are seeking after earthly riches and pleasures. Yet the Lord has reserved a remnant who are witnesses for truth and are walking in the good old ways our fathers trod. That remnant is composed of the great body of the Primitive or Old School Baptists. This is true, so far as the United States is concerned. Please let us say, not boastingly, but meekly, that we have been among the Old Baptists to a small extent, at least, in about fourteen states, and we must say that as a body of people they are, as a rule, poor in worldly goods, yet willing to divide their few small possessions to relieve the sick, clothe the naked, feed the hungry and to care for their poor faithful servants in the ministry. They love the Lord and His sweet service more than they do the world and all its glories. As a rule they are a God-loving, God-honoring, God-fearing, meek, humble, quiet, peaceable, faithful and true people. They love the humble and simple service of the Lord, and they have proven to us that they do-and they are continually proving it to us. We love them more and more on this account, and do not see how we could get along in this old world without them; and we beg that they allow us to have only a very low place with them while the Lord spares us to live on earth. We do not say anything with an intention of wounding any person on earth, but because we think Brother Newton is wrong, if we understand him, and we just loved our precious brethren too well not to say so. We love dear Brother Newton, too, and humbly trust he will not be offended at us.

Again we ask an interest in the prayers of the dear brethren and sisters.

C. H. C.

God The First Cause

GOD THE FIRST CAUSE

---October 26, 1909

This world is governed by the law of cause and effect-not one thing is left to blind chance.

There is not only a cause for every effect, but there is a cause for every cause except the First Cause. The First Cause is an uncaused cause—all the reasons of its existence are in itself.

First Cause is another name for God. God is the first cause of all causes.—F. in Footprints of the Flock for September, 1909.

The above from the pen of Elder J. W. Fairchild, in his paper of September, 1909, savors of “rotteness” to us. We said before that we did not endorse his so-called peace proposition, or peace appeal, and we are not yet sorry we said it. We now say that the above is a strange doctrine to us—not strange in the sense that we never heard it before, but strange in the sense that it doesn't read just right to us. According to the logic of it God did not cause Adam to violate the law, but the devil caused Adam to do so. And Elder Fairchild says God is the first cause of all causes. Then God caused the devil to cause Adam to violate the law. Adam would not have violated the law if the devil had not caused him to do so; and the devil would not have caused Adam to violate the law if God had not caused him to do that. There can be no effect without a cause. Then Adam could not have violated the Law if the devil had not caused him to do so, and the devil could not have caused Adam to violate the law if God had not caused him to do so. If this does not make God the author and first cause of sin, we confess we do not know the meaning of the words. There is no use caviling over the matter; it simply makes God the first cause and the author of all sin. We freely say we do not believe any such teaching, and must be excused. It is not Bible doctrine, and we stand just where we have been standing regarding it. We do not believe the churches in that country will endorse such teaching. If Elder Fairchild wants recognition among our people, he should make a “clean surrender” of the doctrine of the absolute and unconditional predestination of all things, and quit publishing that doctrine in his paper. If he will not do this, there is no need to plead for peace. Advocating that doctrine causes trouble and strife, and there is no use to plead for peace and advocate the doctrine at the same time. If a man is in earnest in pleading for peace, the way to prove, or show it is to quit advocating the things that cause trouble. That doctrine caused trouble among our churches in this country, and we do not want a man among us who advocates it. This is plain, but it behooves us to be plain. C. H. C.

Missions and Methods

MISSIONS AND METHODS

---November 9, 1909

We have received and read a copy of "Missions and Mission Methods," a book of 287 pages. recently published by Elder J. H. Millburn, of Union City, Tenn. Elder Milburn is an anti-board Missionary Baptist. In this book he takes the position that the commission, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature, was given to the church, and that the obligation of it now rests upon the churches, and not upon boards, societies or other inventions of men. Although we think he is wrong in his position regarding the commission, we agree with him that these boards and societies are simply inventions of men, and deny the authority of Christ. On page 238 he says:

"Baptists got along without any such Episcopal machinery for over seventeen hundred years; we can get along without it now; my brother, will you try to be loyal to Christ, and let such institutions of men alone?" This is precisely what our people thought and believed at the time of the division when Gary, Fuller and others introduced those things into the Baptist family. The Baptists got along without those things seventeen hundred years, and we are still getting along without them.

On page 12 he says: "God has always had faithful witnesses; He has now and will have until He shall come again. God has never had less, at any time, than 'a remnant according to the election of grace.' At this time, however, God has a mighty host, but alas, many of them are asleep in regard to the perilous times which are upon them. The conflict is on; multitudes have taken a firm stand 'on the Lord's side' against innovations and the inventions of men in religious matters," etc. The Primitive Baptists took that firm stand all along the line. We remained on that platform when those things (inventions). were introduced into the Baptist family by Fuller & Co. Your people left the "Lord's side" when they went into these things that gave rise to the division.

On page 65 he says: "It is only when men go beyond God's revealed will and teach and practice that which is not required that divisions and strife come among the children of God." This being true, it follows that those men who introduced these inventions and methods of which Elder Milburn complains were the cause of the division in the Baptist family. It must, therefore, necessarily be true that the Missionary Baptists are the seceding party, and are not the original Baptists. Those things are not in God's revealed will. The parties who introduced, taught and advocated those things went "beyond God's revealed will," and, therefore, departed from the original principles, and so are not the original Baptist church. The Missionary Baptist church is, therefore, a new sect, and is not the church of Christ.

On page 107 he says: "Honestly, reader, what do you think of those editors and authors (?) who persistently assert that those who refuse to adopt Conventionism have 'split off,' but will never tell what they have 'split off' from? There were no Baptist Conventions, nor Convention Baptists, nor churches cooperating with organizations of similar character or kind, for over 1,700 years. We ask again: In the name of right and justice, what is it those churches refusing to cooperate with Conventions have 'split off' from?" This is a question we would like to have answered, too. It is a question the Missionary Baptists have failed to answer for years. If the churches that refuse to cooperate with Conventions have not "split off," then the Primitive Baptists have not "split off," but the Missionaries have; for the Primitive Baptists have, all along, refused to cooperate with their machinery, while the Missionaries have cooperated with those things, and those things caused the division.

Elder Milburn brings some very serious charges against the boards, and shows very clearly and plainly that they are unscriptural and that it is very wrong to cooperate with them, or to aid them in their work. We would be glad to give more extracts from the book, but space forbids. As stated above, we think he is wrong in the position that the commission was given to the church. Neither do we endorse all the doctrinal sentiment he has advanced, but we do heartily endorse the sentiment that the boards and societies they have are the inventions of men and are unscriptural. The book contains much valuable information. The price is one dollar. If you want a copy, send a dollar to Elder J. H. Milburn, Union City, Tenn., and he will send you one. C. H. C.

Organs in Churches

ORGANS IN CHURCHES

---November 16, 1909

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: My Dear Brother-Our church at Cordele does not, nor never has used an organ in its song service, and there is not a member that desires that we use one; however, there are some churches in Georgia that do use the organ.

Will you answer briefly the following question? Should we exclude from our fellowship a church which uses an organ in its song service, but does not urge its use upon others, and is otherwise sound and orderly?

Thanking you in advance for an early reply, I am, yours in hope,

THOS J. MCARTHUR

Cordele, Ga.

OUR REPLY

The above may have been intended as a private request; it may have been sent with the expectation of a reply by private letter, but as we have no secrets in the matter, we decided to publish the request with our reply.

If a church in our association (the Greenfield) should introduce an organ into her service, the sister churches would at once labor with her to get her to remove it. If she failed to do so, she would certainly be dropped from our union. This is what we would do. But your question has in it, "should they do so?" We most emphatically, yet kindly, say yes. Law worship and law service has been closed out, and has no place in the gospel church. We could as consistently admit into our churches and fellowship the whole brood of Arminian law worship, service and practice, as we could admit the organ part of it. As for our part we want none of it.

C. H. C.

Not Surprised

NOT SURPRISED

---November 23, 1909

We are not at all surprised that Brother C. H. Cayce should endorse Brother Milburn's argument against our regular missionary organizations. The Hardshells made these same fights against our Lord's work seventy-five years ago and the results have been fully demonstrated.- Baptist Builder, Nov. 17, 1909.

Elder Penick need not be surprised when we endorse the truth at any time. But if Elder Penick should ever endorse the truth it would surprise us very much. It is a very easy matter to say "so-and-so has done so-and-so" - much easier than to answer arguments or fair questions. Will you pray tell us what the "Hardshells," as you call us, split off from in opposing your societies, boards and conventions-when none of those things existed among the Baptists prior to 1792? Your mission system is unauthorized by the word of God, and is foreign to truth. C. H. C.

Questions

QUESTIONS

---November 23, 1909

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-I want to ask you to give me your views on the Scripture where Christ said, "In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you." Did He mean the church here in this world, or in heaven?

We are divided into four factions here. Don't you believe it would be best not to join any church? I believe we can serve God as well out of the church as we can in it.

There are a number of Primitive Baptists here who do not belong to the church. I take THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. I read the paper and then mail them to parties in North Carolina and Tennessee. It doesn't cost but little to send them. I sent four to a Missionary preacher who is an organ advocate. The organ is an idol. I am ninety-one years old-a poor old sinner.

Remember me in your prayers. Please answer the above.

D. C. WACASER

Garden City, Ala.

REMARKS

The Scripture referred to is recorded in (John 14:2). Brethren differ on this text, and we suppose will continue to do so. In some way there was a kingdom prepared for the Lord's people from the foundation of the world. "Inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." In another respect the death, burial, resurrection, ascension and intercession of Christ is necessary in this preparation and the reception of them into the place prepared for them. We think it is also true that the Lord makes or prepares a place for us here, and makes it our duty to fill that place. We believe our sainted father, Elder S. F. Cayce, filled his place.

To the next question, we would answer no. We do not think it best not to join any church. We think the Lord's people, who believe the truth, should join the Old Baptist Church, which we think is the church of Christ. If one can serve God as well out of the church as he can in it, then why did Christ establish His church? One cannot do some things the Lord has commanded His children to do without becoming a member of His church. Hence, he cannot serve God as well out of the church as he can in it, and therefore it is best to join the church. C. H. C.

Sinners and Ungodly

SINNERS AND UNGODLY

---November 23, 1909

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother in hope of eternal life-I want you to give me your views on the ungodly- who is he? It says, "If the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?" Yours for truth,

D. T. TOWNER

Oneonta, Ala.

REMARKS

The text cited above is in (I Peter 4:18). Verse 17 says, "For the time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God: and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God?" This shows clearly that the righteous referred to in verse 18 are those who obey the gospel, and that the saving is that which is enjoyed by those who do obey. Hence the ungodly and the sinner are those who do not obey the gospel.

C. H. C.

Questions From W. C. Moore

QUESTIONS FROM W. C. MOORE

---November 30, 1909

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Sir-Permit me to ask you a few questions in regard to the death of the Lord Jesus Christ and the salvation of the poor lost sinners, and answer them through the columns of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, if you feel disposed to do so. I am not a subscriber for your valuable paper, but I am a reader of your lovely, Christian-like paper, THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. Hence, I write to ask the following questions:

1. If God so loved His people as to give His Son to die for them, why did He not have the same love to give His Son to die for all?
2. If the death of Jesus Christ was based upon the principle of mercy, why was it not based upon the principle of mercy for all?
3. If Christ unconditionally atoned our actions, sins, why did He not also unconditionally atone the sins of the back-sliding Israel?
4. Does the Holy Spirit ever give any commands or warnings to sinners, in order to flee from the wrath to come? If not, why not?
5. What purpose did God have in creating the goats?

I would be glad for you or any writer of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST to answer the above questions through the columns of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. Now, I did not ask the above questions to bring a reproach upon your cause or its readers. I have always heard it preached in the Bible, general atonement, free agency, general calling, etc. So my motive in writing to you is to know the truth.

Will you or any writer to THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST favor me with a reply? Trusting you will favor me with this reply, I am, Yours very truly,

W. C. MOORE

Bellefontaine, Miss.

REMARKS

In answer to Question 1 we refer to (Romans 9:11-13): "For the children being not yet born, neither having done any good or evil, that the purpose of God according to election might stand, not of works, but of him that calleth; it was said unto her, The elder shall serve the younger. As it is written, Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated." This plainly tells us that God hated Esau. Then God did not love Esau. In verse 11 it is explained, "That the purpose of God according to election might stand." If any man can tell why God did not love Esau, he will tell why God did not love all the race. In Verse 14 the apostle anticipates and answers the objection that some make, that God is unrighteous if He loves a part of the race and does not love all the race. He says, "What shall we say then? is there unrighteousness with God? God forbid." Have we any right to reply against God, and ask why He does not love all the race, and bestow spiritual blessings upon all of them? Certainly not. Read verse 20 in the same chapter.

In answer to question 2 we will say: If the death of Christ was based upon a principle of mercy, then He had a right to die for a part of the race without dying for others. If He did not have this sovereign right, then His death was not mercy, but an obligation which He was under to sinners. If He was under obligation to them to die for them, and if they are saved through what He accomplished in His death, then their salvation is not a matter of mercy, but a matter of obligation-something the Lord was under obligation to them to do for them. If the salvation of the sinner is not of God's mercy, then the Bible is a farce, and the whole thing is a delusion, a snare and a myth. Sinners are saved by mercy-grace-through what Christ accomplished in His death. Therefore, His death was an act of mercy. As it was an act of mercy, He had a sovereign right to die for a part of the race, without dying for others.

Replying to question 3 we will say we suppose "actual" sins is meant by "actions" sins. We did not correct the word, because we did not know certainly that this was what was meant; but we will take it for granted in our answer. Christ did actually atone for all the actual sins of all His people, or else He did not do so. There could be no such thing as conditional atonement. Christ either made atonement, or else He did not make atonement. If He made atonement, then it is already done, and cannot now be conditional upon the part of the sinner. The sinner is the offending party; God is the offended. A mediator steps in between the offended and the offending parties. If the mediator makes atonement, or reconciliation, that atonement or reconciliation does not depend upon the offending party. Christ was the mediator, and He made atonement, or reconciliation, for the offense of those who were represented by Him in His offering. If He did not make atonement, or reconciliation, then His work as a mediator was a failure and God (the offended party) is still unreconciled. Then, if God becomes reconciled because of anything the sinner does, let it be whatever it may, then the work of Christ was a failure, and the sinner is not saved because of what Christ did for him, but because of what he does himself. Backsliding Israel were chastised for their sins, but chastisement is not atonement. To be made at one with God, the guilt of the sinner must be removed, and chastisement does not remove the guilt. The Lord's people are chastised now for their disobedience, but that does not atone. Christ made atonement for them. Christ did atone for the sins of His spiritual Israel among national Israel. "They are not all Israel, which are of Israel." The Jews were God's chosen people as a nation. Some of them were God's people spiritually. Christ made atonement for all the sins of His people spiritually-those embraced in the covenant of grace.

To question 4 we say unregenerate sinners are nowhere in God's word commanded to flee from the wrath to come. In nature the sinner is condemned already. Judgment has already been pronounced. He is guilty, and already condemned. To warn him to flee would be to tell him to run from justice-and if he could, and should, flee, he would only be an escaped convict. He cannot enter heaven an escaped convict. The great Judge of the Universe cannot be thus deceived. Then why should he be warned to flee? It would be the very height of folly.

To question 5 we say: "God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that He is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though He needed anything, seeing He giveth to all life and breath, and all things; and hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation." -(Acts 17:24-25,26). This tells why God made all men-"for to dwell on all the face of the earth." God did not make them sinners. Man was not a sinner as God made him. He made himself a sinner. Man transgressed the law of his creator, and thus became the offending party. The penalty for the offense was death. Hence, there must be the intervention of another party, or all are forever lost. Here Christ intervenes as mediator for His people and makes atonement, reconciliation, satisfaction for their sins. The others are not injured by the work of Christ, but are left where they are placed by reason of sin-transgression. C. H. C.

Remarks to J. C. Biggs

REMARKS TO J. C. BIGGS

---December 7, 1909

We are not sure that we understand Brother Biggs on every point. The children of God, we understand, belonged to Christ by gift before atonement was made by Him for them. When He died for them, then they were His also by redemption or purchase. In regeneration they are made His by vital relationship; they are God's people then by birth-a vital relationship or kinship then existing. In this (regeneration) they receive the spirit of adoption; and they are adopted when this mortal body is resurrected and received into the heavenly family.

God overrules, restrains and punishes sin and wickedness. He is in no sense the approver of it.

C. H. C.

First Cause Again

FIRST CAUSE AGAIN

---December 7, 1909

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-I can't understand your article in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST of October 26. Do you believe God put Adam in the garden to keep the law forever? If so, why did Christ stand as a lamb slain from the foundation of the world? I understand you to think that the devil was the cause of Adam's transgression, and God didn't intend it. Now I don't believe that God is the author of sin, no more than you do; but, my dear brother, I believe good was accomplished and not evil. What was more evil than the crucifixion of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, and Christ Himself said to one, "you have no power against me except it be given you from above;" and He also said "for this hour was I born, and for this cause came I into the world." But it took a devil to betray Him; and I believe God's purpose was carried out in Adam as it was in Christ. And, now, my dear brother, I want you to show me where I am wrong. I have not written this for publication; I only want you to show me where my mistake is. You can answer me through the paper or by private letter. I hate to ask this of you, but if I am wrong I want to be right. Dear brother, pray for me, that God may give me grace to bear me through this world of sin and sorrow. Your sister, I hope, saved by grace, if saved at all,

MRS. GEORGIA TOWNSEND
R. 1
Center, Miss.

OUR REPLY

In reply to your question, "Do you believe God put Adam in the garden to keep the law forever?" will say we believe just precisely what God's word says about it. "And the Lord God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it." -

(Genesis 2:15). If God put the man in the garden to violate His law, the Bible does not say so. We believe what the Bible says. If you believe what the Bible says, then you cannot believe God put the man in the garden to violate the law. No one can possibly believe both propositions, for they are diametrically opposed to each other. The Bible does not say Christ stood as a lamb slain from the foundation of the world. The text used in support of that thought is (Revelation 13:8), which says, "And all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world." The writing of the names in the book of life was from the foundation of the world. That book of life was the "book of life of the Lamb slain." The names were written from the foundation of the world. (Revelation 17:8) shows this to be true. It says, "And they that dwell on the earth shall wonder, whose names were not written in the book of life from the foundation of the world." A literal translation as given in the Interlinear New Testament, of (Revelation 13:8), is, "And shall do homage to it, all who dwell on the earth of whom have not been written the names from the foundation of the world in the book of life of the Lamb slain." To transpose the words, so as to have easy flowing English, we have it thus: "And all shall do homage to it, who dwell on the earth, the names of whom have not been written from the foundation of the world in the book of life of the Lamb slain." The very expression, "Christ stood as a Lamb slain from the foundation of the world" is contradictory within itself. if He stood, He was not slain. A lamb that is slain does not stand-it is cut down. Christ was cut down-Pie was slain for our sins, but He was raised again.

God did not predestinate that Adam should violate the law. God is the author of His predestination. You would surely admit this. Then, if God is the author of His predestination, and He predestinated that Adam should violate His law, then He is the author of the violation of that law. No man under heaven can escape that conclusion. One had just as well say the moon is blue mud and then try to argue that it is not, as to say God predestinated that Adam should sin, and then try to argue that God is not the author of sin. God did predestinate the salvation of His people, and He is the author of their salvation. He is the author of His predestination, if good, and not evil, was accomplished in Adam's transgression, then there is no such thing as evil. The heathenish and idolatrous infidel saying, that "Whatever is, is right," would then be true. Oh, horror of horrors! The idea that good, and not evil, is accomplished in all the crime, murder, theft, robbery, rape, wife-killing, mothers slaying their offspring-and all other crimes that are being committed all over the country! Lord, deliver us from such black, blasphemous, heathenish infidelity! To Pilate Jesus said, in (John 19:11), "Thou couldest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that delivered me unto thee hath the greater sin." The Jews had sought to take the life of the Saviour from the time of His advent into the world; but they could not take it. They did not take it, either. Christ laid down His life. See (John 10:17-18), "Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This commandment have I received of my Father." In (7) (John 18:37) Jesus said, "To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice."

If God's purpose was carried out in Adam, or if God predestinated that Adam should violate the law, then Adam did God's will when he violated the law, or else God predestinated that Adam should not do His will. If God's will was for Adam to violate the law, and He had predestinated that he do so, then God told him to do that which it was not His will for him to do. God told him not to eat of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. If God had predestinated that he should eat of the fruit of that tree, then He told him not to do the thing that He had predestinated he should do. The penalty for the violation of that law was death. If God willed and predestinated that he should violate the law, then the man is punished with death for doing God's will and what God predestinated that he should do. (I Corinthians 10:5), "But with many of them God was not well pleased: for they were overthrown in the wilderness." If God predestinated that they should do as they did, then God was not well pleased with His own predestination. If God's predestination is according to His will, then God was not well pleased with His own will in this instance, if He predestinated that they should do as they did. God did not predestinate that they should do as they did, for God is pleased with His predestination; but He was not pleased with them.

We fail to see where there is any grace in a system that puts the man in a state of sin by the predestination of God. If God predestinated that all should be sinners and then predestinated that some should be saved from sin, then God predestinated to save some from His own predestination. We fail to see where there is any room for grace in that kind of theory. It destroys every principle of grace. It would be as much damnation by grace as salvation by grace. Man sinned willfully, and by his own act brought condemnation and death. It was by man's disobedience, and not by the predestination of God. Hence, God's predestination has never damned anyone. But God did predestinate to save His chosen people from sin, and according to that predestination He saves them. His predestination to save them was grace- mercy alone. Hence they are saved by grace. We love the doctrine of grace. Poor rebel sinners are saved by grace. Without grace we are forever lost. But we do not love the doctrine that God absolutely predestinated everything that comes to pass, and that God is the cause of our sins and wickedness. If that doctrine be true, then God has absolutely predestinated that we should not believe it, and we are glad He did not leave that out.

C. H. C.

Questions

QUESTIONS

---December 14, 1909

(II Corinthians 12)

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-Please give your views of (II Corinthians 12). Does Paul have reference to himself or someone else in regard to the third heaven? Yours, saved by grace, if saved at all,

R. F. HORNER
Lane, Tenn.

Paul has reference to a vision or revelation which he had. In that revelation or vision he was caught up to the third heaven and "heard unspeakable words, which it is not lawful for a man to utter." That is, he heard words which are not possible for a man to utter.

C. H. C.

WHEN BORN OF THE SPIRIT

When a man is quickened into life is he born of the Spirit?

Yes, a man is born of the Spirit when he is quickened into divine life.

There are a number of figures used in the Scriptures to represent the work of the Holy Spirit in regeneration. The same work is called begotten, born, quickened, translated, resurrection, and also other figures. They are all used to represent the same thing. The idea conveyed by all of them is that the sinner is passive in receiving the new or higher order of life. C. H. C.

Psalms 14

(Psalms 14)

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-I want a little light on (Psalms 14). Did "the fool" use all the expressions in that chapter, or is it David's language? A religious sect in this country claims a man must live clear of sin, both soul and body; and if you refer them to (Romans 3:10) they refer to Psalm 14 and ask if we believe what the fool says.

B. A. CADDELL

R. 2

Centerville, Ala.

No, the fool did not use all the language recorded in the fourteenth Psalm.

Those who would say so are either grossly ignorant, or else they willfully misrepresent the matter. Who would be so grossly ignorant as to say the fool said, "Oh that the salvation of Israel were come out of Zion! when the Lord bringeth back the captivity of His people, Jacob shall rejoice, and Israel shall be glad." Here is another expression "the fool" did not make use of: "For there is not a just man upon earth, that doeth good, and sinneth not." This expression was used by the wise man, Solomon, in (Ecclesiastes 7:20). The man who will try to find one Scripture to contradict another plain statement in God's word does not believe the Bible, any way. He is an infidel. C. H. C.

ELECTION AND ATONEMENT

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-Please answer the following questions in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST and send a copy to me: Does election precede faith, or is election the cause of faith? How does the atonement apply to infants and insane persons?

Fraternally,

ELDER J. H. SIMMONS

R. 3

Hamilton, Ala.

Yes, the election precedes faith. "According as He hath chosen us in Him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blame before Him in love; having predestinated us unto the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to Himself, according to the good pleasure of His will." -(Ephesians 1:4-5). The apostle here says they were chosen in Christ before the foundation of the world. It must have been before they had faith, then.

The atonement applies to infants and insane persons just as it applies to others. The Holy Spirit makes the application. The idea that persons must perform conditions in order to receive the benefit of the atonement would exclude all infants and insane persons. Infants, idiots, insane persons and intelligent adults are all saved just alike-in the very same way. C. H. C.

Resisting The Holy Ghost

RESISTING THE HOLY GHOST

Can an alien sinner resist the Holy Ghost? Answer through your paper.

M. J. BOOTH

Somerville, Tenn.

The operation of the Holy Spirit upon the heart of the alien sinner is life-giving. The alien sinner is dead-in a state of death. It is unreasonable, illogical, unscientific and unscriptural to talk about the dead resisting life-giving power. They do not resist the life-giving work of the Holy Spirit.

C. H. C.

Ephesians 4:17-19

(Ephesians 4:17-19).

I would be glad to have your views on (Ephesians 4:17-19).

R. A. FORD

Oakland, Miss.

This is an exhortation or admonition to the Gentile church at Ephesus to walk not as other Gentiles walk. The Lord's children should not walk as unregenerate sinners walk. Their walk and conversation should be different. They should walk in the ordinances of the Lord's house and talk of His goodness and mercy. They should "speak to each other in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs." They should meet often together, and pray with and for each other. They should watch over each other for good. They should be mutual burden-bearers, helping each other, bearing each other's burdens. They should manifest, or prove, their love for each other.

Let us not walk as other Gentiles walk. C. H. C.

Close of Volume 24

CLOSE OF VOLUME 24

---December 28, 1909

With this issue another volume of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST is closed. Another year, with its trials, sorrows, disappointments, heartaches, bereavements and conflicts, as well as joys and pleasures, is gone. Many of our friends and loved ones have crossed over the river who were with us one year ago. We have had our sorrows and heartaches, as well as seasons of rejoicing. Most of us have been blessed with refreshing seasons, though they may have been mixed with sorrows. We have sometimes felt to realize that the Lord was with us, and that His grace was sufficient. How precious His promises have been to us. We have made mistakes. Sometimes we feel that perhaps our whole life has been made up of mistakes. It seems that we realize, more and more, our weaknesses and proneness to err, as the days and years go by. An editor's place is a hard place to fill. Experience only will teach one what it is. If there is one single thing in the whole country that is wrong or irregular, somebody is almost sure to write the editor about it and demand space to give the whole thing a "general round up." If space is refused, then the editor is "taking sides" and "recognizes the disorder," etc. Then the editor must be "drilled" in a long, tedious and continued private correspondence. He must be reprimanded or censured for putting his judgment against the judgment of the writer and perhaps others. And often because something is not published he gets an order to "stop my paper." Sometimes a letter for the paper is brought to a close with the statement, "This is submitted to your better judgment; do with it as you think best;" but if it does not appear in the paper promptly, the editor gets a letter asking why. Thus matters go on, "day in and day out." There is no rest. It is a continual thing, on and on. The editor may, sometimes, after he has retired, late at night, too tired and worn-out to sleep, build a little air-castle. He may, while thus awake, dream that in a few more weeks, or months, or years, he will reach the place where he will have a little rest and ease. But, behold, his air-castle is "knocked into smithereens" in a short time, and he finds himself still confronted with problems as hard to solve as any that were ever presented to him. Brethren, if you think "it's easy," just try it. We promise you now that we will not envy you.

Notwithstanding all the trials and conflicts we do not feel like giving up. We desire to press on. If we know our heart our greatest desire on earth is to comfort and benefit the Lord's humble poor. We love the church our blessed Redeemer established on earth. The Old Baptists are our people, and we love them and want an humble home with them while the Lord spares our life.

I love thy church, oh God;
Her walls before thee stand;
Dear as the apple of thine eye,
And graven on thy hand.
For her my tears shall fall,
For her my prayers ascend,

For her my toils and cares be given
Till toils and cares shall end.

As to the doctrine and principles we have endeavored to sustain in the columns of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, we have no apologies to offer. As stated already, we have made mistakes. We are free to confess this; but we believe the principles we have contended for are eternal, and we are content to continue holding to them. Our desire has been to earnestly and faithfully contend for the faith that was once for all delivered unto the saints, and to comfort and benefit the Lord's dear children. As to how well we have succeeded, we are willing for our brethren and sisters to judge. We have received many letters of commendation and precious words of encouragement from many of them. These things have given us renewed energy, and have strengthened us to press on in the service.

We have believed the Old Baptists would uphold and sustain one who proves himself true to the cause they love, and that is so dear to their hearts. We have believed they would support a paper that is true to their principles. We have also believed they would withhold support from a paper that was not true to those principles. We have seen some papers prove to be failures because they were not true to them. Our confidence in our brethren remains unshaken. The true and loyal support that has been given THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST has been better and more than we feel to be worthy of, yet we appreciate it more than we can express, and our efforts will be to still improve the paper in every way possible. We desire to give our readers all the reading matter possible as cheaply as we possibly can. THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST IS not published simply as a money making enterprise. We are continually studying methods and ways to reduce expenses, so as to publish the paper at as low a price as possible. We humbly trust our brethren will continue to give us their support, and that they will do all they can to continue to extend the circulation of the paper. If every subscriber would send us one new one it would double our list. How many will send us a list of new subscribers during January, 1910? You have already done much, and we greatly appreciate it, and trust you will continue to do all you can. But above all this, we want an interest in your prayers. We feel to need your prayers. Will you pray earnestly to the Lord to uphold, sustain, direct and keep us in the right way? We are so poor and weak and prone to go astray, that without His divine aid and assistance we would fall and utterly perish.

C. H. C.

1910

Introductory to Volume 25

INTRODUCTORY TO VOLUME 25

---January 11, 1910

With this issue we begin the twenty-fifth volume of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. Twenty-four years ago the first issue was sent out. Many trials and hardships have been endured during these twenty-four years. Our dear sainted father, Elder S. F. Cayce, established the paper and was its editor until his death in August, 1905. Since his death we have tried, with our limited ability, to uphold and contend for the same principles that he loved so well and died contending for. We have not done so because father did, but because we love those principles. We earnestly believe them to be the principles of God's eternal truth. We know that some have objected, and some have tried to persuade, and some have tried to brow-beat, and thus cause us to turn from these principles. But we feel now that we could never forsake them. They are dearer to us than all else on this earth. What a miserable coward we would be to leave, forsake and turn away from those principles. We trust we may never forsake or turn away from them. By the help of the Lord we expect to continue to conduct THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST in defense of those principles-the same principles that have been defended in its columns for the twenty-four years it has been published.

The first issue of the paper was twelve pages the same size as the pages are now. It was a monthly paper then. After that it was changed to eight pages, twice a month. It was published that way for a year or two. Then it was published four times a month, the pages still being the size they are this week. It continued this way for a few years, and then the pages were made a little larger-an odd size. After another short time, we then sent the paper out every week except Christmas week, thus giving fifty-one papers each year instead of forty-eight. We have continued to send out fifty-one or fifty-two issues every year since then. But in May, 1906, the paper was again enlarged, making it eight pages with five columns to each page. Now we have enlarged it again, going back to the four column size, but sixteen pages. Now you see the paper is twice as large as it was a few years ago, and almost twice as large as it was four years ago, and the price only 25 cents more. Yet a few brethren have insinuated that our object is to make merchandise of the gospel. They may think so, but we are sure they would not if they could take our place for awhile. Everything the farmer has to sell, and everything we have to buy, has increased very much in price during the past few years, and we have to buy everything we use. Yet we have studied, planned and worked laboriously in every way we could imagine to reduce our expenses or to keep them down, to try to continue to publish the paper without increasing the price. Blank paper is much higher than it used to be and labor costs us much more. The only reason we have been able to continue the paper as large as we have and at the price has been by plans and ways of saving labor expense. Now, our present change in size of the paper makes it about one-third larger, but the increased cost to us is not quite that much, hence we raise the price only one-fourth, or 25 cents a year more than it was before. Doubtless many of our readers will remember that the price one time was $1.25 a year, and that at that time the paper was just one-half as large as it is now. But we wish to say, and we are glad it is so, that we do not think we have received more than a half-dozen complaints regarding the change.

Some complain now and then about the advertisements in the paper. But we do not know of a single one but was willing to withdraw that when we tell them we are trying to use all we get that way in sending the paper to poor destitute widows and preachers who want the paper and are not able to pay for it. If we leave the advertisements out we could not send the paper to them because we are simply not able financially to do so. We think it best-more God-like-to continue to publish the advertisements and send them the paper. Brethren, just think a moment. Shall we, in your interest, take the advertisements out of the paper and stop sending it to those poor destitute children of God who love the glad tidings as well as you do? Or, shall we, in their interest, continue to publish the advertisements to enable us to send the paper to them? Would brotherly love say deprive them of the pleasure of reading the paper? We are sure that when you consider the matter in this light you would say go on as we have been.

We feel to enter the new year with renewed energy and renewed determination to press on in the Master's service. The Lord has been so good and kind and merciful to us that we feel under obligation to render service to Him. His dear children have been much better to us than we feel to deserve, and our earnest desire is to comfort and benefit them. We want to conduct the paper for their benefit and in defense of the cause of Christ. Dear brethren and sisters, this is your paper-it is your medium of correspondence for mutual comfort and encouragement. But it is not for the, object of publishing local disturbances and differences abroad. We have been trying to get the brethren to quit sending such things to us. We dislike to flatly refuse to publish such things. But we now say you need not send them to us. We are going to do our very best to keep them out of the paper. Please do not write to us about such things. We want you to write about such things as may have a tendency to unite the brethren and sisters in love and fellowship on the true principles of the doctrine of God our Saviour. Write us about your good meetings. Send us all the good church news you can. Please do not neglect this. If you have any good news send it to us at once.

Now, dear brethren and sisters, will you pray for us? Will you pray the Lord to direct, uphold and sustain us, and enable us to conduct the paper to the comfort and benefit of His people and to the glory of His name? And will you continue to help us all you can? We are poor weak creatures, and need your help.

May this year be one of joy and happiness to all our readers, is our humble prayer.

C. H. C.

In Alabama

IN ALABAMA

---January 18, 1910

We left home on Saturday morning, December 25, for McKenzie, Ala., to debate with a Mormon, Mr. F. M. Slover. Arrived in McKenzie on Sunday evening at 5:47. The debate began on Monday morning, December 27, and continued four days. For two days Mr. Slover affirmed that "The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is in harmony with the church of Christ described in the New Testament in faith, organization, doctrine and practice." Then for two days we affirmed that "The Baptist Church, of which I (C. H. Cayce) am a member, is in harmony with the church of Christ described in the New Testament in faith, organization, doctrine and practice." It was a victory for truth. A synopsis of the debate will be written later and published in our columns or in a pamphlet. Some brethren have requested us to put it in pamphlet form.

On Saturday and Sunday, January 1 and 2, we filled appointments at South, and had a very pleasant meeting both days. We met Elder Wiggins and Elder Thomas there, whom we had not met before. Elders Little and Kimbro were also with us, but we had met them at McKenzie during the debate. Elder Gatlin was our moderator in the debate. Elder Bolton was also in attendance.

We are now at the home of Brother Grantham, near Red Level, Ala., and near New Home Church, where we have an appointment for today. We humbly pray the Lord to bless our weak efforts to the comfort and benefit of His dear people.

C. H. C.

Who Will Debate For The Primitive Baptists?

WHO WILL DEBATE FOR THE PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS?

---February 15, 1910

C. H. Cayce has been the champion for them in these parts since the death of his father. I have met him twice on the proposition, "All for whom Christ died will be saved in heaven," and on the operation of the Holy Spirit independent of the word of God. My affirmatives were: "Baptism a condition of pardon to the alien;" "It is possible for a child of God to so apostatize as to be finally lost." He has been asked to meet me again near Rutherford, Tenn. He says now there is only one question he will meet any of us on-that is we must affirm that "the Scriptures teach that faith, repentance, confession, and baptism in water are necessary conditions to be performed by the dead alien sinner in order to spiritual or eternal life." We have always affirmed that baptism, preceded by other conditions, is a condition of pardon of past sins, and that we must continue to live a godly life here as a Christian; that God has promised all who will do this eternal life. Mr. Cayce claims to have met a brother in Texas on this proposition. I wrote to the brother about it. His reply was that he did it because he could not get a fair proposition. He defined the proposition to suit him, and debated it. As to my part, I am willing for the Baptists to state what they believe in their proposition. They should allow us the same liberty. I am sure that Cayce has raised this false issue to keep out of debate. He has enough on the fair proposition. If not, he can show it by answering the call of his brethren near Rutherford, Tenn., to debate with some Christian preacher. He has his name to four propositions. He has debated them twice-Old Bethel, near Dukedom, Tenn., and Maury City, Tenn. I wonder if it took him this long to find that they were unfair?-A. O. Colley, in Gospel Advocate (Nashville, Tenn.), Feb. 10, 1910.

The foregoing "splutter" from Mr. Colley does not relieve him from the dilemma he has deliberately placed himself in. A brief statement of a few facts would perhaps be in order just now. We met Mr. Colley in debate on four propositions (the atonement, design of baptism, operation of the Spirit and the possibility of apostasy) at Bethel, Graves county, Ky., and then again at Maury City, Tenn., last March.

Mr. Colley, during this last debate, kept trying to get away from the propositions, and to bring into the discussion the plan of salvation. He had also said that Cayce would not debate with him on the plan of salvation. So during that discussion in Maury City we asked Mr. Colley to sign the following propositions:

1. The Scriptures teach that spiritual or eternal life is given to dead (alien) sinners without conditions on their part.-C. H. Cayce affirms.
2. The Scriptures teach that faith, repentance, confession and baptism in water are necessary conditions to be performed by dead (alien) sinners in order to spiritual or eternal life.-C. H. Cayce denies.

Mr. Colley refused to sign the propositions. Some time ago we received a letter asking if we would meet Mr. Colley in another discussion near Rutherford, Tenn. We replied that if Mr. Colley was ready to sign those propositions we were ready to meet him. The propositions were sent to Mr. Colley by those concerned in that vicinity. Some time ago we met Mr. Colley on the street in our town and asked him if he had heard from the matter. He replied that he had, but had sent other propositions back. Note that he did this instead of coming directly to us. We asked him if he would sign the propositions. He refused, and proposed that we select a man, and he select one, then the two select another and that if the three decided that the propositions were fair he would sign them. We immediately accepted his proposition and selected a man who is a member of another church. Mr. Colley objected to the selection. We then selected another, who is a member of another order, and insisted that Mr. Colley select his man. This he refused and failed to do. Thus, he simply utterly failed to do what he proposed to do. Now, is he not a pretty looking piece of humanity to come into print and ask the impertinent and silly question, "Who will debate for the Primitive Baptists?" Such trickery and sham and "make-like" "bluffs" as this might make blushes rise on the face of some of the ministers of darkness, but we presume not so with such Campbelites as Mr. Colley.

On January 24 we received a letter from Mr. Colley regarding the discussion. If Mr. Colley wants another debate with us he can retract what he said-that "Cayce will not meet him on the plan of salvation" - or he can sign the propositions submitted. The first proposition is what we teach, and we propose to affirm it in debate. The second proposition is what the Campbelites teach all over this country, and every man with a thimbleful of brains who knows anything about the Campbelites knows it is their doctrine. As they teach it, they should not be ashamed to affirm it in debate. Mr. Colley said they do not believe it as it is stated in the proposition. Then we proposed that he state it in the proposition as he does believe it. This he refused to do.

Now, Mr. Colley, will you affirm for the Campbellites the doctrine you teach? It is evident to all who know the facts that if you refuse to sign these propositions, then your statement that Cayce would not meet you on the plan of salvation was a false statement. Put up or shut up. C. H. C.

That Court Decision

THAT COURT DECISION

---February 22, 1910

In our issue of December 9, 1909, we published the decision of the court in the trial for the church property at Luray, Va., between our people and the Burnamites. Our neighbor, the Baptist Builder, a Softshell sheet, published in Martin, Tenn., takes occasion to make some remarks concerning the same, and tries to draw the conclusion that the Softshell brood is the original Baptist family. The remarks were by the Rev. W. B. Clifton, the office editor of the Softshell sheet. He quotes the following from the decision of the court:

Upon the whole case, I am fully persuaded of the correctness of these propositions, to wit: That the Mt. Carmel Church of Old School Baptists of 1849 was a church or congregation of that denomination which originated as a distinct sect or denomination among the Baptists in the early thirties out of an organized opposition to the doctrines and beliefs of their former coreligionists on the subject of "means" and Sunday schools, missionary and other practices heretofore referred to, etc.

Then Mr. Clifton makes the following remarks:

There is no reason to suppose that the court was prejudiced in favor of Missionary Baptists, or that this judgment was based on anything else than the evidence introduced in the trial. Yet, it is plainly declared that the so-called "Old School" Baptist denomination ORIGINATED as a DISTINCT SECT or denomination IN THE EARLY THIRTIES. This judgment is according to truth, as all know who have made an impartial investigation of the subject. The sect or denomination calling itself "Old School" or "Primitive" Baptists is less than one hundred years old, and is distinguished by certain tenets and tests of fellowship that were unknown in the Baptist denomination prior to the division in the early thirties.

The foregoing appeared in the Baptist Builder of January 15, 1910. Any fair minded and unprejudiced person can readily see that the conclusion drawn by Elder Clifton is far-fetched, and does not necessarily follow at all. Prior to 1792 there were no mission boards or mission societies among the Baptists. Those things were introduced by Fuller and Carey. They were the leaders in the new progressive movements. Elder Clifton knows those things were new among the Baptists and any honest man who knows it will confess it. The Baptists bore with these new measures until the early thirties, when the division finally came. Then as the Burnam party introduced the new measures which caused the division at Luray, Va., and they were, therefore, not the original Baptist Church; so the Softshells (Missionaries) introduced the new measures which caused the division in the early thirties, and they are, therefore, not the original Baptists. Any honest sensible man should be able to see and understand this.

C. H. C.

John Calvin

JOHN CALVIN

---March 15, 1910

John Calvin was a leader in the Reformation of the sixteenth century. He was the founder of the Presbyterian church. He was never connected with the Baptists. His teaching agreed with the Baptist teaching on many points. He taught the doctrine of election and predestination of the saints, and the effectual work of the Holy Spirit in regeneration. These principles had been taught in the ages before Calvin. He was not the author of them. They have been called Calvinism because he figured so prominently in teaching them in the Reformation. But few Presbyterians now hold to all the main principles advocated by Calvin.

C. H. C.

Baptists in America

BAPTISTS IN AMERICA

---March 15, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-For the benefit of some of the young Baptists state in your paper who was the first Baptist in America. Your brother in hope,

JOEL R. MOTSINGER

Pekin, Ind.

REMARKS

Dr. John Clark was the founder of the first Baptist Church in America. It was founded in 1638. Roger Williams founded his church in 1639, at Providence, Rhode Island. The church founded by Dr. Clark was at Newport, Rhode Island. C. H. C.

Predestination

PREDESTINATION

---March 15, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-As I see several articles headed with the word "Predestination," would you please give your views on what is the proper meaning of the word, and what idea we should have in view when we use the word "predestination?" I would like to see an article from you or some of the brethren on the proper definition of the word. Yours unworthily, ELDER CHARLES WEST.
Helenwood, Tenn.

REMARKS

Webster tells us that the word predestinate is from two Latin words which mean before and determine. Pre means before, and destinate means to determine. Hence, predestinate means to determine beforehand. It is to predetermine or foreordain; to appoint or ordain beforehand by an unchangeable purpose or decree.

The word in the Greek from which our English word predestinate is translated is prohorizo. It means to mark out or bound, to appoint, decree, specify, declare, determine, limit or ordain prior to or in front of, or before. In other words, it means to appoint or decree or determine beforehand.

We fail to find any place in the Bible where the word predestinate is used except with reference to the salvation of the Lord's people and their deliverance from ruin. C. H. C.

Dram Drinking

DRAM DRINKING

---March 15, 1910

We have been requested to write on the subject of dram drinking and card playing. We are sorry to know that any Old Baptist has given occasion for such a request to even be made. It seems to us that it is not necessary for very much to be said on such a subject as this. It is a shame and a disgrace to the cause we profess to love for any member of the church to engage in card-playing and drinking. It should not be tolerated by the church. Such practice should not be engaged in by any professed moral man, much less a member of the church of Christ. The candlestick will surely be removed from any church whose members continue to engage in such immoral and unbecoming conduct. Permit us to say, with kindness, yet in all earnestness and candor, that we have no patience with it. We are commanded to abstain from every appearance of evil, and engaging in such practices is anything else but abstaining from the appearance of evil. Our little church here in Martin would not tolerate it. Some may say that our little church here is no criterion. True. she is no criterion, and does not claim to be; but God's word is a criterion, and we should try to follow it. To be a good Christian, or to live a good Christian life, is more than to simply live morally. In other words, Christianity is more than morality. The members of the church should not set examples before others that would have a tendency to lead to immorality. How does it look for a church member and a worldly man to sit down to a table and play a game of cards together-even if it is only for past-time? The worldly man is given reasonable ground to say: "There is a church member-an Old Baptist, at that-doing the same way I do. I am as good as he is." Such things bring a reproach on the cause.

Reader, if you have ever engaged in such things, and if you love the cause, then let us plead with you to cease such practices for the sake of the cause you love. May the Lord help us all to "walk worthy of the vocation where with we are called."

C. H. C.

Predestination Again

PREDESTINATION AGAIN

---March 15, 1910

The following letter from Brother W. H. Nosier was received some time ago, and we thought it was intended as a private letter, but we saw a request on the back of it to return it if not published. We wrote a letter in reply to the brother, but have decided to publish both.

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother in Christ-I have been a member of the Primitive Baptist Church now for only about a year, having come from the Missionaries, and have been a subscriber for your paper about the same length of time, and had begun to like it fine. I also read with interest your debate with Penick. Today I received your proposition of paying for the PRIMITIVE in advance and getting the paper at one dollar a year, and was just about to send you two dollars to apply on same when I read your editorial in answer to Sister Georgia Townsend's letter, as published in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST of December 7. which caused a halt in my intention.

I just thought if you are going to publish a paper and light on the ideas and doctrines of brethren, as you have done in this editorial, I just simply did not want the paper. It seems to me that an editor who takes such an active part on such mooted questions as the absolute predestination of all things that come to pass or conditional time salvation, etc., etc., is entirely out of his place. At least, that is the way it looks to me.

Do you know that there are as good, honest, brethren who believe, honestly, in the absolute predestination of all things as there are in the church anywhere? As for myself, I have remained neutral so far with regard to the subject, but from the facts I have gathered from the teachings of God's word I have about come to the conclusion that if God works all things after the counsel of His own will, then man has no will in the matter. And He doeth according to His will in the army of heaven and among the inhabitants of the earth. Not only that, but He has a purpose in all He does. Then you break out with oh, horror of horrors at what you are pleased to term "the heathenish and infidel saying, whatever is, is right," as if our Bible does not say "The God of all the earth will do right." Of course there is a whole lot about what God does and why He does it that we do not understand, but is that an excuse for us saying that God does not work all things (and not only some things) after the counsel of His own will? I trow not. You yourself must admit that God did predestinate some of the most wicked things that ever come to pass on this earth-witness Pharaoh. "For this cause I have raised thee up;" and Joseph, "As for you, ye thought evil against me, but God meant it unto good to bring to pass as it is this day, to save much people alive;" and then the most atrocious crime ever committed in this world, crucifying of the Son of God. Will you dare say that was not predestinated? "Father, if it be possible let this cup pass, yet not my will but thine be done." No, Brother Cayce, I don't fault you for what you believe on this great question; no, nor any other brother; but I do think you ought not write such strong editorials and take such strong sides against what brethren honestly believe. I do wish brethren could bear with one another and be charitable, for we are all fallible and liable to err. May God be with the dear brethren every where, is my prayer. W. H. NOSLER.

OUR REPLY

W. H. NOSLER: Dear Brother-Please pardon the long delay in writing you since we received yours of Dec. 15th. We have been away from home part of the time, and have been so busy with other matters that we have answered very few letters.

If you do not take THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST because we speak out plainly on what we deem fundamental points of doctrine, we will have to lose your name from the list. We would not shun what we believe to be the truth if it costs every subscriber on the list. The truth is what we want, paper or no paper. A man who will not speak out is not faithful to his trust. We are aware that there are some good honest brethren who believe in the predestination of all things that come to pass-good and evil alike-and so much the worse. If no good brethren were deceived by it we would not be so much concerned about the matter. But as this is the case we feel the responsibility resting upon us to speak out against it.

God works all things, that He does work, after the counsel of His own will. If you will read (Jeremiah 7:31) and (Jeremiah 5) and (Jeremiah 32:35) you will find one thing God did not predestinate. It is true God always does His will, but we do not. God always does right, but men don't do right in committing murder, theft, rape, robbery and other crimes.

You say you think we should not write such strong editorials and take such strong sides against what brethren honestly believe. According to that, if a brother honestly imbibes the rankest principles of Arminianism or Catholicism, we should not take a strong stand against it because the brother honestly believes it. Every mouth must be stopped from speaking against false doctrine, on that principle, and every pen laid aside and no writing be done against any false way. If it is right to oppose a false way at all, it is right to oppose it strongly.

But why do you say we should not take a strong stand? Do you not tell us that God works everything? Then God worked this, and we had nothing whatever to do with it, for you say man has no will in the matter. Why not make your complaint to God? You say He works it all. According to your position, God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated from all eternity that we should write every word we did write, and we could not possibly have done otherwise.

By the help of the Lord we expect to speak and write against every false way, as we understand it to be our duty, while the Lord spares our natural life. And may He lead all His children out of every false way, is our humble prayer.

C.H.C.

High and Low Seats

HIGH AND LOW SEATS

---April 5, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-I have some close friends who believe there will be high and low seats in heaven. For instance: they say Paul, the apostle, will have a higher position than a common preacher, and I suppose a common preacher will have a higher position than a "hayseed" church member. I do not think this kind of doctrine sounds right. Please give your views on it, for the benefit of myself and others. Your brother, I hope, L. J. HEWATT Lawrenceville, Ga.

REMARKS

If sinners were saved in heaven because of what they do, or because of their good works, it might be true that one would have a higher place or a more exalted position in heaven than others. But sinners are not saved in heaven because of their righteousness, or because of their good works. They are saved in heaven because of what Christ has done for them, and He did no more for one saved person than for another. What He did for one of His children He did for each one of them. If what Christ did for one secures a high place in heaven for him, what He did for another will do the same for him also. Hence, as sinners are saved in heaven because of what Christ has done, and not because of what they do, it follows that as Christ did no more for one of the saved than He did for another, all of the saved will be on an equality, or on a common level.

Paul said {(II Timothy 4:8)} a crown of righteousness was laid up for him. He also tells us that this same crown was not only laid up for him, but it was also laid up for all who love the appearing of the Saviour. This being true, they will all wear the same crown. One will be no higher than another with respect to the crown they wear.

All the Lord's children will have the same inheritance; {(I Peter 1:3-5)} as they all have the same inheritance, and each one has all the inheritance, then there is no difference here. All are on an equality and on an equal footing, so far as the inheritance is concerned. This being true, it cannot be true that one will have a higher place or a more exalted position than another.

In (Romans 8:17) we are told that the children of God are joint-heirs with Christ. Everyone knows that a joint-heir is an equal heir. Then as they are all joint-heirs with Christ, they will all, each and every one of them, share heaven and all that it is and all that it means equally with Christ. If one has a higher place than another, then they are not joint-heirs, are not equal heirs. But they are equal heirs, and therefore one will not have a higher place than another. If one should have a higher place than another, why could there not be jealousy arising? Why could not one be jealous of another and envious of another who might be occupying a higher place than himself? This would destroy the very idea of heaven, and there would be no heaven at all.

It appears to us that this idea of a high and low seat in heaven is very much akin to an exalted opinion of self. Usually those who hold to such an idea have such an exalted opinion of self that they expect to occupy a very high place, and if we are to judge by expressions they sometimes use, they expect to look down with contempt upon those who occupy a lower place. It is pharisaical in the extreme. It is contrary to sound reason, contrary to the teaching of God's word; and the idea of doing much for the Lord in order to enter heaven gave birth to it. May the Lord deliver His little children from every false way, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Gives It Up

GIVES IT UP

---April 5, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Esteemed Brother in Christ-Will you allow me a little space in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST for a short rejoinder to your remarks on my article of December 15?

I did not in that article intend to defend absolute predestination, only to quote a few Scriptures and present a few arguments which were rather hard for me to get around under any other theory.

You rather got the best of me on my main Scripture by saying "Yes, God does work all things (that He does work) after the counsel of His own will," and then by giving me some passages where, manifestly, He does not work. And I guess you are right when you say, "If it is right to oppose a false way at all it is right to oppose it strongly."

But you completely "shut off my wind" (so to speak) when you said, "But why do you say we should not take a strong stand? Do you not tell us that God works everything? Then God worked this and we had nothing at all to do with it, for you say man has no will in the matter. Why not make your complaint to God?" It won't do, Brother Cayce; I see it won't do. Brother Cayce, you have written me a good, gentlemanly, Christian letter, and such letters I claim will do more good than it is possible for any other kind to do. It looks like imposition, anyway, for such a "clodhopper" as I am to light onto a man of your standing, who perhaps has forgotten more about the Bible than I ever knew. Brother Cayce, I have reconsidered matters, for I don't want to do without the good old PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, so I send you herewith $2. Mark my subscription ahead and send me the Youth's Guardian Friend. I guess it will reach you by April 1. And believe me ever your brother in Christ, although a very weak one, if one at all,

W. H. NOSLER

Eugene, Ore.

REMARKS

We are glad to see you, dear brother, confess that the doctrine of the absolute predestination of all things won't do. We are glad you have seen the error of it.

No, dear brother, we are not your superior. We are only a poor, weak servant, if indeed we are a true servant of the Lord at all. We feel to be dependent upon the Lord for strength and for wisdom. We realize, too, that we are so ignorant in comparison with what there is to know. There is so much to learn that we sometimes feel we have learned very little. May the Lord help us all to see the right and to reject every false way, and may He give us faithful, humble men to contend earnestly for the truth, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

1 Samuel 19:9

---April 5, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-My father, C. T. Clayton, requests that you give your views of (I Samuel 19:9), about the evil spirit from the Lord. N. C. CLAYTON Galloway, Ga.

REMARKS

The Lord sent the evil spirit upon Saul. The Lord did not make the spirit evil-or make the spirit wicked-but sent the evil spirit upon him. Chapter fifteen shows that Saul "rejected the word of the Lord," disobeyed the commandment of the Lord and that the Lord therefore rejected Saul from being king. The Lord no longer blessed him with His presence, but sent an evil spirit upon him. This was a punishment for his sin, a punishment for his rebellion. C. H. C.

1 Corinthians 16:2

---April 12, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-Will you please give your views on is: (I Corinthians 16:2), "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come."

Our Brother Missionary talked on that subject last Sunday, but I cannot agree with him. I want more light on the subject. Hoping to hear from you through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, Yours in hope,

J. T. NOLEN

Sulligent, Ala.

REMARKS

We don't know what the "Brother Missionary" said, neither do we know what Brother Nolen thinks about the text. It has reference to the care of the poor saints at Jerusalem. Verses 1 to 3 read as follows: "Now, concerning the collection for the saints, as I have given order for the churches of Galatia, even so do ye. Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come. And when I come, whomsoever ye shall approve by your letters, them will I send to bring your liberality unto Jerusalem."

There is nothing in this about "paying the preacher," or laying by something to "give to the preacher." While it is true that the Scriptures teach that the minister should be cared for and his temporal necessities supplied, by voluntary contribution, yet this text has nothing whatever to do with that question. It teaches that we should "lay by in store" for the necessities of the poor. The day is not necessarily so important as that we lay by in store. The business of the deacon is to receive and disburse these funds. The members of the church should "lay by in store," as God has prospered them, by placing their contributions in the hands of the deacons. Then the deacons should see that the necessities of the poor and destitute are supplied out of the funds thus placed in their hands. It is not right to wait until it is reported to the church that a certain one is in need before a contribution is made. The sufferer may have to suffer on for weeks before the necessary and could be supplied, if it must always be reported to the church before the contribution is made. On the other hand, if the contribution is made, as "God has prospered" us, and is in the hands of the deacons, as it should be, then the poor sufferer may be relieved at once.

Again, if no contribution is made until the sufferer is reported to the church, we would not usually give "as God has prospered" us, but possibly as that individual sufferer immediately needs. Thus we would be doing some good to the needy one, but still we would not fully carry out the command. We should "lay by in store, as God has prospered" us. Thus the deacons of the church would have funds on hand to relieve the sufferings of the poor and destitute when such are brought to their notice. We should not be careless or indifferent upon such important matters. We should endeavor to be zealous and careful about such matters. We should not become neglectful of these things because of the fact that so many try to "twist" the Scriptures to make them support their fanatical foreign notions. C. H. C.

What Adam Lost

WHAT ADAM LOST

---April 12, 1910

Dear Brother-Please give your views on what Adam lost in the fall, or by sin, and what he was restored to by Christ-that is, in this life. Did the death of Christ place man back in the state that Adam was in Eden, or any part? If so, what?

I ask this as I think it will be worth something to some of the brethren.

Your brother in hope of eternal life,

W. P. HANCOCK

Eldorado, Ill.

REMARKS

Before Adam transgressed the law he was a good natural man. He did not have the God-life, or spiritual life. He was in possession of an upright natural life. He was without sin-good. When he violated the law he lost his moral uprightness. He lost his moral standing. From then to now Adam, in nature, has had absolutely no moral or upright standing with God. He lost it in the fall. What Christ did was not done for Adam, or rather for the whole race of Adam, but for those chosen out of the race of Adam. Hence, Adam, as Adam, was not restored to anything in Christ. The Lord's chosen, Christ's bride (those who were given to Him for His bride) are restored in Christ, not simply to what they lost in Adam, but to more. They "receive double." They are given eternal life through Christ. If they were only restored to the original state they would not reach heaven. Hence the Lord's people receive more in and through Christ than was lost in and through Adam. C. H. C.

John Exiled

JOHN EXILED

---April 19, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Sir-I would like to have your explanation on John being exiled on the isle of Patmos-whether we have Scriptural authority that he was exiled or not. Please explain through the paper. A Baptist friend, MRS. S. J. PRIDDY.

REMARKS

John was certainly banished to the isle of Patmos. In (Revelation 1:9) he says, "I John, who also am your brother, and companion in tribulation, and in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ, was in the isle that is called Patmos, for the word of God, and for the testimony of Jesus Christ." This is Scriptural authority as to why John was there. It was because of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ. History testifies of this fact.

C. H. C.

What Is Changed?

---April 19, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-Is it the fleshly heart or mind of man that is changed in regeneration? The Bible says, "I will put my laws in their mind, and write them in their heart."

Also, what is meant in the Saviour's language to Nicodemus, concerning being born of water and of the Spirit? What does the water mean?

DICK PEARCE

Norris City, Ill.

REMARKS

It is not the lump of flesh called the heart that is changed in regeneration. The heart, in Scripture, usually means the seat of affection. In regeneration the sinner receives a new life, a new nature, and from this new life and new nature spring new desires and new affections. Hence it is called a "change of heart." He is said to have a new heart, for he has a new seat of affections. He is also said to "have the mind of Christ."

The term water in (John 3:5), in the Saviour's language to Nicodemus, we think, refers to the washing, or cleansing, or purifying work of the Holy Spirit in regeneration. We know many of our brethren do not hold this view, but it is their privilege to differ from us. We are not a "standard" by any means. Still, that is our view. It is the same as the "washing of regeneration" in (Titus 3:5).

C. H. C.

Acts 2; Acts 28:31 AND Ephesians 2:10

---April 26, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-Please give your views on ((39) (Acts 2:39). Explain who the call is to. Also give your views on (Ephesians 2:10). Yours in hope of eternal life,

D. H. SANDERS

R. 1

Bold Springs, Tenn.

REMARKS

The call referred to in ((39) (Acts 2:39) is the calling of the Holy Spirit. It is by the power of the Holy Spirit. It is a holy calling; (II Timothy 1:9). God does the calling; (I Corinthians 1:9). God calls all the heirs of promise, and those who are called are children of the promise; (Galatians 3:29); (4:28). The promise was made before the world began; (Titus 1:2). The Lord confirmed the promise with an oath; (Hebrews 6:13-17).

(Ephesians 2:10) teaches us that the children of God are the workmanship of God-not the workmanship of God and company, but of God. It shows that a creative power is necessary to put one in Christ-"created in Christ." Putting one in Christ, then, is a creative work, requires creative power. They are "created in Christ Jesus UNTO good works." In order that one walk in, or perform, the good works of the gospel, he must first be created in Christ unto good works. This being true, no one performs the good works in order to be in Christ, but he must be in Christ in order to perform the good works. And those who have thus been created in Christ should walk in the good works which God has commanded. The Lord has ordained, or prepared, the good works, and those who are in Christ, the Lord's children, should perform them. C. H. C.

Luke 15:8

---April 26, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-I would like for you to give your views on ((8) (Luke 15:8)), as I have heard so much said about it of late. Your sister in Christ, I hope, MRS. J. D. ROGERS. Warrensburg, Mo.

REMARKS

((8) (Luke 15:8)) reads, "Either what woman having ten pieces of silver, if she lose one piece, doth not light a candle, and sweep the house, and seek diligently till she find it?" Verses 9 and 10 read, "And when she hath found it, she calleth her friends and her neighbors together, saying, Rejoice with me; for I have found the piece which I had lost. Likewise I say unto you, There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth." This is one of the parables which was spoken by the Saviour. A parable is something which does, or may, occur in nature, and which is used to teach a lesson. A moral is drawn from the parable, which is used as an illustration. The lesson drawn from this parable is that there is "rejoicing in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth." It is illustrated by the rejoicing when a woman has found the piece of money which she had lost. Just as there is such rejoicing at the finding of the money which was lost, so there is rejoicing when the transgressor (sinner) repents, or turns from his wrong course. Angels often refer to ministers or messengers. The rejoicing is in the church, here, when one repents who has gone away from the true worship and service. If one becomes careless and unconcerned, it grieves the brotherhood. Then when he repents-turns away from his carelessness and indifference-and is again found to be diligent and prompt in the service and worship of God, there is much rejoicing. All are glad, and feel to rejoice. If we have been careless and indifferent, let us try to quit it and try to be diligent in the discharge of our every duty. We will then feel better ourselves and will make others feel better too.

C. H. C.

A Wrong Impression

---May 3, 1910

It has been our impression, because of early associations, that the Hardshells did not believe in providing for the preachers. We are learning, however, and glad to do so. Elder C. H. Cayce, editor of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, says in the course of some remarks, "It is true that the Scriptures teach that the minister should be cared for and his temporal necessities supplied by voluntary contributions." -W. I. Elledge in Baptist Flag, April 21, 1910.

There are, perhaps, many things you have not yet learned. The people you are pleased to call "Hardshells" have always held that it is right and Scriptural to minister to the temporal necessities of their ministers, but they have always opposed a salaried system, mission boards, societies, conventions, and such other like things that have been engaged in by nearly, if not quite, all Missionary Baptists since the mission system was introduced by Fuller and Carey, until recent years. If people would give more attention to what the Primitive Baptists do really teach, instead of giving attention to what their enemies say about them, many would learn that their real teaching is very different from what their enemies say it is. C. H. C.

He Will Not Debate – Who Will?

---May 3, 1910

Since Hon. Thos. E. Watson began exposing the modern missionary system in the Jeffersonian (weekly) and the Watson's Magazine (monthly) which are published by him at Thomson, Ga., Rev. Len C. Broughton, of Atlanta, a Missionary Baptist preacher, challenged Mr. Watson for a public discussion on the foreign mission question. Mr. Watson declined to debate with Dr. Broughton, and said he would discuss the question with Mr. Bryan. After this some of our brethren in Macon, Ga., asked us if we would discuss the mission question with Dr. Broughton in Macon. We replied in the affirmative. The brethren requested us to write Dr. Broughton. The following is a copy of our letter to him:

MARTIN, TENN., March 15, 1910.
DR. LEN BROUGHTON
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Brother-I have been requested by my brethren in Macon, Ga., to represent them in a proposed discussion with you at that place on the foreign mission question. I submit the enclosed proposition for your consideration and signature, if you accept. If the proposition suits you, please return one copy to me with your signature. I suggest that there be two sessions each day, of two hours each, for not less than three days. I prefer four days on this proposition. Please let me hear from you at once regarding the matter. Suggest a time that will suit you. Fraternaly, C. H. CAYCE.

The following is a copy of the proposition we submitted:

Missions, as taught and practiced by the Missionary Baptists, are authorized by the word of God.---affirms. C. H. Cayce denies.

The following is a copy of Dr. Broughton's reply:

ATLANTA, GA.

March 21st -10.

MR. C. H. CAYCE, Martin, Tenn.

My Dear Brother-Yours of the 15th to hand, and I beg to say that I have no time to be given to such discussion. My time is far too valuable and can be spent in other ways far more to the glory of God.

With best wishes, I am, Fraternaly yours,

LEN G. BROUGHTON.

In reply to this we wrote Dr. Broughton as follows:

MARTIN, TENN., March 23, 1910.

Rev. LEN C. BROUGHTON

Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Brother-Yours of the 21st to hand. It is rather peculiar that you have no time to be given to a discussion of the mission question, seeing you challenged Mr. Watson to discuss the mission question with you. Is time more limited now than then? and has your time become so much more valuable? Is your time too valuable for you to devote a few hours of it in defending what you believe to be authorized by the word of God? Or, do you believe the word of God authorizes mission practices as engaged in by your people? As Mr. Watson declined to meet you when you challenged him, my brethren desired that I meet you in Macon. I agreed to do so, and again call on you as a faithful man to your trust to meet me on the issue and defend your position. Please let me hear from you again regarding the matter. Yours fraternally,

C. H. CAYCE.

To this letter we have had no reply from the Rev. Dr. Broughton. We think any one's time might be spent far more to the glory of God than by engaging in advocating the mission system advocated by the Missionary Baptists. God's word does not authorize any such practices as they are engaging in. Their boards, conventions, and such things are unknown to the word of God. God's word does not authorize many things they engage in under pretense of Christianizing the world.

But as Dr. Broughton's time has become so limited and so valuable, perhaps the Missionaries can furnish a representative man from among them to discuss the question with us in Macon, Ga. Can they do so? Will they do so? Put out your man, or else abandon your unscriptural practices. C. H. C.

Matthew 24:19-22

---May 10, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-One of our Old Baptist sisters has requested me to ask you to give your views on (Matthew 24:19-22), through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. Your sister in hope of eternal life,

MARY SHUSTER
McLeansboro, Ill.
REMARKS

The Saviour, in this chapter, is foretelling the destruction of Jerusalem, and telling of the tribulations and trials that ate to be endured before and at that time. In verse 34 He says, "This generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled." In verse 19 He says, "And woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days." This was literally fulfilled in the destruction of Jerusalem. The city and its inhabitants were surrounded by the Roman army and the people literally starved to death. Mothers actually devoured the flesh of their own sucking children. Such tribulation had never been on earth up to that time, and never since. See verse 21. "Pray that your flight be not in the winter." -Verse 20. Why pray that it be not in the winter? In verse 16 He had told them to flee into the mountains when certain things came to pass-for that time of great tribulation and the final destruction of Jerusalem would then be near at hand. He had told them to flee into the mountains-hence pray that your flight be not in winter. It was all literally fulfilled in the destruction of Jerusalem. C. H. C.

2 Corinthians 12:2-5

---May 17, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-I want your views on (II Corinthians 12:2-5). Your unworthy brother,

J. T. COOK

Light, Ark.

REMARKS

The apostle in the language referred to was speaking of a revelation which he received from the Lord. In verse 1 he says, "I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord." In that revelation he heard words that were impossible for him to utter. The apostle would not glory of himself, but would glory of the one from whom the revelation came. He would glory in the Lord. He continues to speak of the "abundance of the revelations" in the following verses. The language, then, we think, refers to a revelation to him from the Lord, in which he saw a vision and heard words he could not utter. C. H. C.

Jeremiah 23:19-20

---May 24, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-Please give through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST your views on (Jeremiah 23:19-20). and oblige, your unworthy brother,

JOE HACKWORTH

Talbert, Texas.

REMARKS

The passage referred to reads, "Behold, a whirlwind of the Lord is gone forth in fury, even a grievous whirlwind: it shall fall grievously upon the head of the wicked. The anger of the Lord shall not return, until He have executed, and until He have performed the thoughts of His heart: in the latter days ye shall consider it perfectly." A careful reading of the entire chapter will show that the prophets had been prophesying falsely; Israel had been living in rebellion. They had failed to keep the commandments of the Lord. The Lord's anger was kindled against them, and He was going to punish them for their wrong doing. "If ye sow to the wind ye shall reap the whirlwind." They had been sowing to the wind. The reaping time had now come, and they were to reap the whirlwind. "For whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." They were reaping the reward of their false prophesying and wrong living. These were Israelites, and the same is true of God's people in this age. They reap what they sow. C. H. C.

Record It

---May 24, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-I want some advice. If I commit a misdemeanor and become my own accuser, and make acknowledgment before gospel dealings are begun, would it be right to record it, or not? And if the acknowledgment is received would it be necessary to record what I did or not? Brother Cayce, please give your advice through the paper. Your brother,

E. W. BLANKINSHIP

R. 2

Goldville, Ala.

REMARKS

We think everything done by the church, or pertaining to church business, should be recorded. The record should be full and complete. Under the circumstance related above, it would certainly be to your interest, as well as to the interest of the church, that the whole thing be recorded. If it is not recorded, and should ever be brought up in any way in the future, there would be nothing to prove that you had made satisfaction. This would not be to your best interest, nor to the interest of the church. If the whole thing is recorded in full, and it should ever be brought up or mentioned in the future, you could show and the church could show that the matter had been mentioned by you in the church, and that satisfaction had been given for that specific act, whatever it might be. Hence, we think it should be fully recorded. Everything done in and by the church should be fully and correctly recorded.

C. H. C.

Debate on Missions

---May 31, 1910

Well, well, our door neighbor, Brother C. H. Cayce, seemed anxious to deny in debate that missions as taught and practiced by regular Missionary Baptists is Scriptural. He is calling for a man to affirm this, and the Builder will find a man to defend God's word and work on missions; and now will Brother Cayce affirm that missions as taught and practiced by the so-called Primitive Baptists is Scriptural? Everybody knows that Bible Baptists believed, taught and practiced missions, and the Builder will find a man to defend missions as taught and practiced by Missionary Baptists; and we will see if Brother Cayce will defend the doctrine and practice of his people on missions-Baptist Builder, Martin, Tenn., May 11, 1910.

Yes, we will meet any man who is respectable, that the Missionary Baptists of Macon, Ga., will recognize as a representative man of the order. It is the practice of the Missionary Baptists that has been called in question. Our teaching and practice concerning missions are not the things that have been under discussion. It is your teaching and practice. It is "up to you" or your people to defend the same. If your people in Macon will recognize you as a representative man, and we suppose they will, and you will accept the proposition submitted, we will have the debate. We insist that the Missionaries put up the very best man they have. Elder Penick, do you speak for your brethren in Macon? If you do, send us a copy of the proposition with your signature, and suggest a time. C. H. C.

James 5:20; Mark 9:43; Luke 11:30

---May 31, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-I ask you for information on the passages of Scripture: ((20) (James 5:20)-that does not mean to save a sinner from hell, does it? ((9:43) (Mark 9:43); (Luke 11:30). I am very much interested in these Scriptures.

I have your and I. N. Penick's debate, and am satisfied Penick is on the wrong side. A brother in Christ,

BOWRY CARTER

Quincy, Miss.

REMARKS

No, ((20) (James 5:20) does not mean to save a soul from an eternal hell. In verse nineteen James says, "Brethren, if any of you do err from the truth, and one convert him." The erring brother is the one to be converted and saved. Saved from what? From error, of course, for if he errs from the truth he would be in error. This is what he is to be saved from-from death in error.

In ((9:43) (Mark 9:43) the Saviour is giving instruction in discipline in the church. No matter how important the place a member of the church may occupy, if he acts in a disorderly manner he should be dealt with. It is better to lose the important member than for the whole church to suffer, and the candlestick to be finally removed. We are too apt to be ready to deal with a member who acts disorderly if he does not occupy what is deemed an important place or position in the church, and at the same time pass unnoticed a crime of equal or greater magnitude if committed by the member holding the important position. The church should be as strict with the latter as with the former. If any difference is made, the member occupying the important position should be held to account more quickly than the other.

(Luke 11:30) teaches that "as Jonah was a sign unto the Ninevites," he was a sign in the fact that he was "in the belly of the whale" for three days and nights. So was the Son of man three days and nights in the earth. As Jonah was vomited up by the fish after three days, so the earth gave up the body of Christ after three days. Compare this text with (Matthew 12:38-39,40).

C. H. C.

A Challenge

---June 7, 1910

We noticed a few days ago that Elder Sykes, of Texas, proposed to discuss the absolute predestination of all things, thus throwing down the gauntlet. We have been asked several times if we would debate with an advocate of this doctrine. We have always replied in the affirmative, but they never furnished the man. WE ACCEPT THE CHALLENGE thrown down by Elder Sykes. But for fear this is not sufficient to get them to discuss the differences, we make the following challenge:

We challenge those who hold to the doctrine that God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated all things that come to pass to furnish a representative man from among them to discuss the following propositions with us:

1. The Scriptures teach that God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate all things that come to pass, good, bad and indifferent.

.....affirms.

C. H. CAYCE, denies.

2. The Scriptures teach that much of the happiness of God's children while here on earth is conditional, and depends much upon the way they live.

C. H. CAYCE, affirms.denies.

The discussion to be held at a place where it may be called for and at a time to be agreed on by the disputants. The challenge also embraces this: Competent stenographers are to be employed to take the speeches as delivered, and the whole discussion to be published in book form. Not less than two days to be devoted to each proposition. The speaker on each side to have a moderator, and a third to be chosen by them to act as president moderator. The speakers to be governed by the rules in Hedge's Logic, with an additional rule, "No new matter to be introduced in the final negative on a proposition." We challenge them to furnish the man.

C. H. CAYCE

Watertown Debate

---June 7, 1910

Oakley made a great fight in a fair and orderly manner.
He certainly sustained his propositions and routed Paine on his.
.....Paine seems to take pride in being a mud slinger.

We had a few Missionary Baptists present and they were orderly. The Hardshells had the crowd and their deportment as well as their speaker's was disorderly. I was Brother Oakley's moderator.-

S. N. Fitzpatrick

Lebanon, Tenn.,

in Baptist Builder of May 25, 1910.

REMARKS

We are a little surprised at such a statement as the above from Rev.
Fitzpatrick. We were present the first day of the discussion and acted as moderator for Brother Paine. It is a well known fact by those present that Rev. Oakley began the mud-slinging, and that it seemed almost, if not quite, impossible for him to observe the rules.

Rev. Fitzpatrick, you know that just after Elders Paine and Oakley had each made one speech in the afternoon on Tuesday (the first day) you arose and requested the speakers and the audience to observe the rules. You also know that Elder Paine made the next speech and that he observed the rules strictly. You also know that in Mr. Oakley's next speech he violated no less than three rules. You gave your assent to this at the time, and so did the president moderator. You also know that it was understood between us that if the speakers violated the rules again after your request that they observe them, that I should then reprove them. You know furthermore that we arose and showed three rules that Mr. Oakley had just violated, and that we required an apology. You also know we stated that if we could remain at the debate, and should act as moderator during the remainder of the time, that Mr. Oakley would observe the rules or else the reins would be removed from Elder Paine. You know these are facts. And you know, also, that on the train that afternoon between Watertown and Lebanon you admitted the justness of our claim and contention.

Now, don't you know that the people know that the Rev. Oakley was the mud-slinger, and not Elder Paine? And don't you know that the people know that Rev. Oakley did not conduct himself in an orderly manner? And don't you know that people will know it if you don't tell the truth about the matter? And don't you know that they will lose confidence in you if you tell things that are not true? And don't you think you should tell the truth about it anyhow? And don't you think it would be in order now for you to apologize? You represented it correctly when you said there were few Missionary Baptists present, for there were but few of them present on the first day, and what was true of that day we are informed was true of every day, and Rev. Fitzpatrick admits it. Their small attendance, notwithstanding their boasted numbers in that community, shows how little they esteem the Rev. Oakley or the platform he proposed to occupy. Evidently one or both are lightly esteemed by them there.

C. H. C.

Baptism

---June 7, 1910

In another column in this paper will be found a letter from J. J. Carroll, a Missionary brother, who requests us to write on the subject of baptism. He states that he is dissatisfied with the Missionary Baptists, and would like to live with the Primitive Baptists but does not feel the weight of baptism.

We wrote an article on the subject of baptism, giving some reasons why we do not receive or accept the baptism of other people, which was published in our issue of January 16, 1906. If Brother Carroll will procure a copy of that issue of the paper he can read some of our reasons. But we will offer one or two here.

He quotes from Paul. {(Ephesians 4:5)} "One Lord, one faith, one baptism." The preceding verse says, "There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling." Brother Carroll confesses that he is not satisfied with the Missionaries. This being true, he must see something wrong with their faith (doctrine). Then if the doctrine is wrong, the baptism must necessarily also be wrong. The baptism administered by any people cannot possibly be any better than their doctrine. When Brother Carroll was baptized by a Missionary Baptist preacher he was baptized into the faith of that people. The act of baptism administered by them declared that he was a Missionary Baptist in faith. If he is now a Primitive Baptist in faith, the only way to declare it is to be baptized by one authorized to administer baptism for them.

If the Missionary Baptist church is the church of Christ, then the Primitive Baptists have no right to administer baptism for them, for we are not authorized by them to do so. They do not ordain our preachers. On the other hand, if the Primitive Baptist Church is the church of Christ, then the Missionary Baptist church is not; and if they are not the church of Christ, then they have no right to administer baptism for the Primitive Baptists. No one has a right, or a Scriptural authority, to administer baptism, unless he is ordained, or set apart, by authority of the church of Christ to administer the rite. We do not believe the Missionary Baptist church is the church of Christ; hence we do not deem their immersions to be valid baptisms, and do not accept them.

The Roman Catholics were the first to depart from the faith and split off from the true church. Is baptism, as administered by them valid? No. Then, if the Missionaries have departed from the original principles or faith of the church, and split off from the church, neither is baptism as administered by them valid. From this standpoint (if the Primitive Baptist Church is the true church of Christ), baptism administered by a Missionary Baptist is no better than that administered by a Roman Catholic.

However, we would say that the fact the Missionaries do not practice footwashing is not the only reason, by any means, that they are not the church of Christ. They are wrong in doctrine and are following Rome in practice. Their mission schemes are largely patterned after Rome, and they are fast drifting toward the old mother. Their mission schemes and practices are borrowed from Rome-and borrowed articles usually are returned some time. We would be glad if the Lord's people among them could have their eyes opened to the truth concerning these things, and then have the Christian courage to come out from among them. C. H. C.

Debate on Missions

---June 21, 1910

About as expected, our neighbor, Brother C. H. Cayce, was only joking when he made such sweeping challenges to discuss the mission issue between Baptists and Anti-Missionaries. He tries to dodge out on the plea that their teachings and practices on missions are not in question. Well, well-I. N. Penick in Baptist Builder, June 8, 1910.

Yes, about as expected when Elder Penick said the Builder would furnish the man to defend the practices of the Softshells on the mission question-you won't do it. What's the matter, neighbor-won't your brethren in Macon recognize you as a representative man? Or, did you intend to make people believe you would defend your practice when you have no intention of doing so? Come on, now, and sign the proposition, or else come out like a man and confess that you cannot or will not meet the issue. If you will not meet the issue by debating that, you are the dodger. Will the Missionaries furnish the man?

C. H. C.

Ministerial Aid

---June 28, 1910

In announcing a list of appointments for one of his brethren, the editor of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST urges the people to "see after his welfare in a godly way." The meaning of this is not exactly clear; but it probably includes a reference to the financial side of the business. It is a mistake to suppose, as some appear to do, that Anti-Missionary preachers are clothed and fed in a miraculous way. In this respect they are dependent upon the contributions of the people, just as the preachers of other denominations are. The only difference is, that other denominations are open and frank about it, while the Anti-missionaries do their paying in a sly sort of way. As Elder Lee Hanks said in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST of February 19, 1892, they will take the preacher "off in some secret place and give him ten cents as though they were committing some crime and wanted to conceal it." There is an inconsistency in this of which religious people ought to be ashamed.-

W. B. Clifton, in Baptist Builder, June 15, 1910.

None that we know of, except some ignorant superstitious Softshell Baptists, suppose that Primitive Baptist preachers are clothed and fed in a miraculous way. They go preaching where they feel that the Lord directs; and they do this trusting in the Lord, that He will put it into the hearts of the hearers to minister of their carnal things. They go without the promise of money or support by men. This the Softshells will not do. The Softshells do not trust the Lord. The Lord promised to be with those He sends out to preach. The Softshells will not risk the promise of God. They must have a promise of a support from men before they will go. They must have men to go the Lord's security before they will do the preaching. This is good evidence that they are not sent by the Lord. If they were sent of the Lord, they would be willing to trust Him. They would rather trust the promise of men than the promise of the Lord,. They look to the party by whom they are sent for support, and for a promise of support. They have no confidence in their god. Well, we don't blame them much, for they claim that their god can't save people that he wants to save, because people are too covetous to give their means to send the gospel. Their poor little god is no better than Diana of the Ephesians. They have to tell the people that sinners are going to hell by the thousands every day for want of the gospel, in order to get them to give of their hard-earned dollars. That's the way many of these Softshell humbugs get their support. If the angels and demons of the bottomless pit were capable of blushing, they would blush at the hypocrisy and humbuggery of this Softshell brood. "There is a generation that curseth their father, and doth not bless their mother. There is a generation that are pure in their own eyes, and yet is not washed from their filthiness. There is a generation, O how lofty their eyes! and their eyelids are lifted up. There is a generation whose teeth are as swords, and their jaw teeth as knives, to devour the poor from off the earth, and the needy from among men. The horseleach hath two daughters, crying, Give, give. There are three things that are never satisfied, yea, four things say not, It is enough: The grave, and the barren womb; the earth that is not filled with water; and the fire that saith not, It is enough." -(0:11) (Proverbs 30:11-16). These Softshell beggars (horseleach daughter) never get enough. It is always GIVE, GIVE. Poor fellow! May God have mercy on your poor soul.

C. H. C.

Debate on Missions

---July 19, 1910

Brother Cayce wanted to appear brave and confident, but it is clear to all that he don't intend to even promise to try to defend the doctrine and practice of his people on missions. Will S. A. Paine or anybody else defend the Hardshell brethren on these points? We will find a man to represent the Baptists. Let Cayce hush and somebody else talk who is willing to show his faith by his works-Baptist Builder.

REMARKS

The above clipping is from the pen of Elder I. N. Penick in the Baptist Builder of June 29, 1910. It is very evident that Elder Penick will not defend the teaching and practice of his people on the mission question. Have they a representative man among them who will affirm that "Missions as taught and practiced by the Missionary Baptists are authorized by the word of God?" If you have the man put him up, or else quit your teaching and practice on the mission business.

C. H. C.

Twin Brothers

---July 26, 1910

Our "little" Softshell neighbor, the Rev. I. N. Penick, D. D., says in the Baptist Builder of July 20, 1910, that the "Hardshells" and Campbelites are twin brothers. We would rather be a twin brother than to be an illegitimate Softshell profligate, whose birth is the result of a meeting behind a straw stack.

C. H. C.

The Heathen Question

---July 26, 1910

In the Baptist Builder of July 19, Elder Clifton, office editor of the Softshell sheet, makes reply to what we said in answer to him a few weeks ago. He says "the giving is all right as long as it goes into the pocket of the covetous anti-missionary tourist, but all wrong when used to declare among the heathen the unsearchable riches of Christ!" In Scripture there is no such thing found as a single minister being supported by the mother church at Jerusalem while preaching the unsearchable riches of Christ among the heathen, or Gentiles. This new-fangled mission business is the innovation of men, gotten up under pretense of preaching the gospel among the heathen to save them from hell, for gain. Where is the Scripture for buying little negroes in Africa? Yet the plea is sent out among enlightened people of our land for contributions to buy little negroes all over Africa-asking for money to "redeem" "little Doras!" This, too, under the pretext that money is needed to send the gospel! But, oh, give us money in send the gospel to the poor heathen! And your poor, half-starved missionaries in China must have at least two or three servants or they will not be noticed! All this, and more, done with money begged from the people to save the poor heathen. Yes, in heathendom they must be supplied with free schools, free doctors, free hospitals, free medicines, free dentists to fill their rotten teeth with gold-leaf. That's he way these Softshell beggars use the money in preaching the unsearchable riches of Christ among the heathen while people are starving and perishing for want of food at our own doors. Do they stop at this? No. Young ladies of this country are "gulled" into teaching the heathen Chinese to their ruin. Look at the Elsie Seigle case; and such occurrences have taken place more than once. It was no rare exception. One of their preachers said, "We knew it." Yet they continue to invent every scheme they can to get the ungodly gain. May the Lord pity them.

If our readers want to learn more truth concerning this black, dirty, wicked, mission business, send 25 cents to us for a copy of "Foreign Missions Exposed," by Hon. Ths. E. Watson. of Thomson, Ga. He shows the thing up, and gives their own statements.

When are you Softshells going to name your representative man to debate the mission question with us in Macon, Ga.? C. H. C.

That Challenge

---August 2, 1910

In reply to the challenge which we published in our issue of June 7, the following article appeared in the Advocate of Truth of July 1, 1910:

The above appeared in "The Primitive Baptist" of June 7th. I have obtained the consent of the editor of the Advocate of Truth to give it space in his paper, and I ask Elder Cayce, if he is willing for his readers to know that he has either willfully or ignorantly misrepresented the facts in the case, to give this, my answer, a place in his paper. It will be readily seen that Elder Cayce willfully, knowingly and purposely makes the impression that I have made a challenge on the subject of the absolute predestination of all things; and he puts in capital letters, "WE ACCEPT THE CHALLENGE thrown down by Elder Sykes." Now the truth is, I have either made such a challenge or I have not. Elder Cayce either saw such a challenge from me, or he did not. If I made such a challenge it certainly can be produced. If Elder Cayce saw such a challenge from me he can certainly produce it. If he did not see such a challenge from me, he has willfully, knowingly, purposely and with evil intentions misrepresented the matter, in which case he is unworthy of notice by any honorable debater, and is not fit to represent any religious order which has any regard for truth and honesty. It would be unjust and unfair, however, to charge this upon him without giving him a chance to make good the proof of his statement. It may be that in order to provoke controversy some unscrupulous person has forged my name to such a challenge and had it published, and that Elder Cayce saw it and supposed that I was the author of it, and was therefore justifiable in making the above statement. We ask therefore that the reader withhold judgment on the matter until Elder Cayce can have time to produce the document on which his statement was based. In the A. of T. of May, in writing up my recent tour through the east, in speaking of my visit in the Flint River Association, I said, "While I was in the bounds of this association, Elder B. Towry sent me a written challenge to discuss the doctrine of predestination with him. He did not come out to hear me preach, although the meeting was near his house, but sent the challenge by his son. I accepted the challenge and asked his son to go after him and bring him down so we could begin at once. But he replied that his father wanted a little time, and he did not go after him. I could not linger there and wait for him to get ready, so the debate did not come off; I promised the brethren, however, that I would come back some time next fall and hold the discussion if he did not back down."

It cannot be that this was what Elder Cayce saw, for it states that Elder Towry challenged me, and that I accepted the challenge. If this is what he saw and presents as a challenge from me when he says, "WE ACCEPT THE CHALLENGE thrown down by Elder Sykes," then he has purposely, knowingly and willfully deceived his readers and made them believe that I had put out a challenge when he knew it was not true. If this is the case, then I would not under any consideration meet him in discussion, for a man who would not scruple to make such a misrepresentation of the truth in order to deceive the people before he goes into a discussion, would not scruple to handle the word of God deceitfully, nor to resort to any unfair means to make a false impression. If Elder Cayce can produce such a challenge from me as he has sought to make the people believe I have made, then I am willing, if it suits Elder Towry and his brethren, for him to take Elder Towry's place in the discussion now pending, which is to begin on Tuesday after the first Sunday in October at Pleasant Grove Church, some 7 or 8 miles southwest of Fayetteville, Tenn. I have a duplicate of the proposition written by Elder Towry and sent to me, which reads as follows: "The Scriptures teach that God did predestinate all things whatsoever come to pass, both good and evil."

I had nothing whatever to do with the framing of this proposition; but when it was presented to me in the form of a challenge for me to affirm, I wrote at the bottom of it, "Accepted by J. C. Sykes," and handed it back. I received what Elder Towry says is a duplicate of the one I signed, a few days ago. The one who discusses the subject with me will do so on that side of the house.

If Elder Cayce can produce such a challenge from me, or with my name to it, as he has sought to make the people believe he saw, and thus exonerate himself from any suspicion that he willfully misled the people in the above article, then I am willing for him to take Elder Towry's place in the discussion of this proposition, at the time and place above mentioned, provided that he and his people do not think that Elder Towry is a representative preacher of their order. If they think he is a representative man then there can be no reason assigned for replacing him with another, only that the other fellow might gain some notoriety by it.

Or if Elder Cayce cannot produce the challenge he claims to have seen from me, and his people do not think that Elder Towry is qualified to represent them, and will move him out of the way and put an honest, clean, upright man, one who will treat his opponent with the courtesy and kindness due an honest disputant, then I am willing, yea, urge they do so.

I am not preparing nor expecting to discuss at the time above mentioned, a proposition on Conditional Time Salvation, because it is the legitimate offspring of limited predestination, and must stand or fall with the doctrine. Hence to discuss it as a separate proposition, is to sidetrack from the main issue, which will require all that time or expediency will allow in one discussion. The agreement in this discussion is, that I am to have all the time I want to present my proof on this proposition.

Now I wish to say a few words about this proposition and the one presented by Elder Cayce on the same subject, and every one I have yet seen presented on that subject by that side. I have never yet seen one presented by them that does not manifest either ignorance on the part of the framer, or an unholy and unrighteous desire to get the advantage in its wording, so as to enable them to appeal to the prejudice instead of the judgment of the people. This is clearly seen in the one which I have agreed to discuss. You will note that it says, "The Scriptures teach that God did predestinate all things whatsoever come to pass, both good and bad." Why is this "both good and bad" affixed to the proposition? Is it because the writer thereof did not know that the expression, "all things whatsoever come to pass," fully states the matter as we believe it? Did he know that this last was only a repetition of the sentiment contained in the first part? If he did not, then he is indeed ignorant; if he did know it, then he put it there because he thought it would give him some advantage which a true grammatical statement would not. The proposition as stated by Elder Cayce goes still farther. It adds after "all things that come to pass," "good, bad and indifferent." I can't believe that ignorance is the cause of his putting this last part to it. If so, he is not qualified to represent his people. But if he knows that all the prefixes and affixes which he can add to it does not cover any more ground than "all things that come to pass," and that nothing can come to pass that is not covered by this statement, then why did he add this affix? He has here not only violated the use of good language and good sense, but he has introduced a class of things which are neither good nor bad-indifferent things, as though there were some things toward which God is indifferent, and which He does not regard as good or bad. John says, "All unrighteousness is sin." Then as all righteous things are good, and all sinful things are bad, we find no place for his indifferent things. This only shows his eagerness to so frame our doctrine as to give him some undue advantage. I wonder if Elder Cayce will say that he has heard our people advocate the idea that God has decreed more than all things whatsoever come to pass? If not, why supplement that statement with "good, bad and indifferent?" I wonder if he will say that he has heard us argue that God has decreed over and above all things whatsoever come to pass a lot of things that will never come to pass, some of which are neither good nor bad? If not, then why this supplement? No fair-minded man wants anything in a proposition for discussion more than a clear and concise statement of the point to be discussed, and he is willing to strip it of all superfluous words and phrases which add nothing to the sentiment contained in said proposition. I have accepted a proposition with one of those superfluous prize poles attached to the latter end of it, but if the man who meets me on that proposition undertakes to use it to prize up the prejudice of the people, I will show him up in his proper light. All I want, and all any honest man could want, is a fair, open, honest and candid investigation of this subject upon its real merits, without any play upon or appeal to the prejudice or passions of the people.

If the limited Baptists are not satisfied with the man who challenged me and have a man whom they are willing to trust, who is willing to discuss this question upon its merits in the manner above stated, let them tell Elder Towry to stand aside, and have their man on the ground at the time and place above stated. Let them now speak or forever hold their peace.

J. C. SIKES.

REMARKS

In reply to the above will say that we received a letter from a brother whose name we do not remember, which was a reply to some things Elder Sikes had preached in Alabama. It was written for publication in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, We did not give it space because we do not wish a continued controversy on the question through the paper. We are sorry that the article was not preserved. We understood from the tenor of the article that Elder Sikes had made some kind of challenge in his preaching. But as Elder Sikes says he never made a challenge, we will say that we either misunderstood the brother who wrote the article or else he misunderstood Elder Sikes. We do not wish to misrepresent any one, and beg Elder Sikes' pardon. If he was misrepresented, it was not done intentionally.

As to the objection raised by Elder Sikes to the proposition, or the words, "good, bad and indifferent," will say that Elder Sikes knows very well that the words "all things" are often used in the Scriptures and elsewhere in a restricted sense. If the proposition, therefore, should say that "God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate all things that come to pass," there would be room for a quibble by applying it in a restricted sense; but with the added words, "good, bad and indifferent," there is no room for quibbling on that point. Those words added simply make the expression, "all things that come to pass," unrestricted. Elder Sikes certainly knows why we put the proposition that way. The elder says that in adding these words we violated the use of good language and good sense. We deny that we violated the use of good language. The words refer to "things," and make the proposition embrace all good things, all bad things and all things that may not be classed as good or bad. If something comes to pass that the man who affirms the proposition cannot say is good, or bad, then the proposition says it is embraced in the "all things" which God predestinated. It is not, therefore, a violation of good language. It may be a violation of good sense, in the estimation of Elder Sikes. He may think no one who would oppose his position has good sense. But we will not comment on that matter now.

Elder Sikes says: "I am not preparing nor expecting to discuss at the time above mentioned, a proposition on conditional time salvation, because it is the legitimate offspring of limited predestination, and must stand or fall with that doctrine. Hence to discuss it as a separate proposition, is to side-track from the main issue, which will require all the time expediency will allow in one discussion. The agreement in this discussion is, that I am to have all the time I want to present my proof on this proposition." Our challenge has nothing whatever to do with the discussion with Brother Towry. We don't care how much time is used in that discussion, and we don't care how many nor how few propositions are discussed at that time. Our challenge said nothing about that time. The time is to be agreed on by the disputants, according to the challenge. We do not care whether he discusses the question of "conditional time salvation" with Brother Towry or not. And it makes no difference whether "conditional time salvation" is the legitimate offspring of limited predestination or not. Our brethren who have held to what some call "conditional time salvation," have been called Arminians, Bildads, Half-Baptists and many other such names, and we want an investigation of the matter. We want a clean, honest, fair investigation of the two propositions submitted. That is all we want. If the Bible teaches that God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate all things that come to pass, good, bad and indifferent, we want to know it. And, if the Bible does not teach that much of the happiness of God's children while here on earth is conditional, and depends much upon the way they live, we want to know it. Hence, we repeat the challenge.

THE CHALLENGE REPEATED.

We challenge those who bold to the doctrine that God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated all things that come to pass to furnish a representative man from among them to discuss the following propositions with us:

1. The Scriptures teach that God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate all things that come to pass, good, bad and indifferent. -affirms; C. H. Cayce denies.
2. The Scriptures teach that much of the happiness of God's children while here on earth is conditional, and depends much upon the way they live. C. H. Cayce affirms;---denies.

The discussion to be held at a place where it may be called for and at a time to be agreed on by the disputants. The challenge also embraces this:

Competent stenographers are to be employed to take the speeches as delivered, and the whole discussion to be published in book form. Not less than two days to be devoted to each proposition. The speaker on each side to have a moderator, and a third to be chosen by them to act as president moderator. The speakers to be governed by the rules in Hedge's Logic, with an additional rule, "No new matter to be introduced in the final negative on a proposition." We challenge them to furnish the man. C. H. C.

The Footprints

---August 2, 1910

Elder J. W. Fairchild has resumed the publication of the Footprints of the Flock. He claims he has labored hard for peace, but his writings show that he was saying some hard things about some brethren who differed from him. In the May, 1910, number of his paper, among other things, he says: "There is no hope for peace between the high-minded bosses in the Baptist ranks, and the humble followers of the lowly Jesus. The only hope for peace now is for the Lord's flock to be delivered from the selfish leaders. We have done all we know to pacify these lords over God's heritage, but all to no avail."

Who are the "high-minded bosses" in the Baptist ranks? Of course, if Elder Fairchild is the one to answer the question, the bosses are those who faithfully oppose some position he has been advocating. Who are the "humble followers" of the meek and lowly Jesus? if Elder Fairchild is to answer, of course it would be "Elder Fairchild and those who advocate the doctrine of the absolute and unconditional predestination of all things that come to pass.

It is evident to us, from his writings, that these are the humble followers of the meek and lowly Jesus. He classes those who oppose his teaching as selfish leaders. It is clear that he uses strong terms and ugly epithets in referring to those who have the courage to oppose his views. Hence, if one has the courage and manliness and Christian fortitude to oppose something advocated by Elder Fairchild, he is a high-minded boss and a selfish leader. Hence, it appears that Elder Fairchild must be allowed to be the leader-he must be allowed to advocate what he pleases, even to the destruction of the peace of the churches-and no one must object under penalty of bringing down the anathemas of Elder Fairchild upon his head.

He further says: "Our labors with these elders who are bent on dividing the Lord's people over predestination and time salvation are at an end; and hereafter our efforts shall be to save the flock from their tyranny." In this he accuses those who oppose the absolute predestination of all things of being bent on dividing the Lord's people. The truth of the matter is that the preaching and advocating of that doctrine is what causes the division. If it was not advocated there would be no need to oppose it, and then there would be no division. It is true, therefore, that advocating that doctrine is what causes the division. Elder Fairchild was bent on advocating it; hence he is the man bent on division, for he knows it causes division. But from his standpoint it is tyranny for one to oppose that doctrine; but it is not tyranny for him to continue to advocate it when he knows it causes division.

Again, he says: "Were it not for the preachers who have the spirit of bossism, there would be no trouble among us." What preachers among us have the spirit of bossism, unless it is those who continue to advocate the doctrine of absolute and unconditional predestination of all things that come to pass, and that God caused the devil to cause Adam to sin, and who stigmatize those who oppose that doctrine? If that spirit is not the spirit of bossism we confess we are dull of comprehension.

Again, he says: "Shall a few bigoted bosses destroy the peace of Zion?" We hope not. We hope the churches will withdraw from every "bigoted boss" who continues to advocate this doctrine, when he knows it causes distress and confusion.

Merely as a matter of information to our readers we copy the following from Elder J. B. Hardy, Jr., which was in the Footprints for May, 1910: "I have studied the matter carefully and am ready to say the Footprints must not, will not die. Publish it, and make the world know you are publishing it. Father is here and says tell you to publish the Footprints and say some thing in it too. I am willing to reply to Bogard if you think, best, and will, but I prefer to be after some so-called Primitive Baptists. My spirit is stirred within me, and they must come to the scratch or shut up. They must let up on you or include me in the fight. I will not be left out." We will offer no comment on this statement now. We give it simply as a matter of information to our readers.

May the Lord help us all to humbly and faithfully contend against every false way, and to contend earnestly for the faith that was once delivered unto the saints.

C. H. C.

That Debate on Missions

---August 9, 1910

Notice the following clear cut proposition:

"1. Missions as taught and practiced by the Missionary Baptists are authorized by the word of God."

"2. Missions as taught and practiced by the so-called Old School Baptists are authorized by the word of God."

For some time Brother C. H. Cayce has displayed some anxiety to discuss this first proposition, but under no consideration will he agree to defend the doctrines and practice of his people. If any of his brethren will try it let them deny this first, and affirm the second proposition and the Builder will furnish a man to look after the truth. If none of them will try to defend their anti-mission doctrines and practices they ought to say so frankly and hush. What say you brethren?-Baptist Builder, July 27.

REMARKS

It is evident that the Builder man does not intend to meet the issue. Instead of doing that, he tries to confuse the minds of the people, and throw dust in the air, to draw their minds away from the issue. It is the teaching and practice of the Missionary Baptists on the mission question that has been assailed and called in question. It was the assaults made on that doctrine and practice that caused your brother, Rev. Broughton, to make a challenge to Thos. E. Watson to debate. Our brethren then called on us to know if we would debate the question. We replied in the affirmative. Rev. Broughton failed to come to time. The Builder then took it up; but also fails to meet the issue. Why not come up squarely, like a man, and discuss the proposition or shut up?

However, if you wish us to affirm a proposition, we will affirm this: "The church of which I (C. H. Cayce) am a member, known as Old School or Primitive Baptists, is Scriptural in doctrine and practice."

We will affirm this. Will you deny it? And will you affirm that "Missions as taught and practiced by the Missionary Baptists are authorized by the word of God?"

Remember that you must furnish a man that your people in Macon, Ga., will recognize as a representative man. Will you do that? And will you meet the issue? We still wait to see. C. H. C.

Challenge

---August 9, 1910

I notice that C. H. Cayce, editor of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, published at Martin, Tenn., has challenged the Old School Baptists to debate the subjects of predestination and conditionalism in which he proposes to deny what he, in the early part of his ministry professed to believe, and to affirm what he then denied.

If Elder Cayce and those now associated with him will put up any honorable representative man among them, who has the endorsement of his people and will sign propositions on these subjects, which express fairly and honestly the issue between us, they shall be accommodated. Elder Cayce proposes that stenographers be employed to write the debate and that it be published. To this I will say Predestinarian Baptist ministers do not wish to lord it over God's heritage, but we are willing to leave this matter entirely with the brethren to do just as they please about having the debate published.

Now if they want a fair and honorable discussion, let them bring out their man. W. I. C.

The above appeared in the Predestinarian Baptist of August 1, 1910. Elder W. I. Carnell is one of the editors, and we presume he is the author, as it is signed W. I. C.

As to his statement that we propose to deny what we, in the early part of our ministry, professed to believe, and to affirm what we then denied, we have only to say that we shall make no reply to this now. It will receive due notice at the proper time.

We made the challenge for your people to furnish a representative man from among them to meet us in discussion on the propositions as they appeared in the challenge. Do you accept those propositions? The first one is what you teach. Will you affirm it in debate? Do you believe the second proposition? Will you deny it in debate? And will your people say, by act of a church, that you are a representative man? Do you want our people to endorse us for the debate? We have not asked them to do so, and we don't know whether they will or not; but we have been called on by them in different states to represent them in discussions. We made the challenge for your people to furnish a man to meet us. It was made on our own responsibility. But do you want one or more of our churches to endorse us for the debate? Will your people furnish a representative man if our people endorse us? It was included in the challenge that stenographers be employed to take the debate down, and that it be published.

The propositions upon which we made the challenge are fair and embrace points of difference. Why did you not put the propositions in your paper? Did you want to misrepresent us? Did you wish to keep the true issue from your readers? Now, we want a fair and honorable discussion of those propositions. If we are wrong, we want to be right. We want the truth. WILL YOU MEET THE ISSUE, provided your people will say you are a representative man? And WILL THEY SAY THAT? Will your people furnish a man? We await an answer. How long will we have to wait? Our man is out and ready to agree on a time when you people furnish the man and he signs the propositions upon which the challenge was made.

C. H. C.

Missions Again

---August 16, 1910

“In the Scripture there is no such thing found as a single minister being supported by the mother church at Jerusalem while preaching the unsearchable riches of Christ among the heathen, or Gentiles.” -C. H. Cayce, PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, July 26.

Isn't that “cute?” He might also have said there is no record of the mother church at Jerusalem taking up a collection to pay for printing the associational minutes! The Scriptures show however, that the Jerusalem church was composed of poor people who were to some extent dependent upon the generosity of their Gentile brethren. But besides that, Paul tells us, in (Galatians 2:9) that “James, and Cephas, and John, they who reputed to be pillars” in the church, gave “to me and Barnabas the right hand of fellowship, that we should go unto the Gentiles, and they unto the circumcision.” It appears, then, that there was an understanding and a division of the vast mission field between the mother church and the other churches, the former undertaking the mission to the Jews, and the latter that to the Gentiles. The intimation that the Jerusalem church was opposed to the missions to the Gentiles is therefore, false: for its leading members distinctly fellowshipped two men who had been set apart for this work. And we are prepared to show from the word of God that other churches helped to support Paul “while preaching the unsearchable riches of Christ among the heathen, or Gentiles.” Will Eld. Cayce dispute it?

We have felt quite sure for some time that Elder Cayce, of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, has been waiting for an opportunity to spout off the contents of Tom Watson's slanderous pamphlet against foreign missions. And so, in his issue of July 26, instead of attempting to defend the inconsistent practices of his own people, he favors us with a tame rehash of Watson, which, however, only exposes the bad animus and the logical weakness of the Anti-Missionary position. The first thing that we call attention to is that Elder Cayce makes no distinction whatever: he seems to charge that all the men who go out as foreign missionaries are base mercenaries, and that ALL the females are prostitutes! This is as vile a slander as ever emanated from the pit of perdition, and Elder Cayce knows it, and knowing it he retails it for the cash there is in it!

Now, that an occasional base character should appear among the missionary forces is to be expected; but this no more discredits the foreign missionary work as a whole than the appearance of such characters among the churches of all denominations at home discredits Christianity as a whole. As a matter of fact the argument has n more real weight against foreign missions than an argument based on the treason of Judas, the covetousness of Simon Magus and the dissimulation of Peter at Antioch has against Christianity. Even the man blind enough to swallow Hardshellism ought to see this. But we are willing to bring the matter to a concrete test. There are several men and women now on foreign fields who were born and reared right here in West Tennessee: will Elder Cayce affirm and undertake to show that these people are of the character and guilty of the practices he refers to? Will he affirm and undertake to prove that the Baptist churches in West Tennessee, for example, endorse men and women known to be of bad character, and approve of such methods and such practices as those he mentions? If he cannot prove these things why does he make statements that imply that all the foreign missionaries, both men and women, are base and unworthy of decent respect? But finally in regard to foreign mission work in general, who is to be believed, men like Elder Cayce, who deal out course slanders for the money there is in it, or men like William J. Bryan, Theodore Roosevelt and former vice President Fairbanks, who saw with their own eyes, and could have no motive in misrepresenting the facts?

The above appeared in the Baptist Builder of August 3 in Elder W. B. Clifton's department. Now, why doesn't the Rev, gentleman tell where we got authority for what we said? And why doesn't he publish what we said, so his readers can judge for themselves as to whether his statements are true or false? It simply won't do to give the facts out to his readers. If the people knew the facts concerning this mission business, the high-salaried secretaries and chairmen of boards, beggars and solicitors in the field, the high-salaried missionaries, doctors, dentists and teachers would have to look for another job. It just won't do to let the people know the facts. If they knew the facts, they would not go down in their pockets so freely and hand over so many of their hard-earned dollars for the Rev. clergy. The elder's conclusion, that there was an understanding and a division of the vast mission field between the mother church and the other churches, is not proven by his quotation. {(Galatians 2:9)} But suppose the quotation did prove his statement, would that sustain their practices? Does it authorize the existence of the Southern Baptist Convention, their state conventions, home and foreign boards, with their secretaries, chairmen and treasurers? Who divides the "vast mission field" for the Missionary Baptists who go to the field? Do the churches divide the field, or does the board do the dividing? Those who know anything at all about the matter know that the board as signs to the missionary his field of labor, that therefore, the board does the dividing. But the quotation does not sustain the contention of the elder. The first verse of that chapter {(Galatians 2)} says, "Then fourteen years after I went up again to Jerusalem with Barnabas, and took Titus with me also."

This shows that Paul had been preaching among the Gentiles for a number of years already. His field of labor had already been assigned him. The field of labor was assigned him by the Master when He appeared to him and called him to the work; see ((2:21) (Acts 22:21); ((7) (26:17)). Not only is this true, but the apostle says, (Galatians 1:15-21), "But when it pleased God, who separated me from my mother's womb, and called me by His grace, to reveal His Son in me, that I might preach Him among the heathen; immediately I conferred not with flesh and blood; neither went I up to Jerusalem to them which were apostles before me; but I went into Arabia, and returned again unto Damascus. Then after three years I went up to Jerusalem to see Peter, and abode with him fifteen days. But other apostles saw I none, save James, the Lord's brother. Now the things which I write unto you, behold, before God, I lie not." The apostle did not confer with the church at Jerusalem, nor with a board, as to where he should go preaching the unsearchable riches of Christ, or where his field of labor should be. He did not wait to see whether or not he would get a salary or a support from a board or from a church at Jerusalem. Evidently he was not a missionary of the modern sort. The elder says he is prepared to show from the word of God that other churches helped to support Paul while preaching the unsearchable riches of Christ among the Gentiles. But can he show that Paul, or any other minister, was supported by the mother church at Jerusalem while preaching the unsearchable riches of Christ among the Gentiles? Our statement was that there is no such thing as this found in Scripture. If it was there, we suppose the Rev, would have produced it.

While the apostle was at Thessalonica the brethren at Philippi sent gifts unto him. Philippi was about forty miles from Thessalonica. Does that look like foreign missions? While he was in Corinth the brethren from Macedonia contributed to his necessities. These contributions were not sent from a distance of more than two hundred miles, for Philippi, in Macedonia, was not more than two hundred miles from Corinth, and Thessalonica was nearer. There is nothing in any of these that favors missions as now practiced by these modern Softshell Missionaries.

Instead of the mother church at Jerusalem sending out and supporting missionaries in the foreign field, contributions were made by the Gentile churches and sent to Jerusalem for the help of the poor saints there. But, now these modern Missionaries must have contributions sent to the foreign from the home field to supply free schools, free doctors, free nurses, free dentists, free gold leaf, free medicines (and the Lord only knows how much more) for the heathen. They reverse the order in the contribution arrangement. We did not intimate that the church at Jerusalem opposed the Apostle Paul's going among the Gentiles, and Elder Clifton knows it. But we say that the church at Jerusalem did not support the apostle, nor contribute to his necessities, while he was preaching among the Gentiles, neither did God require it. Elder Clifton also knows this is a fact. All the Softshell modern Missionaries in the United States cannot overthrow this position.

Now, the Rev. Softshell gentleman shows his anger and utter inability to meet our position. He charges that he has felt quite sure for some time that we were waiting impatiently for an opportunity to spout off the contents of Tom Watson's slanderous pamphlet against foreign missions. He FELT IT! We have had the same opportunity all the time that we have now. This flatterer has been making remarks about us and our brethren in his dirty way for quite awhile. For some time we paid no attention to his thrusts, until he "swelled up" so large we decided to give the Rev, gentleman a few facts. As to what he says about Tom Watson's pamphlet, will only say that he misrepresents Tom Watson. Mr. Watson is not opposed to missions, and says so on the first page of the first chapter in the pamphlet. But if the pamphlet is slanderous, why don't you Softshell pop-guns make him pay for the slander? Why don't you refute the things therein contained? Why doesn't your Mr. Bryan, whose word you say the people should take, meet Mr. Watson in debate on the question? Mr. Bryan dare not discuss the question with Mr. Watson. But this Softshell windbag says we deal out course slander for the money there is in it. In the name of decency and honesty, whom have we slandered? We only told a little of what Rev. Paul Wakefield said, and he is a missionary advocate. If the language is a slander, then Dr. Wakefield is the guilty party and not C. H. Cayce. Are we a vile slanderer because we tell what their own people say who believe in and advocate foreign missions, and whose stomachs begin to ache right now when they get on the foreign mission question, but whose heart is, seemingly, as hard as flint when they are appealed to concerning the poor starving white people right here at their own doors? Slanderous, indeed! Just at this time we have before us a copy of the Woman's Missionary Advocate of August, 1910. On pages 63 to 67 is a letter from Miss Emma Lester, on the foreign field. The letter is headed, "One Day Out From Shanghai." In this letter, on page 65 of the pamphlet, appears this language: "The Filipinos are Catholic, and one cannot help but admire the work and tremble at the influx of Western wickedness that is coming in faster than Western goodness. It is so in all of these Eastern lands. One ship brings the missionaries and countless barrels of whiskey. We sit at table with an American woman who is on her way to bring back girls for her evil business. They say the name 'American girl' in the East means a bad woman. There you are! A woman missionary on the foreign field said it! Are a vile slanderer because we tell what she said? Western wickedness is coming in faster than Western goodness! It is so in all these Eastern lands!

Pray tell us, then, how they are to be converted in the present generation? If the Western importations make them worse, pray tell us how long it will require for the West to "take them for Christ?" Imagine, too, how much influence these missionary women will have in converting these heathen and "taking the world for Christ," when "the name 'American girl' in the East means a bad woman?" It seems to us that, to any reasonable person, it would be clear that before they can have much influence in the East they must correct matters at home.

On page 471 of Pearson's Magazine for April, 1910, the editor of the magazine says:

During the past year the foreign mission movement in the United States has grown astonishingly. Foreign missions seem to be based on business instead of Christianity. Great state conventions have been held in various states, and the Laymen's Missionary Movement inaugurated a national campaign in October last year, which still continues. It is to conclude in May with a National Missionary Congress in Chicago. Already the pledged contributions indicate that more American money will go into foreign missions this year than ever came in any one year from our country. Perhaps this is due to the movement's "business" appeal. It may be good business to Christianize foreign heathens, but it does seem that it might be better business to relieve certain heathenish conditions right at home in this day of bread-lines and the vast human-stunted under-growth of the United States. During the year 1909 several great charities for home purposes were forced to discontinue or curtail their activities because of lack of money. During the same year the gifts of the United States for foreign missions increased $600,000 over the previous year, while the gifts of Great Britain decreased $96,000 and the gifts of other Christian countries decreased $120,000. Is this because Americans are better, or is it because they are more foolish? This magazine asked Mr. Barry to answer that question. He has spent four of the last six years traveling in the far East and South America. He has seen the missionaries and their work. His story follows-Editor.

This was written as a kind of introduction to an article headed "Business vs. Christianity," by Richard Barry. It cannot be charged that the statements of the editor of Pearson's Magazine or Richard Barry are the product of narrow-minded prejudice against foreign missions. These men could have no more motive to misrepresent the facts than Wm. J. Bryan, Theodore Roosevelt or former Vice-President Fairbanks, and Mr. Barry has spent as much time in the East and in South America among the foreign missionaries and the heathens as any of the other three gentlemen, and perhaps all three together. We must consider Mr. Barry a good witness. We give the following extracts from Mr. Barry's article:

These are two appeals:

The first is from the Federation of Churches and Christian Organizations in New York City. A page of statistics is submitted. These figures conjure of some appalling facts. They show that in a 122 blocks in lower Manhattan there are a quarter million people who were born abroad. These people are so densely packed together that there is an average of 750 of them each acre of ground. They represent eleven different nationalities, four different world religions and upward of twenty different sects of those religions. For one minute consider the problems presented on that little handful of earth, inside our very doors, in the bosom of our national family.

Sanitation! Congestion! Homelessness! Housing! Industrial welfare!
Religious education! Political education! Secular education!

The second appeal is from the Laymen's Missionary movement. It presents figures so vast that the mind recoils, stunned. It is almost as difficult a mental problem as to look into the heavens, with a text book on astronomy in one hand, and attempt to estimate the number of stars. However, let us seize the fringe of the statement as it sweeps by, comet-like, on its course, and attempt to estimate it. There are in the world, the appeal says, a billion people who are not Christians. A thousand millions! About twelve times the population of the United States! About four thousand times as many foreigners as live in the lower part of Manhattan! Of course, this is outside of the fifty millions of people who live in the United States who are not Christians. or who do not at least belong to any Christian organization.

Now the appeal is that we shall evangelize that billion of people within the present generation. They want to carry the gospel to that thousand million within thirty-five years. At present there are 13,350 missionaries in the field. They want 40,000. Last year this country spent ten millions on foreign missions. This year the new movement asks for fifty millions.

They want one man and one woman for each fifty thousand of that foreign population, and $2,000 for each of them to spend. There, in a concrete sentence, I believe I have stated what is meant when these organizers say they want to evangelize the world. A man and his wife with $2,000 a year, for every fifty thousand non-Christians will turn the trick.

To which appeal shall we listen?

To the foreign appeal, of course. Are we not an imaginative, emotional, extravagant people? Who can beat the American in driving a bargain? And who can beat the American in foolishly spending the money he makes from a bargain? No nation has greater resources from which to draw, and no nation spends those resources more recklessly. It is for good and sufficient reasons that the United States and Canada lead the world in contributions to foreign missions. But let us consider the matter critically, without prejudice. The new missionary movement is called a business men's movement, and the new appeal is being made to business men for business reasons. Therefore, let us look at it in a business like way.

First a quotation from "Men and Missions" the weekly bulletin of the new movement: "I never saw a more representative gathering of the men of New York," said Richard Barry, war correspondent, magazine writer and staff correspondent of "Pearson's Magazine," in speaking of the mass meeting in the Hippodrome on Sunday afternoon. "I never saw a more representative audience of men of substance or standing at any meeting, political, religious, or commercial. I was surprised. I had no idea a missionary meeting could draw men that way."

We call special attention just here to the fact that the promoters of the missionary movement quote Mr. Barry, who is the author of the article from which these extracts are taken. Mr. Barry continues:

This quotation is correct, so far as it goes, but "Men and Missions" did not record all that was said before that meeting opened. There were present 5,300 "key" men, the leaders of the churches of Greater New York, and before the exercises began I asked an officer of the convention if he would permit me to step to the platform and ask the assemblage this question: "Wilt every man in the audience who has in his pocket an unsigned contract with Oriental or African merchants please rise?" I offered to wager that at least half the audience, thus taken off guard, and perhaps thinking I might be an agent for such merchants, would rise. The officer would not permit me to put the question, but he laughed. I believe he thought I was joking.

* * * * *

The Japanese are a courteous people. They listen respectfully, and with a much more open mind than we listen in this country, to the teachings of any foreign people. European, Chinese, Indian, Korean, American missionaries are all welcomed. The Japanese listens soberly absorbs and says nothing.

The Japanese are also a practical people. They gratefully accept rice, meat, school buildings, education, knowledge and kind words from all benevolent foreigners, especially from Americans. But they are not Christians and never will be. After sixty years of valiant effort the Christian religion has less hold on Japan than the Buddhist religion has on the United States.

* * * * *

Another speaker for the new movement, Dr. A. J. Brown, a missionary, says, "In Korea I traveled in a car made in Delaware, drawn by a locomotive from Philadelphia over Pittsburg rails, fastened by New York spikes to Oregon ties. I sat down to a meal that included Chicago beef, Pittsburg pickles and Minnesota flour. We could afford to support all the missionaries in Korea for the large and growing trade they have developed with this country."

Another "business" appeal! The missionaries built your trade up; therefore build up the missionaries. The missionaries developed the trade with Korea!

* * * * *

The real attitude of the new movement is this-and I am but saying plainly what its speakers say inferentially: Let us carry beef and flour and railroad ties and pig-iron to the heathen (deducting, of course, therefrom a good American profit from the transaction), and his soul will somehow take care of itself. We will carry a little side line of tracts for his soul, but we in our enlightened wisdom, are not so sure that our soul ideas are so much better than his. We will give him the benefit of the doubt on that point, and let him have his choice. On one thing, however, he shall not have any choice-that is, on Business. Our business is infinitely superior to his, and it is our sacred duty to send it to him. Beef and iron, flour and railroad ties, pickles and pork, candy and kerosene-these the heathen must have, even if he rejects the soul tracts.

The placing of those soul tracts, the side line, is to be a mathematical calculation, a placing of Christianity by the rural free delivery route, as it were However, as good business men, we see the advantage of an approved name of good standing, a name that we can advertise. So we take the name of Christ, the methods of Mohammed and our own weapon, not the sword, but the dollar. Out of this holy trinity of name, ways and means we will evangelize the world-and in jig quick time!

* * * * *

It was stated in one of the conventions in February, as an argument that would induce double contributions, that it took one dollar to carry another dollar to the heathen or foreign lands. In other words, only fifty cents of every dollar contributed here for foreign missions ever is spent directly on the mission fields.

A statement that came to me several days ago, nearer the source of actual experience, is one, however, that I prefer to use. It was made to me by an American missionary while we were traveling together down the Yank Tse Kiang. He had just come from a five years' service in interior China, and he said that for every dollar he spent among the Chinese in his district, for their own good, it cost the Foreign Missionary Board $10.75.

In other words, about one dollar in twelve actually gets to the heathen...And how is that one dollar in twelve spent?

Two classes of men go to foreign missions-the great and the petty, and the great are vastly in the minority. The ordinary, everyday, well-rounded, normal man seldom goes. There have been some missionaries who have been great men, though most of that caliber are dead.

Most of the missionaries of today are of a far different type. I do not speak from hearsay, but from observation. I have traveled in nearly every "heathen" country. I have seen these men at their work. I have watched them go to and fro. And I have attended more than one missionary convention here. At the conventions here the only subject I have heard discussed (off the platform, when men usually get to talking about what really interests them) has been-how can we get our pay raised? Where there is a weakly minister, one so over-emotional or so spineless that he could be palmed off only on the heathen, he is the one that goes into the foreign fields.

Lucky man! A man who never would find in this country a congregation that could pay him more than $1,000 a year goes to China, Japan, India or Africa with an allowance of from $1,200 to $1,800 a year. And not only is the allowance larger on paper, but he gets it

When the lucky missionary arrives in the foreign field he discovers that, instead of getting only a fifth or half more than he might have had at home, that amount of money really means four or five times as much as it would in this country.

How many ministers of the gospel in the United States have six or seven personal servants, their own carriage and a country place in a delightful climate to which they may retire at rigorous seasons of the year? It is not the exception, but the rule for every American missionary in the Orient to have at least that much

What the missionary today needs is a good endowment, substantial buildings, plenty of rice money, a retinue of servants and the ever-hovering presence of a fleet of battleships.

It is next to impossible to get any man in public life to say publicly anything against foreign missions. In fact, most politicians publicly endorse them. They know the tenacity of religious beliefs.

Recently I have been trying to get some Christian ministers to declare themselves on this subject. Several times I have found ministers of high standing who did not believe in foreign missions, even where their church, as a church, did. In the past few days I have talked with two metropolitan preachers of renown who, when I expressed the views here written, eagerly assented to the justice of the ground taken.

However, when I asked these ministers if I might quote them as being opposed to foreign missions, I was quickly placed under a promise not to reveal their names. Outside of the Unitarian and Universalist faiths, I doubt if a Christian minister could be found in the whole United States who would register himself as opposed to foreign missions.

Consider the poor whites of the South, cursed with the inertia of arrested hope! Consider the bread lines of Chicago and New York! Consider the destitute babies, the sapless millionaires! Consider the Western deserts and their prayers for water! Consider this vast, stunted human undergrowth of our own continent, foiled, groping, crying aloud! And if nothing but converting some one to Christianity will really salve your conscience, why, there are 50,000,000 heathen tight here within your own boundaries. The Orient and Africa are really absurdly far, impossibly distant. Looking at it even in a business way, I am not so sure it is good "business."

This mania of saving worlds belongs to the middle ages.....It is bad business. It is windy sentimentalism.

For the saving of the world let us trust the Maker of the world.

We have given these lengthy extracts from Mr. Barry's article in Pearson's Magazine for April, 1910, because he is a good witness and has written plainly. We prefer to give statements from their own people, and from those of whom it cannot be said, "They are blinded by prejudice." The statements above need no comment. Mr. Barry is well acquainted with the foreign mission business; but he is not acquainted with the Primitive Baptists, for they have not made themselves prominent advocating such measures. They have always been opposed to the modern mission system, and have always borne such abuse as Elder Clifton's article contains, on account of it.

Elder Clifton says we "seem to charge that ALL the men who go out as foreign missionaries are base mercenaries, and ALL the females are prostitutes." Elder Clifton knows we made no such charge. We gave missionary authority for all we said. But as Elder Clifton accuses us of base slander, we will simply refer to a few more statements made by advocates of missions, Rev. Asa Blackburn said to a reporter of the New York World:

If the "World" would employ its great facilities for gathering news to obtaining a list of the mission girls ruined by Chinese whom they were teaching it would perform a service for which all the churches would be supremely grateful. There have been enough cases of that kind to fill an entire page in the paper. That list would be read everywhere as an awful object lesson in depravity. I believe its publication would so shock the country as to correct the evil which it would aim. Nothing short of some such exposure will stop it. The people need to be horrified. I shall be in sympathy with any measure, however shocking, to save young women from a continuance of this infamy, and with what feeble force I have I will speak for it.

Miss Helen Clark, a director of a mission, said:

For seventeen years I have urged the folly of white women endeavoring to Christianize Chinamen. All about me I have seen the ruin and wrecked homes. Case after case that parallels Elsie Siegel's, with the exception of its tragic termination. But even so, death is better than some things. I have believed from the very beginning that it was impossible for white women to properly influence Chinese men.

Dr. Paul Wakefield, of Springfield, Ill., concerning the Elsie Siegel case, said:

There are more women missionaries degraded by Chinese men than there are Chinese converted. We missionaries have known this for a long time, and were not surprised when we heard of Miss Siegel's death.

A Mrs. Manry, who lives in Crawfordsville, Ind., in giving a report of Dr. Wakefield's lecture to a reporter of another paper, used these words:

Those American missionaries who know the character of the Chinese men and who know that they cannot be converted to Christianity by American or any other women, were not surprised to learn of the murder of Miss Elsie Siegel, the missionary in Chinatown, New York. Of course the murder was a most atrocious one, but it is to be hoped that it will teach American women a lesson. No woman missionary can Christianize a Chinese man. For centuries and centuries, the men of China have had such a low estimate of women that they now can hardly respect them.

On page 88 of Foreign Missions Exposed, Thomas E. Watson says: The Elsie Siegel case, like the lightning flash in the dark, revealed the whole world of mission work among the heathen in the home field. How is it abroad? Are the Orientals in the East different from the Orientals who come West? Is a Chinaman in New York or San Francisco any worse than a Chinaman in China? Do these Chinese "converts" ever use the religious cloak to do wrong in China? You do not know. A lightning flash may come some day which will cause "we missionaries" to let that cat out of the bag also.

Then in a footnote on same page. Mr. Watson adds:

It has come! Dr. August Bach, a mission worker of twelve years' experience in China, has denounced the prevailing methods and has declared that there are Elsie Siegel cases in China.

On pages 113 and 114. of Mr. Watson's book on foreign missions we find the following language:

In October last Rev. F. D. Kellogg and wife set out from this country for the Foochow Mission, China. Commenting upon this, an American Chinaman, named Charlie Good, said:

"It is a very foolish idea to send white men and pretty American girls to China. My people, and especially those in the Foochow district, are very desperate. They care nothing for your religion. Ah, yes, we like the pretty American girls. If you should send only men you would soon see a great change."

Read that statement again, and consider it well. Then remember that Dr. Bach declared that there were Elsie Siegel cases in the Chinese field.

But they keep the facts covered up-and our sisters go blindly into a work which is fraught with perils of which they are entirely ignorant-perils which may lead them to a fate worse than death.

We clip the following statement from the Nashville American, Nashville, Tenn., of August 7, 1909:

At Crawfordsville, Ind., a few evenings since, Rev. Paul Wakefield made a talk in which he said: "There are more women missionaries degraded by Chinese men than there are Chinese converted."

Startling as this declaration sounds, it is tame when compared with the subsequent statement, "We missionaries have known this for a long time," etc. Commenting thereupon, Tom Watson expresses the sentiment of every normal mind: "I think that is the most infamous statement that a minister of the gospel ever made." And he adds: "The missionaries who kept that awful secret are not much better than the Chinamen who ruined the girls." Instead of being any better, they are worse; for while the tiger is not to be blamed for regaling himself with the mutton, there is absolutely no excuse for the soft-head who sends the lamb to domesticate the tiger.

Now we suppose the Rev. Clifton will say again that we deal in coarse slander for the money there is in it. Who gets the salary? Why, sir, these missionaries. They are the ones who are out for the money there is in it.

Notwithstanding the fact some of them have known for a long time that there were more women missionaries ruined by the Chinese than there were Chinese converts, yet they kept the matter secret. Why did they keep it a secret? There can be but one reason-for the money, the fat salary they get. We do not say they are all corrupt-we made no such intimation-but it is a rotten and corrupt affair, and our desire is that the good people who have been deceived may have their eyes opened to the true situation and to the truth.

Now, Mr. Clifton, howl some more if you want to. Your howling hurts no one.

Are those Softshells going to furnish a representative man to discuss the mission question with us in Macon, Ga.? C. H. C.

Luke 13:6-9

---August 30, 1910

Brother G. W. Hewett, of Brown, Ark., requested our views on this text a good while ago. The reader may turn and read, beginning with the first verse of the chapter. Those characters upon which the tower in Siloam fell are referred to. Then the Saviour tells those people present that those people were not sinners above all who dwelt in Jerusalem, and that except they repent they would likewise perish, just as did those upon whom the tower fell. Then in verse six the Saviour begins by putting forth a parable unto them, showing that the Jewish nation should be cut down. To them had been committed the oracles of God, but they were not bringing forth fruit. They were disobedient and rebellious. Hence they were to be cut down; the gospel privileges were to be given to the Gentiles. So, now, when a church continually lives in disobedience and rebellion, and fails to bring forth fruit, the candlestick is removed and planted in another place. C. H. C.

1 Corinthians 9:7-15

---August 30, 1910

Some time ago Brother C. W. Estes, of Falkner, Miss., requested our view of (1 Corinthians 9:7-15). The reader will please turn to same and read it. The apostle was teaching the duty of the church to minister of their carnal things to those who ministered spiritual things unto them. In verse 9 the apostle says: "For it is written in the law of Moses, thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn." The idea expressed is that the ox should do the eating where he does the treading. It is not God's plan for him to do his treading in China and his eating in the United States. If the treading is done in China, the eating should be done there also. He should be ministered unto by those where the treading is done.

It is evident that the apostle has reference to the fact that carnal things should be ministered unto the servant by those unto whom he has ministered spiritual things, from the language of verse 11, which says: "If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we shall reap your carnal things?" It is true that the apostle did not use these things, neither did he write these things in order that they should minister unto him. This is true with every true servant of the Lord. He does not ask that he be ministered unto. He does not say “no pay no preach.” He will do his duty (or should do so) to the best of his ability whether the brethren minister unto him or not, it is his duty to go as the Lord directs, and unto the field of labor the Lord directs, and then it is the duty of those unto whom he ministers spiritual things to minister unto him of their carnal things. All this should be done willingly, as a service of love on both sides. When so done it is blessed of the Lord. On the other hand, He does not approve nor recognize the hireling system. C. H. C.

Elder Sikes Did Challenge

---September 6, 1910

Our readers will remember that in our issue of August 2 we copied a letter from Elder J. C. Sikes, of Texas, from the Advocate of Truth, in which he denied having made any challenge, and accused us of misrepresenting him, and in which he used some very unbecoming expressions. When our issue of August 2 was printed we did not have proof of our statement at hand. The following letters show that Elder Sikes said he had not only made a challenge, but that the challenge was of five years standing. So, while in Alabama Elder Sikes said he DID CHALLENGE; since he returned home he says he NEVER MADE ANY CHALLENGE. Since he has accused us of falsifying we must meekly ask, Did Elder Sikes tell the truth both times? The following letters show who has falsified and who has misrepresented the facts in the case. Please read them carefully, and then remember the propositions and terms upon which we challenge them to furnish a representative man to meet us.

C. H. C.

ONE STATEMENT

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-I see in this week's issue of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST that Elder Sikes is hunting a loophole to escape meeting you in debate.

It is surprising that men claiming to be Primitive Baptists would make such broad assertions as Elder Sikes did while here in Alabama and then try to dodge or get out of it on a plea that he made no such challenge, and if he did, you ought to be able to produce it. This proves that he sees he is in a hole and is trying to get out by claiming that you should produce the challenge with his name to it.

Now, elder, how does that sound to a thinking man? As to what you told Brother Jack Berry when you were here in the early part of the year, that you had a standing challenge of five years for any of our side to meet you, and not a one of them would meet you in a discussion, Brother Berry talked to me about your challenge and asked me if we did not have a man that would meet you. At that time

I did not favor the debate, as the Baptists Elder Sikes affiliated with and preached for while here were in gross disorder, and they themselves admitted it. Yet they claimed that the wrong act must stand, and while they are still pursuing the very course that they themselves admitted was wrong, Elder Sikes came from Texas to preach for and encourage them in their course. Up to that time they denied believing the doctrine of absolute predestination of all things, but since Elder Sikes visited them they openly affirm the doctrine. Now, is it not strange that Elder Sikes would boast about his challenge of five years' standing and none of our folks would meet him (all afraid of him, of course), and now censure Brother Cayce as misrepresenting him for saying that he (Elder Sikes) had made a challenge while here in Alabama, and that he (Elder Cayce) therefore is not qualified to meet an honest disputant. Let us look to the honesty of the people he affiliated with while here for a moment. Another brother and myself were appointed as a committee to visit a church for her wrong and unscriptural course, and who also had a charge against her pastor for unfaithfulness. When the charge was told them their pastor said we were doing him a wrong, that we should have come to him with our complaint privately. We told him if he would point out our wrong and show us one precept or example in the New Testament where we were commanded to go to a brother privately for a public offense, we would yield the point and ask forgiveness for our wrong. Instead of trying to point out our wrongs he said that our course was a mob law and he was opposed to mob laws and wanted to put them down. Kind reader, how does this sound for Primitive Baptists? Another church confessed that she had done wrong and asked us to forgive her, when in fact she did not belong to the union at the time the wrong, as she called it, was committed. Now, dear reader, stop for a moment and think of a Primitive Baptist church asking for forgiveness for something that was done before she was in existence, and yet Elder Sikes came and preached for and held up such a course for a few churches that had been labored with and dropped by the Flint River Association. After all this inconsistency he says, "If Elder Cayce cannot show his challenge with his name to it he is not fit to meet an honest disputant." Oh, shame, where is thy blush? O consistency, where art thou? By their fruits ye shall know them.

If anyone doubts this statement Brother Berry's post office is Huntsville, Ala. Brother Berry is a member of one of the churches that was dropped or excluded by Flint River Association, and I suppose Elder Sikes thought he could brag a little and it would not reach us. Brother Berry is still a member of that church, but he is an honest upright Christian gentleman.

We had hoped they would see and repent of their wrong, but it seems they have been turned to their idols, and there is no repenting spirit about them. So we are now in favor of the discussion. Yours in bonds of love,

B. B. LAWLER

Gurley, Ala.

ANOTHER STATEMENT

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-In reply to your letter of the third, I will say that while I was in company with Elder Sikes last winter I asked him if God purposed that Adam should transgress, and he said he did. After asking him a number of other questions I asked him if he debated, or would debate the subject. He said that he had had out a standing advertised challenge for five years, which no one had accepted. Unworthily,

E. J. BERRY

R. 2

Huntsville, Ala.

ANOTHER STATEMENT

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-After reading your paper, THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, I see that Elder J. C. Sikes, in his reply to your challenge on the subject of the predestination of all things, misrepresents things in regard to the debate now pending between him and my father, Elder B. L. Towry. Elder Sikes says when I presented the proposition he signed it and asked me to go bring father down so we could begin at once. I did not present the proposition until after preaching. He signed it and passed it back and said that he did not have time to debate it now, but would be back sometime soon, though he did not say when. Before services I stated to Elder Jessie Towry, one of their order, that father had received a challenge the day before from Elder Bikes wanting to debate the question of absolute predestination of all things with him while he was here. I asked Jessie to tell him that father was ready to begin the discussion any time after the next day. But if Elder Sikes' time was pressing him so he could not stay he would begin the next day, but I thought it ought to be circulated better. Elder Sikes said he did not have the time to debate it now, but would be glad if father would come over and be with him that day at Pleasant Grove schoolhouse, also that night at a brother's house about two and one-half miles away. This was about fifteen or twenty minutes before services began, and anyone knows that it would have been impossible to have had a fair debate in that length of time, when only one side was there to judge it, and but very few of them. I told Jessie Towry we would not do that. Jessie Towry said that Elder J. C. Sikes said he had out a world-wide challenge on the subject of predestination and no one would meet him.

Elder Cayce, my desire is not confusion, but that all who are interested may know the facts of it. I have witnesses that will testify to what I have written.

Yours in hope,

A. N. TOWRY

R. 4

Fayetteville, Tenn.

Keys of the Kingdom

---September 20, 1910

We think the keys of the kingdom (or church) were delivered to Peter, and he used them to unlock the door and open the kingdom to the Gentiles when he went to the house of Cornelius and preached the gospel there. We do not think the door of the church is ever closed, or has been since it was opened to the Gentiles. It is always open to God's little children who give a reason of their hope in Jesus and ask for a home there. C. H. C.

Foreign Missions Again

---September 27, 1910

In the Baptist Builder of August 24 Elder Clifton says he may have yielded occasionally to pay Elder Cayce back in his own coin, having reference to his ugly epithets which he has been hurling at us for some time. He knows this is another falsehood, for he knows that he began this mud-slinging and that we paid no attention to it for quite a while.

In the issue of August 31 and September he also says something about our last editorial in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST on the foreign mission question. He does not answer nor refute a statement from a single witness. He says he does not know why we quoted the statement from the Woman's Missionary Advocate. Well, we are not responsible for his ignorance nor for his false statements. We showed clearly why we quoted it, and he made no reply to it.

Now, parson, you may howl all you want to. It amuses us. C. H. C.

Our Challenge

---October 4, 1910

In THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST of May 31 and June 7, 1910. we challenged those who believe that God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated all things that come to pass to furnish a representative man to meet us in debate. We stated that Elder J. C. Sikes had laid down the gauntlet. In the Advocate of Truth of July 1, 1910, he denied that he had made any challenge. In THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST of September 6, 1910, we produced the proof. From the statements published in that issue we quote the following:

After asking him a number of other questions, I asked him if he debated, or would debate the subject. He said that he had had out a standing advertised challenge for five years, which no one had accepted.

E. J. Berry

R. 2

Huntsville, Ala.

Jessie Towry said that Elder J. C. Sikes said he had out a world-wide challenge on the subject of predestination and no one would meet him.

A. N. Towry

R. 4

Fayetteville, Tenn.

This shows clearly that Elder Sikes said he had made a challenge. He had either made it, or else he had not done so. If he had made it, then he did not tell the truth when he denied it. If he had not made it, then he did not tell the truth when he said he had. But, let us not be severe in our judgment. Perhaps the elder can explain the matter. In the Predestinarian Baptist of August 1, 1910, Elder W. I. Camel says:

Now, if they want a fair and honorable discussion, let them bring out their man.

We again say that we are ready to agree on the time when the propositions are signed by a representative man. It seems that they do not want to meet the issue squarely. If they do not furnish the man we will conclude that the whole fraternity are religious cowards. Put up your man or shut your mouths about us and what we teach. We repeat our challenge.

THE CHALLENGE.

We challenge those who hold to the doctrine that God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated all things that come to pass to furnish a representative man from among them to discuss the following propositions with us:

1. The Scriptures teach that God did from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate all things that come to pass, good, bad and indifferent _____ affirms. C. H. Cayce denies.

2. The Scriptures teach that much of the happiness of God's children while here on earth is conditional, and depends much upon the way they live. C. H. Cayce affirms _____ denies.

The discussion to be held at a place where it may be called for and at a time to be agreed on by the disputants. The challenge also embraces this:

Competent stenographers are to be employed to take the speeches as delivered, and the whole discussion to be published in book form. Not less than two days to be devoted to each proposition. The speaker on each side to have a moderator, and a third to be chosen by them to act as president moderator. The speakers to be governed by the rules in Hedge's Logic, with an additional rule, "No new matter to be introduced in the final negative on a proposition." We challenge them to furnish the man. C. H. CAYCE.

Gifts in the Ministry

---October 4, 1910

By request of Brother Leonard in his letter on another page in this paper we will try to write a few words on the above subject.

The parable of the supper as recorded in (Matthew 22:1-10) and ((6) (Luke 14:16-24), shows that the Lord sends His servants out into the "highways and hedges." He sends His ministers out as hunters and as fishers, to hunt and to fish for His children. He does not send them out to make children for Him, but to find those He has made.

There are many of the Lord's children who have never heard an Old Baptist sermon delivered. They know nothing about what Old Baptists preach. Perhaps they have heard much said by our enemies about our teaching, but our enemies misrepresent us. They cannot have a very strong desire to hear Old Baptist preaching unless they have some idea of what Old Baptists teach. The very best way in the world to let them know what Old Baptists teach is to go into the neighborhoods where they are and preach the gospel to them, as the Lord opens the way. This has been the practice of our fathers in the ages past. Churches are usually established by some minister, or ministers, going into a neighborhood and preaching, where there is no Old Baptist Church. This is the way the churches were established in the New Testament times. The ministers went into different localities, as they were directed by the Spirit and preached the gospel, and churches were established. This has been the gospel rule and practice all along the line. It is still the practice of the Primitive Baptists. The Fuller and Carey plan, as practiced by the New School Baptists, is for a board, or society to assign the minister his field of labor and send him out. The Bible plan is that the Lord sends them out and assigns them their field of labor, and they go trusting the Lord for guidance and for support.

Indeed, all are not pastors. "He gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers." - (Ephesians 4:11). An evangelist is what some would now call a traveling preacher. There are some good preachers, able preachers, who are not good pastors. These are all different gifts in the ministry. The pastor is not above the evangelist, and the evangelist is not above the pastor. They are on an equality, though having different gifts in the same office. If one is satisfied laboring as a pastor, and he feels that his labors as a pastor are blessed of the Lord, and he feels to be abiding in his calling when thus laboring, then he should labor in that way. He should abide in his calling. "The Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them."—(2) (Acts 13:2). Saul, called Paul, was the apostle to the Gentiles, but Barnabas was not an apostle. He was a minister of the gospel, called by the Lord (the Holy Ghost). It does not appear that he labored much as a pastor, but that he labored as an evangelist, or traveling preacher. The Lord called him to that work, and he was ordained just like any other called minister.

If you feel an impression of mind to go into destitute places to preach the gospel, you should do so. We often think the destitute places are too much neglected. The Lord calls and impresses His ministers where to go. He assigns the field of labor, and they should endeavor to follow their impressions and labor where the Lord directs.

Much more could be said along this line, but time forbids us writing more now. May the Lord bless these thoughts to the good of our readers, is our prayer, and enable us all to follow the direction of His Spirit. C. H. C.

Educate The Japs

---October 25, 1910

The little girl she wanted us to help educate, as we did Mrs. Maynard's sweet Bible woman, now doing good work among her own people, is provided for. Last month, Dr. Willingham received $26.00 for her, and now read this letter from West Virginia:

"Enclosed please find $10.00 to help educate the little Japanese girl Mrs. Medling told us of."—E. M. Heck.

Just see there, Mrs. Medling, what good your letter did! You need not give the $10.00 you offered, and if you choose, you can put your gift in the chapel. There are always so many things only the people on the ground see the need of. You have only to draw on Dr.

Willingham now for $36.00 to be used for the little Japanese maiden! Isn't that grand? Thank you, Mrs. Heck, a thousand times! You have often helped us before, and doubtless will again. God bless you.

The above appeared in the "Young South" department of the Baptist and Reflector of October 20, 1910, over the signature of Laura Dayton Eakin, Chattanooga, Tenn. For the education of the little Jap just draw on Dr. Willingham for $36.00. The Rev. Dr. received $26.00 for her last month. Now here comes a donor with ten dollars more for the little Jap. Oh, how they can howl for a little Jap, who so much needs an education in Japan! What authority is given for this? "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature," is the authority that they give. It is strange to us that people cannot see that our Lord's command embraced no such things as this. But if you want to raise the sympathy of a crowd of Pharisees, just raise a cry in behalf of the Japs in Japan, the Chinks in China, the negro in Africa, and so on. But present to them the claims of the poor suffering children in our own home land, who are destitute of food and raiment and without educational opportunities, and you get nothing. The work bears on its face the marks of Pharisaical hypocrisy.

In the Baptist and Reflector of the same date we see a report of the Tennessee Baptist Convention. In the report on "Foreign Missions" we find this statement:

The report on the great denominational enterprise was submitted by Dr. O. M. Savage, of Jackson, father of Mrs. R. P. Mahon, a missionary in Mexico. The report says: "We have mission workers in South, Central and North China; in Africa, in Italy, in Brazil, in North and South Mexico, in Japan, and in Argentina. In China we have 145 missionaries, bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh; in Africa, 12, in Italy, 6, in Brazil, 44, in Mexico, 35, in Japan, 16. in Argentina, 14. These 275 leaders, with their companies of native workers, constitute an army, which must in the main receive its supplies from the home land, these Southern States. Our board has already appointed two new missionaries in this convention. Perhaps in China advancement is most marked of all our foreign fields. Africa shows hardly less advancement than China. Our Foreign Missions are operating such auxiliaries as theological seminaries, girls' boarding schools, publishing houses, homes for blind girls, orphanages, hospitals, dispensaries, Bible institutes, Bible classes, colportage, Christian literature depots."

What a pity our Lord did not say, "Go ye into all the world and operate theological seminaries, girls' boarding schools, publishing houses, homes for blind girls, orphanages, hospitals, dispensaries, Bible institutes, Bible classes, colportage, Christian literature depots," and so on. What are these hospitals and dispensaries? The hospitals are places where the sick Chinks, Japs, negroes, and so on, may have free medical attention, free nurses and free board. Oh, how their stomachs ache for the poor sick Chinamen in China, Japanese in Japan, negroes in Africa, while the poor whites in our own boasted land of Bibles and Christianity are allowed to suffer and die for want of attention—not only in their little rooms in the crowded cities, but without shelter!

What are the dispensaries? They are drug stores handling free medicines for the Chinks, Japs, negroes, and so on, in the far-off lands. But the poor suffering white creatures in our own home land may die and go to the bad place, so far as these missionary fanatics are concerned. No, sir; no free school books, free medicines, free hospitals, free doctors, free dentists, free gold leaf to fill teeth, free schools, nor free clothing or shelter for the poor crippled destitute white people in our own home land! Yet, in all their bowling for money for such objects, they are sailing under the pretense of preaching the gospel to a lost world! May the Lord pity their followers who blindly follow on without investigating for themselves, thinking they are helping to carry out the Lord's command. C. H. C.

My Impressions

---November 8, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother, if you will allow one as unworthy as I am to call you brother—I have just finished reading your debate with Penick, and I was induced, as I believe, from on high, to send you my best respects and praise for the work's sake. I thank the giver of all good and perfect gifts for taking men out from among the world and placing them on the walls of Zion, who are able to defend the glorious gospel that I love so well, as you are. I cannot begin to tell you how much good it did me to see how easy it was for you to answer his questions and prove the doctrine of salvation by grace and grace alone.

Well, Brother Cayce, I have a question I want to ask you. First, I will say, if my poor heart deceives me not, that still voice you spoke about in your debate spoke peace to my troubled soul several years ago. Then I had a strong desire to join the church and did join at New Hope, in Hamilton county, Ill. After I was baptized I thought my trouble was over, but since then that same still small voice has told me there is something else for me to do. Now, Brother Cayce, that has caused me to neglect my duty as a Christian and by that I have failed to enjoy a Christian's life. I have had brothers tell me that it was my duty to preach, and that is the way that small voice seemed to impress it on my mind. There is where my trouble comes from. I do not see how I can preach. In the first place I always felt too unworthy for such a call, and in the next place, it never did seem to me like I had understanding enough of the Scriptures to proclaim God's glorious gospel in a way that would be of any benefit to God's little children, and, then, I am so poor in this world's goods that it seems like it takes all of my time supporting my family. There have been times I had a strong desire to get up and tell the brethren how I felt about this matter, but something seemed to say to me, "You aren't fit to do that, and you would bring reproach on the good Old Baptist Church if you were to undertake such a work." And then it seemed to say, "Your brethren would not listen to you anyway.

Now, when you were here that was the first time I ever saw you, and when I shook hands with you it seemed to me if I were just as good as you I could go ahead and discharge what I think is my duty.

You remember when you started up in the stand you asked if there were any of us that exercised in public. You did not know how badly I wanted to take a part with you, but that same something seemed to say, "You will insult your brethren if you do," so I just remained where I was. When you prayed I thought that was the best prayer I ever heard, and I think so yet. You remember you took your text from ((4:9) (Isaiah 54:9), which reads, "For this is as the waters of Noah unto me: for as I have sworn that the waters of Noah should no more go over the earth; so have I sworn that I would not be wroth with thee, nor rebuke thee." I thought while you were preaching that if the Spirit of God did not have anything to do with that sermon I was badly fooled, and, when I got your debate and read it I knew that you could not defend the gospel that way if you were not instructed from on high.

So that is the reason I thought I would ask you if I have experienced a call to the ministry. I ask the prayers of all God's little children.

A. T. WEATHERFORD.

Mt. Vernon, Ill.

REMARKS

We would humbly admonish you, dear brother, to endeavor to walk in obedience to your dear Saviour, as you feel impressed. If the Lord requires a work at your hands, no matter how weak you may feel, no one else can do that work for you. The apostle tells us that "Ye see your calling, brethren, how that not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called," etc. He also tells us something of his own feelings: "Unto me who am less than the least of all saints is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ."

Dear brother, we are just a poor sinner. We humbly hope we are a saved sinner—saved alone by the grace of God. We are no better by nature than others. "I myself also am a man." We are very imperfect, and humbly beg our dear brethren to bear with us and allow us to have an humble place with them while we live on earth. We love them, and we love the doctrine and principles that are so dear to them, and we feel that we are willing to bear all the reproaches of this world in defending those principles, and we want to live and die with the people who love and advocate them. C. H. C.

AUTHORITY TO ORDAIN

---November 15, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother in Christ—I have been thinking of joining the old Primitive Baptist Church. I have been trying to preach the gospel of Christ for twenty-five years. I was ordained by Missionary Baptists. Now, the brethren don't want me unless I would let them ordain me again. Now, tell me why they want to do this. Did not our authority as ordained ministers come from the same fountain, the old German and Scotch and English Baptists? Is not my authority just as good as the Primitive? I don't believe in the mission system, only as it is laid down in the word of God. Please give me your views on the question. Yours in Christ,

D. C. BISHOP
Randle, Wash.

REMARKS

Some years ago the Baptists were one family. New doctrines and new practices were introduced among them, which (new doctrines and practices) finally caused division. We judge that as Brother Bishop expresses a desire to join the Primitive Baptists, he thinks they are holding to the original doctrine and practice of the Baptists. It is a historical fact that the Missionaries do have the new doctrines and practices among them that caused the division in the Baptist family. It is, therefore, true that they have departed from the original Baptist doctrine and practice. If the fact that they were once with us gives them the authority to administer the ordinances, it would also give the Roman Catholics the same authority. They split off from the Baptists in about the third century. But the fact that the Baptists and Catholics were once together does not prove that the Catholics have a gospel right to administer the ordinances. They have no such right, because they have departed from the true doctrine and practice of Christ and the apostles. For the same reason the Missionary Baptists have no gospel right to administer the ordinances.

If your authority, Brother Bishop, which was given you by the people you are now with, is as good as the Primitive, there can be no good reason why you should leave them and join the Primitives. They have no gospel authority to administer the ordinances because they have departed from the original practice of the gospel.

The ordinances can be administered by those, only, who are authorized by the church to administer them. The Missionary Baptists are not authorized to administer the ordinances for the Primitive Baptists. If the Primitive Baptist Church is the church of Christ, then Missionary Baptists have no authority to administer the ordinances for the church of Christ. An ordinance is not valid unless it is administered by the proper authority. Hence an ordinance of the gospel is not valid when administered by the Missionary Baptists. We have written on this question before, and haven't time to write at more length on it now. But these reasons, if there were no more, are sufficient. May the Lord bless these thoughts to the benefit of our readers, is our prayer.

C. H. C.

1 Corinthianbs 6:9-11

(I Corinthians 6:9-11)

---November 15, 1910

W. F. Haley, of Eastman, Miss., requests our views of this text. The apostle shows that certain characters shall not inherit the kingdom of God. Then he tells the Corinthians that they were once in the same condition of these characters. "Such were some of you." But the Lord had cleansed them by His Spirit and had brought them out of their former condition. It was not done because of their good works, because they had not been doing good works. But since the Lord has washed them and cleansed them by His Spirit they are capacitated to do good works. C. H. C.

Ezekiel 16:24-55

((24) (Ezekiel 16:24-55)

---November 22, 1910

Brother T. W. Osborne, of Blackford, Va., requests our views on this Scripture. Israel had been guilty of lewdness, and the chastening rod of the Lord was to fall heavily upon them on account of their wrong doing. He was going to punish them for their wickedness, yet He would not forget His promise or covenant. The Lord's people of this day commit the same abominations by uniting and affiliating with the institutions of men. The Lord will punish them for it, but He will not forsake them in the end. He will not forget nor forsake His promise or covenant. C. H. C.

Some Questions

SOME QUESTIONS

---November 22, 1910

ELDER C. H. CAYCE: Dear Brother-There are about one thousand and one questions I would like to ask on points of Scripture for my own satisfaction, not for controversy, but that I may learn the truth, and believing you competent to enlighten me on these hard points, I will trouble you with a few of the said questions.

1. Is there proof in the Bible that man was created an immortal being? If so, why does Paul say that this mortal shall put on immortality? Webster says the soul is immortal-it will never die, and it seems to be the popular belief that man is immortal; then if we already have immortality, why does Paul say that we will put it on at the resurrection?
2. What is meant by the meek inheriting the earth?
3. What is meant by the second coming of Christ? Do you understand that He will come in person in the like manner in which He left, in a bodily shape, or do the Scriptures mean that He comes only in Spirit?
4. What do you understand is meant by the 1000 years that Satan is to be bound, or so-called millennial?

Please answer as much in detail as space will permit, and oblige, one of the unlearned, H. D. LEONARD. Albertville, Ala.

OUR ANSWER

We are not a standard, and do not wish the brethren to consider us as such. We haven't time nor space to go into detail in answering the foregoing questions. But we will give a brief answer by number.

First. The Scriptures teach that man was made in the likeness and in the image of God. God is represented as having a body, head, ears, nose, mouth, hands, arms, feet, and so on. Man, in this respect, is in the likeness of God. There are three persons in the God-head-the Father, Son and Holy Spirit. Hence God is one composed of three. So man is one composed of three-the soul, body and spirit. Thus man is in the image of God. The body is mortal; it decays and returns to dust at death. It was the body Paul was talking about when he said this mortal must put on immortality. He was not talking about the spirit or the soul. The word immortal has more than one meaning. One meaning is, always living and never dying. Another is, always existing. The soul or spirit never ceases to exist. It may be always dying, yet never dead, or never ceasing to exist. The soul or spirit of the child of God is always living and never dying.

2. Those persons who manifest the spirit of meekness shall inherit blessings here on earth.
3. The Saviour comes now in the person of the Holy Spirit, but the promise of God is that He is coming again in person. He is coming to gather His children home. He is coming just as He went away. The statement of the angel was that He should come again in like manner as ye see Him go away. The same Jesus who was here and suffered for our sins and who died, was buried, rose again and ascended to His Father, will come again.
4. The so-called millennial reign of Christ, as taught by the Russellites or Millennial dawn people, is a religious humbug. It is an invention of man. Jesse Cox, in his "Exposition of the Revelation," we think, gives a good exposition of this matter.

C. H. C.

Wheat and Tares

WHEAT AND TARES

---December 6, 1910

Brother H. E. Rouw, of Holdenville, Okla., requests our views of the parable of the wheat and the tares. We will give only a brief reply. The parable refers to the closing out of the law dispensation and the ushering in of the gospel dispensation. The wheat was gathered together in the gospel kingdom in gospel worship and service. The tares were not admitted in the gospel worship and service. The law service and worship was then done away. It was destroyed.

C. H. C.

Remarks to C. B. Owen

REMARKS TO C. B. OWEN

---December 13, 1910

Dear brother, you cannot excuse yourself for your failure to obey the Lord with the idea that the right time has not come. God always does His work at the right time, hence Jesus was born into the world at the right time; but we do not always do our work at the right time. If it is your duty to unite with the church, but the right time has not come for you to do so, why would the Lord chastise you for not doing so? "Now is the accepted time," says the apostle. The right time to do our duty is now. C. H. C.

END OF VOLUME ONE

1911

SELECTED EDITORIALS FROM THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST

Beginning with 1911

By Elder C. H. Cayce

Volume 2

Originally Printed 1936

Reprinted 2007 PBHC San Antonio, Texas

TO

My Beloved and Sainted Mother who cared for me when I could not care for myself, and who dearly loved her poor boy, and to My Sainted Father who fell in the pulpit proclaiming the precious principles of truth which are dear to my poor heart this Volume is Lovingly Dedicated

PREFACE

There does not seem to the writer to be much necessity for a preface to this volume. We have received a great many words of commendation and approval of the first volume of our editorial writings, not only as to the workmanship of the book, but more especially of the contents. We appreciate all this, and it has encouraged us to begin the publication of this second volume earlier than we had anticipated. If we know our poor heart our desire in the publication of these volumes is, first, the glory of God, and, second, the instruction, comfort, consolation and benefit of His humble poor, and for the benefit of the generations yet unborn. We desire that the things contained in these volumes may be preserved for the benefit and instruction of the generations following-so that they may know where we occupied, and what the principles were that our people stood for.

May the good Lord graciously grant to bless the same to the end designed, if it can be according to His holy will, and may His blessings rest upon the reader, is our humble prayer.

The Author Thornton, Ark., April 2, 1936.

Introduction to Volume 26

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME XXVI

---January 10, 1911

In the providence of God our life has been spared, and we are permitted to begin the publication of the twenty-sixth volume of The Primitive Baptist. The paper has stood through the battles and conflicts of twenty-five years-a quarter of a century. Many sore trials, sad disappointments and bereavements have been endured during these years. Yet the Lord's mercy has been extended to us all along the journey. Our sainted father (Elder S. F. Cayce), who was the founder of this paper, was its editor, as most (if not all) of our readers know, until his death in August, 1905. Since then we have been trying to conduct the paper along the same lines that were followed by him. The paper has never changed in sentiment, and we expect, if the Lord spares our life through another year, to continue to advocate the same principles of truth that we have in the past. Those principles are loved and cherished by the Primitive Baptists, and have been dear to the hearts of the Lord's humble followers in ages past. They are dear to us now, and we do not yet feel like giving them up.

We trust the dear brethren in different portions of the country will continue to rally to our support, and help to sustain the paper in contending and fighting for those eternal principles of truth.

We receive many requests for views on different portions of Scripture. We cannot possibly comply with all requests we receive of this kind. But it is a rather frequent occurrence for someone to ask our views on some point upon which we have already written. It is seldom we feel that these are of sufficient importance to be published again. We trust that those who make requests of this kind will not be offended if we do fail to comply. Sometimes we delay writing because we feel to have no special light on the matter, and sometimes we delay because of lack of time. Sometimes there are other reasons which we feel are good. But we have no intention of slighting anyone, and we trust no one will feel that way.

We again say that we trust our brethren, sisters and friends will continue to help us all they can in extending the circulation of The Primitive Baptist. All your efforts are much appreciated. And pray the Lord to direct us in wisdom's way and sustain us by His grace, that the paper may be conducted in a way that will be to His glory and to the comfort and benefit of His humble poor on earth. C. H. C.

Tour in Alabama

TOUR IN ALABAMA

---January 10, 1911

We left home on Monday afternoon, October 24, and arrived at Guntersville, Ala., Tuesday night. Brother Bodine met us at the train and conveyed us to his home. Our first appointment was at Brown's Creek on Wednesday. Elder J. T. Stewart met us there and accompanied us to all the appointments in this association (the Mount Zion). We filled appointments at the following named churches in that association: Brown's Creek, Shiloh, Rocky Mount, Little Vine, Salem, Siloam, Mount Moriah, Zion Hill, Clear Creek and New Hope. In the Mud Creek Association we filled appointments at the following named churches: Standing Rock, Woodville and Clear Creek. In the Flint River Association we filled appointments at Flint River, Hurricane, Briar Fork and Pleasant Grove churches. We failed to make a memorandum, so we cannot give the places where we spent nights, those we met, etc. We had the sweet pleasure and privilege of meeting several brethren in the ministry, some of them being with us a number of days. The meetings were pleasant and sweet to us. The service at New Hope was especially pleasant, and will be long remembered. Some of the Lord's dear children came home to the church there, while others showed a longing desire to do so.

We learned that many years ago (perhaps in the early seventies) some Missionaries were received into this association on their baptism, but in the year 1878 (if we remember the date correctly) it was all put out from among them, and they set themselves in order. We do not think we were ever among a more devoted and orderly body of Baptists in our life than these people are. They are faithful and jealous in the service of the Master, and we felt a warm affection for them.

They were all kind and good to us at each place. We shall ever remember them, and pray the Lord's blessings may rest upon them.

The churches named in the Flint River Association have lately passed through a severe trial in contention with those who advocate the absolute and unconditional predestination of all things that come to pass; but the war is practically over, and they are enjoying peace now. That doctrine always causes trouble among the churches where it is advocated.

We enjoyed the sweet association and company with the brethren during the whole trip, and would be glad to mention all whom we met, but cannot do so. They are all held in sweet remembrance, and we pray the Lord's blessings may rest upon them, and trust the Lord may permit many of us, at least, to meet again on earth; but if we meet no more on earth we have a sweet hope of meeting them in a better world where separations never come. C. H. C.

DEADLY PARALLEL

---January 10, 1911

It seems that our neighbor, Elder I N. Penick, editor of the Baptist Builder, sometimes forgets the positions he has formerly occupied on some points, or else he does not always occupy the same position. Who can read the, following and then tell what Elder Penick believes? Just read the parallel. Comment is unnecessary. C. H. C. And we are fully committed to the theory that Christ's life of obedience and His shameful death satisfied fully and forever all the claims of justice against us, so that the Father's love may flow freely to all the blood bought heirs of grace.

I N. Penick, in Baptist Builder, January 4, 1911.

The Scriptures teach that all for whom Christ died will be saved in heaven.-I N. Penick denied in the Cayce Penick debate. The Scriptures teach that in the death of Christ sufficient provision was made for the salvation of all the race of Adam.-I N. Penick affirmed in the Cayce Penick debate.

Information Wanted

---January 17, 1911

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-Are the Regular Baptists in line and fellowship with the Primitive Baptists? Is it order for a Primitive Baptist Church to receive a member on the face of a letter from the Regular Baptist Church? Brother Cayce, please answer the above questions either by private letter or through The Primitive Baptist. Yours in hope, R. B. Langford, Washington, Okla.

OUR ANSWER

If, by the term Regular Baptist, you mean the people we know as Burnamites, or Penceites, or Bradleyites, it is not good order to receive them on a letter. We would as readily receive a Methodist, or a Campbellite, or a Presbyterian, or a Missionary Baptist, or a Catholic, by letter, or on a letter, as to receive a follower of Burnam, Pence & Co. that way. They are not Primitive or Old School Baptists. A letter is good only from a body of the same faith and order. C. H. C.

Luke 17:17

---January 24, 1911

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-

When your dear father stayed all night with us when he was in Texas, I gave him a text to write on in our paper. He either forgot it or had no time. We would love for you to write on it. The passage is ((7) (Luke 17:17). When I go to our next meeting I will carry several of my papers and give them to some of the members of Shiloh Church and try to get you some subscribers. I don't see how any Old Baptist can do without The Primitive Baptist. We are both old and it is a great comfort to us. Give my regards to your mother. We trust you will be spared long to our people, for we need you. How we feel the loss of Brother S. A. Paine! Oh, how we, as well as his little family and aged parents, shall miss him here in Texas, May God in His love and tender care be a father to them. Please excuse this scattered letter and remember us at a throne of God's rich grace. A sister, I trust, Mart Gollihar. R. 2, Whitney, Texas.

OUR REMARKS

((7) (Luke 17:17) reads, "And Jesus answering said, Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?" There were ten lepers who cried out to the Saviour, begging for mercy. He told them to go and shew themselves unto the priests. As they went they were cleansed. One of them turned back, glorified God, fell down on his face and gave thanks and praise to the Saviour for it. Even so it is today. Many of God's children, many who are cleansed, are not giving glory to God nor thanks to the Saviour. Only a few do this. C. H. C.

He Can Get It

---February 7, 1911

We have been informed that there is a certain Softshell Missionary Baptist evangelist who "jumped on" a discourse we delivered while in the Mount Zion Association in Alabama in November, and that he said he would like to get hold of us. We will inform the gentleman that if he is a representative man among his people he can have the pleasure of getting all the hold he wants. We are ready to discuss any or all of the same propositions we discussed with Elder I N. Penick, or any other points of difference. We have repeatedly called on the Missionary Baptists to furnish a representative man to affirm this proposition: "Missions as taught and practiced by the Missionary Baptists is authorized by the word of God." If the gentleman wants an opportunity to give us a "cleaning up," let him come to time on this proposition, and he can have all the time he wants. C. H. C.

Luke 16:19-31

---February 7, 1911

Brother Daniel Gwaltney, of Gossett, Ill., requests our views on (Luke 16:19-31). It is the parable of the rich man and Lazarus. Brother Gwaltney asks, "Was the rich man a son of God? Was he a son by birth? Why did he call him father? And why did he (Abraham) call him son? Was that a literal hell under consideration?"

There is nothing said in this passage about the rich man being a son of God. It was Abraham that he addressed as father. He was a literal descendant of Abraham, for he was a Jew. There is no evidence that he was a child of God at all, only in the sense that he was a Jew, and the Jews were God's chosen people as a nation. But "they are not all Israel that are of Israel." The "children of the promise are counted for the seed." The rich man represented the Jews and Lazarus represented the Gentiles.

In The Primitive Baptist of June 8, 1909, we wrote a few words on this same parable. In that paper we said: "We think the parable primarily refers to the Jews and Gentiles. The rich man represented the Jews and Lazarus represented the Gentiles. The Jews were scattered, and are yet in a scattered condition. They are now being tormented. They had their good things under the law dispensation. But now, under the gospel dispensation, the Gentiles are enjoying the privileges of the gospel." We hold the same view of the matter now that we did then.

Brother Gwaltney says a preacher quoted the passage to prove that a son of God was lost. If the text proves what the preacher quoted it to prove, and the preacher preaches the truth, then there was a man in hell believing the truth. The preacher referred to advocates the idea that people are prevented from going to hell by preaching to them. The rich man advocated or believed the same thing, for he desired Abraham to send Lazarus to warn his five brethren to prevent them going to that place of torment. Abraham did not believe that doctrine, for he said, "neither will they believe, though one arose from the dead." If all people who believe the doctrine that preacher advocates go to the same place, then they will all go to hell, if the place the rich man was in was what the preacher contends it was. If those who believe the truth do not go to hell, as that preacher teaches, then that preacher does not preach the truth, for the rich man in hell believed the doctrine that preacher teaches.

The whole Arminian system is out of joint and is too short at both ends. C. H. C.

Secret Orders

---February 14, 1911

We admit that it may seem inconsistent for brethren to refuse to fellowship members of their home church affiliating with secret orders and at the same time fellowship churches that allow such affiliation by their members. But sometimes some things are borne with that are not approved of or fellowshipped. The wrong, in the first place, was in those churches ever allowing their members to affiliate with secret institutions. The practice of affiliating with those things is wrong, and no man can defend it by the word of God, If it cannot be defended by the word of God it is wrong, and the churches that tolerate it are doing wrong.

The Lord commanded Peter to call no man common that He had cleansed, but the Lord has not cleansed the institutions of the world. Some people who have been cleansed by Him may unite and affiliate with those institutions, but when they do so they are not obeying or serving the Lord. They should serve the Lord only.

The Lord has but one church or kingdom on earth. If that kingdom is the Old Baptist Church (and we believe it is), then all other so called churches are only worldly institutions, no matter how much they may claim to be the church of Christ. Claiming to be the church of Christ does not make it so. The Masonic fraternity might claim to be the church of Christ, but that would not make it so. All those secret institutions are worldly institutions, and so are all so-called churches (even if they do claim to be the church of Christ), hence they are on a parity. One is as good as another, from that standpoint.

It seems to us that brethren should refrain from affiliating with those institutions, because it wounds the feelings of their brethren for them to do so. It has always seemed to us that those brethren should be as careful of the feelings of their brethren as those should be who are opposed to those things. It has always been contrary to the rules of the church, and it has seemed to us that a brother should regard the feelings of his brethren, and what has always been the rules of the church, and stay out of those things.

We do wish our brethren would lay these things down and have nothing to do with them. We are clear of it in our country, and we expect to remain that way. It has always resulted in trouble when churches allowed such things, and always will result that way, sooner or later. We may have troubles in other matters, but we hope to escape trouble on that by staying clear of it. May the Lord help us to serve and honor Him, is our prayer. C. H. C.

The Soul of Man

---February 14, 1911

That man has a soul which will exist as a living entity after the death of the body has always been a distinctive doctrine of the Baptists. They, as a people, have always taught this doctrine. All who claim to be Baptists must admit that whatever is Baptist is Scriptural, or else they must admit that Baptists have not been Scriptural. If the Baptists are and have been Scriptural, then whatever is Baptist is Scriptural. So, if the Baptists have been Scriptural in their teaching, it is a Scriptural truth that man has a soul which exists as a living entity after the death of the body. A denial of this, and the doctrine that man will be utterly annihilated and have no conscious existence after death is a heathen doctrine.

The unregenerate possess a soul, but the soul is not called the inner man. Man is a complex being composed of soul, body and spirit. It takes all three to constitute a complete man. Man is one composed of three, just as God is one composed of three.

Regeneration is a spiritual work, and is the work of God's Spirit upon the spirit or soul of man; yet it is said by the Saviour, "Except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God." The man (sinner of Adam's race) is born again, or regenerated, by the work of the Holy Spirit upon his soul or spirit. In regeneration he receives a new life, a new principle, and from this new life springs new desires and new aspirations. The new life is a holy life, and therefore the new desires and aspirations springing from it are holy. In regeneration he receives a new nature, which is a divine nature. Hence he is "made partaker of the divine nature."

The old, or sinful, nature which he had before, has not been taken away. He still has that nature. Hence he now possesses two natures. He is now a man, composed of soul, body and spirit, in possession of two natures. This is why there is a warfare within. There is a warfare now between the old, sinful, nature, and the new, divine, nature. The old, sinful, nature and inclinations constitute the old man, the outer man. The new, divine, nature and inclinations constitute the new man, the inner man. We are commanded to crucify the old man. We should crucify, overcome, put down, the old principle, the old, sinful nature and inclinations.

We are commanded to put on the new man. We should put on, follow, and obey the new nature, the new desires and aspirations, the new man. We are commanded to put off the old man with his deeds. We should put off the old, sinful desires, inclinations, the old man, and follow after the new desires, aspirations, inclinations, the new man. It seems to us that these things are all plainly taught in the Scriptures, and that there is no good reason for anyone to deny them.

In this connection we will copy the following from the pen of Elder Hassell in the Gospel Messenger for February, 1911. C. H. C.

Q. Will the everlasting punishment of the wicked be annihilation or endless conscious torment?

A. Annihilation, of the utter extinction of conscious existence, is the doctrine of the heathen atheistic Buddhists; it is a sign and a cause of the most corrupt times. As proved by the context and by other Scriptures, destruction in the Scriptures never means annihilation. The Almighty never made anything for nothing; such an idea impeaches His omniscience and His unchangeably. Nonexistence, instead of being everlasting punishment, is an end of all punishment.

The Son of God never endured the infinite horrors of Gethsemane, Golgotha and Calvary to save sinners from unconscious nothingness. To every reverent, intelligent and candid believer in the Scriptures the following passages demonstrate, beyond the shadow of a doubt, the conscious, everlasting suffering of the wicked: ((Dan 12:2) (Daniel 12:2); ((0:28) (Matthew 10:28); ((9) (13:49); (25:36); (5:28); (Romans 2:6,16); ((Th 1:7) (II Thessalonians 1:7-8,9;) (Revelation 14:11); (19:20); (20:10); (21:8); (22:11)). Satan, transforming himself into an angel of light, perverts these and other plain Scriptures into fables and nothingness. {(Genesis 1:4-5); (II Corinthians 11:3,14-15); (II Timothy 4:3-4); (Revelation 12:9)} The false doctrine of annihilationism was first broached, among professed Christians, in the fourth century, by Arnobius, of Africa, a superficial rhetorician; but it has found many followers, in the last two or three deteriorating centuries, among Materialists, Pantheists, Universalists, infidels and Arminians.

Life is not existence (for things without life exist); but life is a condition of existence; and so death (the opposite of life) is not nonexistence. Adam died (in trespasses and sins) in the day when he ate the forbidden fruit. {(Genesis 2:17)} but he still existed as a natural though sinful man. And so the Ephesians, who were "dead in trespasses and sins", had {(Ephesians 2:5)} a natural sinful existence, in which they walked in worldliness and disobedience, {(Ephesians 2:2)} until God quickened them, or gave them spiritual and divine life. The cutting off, or consuming, or perishing, or destruction of the wicked on earth {((0) (Psalms 37:20,34,36,38); (Malachi 4:1,3))} is their judicial, righteous, violent consignment to death, from which they "will come forth unto the resurrection of damnation". {(John 5:29); (Matthew 25:41,46)} Punishment is pain, physical or mental, and consciousness is essential to pain; therefore everlasting punishment is everlasting conscious pain-everlasting "contempt," {((Dan 12:2) (Daniel 12:2))} "indignation and wrath, tribulation and anguish," {(Romans 2:8-9)} "everlasting fire," {(Matthew 25:41)} "where there will be wailing and gnashing of teeth." {(Matthew 13:41-42)} It seems enmity to God and cruelty to sinners to endeavor to soften these awful truths into annihilation or nothingness. Our English word punishment is derived from a Latin and Greek word meaning pain or suffering; and the Greek word rendered punishment in (Matthew 25:46) "(these shall go away into everlasting punishment)" means chastisement, and is in (I John 4:18) rendered torment. Christ saves His people from the everlasting torment deserved by their sins.-S. H.

Remarks to C. A. Clemons

---February 14, 1911

How would we know what our brethren have believed and taught in all ages since the days of the apostles were it not for their writings-the books which have been handed down to us? Old Rome burned the writings of our fathers, and burned our fathers, too. The same thing may be done again.

It is true that much is printed that should not be; but our people should read good literature. Their children will read something, and they should provide good literature for them to read.

Nearly all the trouble in the church springs from the pulpit. The preachers cause it. Then the papers tell us about it, and keep us posted. No doubt, however, too much is published about the troubles. More should be published about the good things, and less about the bad things. C. H. C.

Wheat and Tares

---February 21, 1911

On another page of this paper appears a letter from Brother John G. Rousseau, of Paint Rock, Ala., in which he takes issue with us concerning the wheat and the tares. We gave a short statement of our views on this in our issue of December 6, 1910. We do not propose to set up our views as standard, but we certainly think Brother Rousseau is wrong in his application of the subject.

It is a fact that most, if not all, the parables the Saviour used had primary reference to the closing out of the law dispensation, or the Jewish age, and the ushering in of the gospel dispensation, or gospel age. The original meaning of the term "end of the world," as used in the parables in the thirteenth chapter of Matthew, is the "end of the age;" the end of the dispensation. The word "world" in the original has no reference to this material universe. For this very reason Brother Rousseau's position cannot possibly be correct.

The passages quoted by Brother Rousseau showing that grievous wolves shall enter the church, and so on, does not, at all, disprove our statement that the parable has reference to the closing out of that Jewish age or dispensation.

An angel is a messenger. The Lord's angels were His apostles and ministers, and by their ministry and preaching they gathered the good out from among the bad. The good were gathered together in bundles into gospel worship and service.

If Brother Rousseau makes the proper application of the parable, it would be wrong to ever exclude anyone from the church, no matter what crime he might commit, for we understand his application to be that the tares are in the church, and must not be rooted up, or taken out, for fear of rooting up the wheat; and if this be a correct application it would destroy all church discipline. Not only so, but the Saviour does not say the field is the church, but the field is the world.

Other reasons might be given along this line, but we think these are sufficient. We trust Brother Rousseau and all our readers may consider these thoughts, and remember that we do not propose to be a standard, and that we are well aware of the fact that we make mistakes and are not always right. C. H. C.

Romans 5:18

---February 21, 1911

Brother O. G. Perkins, of Ratcliff, Ark., requests our views of (Romans 5:18), which reads, "Therefore as by the offense of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even so by the righteousness of one the free gift came upon all men unto justification of life."

In the text the apostle shows that we were brought into a state of condemnation by the offense of one man. By his own disobedience, transgression, offense, Adam brought condemnation upon himself and his posterity. We are all only Adam multiplied, and we must, therefore, be in the same condition he placed himself.

Just as judgment came upon us to condemnation by the offense of one man, so by the righteousness of one we are justified. In the next verse the apostle declares that, "For as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous." How many were made sinners by one man's disobedience? There can be but one reasonable answer given to this question, and that is, all who were represented by him-and that must be all his race, for he was the federal head and representative of the race.

On the other hand, who are made righteous by the obedience of one? What is true regarding the other question must also be true regarding this-only one reasonable answer can be given, and that is, all who were represented by Him. Christ was the one who rendered the obedience. Hence, all that Christ represented will be made righteous by His obedience. These are sinners of Adam's race made righteous by the obedience of Christ. Any other theory denies the work of Christ in atonement, and denies grace in the salvation of sinners. C. H. C.

Luke 5:4,7 AND John 21:11

---February 21, 1911

Elder D. M. McMillin, of High Point, N.C., requests our views of ((4) (Luke 5:4,7)and (John 21:11). The reader will please turn to the passages and read them, beginning with the first verse of the chapter.

In (Luke 5) the Saviour makes use of a fisherman and the draught of fishes to illustrate a part of the work for the ministry. Notice the latter clause of ((0) (Luke 5:10), "From henceforth thou shalt catch men."

In (John 21) the Saviour shows His power to protect, care for and feed His servants. The disciples had forsaken the service of the Lord and returned to their former worldly occupation of fishing. The Saviour shows them here that He is able to feed them, and that they need have no fear but what they will be provided for in all their necessities. We should not turn away from the service of God on account of a fear that we will suffer temporally. The Lord will provide food for us and will care for us. C. H. C.

Hulsey – Cayce Debate

---February 28, 1911

In another place in this paper is a clipping from the Doctrinal Interpreter concerning the discussion between us and the Rev. J. W. Hulsey, of Waldron, Ark., which was held at Dayton, Ark., Dec. 20 and 21, with some comments by Elder Moses Barton, of Abbott, who was present during the whole discussion.

In said clipping the Rev. L. A. Robertson says, "Hulsey could not drive him, while he was in the affirmative, to tell how infants are saved." The Rev. Mr. Robertson either knows this is not true, or else he was so bewildered, like his brother, the Rev. Hulsey, that he did not know what we did say. We do not like to charge the gentleman with dishonesty-so we will just charge it to his ignorance. He did not know when a plain answer was given to a question.

Again, the Rev. gentleman says, "Cayce is the ablest debater on earth in the Hardshell ranks, but he could not stand before the matchless logic of Hulsey." Shades of Aristotle, Demosthenes, Cicero, Paul and John! The wonderful logic of Hulsey, indeed! Oh, it was wonderful! Here is a sample of it, according to the report of the Rev. Parson Robertson himself: The Rev. Hulsey affirmed that "The Scriptures teach that in regeneration, or the new birth, the Lord uses the gospel (written or preached word) as a means." His first argument was that Christ died for all. Now the logic is, Christ died for all; therefore, the Lord uses the gospel as a means in regeneration! That is the logic of the whole fifteen arguments given by the Rev. Parson Robertson. The reader may take it and apply it himself and see how wonderful it is. Why, God bless your soul, who could stand before such wonderful logic as that? Is it not a shame that those Softshells, tadpoles, would select a man with such logical powers as displayed by Parson Hulsey that would not allow the opponent even a ghost of a show? Wonderful indeed!

But the Rev. Robertson shows his ignorance again in saying, "Cayce is the ablest debater on earth in the Hardshell ranks." He shows his ignorance or illbreeding in calling us Hardshells- but in doing so he admits that he is a Softshell. We think he must be of the tadpole variety of Softshells. Why would he say that Cayce is the ablest debater in the Hardshell ranks? For sympathy, and to palliate their hurting and smarting under a sense of their defeat. That can be the only reason. It is a plain case of "pleading the baby act," just as Hulsey did more than once during the discussion. But the book will show for itself when it is published. As stated by Brother Barton, the price will be about fifty cents. Elder J. B. Little, Abbott, Ark., is taking orders for it. We will say that orders may also be sent to us. Do not send us any money for them, but write and say how many copies you will take when they are published. Please do this at once. C.H.C.

Note,-The stenographer claimed he lost his notes, so the above debate was never published.

Authority Again

---March 7, 1911

Elder C. H. Cayce:
Dear Brother

Some time ago I asked you a few questions concerning the authority of the regular Baptists, known as the Missionary Baptists. You say in your answer to me that they have no right or authority as ordained ministers. Now, my dear brother, please tell me in your paper, or by letter, was Dr. Carey, who is well known in church history, also Judson, Rice, Dr. Clark, Dr. Ward, and many others who came across the mighty deep-were all these brethren without any authority? Now, you say that baptism is not valid when administered by the Missionary Baptists. Now, my dear brother, tell me, when did they lose their authority? Tell me when the Primitive Baptists got their authority? I am in a rut between the two Baptist bodies on the mission question, and it is your duty to show me where to go, or which way to step, to get out. May the Lord bless you, my dear brother. Your brother in love, D. C. Bishop. Randle, Wash.

REMARKS In our issue of November 15, 1910, we answered Brother Bishop regarding the authority of the Missionary Baptists to administer baptism. He now sends the above, which is practically a repetition of the former question, for it simply resolves itself into the same thing.

Brother Bishop's contention amounts to simply this: That as the Missionary Baptists and Primitive Baptists were once together, and therefore started at the same time, or sprang from the same place, the authority of the Missionary Baptists must be as good as the authority of the Primitive Baptists. This is the whole matter summed up in a nutshell, as to his contention. It is the sum of the contention of many others on the same point. Now let us candidly examine the matter. If that position is correct, it will do no one an injury to know it.

In our examination let us remember distinctly that names have nothing whatever to do with it. A spade would not be changed by calling it a hoe or a plow or a horse. It is principles that count, and not names. Bear this fact in mind.

Now, let us proceed. In 1811 Alexander Campbell united with the Baptists. He soon began advocating his new doctrines. In 1827 the Baptists withdrew fellowship from him and his followers. Campbell was once with the Baptists and was, for a while, a strong advocate of their doctrine. While with them he began advocating other doctrines. Some others among the Baptists imbibed his teachings. Then they were withdrawn from or excluded, by those who held the original Baptist views. Now, the question is, Do the followers of Campbell-those who now advocate the doctrines that he introduced among the Baptists have a Scriptural right or authority to administer baptism? There was a division in the Baptist ranks. Do both sides (the Baptist side and the Campbellite side) have a Scriptural right to administer baptism? We are sure Brother Bishop would say no. Then we would ask, why not? The Campbellites were once with the Baptists, and if the fact that Missionaries were once with us proves that they have a gospel right, or authority, to administer baptism, it will prove that the Campbellites have the same right. But the followers of Mr. Campbell do not have that right, for the plain and simple reason that Mr.

Campbell and his followers departed from original Baptist teaching. This, of course, is true, if the original Baptist teaching is Scriptural, and we presume Brother Bishop would say it is Scriptural. Then, if the Campbellites do not have Scriptural authority to administer baptism because they have departed from Scriptural teaching, neither do the Missionaries have the Scriptural authority to administer baptism if they departed from Scriptural teaching.

Again. The Catholics separated from the Baptists about the third century, as stated in our issue of November 15, 1910. They were once with the Baptists. Do they have a gospel right to administer baptism because they were once with us? No. Why not? Because they departed from Scriptural teaching and practice. Hence they have no Scriptural authority to administer baptism. If this is true concerning the Roman Catholics, it is just as true concerning the Missionaries, if they have departed from Scriptural teaching and practice.

Now, Brother Bishop admits that they have departed from Scriptural teaching and practice on the mission question. He certainly admits that the Old Baptists are right in speaking of joining them-or else he has contemplated joining a people whose doctrine he does not believe, and we do not suppose this to be the case.

Brother Bishop asks about Carey, Judson, Rice and Clark. Dr. John Clark was the founder of the first Baptist church in America in 1638. That is, he organized this church. This was long before the days of Fuller, Carey, Rice and Judson. About the year 1790 Fuller and Carey began to introduce the new doctrine and practice on missions. The Baptist Encyclopedia, by William Cathcart, in the sketch of William Carey, says:

He issued a pamphlet entitled "An Inquiry into the Obligation of Christians to Use Means for the Conversion of the Heathen." This publication made a deep impression upon Mr. Carey's friends, and it had an extensive influence in turning their minds and hearts to the idolaters of distant lands. Mr. Carey became pastor of the church in Leicester in 1789, and there he labored with untiring faithfulness among his flock, and formed plans with unquenchable zeal for the salvation of the heathen. From this church he went forth to India to give God's Word to its vast population.

At the meeting of his association, which was held at Nottingham, May 30, 1792, he preached on ((4:2) (Isaiah 54:2-3)), announcing the two memorable divisions of his discourse: "Expect great things from God; attempt great things for God." The sermon stirred up the hearts of his hearers as they had never been before; every one felt the guilt of keeping the gospel from perishing myriads, and the need of making an effort to win His ignorant enemies to their Master. At Kettering, the church of Andrew Fuller, the Baptist Missionary Society was organized Oct. 2, 1792. The society was formally instituted in the house of the widow of Deacon Beeby Wallis. The little parlor which witnessed the birth of this society was the most honored room in the British Islands, or in any part of Christendom; in it was formed the first society of modern times for spreading the gospel among the heathen, the parent of all the great modern PROTESTANT MISSIONARY SOCIETIES IN EXISTENCE.

The emphasis in the above is ours. Notice, please, that this society is the parent of all the modern Protestant societies in existence. Then it is not Baptist. Were the Baptists wrong all along the line from the parent church at Jerusalem down to Oct. 2, 1792? NO. The church was organized on right principles without these things, and were right in not having them in all those years, notwithstanding the fact W. F. Bainbridge says, in his book, "Around the World Tour of Christian Missions," page 80:

And when we observe, notwithstanding the wonderful spread of Christianity during the subsequent two centuries, what lamentable weaknesses were manifested all along in the conflicts with heresies and with the world, and finally, that in the fourth century, the church suffered almost an entire eclipse by the world, we are tempted to look for explanation somewhat in the very methods of that early church. Would it not have been better for Paul and the other early founders to have arranged contributions from the churches sufficient, not only for the poor, but to enable their ministry and missionaries to give their undivided attention to the more thorough instruction and more potent leadership of their people? Do not forget that this learned Missionary charges error here to the eminent and inspired Paul, the apostle to the Gentiles. What blasphemy!

In a circular letter of the Philadelphia Association of 1806, after this association had imbibed the teachings of Fuller, Carey, Judson, Rice, Marshman, Ward & Co., on the mission question, in which circular letter is set forth what gave rise to the birth of modern missions, we find this statement: "It is, however, a very remarkable circumstance, that in modern missions Papal Rome has led the way."

Rome led the way—Christ and the apostles did not. These men, in introducing these things among the Baptists, were not following our Lord, but were following Papal Rome. This is their own admission and statement. It is not a charge gotten up by some narrow-minded prejudiced enemy. They have said so themselves. Then, since they are following Rome, and not our Lord, pray tell us by what authority they can administer an ordinance of our Lord's house?

Fuller, Carey, Judson, Rice, Marshman and Ward were some of the leaders in this modern movement, in following Rome. These things were borne with, although contended against by many, for years. During those years the faithful soldiers who stood firmly for the apostolic practice and original order of things, groaned under the great burden. Finally forbearance had long ceased to be a virtue, and a painful separation was the result.

Now, the question is, which is the seceding party? Every fair-minded, candid, honest, person, in the light of these indisputable facts, must say the Missionary Baptist party is the seceding party. They have departed from original Baptist principles, and have no more right even to the name Baptist than a Mormon, a Brahmin or a Buddhist.

With these facts before you, Brother Bishop, it seems to us that there is but one thing you could consistently do, and that is leave these followers of Rome, with all their men made institutions, societies, mission machinery, so called baptism, ordination and all, and unite with the old order of Baptists who are contending earnestly and faithfully for the order of our Lord's house, and who are willing to bear all the reproaches and anathemas of a proud and vain world for His own dear sake. May the Lord help you to decide aright. C. H. C.

Acts 13:48

---March 21, 1911

James T. Morgan, of Buford, Ga., asks us, regarding (Acts 13:48), "Who were they that were ordained unto eternal life, and when?" The text reads, "And when the Gentiles heard this, they were glad, and glorified the word of the Lord: and as many as were ordained to eternal life believed." The word ordain means to prepare or to appoint. The word from which ordained is translated, means to arrange in an orderly manner; assign or dispose; addict; appoint; determine; ordain; set. The text, therefore, must necessarily teach that those who believed were already ordained or appointed to eternal life. As they were appointed to eternal life, the question would arise, "who appointed, or ordained, them to eternal life?" The apostle answers this in (Ephesians 1:4-5), "According as He hath chosen us in Him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blame before Him in Jove: having predestinated us unto the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to Himself, according to the good pleasure of His will." Here it is plainly stated that they were chosen in Christ before the foundation of the world, which means before the ages of time began. God made choice of them, and predestinated, appointed, ordained, before the ages of time began, that they should have eternal life. Acts cording to that predestination, appointment, ordination, God gives them eternal life here in time. Then they are capacitated to believe, and when they hear the good news, glad tidings, or gospel of Christ, and believe, it proves, manifests the fact, shows that they are ordained to eternal life. Although this doctrine has been despised by the world, and those who teach it are called by hard names now, just as the apostles and prophets were, yet it is God's eternal truth and will stand amidst the wreck and crash of worlds, and is a comforting and soul cheering doctrine to the child of God when rightly understood. In the sovereign choice and purpose of God, and what He does in bringing about His own determination, rests our hope of heaven and immortal glory beyond this world of sorrow and tears. C. H. C.

1 Corinthians 15:22

---March 28, 1911

Brother J. C. Davidson, of Shannon, Miss., requests us to give our views of (I Corinthians 15:22), which reads, "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." In this chapter the apostle is treating upon the subject of the resurrection of the bodies of the Lord's people. This fact should be remembered and kept in mind in considering the verse mentioned. It is the Lord's people that he is talking about. They all die in Adam. They die every day, and their bodies are consigned to the tomb. They will all be made alive in Christ. Their bodies will be raised again. "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. But every man in his own order: Christ the first fruits; afterward they that are Christ's at His coming." Christ was the first fruits. When He comes again the bodies of all His saints will be raised- "afterward they that are Christ's at His coming." He was talking here about the Lord's people, and no others. C. H. C.

Plagiarism

---March 28, 1911

Plagiarism is to steal another's writings. Our attention has been called to some articles that have appeared in our columns-one of them not long since-that appeared as original articles from those whose names were signed to them, when they were really copied. We had not noticed the fact until our attention was called to it. It is all right to copy the writings of others when proper credit is given, but it is wrong to copy the writings of others and send out as our own productions. We hope this will not occur again. "A hint to the wise is sufficient." C. H. C.

2 Corinthians 7:10

---April 11, 1911

Brother W. G. Thompson, Montague, Texas, requests our views of ((0) (II Corinthians 7:10), which reads, "A godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of: but the sorrow of the world worketh death." A godly sorrow cannot come from an ungodly source. A godly sorrow, then, must proceed from a godly heart-a heart that has been made right. Godly sorrow works repentance. To repent is to turn from. To repent of wickedness is to be, first, sorry for it and then to turn from it, with a sincere effort and desire to live right. When you see one who is thus exercised, you see one whose heart has been made right, and his repentance is unto, or with reference to, his salvation. "The sorrow of the world worketh death." One may be sorry his meanness has been found out-he may be sorry that he is discovered-and yet not be sorry that he committed the crime. His sorrow does not come from a good heart, for he would do the same crime again, if he thought he would not be discovered and punished for it. C. H. C.

John 1:9

---April 11, 1911

Brother H. M. Williams, Indian Trail, N. C, requests our views of (John 1:9), which reads, "That was the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world." The true Light refers to Jesus. Verse four says, "In Him was life; and the life was the light of men." He gives life in giving light. The word "world" in Scripture does not always refer to this material universe, nor to all the race of mankind. The ungodly world is spoken of. Hence, the term "world" sometimes embraces the ungodly only. "And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed."-(Luke 2:1). Here the word "world" embraces the Roman Empire. It evidently does not embrace all the race of mankind. This is enough to show that the term does not always refer to the whole race of Adam. So He does not give light to every man that comes into the material universe, but to every one who comes into the spiritual world, or spiritual realm. "My kingdom is not of this world," says Jesus. Then it must be of another world. It is a spiritual kingdom, and pertains to the spiritual realm. Jesus lights every one that "cometh into" this spiritual world or realm. C. H. C.

Can't Help It

---April 18, 1911

We frequently hear brethren speak of the enormous sums of money contributed to the cause of popular religion. It seems to be easy for men to be true to a false cause and to sacrifice unto idols. Is it possible that the worshipers of idols love their gods more than we love our God?-Predestinarian Baptist, April 1, 1911.

The paper from which the above clipping is taken teaches that God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate all things that come to pass, both good and bad. If the worldly religion is what the editor refers to as popular religion, and his doctrine is the truth, then God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated that enormous sums of money should be contributed to worldly religion. If the worldly, or popular, religion is what the elder refers to as a false cause, and the elder's doctrine is the truth, then God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated that enormous sums of money should be contributed to a false cause. It seems to us that it would be easy for one to do a certain way, if God has, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinated that he should do that way and no other way. According to the elder's doctrine, they could not sacrifice unto idols, nor even will to do so, unless God willed and predestinated that they should do so.

We would conclude that if God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate that "the worshipers of idols" should "love their gods more than we love our God," it is possible for them to do so, or else God has absolutely and unconditionally predestinated something that is impossible. According to the elder's doctrine, if he does not love God more than the worshipers of idols love their gods, it must be because God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated that he should not. Does one who advocates such a doctrine really and truly love God at all? C. H. C.

What Is The Reason?

---April 25, 1911

"But when thou doest alms let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth."- (Matthew 6:3). This text is sometimes quoted to prove that secrecy should be maintained in contributing to the support of the ministry, as if that was giving alms. Alms are given to feed the poor, and Jesus here instructed His disciples not to publish or boast of their deeds of charity. But in supporting the cause of truth I can see no reason that one should object to his left hand knowing what his right hand does, except it is because his right hand don't do anything or does so little that he is ashamed of it. C.

The above is from the Predestinarian Baptist of April 1, 1911. We suppose it is from the pen of Elder W. I. Carnell, as it is signed "C."

According to Elder Carnell's doctrine, that God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate all things whatsoever cometh to pass, if one does not do anything, it must be because God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated that he should not. Elder R. H. Boas swore on the witness stand that "man has not the power to will or to do a sinful act unless God predestinated and willed that he should do it." When Elder Carnell was on the witness stand, in the Bethel (Ky.) Church suit, the following question was put to him, which appears in his deposition: "You mean that He (God) designed, or purposed, the individual, or such an individual should commit the individual sinful acts or conduct?" His answer was: "I believe that He did purpose that as well as all things else." Hence, according to the elder's doctrine, if a man's right hand "don't do anything," it must be because God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated that he should not do anything. And if his right hand does only a little, it must be because God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated that he should do only a little. Then, after all, the elder feigns that he does not know why "one should object to his left hand knowing what his right hand does, except it be because his right hand don't do anything or does so little that he is ashamed of it."

It seems to us that the matter is very easily explained, according to the elder's doctrine; for, according to his doctrine, if one objects to his left hand knowing what his right hand does, it must be because God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate that he should object; and he could do no other way, because God must have absolutely and unconditionally predestinated that he should do no other way than to object. So, also, if he is ashamed, it must be because God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate that he should be ashamed.

According to the elder's doctrine, God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated, from all eternity, that the right hand of some should do nothing, and that the right hand of others should do just a little, and likewise predestinated that they should object to letting their left hand know what their right hand does, and that they should be ashamed for the left hand to know what their right hand does. And He also likewise predestinated that Elder Carnell should insinuate that their right hand should do more, when He has absolutely and unconditionally predestinated that they should do just what they do and no more. And He also likewise predestinated that we should not believe such doctrine, and that we should object to it. And He also likewise predestinated that the elder should call us Bildads, Arminians and other nicknames, because we do not believe and teach what God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated we should not believe and teach.

Oh, good Lord, do deliver us! C. H. C.

Baptist Missionary Centennial

---April 25, 1911

On June 13, 1813, Adoniram and Ann Hasseltine Judson landed in Rangoon, Burma, and began the enterprise of American Baptist Foreign Missions. There was no general Baptist missionary society in the United States at that time, and in response to their appeal the support of Mr. and Mrs. Judson was assumed by a Massachusetts Baptist Missionary society. In response to a call issued by this society and others, on May 18, 1814, there was formed in Philadelphia "The General Convention of the Baptist Denomination in the United States of America for Foreign Missions." This long title was soon abbreviated in common use to "The Triennial Convention," as it then met only once in three years. Now the centennial of the birth of American Baptist Missions is to be celebrated. In 1913 the celebration is to be in Burma, and as many American Baptists as possible are invited to attend. The centennial of the formation of the missionary society will be held in America. The Watchman says:

"It ought to be the greatest gathering of Baptists ever held on this continent or in the world, greater than the great meetings of the Baptist World Alliance in Philadelphia next June." A special Judson Centennial Commission has been appointed by the Board of Managers of the Foreign Mission Society, which met for organization in Rochester, N. Y., on March 16. The Watchman, from which we take the above facts, adds: "Before the beginning of their foreign missions, the Baptists of the United States were weak, scattered and had little communication with each other. It was the organization of their Foreign Mission society which brought them together, gave them a common purpose; taught them their power, and laid the foundation for the great united and powerful body they are today. This centennial celebration is, therefore, not only a missionary celebration, but commemorates the beginning of a new era of life and growth of American Baptists."

We clip the above from the Baptist and Reflector, Nashville, Tenn., of March 23, 1911. It contains some information concerning the mission business. The centennial of the birth of American Baptist missions is to be celebrated in 1913. Adoniram Judson and his wife were the first to go to the foreign field as missionaries from America. This was in 1813. That was the time of the birth of American missions. Foreign missions was a new thing then among the Baptists of America. The Softshells have the baby yet. They still engage in this, and adopt most every new measure that comes along. They marry every girl that they meet, when they can. They are the new sort of Baptists. The name is all they want, and they have no right to that. They are truly Fullerites, just as much as the followers of Campbell are Campbellites.

According to a statement in the above clipping the Softshells are not bound together by the ties of Christian love and fellowship. They are bound together by the ties of their foreign mission societies. They admit the truth in this. If their men made mission societies were dispensed with, and their ponderous money propelled mission machinery brought to a stop for a short time, the whole fraternity would go to pieces in a "jiffy." It is not bound together nor kept up by the divine influence of God's love and the Holy Spirit, but by the enthusiasm and energy of men who are looking for soft jobs at a fat salary. Covetousness -the love of money-is the root of the whole humbug machine. C. H. C.

A Right Step

---April 25, 1911

Elder C. H. Cayce: Dear Brother-I have been requested by the few members of the South College Street Primitive Baptist Church, at Nashville, Tenn., who have affiliated themselves with secret orders, to write you for publication that, for the sake of peace and fellowship with the brethren everywhere, they have agreed to lay them down and will affiliate with them no more. Your little brother in hope, W. E. Waddell. 1014 Lischey Ave, Nashville, Tenn.

Brother Cayce, we are expecting you to be with us this coming Sunday, the 16th; please don't disappoint us, as we need the service of all such preachers as you are. We all love you and want you to come amongst us. Pray for us when it goes well with you. W. E. W.

REMARKS We are glad to know of the agreement of these brethren, that they will lay down their secret orders and affiliate with them no more. This has been a complaint of brethren for years against this church, and those who heard that some of her members affiliated with secret orders did not approve of it. We trust these good brethren will, from now on, be clear of this.

We filled our appointments there on the 16th, and have promised to be with them again, the Lord willing, the fifth Sunday in this month and the second Sunday in May. C. H. C.

Christian Churches Plan Joining Forces Unity Foundation Embraces Protestant, Greek and Catholic Bodies

---May 2, 1911

The following was published in the Republic, St. Louis, Mo., last July, under the above heading. We give it space for our readers, without comment. It clearly shows an effort for the uniting of Catholicism and Protestantism. The doctrines which the Protestants have borrowed from Rome will be returned some day. It will be a dreadful time for Old Baptists then. C. H. C.

New York, July 20. - Articles of incorporation have been filed in the County Clerk's office for a religious organization to be composed of all Christian churches, including Protestant denominations, the Roman Catholic and Greek churches. It is incorporated under the name, "A Christian Unity Foundation," and it will aim to do for Christianity what the Carnegie and Sage Foundations do for education. A lay member has offered $10,000 to pay initial expenses. All of the leaders in the movement are men prominent in the Protestant Episcopal Church. The incorporators are twelve clergymen and twelve laymen.

They represent both high and low churches. Six of the clergy are bishops. According to the incorporation the purpose of this foundation is:

"To promote Christian unity at home and throughout the world. To this end to gather and disseminate accurate information relative to the faith and works of Christian bodies; to set forth the great danger of our unhappy divisions and the waste of spiritual energy due thereto; to devise and suggest practical methods of cooperation, substituting comity for rivalry in the propagation of the common faith; to bring together all who are laboring in the same field, and this in the belief that full knowledge of one another will emphasize our mutual membership in the one body of Christ and our common agreement in the essentials of faith."

"That finally, by the operation of the Spirit of God, the various Christian bodies may be knit together in more evident unity in the essentials of faith and practice and in one organized body. So we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another."

Most of the movers in this cause live in or near this city. The laymen represent the army, the navy, lawyers and business men.

The foundation is considered significant in the religious world, coming just at the close of the World Missionary Convention in Edinburgh, Scotland, when 1,200 delegates from every part of the world met to discuss unity in foreign mission work. It is also considered significant that it is the Episcopal Church in America that has promoted the organization, inasmuch as this was the only large denomination that refused to join the Federal Council of the Church of Christ in America formed a few years ago.

Missionaries Not Wanted Chinaman Writes Book Against Their Activities - Says They Harm His People

---May 2, 1911

We copy the following dispatch from London from the Tennessean and American (Nashville, Tenn.). Comment is unnecessary. C. H. C. London, April 22.-The "heathen Chinese," educated, civilised and equipped with a sound knowledge of modern civilisation, is appealing to the Christian countries to withdraw their "Bibliolatrous missionaries" from the Celestial kingdom. Mr. Lin ShaoYang, in a book just published entitled "A Chinese Appeal to Christendom Concerning Christian Missions," protests against, the "absurd, contemptible and demoralizing medley that forms the stock in trade of missionaries," and urges that China be left to work out her own salvation, as far as religion is concerned, without western interference.

His method of argument is mainly a bland astonishment and questioning. Dealing with the present condition of Christianity in Europe, he observes:

"What we wonder at is that your missionary zeal should not only remain unabated, but should actually show signs of increasing activity during an epoch which is obviously one of religious unrest throughout all Christian lands, and in which historical research and scientific methods of criticism have caused the gravest doubts to be thrown on the truth of some of the fundamental propositions of Christian faith."

"Do the missionaries propose to convert the Chinese and then wait for the Chinese to reconvert the west?"

"It is because I am firmly convinced that some of the teachings and methods of very many foreign missionaries are seriously defective themselves, harmful to the people of China and disastrous to the causes of truth, civilisation and international harmony, that I have obliged myself to undertake the difficult and cheerless task of issuing this appeal to the people of the Christian west."

Mr. Lin ShaoYang put a series of questions to the western people. Are those who are not earnest, professing Christians, he asks, worse than their more ardent neighbors in England? Can it be the people of China, half the population of the world, are really doomed to everlasting damnation, as the missionary's creed, as he understands it, postulates? Cannot the missionaries understand that Christianity must be presented to the Chinese in a form "that will bear the closest scrutiny?" How are the catch words of the missionaries, he asks, superior to those of Buddhism and Shintoism and Mohammedanism? The Christianity of the missionaries, he asserts, is crude and out of date. Why is it not expounded in its most modern and intellectual form? "If I pay a visit to a modern observatory shall I be told that the sun goes round the earth because, forsooth, the astronomer's ancestors believed it?"

"What will the unlettered Christian missionary do with a Chinese who has read Hume, or Spencer, or McTaggart, or Bradley, or Nietzsche, and Der Antichrist and is prepared to discuss them with him? It cannot be too strongly emphasised that the Chinese do not want Europe's cast off theology, and if you insist upon thrusting it upon them it is not unlikely that there will some day be a terrible reaction, resulting in the definite expulsion from China of all western religion."

Foe to Freedom

---May 9, 1911

"The Foe to Freedom" is the title of a book written by S. P. Mothershead, Jr., of House Springs, Mo. The author is a Missionary Baptist, and the book was published by the Baptist Flag, Fulton, Ky., and contains eighty nine pages. It has nine chapters, the subjects of which are as follows: "Origin, Development and Doctrines of Romanism;" "Cardinal Doctrines of Rome;" "Early Persecutions of Christians by Rome;" "Persecutions in Piedmont in the 17th Century;" "Romanism in American Politics;" "Roman Catholics and the Indians;" "Roman Catholics and the Public Schools;" "Some Official Transactions;" "The Present Outlook." It is a splendid work, and we wish every Baptist and every Protestant in the United States could procure and read a copy of it. By all means, get a copy for yourself, read it carefully, study it prayerfully; then lend it to others to read who will not, or cannot, get one for themselves.

It is high time we were waking from our lethargy and slumber, if we would have our religious freedom preserved. The freedom purchased for us by the blood of our fathers is fast slipping away from us, and at the present rate things are going, in a few more years we must bow to the mandates of the priest or pope, or suffer the fate of millions of martyrs of the past. May the Lord, in mercy, help us to arouse to the danger and help us to escape the torture!

The price of the little book written by Elder Mothershead is only 25 cents. Send that amount to the Baptist Flag, Fulton, Ky., and get one. Or, send more money and get more of the books and get them circulated. If you prefer, you can send the money to us, and we will have the book sent to you. We offer to do this for your convenience only, because we desire the work to be circulated. We would get nothing whatever out of it, no matter how many you might order. We have a copy, and have just finished reading it, and can say that the author merely hints at the crimes that have been committed by Rome in the past; and what they have done in the past they will do again if they can.

A sister who was reared a Catholic told us that it is a fact that if a Catholic is working for you and the priest or pope gives orders to this Catholic to put you and your family "out of the way," that the Catholic is bound under oath to obey the order. We are asleep! Let us awake! C. H. C.

How Can They Help It?

---May 9, 1911

In traveling among the churches I notice that in every church there are a few brethren bearing the burdens and trying to maintain public worship. These brethren have a right to expect and to demand that every member of the church shall assist them in this work according to their several ability.-Predestinarian Baptist, April 18, 1911.

According to the doctrine advocated by the paper from which the above clipping is taken, God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate that some should not help to bear the burdens or try to maintain public worship; for the paper advocates the doctrine that God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate all things that come to pass, both good and bad. Now the writer of the above (the editor, we suppose) says the brethren who bear the burdens have a right to expect and to demand that every member shall assist in bearing the burdens. Then they have a right to expect them to do differently from the way God has absolutely and unconditionally predestinated that they should do. We do not know how one could expect a man to do differently from the way God has absolutely and unconditionally predestinated he should do, unless we should expect him to thwart God's predestination. And we must confess that we do not know how we could expect that, especially since Elder Boaz swore that "man has not the power to will or to do anything that thwarts God's purpose or predestination." According to this statement man cannot even will to do anything that would thwart God's predestination; and every man's will, then, is just as God predestinated it should be, and it could not, nor cannot, be any way only the way it is. Yet the Predestinarian Baptist tells us we have a right to expect and to demand that it be different.

But the editor says they "have a right to expect and to demand that every member of the church shall assist them in this work according to their several ability." And since, according to their sworn testimony, man cannot even will to do anything that thwarts God's predestination, then they cannot do nor will to do more than they do. Hence, they are all doing as much as they can, for they cannot do differently from the way God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated they should do. Every one, then, does assist according to his ability.

We wonder what the editor of the Predestinarian Baptist is complaining about, anyhow. Does he complain just because God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated, from all eternity, that he should complain, and he just has it to do to carry out God's predestination?

Truly, "the legs of the lame," etc. C. H. C.

Origins of the Denominations

---May 23, 1911

Baptists, A. D. 31, by Jesus Christ. Catholics separated from the Baptists in A. D. 251 and gradually drifted into the present form. The first Universal Bishop or Pope was Boniface III, who was made such by Emperor Phocas, A. D. 606. Lutherans, A. D. 1530, by Martin Luther. Presbyterians, A. D. 1535, by John Calvin. Episcopalians, A. D. 1540, by King Henry VIII Congregationalists, A. D. 1605, by John Robinson. Methodists, A. D. 1729, by John Wesley. Freewill Baptists, A. D. 1780, by Benj. Randall. Campbellites, A. D. 1827, by Alexander Campbell. Quakers, A. D. 1648, by Geo. Fox. Dunkards (Brethren), A. D. 1708, by Alexander Mack. Mormons, A. D. 1830, by Joseph Smith. Hardshell Baptists, A. D. 1832, by Daniel Parker. Seventh Day Adventists, A. D. 1843, by Wm. Miller. Pentecostal Church of the Najarene, A. D. 1895, by P. F. Breese. Conventionite Baptists is a church now forming and no doubt in a few years will be a full fledged denomination. It is headed in that direction and in the course of nature it will soon come to pass. Already the Conventionites are practically out of fellowship with the main body of Baptists. How long it will take to develop into a new denomination remains to be seen.

The above from the Arkansas Baptist of May 17, 1911, we suppose is a fair sample of the way Bogard states facts. He says the "Hardshell Baptists" originated in 1832 by Daniel Parker. We suppose he refers to the people we stand identified with, as such men as Bogard call them "Hardshells." He knows his statement is false. Again, he says, "Conventionite Baptists is a church now forming." This he knows to be a false statement. He knows that the first mission board among Baptists was formed in 1792, in Kettering, England. The English Baptist Home Mission Society was formed in 1797; the Baptist Irish Society in 1814; the American Baptist Publication Society in 1824; American Baptist Home Missionary Society in 1832; the American Baptist Missionary Union, formerly the Baptist General Convention, in 1814. He knows that the introduction of these things among the Baptists caused the division which formally began in 1832, which was final after several years in the 40's in some sections.

The Southern Baptist Convention was formed in 1845. The Convention and Board missions being introduced among the Baptists, with their doctrines, caused the division then, and Bogard knows it. Hence the Conventionite Baptists is a church already formed, and originated in the days of Fuller, Carey, Judson, Rice, Marshman and Ward. Bogard slanders his convention brethren when he says they are now forming a church. But he contends that the boards and conventions are new and unscriptural. As we refused to accept them when they were introduced among the Baptists, we are, therefore, the old order of Baptists. Bogard and his folks are trying to form a new church, by seceding from the Boardites and Conventionites, for they are splitting off from the people who had their origin with those things.

Our people have never opposed a minister preaching at any place where his lot was cast. Our contention has ever been that the Lord assigns the man his field of labor, and we have ever held the sentiment expressed by Hon. Thos. E. Watson, that "the field should support the missionary," or the man who does the preaching, and that it is unreasonable and unscriptural that he be supported by the United States while laboring in a foreign field.

It is plainly evident that Bogard "twists" in order to maintain his contention, and then he fails. C. H. C.

False Reports

---May 30, 1911

Elder C. H. Cayce: Dear Brother-It is being told in this country that you challenged Elder Sikes for a debate and Elder Sikes accepted the challenge and then you backed out and got Brother Thompson to take your place, and Brother Thompson debated three days and Elder Sikes got Brother Thompson so befuddled that Brother Thompson would not meet Elder Sikes the fourth day, and that Brother Thompson's own moderator took sides with Elder Sikes. It is also being told that The Primitive Baptist is not as sound as it was in your father's lifetime; that your father was an Absolute Predestinarian, and that your father did not believe that the happiness of the people of God while on this earth was in any way conditional. I have been taking The Primitive Baptist ten years and I know that you are contending for the same doctrine that your father did. I have heard your father preach five times and heard him in debate four days, and I was with him nearly all the time he was in this country, and he asked me in the presence of Elder J. J. Massie while in this country on a preaching tour who strewed this "Absolute" seed in this country.

Now, Brother Cayce, I know that these things are not so, but some people do not, and it seems to me that a good thing to do is to republish some of your father's editorials on predestination. Your brother, C. C. Cunningham. Wiggins, Miss.

REMARKS

Elder Sikes did not accept our challenge. It stands yet as we made it, and has not been accepted by anyone. The debate Elder Thompson had with Elder Sikes resulted from a proposition Elder Sikes signed to meet Elder Towry. We never had a thing on earth to do with that discussion or in getting it up. Elder Thompson took Elder Towry's place. Elder Sikes did not get Elder Thompson befuddled. Elder Sikes accused Elder Thompson of charging consequences, which Elder Thompson and his moderator, Elder J. T. Stewart, denied. Hence the discussion was declared off. Elder Thompson's moderator didn't take sides with Elder Sikes.

As to the soundness of The Primitive Baptist, will say that the paper speaks for itself. No article was ever published from the pen of Elder S. F. Cayce in this paper that we would not willingly publish again. The man who says Elder S. F. Cayce advocated the doctrine of the absolute and unconditional predestination of all things in The Primitive Baptist either ignorantly or wilfully falsifies.

As to whether he believed that the happiness of God's people in this world is in any way conditional, will say that he wrote the eleventh item of the Abstract of Principles which this paper is published in defense of. The articles have never been changed since his death. They appear in this paper from time to time. That's an answer to that false statement.

We may republish some of his writings later on. C. H. C.

Questions

---May 30, 1911

Elder C. H. Cayce:
Dear Brother

For a long time I have wanted to ask some questions; seeing your answer to Brother D. C. Bishop, I feel that I might now venture, I am sincere and ask for information. Did Christ or the apostles ever organize an association such as Baptists now have? If they did not, then is not the organization of men? Have not most all the divisions of the church come out of the association? Did Alexander Campbell ever endorse the London Confession of Faith? Some years ago I wanted a copy of the London Confession of Faith. I enquired of Primitive Baptists where I could get it; none seemed to know. At last I found them advertised by a Missionary Baptist publishing house. I sent and got one. Then I attended a debate between J. M. Bandy, of Aurora, Mo., a Missionary Baptist minister, and a Campbellite preacher. Bandy stuck to the old London Confession and made a noble defense, and on Sunday he preached a discourse on predestination and election in which he proved that salvation was by grace alone. Does not religious history tell us that for 300 or more years the church at every meeting or most every meeting took the communion? Do any of them do so now? Some wash feet at the communion; others do not. Which is the true church? I believe you condemn Sunday schools. So do I condemn the way that the teaching is done. How are we to raise our children up in the fear of the Lord, without teaching them the Scriptures? Paul said that Timotby had known She Scriptures from his youth. Was he taught the Scriptures or was it a divine gift at birth? In conclusion, I will say that I believe that Christian parents should teach their children to read the New Testament, at least, and hold family prayer at night before retiring, and the father should return thanks at each meal, and every church ought to have meeting, either preaching or prayer meeting, every Sunday. Who would think of keeping a flock of sheep and only visiting them once a month and feeding them? Please answer in The Primitive Baptist. W. S. Gross. Winslow, Ark.

OUR REPLY

Neither Christ nor the apostles ever organised an association as a separate body or organisation from the church, that we have ever been able to find any account of. It is Scriptural for churches to meet together for mutual worship and the service of God, for their mutual edification. This may be called an association, for churches are thus associated together for worship. An association as a higher court, or as a separate organization from the church, we deem to be unauthorised by the Scriptures.

Most all divisions and troubles in the church are brought about by the preachers. Preachers are at the bottom of nearly every division. Troubles are often taken to the associations, where they have no business. They should always be settled at home, in the churches.

Alexander Campbell was once a strong defender and advocate of the doctrine of predestination and the sovereign choice and election of grace. He said the church, or kingdom, was with the Baptists.

We now have the London Confession of Faith in press, and will soon have them ready for sale in pamphlet form.

It is a fact that Missionary Baptists will get on the Old Baptist platform when debating with Campbellites. If they believe the doctrine they contend for when debating with Campbellites, then why do they, and how can they, debate with us? And if eternal salvation is wholly and altogether of grace, and the Missionary Baptists believe it, then why do they tell us that the alien sinner must hear and believe the gospel in order to his salvation? Why do they tell us the heathen are dying and going to an endless hell by the multiplied thousands every day for want of the preached gospel? Why do they have their ponderous mission machinery for the salvation of the world, if salvation is wholly of grace, and if they believe it is? We know of no authentic history which says the church observed the communion supper at most every meeting. History may say so, but we have not seen it, that we remember of now.

We think, as we have often stated, that washing the saints feet is enumerated in the catalog of good works, and the Saviour says, "Ye ought to wash one another's feet." A child of God, or a church, may neglect to do their duty, and still be a church.

People are not commanded to raise their children up in the fear of God. The Lord's children are commanded to bring up their children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, not the fear of the Lord. They are not commanded to send them to Sunday school for others to bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, but they are commanded to thus bring them up themselves. The object of the Sunday school is to prevent people going to hell, by training them up to make Christians of them. Their home in heaven does not depend upon the training men give. It is right for parents to teach their children to read the Scriptures, but the Scriptures are not taught in the modern Sunday school. The doctrines and commandments of men are taught there. They teach false doctrines. If you want your child taught false doctrine, send it to a Sunday school, and you will surely accomplish that end. You cannot teach your child, or any other child, the spiritual import of the doctrine of grace, and you cannot teach them to love that doctrine; neither can you teach them the sweetness of it, unless the Lord has already regenerated their hearts by His Holy Spirit; but you can teach them to read the Scriptures, and thus teach them in the letter of the truth.

We think family worship has, perhaps, been much neglected by some. We have known father many times in our childhood days to call the family together around the fireside at night, and then read some portion of God's word, then bow in humble prayer at a throne of grace. Those times are remembered by us now with a feeling of gladness. We do not think the Bible says how often a church should meet, but we are commanded to meet often together. We think they should meet as often as they very well can. C. H. C.

Mark 3:14,19

---May 30, 1911

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-I wish to ask you to give your views on ((4) (Mark 3:14,19)). The question I am bothered on is in what sense Judas Iscariot was ordained. Your brother in hope, O. L. Weatherpord. McLeansboro, Ill.

REMARKS

((4) (Mark 3:14) reads, "And He ordained twelve, that they should be with Him, and that He might send them forth to preach." The nineteenth verse reads, "And Judas Iscariot, which also betrayed Him: and they went into an house." The Saviour ordained twelve, and Judas Iscariot, the traitor, was one of the twelve. The ordination here mentioned was not unto eternal life, but unto the ministry, "that He might send them forth to preach." Judas obtained part of the ministry. See ((7) (Acts 1:17)). "Then He called his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases. And He sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick."-(Luke 9:1-2). Here it is said He sent the twelve to preach the kingdom of God, and Judas was one of the twelve. He must have been ordained to preach. He was not ordained to eternal life. He was not a child of God, in our humble judgment, for he was a traitor, a devil. The fact that he was ordained to preach does not prove that he was a child of God. This is our humble opinion. C. H. C.

1 Timothy 3:12

---June 6, 1911

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-I would like to have your views on (I Timothy 3:12) through our paper, The Primitive Baptist. Your brother in Christ, R. S. Matheny. Idalia, Mo.
REMARKS

The apostle is giving the qualifications of a deacon in the place the brother refers to. In (I Timothy 3:8) he says, "Likewise must the deacons be grave," etc. (I Timothy 3:12) says, "Let the deacons be the husbands of one wife, ruling their children and their own houses well." Under no consideration should a man be ordained to the office of deacon who has two living wives. He should be the husband of one wife, only. He should be one who rules his own children-not as a tyrant, but as a loving father. He should be one who rules his own house. The man is the head of the family, according to God's appointment and arrangement, and he should fill that position in his family if he is ordained to the office of deacon. C. H. C.

Matthew 18:14

---June 11, 1911

Brother Jas. H. Moore, of Blountsville, Ala., requests our views on (Matthew 18:14), which reads, "Even so it is not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish." In (Matthew 18:12-13) the Saviour uses an illustration-a man having a hundred sheep, and one goes astray, he leaves the ninety nine and goes in search of the one that has gone astray. It is not the will of the shepherd that the sheep perish, although it has wandered away-gone astray. He goes in search of the stray sheep and finds it and brings it to the fold. Just as it is not the will of the shepherd that this sheep should perish which has gone astray, even so it is not the will of the heavenly Father that one of His little ones perish. If the shepherd will go in search of the stray sheep, will not our loving heavenly Father also find His little ones and bring them into His fold? Will He not keep them from perishing? He preserves and keeps them, and they are "kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation, ready to be revealed in the last time." This is a sweet and soul cheering doctrine to us in our sorrows and distresses here. C. H. C.

2 Peter 3:9

---June 13, 1911

Brother Jas. H. Moore, of Blountsville, Ala., requests our views on this text, which reads, "The Lord is not slack concerning His promise, as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to us ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance." Our views were given on this text in our debate with Elder I N. Penick, but we suppose Brother Moore has not read that. Some men count the Lord being slack concerning His promise. Note that it is promise, not promises. God's promise is eternal life; see (Titus 1:2); (I John 2:25). If God is not slack concerning His promise, and the promise is eternal life, then He will give eternal life to every one embraced in the promise. He is "longsuffering to usward." Who are the usward? Those characters to whom He has made the promise. "Not willing that any should perish." Not willing that any of whom should perish? Not willing that any of the "us," to whom He made the promise, should perish. Then, as God is not willing that any of them should perish, and His promise is to give them eternal life, He will bestow that life upon them, and not one of them will ever perish.

"Not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance."
God's will is that all these characters, to whom He promised eternal life, should come to repentance. Those who repent are led to do so by the Spirit of God. See (Romans 2:4). It must necessarily, therefore, be true that every one embraced in the promise of God, every one to whom He has promised eternal life, will come to repentance, for they will all be led thereto by the Spirit of God. C. H. C.

. It must necessarily, therefore, be true that every one embraced in the promise of God, every one to whom He has promised eternal life, will come to repentance, for they will all be led thereto by the Spirit of God. C. H. C.

Feet Washing

---June 20, 1911

Brother W. H. McClain, of McKenzie, Ala., requests us to write a few words on this. We will just answer his query without quoting his language. The Saviour says in (John 13:14), "If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet." That is, each of you should wash the feet of another. In our country it is customary for one brother to wash the feet of another, and then that brother wash his feet. That is to say, A will wash B's feet, then B will wash A's feet. We never saw what some call "ring washing"- that is, A wash B's feet, then B wash C's feet, then C wash D's feet, and so on, around. We never saw it practiced that way. However, we cannot say that it would make any material difference, but we never saw it. C. H. C.

That Challenge

---June 20, 1911

We are in receipt of a little leaflet published and sent out by C. H. Cayce setting out a proposition which he seems to want to debate with some one. We do not know why he sent us a copy of it unless it was to remind us that he is still alive and out of a job. We will say for Elder Cayce's encouragement that we have no objections to him debating his propositions if he can get some one to meet him who has nothing to gain or lose but like himself just wants to "scrap." The Primitive Baptists have never been in the habit of hunting up debates and when we engage in one it will be in defense of what we believe and not what some one else says we believe. Elder Cayce does not debate the differences between the Predestinarian Baptists and the Conditionalists; Bro. Carnell of Illinois tried him on that and he became conspicuously silent. Elder Sikes asked him to get in the ring in Tennessee and he would not even talk about it. He cannot make any one, who has been keeping up with him, believe that he would debate the real issues between us with an Old School Baptist at all. Of course there must be something to counteract the effects of the terrible Waterloo which their cause met in Tennessee when Elder Sikes turned such a fusillade of truth loose on it that their champion, Elder Thompson, acknowledged that he was overwhelmed with the Scriptures. When Elder Cayce failed to respond to Brother Sikes invitation to take the place of the man they pulled down at Taft, Tenn., we conclude that he either failed to get his own consent or the consent of his own brethren to do so and in that case we think there is no justifiable ground for giving him further consideration.-H. P.

OUR REPLY

The above is from the Advocate of Truth, June 1, 1911, published by Elder J. R. Hardy, Silverton, Texas. We sent him a copy of our challenge, which was published in The Primitive Baptist some time ago.

No, we are not out of a job, but we admit that we would be pleased to have an easy job, and we have thought it would be an easy job to debate with one of Elder Hardy's kind. Elder Capnell, of Illinois, has not tried us. That statement is untrue. If any representative man among you will accept our challenge, you will sure get a debate. As to Elder Sikes asking us to "get in the ring" in Tennessee, Elders Sikes and Hardy both know that the discussion in Tennessee was the affair of another party -and not ours. We are not going to meddle with the affairs of others. Elder Sikes refused, any way, to discuss the second proposition in our challenge. Elder Sikes had no right or authority to ask us to take another man's place in that discussion. Besides, the proposition was not signed by us, and the time was all set without our knowledge. We were informed of the time just a few days before the discussion was to begin. There is justifiable ground for your people meeting the challenge, or showing good reasons why they should not. WE CHALLENGE THE WHOLE FRATERNITY TO FURNISH THE MAN to meet us on the propositions submitted. They are plain, fair, clear cut propositions. You are a set of religious cowards if you fail to meet the issue. C. H. C.

Adultery

---June 20, 1911

Brother W. H. McClain, of McKensie, Ala., requests our views on this question: A woman has two husbands. The first quits her. She lives with the other and gets along all right. Now, the question is, Is it right for the church to take her? Our answer is, No. Our views have been given several times on this question. We know that some churches do sometimes retain members, who are thus living in adultery, but it is positively a violation of God's law, and no church can violate God's law and escape the penalty. Trouble and confusion will result sooner or later. C. H. C.

Romans 7:1-3

---July 4, 1911

We are in receipt of a letter which states that three churches in Texas want our views on (Romans 7:1-2,3), asking what kind of life is under consideration. The letter also states that "a woman and her husband separated; he went off and married, and she married also. Now the question is, can they hold her in fellowship and be in order?"

In reply we would say that the text referred to plainly refers to the law concerning a man and wife. Under the law of God a woman is bound to her husband as long as they live. But if the husband dies, then the woman may marry another man, and she is no adulteress on this account. The law of God allows every man to have one wife, and every woman to have one husband. If the man leaves his wife and marries or joins himself to another woman, then he is dead to his wife. He is a fornicator or adulterer, and she should put him away, for it is wrong for her to live with an adulterer. He is dead to her. It is our humble opinion that if a man leaves his wife and goes with another woman, she has a Bible right to marry again, and may be retained in the church, for her former husband has become dead to her. Suppose her husband is an adulterer, should she continue living with him? Certainly not, for in doing so she would be equally guilty. Then she should be commended for not living with him. He is not a husband, truly, any more. She has no husband in the true sense. There is no law which would deprive her of the privilege of a husband. Hence, there is no law that would deprive her of the privilege of marrying again. There is only one Bible reason why one should put away a husband or wife and marry again, and that reason is adultery. We have repeatedly expressed our opinion on this question. C. H. C.

Jonah 3; Jonah 4:11

---July 4, 1911

Elder C. H. Cayce: Dear Brother-If it is not asking too much of you, will you give your views on ((0) (Jonah 3:10))? After He had commanded Jonah to go to Nineveh and preach to the people and told them after forty days the city would be overthrown, and God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way, and God repented of the evil that He had said He would do unto them, and He did it not. I haven't any light on this Scripture-that is, how God repents. I understand that they were a chosen people of God, and Jonah's preaching accomplished just what God intended to accomplish, and He knew that they would repent. I don't understand God to repent as a penitent repents on account of sin. Please explain, and oblige a poor, weak, sinful brother, if a brother at all. Yours in hope of a better world, C. C. Smith., Rawles Springs, Miss.

REMARKS

We do not understand that God repents as a man repents. In (Malachi 3:6) the Lord says, "I change not." In another place it is said that the Lord "is not man, that He should repent." The people of Nineveh repented at the preaching of Jonah. They turned away from their wickedness, and lived as God had commanded and required. As they did this, the Lord did not visit them with chastisement and destruction. This was according to His law and promise, as is clearly shown in ((8:25) (Ezekiel 18:25-28): "Yet ye say, The way of the Lord is not equal. Hear now, O house of Israel; Is not my way equal? are not your ways unequal? When a righteous man turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, and dieth in them; for his iniquity that he hath done shall he die. Again, when the wicked man turneth from his wickedness that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive. Because he considereth and turneth away from all his transgressions that he hath committed, he shall surely live, he shall not die." The Lord's dealing with Nineveh was in perfect harmony with this law and promise which He had made. He did not repent, or change, as man repents, but was faithful to fulfill His promise and maintain His law. C. H. C.

Wheat and Tares Again

---August 8, 1911

To make the separation of the wheat and tares to mean the final wind up of time, at the resurrection, is to make the resurrection of all and separation of the sheep from the goats, a work done through instrumentality. We would as soon believe and teach that God regenerates sinners through the instrumentality of ministers (angels) as to teach that He will resurrect them and separate them from the goats that way at the final wind up of all time.

Now, brethren, no matter how much you quibble, nor how much you quarrel about the matter, our statement remains true, whether you believe it or not, that the word world in the expression, "so shall it be in the end of the world," is translated from a word which means age, and never was used to denote mankind, neither part nor all the race. Now, this is a fact, and all your grumbling at our position will not change this fact. We have now said our say on the matter, and there is no use of all this continual stirring of a difference over a parable. C. H. C.

A Suggestion

---September 5, 1911

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother

May I not ask you if it would not be better for our paper and the cause generally to leave off so much of that private correspondence and dreamy articles and long obituaries, and in place of that use more editorials? It seems to me that there might be some improvement along this line. Sometimes we see articles commencing about this way: "My dear Brother Cayce, by your permission I wish to say to your many readers that for a long time I have had a desire to write to the many readers of your much loved paper, The Primitive Baptist. I know that if this desire is not of the Lord, then no good can be accomplished, neither can we be blessed in His name. But if this desire is of the Lord," etc., etc. Now, if all this was left off there would be more room for editorials and short articles from the brethren and sisters. I would be glad to see some improvement along this line.

REMARKS

The above was written to us recently as a private letter. We take the liberty of publishing same, leaving off the name of the writer. It contains some good suggestions. There is too much said along the line the writer speaks of-"by your permission," "if the Lord will direct my pen," etc. There is no use taking up space to say all these things. Many, very many, writers say, "you may publish this if you think it worthy, but if not, just cast it into the waste basket and all will be right with me." We usually leave such expressions out when we publish the articles, for they take up unnecessary space. Besides, we wonder if it is not sometimes said when it is not really meant; for sometimes if an article is not published very soon we receive a letter from the writer wanting to know why, etc., etc. And sometimes one will write, "Please stop my paper," if an article is not published soon. (Would you think it?) Sometimes some will even talk of starting a paper himself because of some reason like that.

We have thought that too many private letters are sent for publication in the paper. It is all right to publish private letters when they are real good, or contain matter of general interest; but when they are of no special interest to any more than the immediate family of the one who receives them, it is not right to consume space for their publication. It takes space for just a few which belongs to all the readers. We have some private letters on hand now that were sent us with the request to publish which we do not have space for. We cannot publish all that is written especially for the paper, much less all that is sent us.

Another thing we would mention just now is that it must be understood that the editor of a paper is responsible for what is advocated or taught in the paper. Parties often write asking our views on some passage of Scripture. If we give our views and someone happens to differ from us, they may then write a long article calling our position in question. Then we must publish the article, or else someone will charge us with being arbitrary, or think we want to impose our views as standard, when the party writing the article has not been called on, at all, perhaps, to give his views. But if he has, and such views do not agree with the views of the editor, who is responsible for what is taught in the paper, and if the article is published without comment from the editor, and someone who is not a regular reader of the paper and does not know the views of the editor reads the article he has a right to think the editor endorses it.

The writer's saying he will be responsible for the contents of the article can make no difference, for the reader of the article cannot know that the editor does not agree with the writer unless the editor says so. Then if the editor publishes the article it is his duty to say he does not see it that way, so that it may be known that the same is not his own opinion. Whenever a paper proposes to be an "open forum" it simply proposes that its columns are open for continual controversy, or else the editor proposes to have no views of his own for which he will stand- perhaps both, for correspondents may be in a continual controversy even if the editor says nothing. We hope our readers can understand this, and understand what we mean. We do not propose, at all, that the views of the editor of The Primitive Baptist should be accepted as a standard, but the paper should continually reflect the views held by the editor. He will be judged and measured by what is published in the paper. Now, we do want to make an Old Baptist paper of it, and we propose that Old Baptist doctrine shall be set forth and defended in its columns, as much as is in our power to have it so. For this reason we are under no obligation whatever to publish articles from others that set forth a doctrine in opposition. Some may say that this is cowardly; but if one thinks we are afraid to defend the doctrine we hold to, he has only to try us to see whether we will meet representative men to defend our principles.

But now let us all try to make some improvements. We appreciate the suggestions made by the writer of the above letter and give space for it in the paper and have said our "little say" for the consideration of all our readers.

There is one more thing we want to mention, which is this: We are requested to write a great many private letters. We would like to do this when requested, but we feel sure that it would not be expected of us to do much writing of that kind if all could know the arduous duties resting upon us. We cannot enumerate them, but will say that we need your help and sympathy. Can we be assured that we have this? Many letters of sympathy and appreciation are received, and they all encourage us much to press on in the service. Will you all pray the Lord to direct us in the right way, and to sustain us and enable us to walk therein? C. H. C.

Concerning Organs

---September 12, 1911

We have thought for some time that the brethren in some places were rather slow or slack concerning matters of this kind -in receiving into their midst those who hold to and engage in new measures that destroy the peace and fellowship of the churches where introduced. We desire peace and fellowship to abound in our churches, but peace cannot be had where such practices are continued. The churches in our section will not receive among them those who tolerate the use of instrumental music in the churches. Organs were introduced into worship by Papal Rome, and the church which adopts that practice simply follows Rome instead of Christ and the apostles, and churches here do not, and will not, fellowship it. We would especially call attention here to this expression which Elder Thompson uses: "We think it a duty to firmly oppose this departure-to tolerate it by mixing with those that favor it is no better than to practice it. We cannot believe that brethren oppose it seriously while they associate with those who practice it." This statement is just as true concerning any other departure or wrong practice as it is concerning this.

May the Lord direct us all in the right way, and enable us to walk therein. C. H. C.

Made It Plain

---September 12, 1911

Dear Brother-I have just finished reading the debate between you and Brother Penick. You put the strongest argument that I have ever had the pleasure of reading on that subject. I think any fair minded man would acknowledge the same. If Christ died for all the race of Adam, it looks as though they would all be saved. I think you make it clear to any unprejudiced mind. Brother Cayce, I have differed from several of the Baptist brethren on (Romans 6:22-23), "The gift of God is eternal life." I hold that Paul had reference in that to the death of all the race of Adam. Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law-not the Adamic transgression. That is the way that I understand it. If I am wrong, tell me my mistake, and I will be very thankful to be set right. I believe that everybody that Christ died for will be saved in heaven. Your brother in Christ, D.C. Bishop. Randle, Wash.

REMARKS

(Romans 6:23) says, "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Sin is the transgression of the law, and that is what we do. Death is what we get for it. We are Adam multiplied. Hence, Adam's sin is our sin. Death passed upon all men. (Romans 5:12). Without the intervention of mercy we are all lost. So far as the law is concerned there is no deliverance. The law condemns every violator, and we are all violators. But mercy interposes through what Jesus Christ has done, and thereby deliverance is brought to every one for whom Christ died. Hence, "the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." This is damnation by works and salvation by grace. Eternal life is God's gift-God gives it. Christ redeemed from under the curse of the law every one for whom He paid the redemption price, and through what He has done God gives them eternal life. C. H. C.

The New Birth

---September 19, 1911

Brother J. A. Cobb, of Bond, Ala., asks us this question: "When does the new birth take place? Is it at the time one is quickened, or is it when one is delivered from the burden of sin and guilt?" Different figures are used in Scripture representing the work of regeneration. Although different figures are used, they all represent one thing, and that one thing is becoming in possession of eternal life, or the impartation of that life. Becoming in possession of eternal life is represented in Scripture as a birth, as a resurrection, as a creation, as a translation, as a deliverance, etc. All these different figures represent the same thing. To quicken is to make alive from the dead. It is to raise up out of a state of death into a state of life. It is a resurrection. See (Ephesians 2:1-6). This is an instantaneous work. This is done by the Lord speaking to them, and when He speaks to them He imparts the divine life. See (John 5:25).

The lesson taught in all these figures is that the sinner is passive in receiving eternal life. We cannot very well get more out of a figure than is intended to be taught in it. The very fact that a child cries is unmistakable proof that a living child has been born. So when one begins to mourn on account of sin and to cry unto the Lord, begging for mercy, it is positive proof that he has been born of God. Then one may ask, "Why does he mourn if he has been born of God?" We answer, Because he does not know he has been born of God. When the fact is made known to him that Jesus is his Saviour and that he has been born of God, then he rejoices. The fact is one thing, and the knowledge of the fact is another thing.

Our brethren all agree that the sinner is passive in receiving eternal life, and that it is by the sovereign will and work of Almighty God. This is the fundamental point, and we are all agreed on it. We should not, therefore, cavil over the minor matters.

C. H. C.

Adultery Again

---September 19, 1911

Elder C. H. Cayce: Dear Brother-As I am a reader of your valuable paper, I wish to call your attention to a reply you made in The Primitive Baptist of June 20, 1911, to a question asked by Brother W. H. McClain, of McKenzie, Ala., and your reply in The Primitive Baptist of July 4, 1911, to the three churches in Texas. I heartily endorse your views in this last reply. There seems to be a conflict in the two replies. I do not say there is, but I would be glad for you to give an explanation for the satisfaction of myself and others. May the Lord bless you in your work, and keep you from all harm, is the prayer of your unworthy brother, B. J. Hornsby. Tallassee, Ala.

OUR REPLY

In our issue of June 20, 1911, the proposition was put before us this way: "A woman has two husbands. The first quits her. She lives with the other, and gets along all right. Now, the question is, Is it right for the church to take her? Our answer is, No."

If we understand the matter the woman married husband No. 1. Then he quit her because they did not get along. Then she married No. 2. She did not quit husband No. 1, but he quit her. There is no intimation that husband No. 1 went with another woman, but she married another man-husband No. 2. In such case she is an adulteress, and the church should not receive her or retain her in fellowship. But if husband No. 1 left her and married another woman, or went with another woman, then he is an adulterer and she should not live with him. He is dead to her, and she has a right to marry No. 2, and in that case she may be retained by the church. Adultery or fornication is the only reason our Lord gives or allows for a husband or wife being put away. We think you can now understand that our remarks in our issues of June 20 and July 4 are in perfect harmony, and that there is no conflict. In the Comforter for August, 1911, George D. Godard puts a question to us this way: "A lady member of the Primitive Baptist Church marries a man; he becomes hopelessly insane and is removed to the sanitarium; she asks and receives a divorce from said husband. Now, should she marry again, would it be Scripturally proper for her to be retained by the church? This question is asked not as a matter of criticism but that the answer may be considered." We unhesitatingly answer that she should not be retained by the church.

If our readers will again examine our editorial in the issue of July 4 they will see that our position is this: A man and woman marry. Then the man, whom we will call husband No. 1, not only deserts the wife but marries, or goes with, another woman. In doing so he becomes an adulterer. Our Lord positively teaches that adultery is a reason for which the marriage union may be dissolved, and it is the only reason the Scriptures give for doing so while the parties live. Now, as husband No. 1 has thus acted-gone into adultery, thereby scripturally dissolving the marriage union, and as the marriage union is dissolved, he is dead to the wife, and she is therefore loosed from the law of her husband. This being true, she has a perfect Scriptural right to marry husband No. 2, and if she has a Scriptural right to do this, then the church should retain her.

We trust we may now be understood. We have often expressed our view of this matter. At least, we have done so several times. Now, we state again that the only Scriptural right one has for putting away a husband or wife and marrying again is adultery, or fornication. If a man has a Scriptural right to put away his wife for fornication, or adultery, then he has a Scriptural right to marry again. For if he puts her away by Scriptural right, then he has no wife, and there is no law which forbids him having a wife; hence he has a Scriptural right to marry.

Since writing the above we find among our letters a question from Elder N. V Parker, of Walnut, Miss!, as follows: "Can the Baptists legally and orderly set apart and ordain to the work of the ministry a man whose wife has been excluded for fornication, and he still living with her and the church still holding the charge against her?" We will say that we would not want to help ordain a man who continues to live with a woman who is a fornicator. If the woman is guilty, and the man knows it, yet continues to live with her, we think he becomes party to the crime, or an adulterer, and we would not want to ordain one we thought to be living in adultery. This is sufficient for our readers to know what we think about the matter. But we will just put this question, and each reader can answer to himself: What would you think of a man who would continue living with a woman as his wife when he knew she was too intimate with some other man or men? Would he be any better than the woman? C. H. C.

Birth and Adoption

---September 19, 1911

Brother G. M. Birdwell, of Dunlap, Tenn., asks us to explain the difference between being begotten or born and adoption.

There are but two ways by which one can become a legal heir to an estate, or be brought into a family. One way is by birth and the other is by adoption. No one adopts his own child, for the child is already his by birth. This is true in nature. For one to adopt a child, he must take a child out of another family and receive it into his own family as his own child. Adoption, therefore, is the transferring of one from one family into another.

In the work of regeneration, or the new birth, the sinner receives the divine nature. He is born into the heavenly family, and is made akin to God. This is a work of the Holy Spirit upon the spirit, or soul, of the sinner. As stated, in this work the sinner is born into the heavenly family, so that when the body dies the spirit, or soul, goes to a place of rest in the presence of God. The body, being mortal, decays and goes back to dust. But it shall not remain that way. In the last great day the body will be raised again and adopted into the heavenly family. In (Romans 8:23) the Apostle Paul says, "And not only they, but ourselves also, which have the first fruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption, the redemption of our body." This seems to be very plain to us that the adoption is the redemption of the body. The body will be changed and received into the heavenly family. This is complete deliverance or salvation of the whole man -salvation of the sinner of Adam's race-the whole man, soul, body and spirit, finally saved. C. H. C.

Revelation 12:1-8

---September 19, 1911

Elder C. H. Cayce: Dear Brother-Please give me some light on (Revelation 12:1-8), particularly on the following:

1. The woman spoken of in (Revelation 12:1).
2. The child referred to in (Revelation 12:2).
3. The red dragon in (Revelation 12:3).

4. Does the heaven spoken of in (Revelation 12:7) have reference to the everlasting heaven, the home God has prepared for His children?
5. Was there never a devil until this war in heaven? People here claim that the devil was an angel in heaven until he rebelled against God and caused this war, then God cast this angel out and now it is the devil. Your sister, I hope, An Inquirer.

OUR REMARKS

Our opinion we are willing to give in a few words, as follows: 1. The woman spoken of in (Revelation 12:1), is the church. The heaven spoken of in that verse is the Jewish heaven or Jewish kingdom.

2. The child referred to in (Revelation 12:2) was Christ.

3. The red dragon, in (Revelation 12:3), was King Herod.

4 and 5. The heaven in (Revelation 12:7) does not refer to the place of the final happiness of the Lord's people. There is no discord, trouble or war in that place. If it referred to the place of ultimate bliss and glory, and there was a war in that place and some cast out of it, God's people would not be safe when they finally reach that place. Angels are messengers. The church is sometimes referred to as a heaven or "heavenly places."

There was war in the church and the dragon's angels were cast out with him. This was true in the establishment of Roman Catholicism. This is all figurative language and refers to the church and things that occur here, and not in ultimate glory. C. H. C.

The Commission

---October 31, 1911

On another page in this paper the following questions are asked us by J. S. Garrett, of Denton, Ark.:

1. To whom was the commission given?
2. If given to the apostles alone, and expired as they expired, where do we get authority to baptize?

It is not necessary to answer at length. We simply call attention to ((4) (Mark 16:14-15): "Afterward He appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen Him after He was risen. And He said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature," It stands out clearly that the antecedent of the pronouns them and ye must be the eleven. He said to the eleven, "Go ye." ((20) (Mark 16:20) says, "And they went forth, and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them."

In (I Corinthians 11:2) the apostle says, "Now I praise you, brethren, that ye remember me in all things, and keep the ordinances, as I delivered them to you." This shows that the ordinances were delivered to the church. Baptism is an ordinance; the ordinances were delivered to the church. Hence baptism is administered by the authority of the church.

The eleven were sent out by the personal call or command of the Saviour, the second person in the adorable Trinity. The ministers are called and sent out now by the Holy Spirit, the third person in the adorable Trinity.

We deem this to be a sufficient reply to these questions. We would now admonish the brother to go home to a people who contend for the truth as it is in Jesus. C. H. C.

Do You Mean It?

---November 21, 1911

At this distance it appears that the Taylor Cayce debate to be held at Salem Church, near Murray, Ky., beginning December 12, promises to be a right lively discussion of some very vital issues. Brother Cayce seems to think that he is fully able to do some Baptist preacher a job, but every time he happens to get hold of the wrong man. He has but little room to feel disappointed, for it has certainly become quite common with him to see his doctrine covered up by the truth of God's word.-Baptist Builder.

The above clipping is from the Baptist Builder, of which our neighbor, Elder I N. Penick, is editor. Hence, we ask, do you mean it? He says we happen to get hold of the wrong man every time. Well, yes, those who have read the Cayce Penick debate generally think Elder Penick was the wrong man, for he utterly failed to meet the arguments. What did he say about the following argument, which appears on page 197 of that debate:

First. "Whatever is essential as a gospel condition to salvation must be absolute, universal, indispensable and without "exception."-J. H. Grimes, in Baptist Standard of April 25, 1907.

Second. "The condition of salvation is faith in Christ."-J. A. Scarboro in "Geology," page 32. Third. Therefore, faith in Christ as an essential to salvation is absolute, universal, indispensable and without exception.

If faith in Christ, according to their own logic, their own argument, is an absolute essential to salvation and is universal and without exception, as the infant is unable to exercise faith in Christ, it absolutely, universally and without exception excludes the infants and leaves them out of salvation. You cannot reach the case of the infant with your plan of salvation.

We repeat the question: What did he say in reply to this? NOT ONE WORD.

The same argument is made again on page 344 as follows:

First. Whatever is essential as a gospel condition to salvation must be absolute, universal, indispensable, and without exception.-J. H. Grimes in Baptist Standard, April 25, 1907.

Second. The condition of salvation is faith in Christ.-J. A. Scarboro, in "Geology," page 32.

Third. Therefore faith in Christ as an essential to salvation is absolute, universal, indispensable, and without exception.

What is the conclusion? That no one can be saved unless he first has faith in Christ. And the brother has used the word faith all through this discussion in the sense of belief. Therefore, no one can be saved unless he believes in the Lord Jesus Christ. Then I offer this as another syllogism:

First. Faith in Christ (and I suppose you accept it, as you have said nothing about it) as an essential to salvation, is absolute, universal, indispensable, and without exception. You accept this as the conclusion in the first syllogism, because you have not replied to it. You have not undertaken to overthrow or disprove the premises.

Second. The infant is unable to exercise faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

Third. Therefore, the condemnation of the infant is absolute, universal, and without exception, and not one of them can ever enter the portals of eternal glory.

Did Elder Penick ever make any reply to these arguments? NOT ONE WORD. Yes, we got hold of the wrong man, indeed, to reply to arguments! This is not the only thing he failed to meet, but is a sample of many.

Again, if Elder Penick thinks it is such an easy going thing to overthrow our positions why would he not affirm in discussion with us the same proposition Elder Taylor is to affirm-that "Missions as taught and practiced by the Missionary Baptists are authorized by the word of God?" Elder Penick utterly failed to meet us on this proposition, although we insisted that he do so.

Again: If a debate with us always proves such a victory for your cause, why will you not take some hand in having some of those debates published?

You refused to help publish the Cayce Penick debate, or to take a lot of the books. Now, we will make you this proposition on that debate: If you will take 2,000 copies of them we will get out another edition on good book paper, bound in paper covers, so they can be sold cheap, and will get them out in good style, and will furnish you the 2,000 copies for 28 cents each, which is absolutely less than cost. Now, why not take 2,000 of them and dispose of them and thereby show the fallacy of Cayce's position? We guarantee Elder Penick ignores this proposition.

Again: We are making arrangements to have the discussion with Elder Taylor on the mission question taken down and published in pamphlet form. Elder Taylor refuses to take any of them, for reasons which he assigns to us. Through courtesy to him we do not publish his reasons. But we will make this proposition to Elder Penick, or the Builder: We will publish or print an additional 2,000 copies for you for 15 cents each, which is away below actual cost, if you will take them. Now, what do you say? If Elder Cayce's position is so fallacious, here is a splendid opportunity for you to show to the people the great good in your missionary enterprises and that your teaching is authorized by the word of God. We guarantee Elder Penick does not accept this proposition. Come across, neighbor. C. H. C. Note:-The debate with Elder Taylor was not published because the stenographers, after the first half day, said they could not get all that the speakers said, and Elder Taylor would not agree to correct the manuscript of his speeches. C. H. C.

Nashville, Tennessee

---November 21, 1911

The South College Street Primitive Baptist Church, Nashville, Tenn., was received into the Cumberland Association in September. We have been told that the association was an enjoyable meeting. This church has passed a resolution declaring non-fellowship for all men made institutions. They are plain old fashioned Old Baptists, and want none of the newfangled progressive measures that are being introduced in some sections. Neither do they want the doctrine that God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated all things that come to pass.

We have agreed to meet F. B. Srygley there in debate in December. The discussion will begin December 25, at night, and will continue each night during the week, closing Saturday night, December 30. The brethren in Nashville desire a good attendance of brethren from other places. C. H. C.

Question of Order

---November 21, 1911

Suppose a person holding a letter from an orderly Baptist Church should unite with the Methodists as a temporary expedient, still holding her letter, with a view of uniting with a Baptist Church when possible, would it be orderly for another Baptist Church to receive such a person upon her recanting or acknowledging her error?-or would such a person have to make acknowledgment to the church that granted the letter in order to be restored to fellowship?

ANSWER

A regular church letter of dismissal reads: "Brother" or "Sister A. is a member with us in good standing and full fellowship, and is hereby dismissed from us when joined to another church of the same faith and order." It is evident, then, that if a sister obtains a letter of dismissal from an orderly church and unites with the Methodists while holding said letter, she is amenable to the church which granted the letter; for she is not dismissed from them by the letter until joined to another church of the same faith and order. The proper place, then, for her to go in order to obtain fellowship among Old Baptists is to the church where she got the letter. She should go to them and make amends for her wrongs. C. H. C.

Questions

---November 21, 1911

We have been requested to answer the following questions through The Primitive Baptist:

1. Do private members of the church have a right to debate Bible subjects with other people publicly?
2. Should members of the church engage in musical entertainments?

To question one, we would say that any member has a right to contend for the truth in any honorable way-publicly or privately. We debated Bible subjects publicly before we had membership in the church, and we feel that we did right.

In answer to question two will say that it is, at least, a question as to whether members of the church should engage in musical entertainments. The object of the entertainment and the kind of entertainment would also have something to do with the matter. Some things are lawful, but not expedient. We think it seldom expedient for members of the church to engage in such things. C. H. C.

The Organ

---November 28, 1911

In another column in this paper is an article from Elder J. H. Oliphant on the organ. We heartily endorse all Elder Oliphant says. The organ is an innovation among our people, and innovations cause distress. The man who introduces and advocates the new measure or innovation is the man who causes the distress. This is universally true. There is no denying this fact. There are some left who are not willing to adopt the measures of old Rome, and we believe there will still be some when we are called away. The church is to stand forever, as our blessed Lord has instituted it. The candlestick may be removed from one locality to another; but the Lord will reserve some witnesses somewhere who will not now the knee to the image of Baal.

Affiliation with secret orders among our people is as much an innovation as the organ. And it is just as bad a practice or worse. All innovations among our people should be put down. Let us all stand together on the ancient order of God's house. We need each other, and should be willing to lay down all innovations and live together in sweet peace and fellowship. C. H. C.

Note.-As the article by Elder Oliphant, referred to above, so plainly expresses our views of the matters mentioned in the article, and as the subject is one that should concern our people all along the line, we have decided to insert his article in this book. Elder Oliphant was an able and highly esteemed minister. C. H. C.

THE ARTICLE

"If when he seeth the sword come upon the land, he blow the trumpet and warn the people, then whosoever heareth the sound of the trumpet and taketh not warning...his blood shall be upon his own head."

I do not want to be an extreme alarmist, but if this progressive spirit should prevail among us so that our people should use the organ in time of service, I think serious injury will be the result. From my heart I oppose it as a serious and dangerous innovation. It is a compromise with the world, a being "conformed to this world." It is turning from the "fountain of living waters," and hewing out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water. I realise my imperfection, but I regard it as an awful state of things among Primitive Baptists when there is a spirit of tolerance or forbearance for this innovation. A Primitive Baptist Church with an organ preacher in its pulpit is a self-contradiction. It is not primitive to have organs in church, but it is primitive not to have organs, especially for our people. An organ preacher will produce an organ party; and in fact when a church wants an organ preacher it proves there is an organ party there, even before the preacher gets there. When Baptists look with favor on the organ as a help in the worship, it indicates that they are tired of the "old ruts," and are ready to contrive some way to relieve our people of their unpopularity. "Remove not the ancient landmark which thy fathers have set." To move the corner stone so as to make your field bigger is a sin. Our fathers understood that the organ was not included in the ancient survey.

Should we now remove it so as to take it in? or, in God's name, should Baptists be silent and quiet while it is being done? "Remove not the old landmark, and enter not into the fields of the fatherless." Who ever heard of a contention among our people till the last year or two that the ancient deeds and "the faith once delivered to the saints" included the organ? It is new and recent that such a claim was set up. Where is the spirit of Hume, of Potter, of E. D. Thomas, and of Lampton? How was it that they failed to see the organ included in the old landmarks? It was not included in them, and the desire to set back the corner stone is of men. "In vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men." "Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded." Here is the line, and who is at liberty to go beyond this line? Or who can in good conscience be satisfied and silent while others are removing and obliterating this line? Let us quit ourselves like men and be faithful to Him that called us to the ministry. "Some remove the landmarks; they violently take away the flocks and feed thereof." In this mad effort to favor the organ the flocks are taken away and driven away, and the feed too. The milk of the word and the milk of His service is taken away, and instead thereof is carnal, flesh pleasing and world pleasing music, not included in the ancient landmarks. It is new and not ancient, and those who press it know that it will divide and scatter the flock. They know this and yet they press it, or meekly and tamely be still while others remove the corner stone.

The prophet said, "His watchmen are blind-they are all dumb dogs; they cannot bark, sleeping, lying down, loving to slumber." "Yea, they are greedy dogs that can never have enough." If the dog is silent, the intruder is satisfied with the dog, I am sure. Is it a little thing to divide churches? We are told to "mark them that cause division." Who is causing it in this case? Let us mark them if they love a carnal music better than they love the peace of God's house. To "mark" them, as here required, is to attribute to them the strife, the distress and the heartaches that go with division. They are responsible for it. The organ in church is Catholic in origin, and copied by the other churches. It wields its influence over the light-minded especially. It has been worn out by the fashionable churches, and their most intelligent ones are sick and disgusted with it, and now Primitive Baptists are talking for it. I said "Primitive Baptists." I had better not have said this. True Primitive Baptists are satisfied without it, and weep to see this restless, world pleasing spirit in our midst.

The prophet drew a sad picture when he said, "Woe be to the shepherds of Israel that do feed themselves. Should not the shepherds feed the flocks? The diseased have ye not strengthened; neither have ye healed that which was sick; neither have ye bound up that which was broken, nor brought again that which was driven away...But with force and cruelty have ye ruled them."

Who could think that the organ could be urged on our people without causing division? It has divided others; the Campbellites are divided all over the country on account of it; yet with absolute certainty that division will result elders press it, and others urge that we quietly let it alone; let it grow, and grow; we don't want it ourselves, but are willing not to meddle with it.

I do not believe that Primitive Baptists will do this; they will oppose it, reject it and keep it out of their pulpits. If they do tamely submit, and go along with it, I will feel that I have never known the dear Old Baptists. I have lived with them, labored with them, and suffered with them over forty two years; and I do not believe they will tolerate this departure, or act the part of "dumb dogs that cannot bark." My time is near its close, and I desire to be true the inch of time I am yet to stay here. I have been with our people in their trials, and where they were forced to speak out. I want still to stand with them and oppose this last innovation with firmness, unyielding, and yet in kindness. Brethren, let us be kind, and speak the truth in love. Let us be ready to make peace, "easy to be entreated;" but let us humbly and patiently speak out on this subject and encourage our tried elders that we are in the right in this matter, and God will bless us in our earnest efforts to preserve the truth in the world. Our dear children will love us all the better to see us stand up for the time honored principles of our fathers. The World can see when Primitive Baptists yield up their principles and turn their backs on the practice of our fathers; they can see it, and our children can see it. Let us keep this world pleasing thing out of our pulpits, and pray for dear, faithful and tried elders, that the Lord may bless them, and bless their labors and churches.

It is sweet at times to think that a few more stormy winters and we shall enter our eternal home; all our tears shall be dried, and we shall sweetly rest from our labors. Affectionately, J.H.O.

Elder J. V. Kirkland

---December 5, 1911

The following article is copied from the Baptist Flag, of November 30, 1911, published in Fulton, Ky. Comment is unnecessary. All our readers may now know where he has landed. It is only a pity that he did not go to the Missionaries several years ago. It will be observed that he was received by them on his baptism from our people. C. H. C.

ELDER J. V. KIRKLAND

We have read two or three notices that Elder J. V. Kirkland, Fulton, Ky., had joined the Missionary church. It was good news to us, for we regard Kirkland as a good and strong man. We met him third Sunday, and he told us he had only gone to another Baptist church by letter, was all. We asked him if Fayetteville Baptist church accepted him on his baptism and ordination. He answered in the affirmative. Well, now, has he joined us or have we joined him, which? One peculiar tenet of Baptists is that churches of Jesus are the only custodians of the law and ordinances. If granted, then what church of Jesus baptised and ordained Elder J. V. Kirkland? Brother Kirkland would have done this some years ago in this section of the country if such an opportunity had been open. A prominent preacher felt of this editor on that subject, as we were members of the same association, but we did anything else but encourage that kind of accessions. If men are not willing to enter at the same door with us, we are not ready to extend the hand of fellowship. There is not a Hardshell church in my knowledge that would receive Brother Kirkland back into its fellowship on a letter of recommendation from Fayetteville Baptist church. Hardshell churches are as strict as Baptist churches on claiming the exclusive right to churches of Jesus Christ. One thing is true, if Hardshell churches are churches of Jesus Christ, then Missionary churches are not, and vice versa, for they are unlike in faith and practice, as well as origin. Jesus Christ is not the originator of both kinds of churches. Morally and religiously Kirkland is all right, but the Flag can't accept his church, from which he came as a church of Jesus Christ, without unchurching itself, and we are sure Brother K. is too good a man to ask it. Our advice to Brother Kirkland, without being asked for it, is to go to the church at Fayetteville, Tennessee, and tell them plainly that you want the paraphernalia, or suit of a regular Missionary Baptist, and to stop any further quibbling that you demanded baptism and ordination at their hands, that you can be one in deed as well as in truth.

Close of Volume Twenty-Six

---December 26, 1911

This issue closes another volume of The Primitive Baptist. One more year has gone forever. Another milepost in our pilgrimage has been reached. Just at this time we do not feel sorry that another year's toils are done. We have passed through some sore trials during the year now closing. Our hearts have been made to bleed, and we have been bowed down in sorrow and distress. Many times we have felt to be "cast down, but not destroyed." We have felt to be much discouraged sometimes for different reasons. Our family has been visited again by the grim reaper, death, besides many of our dear and precious friends have also been called away. We miss them all. Besides the sorrows of this kind some brethren have been offended at our views on some points. Not long since we received notice from a brother that he and some others were going to quit taking the paper because they did not agree with us concerning the parable of the ten virgins, the parable of the tares, and the question of adultery. This seems to us to be rather exacting. We wonder if those brethren feel that they are infallible and cannot be mistaken? We have not thought of setting ourselves up as a standard to which all others must come. We allowed several others free expression of their opinion on the parable of the tares, and do not think less of a single brother who differed from us on it. This was their privilege. And just here we will say that in (Matthew 13:39-40), the word which is translated world is aionos. Liddell and Scott, the highest and best known authority on the Greek language, define the word as follows: "Lasting for an age, perpetual, everlasting, eternal." This being true it must be that the Saviour referred to the end of the age. Now, this is our view; yet no one is required by us to accept it. We do not fall out with any brother who may see the matter differently. But we are willing for anyone to take the above to any Greek scholar, and if he will say we are wrong, and show it, we are ready to give up the opinion. But we are not ready to give up our view unless the meaning of the word can be shown to be different. Notwithstanding this, we are willing to accord every brother the privilege of differing from us concerning it, for no vital matter is involved. We feel the same way concerning the parable of the ten virgins. We do not believe any one man fully and rightly understands all the parables. Shall we make a correct understanding of every portion of Scripture a test of fellowship? If so, who is to be the standard? Who understands it all? Who has the correct view of every passage? Who can afford to say he knows his view is correct and that he understands every passage? If we are not willing to allow one to differ from us on any matter of this kind, do we not say that we are the standard, and that all others must come up to the mark we have made and set? On the question of adultery, some say we are too severe, while others say we are too lax, or too loose, and not severe or strong enough. So, now what are we to do? If we are wrong, we are sure both the other sides cannot be right-for they differ also. Can we do better than "stand between," and grant them the privilege of differing from us? We are sorry, indeed, if our dear brethren are going to be offended at us because of our honest convictions. We trust the brethren who have written us as they have concerning these things will think of these matters, and that they will be willing to bear with us in our own imperfections and weaknesses, and not feel like casting us off because we have not seen everything just as they have. We have no disposition whatever to agitate any question that causes strife and confusion in our beloved Zion, and will not do so when we know it.

We know we have made mistakes. We make them every day. We regret them more than anyone else can. We are sorry for every mistake we have ever made. We desire more than we can tell to be free from them and to make them no more. We humbly trust the dear brethren and sisters will still look over our mistakes and short comings. They have been kind and good to us in the past. They have been far better to us than we feel to deserve. We are drawn closer and closer to them by their many words and deeds of kindness as the days, weeks, months and years go by. They are dearer to us, with the cause they are identified with, than all the world. We would rather give up all this world than the love and fellowship of the Old Baptists. We feel that we are glad to wear out in their service, if it may be God's holy will. The past year has been another one of toil, and many times have we toiled until a very late hour at night; but we do not regret even one moment of the time spent in that way. We delight in the service of the Master, and we delight in trying to serve His precious jewels, too.

Again, we humbly beg the dear brethren and sisters to pardon our mistakes of the past, to look over our imperfections, and to accept the gratitude and thanks of our poor heart for every word and act of kindness shown to us in the past; and, above all, to please remember us in your petitions when at a throne of God's rich, free and reigning grace. Now, for the year 1911, we bid you farewell, praying the Lord's blessings may rest upon every one of you. C. H. C.

1912

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME TWENTY-SEVEN

---January 9, 1912

With this issue we begin volume twenty seven of The Primitive Baptist. We feel to enter the new year with renewed hope and courage to fight on in the warfare for truth. The great fundamental principles of truth are dearer to us as the years go by. We are more and more confirmed in the belief that salvation from sin is by grace and alone of the Lord. We still feel a desire to faithfully contend for the same principles we have been contending for, but our desire is to do this in humility and love. If we know our hearts we love these eternal principles of truth, and we love the Lord's dear children. We love those who believe and advocate the doctrine of grace. We also believe that many of God's little children are deluded, blinded and led astray from the truth by false teachers and leaders. We love those who are thus led astray, and desire that they be taught the truth, and thereby led out of the delusion they are in. We sympathize with them—we do not hate them. We desire to earnestly, yet lovingly, contend for the truth and endeavor to show them the right way, as we see it.

We are still satisfied to be simply a plain old-fashioned Old Baptist. We want none of the new inventions of the day. The works of men are all imperfect. The ways of men are wrong. God's work is perfect, and His way is the right way. His way is good enough. We cannot improve upon God's way. No man can make a perfect way any better. To add to or to take from is to mix imperfection with it. Let us not try to do that. Let us ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein. In doing this we will find rest. Sweet peace, union and fellowship will then abound. Let us try to seek for the things that make for peace, and the things wherewith one may edify another. Let us not strive about words to no profit. Let us not make a brother an offender for a word. Let us humbly walk in obedience to our blessed heavenly Master, who has done so much for us. Let us not look for faults in our brethren. If we do, we will be sure to find them, for we are all imperfect creatures. Let us remember that "charity thinketh no evil."

Let us try to throw the mantle of charity, over each other, and watch over each other for good and not for evil. Let us all remember, when we see a brother do wrong, that we might under similar circumstances do even worse than he has done, and thus let us endeavor to convert the brother from the error of his way. Let us bear with each other, remembering that we need to be borne with, as we also have faults. Let us all strive during this year to help each other, and not to destroy or pull down. Let us try to pull together, as a company of horses in Pharaoh's chariot, with an eye single to the comfort and benefit of each other, the advancement of the cause and the kingdom of Christ and the glory of God.

We feel that our physical strength is giving way to some extent, at least. But we do not feel like we want to quit the field while we stay on earth. We feel that we are willing to wear out in the service of the Lord and in the service of His dear people. We feel that we do not count our life dear to ourself, so we finish our course with joy, and the ministry which we have received of the Lord Jesus.

We need your help, dear brethren. Oh, will you still remember us in your prayers? Will you earnestly and fervently pray the Lord to sustain and direct us in the right way? The encouragement we have received in the past has been more help to us than we are able to tell. We still need the help and encouragement of the Lord's dear children, and we need the sweet influence and direction of the Holy Spirit, and we need the Lord's sustaining grace. By the Lord's help and the help of the dear brethren we desire to conduct The Primitive Baptist in such a way that it may be a benefit to the Lord's dear children. Please write us about your good meetings. The brethren all want to get good news of that kind. If you have troubles and confusions in your churches, do not write us about that, but settle them at home. The brethren do not want to hear about the confusion, and it does no good to publish such things. Our enemies rejoice when they see and hear of confusion in our ranks. Let us settle such things at home. It is never necessary to publish such matters unless it is something which concerns the brotherhood in general. Almost all our troubles can be, and should be, settled at home. Let us remember these things.

May our loving Saviour shower down His rich blessings upon every one of you, is our humble prayer. Again we ask you to pray the Lord to direct and sustain us. C. H. C.

Adam's Death

---January 16, 1912

On another page of this paper will be found a letter from J. T. Matthews, in which he asks what state Adam was in before he transgressed God's law, and if he was anything more than a natural man, and was the death a spiritual death, or was he in possession of the Spirit.

When God made the man He made him a natural man-a complete man, composed of soul, body and spirit. It takes the three (soul, body and spirit) to constitute a complete man. The man was not a fit subject for heaven, for if he had been God would have placed him there. God made no mistake, and placed the man in the garden of Eden, where he was capacitated to live and enjoy the blessings of his Creator so long as he obeyed His law. The man was morally good and upright as he came from the plastic hand of his Creator.

In his transgression he lost that moral uprightness-he was separated from it. Death is a separation. He lost all moral standing with God. He did not lose a heavenly life, for he never had it to lose. As before stated, he was not capacitated for heaven; and he stood as much in need of a higher order of life before the transgression in order that he be prepared to live in and enjoy heaven, as we need it today. But we not only need the higher order of life in order that we live in heaven, but we also need atonement, or reconciliation, or satisfaction for our sins. Hence, as we see it, Adam was simply a natural man, composed of soul, body and spirit, with good moral standing before God before the transgression. In the transgression he lost all this moral standing, became corrupted, poisoned and contaminated with sin.

We do not give this as standard, but simply our view of the matter. C. H. C

1 Corinthians 7:15

---January 16, 1912

Mrs. T. S. Murrie, of Willing, Okla., asks our views on this passage, and asks if it gives a right to get a divorce and marry again. We have repeatedly stated in our columns that there is only one Scriptural right to put away a husband or wife, and that is for adultery or fornication. This is our opinion of the matter, and is as plain as we know how to say it. The text above referred to does not, nor cannot, contradict the Saviour's teaching, which is that no one has a right to put away a husband or wife for any other reason than that of adultery or fornication. To try to justify one in doing so by this text is simply to try to justify one in doing what the Saviour positively teaches they have no right to do.

If the unbelieving wife departs the husband is not bound to live with her. That is all (I Corinthians 7:15) teaches. But he is bound to keep himself in a position to be reconciled to her. See verse II He has no right to put her away for this reason.

We trust our position may be understood now. We do not propose that our views are infallible, but we are willing to give them when necessary, or when called on. C. H. C.

More Proof

---February 13, 1912

Next Sunday the new $65,000 church at Woodlawn, Ala., will be occupied for the first time by the congregation of 850. Dr. W. M. Anderson is the pastor who has made this achievement possible. The above is clipped from a column in the Baptist and Reflector, of February 1, 1912, headed, "Among the Brethren, by Fleetwood Ball." Now, here are these Softshells spending $65,000 for a fine meeting house when a plain cheaper one would do as well, and the heathen going to hell by the thousands every day for want of the gospel-so they tell us. They say it costs just the small pittance of ten cents to evangelize a heathen. At their own "market price" the money spent for this house would have saved 650,000 souls if it had been put in the foreign mission channel. Will a just God send all those heathens to hell on this account and then save the proud builders of that fine house? We doubt it very much, even if their doctrine is true. C. H. C.

Who Are Asleep?

---February 13, 1912

From the Baptist Builder of January 17, 1912, we clip the following, which appeared in that paper under the heading of "Penick's Points:" We can easily see how our Hardshell brethren have gone to sleep on missions, since their leaders like Bro. C. H. Cayce are teaching them that they are no more responsible than infants and idiots.

This Softshell frog or tadpole thinks that the people he stigmatizes as Hardshells are asleep, but he will not agree to take a lot of the books (Cayce-Penick debate) and try to dispose of them so that the teaching of the two may be read and compared by his people.

But the following statement from the Baptist and Reflector shows who are asleep: The following is a condensed statement of the work accomplished by Texas Baptists during the past year:

Home Missions.....	49,035.07
Foreign Missions.....	61,976.04
State Missions.	124,413.18
Value of church lots secured by the missionaries.....	25,112.50
Value of church houses built in connection with labors of the missionaries
77,714.21
Ministers' Relief Fund.....	3,389.25
Miscellaneous objects.....	1,503.46

Grand total.....
$343,143.71

This was certainly a tremendous work.

The above shows what these Softshells did in Texas during the past year. They contributed for all purposes the grand, magnificent sum of $343,143.71. For missions, including home, foreign and state missions, they contributed the magnificent sum of $235,424.29! Now, is this not wonderful? According to the special reports of the Bureau of the Census there were 392, 184 Softshell Baptists in Texas in 1906, and if we are to credit the reports the Softshells send out concerning their increases, there must have been many more of them in Texas last year than in 1906. But we will grant that they did, at least, hold their own. Then 392,184 Softshells in Texas gave for all missions last year the wonderful sum of $235,424.29! This is a small fraction more than 60 cents each! "WHAT A TREMENDOUS WORK" Notwithstanding the smallness of the work done, these Softshells teach the people that the heathen are going to an eternal hell every day for want of the gospel! Such teaching does not "jingle" very well with such "tremendous" giving. Are they asleep? Or, do they believe what they preach? It is hard for us to think they believe what they preach. The object of such preaching is simply to get the people to contribute their hard earned dollars so corresponding secretaries, editorial secretaries, clerks and preachers can get good fat salaries. That's the meat in the coconut. C. H. C.

A Pleasure Trip

---February 20, 1912

Because of having been on his field such a short time Pastor Dodd has decided to postpone his trip abroad until March, 1913. At this time if God wills, the editor hopes to join him in a three months tour through Southern Europe, the Holy Land and Northern Africa.-News and Truths, Jan. 26, 1912.

The above clipping from the News and Truths, of January 26, 1912, gives us the information that Elder H. B. Taylor, of Murray, Ky., expects to make a three months tour in the East sightseeing. He will be accompanied by another Missionary or Softshell preacher. This trip will cost not less than three hundred dollars for each man, and more probably it will cost each one six hundred dollars. These men teach that the heathen cannot be saved without the gospel, and the heathen cannot have the gospel unless the people here contribute of their means to send it to them. They are great workers for the foreign mission cause in connection with the boards, conventions, and all the paraphernalia of all the Softshell fraternity.

J. H. Tucker, of Asheville, N. C, said in the Biblical Recorder that it costs ten cents to evangelize a heathen. See the Baptist and Reflector, of November 11, 1909. At ten cents each, six hundred dollars (the very lowest estimate we can make of the cost of this trip for these two men) would save six thousand heathen. Think of it! Six thousand heathen will suffer in eternal hell because these men use the money for a pleasure trip instead of putting the money in the missionary channel. Good Lord! will these six thousand heathen go to hell on this account? Would not the wrong party be sent there? C. H. C.

Luke 10:30-37

---February 20, 1912

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-I would like to have your views on ((0:30) (Luke 10:30-37)). What do you understand is meant by "going down from Jerusalem to Jericho?" "the oil?" "the wine?" "the beast?" "the inn?" "the two pence?" Dear Brother, I know yours is a hard place to fill; therefore we should be very careful not to wound the feelings of one of God's little ones. Remember me when at a throne of grace. Your unworthy brother in bonds, G. W. Wardell. West Salem, Ill.

REMARKS

We are willing to try to give our views for our dear brethren when called on if we have any settled views regarding the subject upon which our views are requested. In this instance the Saviour uses the circumstance of a certain man going "down from Jerusalem to Jericho" to illustrate or to teach who our neighbor is. The young man with whom the Saviour was conversing asked the question, "Who is my neighbor?" Then the Saviour uses the circumstance to show who the neighbor is. The priest nor the Levite, who came by, were not the neighbor. The Samaritan, who helped the man in distress, was the neighbor. This is the lesson intended to be taught in this parable, or in the circumstance the Saviour referred to. When we get the lesson taught or brought out in a parable or illustration of this kind, we have then obtained what is contained therein, and to try to get more from it is to try to get more than is intended. We have not seen the parable yet that we are able to make everything in it represent something.

We have often heard brethren preach who would take up some parable and "spiritualize" the whole thing-make everything in it represent something, and when they were through we could not tell, for our life, whether it was that way or not. Much of it is speculation. But regarding this parable, will say that we are not able to make "Jerusalem," "Jerico," "the oil," "the wine," "the beast," "the inn" and "the two pence" all represent something. The whole parable-the circumstance as a whole, not each part of it separately-teaches who the neighbor is.

In some places the church may be represented as Jerusalem. For one who is a member of the church to go into worldly institutions is to go down, as the man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho. It is a "down hill" road all the way from the church to the institutions of the world.

We trust these few thoughts may be blessed to the good of some of our readers. C. H. C.

The Nashville Debate

---March 5, 1912

The discussion between us and Mr. F. B. Srygley, which was held in Nashville, Tenn., beginning on Monday night, December 26, was taken down by a stenographer for the McQuiddy Printing Company, in Nashville, representing Mr. Srygley's side of the question. The agreement was that we might correct the manuscript of our speeches and approve the same before the book is published. We have already received and corrected the manuscript of several of our speeches, and returned them. So the work will be begun at once, if it is not already begun. We agreed to take a number of the books. The questions discussed were:

1. God gives eternal life to an alien sinner without a condition upon his (the sinner's) part, and the Scriptures so teach. C. H. Cayce affirmed and F. B. Srygley denied.
2. Faith, repentance and (water) baptism are conditions of pardon (or salvation) to an alien sinner, and the Scriptures so teach. F. B. Srygley affirmed and C. H. Cayce denied. Three nights were devoted to each proposition-two hours each night.

Mr. Srygley is considered one of the strongest debaters these people (Campbellites) have in this state. Our father met him three times in public discussion, and this was our second conflict with him. If you want to see the Campbellite claims put up as strongly as it is possible for them to be put up by one of their men in this part of the country, you want this book. If their teaching could be sustained, Mr. Srygley could do it. We hope many of our brethren will send us their orders now. Will you please see how many of them you can sell for us? We will appreciate anything you may do in this line. The price of the book will be only one dollar, and it will be printed in good clear type and well bound in cloth. It will be worth having in your homes, for your children to read.

We would appreciate it very much for all who can do so to send their orders now, and if you can do so, send the money, so we can have that much to help us to pay for them when they are ready for us. Will you please do what you can? Can you not sell as many as six or a dozen for us? Please let us hear from you at once. We want to be able to form an idea as to how many of them we will be able to dispose of. C. H. C.

Acts 8:33

---March 5, 1912

Elder C. H. Cayce:
Dear Brother

The Primitive Baptist is a great satisfaction to me. May you and the many other dear brethren continue in your great work, and be upheld and guided by our heavenly Master to comfort and instruct the Lord's dear people. I feasted on your good sermons while with us last fall. Hope to see you again in this life. The winter has been so severe that Brother Morris has not preached for us since last October. We are getting hungry to hear preaching. I am very unworthy of the crumbs, much less a bountiful meal, as is so often sent me. Please remember me when you pray. I am so very weak. I do wish I could live and act as becomes a child of God, but it seems that I cannot. I am always falling down, and am a beggar at Jesus feet. Please give your views on (Acts 8:33) through the paper. I will greatly appreciate same. Your unworthy sister in hope of eternal life, Mrs. W. M. Frost.

REMARKS (Acts 8:33) is a quotation from the prophecy of Isaiah. When Philip approached the chariot in which the eunuch was riding, he found the eunuch was reading the fifty third chapter of Isaiah. In this chapter the prophet was foretelling the work of Christ, His mock trial in the court, His death, and what He should accomplish by it.

"In His humiliation." The trial in that mock court was humiliating. The crown of thorns which He wore was humiliating. The purple robe which He wore was humiliating. The death He died was humiliating, being crucified between two thieves. He was forsaken by all His friends. He fought the battle all alone. No one was with Him to comfort and cheer Him. "Of the people there was none to help." He bowed His head and gave up the ghost. Now He is dead. "Who shall declare His generation? for His life is taken from the earth." The hope of those who had been with Him is now dead. How can His people live, now that Christ is dead? But, behold, on the third morning He rises again. He was not raised a dead man, but a living Christ. He fought the battle alone, and gained the victory over all His enemies, and over the enemies of His dear children -His generation.

He gained the victory over sin, over death and over the grave. He is alive now forever more. The victory which He has gained is given to His loved ones. "But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." He gives them perfect, complete and full victory-a wonderful and glorious victory. May that victory be yours, dear sister, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Elder Waters With Us

---March 5, 1912

Elder C. H. Waters, of Pindell, Md., was with us on the third Sunday in January and Saturday before. He preached on Saturday afternoon, Sunday and Sunday night. On Monday he went to Sandy Branch. The appointments at Bethel and Rock Spring were called in, on account of the extremely cold weather and bad roads. So Brother Waters returned to Martin from Sandy Branch, and preached for us again on Tuesday, Tuesday night and Wednesday. Then he went to Greenfield. His preaching here was both comforting and instructive, and was much enjoyed by our people. He was heartily received among us, and we trust he may have a mind to come again.

We were sorry that the weather was so cold and disagreeable-so bad that it was impossible for many to get out.

We should have made mention of this sooner, but it was purely an oversight. We trust it will not be taken as showing lack of appreciation of Elder Waters' visit. May the Lord bless the dear brother, and sustain him in all his efforts to serve the Master and His people, is our prayer. C. H. C.

Feel Thankful

---March 19, 1912

Dear Brother Cayce

Much has taken place since I have seen you, or heard you preach; but I want to tell you that I have not forgotten the many times I have listened to you proclaim the sweet old story of salvation by grace. Though it has been so long, it seems I can almost hear your voice while standing in old Harmony Church, your words flowing almost without an effort. It seems that you are led in other directions; but if ever your mind leads you to come to Harmony, we want you to come. The door is standing open, with an ever welcome invitation to you. We have such a dear good pastor, Elder Story. He is kind to all, faithful, and very interesting. We also have another precious young gift, Brother Scott, for which we try to feel thankful. The brethren and sisters are in good health, so far as I know, I have got through the winter so far very well, considering the weather and my age. I am now in my seventy eighth year, and have not had a cold this winter. Of course, I am never clear of some aches and pains; but my general health is good, for which I try in my weakness to thank our heavenly Father, that has been so kind and merciful to me, a poor old sinner who has never, it seems, done any thing that is worth His attention. But still in looking over my long and varied life, I see that His mercies have at all times been thrown around me, and now in my old age I am surrounded with manifestations of His love, and protected by His strong and everlasting arm. I hope this will find you and yours well. Yours as ever in love, W. F. Fuqua. R. 2, Farmington, Ky.

REMARKS

The above letter from this precious old brother was much comfort and encouragement to us. We appreciate so much such words from a dear old father in Israel.

Dear brother, we often think of you, and all the precious brethren and sisters of Harmony Church. That old church is dear to our heart. You do not know how anxious we are to visit you again, but it seems that duty elsewhere prevents. We are hoping the way may be opened for us to visit you this year. We feel to thank the Lord for the dear gift of Brother Story, who serves you as pastor, and also for the younger gifts He is blessing you with. Do not forget, dear brother, that these gifts should be nursed and encouraged. They have many things to discourage them. We believe, though, that you all realize this. May the Lord bless, sustain and keep you all, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Repentance

---March 26, 1912

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother

I want your views on repentance. Has God called on the world or the church, or both, to repent? "And they repented at the preaching of Jonas." Please answer, and oblige. J. W. Harwell, Enville, Tenn.

REMARKS

Gospel repentance is required of gospel subjects. God's people under the law often went away from the service which He required under the law. When they did so, they were required to repent. Hence "they repented at the preaching of Jonas." Those upon whom the tower in Siloam fell did not repent, hence they were destroyed-they perished. Under the law God's people enjoyed temporal blessings in obeying the law. They disobeyed the law and suffered temporal punishment. Under the gospel God's people are commanded to repent, or turn away from false worship or false service. They imbibe false notions and engage in wrong practices often. They are commanded to turn away from all such, and to render the service which God requires in the gospel.

The foregoing is our opinion expressed in few words, as to the repentance required in the gospel. There is also another way in which we may speak of repentance, thus: if a man (or woman) is guilty of immoral practice, such as drunkenness, cursing, swearing, card playing, or other such practices, he should repent-turn away from such practice and live a moral and sober, honest and upright life. Every man can do this, and the moral law requires it. C. H. C.

Here's A Mixture

---April 16, 1912

"Because strait is the gate and narrow is the way that leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it."-(4) (Matthew 7:14). "I am the door. If any man enter in by me, he shall be saved."-(John 10:9). "I am the way, the truth, and the life." "And an highway shall be there, and a way, and it shall be called The Way of holiness; the unclean shall not pass over it; but it shall be for those: the wayfaring men, though fool's, shall not err therein. No lion shall be there, nor any ravenous beast shall go up thereon, it shall not be found there but the redeemed shall walk there."-(0) (Isaiah 35:10). All the above quotations point to the selfsame thing. That Jesus is that "STRAIT GATE," is evident. "Neither is there salvation in any other, for there is no other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved."- Acts. STRAIT means difficult, and "STRAIT GATE" means that it is difficult to enter in at. It is so difficult that Jesus said, "With men it is impossible." There are but few that enter in at the "Strait Gate." "Wide is the gate, and broad is the way that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat."-(3) (Matthew 7:13). In this the Saviour gave a comparison. Many in our day boast of the broadness of their platform; and as the Saviour describes it, it is easy to get into, and not difficult to keep in it. Now as to the "STRAIT GATE," there are few that find it, says Christ. The same idea is supported by Paul in Romans, when he said, "Even so now at this present time there is a remnant according to the election of grace." When Isaiah spoke of the high way of holiness he meant Jesus, for He is the way to the Father, and this is God's way of holiness, for it is by Jesus, and of Him, and through Him we are to reach the Father. It is plainly shown by Isaiah who shall walk in the "Highway of holiness." It is the redeemed of the Lord. They are not holy in and of themselves; their holiness is of Christ, for His righteousness is imputed to them. The redeemed shall walk in the righteousness of Christ. No man will ever be saved any other way only through the righteousness of Christ. The obedience and righteousness of Christ is the good works ordained for the redeemed to walk in, "THE REDEEMED SHALL WALK THERE." Grace reigns through the righteousness of Jesus Christ unto eternal life. No man ever has, ever can, or ever will walk there only as the Lord leads him, "As many as are led by the Spirit of God, are the sons of God." Isaiah said the redeemed SHALL WALK THERE. It is hard for men's minds to be led to anything else but a legal base, hence the whole religious world who teach conditions for salvation repudiates Jesus Christ. "Strait is the gate and narrow is the way, and few there be that find it." P.

The above is from the Gospel News, published by Elder J. M. Perkins, of Mayfield, Ky., and is signed P., which stands for Perkins, we suppose. However, in this instance it could very easily stand for Presumption or Presumed, for it contains much that is presumed.

Note, that there are four paragraphs, according to his division, appearing at the head of his article. Then he says, "All the above quotations point to the selfsame thing." If the elder had given all of the first quotation his readers could have readily seen that his statement is unqualifiedly wrong, or else the gentleman must take the position that people are required by the Saviour to enter into Him. Further on he quotes a part of ((3) (Matthew 7:13)), but even there he religiously passes the first clause of that verse. The Saviour said: "Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because strait is the gate and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." Why did the Saviour admonish to enter in at the strait gate? He assigns the reason-"for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction."

In (Luke 13:24) the Saviour mentions the strait gate again. He says: "Strive to enter in at the strait gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able." According to Elder Perkins, the Saviour here commanded somebody to strive to enter into Him. Has Elder Perkins turned Campbellite? His statement and contention that the strait gate and narrow way refers to Christ and the way to eternal life is the Campbellite position precisely. Now, who is the Arminian
The statement that "the obedience and righteousness of Christ is the good works ordained for the redeemed to walk in," is such a glaring misstatement of the fact in the case that we are bound to believe the elder knows better. The good works the Lord has ordained, or prepared, for His children to walk in are the things which He has commanded them to do, and not the things which Christ came to do. He fulfilled the law. Do God's children do that? No! Christ did that for them.
Elder Perkins repudiates Jesus Christ, for he repudiates His teachings. May the Lord pity the man who will resort to such subterfuges to "bolster up" a false theory. C. H. C.

Hebrew Alphabet

---April 16, 1912

I have often wished to know what the terms Aleph, Beth, Gimel, etc., mean in (Psalms 119). Can you explain it briefly? May the Lord strengthen you and help you to give us as good a paper for 1912 as you did in 1911, is the sincere desire of yours in love, John V Martin. Box 5, Carl Junction, Mo.

REMARKS The words you refer to are the names of the letters composing the Hebrew alphabet. That alphabet was composed of twenty two letters, and those are the letters. C. H. C.

Questions

---April 23, 1912

Elder C. H. Cayce:
Dear Brother

I want to ask a few questions about some things that have been on my mind. I am sure the Old Baptists are the only people who preach a full gospel as I understand it, and I am sure also that if Christ has a visible church or kingdom on earth, it is the regular Old Baptists. The forerunner of our blessed Saviour was a Baptist and his mission was from heaven. He made ready a people prepared for the Lord, and I am not able to find anything in the Bible that gives the least hint that any of John's subjects were ever refused to be included in the churches of Christ that were organized from the day of Pentecost. If I am wrong in this, please tell me where and how I am mistaken. I understand also from history that the Greek church was made up largely of the people who were baptized by John the Baptist on a profession of faith, that they believed in Jesus the King of saints. Give me your views on this. Also, my dear brother, in (I John 2:19), what do you understand from that? Was it the Antichrist church that went out from the Baptists in the third century? That is what I understand John meant when he used the words "went out from us." I understand that the first Protestant church was the Catholic church that went off from the standard that Christ and His apostles set up. If I am wrong, I should be glad to be set right as the Word of God directs. From church history I understand that there were only two so-called churches for fourteen hundred years, and these were the Baptists and Catholics. Please help me to straighten this out. I understand that the Baptists were never a Protestant people. My dear brother in Christ, please correct any mistakes and answer through The Primitive Baptist. Yours in hope, D. C. Bishop. Randle, Wash.

REMARKS

The Saviour organized His church of material which John made ready by baptizing. The Lord had prepared them, and John made them ready. A church is composed of baptized believers. The Saviour organized His church of believers who were baptized by John. John was sent of God for this express purpose. There can be no reason, then, why those who were baptized by John should not be taken into the church.

Those who "went out from us," as John says, refers to those who depart from the truth. The Catholics did that in about the third century. That was the first "split off" from the church.

The Catholic church was never known as Protestant. The name Protestant was given those who protested against the corruptions of Rome at the time of the Reformation. Baptists were never what is really called Protestants, as they always were a separate people. The Catholics originated about the third century. The Baptists remained separate from them. These two bodies of people were the only "Christian" orders or churches until the Reformation. C. H. C.

Not Consistent

---April 30, 1912

While reading Wesley's Sermons the other day Pastor M. E. Miller, of Marion, ran across this statement on page 273 of Vol. 2, in his sermon on "The New Birth" and copied it and sent to us. Note it. "A man may possibly be born of water and yet not be born of the Spirit. There may sometimes be the outward sign, where there is not the inward grace. I do not speak with regard to infants; it is certain our church supposes that all who are baptised in their infancy are at the same time born again; and it is allowed that the whole office for the baptism of infants proceeds upon this supposition." That was Methodism in its beginning-baptismal regeneration straight for babies. But they have learned better than that in late years. So last year at Asheville in their Quadrennial Conference they reversed Wesley and their former teaching of baptismal regeneration and now say that babies are born into this world "heirs of eternal life and subjects of saving grace of the Holy Spirit." Was the old fashioned Methodism of Wesley's day right or is modern revamped Methodism right? One thing is sure, both can't be right, and a church that as completely reverses itself as Methodism has done one of its cardinal doctrines can't be in any sense a church of Christ. As a matter of fact Wesley was nearer right than modern Methodists. He was right in teaching that children are born in sin but wrong in saying that baptism regenerated them; while the whole ritual of modern Methodism is wholly wrong. Babies are born into this world children of wrath and not heirs of eternal life; and infant baptism is a relic of the dark ages gotten from heathenism by the Catholics and handed down by them through the Episcopalians to the Methodists. -H. B. Taylor, in News and Truths, October 27, 1911.

It seems that in October, 1911, Elder Taylor knew that infants were not saved by water baptism, and that they were not born pure and holy or without sin. But in our debate near Lynn Grove, Ky., in December, 1911, he said emphatically that he did not know how infants are saved. If he did not know how they are saved, how did he know they are not saved by water baptism? How can a man conscientiously or consistently say anything about what other people teach on a subject, when he admits his own ignorance concerning it? C. H. C.

Galatians 5:17 AND Romans 6:12

---April 30, 1912

"For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would."-(Galatians 5:17). "Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lust thereof."-(Romans 6:12). Brother Cayce, these two passages of Scripture seem to be a "tangled hank" for me. I wish you would unravel the hank for me through The Primitive Baptist. The first seems to be a positive declaration-"so that ye cannot do," etc. The second, as an admonition, seems to contradict the first by giving the saints power, or representing them as having the ability to obey-"let not sin reign," etc. Yours in hope of eternal life, Jake Owens. Speedwell, Tenn.

REMARKS

We do not think the two expressions referred to by Brother Owens are contradictory. In (Romans 6:12) the apostle admonishes the brethren to not let sin reign-do not follow the sinful inclinations and desires.

The expression in (Galatians 5:17) shows that the child of God is a complex being-he is in possession of two natures.

The flesh is the Adamic nature, which is a sinful nature. The Spirit is the divine nature, which he received in regeneration. When one is born of the earthly or natural parentage he partakes of the nature of that parentage, which is a sinful nature-the flesh or fleshly nature. Then when one is born of God he is born of the heavenly parentage, and partakes of the nature of that parentage; and that nature is divine. These two natures are contrary to each other. They are not alike. From this the warfare springs up. The child of God possesses these two natures-and these natures are engaged in continual warfare. The child of God has a desire to live a holy and sinless life. He desires to be entirely free from sin.

This desire springs from the divine nature which he received in regeneration. But he cannot attain to that state of perfection while he stays here, because he still has the same old sinful nature which he had before. He should, however, not follow the inclinations and leadings of that sinful nature by engaging in things that are sinful and wrong, but should follow the inclinations and desires of the divine nature which he now possesses. In (Galatians 5:16) the apostle says, "Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh."

This expression just precedes the one Brother Owens calls attention to. Certainly the apostle would not admonish the Galatian brethren to do this, and then in the next breath tell them that they could not do so. It is the duty of the child of God to walk in the Spirit, and thereby not to fulfill the lust of the flesh; but he need not expect to do this without a warfare. It will be a continual warfare, and he must fight on in order to continually do what the apostle admonishes here. He would like to walk in the Spirit without having to engage in a warfare, but he cannot do that. We trust these thoughts may be some help to you. C. H. C.

Two-Seedism

---April 30, 1912

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-

We would be glad to have you give your views directly on Paul's commission as spoken of by himself in (Acts 26:18). Also, can you explain to us what "Two Seedism" is, through the columns of The Primitive Baptist? Mrs. Lila Lockhart. Tennessee Ridge, Tenn.

REMARKS

We gave our views on the Scripture above referred to in The Primitive Baptist of September 25, 1906.

The doctrine of eternal Two Seedism is that in the work which we call regeneration, an eternal child, or eternal spirit, comes down from God out of heaven and takes up its abode in the Adam man, and remains in the Adam man until the man dies; then that eternal child goes back to God where it came from, and the Adam man goes to the grave and remains there forever. Thus the Adam man is not a subject of salvation. It is also taught that there are two families in the flesh-that Cain was a child of the devil by ordinary generation, and that Seth was a child of God by ordinary generation-that there are two families existing in the flesh-the family of God and the family of the devil, and that these two families have continued to exist all along from then until now. This is their teaching, although we have not learned how the devil got his family across the flood.

These are some of the teachings of the Two Seed system, which we think are enough to show that the system is false. C. H. C.

Answered Prayer

---May 7, 1912

In connection with the distribution of tracts, which we have been trying to do the last few months, we got permission from Joshua Gravett to have 10,000 copies of an article by him on "Salvation by Grace" printed. We suggested to one or two brethren that they could invest some of God's money no better way than that, but somehow the idea did not strike them. James' statement came to mind just then: "Ye have not because ye ask not." So we began to ask God for the money to get out the tracts. Last Monday morning we got a letter from California telling us, if we could use $50 or $60 in "our Lord's cause" to draw on the writer. Query: How far can God send money in answer to prayer for His own work? Somebody good in mathematics might answer.-H. B. Taylor, in News and Truths, April 19, 1912. Since the Softshells say that they could take the world for Christ if they had money enough, it appears to us that if they could only get Elder Taylor to pray for it, it would be forthcoming. Since Elder Taylor teaches that the heathen cannot be saved without the gospel, and the gospel cannot be sent for lack of funds, does it not look like Elder Taylor would pray for the funds to be sent? Does he pray for the funds for this object- to send the gospel in order to convert the world to Christ? It seems that if he has, the Lord has not answered the prayer. But he says the Lord sends the funds for the carrying on and accomplishing of His work. Then if Elder Taylor has prayed for the funds for the object mentioned, it must not be the Lord's work, as the funds have not been sent. C. H. C.

Is This The Doctrine of Primitive Baptists?

---May 7, 1912

(From Messenger of Peace.)

Elder W. I. Carnell, editor of the Predestinarian Baptist, late published at Eldorado, III, but in future to be published at Lebanon, Ohio, gives a statement of his belief in a recent issue of his paper which shows most clearly that he is not a Primitive Baptist, allowing the great body of the church to set forth her own faith. Of course Elder Carnell claims to be an "Old Line" Baptist, but anyone who is at all interested can find out what Old School or Primitive Baptists believe on the points for which he so particularly stands. It is not our purpose in this article to try to disprove Elder Carnell's positions, nor to try to prove the positions of Primitive Baptists to be correct; but to call attention to the fact that whether Primitive Baptists are right or wrong, Elder Carnell is not in line with them. He differs from Primitive Baptists on what man is. He claims that he has no indestructible spirit or soul, and if not resurrected as a child of God, will be utterly annihilated. He says of man's creation: "We maintain that God formed man (not part of him) of the dust of the ground, and that, instead of breathing a living soul into the man, he breathed into him the breath of life and he (the man) became a living soul." The London Confession of Faith says that man was created with "reasonable and immortal souls," (1689) and this idea has been reaffirmed in the United States up to the present time. If there is any history of Primitive Baptists that represents them as taking the position of Elder Carnell, we have failed to read it or see it cited. If there is a church in the United States that states this idea in its articles of faith we have not heard of it. Elder Carnell contends that when men and women die, the entire person, of whatever it consists, dies, and is consigned to the grave until the resurrection. He says: "We contend that men and women die, and that hour their thoughts perish; they cease to live until the great resurrection at the last day, when they shall be raised from the dead." He makes no distinction in the death of believers and unbelievers, until the resurrection, when those who are children of God shall be raised to life, and the lost resurrected to be annihilated, their existence wholly blotted out. It would appear from his position in regard to the children of God while in death, that he stands with some of the Campbellites and other orders who claim that men do not receive eternal life until the resurrection, that they only have a promise of it in this life, for if they are given eternal life in regeneration, as Primitive Baptists contend, then how could eternal life die and lie in the grave? If those who die and are buried have no life in any sense until the last day, the day of the "great resurrection," the disciples were deceived when they thought they heard Moses and Elias talking with Jesus about the death He should accomplish at Jerusalem, for according to the Scriptures Moses was dead. Who is there now living in Missouri and Illinois who remembers to have heard Elders Goodson, Priest, Branstetter, Dark, Van Meter, Potter and numbers of others in their day preach that the entire man, regenerate as well as unregenerate, lies in the grave dead until the resurrection? Were these soldiers of the cross Primitive Baptists? and did they understand what Primitive Baptists had always held on those points? The London Confession of Faith says: "The bodies of men after death return to dust {(Genesis 2:19); ((36) (Acts 13:36)} and see corruption; but their souls, which neither die nor sleep, having an immortal subsistence, immediately {(((7) (Ecclesiastes 12:7)} return to God who gave them; the souls of the righteous then being made perfect in holiness, are received into paradise, where they are with Christ, and the souls of the wicked are cast into hell, where they remain in torment and utter darkness, reserved to {((Jude 1:7) (Jude 1:7); (II Peter 2:6,9); (Luke 16:23-24)} the judgment of the great day." Elder Carnell contends that the wicked shall be annihilated and that there is no such thing as everlasting, conscious punishment. Primitive Baptists who have access to the articles of faith of the church of their membership can easily convince themselves that this is not the doctrine of the church they united with, as most of the articles read: "We believe the punishment of the wicked is everlasting, and the joys of the righteous are eternal." Whether the Old School Baptists are right or wrong it is easy to find that this doctrine of annihilation has not been, and is not now, the faith of the church. If the doctrine of heathen Buddhism (annihilation) is true, the Old Baptist Church is now, and has been wrong for centuries. Elder Carnell is not in harmony with the church on this doctrine, and he knows that he is not, and it is a matter of such importance that it has been mentioned as one of the articles of faith continuously. Elder Carnell may contend, in fact does contend, that he is right, and therefore contends that the Old School Baptists are and have been wrong, and have been blinded by tradition, which he says has entered the columns of "some of our periodicals and confuses the mind of many good brethren." Where did they get this "tradition?" The Primitive Baptist Church through her literature and ministry has been teaching ever since the church was instituted the everlasting, conscious punishment of the wicked, which argues that man in his creation is indestructible and lives forever; and has stood stoutly against the "soul-sleeping," or "no-soul" theory, that the entire being of men and women, and especially of the saints, goes into the grave and lies there until the resurrection. Either the church or Elder Carnell is teaching something the Bible does not warrant, and in fact which amounts to heresy, doctrinally. If the church is right, Elder Carnell should not be allowed to introduce his heresy in the church and publish it to the world as Primitive Baptist doctrine, and let the matter go unrebuked. Old School Baptists should inform themselves, if they are not informed, as to what is and has been the belief of the church, and then if they find themselves not in harmony with these beliefs, just leave the church; and either start a church of their own, or try to find one that some other man has started (for there are many of them), and not disturb the Old Baptist Church and throw it into confusion with new "isms." Elder Carnell admits that he is not in harmony with the majority of the church, but he says he feels confident that he is right. We are not discussing the correctness of his views in this article, but we do say most emphatically that upon his contention that man has no indestructible soul; that when men and women die, both regenerate and unregenerate, all there is of them goes to the grave in death; and that the wicked shall be annihilated, and there is no conscious, everlasting punishment after death; that upon these things he is not a Primitive or Old School Baptist, and has no right to be posing as one, and when Old School Baptists encourage the sowing of these things they are preparing the way for a revision of our old articles of faith which will make trouble and division in the future. But some may think that these are just his private, personal opinions, and that no one has a right to object to his holding them. We are not objecting to his holding them, but to his publishing them under the name of Primitive Baptist. The Means Baptists came in among us years ago, claiming to be genuine "Old Line" Baptists, and many thought the variation so slight that it amounted to little, but it was a departure and led to division. The Kirklands brought in their ideas and claimed to be genuine Primitive Baptists, and they were such able preachers and good men that it seemed harsh to speak against them. But see the havoc in some places that a little leaven worked. Now comes Elder Carnell with his no soul-just animal man, no eternal life for the saved until the resurrection, and annihilation of the wicked, and claims to be an Old School Baptist. He is an able preacher, but what if he were an angel, would that make these ideas harmonize with the accepted doctrine of the Primitive Baptists? These ideas are not new in the world, but they are new among Primitive Baptists, and it means a departure for Primitive Baptists to suffer them to be taught by one professing to be a Primitive Baptist, thus endeavoring to remove the ancient landmarks planted by the fathers when the churches were first gathered here. Elder Carnell says, "In our earnest contention for what we feel sure is the truth, we do not mean to offend, nonfellowship or unChristianize any who may differ with us; but when we feel sure that a brother is wrong in any matter of faith or practice, our duty toward him as a brother is to labor to convince and reclaim him from that wrong." Certainly; that is the very spirit that has been shown by all who have led off from the Primitive Baptist faith, they do not want any nonfellowship lines, they still want the privilege of teaching and "reclaiming" as many as possible. They are "decidedly opposed to setting up bars of fellowship against our brethren because of differences on minor points." That is just the position others have taken when they knew that if the strict line of the doctrine of the church was to be drawn it would leave them on the wrong side of it. Elder Carnell may call the ideas that have been held so many centuries by our people "tradition," but we are well content to abide in the "old ruts;" we can get along very well without any new ideas, especially such as are so radically different from the doctrine that has marked the church for so many centuries. We dislike very much to occupy the place of spokesman in such matters, but we love the church better than the persons of men, and it pains us to think of having our churches torn and disrupted by men who love their own ideas better than they do the peace of Zion. It was not a pleasant thing for Paul to speak of those who should rise up and speak perverse things to draw away disciples after them, and yet by the space of three years he ceased not to warn every one night and day, with tears ((0:28) (Acts 20:28-31)). If any of our brethren have not the means and opportunity of getting information as to what has been the position of the Primitive Baptists upon these points, we would recommend them to write the editors of the oldest and most widely accepted papers of our denomination, as well as to well known writers who are considered sound in the faith by our people, not that these brethren are a standard for Baptists, or set themselves up to be, but their work, study and opportunity gives them an understanding of the history and the faith of our people. We give below, for the benefit of those who wish to do so, the names and addresses of a few brethren who are well known: Elder Sylvester Hassell, editor of the Gospel Messenger, Williamston, N.C Elder R. W. Thompson, editor of the Primitive Monitor, Greenfield, Ind. Elder F. A. Chick, editor of the Signs of the Times, Hopewell, N.J. Elder C. H. Cayce, editor of The Primitive Baptist, Martin, Tenn. Elder J. G. Webb, editor of the Baptist Trumpet, Tioga, Texas. Elder J. H. Oliphant, Crawfordsville, Indiana. Elder S. H. Durand, Southampton, Pa. These are but a few. There are many others competent to give information as to what has been the faith of the Old School Baptists. We have not asked permission of these brethren to refer to them, but know from their standing that they are in position to know if Elder Carnell is in harmony with the church.

REMARKS

We copy the above from the pen of Elder Walter Cash in the Messenger of Peace of April 15, 1912. Elder Carnell is not advocating Primitive Baptist doctrine, and has not done so for years. He had departed from that before he left this country a number of years ago. He would not be received nor recognized by any of our churches in this country. C. H. C.

A Dream

--- May 7, 1912

Dr. John B. Devins told of a man who dreamed that he constructed a ladder from earth toward Heaven, and whenever he did a good deed his ladder went up two feet; when he did an unusually good deed his ladder went higher; when he gave away large sums of money to the poor he went still higher. After awhile it went out of sight, and as the years rolled on he expected at his death to step off that ladder into Heaven. But in his dream he heard a voice thunder from the skies: "He that climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber." Down the man came, ladder and all; and he awoke. He realized then his mistake and sought salvation in the only way-faith in the atoning work of Jesus Christ.-Baptist and Reflector. Now, that won't do, for the Missionary Baptists do not believe in dreams. C. H. C.

Takes Exception

---May 14, 1912

Editor Primitive Baptist:

Dear Sir-

I see in your paper of Feb. 20, 1912, an editorial in reference to H. B. Taylor's anticipated trip to the Holy Land. You go then into an investigation of how many souls could be saved by the proper use of the money he is to use on this, as you term it, "pleasure trip," and wind up with the climax (I suppose) that the wrong party would go to hell, or with the question, "Would not the wrong party be sent there?" Now, elder, what did you say that for? Was it to prejudice the minds of the people against the truth? You know that the Bible nowhere teaches that an individual will be damned if he fails to send money to have the gospel preached to every creature, but it does say {((6) (Mark 16:16))} that he that believeth not shall be damned; also (John 3:36), "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life; and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life." The prophet bade the people look and be healed-did not say, "I will not be healed if I don't tell you to look." Of course, the opposite was, "Don't look, and die." Christ uses this time salvation to illustrate eternal salvation, "Should not perish, but have eternal life." Again {((30) (Acts 16:30-31))} the jailer said, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?"

And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house." Now there is nothing here that intimates that Paul and Silas would not have been saved if they had not taught this man the word of the Lord and told him to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, but we know it does that the jailer would not. You will say, this is time salvation. Perhaps, but faith is the medium through which we are saved from hell, as seen in (John 3:14-16), (Galatians 3:26): "For ye are all the children of God through faith in Christ Jesus," and not by sending the gospel to every creature, as Jesus commanded. Works are what save men in time and not faith. {see (James 2:25)} Again, (I John 5:13), "These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God." You may say faith is a fruit of salvation. Let's see, (Ephesians 2:8): "By grace are ye (or have been-R. V) saved through faith and that (referring to faith) not of yourselves; it is the gift of God," This is eternal life, for the next verse says: "Not of works, lest any man should boast." Also, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." You will say faith is the fruit of the Spirit, and quote (Galatians 5:22), but in Revised Version it is translated faithfulness. Now please answer this from a Biblical standpoint. Sarcasm, ridicule, and playing to prejudices of people is no answer. B. M. Nelson. Springville, Miss.

OUR REPLY

Friend Nelson labors rather hard to prove that one must hear and believe in order to be saved eternally, but makes no effort at all to prove our contention untrue—that if the heathen are sent to hell for not believing the gospel when they have never heard it, and they have not heard it because of the failure of those who have the gospel, then the wrong party is sent to hell. Perhaps the gentleman can tell us upon what principle of justice God will send the heathen to hell for not believing the gospel when they never had the opportunity of believing it. And perhaps the gentleman can tell us upon what principle of justice God will damn the heathen on this account, and at the same time save the man who has the gospel, believes the heathen are going to hell without it, and has the means to send it to them; but instead of using his means that way, spends the money going on a pleasure trip! Perhaps the gentleman can tell us upon what principle God will save Elder Taylor, or any other man, when he uses from three to six hundred dollars taking a pleasure trip, and at the same time eternally damn from three thousand to six thousand souls in hell, who might have been saved by the proper use of the money the man uses to take said pleasure trip. Now, if the gentleman can explain this, we are ready to hear it. An explanation is in order. We have been trying to get some of their strong preachers and debaters to explain this. They have all failed, up to the present time, to make any attempt to do so. But perhaps the above gentleman can come to the relief of his brethren now and remove the difficulty for them.

Every argument, or semblance of argument, the gentleman produces has been smashed with the hammer of God's Word time and again. Is it necessary to smash the same thing once more?

But since the gentleman asks, "What did you say that for?" we will say, because it smashes into smithereens the plea made by the Softshells that the heathen are going to hell on account of a lack of means to send them the gospel. It had effect enough to make Mr. Nelson squeal. But we will try our statement by the Word and see how it compares.

In (Ezekiel 33:6), we have this language: "But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned; if the sword come, and take any person from among them, he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand." These Softshells claim that they see the sword, for they say the heathen are going to hell without the gospel. But they are using the money to take pleasure trips instead of using it to warn the heathen. The heathen will perish in their iniquity, but God will require their blood at the hand of the watchman. Therefore the watchman will be eternally damned with the heathen. Now, there you are! The whole "push" will go to hell together, if your doctrine is the truth.

It is not necessary to examine each passage the gentleman refers to, for the simple reason that the above proves his contention to be untrue. But will refer to his statement concerning (Galatians 5:2). The Revised Version does translate the word faithfulness instead of faith; but is that final proof? Hardly. The Greek word is pistis. Strong's definition of the word is faith. Thayer's definition is, "Faith; conviction of the truth of any thing, belief," etc. The eighth edition of Liddell & Scott's Greek Lexicon, the highest and best known authority on the Greek language, defines the word, "In Theology, faith, belief, as opposed to sign and knowledge." The Interlinear translation renders the word as faith. Your Revised Version is wrong.

But the gentleman, by his contention, denies that faith is a fruit of the Spirit of God. If it is not of the Spirit of God, it is of the devil. So he would have the sinner saved through something which is of the devil!

In (John 5:24) the Saviour says: "He that heareth my word, and believeth on Him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life." We wonder if the gentleman will take his own witness now? The Revised Version says, "He that heareth my word, and believeth Him that sent me, hath eternal life, and cometh not into judgment, but hath passed out of death into life." The believer has passed out of death into life.

This is a strict literal translation of the language: "He that hears my word, and believes Him who sent me, has life eternal, and into judgment comes not, but has passed out of death into life." The one who believes (in the present tense) is one who has passed (in the perfect tense) out of death into life.

In (I John 5:1) we are told, "Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God." The word here translated is born is gegennatai, and may be translated begotten or born; but this word is in the perfect tense and the passive voice. As it is in the passive voice the person is passive in being born again, or in this birth. As it is in the perfect tense, it denotes a work that had already been completed. The following is, therefore, a literal translation of this text: "Everyone that believes that Jesus is the Christ, has been born of God." The believer, then, has already been born of God.

All the Softshells in the Universe cannot harmonize these passages with their theory. Their theory is wrong. They reverse every principle of logic and true science, and every principle of nature. They seem to think there would never be any more lightning if it did not thunder first! C. H. C.

Galatians 4:4-5

---May 14, 1912

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-

I think the brethren who have a love for the cause should take The Primitive Baptist, and should be prompt to pay their dues. Brother Cayce, I would be glad for you to give your views on (Galatians 4:4-5), "God sent forth His Son, made of a woman, made under the law, to redeem them that were under the law." Some brethren differ from me as to what law was under consideration-the Mosaic law, or the law of sin and condemnation. May God bless you, both temporally and spiritually. Your brother in hope of a better world, H. M. Sanders. Bold Spring, Tenn.

REMARKS

The law referred to could not very well have been the law given by Moses on Mount Sinai, for that law was given to the Jews. The Gentiles were never required to keep the ordinances contained in that law. That law, with all the ordinances connected with it, was given to the Jews. It is true that the moral requirements contained in it, such as "thou shalt not steal," "thou shalt not commit adultery," and "thou shalt not kill," were binding on the Gentiles; but this law was not given to them. But the Lord had a people among the Gentiles, and they were under the curse of some law. They were under the curse of the same law that the Jews were under.

All were under curse just alike. The Sinai law did not curse all alike. Caleb and Joshua observed the law and thereby entered the promised land. Many fell in the wilderness, failed to enter the promised land, because they failed to observe the requirements of the same law which Caleb and Joshua kept. Caleb and Joshua needed a Redeemer just as much as the others did, but they did not need one to redeem them from under the law given by Moses, for they observed that law themselves.

Many of God's people were never under the law of Moses. None of those who lived and died before Moses were under that law. But they were under the curse of the same law that all others of God's people were under. The curse of the law they were under was death. The penalty of the law which they were under was death. The sentence was death. They must be redeemed from death in order that they be saved in heaven. Jesus came down to where they were-under the law that condemned to death-and suffered the penalty of that law for them. He went into death and arose from the dead. Thereby He redeemed them. They were under the law before. But He went down to where they were and paid the price of their redemption. He met all the demands that were against them. He therefore redeemed all His people from the curse of the law of sin and death. C. H. C.

Denies It

---June 4, 1912

Elder H. B. Taylor, of Murray, Ky., in the News and Truths of May 10, 1912, denies saying in our debate at Lynn Grove last December that he did not know how infants are saved. The statement we made in the discussion-"It depends upon where you are as to what you say"-is evidently proven true again in this. Elder Taylor said, more than once, in that discussion, "I do not know," in answer to the oft repeated question, "How are infants saved?" It looks better for a man to say the same thing every time, or else acknowledge that he was wrong one time. C. H. C.

Debate in Arkansas

---June 11, 1912

We have agreed to meet Elder Allen Hill Autrey, Missionary Baptist, in a four days debate at or near Board Camp, Ark., to begin on Tuesday, July 16, at 10 o'clock a. m. Four propositions are to be discussed, which are as follows:

1. The Scriptures teach that the death of Christ made the salvation of all men possible. A. H. Autrey affirms; C. H. Cayce denies.

2. The Scriptures teach that all for whom Christ died will be saved in heaven. C. H. Cayce affirms; A. H. Autrey denies.
3. The Scriptures teach that eternal life is offered to dead (alien) sinners upon conditions with which they can comply. A. H. Autrey affirms; C. H. Cayce denies.
4. The eternal salvation of an alien sinner is unconditional. C. H. Cayce affirms;
- 5 H. Autrey denies.

Those desiring to attend the discussion, and who go on the railroad, should reach Mena on Monday, July 15. If you intend going, write to J. W. Ringgold, Nunley, Ark, C. H. C.

Reply to Elder J. B. Hardy

---June 25, 1912

In another column in this paper will be found an article over the signature of Elder J. B. Hardy, of Croft, Kansas, which we copy from the Spiritual Law Counsel, published in Roanoke, Va. The article appears under the caption, "Elder Kilby's Request Answered." We feel that the cause demands that we publish this article, so that our readers may know for themselves where Elder Hardy stands, as we have been asked several times what his position is. We also feel that we would not be faithful if we do not notice some of the things he has said in the article.

We first call attention to the fact that he does not fairly state Elder Kilby's questions. He says that the questions properly, boiled down would mean just this: "Do the children of God obtain the new covenant blessings upon condition of obeying the New Testament commands?" Elder Kilby's question does not say whether the blessings are new covenant blessings or not. But Elder Hardy's statement of the question is equivalent to stating it this way: "Do the children of God obtain any new covenant blessings upon condition of obeying the New Testament commands?" Elder Hardy then proceeds to argue that the child of God does not receive any new covenant blessing upon condition of obeying the New Testament commands.

It is a fact, and must be admitted, that blessings of some kind are received by some kind of characters on condition of obeying the New Testament commands, or else no kind of blessings are received by any kind of character on such condition.

If any kind of blessings are received by any kind of characters on condition of obeying the New Testament commands, those characters who receive such blessings on such conditions are either unregenerate characters or else they are children of God.

But the unregenerate do not receive such blessings on such conditions, because the New Testament commands are not given to them, but are given to God's children. Elder Hardy says: "But one may say the disobedient fail to receive, to which we answer: If the children of God fail to receive the new covenant blessings by disobeying the New Testament commands, this obedience to the New Testament commands would be the measure of God's blessings to them; and none would ever receive a new covenant blessing from God until he obeyed, for obedience must precede the blessing. This is Simon pure Arminianism, and contradicts not only the Bible, but also every Christian's experience." Now, we must say that Elder Hardy knows this is not Arminianism.

He knows that the Arminian position is that the unregenerate sinner receives eternal life on condition of obeying the gospel or New Testament commands. If it is Arminianism to say that the receiving or enjoying of spiritual blessings by the child of God depends upon his obedience, then Elder Hardy proposed to affirm an Arminian proposition, for he once proposed to affirm the following, and authorized his name to be signed to it to affirm it: "The Scriptures teach, and it has been the teaching of the church in all ages since its establishment by Christ, that the enjoyment of spiritual blessings depends largely upon the obedience of His (God's) children." If spiritual blessings are new covenant blessings then Elder Hardy proposed to affirm what he says in the article from the Spiritual Law Counsel is Simon pure Arminianism.

Not only so, but if he is correct in his statement now, then the teaching of the church, according to what he proposed to affirm, has all along been Simon pure Arminianism. We wonder if Elder Hardy would now deny the proposition which he once proposed to affirm?

Elder Hardy further says: "But no child of God ever failed to receive any new covenant benefit by disobeying the New Testament commands. They are not suspended upon such contingencies, nor does God barter them off for such service." If Elder Hardy proposed to affirm the truth when he proposed to affirm the foregoing proposition, and if spiritual blessings are new covenant blessings, then some new covenant blessings are suspended upon condition of obedience upon the part of the child of God.

Again: If the enjoyment of spiritual blessings is a new covenant benefit, and depends largely upon the obedience of the child of God, and no child of God ever failed to receive any new covenant benefit on account of disobedience, then no child of God ever did disobey!

Again, Elder Hardy says: "One cannot properly lose what he never possessed." Evidently Elder Hardy is wrong, or else Webster is wrong. Webster's International Dictionary, published by G. & C. Merriam, is standard authority on the English language, and it says: "Lose-Not to employ or enjoy; to employ ineffectually; to throw away; to waste; squander; to let slip; as, to lose a day; to lose the benefits of instruction." To illustrate this, we will say that Bill Lowstep lost the benefits of instruction. Why and how has he lost this? By not obtaining the instruction. He never had the instruction; hence he never had the benefits of it, and, thus, he lost it. He, therefore, lost something he never possessed.

But Webster says, further, "To fail to obtain or enjoy; to fail to gain or win; as, to lose a prize or a stake; to lose a game, a law suit; hence, to fail to catch with the mind or senses; to miss; as, I lost a part of what he said." Here Webster emphatically says that to lose is "to fail to obtain." If one fails to obtain something, he loses that something which he never did possess. He never did possess it, because he failed to obtain it. If one fails to gain, or win, a prize, he loses the prize. He therefore loses something which he never possessed.

Now, here is a New Testament command or requirement: "Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? So run, that ye may obtain."-(I Corinthians 9:24). Here they are required to run so as to obtain the prize- run in such a way as to obtain it. The obtaining the prize depends upon them running, and upon the way they run. By failing to run, they fail to obtain the prize. To fail to obtain the prize is to lose the prize. Hence, the child of God who fails to "so run" loses the prize by failing to obtain it.

Again: If Bill Lowstep fails to hear a part of what Elder Hardy says, he fails to get a part of what he says. Bill Lowstep, according to good authority, would say, "I lost a part of what Elder Hardy said." He lost it, because he never got it.

National Israel were God's chosen people as a nation. They were a typical people, and represented spiritual Israel in the gospel day. The land of Canaan belonged to national Israel. It was theirs by gift and by birth. It belonged to them, and it was theirs while they were in Egypt and while they were in the wilderness. That Canaan was a typical land which possessed many blessings-it was a land "flowing with milk and honey." It typified the gospel church in this dispensation. There are spiritual blessings in the gospel Canaan, just as there was milk and honey in the old Canaan. The children of Israel entered into the land of Canaan, which was theirs by the gift of God and by birth, and enjoyed the milk and honey (the blessings) in the land by obeying the commandments of the Lord. So, in like manner, the church belongs to God's children now-it is theirs by gift and by birth, and they enter into it and enjoy the blessings therein by obeying the New Testament commands. They cannot get into the church without obeying some New Testament command. If they do not lose any blessing by failing to obey, then there is no blessing in the church of Christ, or else they all obey. But there is a blessing in the church, as every child of God can witness who has become a member of it; and some of God's people do not obey. Therefore, some of God's people lose something-and it is a sweet, heavenly blessing, too-by not obeying the New Testament commands. If there is no blessing in the church for the children of God, the Lord could have had no object in view in establishing His church on earth for them. As the Lord certainly did have an object in view in establishing His church for them, it must be true that there are blessings in the church for them.

Again: As the Lord's church, or kingdom, is a spiritual kingdom, and as there are blessings in this kingdom for His children, it must be true that those blessings are spiritual. As there are spiritual blessings in the church for the Lord's children, and some of them fail to unite with that church-fail to cross over into the gospel Canaan-they lose the spiritual blessings which are in that kingdom. All those of God's children who do "cross over" into this gospel Canaan gain spiritual blessings that are in that kingdom by obeying New Testament commands, and thus "crossing over."

Again: Webster says that to lose is "to prevent from gaining or obtaining." God's children who fail to obey the New Testament commands, fail to unite with the church of Christ, fail to follow the Saviour, are prevented from gaining or obtaining the spiritual blessings which are in the church. Therefore they lose something by not obeying the New Testament commands, or by disobedience. Not only do they lose something, but they lose something which they never possessed.

Again: As to the statement that if this position be true, "this obedience to the New Testament commands would be the measure of God's blessings to them," will say that obedience to New Testament commands is the measure of SOME of God's blessings to them. Our Lord says: "And, behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be."-(Revelation 22:12). He was not talking about unregenerate sinners in this expression, but God's children. The reward is according to their work. Their work is the measure of God's blessing. The obedient child receives more and brighter manifestations of His love.

The obedient child, therefore, gains this and the disobedient child loses it. The eminent Apostle Paul, in (Romans 2:6), says God "will render to every man according to his deeds." His deeds shall be the measure of God's blessings that are meted out to him. There are many spiritual blessings which are measured to the Lord's children 'according to their obedience or disobedience. We know God's word teaches this, and we have realized it to be true by experience, if not deceived.

Again, Elder Hardy says: "This is not the principle upon which acceptable new covenant service is rendered, but is a twin to the Arminian theory of serving God for fear of hell," etc. We will say that if Elder Hardy is a true gospel minister (and we do not intimate that he is not), he would never preach another sermon if he could be satisfied without doing so. Then, why does he leave his home and travel far away, preaching? If he is a true gospel preacher it is because he cannot rest without doing so. He must go trying to find rest. "Then I said, I will not make mention of Him, nor speak any more in His name. But His word was in mine heart as a burning fire shut up in my bones, and I was weary with forbearing, and I could not stay." -(0:9) (Jeremiah 20:9). Jeremiah was weary with forbearing, and had to go to find rest. The rest was what he felt that he must have, and he had to go to find it. This is true with every minister of the gospel of Christ. If a man is just as easy without engaging in the preaching of the gospel as he is in engaging in it, he has no business preaching, for he is not a minister of Christ.

While all this is true, it is also true that love for God, for Christ and for the cause of Christ prompts all true and acceptable service. "For the love of Christ constraineth us," says the apostle, in (II Corinthians 5:14). That love in the heart of God's children constrains them, leads, directs, influences them to seek for the sweet rest that is found in the service of the Lord. Elder Hardy says they should obey to edify the church. It seems to us that if the church is edified by the obedience of the Lord's children, then something is gained by it, and when they fail to obey, something is lost by their disobedience.

Elder Hardy says that in such obedience they purify their souls unto the true love of the brethren. It seems to us that if this is true, they gain something by obedience. Having one's soul purified unto the true love of the brethren is evidently a blessing of either a temporal or a spiritual nature. It certainly will not be claimed that this is simply a natural blessing belonging alike to regenerate and unregenerate. Then it must be a spiritual blessing, and may be enjoyed by the Lord's obedient children. This is gained by them, then, by this obedience, and they lose it by disobedience. Something is, therefore, gained by the obedience of the child of God, and he loses something by disobedience.

Elder Hardy says that in such obedience "they abound in fruits of righteousness; their evidences are increased; their hope is assured; the love of God is perfected in them; and they are made to joy and rejoice." It seems to us that if all this is true the child of God gains much by obedience and loses much by disobedience. These things are all certainly worth more to the child of God than all this world-the value of them can hardly be measured. He gains all this by obedience; but if he fails to obey he fails to enjoy or obtain these things, and thereby loses them. It is better to obey.

True, the child of God feels his unworthiness to have a place with the Lord's people in the service of God. The fact that one feels unworthy is evidence of a gracious state. But while that is true, he often wonders, and inquires, "Will I be any better off if I try to perform this duty? If I try to do this which I feel should be done, will I still feel condemned; and feel that I am not doing right? Will I feel any better at all if I try to do what I often feel is required of me? I feel so weak and imperfect that I fear I cannot render the service-but will I feel any better if I try?" Such questions arise in the minds and hearts of the Lord's children, if we know anything about the matter, and we have a Scriptural example of an inquiry of that nature, and the question is answered. Some of the Lord's children-His disciples-said, "Behold, we have forsaken all and followed thee; what shall we have therefore?"-(Matthew 19:27). In reply the Saviour refers directly to the apostles in (Matthew 19:28); then in (Matthew 19:29) he says, "And every one that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name's sake, shall receive an hundred fold, and shall inherit everlasting life." This refers to God's children only. It has no reference to alien sinners. By forsaking all these things and following the Saviour-obeying the New Testament commands-they receive what is worth a hundred times more than all they forsake, and they receive or inherit eternal life in the same sense that Paul admonished Timothy to "lay hold on eternal life."-(I Timothy 6:12).

In (II Peter 1:2-3), the apostle says, "Grace and peace be multiplied unto you through the knowledge of God, and of Jesus our Lord, according as His divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge of Him that hath called us to glory and virtue." The next verse says: "Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust." This clearly shows that those things which are necessary to prepare and qualify the Lord's children for heaven were and are given by the divine power of God through Jesus Christ. But the apostle adds, in the next verse, "And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue," etc. This shows that virtue may be gained by the child of God. If he obeys the New Testament command, he will add virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness and charity. These things will thereby be gained. In verse 10 the apostle says, "For if ye do these things, ye shall never fall." Something is to be gained by the child of God who does these things. Grace was given in Christ sufficient for their eternal salvation-sufficient to bring salvation. The grace of God brings deliverance-brings salvation {(Titus 2:11-12)} and teaches those to whom it brings salvation that they "should live soberly, righteously and godly;" but some of them fail to live that way. In (II Corinthians 6:1), Paul says, "We, then, as workers together with Him, beseech you also that ye receive not the grace of God in vain." If they fail to do what the grace of God teaches them they should do, they receive the grace of God in vain in that sense.

"Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need."- (Hebrews 4:16). The apostle here admonishes the Lord's children to come to the throne of grace that they may find grace to help in time of need. There must be some sense, then, in which God's little children find grace to help in time of need by coming to the throne of grace. They gain this by doing what they are here admonished to do, and by failing to do this they lose what they would otherwise gain.

It is our humble desire to admonish and encourage the Lord's poor tempest tossed children to come to the throne of grace, that they may find grace to help in every time of need; and it is our desire to beseech them that they receive not the grace of God in vain.

Let us not be afraid of the truth. Let us not be afraid to teach or advocate the truth. The truth will not hurt the Lord's children. This will not divide or alienate them. The preacher who advocates things that are not true causes trouble and distress. Lord, help us to earnestly contend for the faith that was once delivered to the saints-the doctrine of God our Saviour. C. H. C.

Luke 21:31-35

---July 9, 1912

Sister V V Hankins, of Sulligent, Ala., requests our views of (Luke 21:31-35). The Saviour had been foretelling the destruction of Jerusalem, and some things that would transpire before hand. He gives the disciples to understand that just as they know summer is nigh when the trees shoot forth, so they may know that the destruction of Jerusalem is nigh when the things come to pass which He had just foretold. All those things were to be fulfilled before that generation passed away. C. H. C.

1 Corinthians 15:29

---July 9, 1912

Brother J. B. Lee, of Crestview, Tenn., has asked for our views on (I Corinthians 15:29), which reads, "Else what shall they do which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? Why are they then baptized for the dead?" (I Corinthians 15:30), "And why stand we in jeopardy every hour?"

In this chapter the apostle is treating upon the resurrection of the bodies of the saints. That is the main subject he considers in the entire chapter. In discussing that question he refers to baptism, in the language of the text referred to. As the doctrine of the resurrection of the bodies of the saints is true, then baptism representing this, it must be that it is performed by immersion or burial.

As baptism was administered that way, we say in the act of baptism that we believe in the doctrine of the resurrection. If there is to be no resurrection, then why should we baptize? Why bury the persons in water and raise them out again in baptism, if the doctrine of the resurrection is not true? If one is true or right, so is the other. If one is wrong, so is the other. C. H. C.

The Cayce-Srygley Discussion by E. G. S.

---July 9, 1912

We have read this discussion, which has just been issued by the McQuiddy Printing Company, in a very neat volume of nearly three hundred and forty pages. They discussed two propositions. Cayce is a predestinarian Baptist, and Srygley is simply a Christian. Cayce affirmed the following proposition: "God gives eternal life to an alien sinner without a condition on his (the sinner's) part, and the Scriptures so teach." For three nights Cayce affirmed this, while Srygley denied. Cayce attempted to sustain this proposition by the Scriptures. He explained the words "eternal life" to mean "that life that prepares and qualifies sinners of Adam's race to live with God in heaven," thus claiming the sinner receives eternal life while still in mortal life, as well as after death.

In his very first effort to sustain this proposition he began to misapply the word of God. The first passage he quoted to prove his proposition was (Romans 8:8-9). In this passage Paul was not talking about alien sinners, but talking to church members that were walking after the flesh instead of walking after the Spirit in its teaching to the Lord's people, and not talking to alien sinners at all. With him, the alien sinner was the nonelect, who could not in any sense please God, could not obey Him. With him, the elect only can please God by obeying Him. These points he tried to maintain to the close, misapplying Scriptures all the way through the discussion of his proposition. Brother Srygley showed up his misapplications of the Scriptures, thus setting aside his arguments and showing his entire failure to sustain his position by any properly applied Scripture. The first proposition ended, they debated for three nights the following proposition, Srygley affirming: "Faith, repentance, and water baptism are conditions of pardon or salvation to an alien sinner, and the Scriptures so teach." In the discussion of this proposition there was a very great change in the character of the debate. Brother Srygley very plainly and forcibly presented the word of God in its proper division and application, and put forward the Scriptures that sustain his proposition in a manner that baffled the skill of Brother Cayce to meet and overturn. Anyone that will read this discussion without prejudice will see what a difference there is between an effort to sustain human theory about the plan of salvation and the plain teaching of the word of God on the subject.

The man that undertakes to sustain human theories about the teaching of the Bible has a heavy job on his hands. He has to scrap up passages out of their connection and without regard to their proper connection, and thus often makes one passage contradict another. Such errors and blunders are easily upset by one who understands the Book. Anyone that wants to see the power of truth thrown against mere theory will be deeply interested in reading this book. Price, one dollar. The foregoing from the pen of E. G. Sewell appeared in the Gospel Advocate, Nashville, Tenn., of July 4.

Brother Sewell says that in (Romans 8:8-9), the apostle was not talking about alien sinners, but to church members. Yes, the apostle was talking TO church members, but he told them that those who are in the flesh (alien sinners) cannot please God, and gave the church members to understand that they can please God. Our position was that the alien sinner is the unregenerate sinner-the one who is yet in an unsaved state. Our points were sustained, not only by the Scriptures and arguments which Mr. Srygley tried to refute and failed, but by many which he never even pretended to notice.

On the second proposition we answered every argument Mr. Srygley made, showed how he could not harmonize his construction of some passages with other plain statements of Holy Writ. Besides this, we introduced many negative arguments and proof texts which Mr. Srygley did not even pretend to notice.

Mr. Srygley is considered by them as among the ablest debaters in the state. They esteem him as one of their strongest men. We conclude that if their position could be maintained Mr. Srygley could maintain it. Get the book and read it carefully and see who failed. They have not yet told us what became of Aunt Fannie Corbett, and we suppose they do not yet know.

Yes, Mr. Srygley had a heavy job on his hands. He could not meet the arguments-not because of his weakness, but because he was not on the side of truth.

Send us your order for one of the books. The price is only one dollar. If you can sell any of them for us, and thereby get people to investigate, we would appreciate it.
C. H. C.

Questions On The Organ

---July 9, 1912

Dear Brother Cayce: I would be glad to have your views on a matter of importance just now, in some places, on the organ question. It is urged that we should not make this a bar to fellowship, but that we should labor with those that practice it, to reclaim them from this error. Were the organ churches in Georgia labored with before they were dropped from fellowship? If we are decided to fellowship it, would it be consistent to labor to get our brethren to drop a matter that we have fellowship for? Have our people usually had fellowship for it in the past? Would it be new among us to treat it with fellowship? Can we expect the fellowship of both parties in the Georgia trouble? It seems right to patiently labor with brethren in error in doctrine or practice, and not hastily drop them. But if we are resolved to fellowship the thing we labor to remove, what would be left to labor about? What do brethren mean that talk of not wanting the organ, and of laboring with others to reclaim them from it, and yet of having fellowship for it? Do you suppose they are honestly opposed to the use of the organ in church themselves? It sounds catchy to talk of patience and gentleness and of laboring with erring ones to reclaim them from error, but to add that we must not declare non-fellowship for it, puts one at a loss to know what they mean by "laboring." Could you give us a little light? Do you know what they are aiming at? I feel that some explanation is due our people from your pen.

OUR REPLY

Brother A. requests us to answer the foregoing specifically. We have tried to be plain heretofore concerning these matters, and Brother A. understands our position, but there may be others who do not. We thought we were plain enough in our remarks concerning the peace proposition which was proposed some time ago. But we are willing to express ourselves again on the matter. We will answer the questions as they appear above.

It is our understanding that the organ churches in Georgia were labored with. So our answer to that question is, yes. If we have fellowship for a thing, we cannot see the consistency in laboring to get brethren to drop it. Why should we want a thing dropped that we have fellowship for? No; our people have not had fellowship for the use of organs in the past. It is a Roman Catholic invention, and unknown in the church of God. This answers the next question, but we will add that it is a new thing in the church, and to fellowship it is to depart from the original principles and practice of the church.

No, we cannot expect the fellowship of both parties in the Georgia trouble, neither can we have it. If we are resolved to fellowship a thing, then there is no room for labor to be bestowed. We cannot consistently labor to remove a thing and at the same time say we fellowship it. The next question is one that no man on earth can answer. When a man says he has fellowship for the organ, he says, by that, that he will not labor to remove it. When he says he wants it removed and that he will labor to that end, he says, by that, that he does not fellowship it. Now, when a man says both, if you can tell what he really does mean, you are wiser than a Solomon.

Now, you ask if we suppose they are honestly opposed to the use of the organ in church themselves. Well, we do not know -but if they are honest in that-if they are honest in saying they are opposed to the use of it, then they are not honest in saying they fellowship it. On the other hand, if they are honest in saying they fellowship it, then they are not honestly opposed to it. Hence, we do not know which they are honest in; but our supposition is that they are not honestly opposed to it, and are honestly in favor of it, and are willing to fellowship it.

Next, we are asked, "Do you know what they are aiming at?" Well, we may not know what they are aiming at, but we have an idea. Our judgment is that they are aiming to carry their point, and have the organ introduced into as many churches as possible, and to tie the hands of as many as they can so that no one can raise an objection to their modern Babylonish practices. This is the way it seems to us. We would humbly warn our brethren to be very careful how they say they are willing to fellowship this invention of Rome. As for us, we have no fellowship for it. We believe we voice the sentiment of our churches in this country when we say that they have no fellowship for organs in churches, and want no man to come among them who does fellowship the practice. C. H. C.

Carnell Inconsistencies

---July 16, 1912

Those who desire to be at church will make an effort to go, and those who do not desire to be there should not be so deceitful as to say they desire it. -
Predestinarian Baptist.

Some do not desire to go to church, yet say they do desire it, according to Elder Carnell. As they do not desire it, and as God has absolutely and unconditionally predestinated everything that comes to pass, according to Elder Carnell, then God has unconditionally predestinated that they should not desire it. He has also unconditionally predestinated that they should say that they do desire it. Then, according to Elder Carnell, they should not do what God has unconditionally predestinated that they should do. If God has unconditionally predestinated that they should do what they do, then He must have unconditionally predestinated that they should not do some other way.

Then, according to Elder Carnell, they should do what God has unconditionally predestinated that they should not do. Oh, consistency!

If a man is so disposed, it is quite easy to denounce a doctrine as heresy, misrepresent and rail against it and those who advocate it. I have known some railers ever since I began preaching.-Predestinarian Baptist.

"If a man is so disposed," according to Elder Carnell's doctrine, it must be because God unconditionally predestinated that he should be that way. He could not even try to be any other way, because God unconditionally predestinated that he should not try to be any other way, according to Elder Carnell's doctrine. Yes, we suppose it is easy for a man to do what God has unconditionally predestinated that he should do. We imagine it would be a rather hard job for a man to do what God has unconditionally predestinated that he should not do. If Elder Carnell's doctrine be true, it is hard for us to see how one could misrepresent it, for no matter what one says or does, God has unconditionally predestinated that he should say and do that very thing.

Don't worry because a brother advocates something you don't believe, if it is not Bible doctrine you can disprove it. And if it is Bible doctrine it's all right anyway.-Predestinarian Baptist.

"Don't worry!" Bless our souls, how can one help worrying, since God has unconditionally predestinated that he should worry, according to Elder Carnell's doctrine! If a brother advocates something you do not believe, God has unconditionally predestinated that you should worry about it, and has also unconditionally predestinated that Elder Carnell should then tell you not to worry! "If it is not Bible doctrine, you can disprove it." No, he cannot disprove it, either, for God has unconditionally predestinated it; it is all right, whether it is Bible doctrine or not. Oh, consistency

Don't neglect to pay your subscription. We have to pay the cash every month for the printing. Anyone who desires to read the paper can surely spare the small sum of one dollar a year to pay expense of publishing.-Predestinarian Baptist. According to Elder Carnell's doctrine, God has unconditionally predestinated that some should not pay him their subscription. Then God has also unconditionally predestinated that Elder Carnell should complain about it. But perhaps God has also unconditionally predestinated that Elder Carnell should have the cash to pay for his printing every month, so we suppose his bill will be paid, whether his subscribers pay him or not! We cannot understand, however, how one can have a dollar to spare to pay for Elder Carnell's paper, especially when God has unconditionally predestinated that he should not have it.

"If thy brother trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone." Don't pout and slight and ignore him as if he were an enemy without telling him the reason why.-Predestinarian Baptist.

How can one "go and tell him his fault" since God has unconditionally predestinated that they should not do so, according to Elder Carnell's doctrine? How can one tell "him the reason why," since God has predestinated that he should not, according to Elder Carnell's doctrine? But here we find the elder again telling people to do what God has unconditionally predestinated that they should not do. Oh, consistency! consistency!

We often hear people speak of their dead friends being in heaven. How could a dead man enjoy heaven if he were there? The dead are not in heaven, they are in the grave; everything in heaven is alive.-Predestinarian Baptist.

We suppose a dead man could enjoy heaven, whether he is there or not, if God unconditionally predestinated that he should! But the elder says "the dead are not in heaven, they are in the grave." Well, Moses died and God buried him, but Christ talked with him on the mount of transfiguration, and the disciples recognized him as Moses and as being very much alive.

If he was not alive, Christ was an impostor. On the other hand, if Moses did not die and was not buried by the Lord, then the Scriptures are untrue; and if the Scriptures are untrue, Christ is an impostor. So the elder is in a dilemma. According to the elder's doctrine, Moses was not alive, but was dead; but God unconditionally predestinated that Peter, James and John should believe that he was alive-or that they should believe a lie. Therefore, according to the elder's doctrine, Christ was an impostor. More consistency

If the members of a church do not feel able to contribute enough to enable their pastor to attend their meetings, they should ask other interested persons to help them. Outsiders are apt to think that if the church needs their assistance they would be courteous enough to ask it, and they have a right to think so.-

Predestinarian Baptist.

We would suppose they will ask outsiders to help if God has unconditionally predestinated that they should ask. But how can they ask, if God has unconditionally predestinated that they should not ask? According to Elder Carnell's doctrine, the church may need the assistance of outsiders, but God has unconditionally predestinated that they should not be courteous enough to ask it. Then the outsiders have a right to think that the church does not need their assistance, although they do need it; God has unconditionally predestinated that they should need it, and has predestinated that they should not be courteous enough to ask for it, and then predestinated that the outsider should think they do not! Oh, what consistency

The Predestinarian Baptist is a plain dealer, it keeps nothing back in the dark. No one can complain that we evade the issue or that he cannot locate us on any Bible subject; we state our positions in plain English, so if we are in the wrong and anyone desires to convert us from the error of our way, and thus save a soul from death and hide a multitude of sins, he will know just where to find us and where to take hold to help us out and we will be very grateful to anyone who will lend a helping hand in that direction, but when a man undertakes to condemn us without a trial, convict us without evidence and to slander us by misrepresentations and false accusations then he may expect a fight to the finish.-Predestinarian Baptist. Now, isn't that wonderful? Doesn't that paralyze you? How in the name of heaven can one convert another, when they are like machines in the hand of God? And how in the name of common sense can one save a soul from death, when all salvation is by grace and is unconditional and God does it all?

The elder's theory is contrary to God's word. It is a conglomerated mess of ridiculous absurdities from start to finish, and many men who advocate it have but little regard for truth, and Elder Carnell is one of the many. Will he put us to the test on that? C. H. C.

Expect to Attend

---July 30, 1912

We expect, the Lord willing, to be at the Daily Throgmorton debate, near Whittington, Ill., on August 13, 14, 15, 16. We will arrive at Whittington at 7:25 on Monday afternoon. After the debate closes we will go to Newark, Ohio, arriving there at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning on the Pennsylvania Lines, and will be with the church there on Saturday and Sunday, the regular meeting time. Some brother will please meet us at the train Saturday morning.

Then we will go to Falls of Licking Church, on Monday. Then we desire to attend the Muskingum Association which meets with the church at Goshen, near Spratt Station, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. C. H. C.

Luke 9:13

---July 30, 1912

Brother C. C. Gooch, of Selmer, Tenn., requests our views of (Luke 11:13), which reads, "If ye, then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children: how much more shall your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask Him?" The Saviour was talking to His disciples. He was not talking to unregenerate sinners, trying to get them to ask for the Holy Spirit. As He was talking to His disciples, those who were already children of God, He was, therefore, talking to people who were already in possession of the Holy Spirit in the sense of regeneration. God's children may, therefore, approach the throne of grace and ask the Father for the manifest presence of the Holy Spirit to lead, guide, direct and influence them in the right way, and to sustain them in sorrows and distresses. C. H. C.

Missionary Statistics

---September 17, 1912

Some Missionary statistics for the state of Missouri are given in the Baptist Builder of September 11, 1912. We are told that in Missouri there are 182,784 Baptists, members of the American Baptist associations. The total amount contributed to the cause, for all purposes, including church expenses, Sunday school expenses, district missions, state missions, home missions, foreign missions, education and miscellaneous was $1,020,547.18. This was an amount equal to $5.58 for each member.

This seems to us to be a very small sum for a people to give who are so much given to boasting of what they are doing for the Lord. We are sure the average Old Baptist does more than that for the cause, notwithstanding the fact that they are called stingy and covetous by these boasters. But let us examine their giving a little further. For district, state, home and foreign missions they gave $133,435.09. This is an average of 73 cents for each member; Now, is not that wonderful giving! Poor fellows! They boast of their great wealth and give the magnificent sum of seventy three cents each for missions. The people, these folks say, are dying and going to hell by the thousands every day for the want of the gospel, and these wealthy folks give the stupendous sum of seventy three cents each to send the gospel to save those thousands!

These Missouri folks gave $36,966.99 for foreign missions. That was the enormous amount given by 182,784 Missionary Baptists in Missouri to send the gospel to the heathen. This was less than twenty one cents each-a small fraction above twenty cents each-given for this purpose. The Missionary Baptists tell us it costs just ten cents to evangelise a heathen- see the Baptist and Reflector of November 11, 1909. Think of it! The price of the eternal salvation of a heathen is only ten cents, and yet these wealthy boasters, gloating in their shame, give only a small fraction over twenty cents each for the salvation of these poor souls! May the Lord pity them. Evidently they are as blind as bats. C. H. C.

Daily Throgmorton Debate

---September 17, 1912

The Daily Throgmorton debate was held at Ewing, Ill., August 13-16, according to announcement. We had the pleasure of attending it. It was our intention to write a short synopsis of the debate, but we have not had the time to do so-besides, it is to be published in book form. People can get the book and read it, which will be better than to read a short synopsis.

Elder Daily opened the discussion with a speech of one hour affirming that "The Scriptures teach that all for whom Christ died will be eternally saved." Before Elder Daily was through that speech we said it would never be answered, and it has not been, to this good hour. The arguments presented by Elder Daily were logical, and were absolutely unanswerable.

On the 15th and 16th Elder Throgmorton affirmed that "The Scriptures teach that God employs the preaching of the gospel as a means in the regeneration of sinners." In Elder Daily's first negative speech he answered all of Elder Throgmorton's arguments and introduced some negative arguments against the proposition. Elder Throgmorton fell behind in his next speech and was never able to catch up.

The discussion was conducted upon a high plane, both men exhibiting Christian and gentlemanly deportment, except one thing in which we think Elder Throgmorton forgot himself; at that time he pretended to mimic Old Baptists by using a "singsong" tone. We think, however, he was rather sorry of that. No unpleasantness was manifested at any time. Our people were well pleased with the defense made by Elder Daily and many of them were present.

We notice that Elder Throgmorton has charged in his paper since the debate that Elder Daily copied some questions from our pamphlet (Hot Shot) which he used in the discussion. We thank Elder Throgmorton for his compliment paid to us-that we are the author of the questions that were so much trouble to him, and that disturbed him so much that he had to try to fix matters up in his paper a little better than he did in the discussion. Elder Daily was fully equal to the occasion. He had the truth, and truth cannot be overthrown. C. H. C.

We Got It Next

---September 17, 1912

We clip the following slush from The Primitive Baptist, of Martin, Tenn. Its spirit which shows so prominently between the lines as well as in the lines is enough to condemn it in the eyes and minds of all sensible people: "Permit me to say that right here in Jackson the churches, about twelve in all, have such theatrical doings, costly and expensive things, that hundreds of people never go to church; there is a little basket stuck under their noses for collections for the church, Sunday school, home or foreign missions, or paying the pastor, and trained singers, or educating young preachers for the promulgation of their damnable heresy.

Men here who are paying rent and living from hand to mouth are assessed, and must pay up, or be excluded from their church. It is simply bleeding the poor to death; and these same preachers who are supported by the poor, would hardly recognize them on the highways or in their homes as human beings. Their own children are being trained in the high school for social life, are made doctors, lawyers or preachers, or singers, and the children of the poor, whose contributions have helped them to reach the height of their ambition, can go to hell, so far as they are concerned, if the money does not come! Preachers here have refused to go out five miles in the country to preach a funeral unless the family of the dead would give him five dollars (Is this pure religion?-Jas. i. 27). If things go on at the same rate for the next twenty years as for the past ten years, we will be taxed to pay the expenses of these false churches and preachers. The whole thing is fast going to Rome, their mother and headquarters. The principle is the same, although it assumes a different name, and all profess to be guided by the Holy Ghost." And we found it in the Illinois Baptist, June, and we judge, from what the Illinois editor has to say about Elder Cayce's article that he (the Illinois editor) does not believe that Editor Cayce has told the truth, and by virtue of the fact we take it for granted that the Illinois editor does not believe such things to be right, as Editor Cayce charges against Baptists in his article.

However, our Illinois editor only met these charges by the process of belittlement, without any proof. We are sorry to say that some of the charges that are brought against Baptists, by Editor Cayce, a Hardshell and a gentleman so far as we know, is true, and we acknowledge the corn and the Illinois editor had just as well get in the hole with us. For instance, Editor Cayce charges that the churches in Jackson have "theatrical doings." We don't know about the churches in Jackson, but "de fiddle and de bow," the horn, whistle and other things of a similar class have played an active part at Laurel, Bay Springs, Meridian and other places that we could mention. It does look a good deal like theatrical doings to us, and it makes us feel about the same way.

We guess that Editor Cayce charges, too, that such extravagance is practiced in the churches of Jackson that hundreds of people never go to church at all. We have heard poor people, lots of them, thus talk about our rich aristocratic churches, and we knew of more than one church splitting on account of this very thing-at least that's the way we got it. We guess that Claud did not miss the truth far. Those baskets are stuck under the nose tolerably regular also, and it's humiliating, too, when one is penniless. We have never used them and never expect to.

We think it much better to wait for offerings to be made when a definite object, that demands our support, can be brought before the people. Folks want to know, and ought to know, exactly what they are giving their money for. Let the baskets stay at home. When there is a collection to be taken, let the pastor or deacon get up and tell the people the object then gather a hat. That will do.

As to Editor Cayce's thrust at Baptist people for doing mission work and his thrust at Baptist pastors for trying to make something out of their families, we have got the commission, (Matthew 28:19-20). If the Hardshells had it, they would give it back to us; but would the Illinois editor be willing to receive into his church a member from Editor Cayce's church, if Editor Cayce had baptised him, without giving him another dose? Eh? Will wait for a mild answer and proceed to note more of Editor Cayce's charges against Baptists. He charges that men who are poor in Jackson are assessed and must pay up or be excluded. Well, we are satisfied that this is not in accord with our faith and practice, but we have a typewritten letter on file right now, from officials of a Baptist (?) church that agrees with Editor Cayce's charge.

Dr. R. C. Johnston, M. P. Mush, Sr., all just as good Baptists as ever lived, would be compelled to say that Editor Cayce told the truth on this point, if they were called upon to witness, and they are not all. Laurel, Miss., is their home. "Sic em," Cayce. But once more. We wonder if the Illinois editor never did hear of a preacher charging for going five miles to conduct a funeral service? If we hadn't we'd be very careful about talking about Editor Cayce's ignorance. We are glad to say that these charges as introduced by Editor Cayce, some of which are true, is the very thing that made Hardshells, and Conventionism is responsible for it. Let Baptists go along and do mission work and other work as they once did, then Hardshells will perish.

REMARKS

We clip the above from the Southern Department of the Baptist Flag, of September 5, 1912. Elder C. A. Gilbert is editor of that department. It appears that the Illinois Baptist charges us with saying certain things in our papers, and then denies them. We never made the charges complained of, but think they were made (or some of them were) by some brother whose letter was published in our columns.

But Elder Gilbert virtually admits every one of them, and then charges that the Conventionites are responsible for the division in the Baptist family. His charge being true, the Missionaries are not the original Baptists, and we are. If you brethren among the Missionaries would get right on points of doctrine while you are fighting this board business, and then come back to the Old Baptists, you would then be in the Old original Baptist Church. C. H. C.

Challenge Accepted

---September 24, 1912

As many of our brethren are aware, Elder C. H. Cayce, editor Primitive Baptist, Martin, Tenn., has developed strong symptoms of late that he is spoiling for a public discussion with some one of our brethren on the questions of God's decree and what is known among us as conditional time salvation. He assumed the authority to state for us our position on predestination, and has sent abroad printed copies of same, with his challenge to our people to furnish a man to meet him. Following is the proposition Elder Cayce has submitted on God's decree, for us to affirm: "The Scriptures teach that God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate all things that come to pass, good, bad and indifferent." So confident did the elder seem to feel that none of our brethren would accept this cut-and-dried proposition that he waxed bold to brand us in advance of our refusal as a set of "religious cowards." Immediately upon receiving his challenge-which was mailed to my address-I accepted and signed his proposition on conditional salvation and in my letter advising him of the fact, I submitted as the proposition I would affirm, the following: "That God hath from all eternity, freely and unchangeably decreed all things whatsoever come to pass, is Primitive Baptist teaching, and the same is Scripturally and logically true." The elder refused to meet me on this proposition. He will not deny that the predestination of all things is the teaching of Primitive Baptists; and because I told him the reason why, he proceeded to uncork the vials of his wrath and to pour out their contents upon those whom he brands as a "dirty crowd" of "religious cowards." I would advise Elder Cayce, that, inasmuch as we would affirm the predestination of all things whatsoever come to pass, his qualifying terms, "good," "bad," and "indifferent" are superfluous and unnecessary. But he insisted that we must accept the proposition just as he had stated it, or else stand before the world branded by him as a religious coward. Seeing that he was going to crawl out through his conveniently arranged loophole, I accepted both of his propositions just as he had worded them, and have named Benton, Ill., as the place for holding the discussion. It is now up to Elder Cayce. If he does not back down upon his own propositions he will have to meet us. I am now awaiting his decision and will serve notice of same through the Predestinarian Baptist. C. M. Weaver.

REMARKS

The above is from the Predestinarian Baptist of August 1, 1912. It seems to us that Elder Weaver assumes quite a good deal for himself. He states, himself, that we challenged his people to furnish a representative man to meet us. We suppose Elder Weaver considers himself a representative man. Are we to judge that he is the whole crowd, and that he is going to furnish himself? The challenge was not made to him, but to his people. We wonder if they have selected him to represent them? If so, when did they do so? Which one of his churches made the selection?

The elder says we proceeded to uncork the vials of our wrath, etc. Well, it would be hard to find a name for the dirty, filthy letter he had written to us beforehand. No, we have not poured out any wrath upon these folks, but we said a few things to this man which were true, and he knows it. Those people have continually misrepresented us and our people, and have often been corrected in some of their statements concerning us. Still they have persistently repeated their misrepresentations. We have been forced thereby to conclude that the misrepresentations made by many of them were wilful and malicious. They would never agree to meet our people in a public discussion of the differences. They put out a challenge themselves in this section once, and then backed down. But they did not cease their misrepresentations of us. Hence we put out our challenge for them to furnish a representative man to meet us.

Because of the way they had been doing we felt to be justifiable in saying that unless they met the challenge in every particular they are religious cowards. We see no reason why we should retract as yet. Elder Weaver refuses to have any thing to do with employing a stenographer and publishing the discussion. That was a part of the challenge.

We are under no obligation to meet him until that part of the challenge is agreed to and he furnishes some evidence that his people consider him a representative man. Our challenge also stated that the discussion should be at a place where it may be called for. Elder Weaver names Benton, Ill. Who has called for it at Benton? If the elder manifests such a disposition in debate as he did even in the beginning of his correspondence with us, it will not show him up to a very good advantage to a thinking people.

We shall see what we shall see. C. H. C.

Matthew 12:43-44

---November 19, 1912

The article in this issue on the above text was copied from The Primitive Baptist of October 2, 1906, and appears in Volume I, page 114. It is not necessary to put the same article in this volume. C. H. C.

The Jews Chosen

---November 19, 1912

We have been asked this question: "Do you understand that the Jews as an entire nation are chosen people of God, and will all be saved?" The Jews, as a nation, were the chosen people of God. He made choice of the Jews as a nation. They were His people, as a nation. But He did not make choice of the entire nation to eternal life. "They are not all Israel which are of Israel."-(Romans 9:6). All of Abraham's seed were not children of God-see

Romans 9:7

---December 10, 1912

On another page in this paper are two letters from E. O. Wiles, of New Zealand. Those letters show that we have had some correspondence with him concerning a visit to that country. For some time we have had a mind to visit New Zealand and Australia, and perhaps other places, to try to speak to some of the Lord's children there concerning His goodness and mercy. We have felt that if the Lord is in the matter the way will be opened somehow. We have also felt sure that if the Lord is in the matter that we would be provided for without us having to organize a society and have someone pledged to "hold the rope" while we go, as Carey and Fuller did. If we have the assurance that the Lord is in the matter, we will not be afraid to start on the journey, Concerning the term "Missionary," as explained to Brother Wiles in a private letter, we also say here that this term was adopted by the Missionary Baptists after the division among the Baptists in this country, which occurred from 1832 to 1845. Those who took the name "Missionary Baptists" adopted the views of Fuller and Carey on the atonement and gospel preaching as instrumental in regeneration, free will, free agency, etc. Our people seemed to accept the idea that this title suited them, understanding it to signify that they adopted the modern mission machinery and inventions of men. The terms "Old School" and "Primitive" were then applied to our people, signifying that our people held to the original Baptist teaching. If our people had called the "Missionaries" Fullerites they would have been known by that name today, just as Campbell's followers are known by the name of Campbellites. The command recorded in (Matthew 28:19), "Go ye therefore, and teach (disciple) all nations," was given by the Saviour to the eleven. "The eleven" is the antecedent of the pronoun "ye." It is now the office work of the Holy Spirit, the third person in the Trinity, to call and send out the gospel ministry. The Holy Spirit also assigns them their field of labor.

The ordinances were delivered by the apostles unto the church (see (I Corinthians 11:2)), and they are administered by the authority of the church, and by those whom the Holy Spirit has called, and who are authorized by the church to administer them.

We are glad for Brother Wiles to write for our columns. Many of our people enjoy his letters. C. H. C.

1 Peter 3:21

---December 10, 1912

"The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God,) by the resurrection of Jesus Christ." We have in these words a clear statement of the meaning and design of baptism. It is stated to be a figure of the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, and its design is, not to purify either the body from outward defilement or the conscience from sin, but that a good conscience may thus give answer outwardly to the work of God wrought in the heart. A good conscience is one which has been cleansed through faith by the application of the blood of Christ, which alone can purify from all sin. We have in this text, first, a refutation and condemnation of the perversion which nearly all professing Christendom has made of the ordinance of baptism, in the sense that by baptism all souls are regenerated and made fit to be heirs of glory. When vital godliness dies out of any people there straightway comes in formality and ritualism of various sorts, and salvation comes to be no longer ascribed to the death and resurrection of Christ for justification, and the new birth of the Spirit is ignored, and salvation and regeneration are held forth as the result of baptism or of other forms and ceremonies. This is true of Romanists, Episcopalians, Campbellites, and is also largely true of Presbyterians and Methodists. Campbellites teach that baptism is essential to final salvation, as an act of obedience, and the other named teach that baptism is essential to salvation, not merely as an act of obedience to God, but because in baptism the soul is regenerated, without which regeneration no soul can live eternally with God. It was the declaration of a Romanist preacher centuries ago that the wailing cry of the souls of unbaptized infants is heard throughout the regions of darkness forever. Such souls, it is asserted, are not in hell, neither can they enter heaven and dwell in the presence of God, therefore they roam, without rest or peace, forever in the regions of darkness. All who believe in infant baptism feel that they must have this ordinance attended to before their children die, else the children will lack something in that other world to which had they been baptized they would have attained. One many years ago said to us that she had lost one child by death which had not been baptized, and she then made a vow that no other child of hers should die without baptism. In reply to the question, "Why, do you think that your child is lost?" she said, "No, but it lacked something in that world which baptism would have secured it." We could but say to her, "If your child is suffering through your neglect, instead of your suffering for it, where is the justice?" Because Baptists have always insisted upon baptism as it is taught in the word of God, and have condemned sprinkling or pouring as superstitions of men, and because they have never received such sprinkling and pouring as baptism when members of other professed bodies of Christians have come to them, it has been for centuries charged against them by haters of truth, and believed by foolish and ignorant men, that they believe that baptism is essential to salvation. It has not mattered that they believe and have always taught the contrary, viz., that salvation is essential to baptism. Evil minded men continue to urge this charge against them, and foolish men believe it. If indeed we do not believe that baptism must be received in order to the justification of the soul and to an entrance into the world of glory, unless Baptists do not possess ordinary human sympathy with their fellowmen, we certainly should be found urging with all solemnity and persistence upon all men the necessity of being baptized, and did we believe this there would never be any question asked of any one who came to us asking baptism; we should only be too much filled with rejoicing that another had come asking for that which would save the soul. It is not we, as Old School Baptists, who believe and teach that one must be baptized if he would be saved, but those who practice sprinkling of infants and Campbellites, who practice immersion. Old School Baptists could not believe and teach salvation by ordinances of any kind, because they do believe and teach with all their hearts that salvation is alone through the atonement upon Calvary. They believe that it is the work of Christ for us that saves, and in which we are to trust and not our work. Baptism by immersion and emersion (into and from the watery grave) is essential to walking obediently in the commandments of the Lord, just as to follow all other commandments which He has given His people is essential to obedience. But obedience to the commandments of the Lord does not justify the sinner, nor secure his abode in heaven; this is secured to him alone by the finished obedience of the blessed Lord. There is no more salvation in baptism than there is in any other act of obedience which we may gladly render in token of our love to Him who loved us and died for us. We have not written here of all this with any expectation of silencing the charges of ignorant men to which we have referred, but that our readers who, it may be, have been disturbed by these false assertions, may have somewhat to reply when they hear such things said. In the text the apostle uses the expression, "The like figure, whereunto even baptism." Baptism here is assented by the apostle to be just such a figure of salvation as was the water of the flood, by which he declares that Noah and his family were saved. The waters of the flood, then, were a figure of salvation; baptism is also a figure of salvation. Let us note that the apostle here did not say that Noah was saved from the water of the flood, but by the water. The ark into which he was shut, saved him and all with him from destruction by the flood, but here the assertion is that there was a salvation by the water itself. What was that salvation? It appears to us that it could have been but one thing, vis., that by the flood Noah and his family were separated forever from the wicked antediluvian world, or saved from it. The same flood that saved Noah from the former wicked world, at which he vexed himself and against which he preached while preparing the ark, was the destruction of the world of wicked, men. Noah was by the flood forever separated from all his former life; so also were the people said to be "baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea," when they passed over dry shod through the water standing as walls of brass on either side and under the cloud that hovered over them. True, the word "baptism" always signifies dipping or immersion and emersion, but here the reference of the apostle is not so much to the form of baptism as to the separating work wrought at the Red Sea, by which all Israel were forever separated from Egypt and their former life there, and were shut up to the leadership of Moses. "Separated from Egypt and separated to Moses." So Noah was by the water of the flood separated to the new world that appeared after the flood. All this was a figure of that salvation which God works for His people through the finished work of Christ by His death and resurrection. They are in like manner (not figure, but in reality) separated to the Lord and from their former death in sin and ungodliness. Now baptism is here declared to be just such a figure of this salvation in Christ as was the water of the flood. As the antediluvian world became dead to Noah by the flood, and he to it, so through Christ believers have become dead to their former life, and hope, and bondage, and have been raised up to newness of life, and now live in a new world, with new hopes and desires and blessings, and by the water of baptism they declare this work to have been wrought in them. As Noah was saved by the work of God wrought in him, separating him from the ungodly world in spirit and feeling before the flood came, so are believers separated from their former life and love by the work of the Spirit in their heart before they receive baptism. Indeed, had not this work been wrought in the heart of Noah before the time of the flood, salvation by the water of the flood could not have been his, The water of the flood would not have wrought this righteous principle in him, and he would have been after the flood living the life of wickedness that all the world had been doing before. So also if righteousness has not been wrought in the heart of men before baptism there has been no real separation from others, and the water of baptism is to them but a solemn mockery. Let us remember that, after all, the apostle declares that there is a salvation in the figure baptism, but this salvation is not that salvation which puts away sin, the filth of the flesh. The apostle declares that this salvation is now, but the putting away of sin is not now; that was accomplished when Jesus died and rose again; He was put to death for our offenses, and was raised again for our justification. Redemption, in the real sense of the word, was finished when Jesus had finished the work which God gave Him to do, and was raised again from the dead,. So the apostle here connects baptism with the resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ. "The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ." The Apostle Paul sets forth the same great truth which is here declared by Peter in (Romans 6:3-4): "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptised into Jesus Christ were baptised into His death? Therefore we are buried with Him by baptism into death; that like as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life." Here the meaning of the apostle evidently is that by real heartfelt experience of death to sin, and life to holiness and God, we have been baptised into Him, and into His death, and therefore we are in water baptism buried with Him, and rise therefrom to walk in newness of life. So Peter in the text connects our water baptism with the resurrection of Christ. The resurrection of Christ in His work for us by which we are saved, while we testify to this work as having been wrought in us by being baptized, and this baptism is the answer of a good conscience toward God; it is our confession of what the Lord has done for us in the resurrection of Christ. Baptism, then, is a form of presenting a reality'; it is a form, but not an unmeaning form. The ordinances of the house of God appointed in His word are all of them filled with meaning. In them we do not find redemption, or justification, or eternal life, but they all testify of these things. So the supper tells of Jesus' body and blood, upon which we live and by which we are cleansed from sin. Baptism also sets forth three special things, according to the testimony of the word. In the first place, it sets forth our faith in the death, burial and resurrection of Christ for our justification and redemption. By our baptism we declare that our hope is in His work for us, finally finished when He died, and witnessed to us by His resurrection from the dead. In the second place, in baptism we declare that it is our hope that we also have become experimentally dead to sin by the body of Christ and alive unto holiness. Dying we are buried, and living again we rise to walk in this newness of life; and, in the third place, as our bodies are buried in the watery grave, and rise again from it, we declare that our faith is that our bodies are included in the redemption of the Lord Jesus Christ, and that they shall one day also rise as did His crucified body, and be changed into the likeness of His glorified body, and so live forever with Him. In these three things are summed up all the principles of truth contained in the gospel of the Son of God, Lastly, baptism is itself salvation to all who believe. It does not indeed put away sin, which is the chief part of salvation, but it does separate us from our former lives in and of the world in the sight of all who love God, and indeed in the sight of all men. We are henceforth known as the professed followers of Christ, as those who henceforth do not live as others live, in the vanity of their minds, but as those who live in union with that which pertains to God and godliness. It is a great help to one who loves the Lord, and who has in heart and desire been separated unto the Lord, to have it known by all that this is his hope, and it will, we think, be the testimony of all believers that they have found a help to resist temptation after worldliness by the very fact that they have been baptized in the name of the Lord. Even the world does not expect those who have made this confession to live as they did before, or as the worldly live. There is gain surely when we know that the world no longer expects us to run in the way that we once did; at least we know that in our early life young friends did not, after we were baptized upon confession of our faith, expect us or ask us to join in many things that they did insist upon our doing before. We did find in this sense a salvation in baptism. We doubt not that many have found it so. C.

REMARKS

We copy the above from the Signs of the Times of December 1, 1912. It is from the pen of Elder F. A. Chick. This article sets forth the very position held by our people. For teaching this same thing we have been called Arminians, Half-Baptists, Semi-Baptists, Bildads, and other such names.

Note that Elder Chick says, "Let us remember that, after all, the apostle declares that there is a salvation in the figure of baptism, but this salvation is not that salvation which puts away sin, the filth of the flesh." If "this salvation is not that salvation which puts away sin," and if that salvation which puts away sin is an eternal salvation, then this is some other kind of salvation. If it is not an eternal salvation, is it not a time salvation? Then, why should we be called by such names as those mentioned above, because we call this a time salvation?

The term "total depravity" is not used in the Scriptures, but they teach what we mean by that term, and what the term implies. The Scriptures teach that the sinner is depraved in all his parts. Are we heretics because we teach the same thing and call it total depravity? If not, then how can we be heretics because we teach, as the Scriptures do, that there is a salvation in baptism, and then call it a time salvation? We would call attention to the fact that Elder Chick says, "We did find in this sense a salvation in baptism." As he was already a child of God before baptism, he already had eternal salvation. He must, therefore, have found a time salvation in baptism. Elder Chick experienced this in his life. His experience is, therefore, in harmony with the teaching of Holy Writ. This adds another evidence that he is a child of God. We would add here that what Elder Chick found in rendering obedience to the Lord is also found by all other children of God who walk in that path. On the other hand, they suffer and fail to find this salvation when they walk in disobedience.

The Scriptures abundantly teach this truth-hence the apostle could say, "Knowing the terror of the Lord we persuade men." We should not make a brother an offender for a word; neither should we try to magnify our differences. We should try to minimize them, and try to get together. May the Lord help us so to do. C. H. C.

Kingdom of God

---December 17, 1912

Brother H. C. Alexander, of Foss, Okla., wants our views concerning the kingdom of God—that is, if there is more than one. God has but one visible, organized kingdom, or church. The church of God is but one. The whole redeemed family of God are sometimes referred to as the kingdom of God, kingdom of heaven, church, or some other such appellation. The context will show whether, in each case, the visible, organized church, or militant kingdom, is under consideration, or whether it is the whole family of God, all the redeemed.

He also asked: "Do you believe that the Saviour meant that the kingdom of God was within the Pharisees in (Luke 17:21)?" The word translated "within" in this text often means "in the midst." Hence, in this text the Saviour meant that "the kingdom of God is in the midst of you," or among you. C. H. C.

Close of Volume 27

---December 24, 1912

One more year is almost gone. This is the last issue of the twenty-seventh volume of The Primitive Baptist. The year 1912 will soon all be a matter of history. Another year, with all its joys and sorrows, is drawing near to a close. Are we sorry, or are we glad of this? No doubt all of us have made some mistakes, and have things to regret. We are well aware of the fact that we have made mistakes in our editorial work, and also in our efforts in the ministry. We do not believe we have made mistakes as to the principles we have tried to advocate. We have no apology to offer on that score. We are still satisfied with those principles. We see no reason for any change in that respect. If this should be the last line that we shall ever pen for the columns of The Primitive Baptist, we are willing to go on record as being willing to die on those principles.

While it is true that we have made mistakes, yet we have tried to conduct the paper in the way that we thought was best for the cause it proposes to stand for. Our desire has ever been to do that which was best for the cause of the Primitive Baptists, which we are sure is the cause of Christ.

We believe we can truly say that we are glad another year is gone. We would not live the year 1912 over again if we could. We have had our sorrows, griefs and disappointments during the year. We are glad that those trials are over. We may have more like them, but those are gone forever. We are glad of this. We are also one year nearer our eternal home. Our hope of a precious and glorious home where there are no sorrows nor distresses is sweet to us now. It seems to grow sweeter as the years go by. That hope has sustained us for about twenty-eight years, and we are willing to risk it during our remaining years, or days, on earth, and we feel that we shall be willing to risk it in death. We are trusting alone in the merits of a crucified and risen Redeemer.

The worthy merits of His blood and righteousness is our only hope of a better home beyond, and we are willing to risk that. Men may boast of their merits and their wonderful works, but we trust to be able to boast "in the cross of Christ," and in that only. If we have said or done one thing that has wounded one of the Lord's humble poor, we are sorry for it, and humbly ask forgiveness. We have not meant to hurt or wound the feelings of any of the Lord's dear children. If we know our heart we love those who give us evidence that they have been born of God. We desire their welfare, and want to see them happy and prosperous.

During the past year many have sent us notices of local church troubles, with request to publish. These requests have all been refused. Only one or two such notices have appeared in the paper during the year, and they were inserted in our absence without our knowledge or consent. Only one thing that is in any way akin to anything of that kind has been published by our authority in our columns, and that was in the case of a certain man whose standing we knew. He was away from home affiliating with our brethren. Several wrote us asking for information concerning him. The cause demanded that we publish some of the facts. Good order demanded it. We are not sorry that we have maintained this position, and we desire to still maintain it in the future. Hence we now say again that no one need send us letters for publication in our columns concerning local church disturbances. If you do, they will go straight to the wastebasket. Hereafter we will not even return them to the sender, nor write a letter to the sender concerning them. We have had too many of such things sent to us, and have consumed too much valuable time in correspondence concerning them. And, again, it is very common for someone to write us about some church trouble and then ask our advice. Often the request is from one who has been excluded. Now, no man can be assured of giving correct advice unless he has all the evidence from both sides. Of course, under such circumstances as this mentioned, we have the evidence from only one side, and likely not even all of that. Hence we are not prepared to give advice. Parties will confer a great favor upon us, and save us much time and trouble if they will not write us about such matters. If it could do any good we would not mind the trouble nor the time; but our experience and observation is that it seldom does any good. It is usually the case that the party has his own mind made up, and is only making an effort to get us to agree with him. If they really want advice, and are willing to try to follow it, then we do not mind the time and trouble it takes to answer. An editor's place is a hard one to fill. He has to stand between fires very often. It is not unusual that he must stand between parties who are at variance, and endeavor to reconcile and bring them together. We have tried to do this in many instances. Brethren often do not understand each other, and many times labor under a misunderstanding. But our year's labor is done. Many times we have been discouraged, but we have not felt like we want to "quit." Our desire has been to press onward. Now we have reached the end of another year's pilgrimage, and now feel the need of the Lord's presence, help and directing hand in the year coming. Many good and comforting letters from the dear brethren and sisters have encouraged us to press on during the year now closing. We would here humbly express our gratitude and appreciation for all this, and ask if we may still have your kind support, encouragement, and help? Above all, may we have an interest in your prayers, and your assurances of the same. For this year, farewell. C. H. C.

1913

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME XXVIII

---January 7, 1913

This issue begins another volume of The Primitive Baptist. This is the twenty-eighth volume. For twenty-seven years this paper has been published and sent out in defense of the same principles that are set forth in its columns now. From the time the paper was started, in January, 1886, until the fourth Sunday in August, 1905, it was edited by our father, Elder S. F. Cayce. On that day in 1905 he laid his armor by, and the burden of editing the paper has been on us. How well we have succeeded in maintaining the standard that had already been set is not for us to say.

We know that we have endeavored to maintain the same principles. We are aware that we have made mistakes, and that our efforts have been weak. Yet we are thankful and gratified to say that the paper has received a liberal support. The circulation of the paper has been increased to about twice what it was in 1904 or 1905. This makes us feel that our labors have not been altogether in vain, and that our weak efforts are appreciated by our dear and precious brethren. We still feel our dependence upon the Lord for the guidance of His Holy Spirit and for His grace to sustain us; but we desire, by His help, to still contend for the same eternal principles of truth. We are perfectly satisfied that the doctrine we have tried to advocate is the doctrine of the Bible. It is the doctrine in harmony with true science, is according to true principles of logic, and is the truth. We have no doubt about that.

We are fully persuaded that what God has promised, He is able also to perform. We desire to still contend for that doctrine while we live on earth. The Old Baptists are the people who believe, love and cherish that doctrine. It is, therefore, our desire to make The Primitive Baptist an Old Baptist paper. We trust that our corresponding editors will write more for the paper this year than they did last. It is our own desire and intention to do more writing ourselves than we did last year. There are a few subjects we have, for some time, felt a desire to write upon, but we have had so much other work on hand that we could not write much. Some of that work has now been completed, and we think we can do more writing for the paper.

We trust that the brethren generally will consider that The Primitive Baptist is a medium of correspondence for the Lord's children. But remember that short pointed articles are much more interesting than long ones. We would urge the writers to use brevity. Do not use two dozen words to express a thought that can be expressed as well or better in half that number. Say what you have to say in as few words as possible. Do not write about your local church troubles. Remember that this is not interesting or comforting to others, and will not be published. We have managed to keep most of such things out of the paper during the last year, and we intend to still keep such out of our columns. Many have insisted that we should publish such things for them, but we have promised that we would not. So we say again that it is no use to send such things to us. Remember that such things will not even be returned to the writer hereafter. We will simply throw them into the wastebasket, and will not even consume time to write to the parties sending such articles to us. We trust all will help us to make the paper better. Send reports of your good meetings. We all like to read about good meetings, and of the Lord's children coming home and asking a place in the dear old church. Now, will you all remember us in your prayers? Will you pray the Lord to direct us aright, and to sustain us in our labors in His cause? C. H. C.

The Debate That Didn't Materialize

---January 7, 1913

Perhaps not many of our brethren will be surprised to learn that Elder Cayce, after much bluff and bluster about wanting to debate with our brethren has finally become so little concerned in the matter, that he treats our persistent endeavor to have him meet us on his own propositions with silent contempt. I accepted his own propositions just as he framed them, but he now claims he did not challenge me personally, and he shys around my acceptance of his challenge by enquiring if I am a "representative man;" "if my brethren have selected me," etc., and undertakes to discredit me in the eyes of his readers, by stating in his paper that I had written him a "filthy dirty letter." I resent this unbrotherly attack upon my personal character, by branding his statement, a malicious misrepresentation of facts and I defy him to print that "filthy dirty letter"

I wrote him in his paper and let his own people judge for themselves concerning it. In my last letter to Elder Cayce which has never been answered I had this final word to say: "If you are going to meet me without any more ifs and ands, or dodging, say so; if you are not, say so, for I have no more time to waste on a fellow who is insincere in his loud pretensions of wanting to debate with our people.” From his prolonged silence I judge he does not aim to meet us, and so far as I am concerned the matter is ended. W.

REMARKS The above from the pen of Elder G. M. Weaver appeared in the Predestinarian Baptist for December, 1912. The elder says he accepted our propositions just as we framed them. But he has not accepted the challenge as it was made. Our challenge, as it was sent out, contained this statement: “The challenge also embraces this: Competent stenographers are to be employed to take the speeches as delivered, and the whole discussion to be published in book form.” In regard to this here is what Elder Weaver said in his first letter: “As to employing stenographers: will say, you may do so if you wish, but as I have no desire to make merchandise out of an investigation of the Scriptures, I have no use for a stenographer.”

In reply to this we had this to say in our letter dated May 30, 1912: “As to making merchandise of the matter in publishing it, will ask if it is any worse (if it is wrong) to publish the discussion than it is to publish the Predestinarian Baptist? What is the difference?” In the elder's reply he made no reference to this. Then in his next letter he has this to say concerning it: “As to having this debate reported, and brought out in book form, will say: If my brethren desire it, and are willing to bear the expense, they may do so, but I will not assume the responsibility myself.”

Thus it is plainly and clearly demonstrated that our challenge, as made, has not been accepted. The last statement quoted from him shows that what he did accept was on his own responsibility and not on the responsibility of his people. The challenge was made to his people, as a people. Will they accept it? Will he accept it for them? If he will, then will they endorse the act? If we should meet him without his having any endorsement from them, what assurance have we that they will not repudiate the whole thing, and disclaim any and all responsibility for his act?

As to his denial of what we said, we have only to say that we do not deem it necessary at this time to give space for his lengthy tirade. We suppose our word is almost, if not quite, as good as his. Besides, if his charge is true that we have maliciously misrepresented the facts, and if his doctrine is true, then we had to do just as we did do. He affirms that “God did, from all eternity, absolutely and unconditionally predestinate all things that come to pass, good, bad and indifferent.” If God did do as the elder affirms, then He did unconditionally predestinate that we should do just as we did do.

The elder took this matter up through his paper, and we presumed his wish was to continue the correspondence that way, although he does not publish what we said in The Primitive Baptist, while we have copied all he has said in his paper concerning the matter.

But he says that so far as he is concerned the matter is ended. All right-he may let it end if he desires. It only shows that his intention was to make a “blow” and a show of accepting our challenge. Again we say, let them accept the challenge and put up a man to represent them, or else cease misrepresenting us. C. H. C.

Gambling

---February 4, 1913

J. N. Sugg, of Lincoln, Ala., writes: “I want you to write a piece in The Primitive Baptist on gambling in cotton futures. I do not know of any Primitive Baptists who are guilty. Other denominations are doing it, and they try all sorts of arguments to prove that it is no harm.” We are not so much concerned about other people engaging in the practice referred to. We trust no Primitive Baptist is guilty. If there is no harm in that kind of gambling, then there is no harm in any kind. If gambling is not wrong, then it was not wrong to conduct the Louisiana lottery, which was suppressed several years ago.

If gambling is not wrong, then it is not wrong to advertise a gambling institution in the newspapers. But a newspaper containing an advertisement of any kind of lottery cannot be sent through the mails. Not only is this true, but it is against the Law to send any kind of advertisement of any kind of lottery through the mails. Evidently the United States Government looks upon gambling as being wrong. There is absolutely no good reason that can be assigned that the practice is not wrong. It is gambling, and gambling is wrong. C. H. C.

Matthew 11:12

---February 18, 1913

Brother W. M. McGee, of Chunky, Miss., requests our views on (Matthew 11:12). The text reads, "And from the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force." This text shows that the Lord established His church during the days of John the Baptist. If the kingdom was not in existence, then the violent did not take it. If the kingdom was not in existence, it did not suffer violence. But the kingdom did suffer violence from the days of John the Baptist, and it was, therefore, in existence from the days of John the Baptist. From the days of John the Baptist, from the very time the Lord established His kingdom, it began to suffer persecutions at the hands of wicked men. C. H. C.

1 Peter 2:10

---February 18, 1913

Brother W. M. McGee, of Chunky, Miss., asks our views on ((Pet 2:10) (I Peter 2:10)), and asks, "Were they not always His (God's) people?" The text reads, "Which in time past were not a people, but are now the people of God: which had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy." No, they were not always God's people in the sense of this text. They were His by choice before time began, but the apostle was not talking about God's choice in this text. He was talking about them being made His by regeneration according to His choice.

They were a chosen generation, and are now made the people of God according to that choice. God had made choice of them, to bestow His mercy upon them. He has now bestowed that mercy according to that choice. In this respect they are now His, but were not His in that sense before regeneration. C H. C.

Hebrews 6:4

---February 18, 1913

Brother C. E. Miller, of Fairfield, Ill., requests our views of ((Hebrews 6:4-7)). which reads, "For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost, and have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put Him to an open shame."

This text is often relied upon to prove the possibility of a child of God apostatizing and being finally lost. To our mind the text teaches the very opposite. If a child of God-one who has been born from above-should fall away, then Christ would necessarily be compelled to come back to this world, suffer and die again. Thus He would be put to an open shame. Failure would be stamped upon His work. But He will never suffer and die again. His work was complete and effectual. He cannot be put to an open shame. He cannot be crucified again. Therefore it is impossible for one of His children to fall away and be finally lost. C. H. C.

Some Ideas Presented

---February 18, 1913

Dear Brother Cayce: If you could put your paper, The Primitive Baptist, in pamphlet form, it would be more convenient for your subscribers in preserving them; I am sure you could get more subscribers. I have been taking it for several years, and have never got tired of it yet. I hardly think it is as interesting as it once was; it used to have more editorials. You and your associate editors are all able writers, and I suggest that you drop some of us inferior writers and have more editorials. I would like for you and your associates to write on some passages of Scripture, especially controverted subjects; it is strengthening to us weak brethren.

Brother Cayce, I wish you to give your views on (Romans 3:21-22). Some say that the phrase "unto all" applies to the Adamic family, and that the phrase "upon all," to them that believe. Also (John 3:16). Some hold that as belief is an act of the creature, salvation is offered to the sinner on condition of his believing. I love to hear the brethren and sisters tell their experiences, and tell of good meetings, but I prefer to hear our able ministers expound the Scriptures to anything else. I see that a great deal of our paper is taken up with experiences of late. I sometimes write a piece, but I would be willing for mine to go to the wastebasket and let the space be filled by our able editor's writing.

We could give much more space in our valuable paper by writers abridging their superfluous words, apologies of their weakness and inability to write, etc. I know that Brother Cayce will find my weakness before he puts it in print. Then after we get through apologising, we take up some more valuable space by adding that we were compelled to write to relieve our minds. The readers all know that we have some impressions to write or we would not write. If we would study our subjects well before writing, and just use words sufficient to make our ideas plainly understood, we could save much valuable space for able brethren.

For example: "I got up this morning, ate my breakfast and fed my horse, shelled some corn, went to the mill and got some meal. When I came home I found my neighbor waiting to see me." I tell him all this, and what has he learned? Simply that I had taken some corn to the mill. His supposition was, that I got up, fed my horse and ate my breakfast, shelled my corn and got it ground. So it is with some of our preachers, if they would cut short their preliminaries and preach their sermon, we could be on our way home for dinner by the time the sermon is preached. If this is put in print, some of the readers will say it is foolish and superfluous talk. If you blame me for writing it, put some of the blame on Brother Cayce for publishing it. Jake Owens. Speedwell, Tenn.

REMARKS

In regard to the foregoing suggestions we will say: We cannot publish The Primitive Baptist in pamphlet form for the reason that the expense would be too great. It would cost at least two or three times as much to get it out that way. The price would have to be increased accordingly, and for that reason many would quit taking it, and our list would not be as large as it is. The phrase- "unto all and upon all them that believe" in (Romans 3:22), simply means "unto and upon all them that believe." This is the plain grammatical construction of the language, and no other construction can be placed upon it without twisting it. (John 3:16) does not teach that belief is a condition in order to eternal life, or anything else. Belief is an evidence of life, and unbelief is an evidence that one is in a state of condemnation. Unbelief is a state of being. The condemnation does not rest in the fact that one does not believe.

If you will read (John 3:19) you will see that the condemnation rests in the fact that men loved darkness rather than light. The Saviour says that "this is the condemnation." Their unbelief, then, was not the cause of their condemnation, but was the evidence of it. Not only is all this true, but it is also true that belief is not a voluntary act. No man ever believed any proposition because he wanted to. People believe when they receive evidence sufficient to convince their judgment that a fact exists, and not before.

We think it would be a good thing if the writers would express themselves in as few words as possible. It is useless to tell how one feels impressed to write. It will be taken for granted that one writes because he is impressed to do so-whatever may have caused the impression. Short pointed articles are much better and of more interest than long ones. Long accounts of tours are of but little, if any, interest to any except the people who live in the section visited. It is not necessary to tell who furnishes conveyance to each place, where we get dinner every day, and where we spend each night, and such like items. It is to be supposed that we are fed and lodged and conveyed along the way. Stating these things cannot comfort, edify or benefit a single reader. Hence, it is a needless use of space.

Now, as to leaving out letters and writing more ourselves will say that we have a great deal of matter sent us that we do not have space to publish. We cannot publish all that is sent to us. Yet a writer will sometimes say: "This is submitted to your better judgment. Do with it as you think best. If you throw it in the wastebasket it will be all right with me." Some such expressions as these are often used. Then if the article does not appear soon we get a letter asking why the letter is not published, and even ordering the paper stopped. So we never know how one is going to feel about such matters. We can only do the best we can. We cannot please all, no matter what or how we do. We will just do the best we can, and ask those who are pleased to help us all they can. C. H. C.

Musical Instruments

---February 25, 1913

We copy the following from the Musical Million, published by The Ruebush Kieffer Company, at Dayton, Va. It may interest some of our readers. C. H. C.

There is no New Testament authority for the use of the musical instrument in worship. As for the comfort some get out of exhortations in Psalms to use instruments in worship, that is completely nullified by the severe rebuke administered in ((Amos 6:5) (Amos 6:5). As for the New Testament teaching there is absolutely no authority given for the use of anything aside from the human voice and heart in the worship of the Creator, but much in line with "singing and making melody in the heart," worshipping "in spirit and in truth." The musical instrument as an aid to worship is as distinctly out of place as is the prayer wheel or string of beads. Any additions made to the heaven created instruments of worship weakens the spirit of true worship.-D. K. in Gospel Herald.

The Church

---April 1, 1913

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-Will you please write an article on the setting up of the church? Some of my neighbors say that there is no organic church of Christ here on earth. Your brother in hope, Jas. L. Arnold. R. 2, Bradford, Tenn.

REMARKS

Some of your neighbors must be infidels. Evidently they do not believe the plain statements of Holy Writ. ((Dan 2:44) (Daniel 2:44) is very plain. The God of heaven was to set up a kingdom in the days of the kings represented by the toes of the image which Nebuchadnezzar saw. This was evidently the Caesars. While Tiberias Caesar was reigning this was fulfilled. The forty eighth division of the Psalms shows that this kingdom was to be established, and that it would be on Mount Zion. The Saviour gave laws, rules and regulations to govern the members of this church, or kingdom. These are all a “dead letter,” and are absolutely useless and worthless if there is no organized kingdom of Christ on earth. C. H. C.

Questions on Regeneration

---April 1, 1915

Brother Cayce:

Is it wrong to say that regeneration makes immoral men better morally? What part of the regenerated man do you exhort to obey? Please answer in The Primitive Baptist, and oblige.

OUR ANSWER

To the first question we answer, no; it is not wrong to say that regeneration makes immoral men better morally. We have known some men who were immoral before regeneration, and when they were regenerated, or born again, they left off their immoral practices. The grace of God received in the heart in regeneration teaches “us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously and godly in this present world.” If the grace of God in the heart will not make one a better man, then nothing will.

When we exhort to obedience, we try to follow the example of the apostles. One good example, we think, is in (Romans 12:1), “We beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service.” He cannot render acceptable service to God unless he presents his body. C. H. C.

1 Corinthians 3:2

(I Corinthians 3:2)---April 8, 1913

The text referred to means that the brethren at Corinth were unable to receive the strong meat of the gospel. They had been deluded and led into error. They had decided that it was through the instrumentality of Paul, Apollos, or Cephas that they were in Christ. They could not receive the fundamental truth that they were in Christ independently of the work of the preacher. They could feast upon experimental and practical truths, the milk; but they could not feast upon the fundamental principles, the strong meat, of the gospel. C. H. C.

Matthew 24:19-20

---April 8, 1913

Brother H. J. Brown, of Board Camp, Ark., requests our views on (Matthew 24:19-20). The Saviour is here talking to His disciples about the destruction of the temple. In the destruction of the temple when the city was surrounded by the Roman army, women devoured the flesh of their own children. Some of the Lord's followers escaped, by fleeing into the mountains, when the army made their attack upon the city. Hence the Saviour said pray that it be not in winter. This all refers to the time of the destruction of Jerusalem. C. H. C.

Revelation 12:1

---April 8, 1913

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Please give your views on (Revelation 12:1). Who was the woman? Who was the man child that was to rule all nations? Was what John saw in the past or future? Please answer through The Primitive Baptist. Your brother in hope, J. H. Miller. Camden on Gauley, W. Va.

REMARKS

The woman was the church. She was a wonder when she first appeared, and she has been a wonder from then until now. The child was Christ. The woman had already appeared. This was in the past. Some things recorded in that chapter which he saw were in the future. C. H. C.

Luke 23:43

---April 22, 1913

Sister Mattie Trice, of Nebo, Ky., writes us that she thinks the thief spoken to in (Luke 23:43) was saved, and asks our opinion of the matter. We will say that language could not be plainer. He prayed, "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." The Saviour said unto him, "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise." Paradise is not the grave, but a place of peace or rest. The grave is sometimes called hell, but is never called paradise. To deny that this thief was saved is to deny the plain, positive, emphatic statement of the Saviour. Those who do so may be professed Christians, but they have very little regard for the Saviour's words. C. H. C.

Matthew 18:18

---May 20, 1913

A. J. Oden, of Edinburg, Miss., requests our views on (Matthew 18:18). This verse is the conclusion of the Saviour's teaching to the disciples concerning one brother trespassing against another. When they follow the teaching laid down there, in the instruction given by the Saviour, the same is approved by the Lord. When we follow the instruction of the Saviour, He approves of it. He does not approve any other course; and when we pursue any other course we do not have the blessing of His approval. C. H. C.

Habakkuk 2; Habakkuk 3:19 AND Malachi 4

---May 20, 1913

Brother D. S. Blake, of Concord, N. C, requests our views on ((Hab 2:14) (Habakkuk 2:14) and (Malachi 4). According to ((Hab 2:14) (Habakkuk 2:14) we think the time will come when the gospel in its purity will be preached in every nation and among every people. This will be after the "fullness of the Gentiles be come in" and the Jews have been "grafted in again." All the efforts of modern missionism will not help to bring about the fulfillment of this prophecy. There will be a time of great persecution before this is fulfilled. In (Malachi 4) we think the prophet is telling of the coming of Christ and of the gospel day. He does not refer to the final end of time, but to the end of the law dispensation and the ushering in of the new dispensation, or the gospel day. C. H. C.

Missions

---May 27, 1913

In order to elicit some interest in this hackneyed subject, I will venture to make some remarkable remarks; some startling statements, and I trust the remarkable remarks will not miss the mark, nor the startling statements fail to startle. On some subjects men are sleepy; on some sound asleep; and on others dead asleep. The greatest subject in the world is Missions, hence the greatest sin in the world is anti-missions. God sent His Son to seek and save the lost, "to rescue the perishing;" and the Son sent His disciples on the same mission.

This mission is their only commission, and to oppose missions is to oppose the salvation of sinners. All other errors claim some Scripture support but anti-missionism has not the semblance of Scriptural support. Not only does all Scripture oppose it, but it opposes all Scripture. Some things are better understood by comparison, and some by contrast. Comparison shows the similarities; contrast the dissimilarities. We have vocabulary tables showing similar words. These words are called synonyms; also tables of dissimilar words called antonyms or words of opposite meaning. Such as light and darkness, cold and heat, high and low, up and down, far and near, heavy and light, good and evil, life and death, rough and smooth, sick and well, love and hate, heaven and hell, saint and sinner, God and devil, etc.

The good often appears better and stronger in contrast with the bad. Contrast applies to both principles and practices, to doctrines and duties. A man may be unable to pay his debts or to discharge any duty. His inability may excuse him but can't exonerate him. Inability don't pay debts and is no compensation to the creditor. If one is able, and refuses, he is more guilty and should be forced to do his duty. But if he is opposed to the paying of debts and to the discharge of duty he is an anarchist, and should be cut off from the privileges of society.

Let us now apply these principles to the subject. A man may be an omissionary from want of ability, but his inability may be culpable. Many hide behind inability and ignorance, which is generally more culpable than either or both. With a world of means and opportunities for knowing and doing, who can be excused from either? If the widow was commendable for giving her two mites any one is censurable for not doing it. The least was her all and if it was her duty to give that, it is the duty of all to give the least and all rather than not give at all. But if one is ABLE to give and refuses to do so, he is a remissionary, and is more guilty than the omissionary, and how much more God only can judge.

But the anti-missionary reaches the utmost extent of guilt, because he is opposed to both the principle and practice of giving, notwithstanding the unspeakable benefits that accrue from giving. He is an anarchist in the Kingdom of heaven, and in all the kingdoms of the world, for both heaven and earth commend and command the principle and the practice of both benevolence and beneficence. It is commendable to all but devils. The man who is always receiving like the dead sea, and never gives, is deader than the sea-salt has no savor for such. As a Gentile, he has been given the opportunity to hear, and believe, and be saved, but he is opposed to giving the opportunities to others whatever the fatal results may be in not doing so. Opposed to others hearing lest they should also believe and be saved! But it may be chided that they are not opposed to the salvation of others, but opposed to extending them the appointed means to that end.

No anti-salvationists, but anti-missionists. But is not that a delusive dodge? If a house with sleeping inmates is on fire, and you have the opportunity and the means of rescuing them, and don't act, would you not be charged with their destruction by both human and divine law? If you were exhorted to do so, and refused, would you not be still more guilty? But if in principle and practice you should be opposed to helping and saving the perishing, could anything be added to such guilt? There are heaven appointed means and agencies for the procuring and perpetuating natural life. This is conceded by all. Is not the same true in the spiritual realm? If we fail to use the God appointed means and agencies and opportunities for the production and perfection of spiritual life, are we not as much more culpable as the benefits are superior? If we are sent to the lost for their salvation, and fail or refuse to go, will not their blood be required at our hands? But, suppose one goes further than failure or refusal to go, because he is opposed to all such means and agencies and instrumentalities appointed for the salvation of others, is he not as guilty as can be, yea infinitely more so than in the other case, as infinite interests are involved? Is he not deserving not only of the pie, but of the bottomless pit, not only of hell but of the lowest and hottest hell, not only wrath but wrath to the uttermost.

I do not charge that an anti-missionary is directly opposed to the salvation of any or all, but he is opposed to being sent or used himself, and also opposed to any one else being so sent and used. That is, he is opposed to any means being used for the salvation of any one. If one is opposed to the use of means and agencies appointed for natural life, without which natural life cannot be produced or preserved, then his guilt is measured by the value of natural life. So, if one refuses because opposed to the use of appointed means for spiritual life, his guilt is measured by the value of spiritual life. This is true, though the natural or spiritual life is not dependent on him, provided he is sent of God for such a purpose. If God appoints means to the end, he cannot oppose the means without opposing the end. Such dodges are thus deceitful devices of the devil.

When God puts righteousness to the line and judgment to the plummet, as He will do to all of us, how can the anti-missionary stand? Answer: Just like any other transgressor can stand, namely, by repentance and confession and abandonment of his anti-missionary sins. For such and to this end, this effort is made. Let the anti-missionary repent and forsake his anti-missionary sins if he hopes for forgiveness. Is there a sin or crime among men that can compare to this opposition to the salvation of men? I affirm that the greatest criminals are religious criminals. Their "damnation heresies" are religiously garbed as Satan's "ministers of righteousness," and they generally go as wolves in sheep's clothing.

Their saying, "Lord! Lord!" and believing much truth, and doing much good in the name of the Lord cannot save them from the sentence: "Depart from me, for I know you not."

What communion hath light and darkness, and what agreement has Missions and Anti-missions? They are as opposite as good and evil, Christ and Belial.

Do the Scriptures teach Missions or Anti-missions? They can't teach both, Some errors may seemingly have one or more Scriptures in their support, but who has dared to claim one Scripture in support of anti-missionism? O, they say, if eternal and unconditional and personal election and predestination are true, and true they are, then there is no need of missions. But who said so? If God said so, where? Ah, the author of that damnable heresy is the adversary of the souls. It is just like him. Such conclusions are in the Scriptures but the Scriptures every time give the devil as the author, and he who preaches it is a minister of Satan pretending to preach righteousness.

REMARKS

The above effusion is from the pen of Rev. J. B. Moody, D. D., and appeared in the Baptist Builder of January 15, 1913. For downright Phariseism and dirty mudslinging we believe it is just about the limit. According to Elder Moody, the Anti-missionaries, as he terms them, should have a place in the lowest depths of the bottomless pits of hell. This only manifests the corruption of his wicked, abominable and deceitful heart. Judging from his utterances in the above article one would be forced to conclude that his heart is a sink of sin-a cage of unclean birds-desperately wicked-"as black as the ace of spades" -as bitter as Satan himself.

We pity the poor, proud, haughty, wicked sinner which he manifests himself to be. We can feel to excuse him on the ground that he is old and childish, pettish and has a disordered liver-and possibly his mind is not as strong as it was in his younger days. We are always sorry for old people who are growing weak minded. The elder says: "God sent His Son to seek and to save the lost, 'to rescue the perishing; and the Son sent His disciples on the same mission.'" We do not know where the elder obtained his information concerning this matter. He never got it in the Bible, for it is not there. We wonder if this not one of the devil's inventions, and the elder is advocating it for him? Christ Jesus came into this world to save His people from their sins. {see (Matthew 1:21)}

The work of regeneration is a creative work, and requires creative power. Elder Moody, with all the modern Missionaries in the world, cannot create the smallest atom that floats in the atmosphere. Neither can they help in the work of creation. The only thing men can create is a "fuss" or a disturbance. No one man can even do that unless another man will help him. God is the great Creator, and He used no means or instrumentality in the work of creation in the beginning. Neither does He use means or instrumentalities in creating sinners in Christ. God will raise the dead in the resurrection morning, and He will not use Dr. Moody as an instrument or means in doing that work. Neither does the Son use Dr. Moody as an instrument or a means in raising sinners out of a state of death in sin to a state of life in Christ. The one is done just like the other. "For as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; even so the Son quickeneth whom He will." -(John 5:21).

Again, the doctor says: "But the Anti-missionary reaches the utmost extent of guilt, because he is opposed to both the principle and practice of giving, notwithstanding the unspeakable benefits that accrue from giving." In this statement the doctor makes a charge that is absolutely false, so far as our people are concerned. We are not opposed to giving; but we are opposed to giving in order to sustain and uphold the false systems and theories which have been invented by men. We are opposed to the widows, orphans, and hungry poor of our land "giving all" for the support of high salaried preachers, agents, secretaries and managers of the different boards which have been created by the ingenuity of men, and all which are unauthorised by the word of God.

We are also opposed to men obtaining money under false pretense, and that is what this modern missionary scheme does. It represents to the people that the heathens are going to hell every day by the multiplied thousands for want of the gospel, and that the gospel is not sent because of a lack of funds; and the funds are lacking because of the pride and covetousness of the people here. The idea that the eternal destiny of men and women in foreign lands depends upon money and the liberality of the people here is preposterous. It is absolutely untrue, and the obtaining of money under such claims is simply to obtain it under false pretense. It is a penitentiary crime to get money under false pretense, unless it is done under the cloak of religion! This is what our people are opposed to, and some honest people will be living to oppose it as long as the world stands-no matter how much Dr. Moody may wish they were all in the lowest pits of hell.

The rich man in hell believed the same doctrine Dr. Moody is advocating now. Abraham, in heaven, did not believe it, but advocated the same principle we advocate now. Hence Dr. Moody's doctrine is from hell, and the doctrine we advocate is from heaven. Therefore, Dr. Moody, and those who advocate the same principles he does, are hell-sent preachers. May the Lord pity them. C. H. C.

Isaiah 45:7

---June 3, 1913

Brother E. M. Vandiver, of Winnsboro, Texas, requests our views of ((7) (Isaiah 45:7). The text reads, "I form the light, and create darkness: I make peace, and create evil: I the Lord do all these things." The darkness and evil referred to in this text is not sin, but punishment for sin. ((Amos 3:6) (Amos 3:6) is another text very much like this. It says, "Shall a trumpet be blown in the city and the people not be afraid? shall there be evil in a city, and the Lord hath not done it?" Here is the evil mentioned also by this prophet. But this evil is a punishment for sin. Notice ((Amos 3:2) (Amos 3:2), "You only have I known of all the families of the earth: therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities." This was to Israel, and the evil was the punishment sent upon them for their iniquities.

Any man who says the evil in these places is sin and wickedness believes that God is the author of sin. He cannot believe otherwise. If he says God creates sin, he must believe that God is the author of sin. When he says he does not believe God is the author of sin, and also says God makes or creates sin, he does not tell the truth. There is no way out of this. C. H. C.

Romans 8:15-23; Galatians 4:5

---June 3, 1913

Brother E. C. Carter, of Blue Ridge, Texas, requests our views of (Romans 8:15-23) and (Galatians 4:5). We suppose it is the subject of the adoption that he wants our views on, as he states he has been interested in that subject. We haven't time or space to write at length on the subject. Get your Bible now and read (Romans 8:15-23). In (Romans 8:15) the apostle says, "Ye have received the spirit of adoption." They receive the spirit of adoption in regeneration. In that work one is born of the heavenly parentage-made akin to God, though he is still akin to Adam. Hence, he now has two natures.

Adoption is to take one out of one family and put him into another. Adoption does not change relationship, or kinship. We are made akin to God by regeneration. Then when they are made akin to God they have the spirit of adoption-desire to be taken into the family of God; hence, are waiting for the adoption. The adoption, for which they are waiting, will take place in the resurrection when the body is raised from the grave and taken into the heavenly family in glory. Jesus came into this world and suffered, bled and died, for His people, that they might receive the adoption of sons. See (Galatians 4:5). He rose from the dead that they might also rise and be adopted into the heavenly family. The resurrection of their bodies is made secure by the resurrection of His body. C. H. C.

1 Corinthians 7:14,15

---June 10, 1913

A. J. Oden, of Edinburg, Miss., requests our views on ((4) (I Corinthians 7:14-15). The reading is as follows: "For the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified by the husband; else were your children unclean; but now are they holy. But if the unbelieving depart, let him depart. A brother or sister is not under bondage in such cases: but God hath called us to peace." We suppose the main point the brother wishes our views on is the expression, "A brother or a sister is not under bondage in such cases."

But we will say, first, that the preceding verse has reference to the legitimacy of the children. The marriage was legal, and the children are, therefore, legitimate. Now, if the unbelieving wife or husband departs, or leaves the believing one, then the believing one is not under bondage. That simply means this: If Mr. A. is a believer and marries Miss B. who is an unbeliever, and Miss B. then refuses to live with Mr. A., or refuses to remain with him, then Mr. A., is not under bondage. That is, he is not bound to live with her.

Some people say this gives Mr. A. the right to marry again, but it does not, for ((0) (I Corinthians 7:10-11) say, "And to the married I command, yet not I, but the Lord, Let not the wife depart from her husband: but and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband: and let not the husband put away his wife." So if Mr. A's wife departs he has no right to marry again. He must remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her. This is the plain requirement here. C. H. C.

London Confession and Fall of Man

---June 10, 1913

Some time ago we received a letter from Brother T. W. Todd, of Manitou, Ky., from which we take the following extracts:

We are divided here about the fall of man. I believe Adam was able to keep the law, but others claim that Adam had to fall so God could carry out His plan of salvation. They say that if Adam had stood he would have frustrated the plan of salvation. I know your views on that subject; but I want to know if the London Confession of Faith which you publish is the whole Confession, or is it just a sketch. I have been told that there is a brother in our country who has a London Confession which says that Adam could not have stood.

To this we will say that if Adam could not have kept the law, then his condemnation for the violation of the law is not just; and if his condemnation is not just, then the law was not just.

But the apostle says {((2) (Romans 7:12))} that the law is just. If the law is just, then the punishment for the violation of the law is just; and if the punishment is just, then the man could have kept the law. He did not have to violate it.

To say that man had to violate the law in order that God carry out His plan of salvation is to say that man had to commit sin in order to be saved in heaven. This would not only make eternal salvation conditional, but would make it conditional upon the wicked works of men. That is worse than the rankest Arminianism we ever heard.

Some people accused the apostle of preaching and teaching the principle "Let us do evil that good may come." The apostle denied the charge and said that it was a slanderous report. He did not teach that man had to violate the law in order that God carry out His plan of salvation. The man who does teach that teaches heresy of the very worst sort. He must want a cloak to hide behind to do some meanness.

As to the London Confession of Faith will say no man has a true copy of that Confession which says Adam could not have stood. That Confession never did say any such thing. The London Confession which we have published and for sale was copied from Hassell's History. We have a copy of that Confession, as adopted by the Philadelphia Association in 1742, and published in 1831, which is the same, except two chapters added on singing of Psalms (chapter 23), and laying on of hands (chapter 31). The same Confession is in Crosby's History of the English Baptists. We never heard before of one claiming that the London Confession said Adam could not have stood. No honest man who is informed can make such a claim.

The Confession says (Chapter IV Sec. 2), "After God had made all other creatures He created man, male and female, with reasonable and immortal souls, rendering them fit unto that life to God for which they were created, being made after the image of God, in knowledge, righteousness and true holiness; having the law of God written in their hearts, and power to fulfill it; and yet under a possibility of transgressing, being left to the liberty of their own will which was subject to change." This positively says they had POWER TO FULFILL IT. That is what those English Baptists said in 1689.

Another point we call attention to here is that these Baptists said God made man with a reasonable and immortal soul. Those who are now teaching that man is wholly mortal-soul, body and spirit-and that when man dies, "he dies all over," are not like those English Baptists in 1689. They have departed from Baptist faith. They are not Primitive Baptists. C. H. C.

Questions

---June 17, 1913

J. M. Presnell, of Rominger, N. C, asks us the following questions:

1. Was Adam made perfect?
2. Was he a fit subject for heaven in his created state?
3. Was he made in the image of God in purity?
4. Does the Bible teach that God made the serpent? If so, where did he get the power to tempt Eve to eat the forbidden fruit?
5. Is lust sin? It seems to me there was a place in Eve for the conception of lust before she ate the fruit. "When lust has conceived it brings forth sin."
6. Wasn't there sin brought forth before she ate the fruit?

OUR ANSWERS

1. Yes, in the sense that he was without sin. He was not perfect in the sense that it was impossible for him to become contaminated.

2. No, he was not a fit subject for heaven in his original state. If he was, then God made a mistake when He put him in the garden. But God made no mistake. Hence, he was not a fit subject for heaven, but a fit subject for the garden as long as he obeyed God's law.
3. He was made in the image of God in his being-in his makeup. Man is in the likeness and image of God. A likeness is a picture. God is represented as having a head, eyes, ears, nose, mouth, body, arms, hands and feet. Man possesses these- hence he is in the likeness of God. Man is one, composed of three-soul, body and spirit. God is one, composed of three- Father, Son and Holy Spirit. Hence, man is in the image of God. This is the way in which man was made in the image of God, and not in the sense of purity. Man did not possess that spiritual life which prepares him for heaven.
4. The Bible says God formed the crooked serpent. But we judge you mean to ask if God made the devil. Some say He did, and some say He did not. We wonder how they know. The first account we have of him was in the garden. Anything farther than this is speculation, and speculation is gambling. We prefer not to gamble. We have spent very little time investigating the genealogy of the devil. We are not concerned about him, his kingdom, nor his children. We are warned to resist him-to let him alone. Failing to do so will get people into trouble.
5. No, lust is not sin. It brings forth sin when it is conceived.
6. No, sin was not brought forth before she ate the fruit. Sin is the transgression of the law. She sinned when she transgressed the law, although she was deceived. The man was not deceived. He transgressed wilfully. Sin entered into the world by one man. {See (Romans 5:12)} C. H. C.

I Corinthians 6:9-11

I Corinthians 6:9-11

---June 17, 1913

J. E. Rinehart, of Rienzi, Miss., requests our views of (I Corinthians 6:9-11). We gave a short statement of our views of this text in our issue of November 15, 1910, as follows: The apostle shows that certain characters shall not inherit the kingdom of God.

Then he tells the Corinthians that they were once in the same condition of these characters.

“Such were some of you.” But the Lord had cleansed them by His Spirit and had brought them out of their former condition. It was not done because of their good works, because they had not been doing good works. But since the Lord has washed them and cleansed them by His Spirit they are capacitated to do good works.

Brother Rinehart also says: “Seeing that some are guilty of either one of those things before being born again can being guilty of either one of these things make a man unfit for the kingdom or the church?” If the man has done these things, and was afterward regenerated, or born again-cleansed, washed, sanctified, justified-by the Spirit of God, and then ceases to practice those things, he is entitled to membership in the church, so far as these things are concerned. If a man continues to be a transgressor of God's law after regeneration, he has no right to membership in the church; but one who has been regenerated, and then lives the right kind of life, has right to membership in the church. C. H. C.

Genesis 6:6 AND Exodus 32:14

---June 24, 1913

Joseph A. Brown, of Foss, Okla., requests our views on (Genesis 6:6) and ((2:14) (Exodus 32:14); (Genesis 6:6) reads, “And it repented the Lord that He had made man on the earth, and it grieved Him at His heart.” This was said in Noah's day before the flood. (Genesis 6:7) says, “And the Lord said, I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth; both man, and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth me that I have made them.” Just one hundred and twenty years from that time the Lord sent the flood and destroyed man from the face of the earth. (Verse 3)says, “Yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years.” This was just one hundred and twenty years before the flood. Hence, this is what the language refers to, and has no reference whatever to the eternal salvation of sinners, as modern theologians usually teach.

((2:14) (Exodus 32:14) says, “And the Lord repented of the evil which He thought to do unto His people.” This was said concerning the children of Israel when they were in the wilderness worshiping the golden calf which Aaron made. Moses was in the mount receiving the law which the Lord had written on tables of stone. The Lord told Moses what the Israelites were doing, and said they were a stiff-necked people, and threatened to consume them. Moses made intercession for them, and the Lord heard his cries in their behalf and their punishment was suspended. But as a result of this sin three thousand of them were destroyed in one day-see ((2:28) (Exodus 32:28).

These passages cannot mean that God changes, as men do. The Lord says {(Malachi 3:6)} “For I am the Lord, I change not; therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed.” The Lord does not change. His love, tender care and protection is ever the same. His children may so live as to bring down upon themselves His displeasure and the chastening rod, and be punished severely for their wickedness-yet the Lord ever remains the same. They may deny Him, yet He abideth faithful-He cannot deny Himself. Thank and praise His holy name that these things are so. C. H. C.

Matthew 16:19

---June 24, 1913

Brother J. T. Copeland, of Bremen, Ga., requests our views on (Matthew 16:19), which reads, “And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven,” etc. Brother Copeland asks about the keys. Keys are used to unlock, or to open doors. Peter preached the first gospel sermon to the Gentiles. He used the keys then, and unlocked the door of the church to the Gentiles, and it has never been closed against them since that time. When the seventy were sent out by the Saviour before His crucifixion He told them to “go not into the way of the Gentiles,” the door of the church was closed against them then. The keys were given to Peter and he used them in opening the door unto the Gentiles. C. H. C.

Warning

---August 19, 1913

We have received two letters from brethren in Louisiana concerning a man claiming to be a Primitive Baptist preacher. He claimed to be a lawyer, and that he lived in Oklahoma. He went by the name of Morrow while in Louisiana. One letter states that he went from there to Mississippi and then assumed the name of J. H. Thompson. The brethren are warned to beware of him. We thought best to publish this statement rather than to publish the letters, as this short statement is sufficient. Other Primitive Baptist papers are requested to copy.

It is rather strange to us that brethren will be “taken in” by men going over the country claiming to be Primitive Baptist preachers. When a stranger goes into your community, and no Old Baptist there has ever heard of him, and he claims to be an Old Baptist preacher, the rule is that he will do to watch. As a rule you will be safe in letting them alone. C. H. C.

Penick Croaks

---August 26, 1913

The puerile effort of our neighbor, Elder C. H. Cayce, in his last issue to reply to the invincible article of Dr. Moody in the Builder of January 15 on anti-missions is the weakest of all the weak things and the most childish of all childish things this anti-missionary editor has said. This anti-missionary boy imagines himself a man in ability to reply to such a giant as Moody. His mashed toes cause him to squirm and whine out some very ugly words at a father in Israel simply because he cannot answer his arguments. Moody wrote against anti-missionaries no matter in whose ranks they are found. Elder Cayce confesses he is one of them and rails back at Moody by calling him and other missionaries "hell sent preachers." One thing is certain, Cayce don't and won't accept it and try to carry out the commission of our Lord, so if he has any commission at all for his anti-mission work it must be from some other source.

Judging from the spirit Elder Cayce manifests in his editorial toward Moody and all missionaries he must have his commission from the wrong source. We are indeed very glad that Elder Cayce let his readers see some things that Moody said and with our faith in them and in the truth we hope it will do some of them good. They are good people, but have been misled by such money loving sheep fleecers as Elder Cayce, who prefers, no doubt, to have them give their money to him, that he may live in fine style, buy and own bank stock, etc., instead of giving it to send the gospel of love and light to the lost for whom Christ gave His blood. His greed for gain and hatred for his brethren who seek to carry out the commission of Jesus manifests itself in such bitter personal attacks as he made on Moody for simply writing the truth against NO MAN AS A MAN, but against the awful error of anti-missions.

The Builder has seen this money loving spirit seek to hide itself behind the boisterous attacks it makes on those who try to help on the cause of Christ, while its covetous nature stalks abroad for money to further personal and selfish ends, and with only good will for all and a simple loyalty to the truth and to the people we do not propose to remain silent while men who do little or nothing for the good of humanity continue to try to hurt and hinder those who seek to do good. Better stop your ugly personal attacks on missionaries and discuss principles. -I N. Penick in Baptist Builder, June 4, 1913.

OUR REPLY

The above is the croaking of Rev. Dr. I N. Penick. He takes exception to our reply to Dr. Moody's harangue which appeared in that sheet some time ago. It is to be noted that Rev. Penick never gives space in his sheet for any reply we make to their slanderous misrepresentations of our people, but we have given space for every article we have replied to from their pens. Will Dr. Penick give space in his paper for our reply to Dr. Moody or for this reply to himself? No. He dare not let both sides of a question go before his readers. This shows the unfairness of the man. If he will insert our reply to Dr. Moody in his paper, and will submit a bill to us, we will pay for the space at the regular advertising rates. This act of Penick is his usual way of doing business. He will misrepresent our people, as Moody did in the article we replied to, and then put up the "baby cry" of personal attack, and such like, without giving his readers both sides. No honest fair man would continue such practices. We will see if Dr. Penick continues it.

He says Dr. Moody's article was invincible. Yes, it was wonderful!-just about as invincible as a snow ball in this hot weather. He says our reply was the weakest of all the weak things we have said. Well, it was not necessary to say anything so very strong to answer the invincible (?) misrepresentation of Rev. Dr. Moody.

He says we imagine ourself a man. No, Dr. Rev. Hon. Iracund N. Penick, we are not so large in our own estimation as the wonderful, magnificent, grandiloquent editor of the Builder is. Neither do we claim to be quite so profound in wisdom as the great Dr. Moody. If the Queen of Sheba could be here now and behold the wonderful attainments of Moody and Penick she could say "The thousandth part hath not yet been told." Solomon is so wonderfully eclipsed now! It can no longer be said that he was the wisest man. Poor old Solomon. But, “such a giant as Moody!” Yes, we have read of a giant who in ancient times defied the armies of the living God. That man was an uncircumcised Philistine. We suppose the modern Softshell Missionaries now have his counterpart, as the Dr. Penick boasts of his giant. There was a stripling of a lad who boldly marched out with his sling to meet the giant. As Dr. Penick says we are just a boy, we suppose we are the counterpart of that lad. All right, Doctor; thank you.

The Doctor says we whine at a father in Israel, but it appears already that Dr. Moody is of the uncircumcised Philistines from what Penick has said, and is, therefore, not a father in Israel. He must be an alien. He speaks the Ashdod language any way. By the way, it seems that some folks love to be fathers, any way. They seem to be willing to “father” most anything. But Dr. Moody is no father of ours in any sense of the word, nor is Dr. Penick. Nor is there any person living on earth of whom either is the father in a gospel sense. They have never yet begotten one person to a belief of the truth, for they do not teach it. Dr. Penick says we cannot answer giant Moody's arguments. Why did he not publish our article and let his readers see for themselves that we did not answer them? He knew better than to do so. He knows we did answer them.

He says we confess that we are an anti-missionary. We made no such confession. Anti means opposed to, and we will plead guilty to being opposed to the modern, unholy, unscriptural, unrighteous inventions of men as practiced by Moody, Penick & Co., in the name of Christianity. Moody, Penick & Co. charge upon us that we are opposed to the preaching of the gospel, and will not let our denial of that charge appear in their papers; and THEY KNOW THAT THE CHARGE IS UNTRUE.

He says we rail back at Moody, and call him and other missionaries hell sent preachers. Again, we press the question, Why did he not publish what we said? Were we justifiable in our statement? Let us look at it again. The rich man in hell taught the same doctrine that is taught by Moody and Penick. He taught that men might be kept from going to hell through the instrumentality of preaching. Abraham, in heaven, did not believe that doctrine. Then, who teaches the same doctrine that is taught in hell? Moody and Penick. If they are not hell sent preachers, they should quit teaching a hell taught doctrine.

He says we “won't accept and try to carry out the commission of our Lord.” What was the extent of the command? (Mark 16:15): “Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.” (Colossians 1:5-6): “For the hope which is laid up for you in heaven, whereof ye heard before in the word of the truth of the gospel; which is come unto you, as it is in all the world.” Here the apostle says that the gospel is come into all the world.

(Colossians 1:23): “And be not moved away from the hope of the gospel, which ye have heard, and which was preached to every creature which is under heaven.” The gospel was preached to every creature under heaven. Moody and Penick are trying to accomplish a work which has been done nearly nineteen hundred years. They are nearly nineteen hundred years behind the times, and yet charge us with ignorance. Poor little i. n. penick!

He says he judges that we have our commission from the wrong source. Yes, our commission is from the wrong source for us to preach the same doctrine that is advocated in hell. Yes, we let our readers see what these fellows have to say. We are not afraid for our readers to see both sides; but Elder Penick will not let this article appear in his paper. He does not want his readers to get the other side of the question.

Now, is it not wonderful that we are such fleecers of sheep! Elder Penick, do you own any bank stock? Dr. Penick is the man who teaches that people may be saved from an endless hell by the expenditure of money-yet he owns bank stock! If he would put the money into the missionary channel instead of bank stock, according to his doctrine, it would save some souls from an endless hell. Their claim is that it costs about five dollars to save a soul in Tennessee. If Elder Penick has only fifty dollars invested in bank stock, then, according to his own doctrine, ten Tennessee souls go to an eternal hell because he invested the money in bank stock instead of putting it in the state missionary channel.

Again: We find the statement in the Baptist and Reflector of November 11, 1909, that "it costs ten cents to evangelize a heathen." At this rate, if Dr. Penick has fifty dollars invested in bank stock, according to his own doctrine, five hundred souls are sent to an endless hell because he invested his money in bank stock instead of using it to evangelize the heathen! This is the horrible teaching of these self-righteous, money hunting, money loving, hireling preachers!

We are NOT AGAINST Moody or Penick AS MEN; but we are opposed to such ungodly teaching, and we shall, by the Lord's help, continue to expose them. If they do not want us to reply to them, they must stop their unholy thrusts and ungodly misrepresentations of us and our people. They are doing good to humanity by getting the peoples hard earned dollars under the pretense of using it for the eternal salvation of souls, thus denying the work of God, and substituting filthy lucre for the blood of Christ and the work of the Spirit. Up to this good hour Dr. Penick has not agreed to affirm that "Missions as taught and practiced by the Missionary Baptists are authorised by the word of God." C. H. C.

Job 14:10-12

---September 2, 1913

Brother P. G. Garrett, of Windsor, Mo., requests our views concerning the sleep mentioned in ((Job 14:12) (Job 14:12), and refers to verses 10 and 11. The passage reads, "But man dieth and wasteth away: yea, man giveth up the ghost, and where is he? As the waters fail from the sea, and the flood decayeth and drieth up: so man lieth down, and riseth not: till the heavens be no more, they shall not awake, nor be raised out of their sleep." We understand this sleep to be the sleep of death. The body dies, and is not raised to life again as it was, but when time ends-at that time it shall be awakened out of sleep. The Lord's people will then awake to an eternal day of love, joy, peace and happiness. They shall be changed-body as well as soul-to a glorified state. Their bodies will be immortalized. They will be raised spiritual, in glory. C. H. C.

Bogard Objects

---September 2, 1913

In the Baptist Flag of August 21, 1913, B. M. Bogard quotes this from us in the Cayce-Srygley debate, page 148: "Every one who ever has, does now, or ever will really and truly desire to meet God in peace, heaven will be their home by and by." Dr. (?) Bogard objects to this, but does not quote the entire sentence. The whole paragraph reads: "Do I believe they are taken home to heaven against their will? No, sir; God gives them a will, if you please, and that will springs from the divine life which God implants within the soul, and they long to see His face, and want to live with Him in heaven, and want to be free from sin, and want to be saved; and every one that ever has, does now, or ever will really and truly desire to meet God in peace, heaven will be their home by and by."

This shows that we held that those who have that real and true desire received it from the Lord. Bogard simply garbled our expression, and he could have had no excuse for doing so. No honest man will thus garble the language of another when he has it before him in plain print. It seems as though these hireling preachers will go to much trouble to garble and misrepresent people.

But he and his people have charged that we teach that a man is bound for hell, no matter how much he may desire to be saved. But, presto, change! Bogard is now the man who teaches that a man is going to hell, no matter if he does desire to be saved! "The legs of the lame are not equal: so is a parable in the mouth of fools." -(7) (Proverbs 21:7). C. H. C.

Cows Laugh

---September 2, 1913

Another brother vents his spleen in The Primitive Baptist at Dr. Moody and others for what they have said against the spirit of anti-missions. By this continued howling those brethren will surely convince their readers that they are not only anti-missionary, but that opposition to the spread of the gospel is their most loved doctrine. This W. E. Brush calls Moody, et als., in capital letters, "POOR, IGNORANT, IDOLATROUS HEATHENS." To hear an ordinary Hardshell call J. B. Moody IGNORANT, etc., is enough to make cows laugh. Wonder how that writer would find out that anybody is ignorant?-I N. Penick, in Baptist Builder, July 2, 1913.

REMARKS

Here is Penick again with his false charge that our people are opposed to the preaching of the gospel. He knows this charge is false, and it appears that he makes it wilfully and maliciously. If it is not maliciously he will retract. He knows it is the new inventions they have and the doctrine they teach that we oppose, and not that we oppose gospel preaching. But he says this "is enough to make cows laugh." Well, we do not know whether the cows laughed or not, but it made Penick bellow. C. H. C.

Job 7:1 AND Job 14:6

---September 9, 1913

Brother R. M. Lovett, of Strong, Ark., requests our views of ((Job 7:1) (Job 7:1) and ((Job 14:6) (Job 14:6), and asks, "Can a man shorten his days on earth?"

((Job 7:1) (Job 7:1) reads, "Is there not an appointed time to man upon earth? are not his days also like the days of an hireling?" The marginal reference uses the word warfare instead of appointed, and the original word often means warfare. It appears from what follows in this chapter that the word warfare would be a more nearly literal translation than the word appointed. But if the word appointed is the correct translation, or the proper word here, it does not intimate that there is a certain, unalterable, fixed time at which every man shall die. A time is appointed unto man upon earth-not a certain, fixed time for him to die.

((Job 14:5) (Job 14:5-6), reads, "Seeing his days are determined, the number of his months are with thee, thou hast appointed his bounds that he cannot pass; turn from him that he may rest, till he accomplish, as an hireling, his day." In this connection Job refers to the tree springing up again, but that man does not die and return again to this life, but that he shall be changed. ((Job 14:14) (Job 14:14) says, "If a man die, shall he live again? All the days of my appointed time will I wait, till my change come." When will the change come? In the resurrection of the body. His appointed time is until then. Hence it is appointed, that at a certain time, God's people shall be raised again and changed from natural to spiritual, from mortal to immortal. That is a time appointed of the Lord.

(Deuteronomy 5:16) says, "Honour thy father and thy mother, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee; that thy days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." Here it plainly says "THAT THY DAYS MAY BE PROLONGED." This was a command in the moral law. Again, (Deuteronomy 6:2), "And that thy days may be prolonged." The Apostle Paul recognised and taught the same truth.

(Ephesians 6:2-3), "Honour thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise; that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth." There they are admonished by the apostle to honor their father and mother that they may live long on the earth.

If a man takes the life of his fellowman, and is condemned by the courts, and hung for the crime, he has not honored his father and mother, and dies early as a result of his wickedness and failure to observe this first commandment with promise. C. H. C.

Not Worth Much

---September 9, 1913

The Rev. Dr. J. P. Greene, of Liberty, Mo., president of William Jewell College, declared in a sermon: "Of the nineteen hundred Baptist churches in the State of Missouri, one hundred are not worth a darn." He explained that the churches that are "not worth a darn" believe in close communion and baptism and they were orthodox, but he did not think a church was orthodox unless it was doing something for Jesus Christ. He said he wanted every church to be a force in its community. "I want them to help the children, to help the widows and the poor, and to help the civic life of that community. I want them to have a hand in the sports of the boys and the pleasures of the girls, in all the good things."

REMARKS

The above clipping is from the St. Louis Post Dispatch. It shows something about what the Missionary Baptists fellowship in their ranks. We thought some of them were not worth much, but it seems that some of their people are getting their eyes open to this foreign mission humbug, and are cutting out some of their giving toward its maintenance, and for this reason the Rev. Dr. Greene says "they are not worth a darn." People who do not give to the support of their inventions and men made institutions are pigmies in their estimation. We only trust that the Lord's children who are deluded by them may get their eyes opened. C. H. C.

Question of Order

---September 9, 1913

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Very Dear Brother-

Would it be contempt of the church for a member to have a cause with another member and refuse to take gospel steps? And upon being admonished by four or five different members of the church at different times he still refuses to take gospel steps and says he will not attend church any more and wants his name taken from the church book? Please answer in The Primitive Baptist. With best wishes to the paper and its editors, and may the God of all truth direct you in the way of all righteousness. Yours in hope, J. M. Walker. Elmore City, Oklahoma.

REMARKS

Such a procedure is most assuredly treating the church and her rules with contempt. If A is grieved with B he should go to B and tell him his fault, as directed in (Matthew 18). If he does not do this, then he should be willing to bear with B. If he is not willing to bear the grievance in silence, it is his indispensable duty to go to B. As stated, a refusal to do so is to treat the church and the rules of her Law Giver with contempt, and the party should be brought under censure of the church. C. H. C.

Good Meetings

---October 7, 1913

We have just attended the meeting of the Cumberland Association, which was held with the church on South College Street (Third Avenue South), Nashville, Tenn. The following named brethren in the ministry were present all or part of the time: S. N. Redford, of Texas; J. D. Parten, of Oklahoma; J. W. Kerr, of Indiana; W. T. Clayton, of Kentucky; H. P. Houk, of Alabama; D. T. Self, H. L. Golston, R. O. Raulston, Thos. Weaver, J. M. Fuqua, E. S. Frye, H. G. Agee, D. Wauford, J. H. Phillips, N. J. Hinson, J. H. Pickard, W. P. Russell, A. J. McWhirter, J. Bunyan Stephens and the writer, all of Tennessee. Sixteen discourses were delivered at the meeting house, including the service Monday night.

The preaching was all a unit-not a discordant note was heard. Love flowed from heart to heart and fellowship abounded. One dear sister (Sister Colburn) came home to the church Saturday night, and we had the privilege of baptizing her in the Cumberland River on Monday afternoon. She came out of the water shouting praises to the Lord, and said she had been walking in the crooked road for years, but was now in the straight path. This was a glorious meeting, and one which will be long remembered.

We also had the privilege of attending the West Tennessee Association at Bethabara Church, near Waverly, Tenn., on the third Sunday in September, and Saturday before and Monday after. This was also a glorious meeting. The Lord's sweet presence was manifested. We were informed that four united with the church during this meeting at the services held at night at the homes. We failed to take a list of the names of the ministers present, and will not give any of their names, as we may not remember all of them.

We also had the pleasure of attending the Forked Deer Association held with the church at Harmony, near Idlewild, Tenn., on the second Sunday in September, and Friday and Saturday before. This was also a good meeting, indeed. Several brethren in the ministry were present, including Elders J. G. Webb and S. N. Redford, of Texas. We are not sure that we can call the names of all of them to mind now, and we took no list of them, so we will not try to give their names. The first association we had the privilege of attending this year was the Round Lick, which was held at the old Round Lick Church, near Watertown, Tenn, on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, embracing the first Sunday in September. A number of brethren in the ministry were present at this meeting, and the Lord's presence was also manifested. Love and fellowship abounded at all these meetings, and we are sure they will not be soon forgotten. C. H. C.

Mormon Questions

---October 28, 1913

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-I have been requested by a Mormon to ask you some questions for you to answer through your paper. First. Where was Jesus from the time of His crucifixion until His resurrection?

2. Can we prove that Jesus Christ was the Son of God?

3. If some of us are God's children, and some are the devil's, can we prove who they are? He said He would give you fifty dollars for a whole Bible. Please answer through The Primitive Baptist. Your brother in hope, J. M. Little. McKenzie, Ala,

OUR ANSWER

From the time of His crucifixion until His resurrection the body of Jesus lay in the grave. His Spirit was in paradise, the abode of sanctified souls after death. "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise." -(Luke 23:43).

The fact that Jesus was raised from the grave a living man proves that He was the Son of God. This question from this Mormon savors of infidelity. He is evidently an infidel wearing a cloak of religion. Jesus was the Word. The Word was with God and was God. The same Word was made flesh. See (John 1:1,14). (John 1:18) emphatically states that He was the Son of God. The same statement, calling Him the Son of God, is found in many places.

God's children are known from others, by us, by their fruits. In an unregenerate state all are the children of wrath by nature -all are children of Adam. God's children are made different from others by regeneration. We can know them only by their fruits; but God knows them whether we do or not. Some of the questions from this Mormon savor more of the fruits of infidelity than a child of God.

Who would be willing to go that man's security to give fifty dollars for a whole Bible? We would not sell to him or his security on a credit. How would they, know it was a whole Bible if they should see one? It seems to us these folks would be rather quiet on the Bible question, since their representative, Mr. Slover, repudiated Smith's so called inspired translation while in discussion with us at McKenzie, Ala. C. H. C.

Baptism

---November 4, 1913

Brother Wesley Mainer, of Paris, Ark., requests us to explain (Ephesians 4:5) (the one baptism), in connection with ((8:24) (Acts 18:24-25) (John's baptism); ((0) (Luke 12:50) (Christ's baptism); (Luke 1:8) (Spirit baptism); (Matthew 28:19-20) (commission baptism); (Matthew 3:11) (fire baptism). He says, "Please explain and say what one is to be used in this age."

The baptism mentioned in Ephesians is the ONE baptism which puts one into Christ, or makes one a member of the mystical body of Christ. It makes one a child of God. It is done by one Spirit. See (I Corinthians 12:13). The baptism mentioned in ((8:24) (Acts 18:24-25) is water baptism. That mentioned in ((0) (Luke 12:50) was a baptism of suffering. Jesus was to be baptized or overwhelmed in suffering. None of His children ever endure such suffering as He did. There is no baptism mentioned in (Luke 1:8), but we suppose (Mark 1:8) is the text referred to. This is a baptism of the Holy Spirit, and may have reference to the outpouring of the Spirit in a miraculous way, as on Pentecost. The baptism in (Matthew 28:19-20) and ((6) (Mark 16:16) is the same, and is water baptism. They were commanded to baptise in water. The baptism of fire, in (Matthew 3:11), is a purifying, a purging or burning of evil. This is going on now and is by the Holy Spirit. "Our God is a consuming fire." "He shall sit as a refiner's fire."

From the foregoing we have this conclusion: There is just one baptism which puts sinners into Christ, and that is the work of the Holy Spirit-not the work of the preacher, nor the preacher and the water. Then there is a baptism which is a symbol. It is an outward ordinance or washing, which represents the inward work of the Spirit. It represents the inward washing or cleansing which is performed by the Holy Spirit in the ONE baptism which puts the sinner in Christ. The Holy Spirit is carrying His work on now, and those who have thus been operated upon by the Holy Spirit should be baptized in water to show forth or declare the work of the Spirit in their hearts. C. H. C.

Mark 9:38-40

((9:38) (Mark 9:38-40)

---November 4, 1913

Sister V V Hankins, Sulligent, Ala., requests our views of ((9:38) (Mark 9:38-40), and asks, "Did John mean that he did not believe like them, or did he mean that he would not follow them naturally?" John meant that the one referred to was not keeping company with them-he was not going along in the company of the disciples. This is made clearer in ((9) (Luke 9:49), which says, "because he followeth not with us." C. H. C.

Mark 16:16-18

---November 4, 1913

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-Will you please give your views on ((6) (Mark 16:16-17,18), “Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptised shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned. And these signs shall follow them that believe; in my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover.” Now was it the apostles that were to do these things? or was it those who believed when the apostles did the preaching?

We have some so-called preachers here who claim that they have been baptised with the Holy Spirit and can do those things; and others who say that there never has been a man that received the Holy Spirit except the twelve apostles. I do not believe either one of the positions in the light in which they preached it. I believe every one of God's children receive the Spirit of God. I believe one of their positions is just as false as the other; neither one is nothing more than fatalism. Now, Brother Cayce, give your views through The Primitive Baptist. Yours for the truth, J. H. Seratt. R. 5, Dyersburg, Tenn.

REMARKS

It was the apostles who were to do the things enumerated. ((20) (Mark 16:20) says, “And they went forth, and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them, and confirming the word with signs following.” These apostles possessed the Holy Spirit in such a measure that they were able to perform these miracles. We know that some claim to perform them now, but they are imposters, and wilfully misrepresent. Get them to try taking some arsenic, if you can.

On the other hand, if no one possesses the Spirit now, then no one is a child of God now, for the apostle says, “If any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His.” -(Romans 8:9).

Again, “He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life.” -(I John 5:12). C. H. C.

Who Are Landmarkers?

---November 18, 1913

Brother Cayce, who are the so-called Landmarkers? How long have they been born? What man is their father? I know scarcely anything about them. There is one here that calls himself that. The first time I talked with him, from his talk I judged him to be a mixed blood-as the mule,-a cross between Uncle Alex and Wesley. The next time he was a modern Missionary. The next time he talked in pretty fair imitation of an Old Baptist. So I saw that he had no anchor and was likely to drift into most anything..... With brotherly love and best wishes, I am yours in hope, J. H. Quinnelly. Wisner, Miss.

REMARKS

The “Landmarkers” are a set of Missionary Baptists who have lately sprung up among the Missionaries objecting to the boards and conventions in mission work. They are Missionary Baptists, and the only difference between them and other modern Missionaries is simply a question as to who shall handle the pie. This is all the difference we can see. C. H. C.

Mr. Slover Denies It

---December 9, 1913

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Sir-In your paper of October 28, 1913, I note the following statement from you, viz.: “It seems to us these folks would be rather quiet on the Bible question, since their representative, Mr. Slover, repudiated Smith's so-called inspired translation while in discussion with us at McKensie, Ala.” Now, this is to inform you that you have made a mistake, although you might not have done it intentionally, when you wrote that Mr. Slover repudiated the inspired translation that was referred to above. I trust this will cause you to see this mistake, if you have not seen it before; and I take this method in order to ask you to make a correction of this error in your paper at an early date. If we cannot see alike in regard to the subject of religion, we should act honest and truthful in every sense of the term when speaking or writing on what each other believes.

Hoping this correction will soon be made, I still remain an advocate of honesty and fair dealing with all, and a believer in the inspired translation. F. M. Slover. McKensie, Ala., November 3, 1913.

REMARKS

We give space to the above from Mr. Slover, the gentleman who represented the Mormons, or Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, in discussion with us in McKenzie, Ala., some time ago. He denies that he repudiated their so-called inspired translation of the Bible, but the people who were present know. Their translation says, in (I Timothy 5:10), "if she have washed the saints' clothes." An agreement, or rule, had been signed at his request before the debate began that the King James translation should be taken as the standard of evidence, and that translation says, "if she have washed the saints' feet." In the debate we put the Greek words meaning feet and clothes on a blackboard, and challenged the gentleman to say which word the apostle used. He could not say, but finally said that the rules said the King James translation should be taken as the standard of evidence, and that Cayce had left that and gone to the Greek, but that he (Slover) proposed to stick to the rule, and would accept the King James translation.

In accepting the King James translation he certainly repudiated the Smith translation. We did not misrepresent him. We told the truth. But he says "we should act honest and truthful in every sense of the term," etc. Then Mr. Slover should not have told that Cayce failed to notice so many proof texts introduced by him. You should have been honest and truthful, Mr. Slover. C. H. C.

Mt. Zion Association

---December 30, 1913

Since we were in the investigation meeting of the Mount Zion Association in November we have been so busy that we have not taken time to write for the paper concerning the matter. The brethren who composed the committee found that there had been some disorder years ago in the Mount Zion Association. The brethren did not deny that some disorder had been among them. But they had long ago rid themselves of all the disorder. They did all that they could do, and all that could be required. They are certainly a band of zealous and orderly Old Baptists.

We cannot publish a full account of the meeting, as it would require too much space, but the whole thing is to be printed in pamphlet form, and will contain much valuable information on church order. The pamphlet will be called "Church Order." A copy can be had, as soon as they are out, by sending to Elder B. F. Hollind, Horton, Ala., or to our office. The copy is in the hands of the printer, and the work will soon be done. Notice will be given as soon as they are ready to send out. C. H. C.

Close of Volume 28

---December 30, 1913

This issue of The Primitive Baptist closes the twenty eighth year of its publication. These twenty eight years have wrought many changes, but some things have not changed. The paper stands for the same principles now that were advocated in the first issue. Principles are eternal and never change. Some men have changed during these years, and have forsaken and turned away from those principles, but we cannot see any good reason why they should be forsaken. Those principles have stood the test of persecution and opposition from every quarter and from all opposers of truth, but they yet stand, and will continue to do so. We are satisfied with the principles we have contended for, but we are not satisfied with our own efforts. We have made mistakes-many of them. We do not claim to have reached a state of perfection, neither do we expect to do so while we remain in this world, but we desire to improve as much as possible. We desire to “forget those things which are behind,” and “press forward,” endeavoring to profit by the mistakes of the past. We may have made some mistakes which were very glaring to some of our many readers. We trust they will throw a mantle of charity over our imperfections and pass our mistakes by.

We have tried to make The Primitive Baptist an Old Baptist paper. Whether we have done this or not is for our readers to judge. We have been made to feel that we were, in some degree, at least, succeeding in our efforts in that respect by the liberal patronage we have received, and the interest many dear brethren and sisters have taken in extending the circulation of the paper. The circulation has increased a little during this year. Sometimes we receive a complaint that the price of the paper is too high, but those who complain know nothing about what it costs to publish the paper; and many of those who complain at the present price would still complain if the price was only fifty cents a year. The price is absolutely as low as it can be made and the paper be self-sustaining, and it would not be self-sustaining at the present price if the subscription list was much smaller than it is.

A few years ago the price was one dollar a year-only twenty five cents less than the present price -while everything else was about fifty per cent lower than at present. The price of the paper is even lower at $1.25 a year than it once was at $1 a year, for it is now about twice as large as it used to be. It has been our desire to give as much good reading matter as possible. We have not tried to give our subscribers as little as possible, but as much as possible. The price of other religious papers the same size as The Primitive Baptist ranges from $1.50 to $2 a year, and some of them are not as large as The Primitive Baptist.

We have had trials and conflicts, yet the Lord has been good. We trust that we are thankful for all His blessings. Many expressions of love, fellowship and encouragement have been received from the dear brethren. We feel unworthy of it all, and trust that we appreciate it. We humbly trust that we may be so kept by the Lord's grace that the love, confidence and fellowship of the brethren may never be betrayed by us. Wishing all our readers a prosperous and happy New Year, and asking an interest in your prayers, we bid you all adieu for the year 1913. C. H. C.

1914

Introduction to Volume 29

---January 6, 1914

We are now entering upon the duties of a new year. This issue begins a new volume of The Primitive Baptist. Twenty eight years ago the first issue of this paper was sent out by our sainted father, Elder S. F. Cayce. He continued as editor until he was called from his labors on the fourth Sunday in August, 1905, since which time we have been trying to fill that place. We now begin the publication of the twenty ninth volume.

Many changes have been wrought during the past twenty eight years, and we know not what changes await us during the year 1914. During the past few years many have forsaken the right way, and are following after the inventions of men, and are following the world in the mad rush for money and fame. It seems that some in our day are as willing to betray the Master for a few pieces of silver as was Judas nearly nineteen hundred years ago. But in the midst of it all there have been a few who would not forsake the truth-the right way. As it was in old Elijah's day, and in Paul's day, so it is now-there is "a remnant according to the election of grace."

There will continue to be a remnant who will contend for the true faith, which was once delivered to the saints, as long as time lasts. The Lord will never leave Himself without witness. The candlestick may be removed from one community or place; but when it is, it will be planted in another place, so that there will still be true witnesses on the earth.

We are satisfied with the principles we have tried to advocate since we began the labor of editing The Primitive Baptist. We are satisfied with the Old Baptist Church and her ordinances. We believe (may we not say we know?) that church to be the one our Lord set up while He was on earth, and we see no room or place for improvement on the Lord's work. We are satisfied with the order of the Lord's house. We asked for a home among the Old Baptists on the second Sunday in August, 1889. We were satisfied then with the order of the Lord's house, and we have seen no reason for a change. We are still satisfied with it. We can only promise that we expect, the Lord being our helper, to continue to defend her cause and to advocate her principles during this year if our life is spared, and if we live longer we hope to still be found at our post. By the grace of God we are not afraid of the enemies of truth, and we do not ask them to show any quarter, neither do we expect to show any.

We need the Lord's help to sustain us and to keep us in the right way. It is our desire to be bold, yet humble and meek. We desire to manifest the Spirit of the Master, and at the same time to be a fearless soldier in the warfare the Master requires. We also feel that we need the help of the brethren and sisters. We need your words of encouragement and acts of kindness. Let us perform our deeds of kindness to our brethren and friends while we live. It will do them no good to speak words of kindness when they are gone. We have often felt to be cast down and discouraged in the past, but have been encouraged by the many kind words we have received from the brethren to press on in the service. We trust we appreciate the many kind expressions of love and fellowship we have received from them.

We have felt sure that the Old Baptists would support a paper which would stand unflinchingly and uncompromisingly for the principles of truth. They have not yet deceived us. Our circulation has steadily grown for several years. True, the circulation did drop off a little during one or two years-about a year after some special offers were made, but it has been steadily growing again for a few years, so that we are now printing 9800 copies each week. Be it remembered, however, that this includes all that we are sending free to the poor and destitute brethren and sisters who are unable to pay for the paper, and we are sending a good many. Our gifts in this way have amounted to about $300.00 during the past six months. We trust the brethren, sisters and friends will continue to take an interest in helping to extend the circulation of the paper.

We think our people should be zealous in circulating good wholesome literature, in which the glorious principles of truth are set forth. Many of the Lord's children are led astray and are blinded by false teaching. Let us do our best to get the truth before them. We cannot expect them to be looking for it when they know nothing about it. Let us do our best to put the truth before them so that they may "get a taste of it," then they will likely want more. We have sent The Primitive Baptist free for a year or so to many who had given us evidence that they were children of God and that their hearts were open for a reception of the truth. Some of our readers-perhaps many -will be able to call to mind letters they have read in our columns from some who have said they were convinced of the truth of the Old Baptist doctrine in reading The Primitive Baptist. Let us continue to endeavor to circulate the truth. Our labors will not be in vain. Many have written for our columns in the past, and we trust they will continue to do so. It is true that we have received many letters which we did not have space for; but the more letters we have to select from the better the paper can be made. We would rather have short articles, as they are more interesting, as a rule. Do not make your letters too long. Whatever you have to say, say it in as few words as possible. If your letter is not published, do not become offended. Remember that we have to leave some letters out for lack of space, and that we shall try to use our best judgment in selecting what goes in the paper. Then, also, look over our many imperfections and shortcomings and remember us in your petitions when at the throne of grace. C. H. C.

Tour in Illinois

---January 6, 1914

We left home on Thursday night, December 4, to fill appointments in Illinois, as arranged by Elder S. A. D. Sanders, of Pawnee. We reached that place on Friday evening and filled an appointment there that night, and also on Saturday, Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Besides the appointments at Pawnee we were at Hopewell one day and night, Waverly two days and nights, Indian Creek two days and nights, Astoria two days and nights, Winchester two days and one night, Concord two days and three nights, Girard one day and Mt. Nebo two days.

We met the following named brethren in the ministry: Elders S. A. D. Sanders, J. A. Modlin, Julius Smith, J. A. Conlee, Baxter Hale, W. R. Dyer, G. W. Murray, A. W. Murray, Giles Reeder, S. Flannagan, L. E. Sutton, D. M. Masters, W. A. Chastain and John Willeford, who are satisfied with the order of the Lord's house. They have no use for the progressive measures which have recently been advocated by some among our people. Neither do they have any use for the doctrine that God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated all things that come to pass, both good and bad. Neither do they have any fellowship for the position that the soul or spirit of the man dies when the body dies, and that the whole man goes to the grave at death, and that at the resurrection the wicked will simply be annihilated.

This doctrine is very much akin to Russellism, the "biggest" humbug of recent years. We found these people to be sound in doctrine, if we are any judge, and orderly in practice as are usually found in most any section. We have seldom been to any section of country, if ever, but what there were some little irregularities existing. In this section we found one or two places where some of their members affiliate with secret orders, but this is the exception and not the rule. They are gradually working out of that practice, which we look upon in the South as being wrong, and the brethren generally do not approve of it there.

But we think it best to let them attend to the work of getting it straight themselves, for they should know more about how to straighten out their matters than we do who are away from there. If we would attend to keeping matters straight at home-keeping our own house in order-we would usually have enough to do. We do not mean by this that we should remain silent on such matters, for it is right to contend against wrong anywhere, but we should not try to regulate their affairs for them when they are trying themselves to get all things in order. Let them get matters straight in the way they deem best, even if it does seem to take a longer time than we think it should. We need their forbearance toward us; and unless they do so, we often feel sure that we could not retain their sweet fellowship. So we should all exercise patience and forbearance toward our brethren.

Our trip among these dear brethren and sisters was a pleasant one, indeed. They were kind and good to us-much better than we felt to deserve. They manifested that they endorsed our feeble efforts to speak in the name of the Master, and proved that they appreciated our visit among them. They were anxious to do everything they could for our comfort and welfare, and it appeared to us that they felt like they could not do enough. We felt to be so unworthy of such kindness as was shown us, and such manifestations of love and fellowship.

May the Lord abundantly bless every one of them, and enable them to walk in the straight and narrow way, to "ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and find rest for their souls," and permit us to meet again on earth, if it can be His will, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Pour or Spill

---January 20, 1914

We trust Brother Salsman will pardon us for calling attention to the fact that one definition of the word "spill" is "to cause or allow intentionally to flow out and be lost or wasted; to shed, as blood." Hence, the expression, "Christ spilled His blood on Calvary," can be properly used, meaning that He "shed His blood on Calvary," or that "He intentionally allowed His blood to flow out on Calvary." We are sure that no brother uses the expression meaning that Christ's blood was wasted. None of it was wasted or shed in vain. Please pardon this little statement from us, and write again. C. H. C.

False Prophets

---February 3, 1914

We never saw or heard of the text, "Beware of false prophets," nor the text, "A corrupt tree cannot bring forth good fruit," etc., applied to the two natures the child of God possesses until we read the above letter. We have always thought the false prophets were false teachers, and that the corrupt tree was the unregenerate sinner and the good tree was the child of God. The corrupt tree has to be changed-made a good tree-in order that it bear good fruit. So, the alien sinner must be made a child of God, made a good tree, born from above, in order that he perform good works, or render spiritual service unto the Lord. C. H. C.

Feet Washing

---March 24, 1914

A few weeks ago we received a letter which contained the following: "I would like to ask a question through The Primitive Baptist, as there is quite an opinion in regard to feet washing. Where should it be done, is the question, and where is the Scripture that they washed feet at time of communion? I have a five dollar bill for any Baptist or reader for the information where I will find that Scripture." We wrote a private letter in reply to the brother, and have decided to publish the same, omitting name and post office.

While we think that feet washing is required, and that the proper, or most suitable, time is at the close of the communion service, yet we are aware that it has not been a universal practice, and we do not think it right to make it a test of fellowship. Those who fail to engage in the practice do not know what they are missing. The following is a copy of the letter we wrote the brother in reply to his letter:

Dear Brother: Replying to yours of January 14, will say, get your Bible and turn to (John 13:14-15,16), and read as follows: "If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you. Verily, verily, I say unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord; neither he that is sent greater than he that sent him." Here it is plainly stated, that "Ye also ought to wash one another's feet." The Lord said this. He either was correct in this statement or else He was wrong. If He was wrong, then we should say, "Ye also ought not to wash one another's feet." Will you say, "Ye ought not to wash one another's feet," or will you say, "Ye also ought to wash one another's feet?" Was the Saviour right or was He wrong? Verse 15 says, "I have given you an example." An example is something to be followed. If the Lord was right in this statement, the example which He set in washing the disciples' feet should be followed. Again, "That ye should do as I have done to you," is a statement also made by Him in that same verse. An example which is right is something that those people to whom it is given are under obligation to follow. Any thing which one ought to do is something which is wrong for him to leave undone. Anything which one should do is some thing which he is obligated to do. This obligation of doing rests upon him, and he is blameworthy if he fails. From this it is evident that there can be no question but what the followers of the Lord are required to wash each other's feet, or to engage in the practice of feet washing. Now the question is, as asked by you, "When should this be done?" I note that you promise to give $5.00 to anyone who will show when this was, or when it should be, practiced.

By referring to (John 13:2) you will find that John says, "And supper being ended." And in verse four, John says, "He riseth from supper," and then goes on and relates the entire circumstance of the Saviour washing the disciples' feet, down to and including verse seventeen. Then beginning with verse eighteen, he goes back and relates the conversation which took place during the eating of the passover supper, at which (passover supper) He instituted the sacramental supper, or communion. To show you this is the same conversation I refer you to this fact-in verse twenty one he records the Saviour's language thus, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, That one of you shall betray me." (Matthew 26:20-29) gives an account of the eating of this passover and the institution of the sacramental supper. In verse twenty-one he tells us that the Saviour said, "Verily, I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me." This shows that the conversation was during the passover supper. (Matthew 26:26-29) shows that the sacramental supper was instituted at the close of this passover. Then John's language shows that when the supper was ended the Saviour washed the disciples' feet. Please read these references, and others, and investigate, according to this way of harmonizing the matters recorded concerning this question. I think I have shown you what you asked for. Shall I look for the $5.00? Yours in hope, C. H. C.

Misrepresentation

---March 24, 1914

We have more than once adverted to the difficulty of stating fairly a position one does not himself accept. It is an easy thing to mistake a position of that kind: it is a hard thing, requiring an effort, to state it accurately. This is so even when there is no disposition to make a wrong impression. But however absurd or dangerous a position may be, however we may abhor it and feel the need of exposing and counteracting it, we cannot justify misrepresentation. There is no argument in that sort of thing, and the reaction may be as dangerous as the error that is attacked. One gets the impression from reading history that error has gained more than it has lost by the unfair treatment of its advocates.

We ought to have more confidence in the truth of what we believe than to resort to any artifice in its defense. Truth does not require it, and error cannot be much hindered by such means. If one cannot be candid and fair, he can at least be silent; and we have the idea that in such cases silence is the best service that can be rendered.

The above is taken from "Clifton's Comment" in the Baptist Builder of March 11, 1914. We think Brother Clifton and some of his brethren would do well to consider what is said in this little article when they are writing about the people they stigmatize as Hardshells. It is no unusual thing for them to misrepresent our people. Many of them may do so unintentionally, but they do it all the same. Many instances could be pointed out where we have been misrepresented, but it is not necessary here. Many such instances have already been pointed out. Misrepresentation of a position we oppose does not help our position, neither does it meet the approval of sober, fair minded, thinking people. We should deal honestly with each other, even though we differ. Honest people can differ, and yet be friendly, and treat each other with due respect. C. H. C.

Reply to Elder Petty

---April 7, 1914

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-Will you allow me space in your valuable paper for a few thoughts? While I was reading Brother M. B. Petty's reply to Brother Hardy, I happened to have some thoughts about it. It seems that Brother Hardy thinks the Lord had a purpose in all things; and it seems that Brother Petty doesn't think so, from his bitter reply to Brother Hardy. It seems to me that if God has not a purpose in all things, there would be some things by chance; and if some things are by chance, the probability is that all things are the same way. While thinking this over it seems to me that this would be the solution of Brother Petty's position: There happened to be a long time ago a God; He happened to be all wise, seeing the end of all things, saying, "My counsel may happen to stand, and I may happen to do all my pleasure." He happened to think of making this earth out of nothing; He happened to make it.

The earth and water were all together, and He happened to separate the waters from the earth. He happened to call the dry land earth, and the water seas. He happened to appoint her her bounds that she could not pass. He happened to cause a mist upon the earth and water it. There happened not to be a man to till the ground. God happened to take of the earth, and happened to make a man with all the faculties of seeing, hearing, smelling, and with a soul. And he happened to be lifeless; and God happened to breathe into his nostrils the breath of life, and man happened to become a living soul. And God happened to make the beasts of the field and the fowls of the air. And he happened to plant a garden in Eden, and cause to grow in Eden every tree that was good for food and pleasing to the eyes.

And God happened to put the man in it to dress and keep it. And He happened to tell the man that he could have free access to all the trees except the tree of knowledge of good and evil, "Thou shalt not eat, lest in the day thou happen to eat thou may happen to die." After this God happened to see that it was not good for man to be alone; and He happened to say, "Let us make him a helpmeet." So He happened to cause a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and He took a rib, and He happened to make a woman of it. And He happened to present her to Adam to see what he would call her. Adam happened to call her woman; and she happened to be flesh of his flesh and bone of his bone. And he (Adam) happened to love her, and they happened to dwell together in peace.

And there happened to be in the beast family one that happened to be more subtle than any beast of the field which the Lord happened to make. He happened to be called the serpent, the devil; but God didn't have any purpose for him, nor nothing else He had happened to make. But this serpent happened to go to our mother Eve, and happened to talk with her about the tree of knowledge of good and evil. She happened to tell him what God had happened to tell Adam, that, "In the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." The serpent happened to tell her that God doth know that thou shalt not die; but thy eyes may happen to be opened, and thou shalt be as gods, knowing good and evil. And she happened to believe him; and when she saw that it was a tree to be greatly desired to make one wise, she happened to take of it and happened to give to her husband and he did eat, and they happened to die, just like God happened to say that they should die. And their eyes were opened and they happened to see their nakedness, and happened to be ashamed; and they happened to go to work to try to hide their shame. And they happened to hide themselves among the trees of the garden, and the Lord happened to come in the cool of the day, and happened to call for them; and they happened to answer Him.

He happened to say, where art thou? and they happened to say, We heard thy voice walking in the garden and were afraid, because we were naked. The Lord happened to say, who told thee thou wast naked? hast thou happened to eat of the tree which I commanded thee not to eat? The woman happened to say, The serpent happened along and beguiled me, and I did eat. And Adam happened to say, the woman thou gavest me, she gave to me and I did eat. And the Lord happened to tell the serpent, Because thou hast done this thou art cursed above all cattle and every beast of the field; and upon thy belly thou shalt happen to go, and dust shalt thou happen to eat all the days of thy life. And I will happen to put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall happen to bruise thy head, and thou shalt happen to bruise his heel. And the Lord happened to say to the woman, I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and thy conception; in sorrow shalt thou happen to bring forth children; and thy desire shall happen to be unto thy husband, and he shall rule over you. And God happened to tell Adam, Because thou hast hearkened to the voice of thy wife, and hast happened to eat of the tree I commanded you not to eat, cursed is the ground for thy sake. Thorns and thistles shall it bring forth; and in the sweat of thy face shalt thou happen to eat bread all the days of thy life until thou happen to return unto the dust from whence thou wast taken.

And God happened to turn them out of the garden, and happened to place a flaming sword and cherubim which turned every way to keep the tree of life, lest man should happen to eat and live forever. And Adam happened to know his wife, and she happened to conceive and happened to bring forth a son. And they happened to call his name Cain; and he happened to be a wicked man; and happened to be a tiller of the ground. And the woman happened to conceive again, and happened to bring forth another son; and they happened to call his name Abel; and he happened to be a keeper of sheep, and happened to be righteous.

And in process of time Cain happened to bring of the fruit of the ground an offering to the Lord; and the Lord happened to reject Cain and his offering; and so Cain happened to be angry about it. And Abel happened to bring of the firstling of his flock an offering to the Lord, and the Lord happened to accept Abel's offering. And Cain and Abel happened to talk about this in the field.

Now, it won't do to say that God purposed or predestinated any of this, that would make God an unjust God. But it happened that Cain rose up and killed his brother Abel. No doubt Brother Petty would contend that right where Cain's wicked acts set in God's predestination stopped. If so, He has none at all now. While reading Brother Petty's reply I happened to think that there happened to be a country called the United States; and in the United States there happened to be a state called Alabama; and in Alabama there happened to be a great man; and he happened to be called M. E. Petty. And he happened to be so many inches high, and so many inches from the end of his fingers on his right hand to the end of his fingers on the left hand. And he happened to weigh so many pounds. He happened to be black headed; he happened to be black eyed.

And Peter happened to say, Who by taking thought can add one cubit to his stature? Can Brother Petty? No purpose of God in this. Brother Petty happened to be a great sinner once and did not know it. He happened one time to see and feel that he was a great sinner, and as a result of this feeling he happened to pray to God for His mercy; and the very breathings of his soul were, Lord, have mercy on me, a sinner. The Lord happened to hear him and forgive his sins, and he happened to rejoice in God his Saviour. If Adam could have kept the law that God gave him in the garden, and had kept it, Brother Petty never would have been a sinner; therefore, never could have been saved. So that council between the Father and Son before the world began would have been a failure.

Now, I want to say in conclusion, that I feel like all this fuss about predestination that is going on among Primitive Baptists is useless. After they have quarreled over this thing and bit and devoured one another, and hurt each other's feelings, and caused divisions, sorrow and strife-after all this, the predestination of all things stands just like it did before. I feel like I would be glad to strike hands with all my brethren in peace, on both sides of the fence. I feel like I want to die in peace with all the dear children of God; and God forbid that I should ever offend them in word or deed. Let us not quarrel about these things and accuse each other's doctrine of originating with the devil; but I do feel like this strife has come from there. The thing we should be concerned about, is to see that we make our calling and election sure. What we have written is not from a spirit of malice or hatred toward anyone, but in love to all. Wm. Dorris. Steens, Miss.

P. S.-Brother Cayce, I have been a reader of The Primitive Baptist a long time, and I appreciate the paper; but I have written you two or three letters and you have never published one. Now if this meets with your disapproval and finds the waste basket, please send it back to me; and when my subscription is up you may know what to do with it. I will not support a paper that will treat me so unfair. Wm. Dorris.

OUR REPLY

On another page of this paper will be found a letter from Wm. Dorris, which he has written concerning a letter which appeared in our columns some time ago from Elder M. E. Petty. One reason why we give space to the letter from Brother Dorris is because of what he says concerning our failure to publish other letters from him, and that we can stop his paper if we do not publish this one. We do not publish his letter in order to get him to continue taking the paper, but in order that our readers may see what kind of things sometimes come to our hands.

We call attention to his rigmarole, which contained the word happened so often. He seems to think that if anything happens, then it occurred by chance; and that if one thing happens, then all things happen, or occur by chance. We would suggest that Brother Dorris study a standard dictionary a little before he presumes to so severely criticise Elder Petty, or others. We ask Brother Dorris to pardon us for the suggestion, as he may have a dictionary of his own make, as we have observed that it is common for some who teach that God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated all things that come to pass to deny the meaning of words.

Webster's International Dictionary defines "happen" as follows: "To occur by chance; to come about without previous design; to fall out; as, I know him, as it happens; it so happened that we did not meet. To occur as an event; to come to pass; to befall; as, to tell me what has happened. To happen, in modern usage, has lost almost entirely its earlier implication of chance, and signifies merely to take place or occur," etc. So, all these things mentioned by Brother Dorris did happen or occur. But did he prove that God did predestinate all those things, although they did all come to pass? No, he did not prove it; he cannot prove it; no other man can prove it.

Brother Dorris says that "While I was reading Brother M. E. Petty's reply to Brother Hardy, I happened to have some thoughts about it." Now, it seems to us that he is wrong in this statement, according to his position, that God has purposed or predestinated that everything shall come to pass just as it does, or that everything which happens is by chance. He has contradicted himself, and when a witness contradicts himself he renders his own testimony invalid.

Brother Dorris argues and contends that God has a purpose in all things that come to pass, or that God predestinated all things that come to pass. He even argues that God predestinated that Cain should slay his brother, Abel. Then Cain was only carrying out God's purpose or predestination when he committed that crime. Then, according to this position, God punished Cain, and pronounced a curse upon him, for carrying out His predestination. The Lord said to him, "And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand; when thou tillest the ground it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength; a fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth."-Genesis iv. 11, 12. Not only is this true, but if God's predestination is not against His will, and He predestinated that

Cain should slay Abel, then Cain was doing God's will when he slew his brother. Then God pronounced that curse upon Cain for doing His will! BOSH! Again: God said, "And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood FROM THY HAND." According to the position of Brother Dorris the earth opened her mouth to receive Abel's blood from the hand of God's predestination, and not from the hand of Gain. The position of Brother Dorris makes God a liar.

Again: The devil, Adam and Eve all carried out God's predestination, and did God's will, according to Brother Dorris. Yet, God punished the man and cursed the earth for his sake, because the man did what He purposed and decreed and willed that he should do! We wonder upon what principle of justice God did this. Brother Dorris cannot show the justice of such proceeding, and no other man can show it. As God is a God of justice, and all His acts are in accordance with the very strictest principles of justice, the position of Brother Dorris is therefore false.

Brother Dorris says, "Brother Petty happened to be a great sinner once and didn't know it." We cannot understand how Brother Petty, or any other man, was ever a sinner according to the position taken by Brother Dorris. According to Brother Dorris, Brother Petty has always done just what God absolutely and unconditionally predestinated that he should do. If God's predestination is in harmony with His will, and Brother Petty always did what God predestinated, then he was always doing God's will. If God's will is right, then Brother Petty was always doing right. Hence, he was never a sinner, unless it was a sin to do right.

When Brother Petty realised in his heart that he was a poor sinner in the sight of God, he never felt that he had been doing God's will all along, and he does not feel that way yet. If Brother Dorris ever felt and realised in his heart that he was a poor sinner in the sight of God, we will guarantee that he did not pray thus: "Lord, have mercy upon me; Lord, be merciful to me, a poor sinner. I have only done what thou didst predestinate that I should do. Lord, have mercy upon me; I have been doing Thy will all the time." We wonder if he ever uttered that kind of prayer. It would have been in harmony with the doctrine he is now advocating. But no one has ever believed the doctrine Brother Dorris is now advocating while he realizes his sinfulness in the sight of God. If a child of God ever believes that doctrine it is only when he loses sight of his own sinfulness in the sight of God.

Brother Dorris says, "If Adam could have kept the law that God gave him in the garden, and had kept it, Brother Petty never would have been a sinner; therefore, never could have been saved." Well, we have heard some such expression as that "the end justifies the means." And we have heard that some advocated such an idea as "Let us do evil that good may come." But we do not go on hearsay now. Here it is flatly stated! Adam had to violate the law so that Brother Petty would be a sinner in order that Brother Petty could be saved! May the Lord pity a man who is so deluded by the devil as to advocate such a blasphemous heresy!

It is the devil's own invention. The eminent Apostle Paul, in (Romans 3:8), says, "And not rather (as we be slanderously reported, and as some affirm that we say), Let us do evil that good may come? whose damnation is just." Somebody circulated the report that the apostle taught the idea, "Let us do evil that good may come." The apostle denied the charge and said that it was a slanderous report. But you can tell that Brother Dorris advocates it, and you will tell the truth on him. If Paul was an Old Baptist, then the doctrine advocated by Brother Dorris is not Old Baptist doctrine.

The Arminian theory is that a man must do something good in order to be saved in heaven, thus making the eternal salvation of men depend upon their good works. But Brother Dorris says man had to do wrong-commit sin-in order to be saved in heaven, thus making the eternal salvation of men rest upon their wicked works. Neither position is the truth; but if you had to choose one of the two, which do you think would be preferable? As for us, we would rather say that the eternal salvation of men depends upon their good works than upon their wicked works. Perhaps the reason why some men do so badly, and tell so many lies is because they think, like Brother Dorris, that their eternal salvation in heaven depends upon wicked works, and they do a whole lot of wicked works in order to make their salvation more certain!

But the salvation of men in heaven does not depend upon their works, either good or bad. See (Ephesians 2:8-9,10); (II Timothy 1:8-9). Here the statements are plain-"not of works," and "not according to our works"-no matter whether good or bad. Brother Dorris says he feels like all this fuss that is going on about predestination is useless. If his doctrine is the truth, God predestinated that all this fuss should go on; and if it is useless, then some of God's predestination, at least, is useless. We wonder if the Lord could not find anything better to be doing than to be busy about predestinating something that is useless!

If God did predestinate everything that comes to pass, then He must have predestinated that some people should advocate that doctrine, and that all this fuss should exist on account of it. All of it is only carrying out God's predestination, according to Brother Dorris' position. But Brother Dorris objects to the fuss. Hence, he objects to some of God's predestination. The devil has always objected to God's predestination. If Brother Dorris and others who agree with him really object to the fuss, and want it stopped, we can tell them how to stop it. We are sure the rule will work. It is a sure cure. It is this: Let no one advocate the blasphemous, heathenish heresy-which came from the devil and will go back there-and the fuss will stop. But it will not stop while the doctrine is advocated.

If this strife came from the devil, as Brother Dorris says, then God did not predestinate it, unless God's predestination came from the devil. If God's predestination did not come from the devil, and the strife did come from there, then there is one thing God did not predestinate. If this is one thing God did not predestinate, then God did not predestinate everything, and Brother Dorris is wrong. If God did predestinate everything, then He predestinated the strife; and, therefore, Brother Dorris is wrong when he says it comes from the devil. Brother Dorris is wrong, no matter which way the question turns. How can we be concerned about anything only what we are concerned about, if God has predestinated everything that comes to pass? For, if God has predestinated everything that comes to pass, then He has predestinated that we should be concerned about the very things which we are concerned about. And if God has predestinated that we should be concerned about the things we are concerned about, then He has also predestinated that we should not be concerned about something else.

Well, this might be continued on and on, but this is enough for a fairminded and reasonable person who feels his own sinfulness in the sight of God. God's ways are equal, and our ways are unequal. God did not predestinate the meanness we do, and did not predestinate everything that comes to pass. May the Lord help us all to see the truth, and to turn from every false way and from every invention of the devil, is our humble prayer.

Brother Dorris, we have now given your article space in The Primitive Baptist. Will you continue taking the paper? C. H. C.

Questions Answered

---April 14, 1914

Elder C. Cayce:

My Dear Brother-Your letter came today, and I was glad to get it. I have a very kind remembrance of Brother Claud; he is a bright gift to the church. I also knew his father; he has been to our home, and was a great preacher. I have been a Bible student for thirty years, and do not believe that any man, or set of men, can make a law that will not be a plague to them and the church, if enforced in the church. It is our business to obey the law, but not to make the law.

Your paper is good, and a sound doctrinal paper and I thank you for the sample copies sent me, which I enjoyed well. But I am opposed roman made law. I will ask you a few questions, and if you answer them satisfactorily I will take the piper and try to get others to do the same. I would be delighted if we could agree:

Question:

1. If the church can make laws, and have a right to do it, would not that imply that God's law was defective?
2. If the church has a right to supplement or add to God's law, who knows what the law of the church will be ten years hence?
3. If a man writes a law and that law is adopted by many churches, whose service are they in while the law is being enforced?
4. When Nebuchadnezzar took the five Hebrews to Babylon they took a harp with them, and it was much comfort to them while there, which was seventy years. When they returned they brought that old harp and all Israel rejoiced at the return of the harp. They said it looked old, but the tone was sweeter than ever before. They had it at the laying of the cornerstone of the temple. Is it not a fact that you have a nonfellowship for Daniel, his four cousins and the harp under the new Bullard law that many churches adopted within the last few years? Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach, Abednego and a sister could not come to us with that old harp.
5. The Bullard law declares against protracted meetings, or limits the number of days to three that you may serve God at the same place and time. Would not that nonfellowship law exclude Jesus Christ and all the apostles? They all went to protracted meetings.

6. Are not all men servants of those they obey?
7. Where did you get your fellowship?
8. Where did you get your nonfellowship?
9. Are not all those carnal weapons in the church?

Don't tell me that this was back under the law. Christ did not repeal the law; He fulfilled the law and said it was good. God has never changed. If you can find what was acceptable to God in a man's manner of life in the antediluvian age, it is the same now, whether the preacher is in a good humor or not. Please answer these questions. If you do it, I will work for your paper, if I think you answer the best you know. Men are not so blind on this matter. Job S. Anderson. Summit, Ga.

OUR REPLY

Yes, Brother Anderson, we will take pleasure in answering your questions, though we do not suppose we will answer them the way you may want them answered.

Question

1. The church has no right to make laws. God's laws which are given for the government of the church need no amendment. They are not defective.

2. If the church had a right to supplement or add to God's laws, no one could know what the law would be ten years hence. Neither could they know what it would be if they had a right to take from God's law. This is the reason why no one can tell now where the Progressive Organ Baptists will be ten years from now. They are taking away God's law.
3. If people are serving a manmade law in religious matters they are serving man. On the other hand, if they are following men in refusing to obey God's law in church matters, they are also serving men. And this is what the Progressives are doing.
4. God's people now possess the harp which God has given them. He has supplied them with the harp and organ to use in His worship and praise. The Progressives say this old harp will not do; that organ possessed by our old members is somewhat dilapidated; the tones are not smooth and sweet; these old folks can take a back seat, and we will have a manmade organ and Babylonish music instead in order to tickle the fancy of the world, and so we may stand higher in the estimation of the Ashdod family. The Progressives are the people who are tired of the old harp. We are the people who will not have anything else. There is nothing can take its place.
5. The Saviour and the apostles never had a protracted meeting after the modern sort. They never sent for a modern revivalist and had their music and other paraphernalia. It seems that the Progressives are not satisfied with the old way, but must have the modern inventions of the world to increase their numbers.
6. Yes.
7. From the Lord.

8. From the Lord. (Romans 16:17-18): "Now I beseech you, brethren, mark them which cause divisions and offences contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned; and avoid them. For they that are such serve not our Lord Jesus Christ, but their own belly; and by good words and fair speeches deceive the hearts of the simple." (Th 3:6) (II Thessalonians 3:6): "Now we command you, brethren, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye withdraw yourselves from every brother that walketh disorderly, and not after the tradition which he received of us." (II Timothy 3:1-7): "This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, truce breakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, highminded, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away. For of this sort are they which creep into houses, and lead captive silly women laden with sins, led away with divers lusts, ever learning and never able to come to the knowlege of the truth." (Titus 3:9-10,11): "But avoid foolish questions, and genealogies and contentions, and strivings about the law; for they are unprofitable and vain. A man that is an heretic after the first and second admonition reject; knowing that he that is such is subverted, and sinneth, being condemned of himself." This is authority enough, and some of it describes the Progressive spirit pretty plainly.

9. No, they are not carnal weapons, but weapons which God has given for the protection and preservation of His church separate from the world. If Christ fulfilled the law, it is not now in force for us to worship under. It was acceptable to God under the law for the high priest to make offerings for sin year by year, but this is not required under gospel service. In fact, law service and worship is forbidden under the gospel worship and service. (Galatians 4:9-10,11): "But now, after that ye have known God, or rather are known of God, how turn ye again to the weak and beggarly elements, whereunto ye desire again to be in bondage? Ye observe days, and months, and years. I am afraid of you, lest I have bestowed upon you labor in vain." These people were engaging in law service and worship, and the apostle rebuked such in this quotation. C. H. C.

Do We Need Baptist Churches?

---April 21, 1914

In the Illinois Baptist of January 10, 1914, is an article from Elder H. E. Pettus under the above heading. He is writing on the question of the different churches, or orders, uniting. Elder Pettus is one of the parties who left our people recently and joined the Missionary Baptists, and is now identified with that people. He does not favor the Missionary Baptists uniting with other orders, or forming such a union with them. He says:

I haven't a word to say about Protestant churches uniting. They are at liberty to do as they please, as far as I am concerned; and I believe many of them could unite without making any great concession either in doctrine or polity. But what about a Baptist Church going into such a combine or union? It means this: "Goodbye to Baptist principles." What difference does that make? It makes a great deal with a Baptist, Why so? Because Baptist principles are Bible principles.

Now let us see! All of the above churches named, except the Baptists, sprinkle for baptism. Well, what of that? Just this: No church that sprinkles can stand for a regenerated membership. Why not? Sprinkling was instituted by the Catholics. What for? In order to baptise weakly babies who were not able to be immersed without endangering their lives. Why baptise babies? Because they (Catholics) believe babies, even, must be baptized or they (babies) will be lost if they die without baptism.

It seems from the above that Elder Pettus objects to the proposed union on the ground that other orders practice sprinkling for baptism, contrary to Scripture, it being a Roman Catholic practice. Elder Pettus is not consistent in objecting to the Methodists on the ground that they practice sprinkling for baptism, contrary to the Scriptures, while he is practicing other things contrary to the Scriptures, or which are unauthorised, and which are just as bad. Where is your authority for your B. Y. P. U., W. M. U., LadiesAid, W. C. T. U, Southern Convention, Northern Convention, State Convention, Foreign Boards, Home Boards, Laymen's Movement, Boards employing ministers and assigning their field of labor, and the many, many, other things practiced by the Missionary Baptists which are unauthorised by the Bible? But look at this statement from Elder Pettus:

“Well,” says one, “perhaps if the churches would unite they would not sprinkle babies.” Well if they sprinkled at all, and all who are sprinkled are believers, the ordinance of baptism, which is a symbol of the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus Christ, is perverted, and we would be following the Pope of Rome instead of Jesus Christ. Such a course would be to our shame, and the cause of Christ disgraced; and no true Baptist church is disposed to go into such a union.

In this statement Elder Pettus seems to object because in pursuing such a course they would be following the Pope of Rome. It seems to us that it would be no worse for them to follow Rome in this than in other respects. In a Circular Letter published in the Minutes of the Philadelphia Association for the year 1806, we find this statement, “It is, however, a very remarkable circumstance, that in modern missions Papal Rome has led the way.” See Minutes of the Philadelphia Association, page 429. Modern missions is the foundation upon which the Missionary Baptist denomination rests. Hence, they are followers of Rome in their very foundation, or fundamental principle. PAPAL ROME LED THE WAY-JESUS AND THE APOSTLES DID NOT. They are not following Christ, therefore, in their very foundation principles. C. H. C.

Views Given

---May 19, 1914

We have received requests recently to give our views on a number of passages of Scripture. We have so many requests of this kind that it would be impossible to write at length on each one. So we have decided to answer each one that we can in a very brief way.

(Matthew 22:8-9,10)Mrs. Y. M. Dukes, of Pavo, Ga., requests our views on this passage. It is the parable of the marriage feast of the king's son. One was found at the feast without a wedding garment on. We think this parable refers to the Jews. They refused to enter into the true service of the Lord and forsook the right way under the law service. The good and the bad being gathered represents the Gentiles being brought into service, as well as the Jews. The wedding garment represents gospel service. One cannot remain in the feast of the marriage without the garment of gospel service. Law worship and law service does not now admit one into the church. In the closing out of the law dispensation and the setting up of the gospel kingdom, law worship and law service are excluded.

Mrs. Y. M. Dukes, of Pavo, Ga., requests our views on this passage. It is the parable of the marriage feast of the king's son. One was found at the feast without a wedding garment on. We think this parable refers to the Jews. They refused to enter into the true service of the Lord and forsook the right way under the law service. The good and the bad being gathered represents the Gentiles being brought into service, as well as the Jews. The wedding garment represents gospel service. One cannot remain in the feast of the marriage without the garment of gospel service. Law worship and law service does not now admit one into the church. In the closing out of the law dispensation and the setting up of the gospel kingdom, law worship and law service are excluded.

((8) (Luke 4:8) Sister Dukes requests our views on this also, and asks, "Was it ever intended for old Satan to serve the Lord?" No. The command there quoted by the Saviour was not to Satan. Satan was tempting the Saviour, endeavoring to persuade Him to serve him, and the Saviour quotes the commandment of the law to refute Satan's temptation and argument.

Sister Dukes requests our views on this also, and asks, "Was it ever intended for old Satan to serve the Lord?" No. The command there quoted by the Saviour was not to Satan. Satan was tempting the Saviour, endeavoring to persuade Him to serve him, and the Saviour quotes the commandment of the law to refute Satan's temptation and argument.

((9:7) (Acts 9:7) AND R. D. Elkins, of Woodville, Ala., asks us to harmonise these two passages. says, "And the men which journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing a voice, but seeing no man." says, "And they that were with me saw indeed the light, and were afraid; but they heard not the voice of Him that spake to me." They heard a voice-that is, they heard Saul's voice when he said, "Who art thou, Lord?" and "What wilt thou have me do?" but they saw no man-that is, they did not see who he was talking to. They heard not the voice of the Lord. But they heard a voice, which was Saul's voice.

AND ((9) (Acts 12:9) R. D. Elkins, of Woodville, Ala., asks us to harmonise these two passages. ((9:7) (Acts 9:7) says, "And the men which journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing a voice, but seeing no man." ((2:9) (Acts 22:9) says, "And they that were with me saw indeed the light, and were afraid; but they heard not the voice of Him that spake to me." They heard a voice-that is, they heard Saul's voice when he said, "Who art thou, Lord?" and "What wilt thou have me do?" but they saw no man-that is, they did not see who he was talking to. They heard not the voice of the Lord. But they heard a voice, which was Saul's voice.

(I Corinthians 15:46) Brother Elkins requests our views on this text also, and asks if it means that an infant is born natural and must be born again before it can reach heaven. The apostle, in this chapter, is treating upon the subject of the resurrection of the bodies of the saints. Their bodies are natural by reason of the natural birth, but they are to be made spiritual in the resurrection, and this is because the saints have been regenerated, born again- made akin to Christ, the second Adam, in regeneration. and show clearly that the infant is saved the same way the adult is saved.

Brother Elkins requests our views on this text also, and asks if it means that an infant is born natural and must be born again before it can reach heaven. The apostle, in this chapter, is treating upon the subject of the resurrection of the bodies of the saints. Their bodies are natural by reason of the natural birth, but they are to be made spiritual in the resurrection, and this is because the saints have been regenerated, born again- made akin to Christ, the second Adam, in regeneration. ((0:15) (Mark 10:15) and (Luke 18:17) show clearly that the infant is saved the same way the adult is saved.

(Isaiah 4:1) Brother J. L. Harder, McKensie, Tenn., requests our views of this text. It reads, "And in that day seven women shall take hold of one man, saying, We will eat our own bread, and wear our own apparel; only let us be called by thy name to take away our reproach." The word seven in Scripture denotes a perfect number. The word woman or women refers to institutions. Sometimes the word woman refers to the true Church, but is always in the singular when it does.

Brother J. L. Harder, McKensie, Tenn., requests our views of this text. It reads, "And in that day seven women shall take hold of one man, saying, We will eat our own bread, and wear our own apparel; only let us be called by thy name to take away our reproach." The word seven in Scripture denotes a perfect number. The word woman or women refers to institutions. Sometimes the word woman refers to the true Church, but is always in the singular when it does.

Sometimes it refers to some other institution. The word women always refers to other institutions. In this text it refers to institutions claiming the name of Christ, for He is the one man referred to. The true bride depends upon the husband to furnish the bread and clothing when he can. These women propose to furnish their own bread and clothing. Hence they are not the true bride or church. All they want is to wear His name. They expect to live by their own efforts, and they expect to be saved in heaven because of their own good deeds. They propose to eat their own bread and wear their own apparel. The true church depends upon the Lord to furnish the bread, or to provide a living, and she expects to reach heaven and immortal glory upon no other ground than that of the righteousness of Christ imputed to her. She is depending upon Him to furnish the bread and the clothing. This is the Old Baptist Church.

(Revelation 17:8) Brother C. A. Harris, Paris, Ark., requests our views of to the end of the chapter. To our mind, this embraces a great deal-much more than we can write about now, or have space for. It certainly refers to Rome as a city, or to the pope in Rome, and to the Roman Church. She rode upon the beast, and made war with the saints, and has been drunk with the blood of martyrs. "The seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth." The city of Rome is built upon seven hills or mountains.

Brother C. A. Harris, Paris, Ark., requests our views of (Revelation 17:8 to the end of the chapter). To our mind, this embraces a great deal-much more than we can write about now, or have space for. It certainly refers to Rome as a city, or to the pope in Rome, and to the Roman Church. She rode upon the beast, and made war with the saints, and has been drunk with the blood of martyrs. "The seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth." The city of Rome is built upon seven hills or mountains.

That is where the Roman power has been seated. The ten kings who are to give their power to the beast refer to the different branches of Protestantism, we think. ((7) (Revelation 17:17) shows that they will agree with the beast. Steps are being taken now, and have been for several years, looking toward a general union of the different orders. Protestantism is giving her power to Rome. See how Rome is gaining in power in our own land. The private secretary of our president is a Roman Jesuit. He attends to and performs much of the work of the president. We almost have a Catholic president. Sooner or later the Old Baptists will have to hide in dens and caves and meet under cover of darkness, if they meet at all, in order to worship and serve the Lord together. The privileges we now have will be taken from us, and we will be put in prison, tortured, drowned, starved, burned, and put to death in every conceivable way-as our foreparents. History repeats itself. We do not appreciate the privileges we now have. The dark clouds are gathering fast, and we are sure we can hear the sound of the thunderings as the storm approaches. It will come as a torrent on our poor heads. May the Lord protect and sustain us, is our humble prayer.

THE RESURRECTION - Brother W. G. Cox, Social Circle, Ga., requests us to give our views on the resurrection and about knowing each other in heaven. If the doctrine of the resurrection of the body is not true, then Jesus was not raised; and if He was not raised, He was an impostor, for He taught that He would rise again on the third day. As to knowing each other in heaven will say that all fleshly ties and relationships will be done away. Natural love and natural ties will not exist there. No man on earth knows, or can tell, how much the saints will know in heaven. We "now see through a glass darkly, but then face to face." We now only "know in part." "It doth not yet appear what we shall be." We are sure that they will know more in heaven than they do here, but we cannot say how much more. It appears that the disciples knew Moses and Elias when they were with the Saviour on the mount of transfiguration. They may know them as Moses and Elias in heaven, but no natural ties or affections will exist. There has been much speculation on this question, and we suppose no one can settle the matter definitely.

PREDESTINATION OF SIN - We are in receipt of a letter from a man whom we met while in Illinois, in December, 1913, in which he differs from a position he heard us take when we were there. We took the position then, and do yet, that God did not predestinate sin, and that the punishment of the wicked will be eternal. The writer of the letter says he believes God did predestinate sin, and argues that God predestinated all sin. He denies the resurrection and future punishment of the wicked. We were informed that this man was one of Elder Carnell's admirers and followers. We do not care to enter into a controversy with him.

HOLY ROLLERS - A. M. Cristy, Lanton, Mo., says, "I would be glad if you would give me your opinion of the sect known as Pentecostal people, or Holy Rollers. They claim to heal the sick, drink poisons, get a second work of grace, speak with tongues, prophesy, and interpret tongues. I heard one of them state they had raised a man from the dead. Please send me Scripture, chapter and verse, that will forever fix their doctrine." This is a broad request. It would be rather hard for us to find language to express our opinion fully concerning such teaching and such claims. If you wish to know how sincere these people are in making such claims, get some of them to go with you to a drug store, and then you get some carbolic acid, arsenic, or some deadly poison from the druggist, and then ask those hypocritical fanatics to swallow it.

The way they will refuse will make you smile. If you have a cripple in your community, or one whose joints are all drawn with rheumatism, try to get them to prove their power in healing such cases. Their humbuggery will be exposed at once. Any fool can utter strange sounds with the tongue. When the disciples spoke with tongues, they uttered another language. These fanatics do not speak any language at all in this jargon. Hence, they do not speak with tongues. Get some man who understands and can speak Greek, Latin, German, French or Spanish, to give them a few sentences in either of those languages, and see what kind of "out" they will make in trying to interpret tongues. If they do anything, they will make fools of themselves. As to their statement that they had raised a man from the dead, it is utterly and basely false. Ask them to prove it. Get them to go with you to a cemetery and try their hand in your presence. They will not go, but you can try to get them to go, and thereby prove that they are falsifying. As to their claims here mentioned, it seems to us that any person with ordinary intelligence would know better. But if some man should come along teaching that the devil is a goat, or a small fish in the deep blue sea, some people would have no better sense than to "fall in" with the notion. Concerning the claim of sinless perfection in this life, the following Scriptures forever silence that claim: ((Ki 8:46) (I Kings 8:46); (((0) (Ecclesiastes 7:20); (I John 1:8-9,10)). There are many more, but these are enough. C. H. C.

Fraternal Effort in Religion

---May 19, 1914

It must be very gratifying to everyone who is deeply interested in religious welfare and religious work to note that the different denominations are not only dwelling together in harmony, but have joined hands to promote the work of soul saving, which, after all, is the very reason for the existence of religious organisations.

To be plain, if we accept as true the teachings of the New Testament Scriptures, the life of an individual in this world is but a mere breath compared to the eternity that he must spend either in heaven, the place of reward, or in hell, the place of punishment. The very purpose for which religious organisations are founded, the real main reason for their existence, is that men and women may be prepared to meet their God in the great final day when judgment shall be pronounced. This being the case, the churches all have in view the same purpose-the promotion on earth of the work of the Master, the saving of souls. What matters a few differences as to interpretation when there is no difference as to purpose?

The fact that church bodies are coming more and more together in their work does not mean that the separate organizations will lose their identity. It is, perhaps, better that they should not, for there are more organisations to carry on the work as it is and this is better than a great concentration in what might be one great unwieldy body. But the churches are united in purpose- the same purpose-and the Christian who cannot heartily rejoice in the success of religion, under the direction of whatever organization it may be promoted, has not yet learned the great purpose for which the church was created.

Unconverted people notice the great harmony that exists between denominations; they have noticed the passing away forever of all bickerings, and they have noticed how the members of the different denominations have joined hands in promoting Christianity, and the effect on these unconverted must be good. They take notice that there is something more, something greater, in church organizations than the mere promotion of some peculiar doctrine of that church. They have noticed that all are working toward a common cause, and while there may be some difference as to certain doctrines, the right to hold these differences is freely and cheerfully conceded, but the right to use these differences as an excuse for failure to cooperate in the great work of all churches, soul saving, is not only denied, but is repugnant to the best Christian thought of today. It is a glorious thing to see "brethren dwelling together in harmony." It not only means "peace on earth and goodwill toward men," but it means that a great army has enlisted under the banner of the cross, and are fighting together for a common cause. The great Mississippi Sunday school convention that is now in session in this city, where peace, harmony, cooperation and goodwill abound, is illustrative of the growth of the spirit of religious tolerance and the desire to fight, side by side, in the cause of the Christian religion.

REMARKS

The above was clipped from a paper published in Meridian, Miss., and sent to us. It needs no comment-it speaks plainly that the so called churches are proposing to do the work Christ Jesus came into the world to do. If men and women or churches can save souls, then Christ died in vain-there was no need for His death, for they could save souls as well without His death as with it. The foregoing shows that people are plainly denying Christ. C. H. C.

Baptism

---June 2, 1914

Elsewhere in this paper will be found a request from Mrs. Arch Perry, of Winder, Ga., that we write on the mode of baptism, and that we write fully.

To write fully on the mode of baptism in one short article is more than we can do. We can only mention a few points. In the first place we will say that if any person who has not heard of baptism should be given a New Testament, and he should read it through without interruption, and without any person offering comment, he would never decide that baptism was pouring or sprinkling.

The first chapter in which baptism is mentioned in the New Testament is (Matthew 3:16), "And Jesus, when He was baptized, went up straightway out of the water." If baptism is not by immersion, why was He in the water? Who would gather the idea here that baptism was by pouring or sprinkling? No one.

In (Mark 1:4-5), we have this language: "John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins. And there went out unto him all the land of Judea, and they of Jerusalem, and were all baptized of him in the river of Jordan, confessing their sins." Why "in the river" if baptism is by pouring or sprinkling? If baptism is by pouring or sprinkling, it was not in the river of Jordan; but the writer says it was in the river. ((9) (Mark 1:9-10), "And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized by John in Jordan. And straightway coming up out of the water, He saw the heavens opened, and the Spirit like a dove descending upon Him." It is plainly stated here that Jesus was baptized in Jordan and came up out of the water. This is folly, if baptism is sprinkling or pouring.

In (John 3:23) we find this language: "And John also was baptizing in Aenon near Salem, because there was much water there; and they came and were baptized." Much water is not needed for sprinkling or pouring. But the reason why John baptized in this place was "because there was much water there." He could not baptize with a little water, as many modern divines suppose, because sprinkling or pouring is not baptism. Could any person, who had never heard about baptism, read this text and gather the idea from it that sprinkling or pouring is baptism? No.

Concerning Philip and the eunuch, we read in (Acts 8:26-39): "And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water: and the eunuch said, See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized? And Philip said, If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God. And he commanded the chariot to stand still: and they went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he baptized him. And when they were come up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip, that the eunuch saw him no more: and he went on his way rejoicing."

It has been said that as the eunuch was traveling in a country where there was no water, he was carrying water in a jug in the chariot with him, and that he referred to this water in the jug when he said, "See, here is water." If so, they did not come to the water; but the Book says "they came unto a certain water." Hence, they did not have the water with them. Again: The Book says both Philip and the eunuch "went down into the water." It appears to us that this would be a rather great strain on that jug-for both Philip and the eunuch to go down into the water which was in it! Poor old jug!

We do no violence to the language, nor to God's word, if we take a word out and place the true meaning in its stead. We have, in this text, the sentence, "And he (Philip) baptized him (the eunuch)." If pouring is baptism we do no violence to the language if we put the word poured in the text in place of baptized-hence we would read it, "And he poured him." To pour is "to cause to flow in a continuous stream," etc. See Standard Dictionary. So, we would understand that Philip caused the eunuch to flow in a continuous stream, if baptism is pouring! Poor eunuch! To sprinkle is "to scatter in drops or small particles." So, if sprinkling is baptism, Philip scattered the eunuch in drops or small particles! It seems to us that this would have been rather hard on the eunuch. Poor fellow-are you not sorry for him? We do not see how he could possibly have gone on his way rejoicing after such a performance as this. Do you think you could go on your way rejoicing if you were scattered in small particles?

But we can consistently read the text: "They went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch, and he immersed him." Or, "and he buried him." This is enough, if there were no other, to prove that sprinkling or pouring is not baptism.

We find this language in (Romans 6:3-4): "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptised into Jesus Christ were baptized into His death? Therefore we are buried with Him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life." Here we have the plain statement that these people were buried with Christ by baptism. If they were buried by baptism, then anything short of a burial is not baptism.

Albert Barnes, who was by no means a Baptist, in his comments on this text says: "It is altogether probable that the apostle in this place had allusion to the custom of baptizing by immersion." He also says, "I presume that this is the idea which would strike the great mass of unprejudiced readers." We would just say that this is the idea which would strike all unprejudiced readers.

If one of your relatives were to die, and your neighbors should take the body to the cemetery and pour or sprinkle a little dirt on the head, and then say, "We have buried your relative," would you think these neighbors were your friends?

You know you would not. Then are those people acting the part of friends to the Saviour when they pour or sprinkle a little water on the head of one of His children who has died to sin, and call it baptism, when the apostle, by inspiration from God, says baptism is a burial? You are the jury.

The original word, baptizio, is never translated sprinkle or pour. It cannot be so translated. No scholar has ever attempted to translate it that way. It means to immerse. Much more could be said, but this is enough at present. Sister Perry is at liberty to have this article published in any paper she pleases, as she suggests in her letter. C. H. C.

He Gives It To Cayce

---June 23, 1914

Dear Brother Cayce: Enclosed you will find a letter from W. M. Belcher to me; and if you think it worth while I would be glad if you would tell Belcher where he got his authority from to preach. Dear brother, I hope the Lord will still sustain you. Your brother in Christ, D. C. Bishop. Randle, Wash.

THE LETTER

Elder D. C. Bishop: Dear Brother in Christ, as I Trust-I received your kind letter awhile back, and was sorry to hear that you are not well. I am not well either, but on foot. Well, Brother Bishop, it seems as though you were surprised at me saying that those Baptists who claim to be Primitives, such as Cayce and others that vindicate the same doctrine, are not the Primitive Baptists; for they have left the primitive faith.

They have revised the ancient articles of faith; they have revised their hymn books, and you cannot get a hymn book that our forefathers used except the old "Bilop's Sweet Songster," and they will not use them. Well, you sent me The Primitive Baptist paper and had marked a certain article for me to read, and made a request that I tell you what I think of it. I must be frank with you, as I am with everybody, and will just say that a portion of it is as rotten as the ground that the man that wrote it is made out of; and the man that says that we are not to preach to the sinner does not know what he is talking about. I could cite you to many Scriptures positively to the contrary, but as you did not receive the Scriptures that I cited you to before I will refrain from bothering you with any more.

And if Cayce's word and others go further with you than the Bible, I will just leave you to choose for yourself. And I will say this, that the Scriptures which they quote are very correctly quoted, but badly misapplied; for they (the Scriptures they use) were not to the purport in which Cayce and others use them, and are full of guile and misleading; and are dangerous as the poison of asps and deadly in their nature, Now, if you wish to know who I think the Primitive Baptists are, I will just say the Old Regular Baptists are the people. You might think by this I was leaving out the United Baptists, but not so; for they are the same as we, who are still holding the same old articles of faith, using the same old hymn books, constituted on the same principles, preaching the same doctrine that our forefathers preached and the same that the apostles preached. I think I have said enough for you to understand just where I stand.

And while I have written these lines to you in love, I must say that I hope love will still exist; yet I detest the doctrine, or a portion of it, that is advocated by Cayce and others. I have been so busy that I could not write sooner, as the biggest part of the last two weeks has been taken up in visiting the sick and attending funerals. Truly yours, W. R. Belcher. Mossy Rock, Wash.

OUR REMARKS

Elder Belcher says we are not the Primitive Baptists because we have revised the articles of faith. This is a mistake. The articles of faith in use among our people are the same in substance as they were before the so called Regular Baptists were born. We suppose the people he refers to as Regular Baptists are the people generally known as Burnamites, or Penceites, or Bradleyites. They are a very young set-much younger, even, than the Missionary Baptists. In fact, we do not see why they do not go on with the Missionaries, where they belong, for they teach practically the same doctrine. If these Burnamites claim to be primitive because of their doctrine, they involve themselves in a difficulty, for the Missionaries had long before split off from us on account of the new theology they introduced. If holding to those principles constitutes them the primitive order, then the Missionaries would be the original Baptists, and the Burnamites are not.

They would have to go to the Missionaries in order to be identified with the original order of Baptists. So these so called Regulars are in a dilemma-and they cannot get out. The truth is that the Missionaries departed from the original doctrine and practice of the church, and these so called Regulars have done the same.

As to the revising of hymn books we would wonder if the hymn books were inspired. We wonder what hymn book they used before "Bilops Sweet Songster" was ever published! We wonder if they ceased to be the original order of Baptists when they began using that book! We confess that we never saw a copy of "Bilops Sweet Songster." But, really now, does not that argument "knock the black out?"

Concerning preaching to sinners, we suppose he means that his preaching is instrumental in regenerating alien sinners, and that they should be preached to in such a way as that they will hear, believe and obey the preaching, and thereby become children of God. That was Andrew Fuller's idea, and it was the teaching of Rome long before his day. But it was not the teaching of Christ nor the apostles, and is not the truth. The Saviour said in (John 8:43), "Why do ye not understand my speech? even because ye cannot hear my word." In ((7) (verse 47). speaking to the same people, He says, "He that is of God heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God."

These expressions are so plain that they need no comment. The only way to prove that the Old Baptists are wrong on this point is to prove that the Saviour lied, and no man can do that. Paul, the eminent apostle to the Gentiles, taught the same great truth in (I Corinthians 1:18): "For the preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God." This text is so plain that it needs no comment or explanation. In (I Corinthians 2:13-14) he says, "Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual. But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned." This is another expression which is too plain to need comment. The apostle emphatically declares by inspiration that the natural, or unregenerate, man does not receive the things of the Spirit of God-the things "which we speak." The beloved disciple John, in (I John 4:5-6), says, "They are of the world; therefore speak they of the world, and the world heareth them. We are of God: he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us.

Hereby know we the spirit of truth and the spirit of error." If Elder Belcher proposes to preach in such a way as that the world will hear and believe his preaching, he simply classes himself as being of the world in his preaching. The world hears (receives) the preaching of those who are of the world-so John says. And he says that "hereby know we the spirit of truth and the spirit of error." If the world receives the preaching of Elder Belcher, then he does not preach the truth. John informs us that we may know it is that way.

We confess that this doctrine is deadly to false teachers, and that it is deadly to their doctrine. The truth kills error. C. H. C.

Our Debt to the Missionary Reply to Rev W. Bruce Doyle

---July 14, 1914

An article from the Wadesboro (N. C) Messenger and Intelligencer, by Rev. W. Bruce Doyle, has been sent to us, and we wish to reproduce a few sentences from it and say a few words by way of comment. He says:

We owe the avoidance of war largely to the missionary; Until our missionary era war was the normal condition of nations. England waged a hundred years war not long before she sent out the cobbler to India. We had five French and Indian wars, a long war with England, and still another war with England, and war was almost the normal condition of the American people before Carey set sail as a missionary.

The gentleman enumerates some wars we have had, but failed to mention the bloodiest struggle the United States had, which was of about three years duration. This was the Civil War-the war between the States. The gentleman also fails to tell the cause which brought about any of these wars. What did the missionary religion have to do with the hundred years war of England? Does the gentleman not know that this war was the outgrowth of the teaching of some who engaged in missionary enterprises? Was not the Revolutionary War brought about primarily by the religious intolerance of those who engage in missionary enterprises? Was not the Civil War the result of churches which engage in missionary enterprises interfering in political matters? The gentleman certainly knows, if he is informed, that the Civil War was waged as a result of mixing politics and religion-a uniting of church and state-by the modern missionary religionists. What gave rise to the Boxer uprising in China a few years ago, which Rev. Doyle mentions in his article? The missionaries. They went to China under the pretext of preaching the gospel, being supported by the people at home. Perhaps many a poor widow gave her last penny for the support of those missionaries, who were living in luxury. These missionaries meddled with Chinese governmental affairs which was none of their business. As a result there was an uprising among the Chinese to drive them out. Who can blame them? No reasonable and sane person can, If they should come here and begin to interfere with our governmental affairs they would be driven away. But the missionaries asked for protection from their home countries. The "Powers" -Uncle Sam, England, and perhaps others-immediately sent warships, guns, and ammunition over, with soldiers, to subdue John Chinaman, and he had to submit to the missionaries remaining. Yes, these missionaries would have the gospel shot into people with Gatlin guns if other means fail. This has been Roman Catholic policy in the centuries past, and seems to be the policy of others.

But the Rev. Mr. Doyle says that "Even England's iniquitous opium traffic in China has been made possible by the missionary first biasing a path to Oriental poppy fields." This is certainly a bad admission. The low depths of degradation caused by the opium traffic in China cannot be imagined by one who has not investigated the matter to some considerable extent. It is worse than horrible. But this gentleman says it was all made possible by the missionary. Has our God ever required or commanded that which makes possible such a black, fiendish, low, dirty, filthy, business as this Chinese opium affair? No; it is not from God, and therefore, must be from beneath.

The Rev. Mr. Doyle further says:

We owe it to the missionary for much helpful consolidation.....Churches with almost identical creeds have worked in the face of each other in the home land, but their missionaries have fallen into partnership in the foreign land and there consolidated their work. The church at home with that example and that shame began consolidation. And so we have united many of our schools and home enterprises.

Yes, Protestants have doctrines that are borrowed from Rome, and the signs of the times are now that their borrowed articles will soon be returned to the rightful owner-hence the idea of a consolidation or union of the different churches. Not only have many of their schools and other enterprises been united, but congregations are uniting, and denominations are uniting, and those who are teaching and advocating and practicing such unions may soon unite with Rome. If they do not, Rome may force them to surrender in some respects. All these missionary religionists are united with, or identified by membership with, a religion whose great leaders-many of them at least-are endeavoring to unite church and state. A kind of confederacy has been formed, we understand, composed of ministers or members of different orders whose duty it shall be to see that laws are enacted which shall be for the benefit and advancement of religion.

This is only a tendency to unite church and state. Who is doing this? These missionary religionists. We owe some union and consolidation to missionaries and missionary religionists which has always resulted in persecution of the humble followers of the Master and the death of many of them who would not deny their Lord. Missionaries and missionary religionists have caused more bloodshed than all the wars the world has ever known. If you are doubtful of this, read a few authentic histories on the question and satisfy your minds.

Mr. Doyle mentions the present upheaval in Mexico and eulogizes the missionaries. But he fails to state the fact that missionary religion is largely responsible for this upheaval. Is it not a fact that the war there is mainly what we might term a Catholic and anti-Catholic affair? Hence, is not the missionary religion really responsible for the whole thing? Remember that Rome is a missionary body or religion. She was the first religious body to send out missionaries to convert the world.

Mr. Doyle says further:

We owe it to the missionary that the home church has been kept alive. There was once a split in the Baptist Church here at home-the Missionary and Primitive Baptist Churches were the result. Today the Primitive branch of that denomination has dwindled down to a mere handful of people while the missionary branch has grown to be one of the most powerful churches on the continent.

We wonder how the home church was kept alive before there were any missionaries of the modern sort? The Baptist Church lived for about 1800 years before they had any missionaries of the modern sort, and they lived many centuries before John Calvin founded the Presbyterian Church. The introduction of Fuller's new theories, and modern missionism among the Baptists by Fuller, Carey and others, resulted in the split in the Baptist Church, to which Mr. Doyle refers.

Then Mr. Doyle says the Primitive branch has dwindled down to a mere handful of people. This statement shows that he evidently does not know. They have had no mushroom growth like some, but they are steadily increasing in number. But they do not count on number. It is quality, not quantity, that they count on. We are not after the large number, as much as some people seem to be. Our Master has said, {(Luke 12:32)} "Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." This is a mark of true identity.

Mr. Doyle attributes the growth of the Missionary Baptists to the fact that they send out their missionaries, etc. This may be true, and it may not. The following statement from the pen of Dr. J. H. Anderson, dean of HallMoody Institute, Martin, Tenn., was published in the Baptist Builder, Martin, Tenn., of July 1, 1914:

Many of our churches are Arminian in faith and Hardshell in practice. This is verily a bad mixture, for it is devoid of consistency to begin with. That member who is soaking in luxury and who drops a copper into the contribution basket in Sunday school or the regular church services needs boosting with a spiritual dynamite. It has gotten to be easier to retain membership in the average Baptist Church than among the Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Woodmen of the World, or even among the Elks, who can perhaps make out with less religion than any other organisation. Let one fail to meet punctually recurring obligations to any of these and he goes out by stress of circumstances. And yet a Baptist belonging to an organisation of transcendently more importance than all of these combined, can live loosely as to obligations to both God and man, can get a letter certifying as to full fellowship and good standing while living, or be preached straight home to glory after death.

It seems to us that this is a very clear admission of looseness in discipline, and that it is very easy to retain membership among the Missionary Baptists. This might be the reason for their phenomenal growth. They please the world, and the world unites with them.

Here is one more expression from Mr. Doyle:

That church which sends no missionaries will die-God has no need for it. That church which sends the most missionaries will thrive the most-God can use a church like that.

It was prophesied before Mr. Doyle was born that the church now known as Primitive Baptists would soon be dead, but it still lives. It is here yet, and it is here to stay. The Lord promised that it should stand forever. {((Dan 2:44) (Daniel 2:44))} The Saviour said the gates of hell should not prevail against it. { (Matthew 16:18)} They were few in Elijah's day. He thought he was alone, and made "intercession against Israel, saying, Lord, they have killed thy prophets, and digged down thine altars; and I am left alone, and they seek my life. But what saith the answer of God unto him? I have reserved to myself seven thousand men, who have not bowed the knee to the image of Baal."- (Romans 11:2-3,4). Seven thousand were very few in comparison with others around, but God had need for them, and could and did use them as witnesses to the truth and for the preservation of His truth. It was enough for that. The apostle adds in (Romans 11:5), "Even so then at this present time also there is a remnant according to the election of grace." There was a remnant in Paul's day. A remnant does not mean such a large number as some boast of. The remnant was enough for the preservation of truth in apostolic days. There is a remnant yet, and the truth is still preserved with them. God can and does use them as witnesses for truth, and for the preservation of His truth. He will always use them for that purpose. C. H. C.

A Letter That Helps Us

---July 21, 1914

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-If you will permit me I would like to write a few lines for our dear old paper. I have often wanted to write, but as often hesitated from different causes, but not long since in reading my paper I came across an article that made me so ashamed of my negligence that I determined to try to do better.

One of our corresponding editors in acknowledging a letter of appreciation said that such letters were so comforting and so seldom received, that he did the best he could and endeavored to write interesting and uplifting articles for the readers of The Primitive Baptist, but he seldom knew whether he pleased the readers, as so few ever gave expression to their appreciation. Brother Cayce, this came like an electric shock to me; I simply bowed my head and wept as I thought, "Oh, is everybody like me? Don't anybody write to these dear men and tell them how they love their writings, and how glad they are to read them, and what a comfort they are to the children of Israel? Can it be that we all read and enjoy and never say a word?"

Oh, I am so sorry that I have never written and thanked a single writer for our paper in all these years that I have been reading and enjoying it. My cheeks burn with shame to think of my ingratitude, I have been grateful but I have failed to tell them so. But I never dreamed that others were as unthoughtful as I was, and I intend to write each one a letter of thanks and tell them that I do appreciate their good letters, for I do, and I am writing this to ask others of our readers who, like me, have never thanked these good men and women for their labor of love in our behalf to write them a letter tonight. Let's don't wait until some future time-so many are going home every day we can never tell who will be the next, and tomorrow may be too late,

I remember how I used to think I would write to Brother S. A. Paine, of Texas, and tell him how much I enjoyed his writings, but I didn't and now- well, you know the rest, and yet there are lots, whose writings I eagerly look forward to, still living and wondering if their writings are appreciated by me and others who read them and remain silent-let's write them a letter now.

And, dear Brother Cayce, I want to tell you that I do appreciate your efforts in our behalf in giving us such a good, wholesome paper, and I am sure we all do.

I shall never forget the first time I heard the name "Cayce;" it was in 1905, if I mistake not, when I was a mere girl; I was a Missionary Baptist and had never heard of a Primitive Baptist. I had heard of the "Hardshells" and thought they were some kind of monstrosities. I met at that time a Primitive Baptist boy whom I liked very much and whom I later married; but just after your father died he came down to see me and we went driving. He seemed very sad and when I asked him what was the trouble he broke down, sobbing as though his heart would break, said, "Brother Cayce is dead." Never having heard of "Brother Cayce," and not knowing his family well, I thought he meant his own brother and I asked him why he had come if his brother was dead. I shall never forget the look of consternation he gave me as he asked, "Don't you know who Brother Cayce was?" I had to admit that I did not. (Oh, I would know now.)

Then he gave me the paper and asked me to read. All who read that issue of The Primitive Baptist know what I read. From that day until this very minute the name of "Cayce" has been exceedingly sweet to me; I love it better all the while because it stands for all that is good and noble, and I am so glad dear old Brother Cayce's mantle fell on a man whom we can love and cherish as we did his father; yes, Brother Claud, we love you even if we don't say so. I unhesitatingly say "we," because I know all our people feel as I do. I can't conceive of them thinking any other way; we are only slow to tell you.

My husband has long since gone to be with his beloved "Brother Cayce," but not until he had the pleasure of naming a son "Cayce" and seeing his wife baptised into the dear old church he loved so well. I am writing this, Brother Cayce, to let you see how much your work is appreciated, even though we don't tell you so, and to assure you that you have my blessing and most sincere prayers. I do not tell it to you as I know I should, but I do try to tell it to God and ask Him to bless you, and not only you but all our dear ministers, and I ask no greater blessing for myself than to see my orphan boy grow up to be a Primitive Baptist minister.

It has been more than a year since I heard a Primitive Baptist preach; so far as I know I am the only Primitive Baptist in the city of Baton Rouge. None of our ministers ever come over here. I don't know why; I wish they would; yet here is where I earn my daily bread and I must stay, but I deeply regret that I cannot attend a church of our faith, so that is why I so much more appreciate our paper and the Gospel Messenger. They are the only preaching I ever hear, and I am so ashamed of not having written and thanked the many writers of our paper who give us such sweet comfort and make us to know that even though we are far away we are not alone.

And so I am asking that we all write to these dear men and women whose writings we love so well and cheer their hearts along the way. We forget the golden rule ourselves and then wonder why others forget it. I think if we would write the golden rule on a piece of paper and paste it on our mirror where we could see it every morning as we dressed for the day, it would have a tendency to lessen the burdens of the day. I am sure the influence would not be bad, and then at night it would remind us to write that letter. Let us also lend a helping hand to the churches that are trying to build a church house; a little from us all would do wonders. Let us not forget what James tells us pure and undefiled religion is; and last, but most important of all, let us not forget to minister to the temporal necessities of the dear ministers of Christ who minister so uncomplainingly to us of spiritual things. Let's show our appreciation in deeds as well as words. Our good deeds are always given back double. Do we wonder why we are not blessed with more? The answer is simple-one talent doubled is only two; ten is twenty; and fifty is one hundred. If we only give one should we expect to receive one hundred? So those who have been giving one dollar to the minister, try giving five, and that more often, and see if we don't soon rejoice. I think some of us would be surprised at the result. Now this is for you and not for the other fellow.

I did not intend to write so long a letter and I hope I have not said anything that will cause any ill will or unpleasant thoughts, for I have only meant to admonish others to realise that they are sleeping on their rights and tell them if, like me, they are waiting for the other party to write and tell our ministers how much their work of love is appreciated and send them a solid expression of their gratitude that everybody else is doing the same thing, and our ministers are often cast down and in financial straights that we never dream of. So let's don't wait for the other fellow, but get busy and write them a letter tonight while we still have them with us. Let's don't wait until the snow-white angel band has removed some beloved brother or sister from our midst and then wish we had been more diligent and written them a letter. Now is the accepted time. I ask an interest in your prayers. Your little sister in hope of eternal life, Mrs. M. Wilkinson 320 Florida St. Baton Rouge, La.

REMARKS

It has been a long time since we received a letter that was as great a comfort to us as the above. We could not help shedding tears of gratitude as we read it. It is so seldom that we receive such letters of commendation and encouragement. We often feel that our labors are all in vain, and feel almost like giving up in despair. It is no uncommon thing to receive letters of criticism and complaints-they are received almost every day. No one knows the trials of the place we have to try to fill unless he has had the experience. But now and then we receive a word of encouragement which helps us along the way. It is so true that if we do not like what one has done, we are quick to say something and let them know of our disapproval; but if we approve of something they have done, we take it as a matter of course, and say nothing.

We should scatter the flowers along the pathway of our friends while they live, and not wait until they are dead and then place flowers on their graves and say the good things about them which should have been said to them while they were living. We appreciate the foregoing letter more than we are able to tell. May the Lord grant to abundantly bless you, dear sister, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Ephesians 2:15 AND Hebrews 1:1-3

---July 28, 1914

W. B. Peak, of Humnoke, Ark., requests our views of (Ephesians 2:15) and (Hebrews 1:1-2,3). He says there is a preacher there who says water baptism was never extended to the Gentiles, and that he gave these passages as proof. We must say that this preacher is very ignorant. The last command, called the "commission," given by our Saviour, as recorded in (Matthew 28:19), says, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." The command here is plain, and embraces all nations-Gentiles as well as Jews. Cornelius was a Gentile, and the inspired Apostle Peter commanded him to be baptized. There is an abundance of testimony on this line.

(Ephesians 2:15) has no reference whatever to baptism, or other gospel command. The law of commandments which Christ abolished was the old Jewish service of types and shadows. He did not give laws, rules, and regulations to govern in His gospel kingdom, or church, and then abolish them in His death. Instead of being abolished, they are established for all time to come and are to be observed until the end of time.

has no reference whatever to baptism, or other gospel command. The law of commandments which Christ abolished was the old Jewish service of types and shadows. He did not give laws, rules, and regulations to govern in His gospel kingdom, or church, and then abolish them in His death. Instead of being abolished, they are established for all time to come and are to be observed until the end of time.

Neither does (Hebrews 1:1-2,3) teach that gospel commands are abolished, but rather that they are firmly established, and are to remain. It also teaches that Christ has already purged, forever put away, the sins of His people, and that He did this by Himself. We are satisfied the preacher mentioned does not believe the plain statement of this text. C. H. C.

Isaiah 45:7

---July 28, 1914

Brother J. J. Driskell, of Mortimer, Ala., requests our views of ((7) (Isaiah 45:7) which reads, "I form the light, and create darkness: I make peace, and create evil; I the Lord do all these things." This is a text which is relied upon very much to prove that the Lord brings to pass all sin and wickedness, or that He predestinated all sin and wickedness. The evil mentioned in this text is not the wicked acts of men-it is not the sins which they commit, but it is the punishment the Lord sends upon them for their sins. Another passage on the same line is in ((Amos 3:6) (Amos 3:6), which says, "Shall a trumpet be blown in the city, and the people not afraid? Shall there be evil in a city, and the Lord hath not done it?"

This teaches that the Lord brings evil in the city (the church). But it is not sin that He brings, but punishment for sins. Beginning with ((Amos 3:1) (Amos 3:1) we have this language: "Hear this word that the Lord hath spoken against you, O children of Israel, against the whole family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying, You only have I known of all the families of the earth: therefore will I punish you for all your iniquities." This shows very clearly that the evil which the Lord creates, or brings upon His children, is punishment for their sins or iniquities. C. H. C.

Adultery and Fornication

---July 28, 1914

Brother W. E. Guthrie, of Cone, Texas, asks us if there is any difference in the original Greek word for fornication and for adultery. As respects the act, there is no difference. The act is the same, no matter which word is used, so far as the original words are concerned.

Brother Guthrie also asks, "Do you hold that when a man and wife are separated unscripturally, and one of them marries, that this gives the other a Scriptural right to marry?" Then asks, "Would you make your views a test of fellowship?" In reply to these questions will say we have repeatedly stated our position in as plain words as we know how. We will answer again the question above. If a man leaves his wife without a Scriptural reason, and marries another, he becomes an adulterer, and is, therefore, dead to his wife. This gives her a Scriptural right to marry again.

As her husband has become Scripturally dead to her, she has no husband, from a Biblical standpoint. As the Scriptures do not forbid any person having a husband she has a Scriptural right to marry again. If the husband sickens and dies, and thereby leaves the wife without a husband, she has no more right to marry again than the woman whose husband has become dead to her by adultery. If the wife is a fornicator, or adulteress, the husband has a right to put her away and marry another.

In fact, if a man knows his wife is guilty, yet refuses to put her away, and continues to live with her, he becomes party to the crime, and should be excluded from the church. As to making our views a test of fellowship will say that we would not want one to retain membership in our church who had put away his wife for any cause except fornication and then married another. C. H. C.

Man Is To Blame

---July 28, 1914

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-I have recently noticed some pieces in The Primitive Baptist touching a question that I desire some information on. Therefore, I am asking a question, and will very much appreciate it if you will give me the desired information. Question: The Primitive Baptists believe that if a man is saved it must be by grace (unmerited favor); or in other words, that all men are sinners, and that no one can bring God under obligations to be merciful unto him. Justice is as far as they have any right to, and as justice would condemn us all, as we are all born in sin without any way of making our escape from the punishment allotted to the wicked, then are we not fatalistic (our fate fixed)? Then, is it justice in God to bring a thing into a state of being from which it cannot escape and then punish it for being in that condition? Or, in other words, who is responsible for man being in the condition he is in? And if man, what course can he pursue to escape the consequences of his evil deeds? I am asking this question for information, as it has given me no little trouble recently; and yet I realize the fact that if I am ever saved it must be by grace and not of works. Your brother in hope,

J. A. Smith. Ocilla, Ga.

REMARKS

In reply to the above will say that God made man, but did not make him a sinner. The man violated God's holy law, and thereby became a sinner-a transgressor. He is thereby involved in. sin. He fell. Man did this without compulsion. He was not deceived. The woman was deceived, but the man was not. Hence, the man is to blame for being a sinner. He fell into a pit by the transgression, and he is to blame for it.

His life became poisoned with sin. Everything partakes of the nature of that from which it springs. We are sinners, therefore, because we partake of the sinful nature of our parentage. In the transgression, the man fell down. A man can fall down, but he cannot fall up. By the transgression, man brought death upon himself. Man can bring himself into a state of death, but he cannot bring himself out of that state into a state of life.

If he is ever brought into a state of life, it must be by a stoop of mercy on the part of the Giver of life, whose law has been violated. Man is to blame for being condemned, but he is not to blame for not coming out of that condemned state. If a prisoner is brought before a civil court, charged with some crime, and is tried, found guilty, and condemned, we would all say he is to blame for the condemnation by being guilty of the crime; but we would not blame him, or attach blame to him, because he does not now remove the guilt and thus bring himself out of the condemned state.

The man is guilty of transgression of God's law. God alone, God only, can remove the man's guilt and make him clear in the eyes of that law. This is done for His people, for all their sins are charged up to His Son as their surety. He assumes all their guilt. Their guilt is transferred to Him. He has suffered in their stead, and this was mercy. Now, on account of what He has done, the Holy Spirit regenerates them, and they are given a new and higher order of life-they are brought out of the state of death which they are in and prepared to live with Him in glory. C. H. C.

Campbellism

---August 4, 1914

Elder C H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-I want you to publish in The Primitive Baptist the cardinal points of doctrine of the Campbelites, as I understand that you have debated with them and know the doctrine they advocate. They are preaching here; and I thought they taught baptism as essential to salvation, but they deny it here. Your brother in hope, Jake Owens. Speedwell, Tenn.

REMARKS

They do teach that baptism in water is essential to the receiving of eternal life. The preacher among them who denies this is either very ignorant, or else he willfully misrepresents the fact. We had a discussion in Nashville, Tenn., with F. B. Srygley, one of their strongest men in this state, which began on December 25 and closed December 31, 1911. In that discussion, for three sessions, Mr. Srygley affirmed that "Faith, repentance and water baptism are conditions of pardon, or salvation, to an alien sinner, and the Scriptures so teach." The debate is published in book form, and is in good clear type and well bound in cloth. The price is only one dollar. Campbellism is exposed in that debate. Send to us and get a copy. You will not regret it. C. H. C.

Quacks

---August 18, 1914

Medical quacks can only send the bodies of their subjects to the grave, while ministerial quacks send the soul of their subjects to an eternal hell.-J. B. Moody in Baptist Builder.

The above statement gives us some new light on the Saviour's language recorded in (0:28) (Matthew 10:28), "And fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear Him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell." Also, the Saviour's language recorded in (Luke 12:4-5), "And I say unto you, my friends, Be not afraid of them that kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do. But I will forewarn you whom ye shall fear: Fear Him, which after He hath killed hath power to cast into hell; yea, I say unto you, Fear Him."

According to Dr. Moody, you need not fear the quack doctor, but you should fear the quack preacher, for he can not only kill the body, but can cast the soul into hell. Well, this gives us a new interpretation of the text. C. H. C.

Three Questions

---August 18, 1914

Elder C. H. Cayce: Dear Brother in Hope-I want to ask you to give your views on some questions I would like to know, only for information:

1. Did God make the devil?
2. Did God predestinate the fall of Adam?
3. Did God predestinate the work that Judas performed?

Those three questions I have pondered over, and if not asking too much of you, and if it be not an unfair question to ask you, I would be glad to see your views on them in The Primitive Baptist. Your brother in Christ, I hope, A. W. Thompson. R. 1, Wendell, N. C.

REMARKS

1. We do not know. The Bible does not say. Some infer that He did. It is better to let the devil and his origin and his works all alone.
2. No. Man fell by his own disobedience and not by the predestination of God. God knew it, but did not predestinate it.
3. He did not predestinate the wicked works that Judas would do; but His knowledge and predestination are different things. Wicked men are ready to perform their wicked works when opportunity presents, without the Lord predestinating for them to do them. C. H. C.

General Judgment and Eternal Hell

---August 18, 1914

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-I would love for you to give your views on these questions:

1. Is the judgment spoken of in (Acts 17:31) the general judgment? I mean at the last day.
2. Is the "judgment seat of Christ" spoken of in (II Corinthians 5:10) the same as the general judgment? I don't wish to appear tedious to you, but I have in mind the case of a certain man who is a member of the Primitive Baptist Church, and this brother denies the existence of an eternal hell, claiming that it is an error crept into the church from Romanism and Armianism; that it is one of the devil's lies, and that the Baptists ought to feed the sheep and lambs of God and let the devil's preacher preach this infernal eternal torment doctrine if any one preaches it, thus denying, as you can see, the natural immortality of the human soul and claiming that the wicked will be utterly destroyed in the second death after the great judgment. He admits an intermediate state, but says that it is only two great waiting rooms, one for the saved and the other for the lost, waiting for the resurrection and judgment which will mean the execution or everlasting destruction of the wicked as spoken of by Paul, and eternal life for the righteous as recorded by (Matthew 25:46), and (I John 5:10-11), What do you think of such ideas? O. E. Duncan. Adamsville, Tenn.

REMARKS

1. No; the judgment spoken of in (Acts 17:31) is not, in our opinion, the general judgment, or the judgment at the last day. By reading from verse 28 on down it will be seen that the judgment here referred to is for all men who are the offspring of God-or for God's people. They are being judged now-every day-and condemned in their consciences for their wrong deeds and acquitted when they live right.
2. No; the judgment seat spoken of in (II Corinthians 5:10) is not said in reference to the general judgment. The judgment seat of Christ is here on earth, and we may say in His church, and we appear before that judgment seat now-every day. "For the time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God," etc.-((Pet 4:17) (I Peter 4:17). With reference to the brother denying the existence of an endless hell will say we do not know who he is, but he has imbibed some of the teachings of Russell, one of the greatest humbugs of the present age. The word destroy in ((0:28) (Matthew 10:28), referred to, does not mean to annihilate.

According to the Standard Dictionary the word destroy means, "1. To bring to ruin or demolish in a way. (1) To cause the downfall of; overthrow; as, to destroy an empire. (2) To tear down; wrench apart; knock or pull to pieces; as, to destroy a building. (3) To take away completely the value or usefulness of; vitiate; ruin; lay waste; as, to destroy one's reputation; to destroy a contract; to destroy good looks. (4) To put an end to the existence of; cause to cease to be; cut off; kill; as, to destroy weeds or noxious insects; to destroy one's peace of mind. 2. To show to be false; disprove; as, agnosticism destroys itself. 3. To render of no avail; neutralise; counteract." Thus it is clear that "to cause to cease to be" is a remote meaning of the word destroy. Besides, the text does not say that God does cause both soul and body to cease to be, but that "He is able to destroy both soul and body in hell." "Annihilates a philosophical term, signifies to put absolutely out of existence."-Standard Dictionary, page 11, under word, "abolish." If the Saviour or the apostles had meant to teach the doctrine of the annihilation of the wicked, a word would have been used by them signifying the same. But they never used such a word. Thayer's Greek Lexicon defines the word used in (0:28) (Matthew 10:28) to mean "to devote or give over to eternal misery."

On this text Gill says: "A noble argument this, which our Lord makes use of, to engage His disciples to a public and diligent ministration of the gospel, in spite of all opposers; who, when they have vented all their malice, can only take away a poor, frail, mortal life; and which, if they did not, in a little time would cease in course; 'but are not able to kill the soul; which is immortal, and cannot be touched by the sword, by fire and faggot, or any instruments of violence; it is immortal, it survives the body, and lives in a separate state, enjoying happiness and bliss whilst the body is in a state of death, 'but rather fear Him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell. This is a description of God, and of His power, who is able to do that which men are not; all that they can do, by divine permission, is to kill the body; but He is able to destroy, that is, to torment and punish both body and soul 'in hell, in everlasting burning; for neither soul nor body will be annihilated; though this He is able to do."

The next text referred to is (Matthew 25:46), which reads, "And these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal." In this text the word which is translated "everlasting" with reference to the punishment of the wicked is the same word which is translated "eternal" with reference to the life of the righteous. The word means "eternal, everlasting." See Bagster's Analytical Greek Lexicon, page 11. It is the nominative or accusative case of the word "aion," which means "illimitable duration, eternity." See same book, page 11. Strong's Exhaustive Concordance defines the word thus: "Perpetual, eternal, for ever, everlasting." Thayer's Greek Lexicon defines it thus: "1. Without beginning or end, that which always has been and always will be. 2. Without beginning: a gospel whose subject matter is eternal, i. e., the saving purpose of God adopted from eternity. 3. Without end, never to cease, everlasting." Liddell 6? Scott Greek Lexicon defines it: "Lasting for an age, perpetual, everlasting, eternal." The new Testament Lexicon by Berry and published by Hinds & Noble, defines the word thus: "1. Without beginning or end, eternal. 2. Without beginning. 3. Without end, everlasting; often with "son" life, eternal life, denoting life which in its character is essentially eternal." So much for the meaning of the word; and remember that this word is used to describe, pr with reference to, the punishment of the wicked as well as with reference to the life of the righteous.

If the life of the righteous is of illimitable or boundless duration, so is the punishment of the wicked of illimitable or boundless duration. If the punishment of the wicked ever ceases or ends, the life of the righteous will end at the same time, for one is of equal duration with the other. The punishment of the wicked and the life of the righteous are placed in contradistinction from each other-one stands over in opposition to the other. Hence, one must be of equal duration as the other. If the life of the righteous is endless, then the punishment of the wicked must also be endless. For the righteous it is "aionion" life, and for the wicked it is "aionion" punishment. If "aionion" punishment is not "eternal" punishment, then "aionion" life is not "eternal" life. In (I John 5:11) the same word is used- "that God hath given to us eternal life"-it is "aionion life." To deny that the punishment of the wicked will be eternal is to deny the plain statement of the Son of God; for He plainly says that they "shall go away into aionion eternal punishment." If the doctrine of eternal punishment came from Rome, the Saviour was a Romanist, for He declared that doctrine. The doctrine the brother admits-that the dead occupy an intermediate state-is Romanism, pure and simple. This is Rome's doctrine of purgatory under a new name. At the death of the body the spirit goes to God who gave it. See ((7) (Ecclesiastes 12:7). The Saviour said to the thief on the cross, "Verily I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in paradise." Paradise is a place of future happiness. In (II Corinthians 12:2-3,4,) we find this language: "I knew a man in Christ above fourteen years ago, (whether in the body, I cannot tell; or whether out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;) such an one caught up to the third heaven. And I knew such a man, (whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;) how that he was caught up into paradise and heard unspeakable words, which it is not lawful for a man to utter. The apostle informs us here that the third heaven and paradise are the same. The London Confession of Faith, put forth by the Baptists in 1689, says (chapter xxxi. Sec. 1): "The bodies of men after death return to dust and see corruption; but their souls, which neither die nor sleep, having an immortal subsistence, immediately return to God who gave them; the souls of the righteous then being made perfect in holiness, are received into paradise, where they are with Christ, and behold the face of God in light and glory, waiting for the full redemption of their bodies; and the souls of the wicked are cast into hell, where they remain in torment and utter darkness, reserved to the judgment of the great day; besides these two places for souls separated from their bodies, the Scripture acknowledgeth none." This declaration of faith is a positive denial of the Romish heresy of an intermediate state or place for the dead. The man who denies the doctrine of eternal punishment of the wicked, and argues that there is an intermediate state of the dead, does not occupy original Baptist ground, but occupies a position which may be termed a combination of Romanism and Russellism. If he agitates the question, and argues it, thus disturbing the peace of the brotherhood, he should be admonished, and if he will not cease, then he should be promptly excluded. C. H. C.

Christmas and Easter

---August 18, 1914

It is generally accepted as a fact that December 25 is not the Saviour's birthday. At the time of His birth there were shepherds keeping watch over their flocks by night. For this reason it is evident it was not winter. As to Easter, this is only a Roman Catholic invention. All who observe it are only following Rome. The same is true also of the so-called Christmas day. December 25 was first observed as a day of mass by the Catholics, then they began claiming that it was observed in commemoration of the birth of Christ-hence they called it Christmas day-an abbreviation of Christ Mass. December 25 and Easter are both simply Roman Catholic feast days. C. H. C.

Questions on Order

---August 25, 1914

The following questions on order have been propounded to us. We give the questions and our answers following each question, but we wish to say, emphatically, and wish it understood, that no set rule, or invariable rule, will do in all cases. Each case should be judged according to its own individual merits, and the circumstances connected with it. However, our answers we believe will apply in a general way.

1. "Is the identity of the church determined by the members, or by the faith and order?" By the faith and order.
2. "Is the command to withdraw from every brother that walketh disorderly not just as obligatory to the minority as to the majority?" Yes. But sometimes people might be wrong as to what is disorderly walk.
3. "When a church divides and one side withdraws from the other and gives due notice of same in regular conference, whether they be the minority or majority, is it in keeping with justice for the other side then to bring charges against them when they have no right of defense, and then publish them as an excluded faction?" When a church divides, one party withdrawing, nothing else need be expected but that the other side would then bring charges and go through the form of excluding the withdrawing party, no matter which side is in the right. We say this may be expected. And then, of course, each side usually wants to publish the other side as excluded. That is the way such things usually go. Such cases have to be judged on their individual merits. No general answer can apply to all such cases.
4. "Where a church divides, and both sides claim to be the church in order, is it prudent for sister churches or associations to receive either side to the exclusion of the other without hearing each side?" This also depends upon circumstances. They may know enough about the case to satisfy them as to which side is the church in order, and they may then consistently receive that side. If they do not know, of course they should investigate. C. H. C.

Genesis 6:6; Jonah 3:10; Malachi 3:6

---August 25, 1914

Sister Luda Sullivan, of Bon Aqua, Tenn., requests our views of (Genesis 6:6); ((0) (Jonah 2:10), and (Malachi 3:6). We think she meant ((0) (Jonah 3:10) instead of ((0) (Jonah 2:10): (Genesis 6:6) reads: "And it repented the Lord that He had made man on the earth, and it grieved Him at His heart." ((0) (Jonah 3:10) reads: "And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil, that He had said that He would do unto them; and He did it not."

(Malachi 3:6) reads: "For I am the Lord, I change not; therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed." reads: "For I am the Lord, I change not; therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed."

In this last text we have the plain, positive, unequivocal statement that the Lord does not change. Any construction placed upon the other passages which would involve the idea that the Lord changes must, therefore, necessarily be wrong. The Lord does not change. His government of man has always been a moral government. It is not a physical government. His government of inanimate things is physical. Inanimate matter neither obeys or disobeys God's law. He governs there by physical law. But His law to man is moral; and to His children, it is parental. Hence they disobey Him.

In (Genesis 6:5) we are told that "God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually." In (Genesis 6:7) He says, "I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth." Mankind had become extremely wicked in transgressing His laws in moral government; and, according to His law He punishes man-destroys man from the face of the earth.

In ((0) (Jonah 3:10)) the reference is to Nineveh, which was a wicked city. Jonah was sent to preach to them, and they repented at the preaching of Jonah-they turned from their wickedness; so, then, the Lord did not destroy them, or send the calamity upon them. This was according to God's law- His rule in dealing with His creatures. Hence, God did not change-He only dealt with them according to His rule or law -but Nineveh changed.

In (Jeremiah 18:7-10) we read: "At what instant I shall speak concerning a nation, and concerning a kingdom, to pluck up, and to pull down, and to destroy it; if that nation, against whom I have pronounced, turn from their evil, I will repent of the evil that I thought to do unto them. And at what instant I shall speak concerning a nation, and concerning a kingdom, to build and to plant it; if it do evil in my sight, that it obey not my voice, then I will repent of the good, wherewith I said I would benefit them." This shows that God's government with men is moral and not physical, and harmonizes (Genesis 6:6) and ((0) (Jonah 3:10)) with (Malachi 3:6). C. H. C.

Wine or Grape Juice

---September 15, 1914

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-Having had a "tilt" with some of my Methodist friends in regard to the use of wine in the communion service, I need a little more enlightenment perhaps, which you can give. They contend for grape juice, saying, "Therein is no temptation to a weak one; that grape juice was used always at the passover, etc., and that they knew of cases where weak ones had returned to drink from partaking of the wine in communion."

I told them that they could not defend their position by the Scriptures; that it was a modern custom; that never had I known of a Christian injured by immersion, nor by partaking of the wine at the Lord's supper; that Jesus at Cana did not turn the water into grape juice, but wine; that the Saviour said not to put new grape juice (?) in old bottles (?), no: but new wine. That Paul told Timothy to "take a little grape juice (?) for the stomach's sake," etc., (?) No: "Take a little wine." And the Jews certainly knew the difference between wine and grape juice.

In regard to the passover, our Brother Nye, the Jewish convert, tells me, "Grape juice was never used, but wine; and that grape juice was never used until so many unconverted people came into the church." Surely no support for the grape juice theory in that. Then, too, they did not know where the expression used by Paul to Timothy originated. I told them. And also that they read their Bibles religiously enough (a chapter a day at least), but with certainly very little understanding. They argued that Christ “never turned the water into fermented temptation that would cause men to fall; that the grape juice was more wholesome, and withal, harmless.”

Again I told them that wine was typical of blood; blood has life, so has wine; but grape juice is placid, inert, and to my mind does not typify blood. I also asked them whether the ones of whom they knew “had contracted the taste of wine at the communion table;” and they could not satisfy me.

I believe both wine and grape juice are used, but I believe the argument is on the side of the former. There may be others who would like to know, and an answer through the columns of The Primitive Baptist may not come amiss, not to prolong, or start afresh, a controversy, but to inform us. Your brother in hope, Howard N. Stevens. 18 Smith St., Newark, Ohio.

REMARKS

In reply to the above will say that no well informed person would say that grape juice was used in the old Jewish passover supper. Several different articles were used in that supper, among them being wine and unleavened bread.

They also had in that supper what we now call gravy, and what was then called sop. See (John 13:26). In eating this they dipped into the dish. See (Matthew 26:23). Although there were a number of different articles in the Jewish passover supper, yet the bread and wine were the substance of that supper. In the institution of the sacramental supper the Saviour took the substance (the bread and wine) from the passover supper, and used that substance in the same. The orthodox Jew would not give a farthing for the passover supper without the bread and wine, because that was the real substance of it.

Any man who knows anything at all about the meaning of words knows that wine is the fermented juice, and not the unfermented. Unfermented grape juice is not wine. Hence, for any man to say that the Saviour did not use wine is to say that the Bible lies about it. But the Bible does not lie. Hence, the man who says the Saviour did not use wine misrepresents the matter, either ignorantly or otherwise.

The Corinthians used fermented juice, or wine, in the supper. They abused the supper, and made it a drunken feast. See (I Corinthians 11:21). In partaking of the Lord's supper some of them drank to excess and were drunken. The apostle rebuked them sharply for this, but he did not reprove nor rebuke them for using the wine in the supper. He approved the use of wine in the sacramental supper, but he did not approve drunkenness, or drinking to excess, or making a drunken feast of the Lord's supper.

Wine, then, is the proper thing to use in that supper.

Again: If we substitute grape juice, or anything else, for the wine in the sacramental supper, we say by this that the Lord of glory did not know what was best to use. This would be no less than presumption, and we know that some men are very presumptuous.

Again: If we have the right to substitute grape juice for wine in the sacramental supper, we have the same right to substitute water, or anything else. We have as much right to substitute buttermilk for the wine as we do to substitute grape juice. We could more consistently substitute gravy for the wine than we could grape juice, because gravy was used in the passover supper and grape juice was not.

A Methodist might be tempted, and might take to drink, or return to it, on account of using wine in the sacramental supper, but an Old Baptist would not. The sacramental supper does not belong to the Methodists, any way. It is one of the Lord's ordinances in His house, or in His church, and was delivered to His church. "And keep the ordinances, as I delivered them to you."-(I Corinthians 11:2). The Methodist society was not organised by the Lord, but by Mr. Wesley; hence it is not the Lord's church. The Old Baptist Church is the church the Lord set up, and the ordinances were delivered unto her; and hence that is where the true sacramental supper is, and it is nowhere else. The use of the wine in the observance of the Lord's supper does not cause her members to get drunk. If they get drunk it is from some other cause, and they should be dealt with. Perhaps the Methodists are afraid to use the wine. It may be a temptation to them; and it may be that they cannot resist the temptation. And if they get drunk, perhaps they cannot afford to deal with them, because they need the money they contribute. But the Old Baptists can afford to deal with any of their members who should get drunk. C. H. C.

John 3; John 14

---October 6, 1914

Brother Clinton Watkins, of Mount Vernon, Ind., requests our views of (John 3:14), which reads as follows: "And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up." We suppose he desires our opinion as to how, or in what way, the Son of Man was to be lifted up. Modern theologians teach that He was to be lifted up through the gospel, but this is not the teaching of the text. The serpent in the wilderness was not lifted up in the gospel, or proclamation of the law, either. It was lifted up on a pole, or tree. Even so was the Son of Man lifted up on the tree-the cross on Calvary. (John 12:32-33), says: "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me. This He said, signifying what death He should die." This proves very clearly that the "lifting up" of the Son of Man had reference to His being lifted up on the cross. This was for the benefit of His people, who are called believers. C. H. C.

Revelation 22:18-19

---October 13, 1914

In another column will be found a request from Elder G. E. Mayfield, of Elgin, Oregon, for our views on (Revelation 22:18-19), which reads as follows: "For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book: and if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book."

To add to is to engage in things religiously which God has not commanded, and if we do that, and we are His children, He will visit us with the plagues which are written therein. These things are to His children, even to the church, for (Revelation 22:16) says, "I Jesus have sent mine angel to testify unto you these things in the churches." They have no reference to the eternal happiness of God's children beyond this vale of tears, but these things have much to do with their happiness here in this life.

To take away from these things is to fail to do the things which the Lord has commanded and which He requires of His children in rendering service unto Him. If we fail to do what He teaches us He takes away His blessings from us which He has promised those who walk in obedience unto Him. The holy city is the church -for there is where the testimony of these things is placed. Hence they lose the fellowship of the church by failing to do what the Lord commands, and they lose the blessings of the manifest presence of the Lord. C. H. C.

On A Tour

---October 13, 1914

We left home on Thursday, August 6, at 4 o'clock p. m. with a heavy heart. We could but wonder if the Lord was in the matter. We arrived in Stevenson, Ala., in the night, and attended the Sequachee Valley Association held with the church near the town on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 7, 8 and 9. A large crowd was present most every day, though many were kept away on account of rain. Several brethren in the ministry were present. We would like to give their names, but might overlook some, so we will not give the names of any. The preaching was all a unit, and fellowship seemed to abound. It was an enjoyable meeting.

After the association adjourned we filled appointments as follows: At Jasper, Tenn., on Monday night, Lookout Valley on Tuesday, and in Chattanooga Tuesday night. These meetings were pleasant. Elder A. J. McWhirter, of Eagleville, Tenn., was with us at Lookout Valley and Chattanooga. On Wednesday morning we left Chattanooga in company with Elders R. O. Raulston and A. J. McWhirter for Knoxville, Tenn., where we tried to preach that night. On Friday morning we went to Noeton, Tenn., in company with many others, to attend the Powell's Valley Association. Several ministers were in attendance, but we failed to note their names, and we do not remember the names of some of them, so will not give any names. It was an enjoyable meeting. Love and fellowship abounded, and the preaching was all a unit. There was not a discordant note sounded.

On Monday morning we went to Bluffton, Tenn., in company with Elder W. C. McMillon, son of Elder Samuel McMillon, to fill an appointment at Bethany Church on Tuesday. A very good congregation was present and the meeting was pleasant. We also had service at night. On Wednesday we went to Barnard, N. C, Elder McMillon accompanying us, where we had an appointment for Thursday, near there. The meeting at this church was also a pleasant one.

On Friday we went to Salisbury, N. C, arriving there about 8 o'clock that night. We were at the Abbotts Creek Association, which convened with the church in Salisbury on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, August 22, 23 and 24. A large crowd was at this meeting. Twenty four brethren in the ministry were in attendance, several of whom we had never met before, among whom were Elders P. D. Gold, of Wilson, N. C, editor of Zion's Landmark, Joshua Rowe, of Baltimore, Md., and J. A. Ashburn, of Winston-Salem, N. C. We would be glad to give the names of the ministers present, but cannot do so, as we did not make a note of their names.

This was a glorious meeting-one we shall not soon forget. Love and fellowship was manifested throughout. The preaching was all of a oneness, and no spirit of envy or strife was manifested. From the Abbotts Creek Association we filled appointments as arranged for us by Elder W. C. McMillon at High Point, Pine, Abbotts Creek, Linnville Union, Winston-Salem, and Walnut Cove. Then we filled appointments, as arranged by Elder A. L. Moore, at Martinsville, Riverview, Reedy Creek, Ridgeway, Friendship, Axton, Goodwill, Spray, Cascade, Danville, Wolf Island, Reidsville, Burlington, and Durham. The day for the meeting at Cascade was rainy, so that only four or five were present. We were at Ridgeway two days-Saturday and Sunday.

The congregation was small at Reedy Creek also. The congregations were good at nearly all the other appointments. At Danville a sister came to the church asking for a home with them there. She was received, and her baptism appointed to be attended to at their next regular meeting. We met several brethren in the ministry but did not make any note of their names, and cannot call the names of all of them to mind now.

From Durham we went to the Seven Mile Association at Reedy Prong Church, near Benson, on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, September 18, 19, 20. Several brethren in the ministry were present at this meeting, and a large crowd attended. It was another sweet meeting. The preaching was all a unit, and love and fellowship was manifested throughout the entire meeting.

From the Seven Mile Association we filled appointments at Oak Forest, Four Oaks, Hannah's Creek, Benson, and Bethsaida. The congregations were good and the meetings were pleasant at all these places. Elder J. E. Adams was with us at each place, and on to Angier. We appreciated his company very much.

Then we attended the Little River Association at Coats, N. C., on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, September 25, 26, 27. The following visiting ministers were present: P. D. Gold, T. B. Lancaster, J. T. Collier, J. W. Gardner, Thos. Bell, J. F. Farmer, C. A. Davis, J. T. Spencer, W. G. Turner, Bernice Wood, and C. H. Cayce, and Licentiate I S. Smith and J. W. Proctor. Their home ministers present were Elders T. F. Pierce, J. A. T. Jones, J. T. Coats, J. E. Adams, J. H. Johnston, W. A. Simpkins, A. D. Johnston, G. W. Stephenson, L. H. Stephenson, and W. M. Monsees. Friday was a rainy day and the attendance was small, but on Saturday and Sunday the attendance was large. It was estimated that from 5,000 to 8,000 people were present on Sunday. The order was extremely good, considering the fact that the crowd was so large. The preaching was all a unit at this meeting, as at the others, and love flowed from heart to heart. All seemed to be of one mind and sentiment. It was a pleasant meeting, indeed. Elder J. T. Coats is the moderator, and this place is his home. He enjoyed the meeting very much and took great pleasure in entertaining the brethren in his home, as also did many others. The entertainment provided could not have been better.

Every thing tended to make the meeting an enjoyable one and the Lord's sweet presence was manifested. From this association we went to Angier on Monday, accompanied by Elder J. F. Farmer, where we had meeting on that day and at night. Elder J. E. Adams was also present, and he and Elder Farmer preached at night. Elder Farmer is the pastor of the church, and is much beloved by the brethren. The meetings at Angier were sweet and delightful. From Angier we went to Willow Spring, and met a lovely band of faithful brethren. The meeting was pleasant at this place. From Willow Spring we came to Raleigh on Wednesday morning, the home of Elder W. A. Simpkins, and had meeting in the day and also at night. Elder Farmer came and was with us here. The meetings were pleasant both morning and evening, and the brethren and sisters heartily endorsed our feeble efforts to speak in the name of the Master.

The tour has been pleasant to us to the present. At each place we have been heartily received and the brethren have all been good to us-much better than we feel to be worthy of. Today (Thursday, October 1) we are at the home of Elder W. A. Simpkins, in Raleigh. We expect to go from here to the Bear Creek Association.

When we reach home we will write concerning the remainder of the trip. We expect to return home in two weeks from this writing-in time to attend our home association. May the Lord's rich blessings rest upon all whom we have met and who so kindly administered to us on our journey, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Question Of Order

---October 20, 1914

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-Your view is requested through The Primitive Baptist on order. I will state a case so that you may see the point for consideration. A brother was charged with a wrong in conference. The one charged denied the charge and demanded the proof, and proposed to acknowledge the wrong and ask forgiveness if the proof was produced. There was a failure in producing the proof. The proposition to "acknowledge the wrong and ask forgiveness" was utterly disregarded. It has been repeated, and efforts made to get them to terms of reconciliation. All efforts are a failure. So the question is, What is the order of that church? Did they disregard the discipline of the Bible? We hope to see a reply from you soon. It is important to more than the writer. Yours in hope, W. M. McCain. R. 1, Bellville, Ark.

OUR REPLY

The brother who was under charge has made a mistake, whether guilty of the charge or not. Although he denied the charge and demanded the proof, yet he proposed to acknowledge the charge and ask forgiveness for the wrong, provided he was proven guilty. That proposition is a virtual acknowledgment of his guilt, and at the same time it virtually says he is not sorry of his guilt, unless his guilt is proven.

On the other hand, if he is innocent, the proposition says he will acknowledge that he is guilty, if it is proven on him, although he is innocent. A false charge might be proven. If he is innocent, then the charge was false. If the charge had been proven his proposition was that he would acknowledge it, although he was innocent. Thus, he proposed to acknowledge that a false charge was true, provided it was proven. The brother has placed himself in a dilemma, and our judgment is that he should withdraw his proposition, confess his wrong in making it, and ask forgiveness for the same. C. H. C.

Tour In North Carolina

---October 27, 1914

In our issue of October 13 we gave an account of our tour in North Carolina up to October 1st, and promised to write a brief account of the remainder of the trip after returning home. We will now try to comply with the promise. We left Raleigh on Friday morning, October 2, for Peachland to attend the Bear Creek Association. We were met at the train by Brother J. W. Jones, the clerk of the association, and conveyed to his home, where we spent the night. Saturday and Sunday were both rainy days so that the congregations were small at the association on both days.

The congregation was larger on Monday, but not near so many people were there as would have been had the weather been favorable. Notwithstanding the fact that the weather was so unfavorable, the meeting was good, and was enjoyed by all who were there. The following brethren in the ministry were present at the meeting: Elders J. F. Mills, W. T. Mills, W. T. Broadway, H. Taylor, B. L. Treece, W. R. Helms, J. E. Williams, H. M. Williams, W. C. Edwards, B. H. Harrelson, Samuel McMillon and the writer. Elder Mills is the moderator, and is highly esteemed by the brethren. Two sisters came forward on Monday and asked for a home with the church there, and they were gladly received.

After the association we filled appointments at High Hill on Tuesday; Wingate, Tuesday night; Pleasant Grove, Wednesday; Wadesboro, Wednesday night, Albemarle, Thursday; Lexington, Thursday night. Elder McMillon was with us at all these appointments, and did everything in his power to make the trip pleasant for us. Elders Taylor, Mills, Edwards, Treece, and Williams were also with us at some of the places. At most of the places the congregations were large and attentive, and the meetings were all pleasant.

From Lexington we went to Greensboro on Friday, where we had meeting at night. At this place we met Elders G. O. Key and J. R. Crews, who were on their way to the Salem Association. The meeting was a pleasant one, and the brethren seemed to enjoy our feeble efforts to speak in the name of the Master. On Saturday morning we went to Burlington to attend the meeting of the Salem Association, which was held on Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, embracing the second Sunday in October.

The following brethren in the ministry were present at the meeting: Elders P. W. Williard, J. A. Ashburn, C. A. Davis, Samuel McMillon, S. P. Terry, W. C. Jones, W. A. Gourley, J. M. Crews, A. M. Denny, G. O. Key, A. G. Morton, J. F. Spangler, B. F. McKinney, J. R. Crews, and the writer; and also the following licentiate ministers were present: W. P. Matthews, J. W. Gilliam, Jr., T. A. Stanfield, Albert Page, and R. E. Adams. Elder Williard is the moderator of the association, and is highly esteemed. Brother W. L. Teague, of Winston-Salem, is the clerk, and Elder J. A. Ashburn, of Winston-Salem, is assistant clerk. The business sessions were held in a hall which was furnished free. The preaching services were held in a large warehouse which was also furnished free. The places were conveniently located, and large crowds were at each service, and the order was good. The people gave good attention to the preaching and the Lord's presence was manifested. It was another good meeting.

On Monday afternoon we bade farewell to Elder McMillon, who had been with us so much, and to his companion and daughter, and others who were there, and left for High Point with Mr. Greer, who is a good Old Baptist in sentiment, and who conveyed us in his car to that place, where we boarded a train for Salisbury to meet an appointment that night. We were met there at 7:20 and conveyed to the meeting house, where quite a number had gathered for the meeting. We were again kindly received by these good people. We spent the night with Brother C. B. Owen and his kind family, and on Tuesday morning we bade them farewell and started for home. We reached home safely at noon on Wednesday, October 14, and found all as well as we had expected, for which we hope we feel thankful to the Lord.

The trip was a pleasant one to us in many ways. We had the privilege of meeting many brethren we had never met, and perhaps many of them we will never meet again in this life. They were all kind and good to us. We feel that they were much better to us than we deserve. We humbly trust that our visit among them will not result in harm to them. Their great kindness to us will not be forgotten. We may forget the names of many of them, but we will not forget their tender care for us. May the dear Lord shower down His rich blessings upon them, is our humble prayer. We humbly ask all the dear brethren, sisters and friends to kindly remember us at a throne of grace. C. H. C.

Matthew 25:1-13

---November 10, 1914

Several parties have asked our views on (Matthew 25:1-13), which is the parable of the ten virgins. There is a difference among the brethren concerning the teaching of this parable, and we cannot understand why brethren insist on having differences discussed, when those differences are not vital. One brother has written us rather harshly because we have not replied to his request on this Scripture as he thought we should. We would like for him, and some others, to occupy our position a little while. They might then be in a position to exercise a little more patience.

Now, we will give just a few of our thoughts in connection with this parable. We do not set up our views as standard; neither are we going to allow any discussion of differences in our columns. Controversies tend to widen differences, for a wrong spirit is nearly always manifested.

The word then, the first word in the chapter, is used here in the sense of therefore. It denotes a reason; for this reason "shall the kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgins."

The kingdom of heaven is likened unto ten virgins, not likened unto five virgins. Five of the virgins were wise and five of them were foolish; and the kingdom of heaven was likened unto all of the ten. They all slumbered and slept-both the wise and the foolish. At midnight the cry was made, "Behold, the bridegroom cometh." Midnight denotes a time of darkness, and all were slumbering. So, at the closing out of the law dispensation, at the time of the coming of Christ into the world, it was a time of darkness-gross darkness-and all were slumbering.

The foolish said, "Give us of your oil; for our lamps are gone out"-or, "our lamps are going out." Their lamps had been burning once; but they are going out now. There was a light in law worship and law service in the law dispensation; but as the law dispensation is going out, the light of that worship and service is also going out. The light was only a borrowed light, it is true; but it was needed then. In the night time, we need the light of the moon, which is a borrowed light; but when the day has come, and the sun has risen, the light of the moon is not needed, and goes out. The day of gospel worship has now come; the sun of gospel light is shining; the light of law worship is no longer needed, and it has gone out. "

But the wise said, Not so; lest there be not enough for us and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves." We do not presume that the wise virgins would tell the foolish ones to go and buy that which was necessary for them to have in order that they have a home in heaven. The grace of God in the eternal salvation of poor sinners is not for sale. If it is, we cannot imagine who keeps a supply on hand for sale. But there is something for sale without money and without price. See (5:1) (Isaiah 55:1-2): "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price.

Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness." This language was addressed to Israel, the Lord's children. There was something they could buy; but they could not buy redemption or regeneration. Again, (Revelation 3:18): "I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear; and anoint thine eyes with eyesalve, that thou mayest see."

This language was for the church at Laodicea! They were the people of God. There was something for them to buy; and they could buy it in no other way than in rendering the service to the Lord which He required of them, and in being diligent in the same. The Lord does not require law worship or service; but He requires gospel worship and service. The light of law worship and law service has gone out.

"And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage: and the door was shut." The readiness here, we think, is the engaging in the gospel worship and service. The door is shut on law worship and law service. That is closed out. It is not admitted in the gospel kingdom or church of Christ. The Lord has closed the door against that, and no man has the power or authority to open the door and admit law worship and law service into the church.

"Afterward came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open to us. But he answered and said, Verily I say unto you, I know you not." He does not recognize law service. The light of that service has gone out. He now requires gospel service. Law worship and law service is not acceptable to Him. Those who engage in that kind of service are not recognized by Him. He will not receive them or their service. If the church engages in it, the candlestick will be removed.

"Watch therefore." For the reason that all this is true, we should watch. How necessary it is that we watch, and not engage in law worship and law service. If we do engage in such, we may be assured of the fact that the Lord will not recognize it, and that He will not receive us into the manifestation of His presence here. "For ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh." He comes in the manifestation of His Spirit often; we know not when He will thus come. We should be diligent in rendering the service He requires, so we may be ready for Him when He does thus come. "And, behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be."-(Revelation 22:12). He comes quickly, or often.

The final and great lesson taught in the parable is that we should watch. It teaches the necessity of doing this. The reason for doing this is that the law dispensation is at an end, and the light of the law worship and law service was going out. Hence, the great lesson taught is the closing out of the law dispensation, law worship and service, and the ushering in of the gospel dispensation, gospel worship and service. Now, in closing, we only ask our readers to consider the thoughts we have given. If they are not in harmony with the Bible, do not receive them. We do not want, and neither will we have, controversy on the matter. We give our views only because so many have requested us to do so. C. H. C.

Hebrews 5:9; John 3; John 5; Revelation 22:14

---November 10, 1914

Brother W. H. Butler, of Woodville, Ala., requests our views of (Hebrews 5:9); (John 3:5), and (Revelation 22:14), and says, "We have a Campbellite here who claims that the Primitive Baptists cannot harmonise these Scriptures." Brother Butler, why did you not harmonize them for him? Or, rather, why did you not show him that they are in harmony with the doctrine of the Primitive Baptists? So far as the passages are concerned, they already harmonize, and the doctrine taught by the Primitive Baptists is not contradicted by them.

(Hebrews 5:9) reads: "And being made perfect, He became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey Him." This text does not say that none are saved only those who obey Him. No gospel service is acceptable to the Lord unless it is rendered from a principle of love. No one will deny this. See (I Corinthians 13:1-4). "Every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God."- reads: "And being made perfect, He became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey Him." This text does not say that none are saved only those who obey Him. No gospel service is acceptable to the Lord unless it is rendered from a principle of love. No one will deny this. See (I Corinthians 13:1-4). "Every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God."-(I John 4:7).

Therefore, everyone that renders acceptable service to God has been born of God. The service he renders proves that he has been born of God. Hence, it is true that the one who renders acceptable service to God will be saved-not because he renders the service, but because he has been born of God. But some will be saved who do not obey. Infants and idiots will be saved, but they do not obey. If the Campbellite says none will be saved only those who obey Him, then he denies that infants and idiots will be saved. Jesus was made perfect, and became the author of eternal salvation. If He was, and is, perfect, then He does not fail to save any whose salvation He undertakes. Hence, He saves all that He desires to save. He saves all that the Father gave Him. He is perfect, and His work is perfect. Hence He makes no failures.

(John 3:5) reads: "Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." The Saviour, in this text and the connection, is treating upon the subject of the new birth. To be born again, or from above, is to be born of water and the Spirit. The Greek word kai, from which the word and is here translated, may also be correctly translated even. The text, then, means the same as "Except a man be born of water, even the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." The water is the cleansing work of the Spirit which is performed in regeneration. Baptism is a work; but the apostle says, "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost; which He shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour."

reads: "Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." The Saviour, in this text and the connection, is treating upon the subject of the new birth. To be born again, or from above, is to be born of water and the Spirit. The Greek word kai, from which the word and is here translated, may also be correctly translated even. The text, then, means the same as "Except a man be born of water, even the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." The water is the cleansing work of the Spirit which is performed in regeneration. Baptism is a work; but the apostle says, "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost; which He shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour."

They are not saved by any righteous work which they have done. It is by the cleansing and renewing work of the Holy Spirit. This washing or cleansing is not an outward work, but an inward cleansing-an inward washing. The water, then, in (John 3:5), is not the natural water, but is the inward work of the Holy Spirit.

(Revelation 22:14) says: "Blessed are they that do His commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city." The city is the visible organized kingdom of God here on earth-the Old Baptist Church. It was represented by the land of Canaan. The land of Canaan belonged to the Jews-the Israelites. It was theirs by gift and by birth. The land flowed with milk and honey. The Israelites enjoyed the blessings of that land by walking in obedience to the Lord's commands. They did not become Israelites by obedience, but they enjoyed the blessings of the land by obedience. So, the church of God belongs to spiritual Israel.

says: "Blessed are they that do His commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city." The city is the visible organized kingdom of God here on earth-the Old Baptist Church. It was represented by the land of Canaan. The land of Canaan belonged to the Jews-the Israelites. It was theirs by gift and by birth. The land flowed with milk and honey. The Israelites enjoyed the blessings of that land by walking in obedience to the Lord's commands. They did not become Israelites by obedience, but they enjoyed the blessings of the land by obedience. So, the church of God belongs to spiritual Israel.

It is theirs by gift and by birth; but they enjoy the blessings therein by obedience to the Lord. They have no right to live in the church if they walk in disobedience. When walking in obedience the Lord's children have a right in the church and enjoy the blessings therein. C. H. C.

Unknown Tongues

---November 17, 1914

Brother Isaiah Freeman, of Dick, Miss., requests our view concerning the unknown tongues mentioned in (I Corinthians 14). They have especial or direct reference to speaking in the Hebrew language; and the teaching is that they were not to do this (speak in an unknown language) unless there be one present to interpret the language spoken so that the hearers could understand and be benefitted thereby. It had no reference to the modern fanaticism of some who claim to speak in an unknown tongue. C. H. C.

Matthew 19:24

---November 17, 1914

S. J. Blood worth, of Columbus, Ga., requests our views on (Matthew 19:24), which reads, "And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God." What gave rise to this statement was the young man going to the Saviour and saying unto Him, "What good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?" The man expected to go to heaven by his good works. He claimed that he had kept the law; but the Saviour tried Him on that platform and showed that he had not kept it. No one can get eternal life by doing good works, or by keeping the law. It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a man to be saved that way. Hence, it is utterly impossible for one to be saved in heaven by doing good works. It is utterly impossible, therefore, for the Arminian doctrine to be true. C. H. C.

Pinkstaff and Kirkland

---November 24, 1914

We have received several letters asking us about Elder W. A. Pinkstaff and Elder J. J. Kirkland, who are on a tour among the Progressives in Georgia. One letter said, "It seems to me that I saw some instrument which this elder signed, and published in your paper, agreeing to cease his labors among the Progressives. Is that true?" Having received so many inquiries, we have thought it proper for us to make the following statement: Elder Pinkstaff did sign an agreement that he would cease affiliation with the Progressives. On the strength of that agreement we made appointments for Elder Pinkstaff in our country some time ago.

After the appointments were made we received information that he was still considered a Progressive in the section of Illinois where he had been living for some time. After he filled those appointments he wrote us requesting us to make appointments for him again. We wrote him under date of August 20, 1913, that we could not make them unless he would come out plainly on some points, which he refused to do. A letter had been published in the Pilgrim's Banner from him. We asked him about that. Here are some extracts from his reply, dated August 24, 1913:

I agreed when Brother...and I came together that I would discontinue all affiliations with those people. It was published in your paper. I have had nothing to do with them since. I think I have said enough for the Baptists to understand my attitude in this matter. I have nothing more to say in regard to this matter. I wrote to Brother Barwick regarding his prices for advertising, and in the letter told him of our meeting, and he published it of his own accord. He is the only man I have written to. He told me I did right in signing the agreement; advised me to work for peace among the churches. I have kept our agreement to the letter. I still stand there. I judge from your letter that I am not worthy of your fellowship, and that of the precious saints of God I met and who so heartily endorsed what I preached when I was with them last spring; therefore I am perfectly willing to drop the matter and to forever remain out of your presence. Your letter breathes lack of confidence in me, distrust, and a desire that I remain from your association...Yours in hope, W. A. Pinkstaff.

We sent the following reply under date of September 1, 1913: "Dear Brother-Yours of August 24th has been received. In reply will say that your explanation concerning your letter in the Banner is satisfactory. But other matters are not satisfactory. Now, I want to tell you that I did not write the letter because of animosity, or ill feeling toward you. I trust that I was trying to act faithfully toward you, yet you seem to take exceptions. I was sorry I could not be at home when you were here, for I wanted to talk to you on some of these matters. My mother did talk to you and told you what she thought and how the Baptists in this section stand, and you know they were afraid of you.

Concerning the Progressive move, our people, as you know, are opposed to it; and they will not heartily receive you, unless you come out plainly and renounce the same. It is true that you signed an agreement with, but our people want to know if you are really in sympathy with that move, or are you really in sympathy with those who oppose it. Now, you can very easily settle the matter by saying plainly how you stand in the premises." Elder Pinkstaff has failed to come out on the matters referred to in the correspondence; and we refused to make appointments for him in our section last fall. Other brethren have done the same thing. We visited the section last fall where Elder Pinkstaff has been living and preaching. Our people there do not recognize him.

He and another elder caused division in some churches there, and Elder Pinkstaff was pastor of one or two of those factions when we were in that section. He has not visited our churches since the spring of 1913, and we would not have made the appointments for him then had we known what we learned afterward. But his present visit among the Progressives in Georgia shows where his sympathy is. We have a card from Elder Hanks also stating that Elder J. J. Kirkland is also in that country among the Progressives. Well, we suppose that is all right. He has no recognition with the Primitive Baptists of this country, or any other denomination. C. H. C.

Questions on Order

---November 24, 1914

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-I ask the following questions for information, and I want you to answer them through your paper. Please give an explanation on them as soon as you can. 1st. If a church receives and allows a heretic to preach in her stand, or allows a disorderly man to preach in her stand, or if she depart from the faith, or if she goes into disorder, or becomes so confused that her sister churches do not feel willing to tolerate her conduct- if one or more sister churches withdraw from such a church without taking up labor with her as the eighteenth chapter of Matthew teaches, would it be disorder, or wrong, on the part of the withdrawing churches? 2nd. In the case of churches, does the Bible justify any labor as official labor only labor done by sister churches? 3rd. If in the case of churches the rule in the eighteenth chapter of Matthew is the only rule by which a church can withdraw from an erring church, if the sister churches fail to labor with the erring church, are they not disobedient churches, and become equally guilty with the erring church? 4th. If in the case of churches the eighteenth chapter of Matthew is the rule to go by, ought we to confine such labors to churches composing an association, and thus let an associational line figure in such cases? 5th. If in the case of churches the eighteenth chapter of Matthew is the rule to go by, and a church commits just any sort of a disorderly act, is she supposed to be in order until said rule is applied to her case and she is announced in disorder by sister churches which applied said rule? 6th. Was this the general practice of the Baptists before our time? Yours for the truth, C. B. Bowlin. R. 1, Laurel, Miss.

OUR REPLY

In answer to question one will say that a church may allow a heretic or disorderly man to preach in her stand on account of being ignorant of the man's heresy or disorder. If a church departs from the faith, she may lose her identity as a gospel church even if she is never labored with by sister churches. However, it is right and proper that sister churches should labor with her, or try to do so, to reclaim her from her error. A portion of a church may depart from the faith (either a minority or a majority) and those who maintain the true order may bestow labor on those who have departed, and failing to reclaim them, they may withdraw from them. In such case the true gospel order remains with the party who has contended for the true order of the church, no matter whether other churches have bestowed labor or not. 2nd. That depends upon circumstances. If a whole church should depart from the faith, official labor is that bestowed by sister churches. 3rd. It is certainly true that if the eighteenth chapter of Matthew is the only rule to govern in the case of erring churches, then if the sister churches fail to bestow labor, they would become offenders themselves. 4th. We do not think associational lines should control such matters. Associations are not higher courts. 5th. This depends upon circumstances. If the eighteenth chapter of Matthew is the rule to go by, and a church is in order until sister churches bestow labor and announce her disorder, then many of the churches identified with the Missionary Baptists today are in order, for there were many churches that went with the Missionaries in the division that were not officially labored with. They simply departed from the faith, and our churches declared against such departures in a general way. Not only is this true regarding the modern missionary movement and trouble, but it is true in regard to other departures along the line. 6th. The answer to question 5 answers this question also. C. H. C.

Hebrews 10:38-39

---December 1, 1914

Brother W. P. Rawls, of Monroeville, Ala., requests our views of ((0:38) (Hebrews 10:38-39), which reads, "Now the just shall live by faith: but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him. But we are not of them who draw back unto perdition: but of them that believe to the saving of the soul." "The just shall live by faith." God's people live by faith. They walk by faith, and not by sight. They embrace the sweet promises of God by faith. They do not die, but live. "The life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave Himself for me."-(Galatians 2:20). If God's children draw back, and refuse to walk as the Lord requires, and fail to obey Him, they do not please Him.

He has no pleasure in their disobedience. They may draw back, and live in disobedience to their Lord and Master, but they are not utterly cast down, for the Lord upholds them with His hand. Hence, they "are not of them that draw back unto perdition." C. H. C.

Jonah 3:10

---December 1, 1914

Brother J. C. Davis, of Atmore, Ala., has requested our views of ((0) (Jonah 3:10), which reads as follows: "And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil, that He had said that He would do unto them, and He did it not." We gave our views on this question not long since; but will say that the repentance here is not as man repents. The Lord does not change. See (Malachi 3:6). The Lord threatened destruction upon the city of Nineveh for their wickedness, and when Jonah began proclaiming the same, the king proclaimed a fast, and the inhabitants of the city turned from their evil ways and cried unto the Lord. Then the evil, or destruction, with which the Lord had threatened them, was withheld, and in this sense the Lord "repented of the evil, that He had said that He would do unto them." This was in perfect harmony with His law as expressed in ((8:21) (Ezekiel 18:21), "But if the wicked will turn from all his sins that he hath committed, and keep all my statutes, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall surely live, he shall not die." C. H. C.

Apostasy

---December 1, 1914

Under the above heading, Curtis Porter, in the Christian Pilot, argues that the children of Israel who fell in the wilderness (23,000 in one day) all went to hell. This only shows ignorance, for all who know anything about the Scriptural account of the matter know that it was a temporal destruction, and that not a word is said about them being sent to hell. But that is the way these fellows prove their doctrine-they do not prove it at all. He says: "If Baptist doctrine is true on this subject the devil is the biggest fool I ever heard of, for he has been trying for 6,000 years to get a child of God, and if he has not succeeded he is a fool for not quitting." Well, we will agree with the gentleman that the devil is a fool; if he were not a fool he would have learned before this time that he could not get one of the Lord's children, and would quit trying. But, behold! the devil is not the only fool living. The devil has not learned the truth-that the Lord will not let him have one of His children; and Mr. Porter has not learned it, either. It seems that the devil and Mr. Porter agree. "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

According to Mr. Porter the devil got 23,000 of the Lord's children in one day. If he did do that, he got them because the Lord did not want them, or else it was because the Lord could not prevent it. It certainly could not have been because the Lord did not want them; and the devil also wanted them, and the devil got them; he had power to take them in spite of the Lord-the Lord could not prevent it. Then, if the Lord could not prevent the devil getting these, neither could He prevent the devil getting any others he might want. Hence, the devil will get all he wants, but the Lord will only get what the devil will not have. Those who are saved are saved because the devil won't have them. Oh, beautiful theme! Oh, glorious Campbellism! Praise the devil for salvation! C. H. C.

1 Peter 2:8

---December 8, 1914

Brother W. J. Pitts, of Forreton, Texas, requests our views of ((Pet 2:8) (I Peter 2:8), which reads, "And a stone of stumbling, and a rock of offense, even to them which stumble at the word, being disobedient: whereunto also they were appointed." We suppose the clause, "whereunto also they were appointed," is what he desires our opinion upon. The real meaning of the text is that they who were disobedient were appointed to stumble at the word. God's appointment is that those who are disobedient, in a state of unregeneracy, stumble at the word. C. H. C.

Views Given

---December 8, 1914

Brother R. L. Dickerson, of Falkner, Miss., requests our views on several passages. We haven't time or space for lengthy comments, but will offer a few thoughts on the passages as follows:

(Genesis 6:5-6,7)This text reads: "And God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually. And it repented the Lord that He had made man on the earth, and it grieved Him at His heart. And the Lord said, I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth; both man, and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth me that I have made them." This text is in line with one upon which we gave our views not long since concerning Nineveh. The same remarks will apply to this text. The Lord expressly declares in that He does not change. He does not repent as man repents. It is His will and according to His law that He punish man for his sins. Hence, according to His law He punished the people of the old world for their sins. This does not show a change in the Lord, but shows that He does not change.

This text reads: "And God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually. And it repented the Lord that He had made man on the earth, and it grieved Him at His heart. And the Lord said, I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth; both man, and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth me that I have made them." This text is in line with one upon which we gave our views not long since concerning Nineveh. The same remarks will apply to this text. The Lord expressly declares in (Malachi 3:6) that He does not change. He does not repent as man repents. It is His will and according to His law that He punish man for his sins. Hence, according to His law He punished the people of the old world for their sins. This does not show a change in the Lord, but shows that He does not change.

((2) (Matthew 8:22) This text says: "But Jesus said unto him, Follow me; and let the dead bury their dead." One of His disciples had said, "Suffer me first to go and bury my father." This teaches, simply, that the child of God should not let anyone, not even the earthly father, come in between him and the service of God. The service of God should be first. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness."

This text says: "But Jesus said unto him, Follow me; and let the dead bury their dead." One of His disciples had said, "Suffer me first to go and bury my father." This teaches, simply, that the child of God should not let anyone, not even the earthly father, come in between him and the service of God. The service of God should be first. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness."

((26) (Luke 14:26) This text says: "If any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple." This teaches that the child of God should not allow anyone to come between him and the service of God. He must love God more than all others-even more than he loves his own life-in order that he be a true and faithful follower of the Lord.

This text says: "If any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple." This teaches that the child of God should not allow anyone to come between him and the service of God. He must love God more than all others-even more than he loves his own life-in order that he be a true and faithful follower of the Lord.

(John 1:18)AND says: "No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, He hath declared Him." says, "And I will take away mine hand, and thou shalt see my back parts: but my face shall not be seen." The Lord said this to Moses. Moses was only permitted to see the Lord's glory. He was not permitted to see His face. No man can see His face and live. But Jesus had seen the Father's face in glory. He came from God out of heaven. This no man on earth but Jesus had ever done, and no man on earth has ever yet done that. The Lord's people will see Him face to face after awhile, but they do not see Him that way while here. C. H. C.

AND ((3:23) (Exodus 33:23); (John 1:18) says: "No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, He hath declared Him."

((3:23) (Exodus 33:23) says, "And I will take away mine hand, and thou shalt see my back parts: but my face shall not be seen." The Lord said this to Moses. Moses was only permitted to see the Lord's glory. He was not permitted to see His face. No man can see His face and live. But Jesus had seen the Father's face in glory. He came from God out of heaven. This no man on earth but Jesus had ever done, and no man on earth has ever yet done that. The Lord's people will see Him face to face after awhile, but they do not see Him that way while here. C. H. C.

Ezekiel 36:25-27

---December 8, 1914

Sister Mattie Clayton, of Hurdle Mills, N. C, requests our views of ((25) (Ezekiel 36:25-26,27). which reads as follows: "Then will I sprinkle clean water upon you, and ye shall be clean: from all your filthiness, and from your idols, will I cleanse you. A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you: and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh, and I will give you an heart of flesh.. And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments, and do them."

Much could be written in connection with this text, but we haven't space to enlarge upon the subject. We have so many requests that we are compelled to give only a brief answer to each.

This text figurates or represents the Lord's work in regeneration. The sprinkling of clean water is what the Lord said He would do, and it represents a cleansing work. The Lord said He would cleanse them from their idols and from their filthiness. This He does in the work of regeneration. There is a washing, a cleansing, in regeneration. See (Titus 3:5-6).

In this work the Lord puts a new heart and a new spirit within the person. After regeneration one possesses a heart and a spirit which he did not have before. The Lord takes away the stony heart, and this kills the person to sin, or to the love of it. He gives a heart of flesh, and this makes the person alive unto God. "Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord."-(Romans 6:11). In this work the Lord puts His Spirit within the person. Hence, the Spirit of God dwells within the person who has been born from above.

This makes him a partaker of the divine nature-just as the natural birth makes him a partaker of the sinful nature. He now has two natures, and from these two natures springs his desires. On account of the two natures there is a warfare; these two natures are contrary the one to the other. From the divine nature which he possesses springs the holy and righteous desires and aspirations, and from the old or sinful nature springs the unholy and sinful desires and aspirations. If one walks in the statutes of the Lord and keeps His judgments, it is because this work of regeneration has been done for and in him. Thus, his good works, of a spiritual nature, are "fruits of faith and evidences of regeneration." C. H. C.

Questions Answered

---December 15, 1914

Sister Evie Graham, of Bethesda, Tenn., has asked us a few questions, which we will try to answer: "Are there any commandments in the Bible to the unregenerate sinner? Is there anything addressed to him that he must do in order to eternal life?" There are moral commandments in the Bible which the alien sinner is required to obey; but there is nothing which the alien or unregenerate sinner is required to do in order to be born again, or in order to receive eternal life. The moral obligations are resting upon those who have natural life; and the spiritual obligations are resting upon those who have spiritual life.

"Who is the Saviour addressing when He says, 'Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish?'" This is in (Luke 13:3). He was talking to the Jews. Some perished by the falling of the tower in Siloam; and these would perish like they did unless they repent. There is no intimation of eternal damnation nor eternal life in the text or context.

“Who was He addressing when He said, 'Seek ye the Lord?' This is the language of the prophet, and was addressed to Israel -the Jews. The Jews were a typical people, representing the Lord's spiritual people. The Jews had forsaken the law service which the Lord required of them as His people in the law dispensation, and they were commanded to seek the Lord. So, now, God's children often turn away from the gospel service which the Lord requires of His children in the gospel dispensation, and they should turn from that and seek the Lord. C. H. C.

Psalms 55:12-14

---December 22, 1914

Brother W. T. Fuqua, of Farmington, Ky., wrote us last January as follows: “I cannot find who David is talking to in ((5:12) (Psalms 55:12-13,14). If you have any light on the subject, please give it in our much beloved paper, The Primitive Baptist, which has been coming to my home from its infancy, and is so much comfort and satisfaction to me in my old and afflicted and shut-in days. My stay on earth will soon be over, and when I am gone you may say that old man died in the Primitive Baptist faith in full. It has been my meat and drink for about sixty years, and I am willing to die on it-just waiting.”

In the place cited by our dear old brother, David says: “For it was not an enemy that reproached me; then I could have borne it: neither was it he that hated me that did magnify himself against me; then I would have hid myself from him: but it was thou, a man mine equal, my guide, and mine acquaintance. We took sweet counsel together, and walked unto the house of God in company.” It appears to us that this refers to those who had proven to be false to him. They had been his friends; but had proven false. We have witnessed the same even in our day. Not only has the writer experienced this, but we are sure that Brother Fuqua has also experienced the same thing.

You have had some friends in the past that you esteemed as dear brethren in the Lord; you took sweet counsel together; you walked together in the sweet service of the Master; you enjoyed their companionship and association; but they have forsaken the right way; they have reproached the cause you love. While they had apparently been your friends for years, they turned to be your enemy as concerning the truth of the gospel and the true service of God and the church of Christ. They have turned away from all this, so that you cannot walk together now.

We do not expect anything else but opposition from those who are outside the church, and who are in avowed opposition to the truth. What they may do or say does not wound our feelings, nor hurt us. But when one in whom we have had confidence, one whom we have loved and esteemed as a brother in the Lord, turns away from the truth, and brings reproach upon the cause, it hurts us; it brings sorrow and distress to our poor hearts. The perils of false brethren is a conflict hard to endure, and it cannot be endured without bringing deep sorrow.

In commenting on this Scripture, Gill says: “And so such persons, who have walked together to the house of God and in it, have attended together on public worship, and walked together in holy fellowship; when any of these forsake the assembling of themselves together, scoff at religion, speak evil of ordinances, reproach the saints, or persecute them, it is very shocking, cutting, and grieving indeed."

May the Lord bless these few thoughts to your good, and may His grace sustain you, dear brother, in your declining years, is our humble prayer. We have been delayed in replying to this request, as well as many others. We have so many of them that we cannot reply promptly every time. We trust Brother Fuqua will pardon the delay. C. H. C.

Romans 14:10

---December 22, 1914

Elder A. L. Ray, of Baker Hill, Ala., requests our views of (Romans 14:10), and asks, "When and where is the judgment seat of Christ?" The text reads: "But why dost thou judge thy brother? or why dost thou set at naught thy brother? for we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ." It appears to us that the apostle was reproving the brethren concerning the eating of meat and herbs, and the esteeming of one day above another. It seems that some esteemed one day above another, and that others did not; and that some condemned others on this account.

This was a matter to be left to the conscience of each one, and no one should be condemned by his brother on account of his view of the matters considered here. The apostle brings to the attention of the one who would condemn his brother for these matters the fact that he must, himself, "appear before the judgment seat of Christ," and that he may be guilty of something worse than his brother whom he condemns. To our mind, the apostle is teaching the necessity of forbearance. We think that the judgment seat of Christ is in His kingdom, and His kingdom is the church-the Old Baptist Church.

"We," the apostle and the members of the church of God at Rome, "must all stand before the judgment seat of Christ." "For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad."-(II Corinthians 5:10). We receive here in this life the things we have done, whether good or bad. God's people receive heaven, and the blessings of immortality beyond this life, on account of what Jesus has done, and not on account of what they do or have done.

The judgment seat, then, here referred to is not beyond this life, but we must all appear there while we live in the world; and God's children stand condemned there or acquitted, according to the lives they live. Hence, we should all "take heed to ourselves." We should endeavor to examine self, and try to order our lives, try to walk uprightly before the Lord, instead of being engaged so much in trying to get the mote out of a brother's eye. C. H. C.

Matthew 16:9

---December 22, 1914

Sister Martha Daly, of Ash Grove, Mo., has asked our views on (Matthew 16:9), which reads, "Do ye not yet understand, neither remember the five loaves of the five thousand, and how many baskets ye took up?" What gave rise to this was that the Saviour had told them to beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and the disciples thought He had reference to natural bread or leaven, and thought the Saviour had reference to the fact that they had no bread.

In (Matthew 16:8) He says, "O ye of little faith," etc. He seems to reprove them. He calls their attention to the time that He fed five thousand upon five loaves and that they took up so many baskets full of the fragments. He is simply teaching them to beware of the doctrine of the Pharisees. The doctrine of the Pharisees is taught yet, and it becomes His children to beware of it. Sister Daly also asks if it is all national Israel that shall be saved, or is it all spiritual Israel. It is all spiritual Israel. All the Jews were not spiritual children of God. "They are not all Israel, which are of Israel: neither, because they are the seed of Abraham, are they all children: but, In Isaac shall thy seed be called. That is, They which are the children of the flesh, these are not the children of God, but the children of the promise are counted for the seed."-(Romans 9:6-7,8).

She tells us that a certain party says all will go to heaven after they have been punished in hell as much as they deserve. If this be true, then no one would ever go to heaven, for if they are to be punished in hell as much as they deserve, they would never get out. But suppose they do get out, will they go to heaven all scorched up with the fires of hell? This idea is not much less, if any, than infidelity. It denies the atonement of Christ. It denies the doctrine of the imputed righteousness of Christ. It denies the Bible.

She also says someone says that no Christian has doubts, etc. Well, there must be some doubting done for everyone, and as the party referred to by the sister leaves the impression that he does no doubting for himself, then we will do his doubting for him. There must be some doubting done for him, and as he does not do it for himself, we will do it for him. John the Baptist was a child of God, and in the service of God when he baptized the Saviour, yet he afterward had serious doubts, and sent messengers to the Saviour to inquire "Art thou He that should come, or do we look for another?" We do not wish to encourage you, dear sister, in doubting, but as you do have them, we wish to assure you that you are in good company. C. H. C.

Luke 18:15-17

---December 22, 1914

We have been requested to give our views on (Luke 18:16). (Luke 18:15-17) reads: "And they brought unto Him also infants, that He would touch them: but when His disciples saw it, they rebuked them. But Jesus called them unto Him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God. Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein." In ((0:1) (Mark 10) it is said that "He took them up in His arms, laid His hands upon them, and blessed them." Little children, then, receive the kingdom of God, and they receive it because of the blessing which Jesus bestows. "For of such is the kingdom of God." The kingdom of God is composed of just such characters as this-of such.

"Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child." This means that a little child receives the kingdom of God, and that the adult receives it the same way that a little child does. If a little child receives the kingdom because of infantile purity, then the adult must receive it that way too. He cannot receive it any other way only the way a little child receives it. Then, if the adult cannot receive the kingdom of God because of his infantile purity, neither does a little child receive it that way. If the adult must hear, believe and obey the conditions of the gospel in order to receive the kingdom of God, then a little child (an infant) must receive it that way too. But an infant cannot understand and obey the conditions of the gospel, and cannot, therefore, receive the kingdom of God that way.

And as the adult must receive the kingdom of God the same way that a little child does, then the adult cannot receive it by hearing, believing and obeying the conditions of the gospel. A little child receives the kingdom of God because of the blessing which Jesus bestows. For that same reason, and in the very same way, the adult also receives the kingdom of God. Both of them receive the kingdom without conditions on their part. The doctrine taught by the Old Baptists is the doctrine Jesus and the apostles taught, and is the truth. C. H. C.

Close of Volume 29

---December 22, 1914

This issue closes volume twenty nine of The Primitive Baptist. There will be only fifty one issues in this volume, as we will miss next week. Another year, with its joys and sorrows, has passed away. It is gone forever. Not one moment of the time can ever be recalled. Much of the time has not been used as well as it should have been, perhaps; but the year cannot be lived again. We are conscious of the fact that we have made many mistakes during the year 1914; but we are also conscious of the fact that the man who never made a mistake never made anything. We hope that we may be able to profit, to some extent at least, by some of the mistakes we have already made, and try to avoid them in the future, and not make them again.

But we do not expect to never make any of them again; but we are only hoping for improvement. We desire to press forward, as admonished by the apostle, forgetting the things which are behind. We do not expect, however, to attain to a state of perfection in this life; but we desire to press toward that end as near as possible. We have no regrets for the principles we have tried to advocate. We love those principles more dearly, it seems to us, if possible, as the days and years go by. We would rather wear out contending for them than to rust out. For several months times have been hard with us. We have been in a severe financial strain. We have said nothing about this, and this is all we are going to say about it here-only that our collections have been smaller than for the same time of year for many years. We hope our brethren will stand by us in this distressing time.

We have had much illness and affliction in our home during the past year. Our readers know that we had a severe attack of pneumonia last winter, and were unable to work for several months. Since then our brother-in-law (Brother H. L. Miller) has been in very poor health, and has undergone two surgical operations, and is in a hospital in Nashville, Tenn., where he had an operation performed on December 5th. We hope he will soon be able to return home. The great amount of sickness we have had has caused our expenses to be a great deal.

Notwithstanding all the sickness, sorrows, trials and afflictions, the Lord has been good to us. He has bestowed many blessings upon us, and we feel that we have been unworthy of the least of them. We still desire to render service, honor, praise and adoration unto His holy name for all His wonderful benefits.

Bidding our many readers a loving farewell for the year 1914, and wishing each one a merry Christmas and a happy New Year, we ask a continued interest in your prayers, and that you will pardon all our faults and mistakes which you may have discovered or observed in us in the past. C. H. C.

1915

IIINTRODUCTION TO VOLUME XXX

---January 5, 1915

With this issue we begin the thirtieth volume of The Primitive Baptist. Twenty nine years ago (January 1, 1886) the first issue of the paper was sent out. If we are not mistaken, about five hundred copies of that first issue were printed. Perhaps quite a number of them were given away as sample copies. While our circulation is much larger now, still it is not what we would like for it to be.

During these twenty nine years many changes have taken place. Many joys and sorrows have been experienced by our readers. But the doctrine of God our Saviour has undergone no change. Principles are eternal, and never change. There has been no change in the policy of this paper. The paper stands now upon the same platform upon which it stood at its birth. Those principles were dear to the heart of our sainted father, Elder S. F. Cayce, who fell in the pulpit proclaiming them.

He was willing to lay down his life for them, and died in the service of his Master. Those same principles were loved and cherished by our grandfather. They were loved and preached and contended for by our great-grandfather, Elder Fleming Cayce. The blessed and eternal truth of the doctrine of the eternal salvation of poor sinners of Adam's race by the sovereign, free, rich, and reigning grace of God has cheered the hearts of our fathers in every age. This is the only doctrine that can comfort the heart of a poor sinner in a dying hour. It was good enough for our fathers, and it is good enough for us. We are perfectly satisfied with the principles we have contended for in the past. We are not satisfied with our efforts. They have been poor; we have made many failures, and many mistakes. But we can say that we enter the new year and the new volume of this paper with a renewed determination to still continue to contend for the same principles. We desire to "earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints." That faith is the doctrine believed and advocated by the Primitive or Old School Baptists.

We have tried to keep controversy out of The Primitive Baptist. It is our purpose to continue on that line. While the brethren in some sections are "striving over words to no profit," and are in strife and confusion, we have tried to keep it all out of our columns. We have been censured, sometimes very severely, because we would not admit of it; but we have tried to adhere to that course and to that decision-not to admit of it. If we cannot help to settle a trouble, we do not desire to help spread it and make it worse. Hence, we are still determined to keep such out of

The Primitive Baptist, as much as possible. Other papers may be started for a war, but we do not desire to see so much war in our own ranks, especially a war that is uncalled for. We are ready, we think, to fight a heresy; but we are not willing to engage in a war where brethren are biting and devouring each other. We would be glad to see perfect peace and harmony restored in all the borders of our beloved Zion. We should all exercise more forbearance and Christian love and charity toward each other.

We should not make a brother an offender for a word. Local troubles, which can concern only those in the locality of the trouble, should not be published broadcast and heralded to the world. To do this, or to attempt to do so, is to manifest a wrong spirit. It is not the spirit of love. "Charity hides a multitude of sins." Charity does not publish the failures or wrongs of a brother broadcast to the world. Sometimes it becomes necessary to notify the brethren generally that some person is in disorder at home, because he imposes himself on brethren where his true standing is not known. This is necessary for the protection of the brethren. Then, when one is in disorder and the brethren are warned of the fact, they should let that disorderly person severely alone, no matter how much they may think of him-no matter how well they think he can preach.

Some men sometimes seem to preach very ably, and yet their lives are not what they should be-they are not orderly in their walk. Their feet are not "beautiful," because they do not walk right. We know of some such men, who are not recognized by the brethren at home, and yet are received by the brethren in other places. This is wrong, and there is absolutely no excuse for it. It is a flagrant violation of every principle of right and true discipline. For instance, we are informed that some brethren in a portion of Alabama receive and recognize a party who has no recognition at all with our people in his home section; and notice has been given, too, of the person's disorder. If those brethren in Alabama should exclude a man for immoral conduct, or for any other reason, they would not expect the brethren in any other section to recognize that excluded man. They would expect the brethren to recognize and respect their act. Then, they should do the same thing. If the brethren who are doing this do not know who we are having reference to, we are mistaken. A hint to the wise should be sufficient. Enough has been said in this paper already for them to know who we refer to. We hope the brethren will stop this at once, as we do not wish to make it public what brethren are thus disregarding the discipline of the Lord's house. The Primitive Baptist is being published in defense of the Primitive or Old School Baptist cause, and we desire to publish just what is for the benefit and advancement of that cause.

What we judge not to be for the advancement of that cause, we desire to leave out of our columns. Hence we have often requested the brethren to stop sending articles to us for the paper concerning their local church troubles. This does not mean for you to send them to us. Some brethren have seemed to think when we make this request that we mean for them to send them to us, that we want as many of such items as we can get; for such items have sometimes been sent immediately after the request was made. Now, we mean what we say. We do not want them, and we will not publish them knowingly, and will pay no more attention to them.

You need not send them to us and ask us to return them if not published. They will not be published nor returned, but will be thrown into the wastebasket and destroyed as soon as received. This is plain language, we know, but we suppose it can be understood, and it seems that we have to be plain. We hope the brethren and sisters will continue to write for the paper on such matters as will be for the mutual comfort, instruction, benefit, and encouragement of the many readers of The Primitive Baptist. Try to make your letters brief and to the point. Tell what you have to say in as few words as possible. A long article is not necessarily an able one or a good one. Do not write a long article just because you think it has to be long in order to be good. The best article is usually the one that says the most in the fewest words. The short, pointed, articles are the ones which are read with the most interest.

If you write an article and it does not appear in the paper in a week or two, please do not write and ask us why we have not published it. It only puts us to trouble to search for the article, and then to lose the time to write that perhaps the article has not reached its turn. We are now nearly, or about, three months behind in publishing letters we have for the paper, and we have some articles much older than that which we desire to publish as soon as we can. We desire to publish obituaries, church news, items concerning good meetings, accounts of tours, and such items of news as soon as possible. We do not wish items of that kind to be delayed in appearing in the paper, but sometimes we cannot give them space as early as we would like. We try to do the best we can along that line.

Again, do not become discouraged and quit writing if you send a letter that is not published. We have many articles we would like to publish if we had the space. Remember that the more articles we have on hand to select from, the better paper we can give you. We trust that some of our corresponding editors will do more writing for the paper this year than they have been doing. Some of them have done very well, while others have done practically nothing in this respect. We trust they will do better. We also expect to do more writing, if our health and circumstances will permit, than we did during some of the months last year. For several months last year we were not able to do any writing; but our health has improved, and we hope to be able to do more work this year.

We wish to try to do our best to give our subscribers a good paper; and we shall do our best to make The Primitive Baptist an Old Baptist paper in every sense of the word. To this end, we ask the help and cooperation of all our readers; and especially do we feel the need of divine guidance. We humbly ask all the brethren and sisters to remember us in their prayers. Pray that the Lord may direct us in the right way and that He would enable us to walk therein; and that He would sustain us by His Holy Spirit's presence in every trial, difficulty, and conflict. C. H. C.

Out of Order

---January 5, 1915

For some time we have felt that it was our duty to say to our readers that Elder J. B. Little, of Abbott, Ark., is out of line with the Baptists in that section. At first we refused to publish anything about this matter, and would not do so now but for the fact that Elder Little has started the publication of a paper, which is devoted almost entirely to making war on the Baptists in that country. We do not pretend to say that no wrong step was taken by Little Flock Church in the exclusion of Elder Little-that is not for us to say; but the fact remains that he was excluded, and the churches of the Salem Association, of which Little Flock Church is a member, recognise the fact. The churches of that association rejected Elder Little and his party.

The Baptists elsewhere must recognize the act of the churches there, or else we may as well dispense with all pretense of gospel order and discipline. When a man is excluded, and he then begins to use every endeavor to destroy the church, it is as good evidence as is needed that he is wrong. Such persons should be let severely alone. We notice, too, that Elder Little is taking up with every excluded person who will take up with him-at least, we see him taking up with some who are excluded. C. H. C.

Among The Filipinos

---January 12, 1915

On page 11 of the Advent and Review and Sabbath Herald of October 8, 1914, under the above heading, the following statement may be found over the signature of Floyd Ashbaugh: "It is sometimes pathetic to see the efforts some of the Lord's poor make to purchase books containing the gospel. One man sold a pig to get the price. A woman pawned her jewelry. A family arranged to make small monthly payments from their meagre earnings. And all that they may have the truth of God." Some of our readers will remember that this is from the land where a man lives who wrote home a few years ago concerning the work of the missionaries in the Philipines. His letters were published in The Primitive Baptist. They delude the natives there as much as they can, as well as the people at home. C. H. C.

Revelation 12:7

---January 12, 1915

Brother L. E. Lindsey, Statesboro, Ga., asked us some time ago to give our views on (Revelation 12:7-12). He asked if it means that the devil was up in heaven. No, it does not mean that the devil was in the heaven of ultimate glory. The heaven refers either to the church or to the Jewish heaven-we are inclined to think it refers to the church. If it has reference to ultimate glory, and the devil was once an angel there, and raised a war in that place, then God's people might not be safe when they get there. There are no wars in that place. C. H. C.

Federal Council of Churches

---January 12 1915

We notice that there has been formed a kind of union or council of the different denominations called "Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America." On one of their letterheads we find the list of those who are in this federation, but we fail to find the church of Christ in the list. The church of Christ has never been found in any such movement; but when such a movement is consummated and their desires accomplished, the church of Christ may as well seek a hiding place, for they are sure to be persecuted. The following list is given of which the federation is composed: Baptist Churches, North; National Baptist Convention; Free Baptist Churches; Christian Church; Congregational Churches; Disciples of Christ; Friends; German Evangelical Synod; Evangelical Association; Lutheran Church, General Synod; Mennonite Church; Methodist Episcopal Church; Methodist Episcopal Church, South; African M. E. Church; African M. E. Zion Church; Colored M. E. Church in America; Methodist Protestant Church; Moravian Church; Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.; Presbyterian Church in the U. S. (South); Protestant Episcopal Church Commissions on Christian Duty and Social Service; Reformed Church in America; Reformed Church in U. S.; Reformed Episcopal Church; Reformed Presbyterian Church, General Synod; Seventh Day Baptist Church; United Brethren Church; United Evangelical Church; United Presbyterian Church; Welsh Presbyterian Church. There are just thirty in the list. We make this statement simply to acquaint our readers with the fact. C. H. C.

Elder J. B. Little

---January 12, 1915

We have often wondered what a man in disorder will sometimes resort to in order to carry his point. It seems that Elder J. B. Little, of Abbott, Ark., is no exception to the rule. We did esteem Elder Little very highly, but he has lowered himself in our estimation very much by the course he is pursuing. Instead of being submissive to his brethren, he refused to abide by their act. The churches in his own association do not recognize him. Then he started the publication of a monthly paper, and about all it contains is a defense of himself for the course he pursues and abuse of all the brethren who do not take sides with him. We have just come in possession of the following letter from him addressed to Brother B. F. Conyers, Huntingdon, Tenn.: Abbott, Ark., Dec. 20, 1914. B. F. Conyers, Huntingdon, Tenn.

Dear Brother-I am mailing you today sample copies of my paper. I note Elder Moses Sandage, of Ark., is to be at your church soon. Elder Sandage does not live in my section of Ark., but has visited and affiliated with an excluded faction here, and then wrote letters to some of our papers saying we were excluded. I am offering one year's subscription to my paper to Elder Sandage to say (for publication in my paper) who we were excluded by, and for what crime or sins. If you can get him to make a statement for publication I will send the paper to you for 12 months. I am now preparing for the press a pamphlet in which we will publish the course of Elder Sandage and his allies here. If you do not care to do so show him this letter and ask him if he cares to make a statement for publication. Your brother, I hope, J. B. Little.

The above is an exact copy of the letter, and we have it on file in our office. Anyone interested may call and see the original. Elder Little was excluded by Little Flock Church. A number of the members went with him. We do not say that no mistake was made in the dealings of the church. It is seldom the case but what some mistake is made in troubles of this kind. But the churches of that association, as we have already stated, recognise the side who excluded Elder Little as being the church in order. Of course the Baptists elsewhere, who are orderly, will recognize those churches there, and cannot afford to recognise Elder Little.

As to his paper, we can say from what we have seen of it, that no peace loving Baptist would want to read it. There is nothing in it to comfort a poor saint of God who is a mourner in Zion. We can understand very well how it might please a chronic grumbler or a quarrelsome faultfinder; and we can understand, too, how that it might please one who would rejoice at the downfall of the Old Baptist cause.

Elder Moses Sandage visited the churches in Elder Little's country, and, of course, visited the party of Little Flock Church which is recognized by the churches there as being in order. This is why Elder Little says he visited and affiliated with an excluded faction there. As to that matter, Elder Sandage pursued the same course which we think we would have done under the same circumstances. If we were to make a tour in that country, we would visit the same churches that Elder Sandage visited. We would visit the churches of the Salem Association.

If Elder Little were possessed of the right spirit, he would quietly submit to his brethren, and stop this wholesale warfare, and conduct himself in such a way as to restore himself to their confidence and fellowship; but the course he is pursuing will not do that. We simply make this statement and publish Elder Little's letter so that our readers may see what he is resorting to. C. H. C.

Elder Little Objects

---January 19, 1915

Our readers will remember that in our issue of January 5 we stated that Elder J. B. Little is out of order. If the reader has a copy of that issue, you may get it and read that article again. In our issue of January 12 we had another article concerning the same matter.

Before the issue of January 12 was out Elder Little wrote us the following letter:

Abbott, Ark., Jan. 9, 1915.

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Brother-I notice in The Primitive Baptist of Jan. 5th under the heading, "Out of Order," over your signature, you say that I am excluded and the Baptists everywhere must recognise the act of the churches here or else we may as well dispense with all pretense of gospel order and discipline. I believe, Brother Cayce, in this matter, you, like many others, have been misled, misinformed, and that you have accepted as facts things that are not facts, and have done us and all sound Baptists an injustice by this article. I have seen so much writing from your pen, also from the pen of Elder Lee Hanks, many of whose articles in The Primitive Baptist seemed to have been within the last two years under the direction of divine Providence, written especially for a defense of my order and those who stand with me here. And now for you to come out publicly and say you feel it your duty to say Elder Little is "out of order," "excluded," etc., is an injustice to the cause you are, no doubt, desiring to defend. And I am writing you this to kindly request you to retract this statement as public as you have made it; or if this does not suit you, to qualify your unqualified statements by informing your readers that you are informed this was true, and that you for the present feel inclined to accept the information as correct. Can I have a promise from you that you will do this at the earliest convenient issue of your paper? I am, I hope, your brother, J. B. Little.

Well, of course we were informed of the matter. Who knows anything about a matter of which he has not been informed? And of course we feel inclined to accept what our brethren say. We are aware that the churches of the Salem Association do not recognize Elder Little; neither do the churches of her corresponding associations. Now for the Baptists to disregard the act of those churches is to simply say that we will dispense with all gospel order and discipline. If the brethren in one section cannot recognize the act of their brethren, or the act of the churches, in another section, what order can we have? All can see at once that there would be no such thing as order. We trust the brethren will take heed to this. C. H. C.

Foreign Medical Missions

---January 19, 1915

We have before us a copy of the Advent Review and Sabbath Herald, dated October 8, 1914. The publication is devoted to the foreign mission enterprise. Pages 6 and 7 seem to be devoted to the medical department of the mission work. On page 6 is a picture showing a crowd of Indians gathered at the door of the dispensary of the medical mission in Peru. Here is what is said concerning the same:

Here is a picture of a common scene round our dispensary door as the Indians flock in for treatment. Then, too, the calls for help come ever more urgently from remote places. I was called to visit one sick person over the mountains where the way was so difficult that the Indian guides had to take my feet and place them in the niches of the rocks in order that I might get down the precipice. But God is blessing. In this morning's group, of which I send you the picture, we found the following cases:

A woman with a broken collar bone, a man with neglected broken ribs, one with an ulcerated throat, another with an ulcerated leg, a case of pleurisy, and one of hemorrhage of the lungs, two persons with aching teeth, a case of stomach trouble, and two persons with fever, besides many others with minor ailments. And this is not an unusual scene. They come to us from great distances, sometimes traveling eighty miles or more. We do all in our power to help them, and see to it that no one leaves the mission without an inspiration to live a better life. F. A. Stahl.

Plataria, Peru. On the same page is an article concerning the work of a missionary nurse in Brazil. Here is the article as it appeared in that paper: In connection with evangelistic tent efforts in the Brazilian interior, Miss Louise V Wurts has been doing the work of a missionary nurse. One interesting experience she thus narrates: "A little negro boy of seven years had been paralyzed by a fall. The elimi native organs of the little body had ceased to work and in a little while he would have died from autointoxication. For eleven days he had been suffering." We went to work on the poor little fellow with massage and fomentations. I prayed in Portuguese, although I had been here only three months. But God heard that prayer. Quickly the little boy began to re a line is out of the paper here, which we cannot supply the lad was carried to the tent on the night devoted to health and temperance, and walked up on the platform, where we demonstrated what rational methods of treatment will do under the blessings of God.

"The neighbors, who had looked in at the windows when we were treating the boy with hot and cold water, had said to the mother, after we had gone away, 'He will die with that treatment.' But she had replied, 'He will die without it.' Now, the mother says, 'they have nothing to say.' The Lord is blessing the evangelistic service. Twenty candidates were baptized yesterday, as truly converted and as staunch people as one ever saw."

On page 16 appears a picture of five little girls in a group, with this title: "A Home Group Whose Pennies Go to Missions." It appears to us that the foregoing is all so glaring a humbug, practiced in the name of Christianity, under the plea of soul saving, that it needs no comment for intelligent people to discover the false claims.

Think of it! In one morning's group among those who went to the dispensary for free treatment were, "A woman with a broken collar bone, a man with neglected broken ribs, one with an ulcerated throat, another with an ulcerated leg, a case of pleurisy, and one hemorrhage of the lungs, two persons with aching teeth, a case of stomach trouble, and two persons with fever, besides many others with minor ailments." These all get free treatment, of course. Those with aching teeth can have their teeth treated—fillings, treatment, and all paid for by the pennies begged from the children and poor dupes in this country; and that money begged from them, too, under the plea that those poor heathen are going to an endless hell by the multiplied thousands every day for want of the gospel!

Where, in the Bible, can the command be found to beg money from the poor in any country; to get the children's pennies; to scour the country for funds—under the pretext of preaching the gospel to the lost, and then use that money for free medical treatment, free dentistry, free medicines and so on, in foreign lands? We ask, Where is any such command, or even an intimation of such, in God's word? We challenge the whole combined foreign mission fraternity to cite the passage.

Then, the poor little negro boy that was so unfortunate as to have a fall! Of course such a thing never occurs in our home land! No poor child ever has such a misfortune here, either white or black! Ah, bless your life, they maybe wounded here, and lie in a dark hovel pinched with hunger, and freezing with cold, and die without notice. Nobody cares. But let a little negro boy in Brazil or Africa get hurt, and wails of distress are sent all over the land by these foreign missionary fanatics. And these nurses, doctors, and dentists are supported in this work by the contributions from the people of this country.

The poor widow, with a house full of hungry dependent children, is deluded into the belief that the money she may give for these foreign missionaries may be the means of saving some poor soul from the torments of an eternal hell, and thus they get their support. No, they do not tell those poor people that they are not required to go hungry in order to give to the cause; but if such a person does give, it is heralded far and near very often—praise is given, and they are assured that they will have stars added to their crowns of glory, and that a higher seat will be accorded them nearer the great white throne of God. Verily the Lord has told us about them in (Philippians 3:18-19) "For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ: whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things." C. H. C.

Why Did Christ Die?

---January 26, 1915

Elder C. H. Cayce: After reading several copies of your paper, The Primitive Baptist, I am made to wonder why it was that Christ had to come to earth and suffer death for His people. Please tell us through your paper just why Christ died for a people who were saved before the world was made. Did Christ die to save a people, or did He die for the saved? Please tell us just what Christ suffered death for, and greatly oblige all concerned. With best wishes to all, I remain, your brother in Christ, G. W. Birchett. R. 1, Couch, Mo.

REMARKS

We find, by consulting our subscription list, that Mr. Birchett does not take The Primitive Baptist. We suppose he has read a few copies. We are of the humble opinion that Mr. Birchett thought he had written some stunning questions when he penned the above lines. But we will proceed to kindly notice the same.

In the first place, we state most emphatically that we do not teach, and the Primitive Baptists do not teach, that people were saved before the world was made. We do teach, in harmony with the Bible, that God purposed before the world was made to save people. He saves them now in time, according to the purpose which He purposed before the world was made. Mr. Birchett does not seem to know the difference between the doing of a thing and the purpose to do a thing.

God saves people. Mr. Birchett certainly will not deny that. If He does save people, He either intended to save them before He saves them, or else He did not intend to save them. If He did not intend to save them, and does save them, then He saves them by accident, and not on purpose. If He does not save people by accident, then He saves them on purpose; and if He saves them on purpose, then He intended or purposed to save them before He did save them. We suppose that Mr. Birchett intended to write the above letter, or purposed to write it, before he did write it. He either purposed to write it, or else he had no purpose concerning the matter; and we will admit that some of his questions sound to us as though he had no purpose in the matter at all. But we will take a charitable view of the matter, and grant that he purposed to write the letter; then, the letter being written was the fulfillment of his purpose. Even so, God purposed to save people; when one is saved, it is the fulfillment of God's purpose.

As to whether God purposed to save people or not we refer to (Ephesians 1:3-4,5)

”Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ: according as He hath chosen us in Him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blame before Him in love: having predestinated us unto the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to Himself, according to the good pleasure of His will.” This text emphatically says that some persons were chosen in Christ before the foundation of the world.

They were not saved before the foundation of the world, but they were chosen then. The expression, “before the foundation of the world,” means before the ages of time began. As God made choice of them before the ages of time began, it follows that He purposed before the ages of time began that He would save them in time, or regenerate them in time, according to that choice. The text also teaches that those who were chosen were also predestinated unto the adoption of children.

The word “predestinated” means determined or purposed beforehand. Hence, God purposed or determined beforehand that they should be brought into His heavenly family. This purpose or determination beforehand was before the ages of time began. Hence, they are regenerated in time and brought into the heavenly family in fulfillment of God's purpose which He purposed before time was. Now, the question, “Did Christ die to save people, or did He die for the saved?” He died to save those that God intended to save. They were Christ's by gift. The Father had given them to Him. (John 6:38-39) "For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of Him that sent me. And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which He hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day."

This text emphatically expresses the fact that some were given to the Son. As we are taught in (Ephesians 1:3-4,5) that they were chosen in Christ before the ages of time began, it necessarily follows that they were given to Christ before the ages of time began. Then Christ came into the world to satisfy the law in their stead, or in their behalf. He came into the world to save them. (Matthew 1:21) "And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call His name JESUS: for He shall save His people from their sins.'HE SHALL SAVE HIS PEOPLE FROM THEIR SINS.'" This is what He came into the world for. They were His, because the Father gave them to Him; yet they were sinners, but Christ came to save them from their sins.

As to what; Christ suffered death for, will say that it was to deliver His people, or His children, from the curse of the law. It was to save them. (Hebrews 2:14-15)

"Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, He also Himself likewise took part of the same; that through death He might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil; and deliver them who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage." The teaching here is clear that He came into the world to deliver His children. He came to save them.

Again, (Hebrews 9:11-12) "But Christ being come an high priest of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building; neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by His own blood He entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us." This language clearly teaches that, as high priest, Jesus obtained eternal redemption for those for whom He shed His blood, and that this was done when His blood was shed; and that, having done this, He entered into the holy place not made with hands, that is, into heaven itself. This is what Christ has done for His people. We trust that this is clear enough for Mr. Birchett to understand it. It is enough to make clear, it seems to us, what our teaching is on this line. Much more proof could be given; but if a man will not believe this, he will not believe any other proof which might be produced. C H. C.

John 6:47

---February 2, 1915

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Sir-I would like for you to discuss in The Primitive Baptist your views on the teaching of the passage in (John 6:47); also comment on the following sentences: "He that limpeth hath the ball." Here it seems to me that the subordinate sentence, "He that limpeth," is used to designate or point out the particular person in possession of the ball, and is not the cause of his possessing it.

Again: "He that cutteth himself hath pain," and "He that marrieth hath happiness." These look to be similar to the one in (John 6:47). It is evident, though, that pain and happiness are the results or effects of the acts mentioned in the subordinate sentences. The cutting is the cause of the pain; and marrying, the cause of happiness. It is claimed by some that belief is the cause of eternal life, and that (John 6:47) teaches so, and the above sentences were given to illustrate the contention. I hope you may be able to write on this subject at once and discuss it fully. Yours very truly, T. H. Cotten. 214#W. Capitol St., Jackson, Miss.

REMARKS

(John 6:47) reads, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me hath everlasting life." This sentence is not at all like the sentence, "He that cutteth himself hath pain," or "He that marrieth hath happiness." That is, they are not alike in meaning, though similar in form; but in the latter sentence it is understood that life precedes cutteth and marrieth; having life, one cuts himself, and pain follows as a result. It is absurd to say that, having life, one believes and obtains life as a result.

The sentence evidently contains the idea that the life previously existed; and that, having the life, one believes as the result. In the sentence, "He that marrieth hath happiness," the previous possession of life by the one marrying is understood. Suppose we have it this way, "He that marrieth hath natural life." Would the party presume to argue that the man had to marry in order to obtain natural life? Would he presume to say that the man obtained natural life as a result of marrying? To obtain life is one thing and to obtain happiness is another.

Again: the sentence, "He that limpeth hath the ball," is one also which expresses previous possession of life. Having life, he limps. Hence, the party who, possessing life, and limps, is the party who has the ball. His limping is not the cause of his having the ball; but the limping party is the one pointed out as the one who has the ball. If (John 5:24) is taken in connection with (John 6:47) it will show very clearly that belief is not the cause of life, but that life is first. That passage reads, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on Him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life."

This is the King James translation. A strict literal translation in modern English would read, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, that he that hears my word, and believes Him who sent me, has eternal life, and comes not into judgment, but has passed out of death into life." Here it is clear that one who believes is one who has passed out of death into life. The same idea is expressed in (John 6:47) . (John 5:24) simply settles the matter.

There is no room for argument or quibble here. We would also refer to (John 1:11-12,13) "He came unto His own, and His own received Him not. But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name: which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God."

In this text believe is in the present tense, and were born is in the past tense in the English, but in the original were born is in the perfect tense. It denotes something that was completed at some time in the long ago. Hence, at some time in the long ago, those who now believe were born of God. Or, we may express it this way: At some time in the long ago these persons were born of God, and now believe. We have said that if any man would take this sentence and parse it, analyze it, diagram it, or treat it any way he may, according to the rules of language, and make it appear that the belief in that text preceded the being born of God, we would quit the Old Baptist Church and join his church and preach for them as long as we live and never charge a cent for it, and whip every Old Baptist we meet with that text. Try that proposition on them and see how they undertake it. C. H. C.

Elder Little and Party

---February 9, 1915

In Elder J. B. Little's little paper, the "Old Paths," for February he vents his wrath upon us for what we said concerning him in our former issues. In one place Elder Little says: "The statement of yours, that J. B. Little was excluded, I brand as false, and challenge you to prove it. I know you are looked upon as a defender of the faith of our people, and now will you even attempt to prove your statement? Or will you take your own medicine, when you say such men as Little should be let 'severely alone?' Well, now, dear reader, what do you think of that?"

Does that sound very much like Elder Little is being led by the spirit of humility in his present course? As to his charge that our statement is false, will say that this is the kind of writing he has been putting forth in his little magazine. Every man who differs from him seems to be a falsifier; at least Elder Little seems to think so. But of course, as Elder Little says we have made a false statement, that settles it. If it suits Elder Little to use such language concerning us, we do not suppose it will hurt us for him to do so. On another page Elder Little says: "Your expression, 'we trust the brethren will take heed to this, seems to me to be a mistrust, or a trust which will not be realized, as almost every mail brings encouraging letters from prominent ministers (some of them from West Tennessee), brethren and sisters in many states.'" He then gives a short quotation from several letters, but does not give the author of any of them. However, we suppose he has them; we do not call them in question. Then he says: "Like expressions of fellowship and encouragement might be extended to a considerable length. See article from Elder J. C. Denton, on page 402 of this issue, for which expressions I desire to thank God and take courage.

It seems though that Brother Cayce is not willing, it seems, for these brethren and sisters to judge for themselves. Perhaps he thinks they are too ignorant to know whether they get comfort from the Old Paths or not, and he-Priest like-has to tell them that it contains nothing to comfort a mourner in Zion, and that it is only suitable to the wants of chronic grumblers, and that he 'trusts the brethren will take heed to this.'" If our readers will get The Primitive Baptist of January 5, January 12, and January 19, and read our articles they will see that Elder Little has put some things together which we said that were not said together at all. It is nothing less than a plain garbling of what we said.

If Elder Little is so honest as he has been trying to make believe in his paper he will correct the above matters. It cannot be plead that he did this through ignorance, for he has sense enough to know better. As to his personal thrusts of falsifying and priest craft, will say that we care nothing for that. It is the way he is defending himself in his ungodly course. As to his receiving letters of encouragement and endorsement, will only say that we suppose he has been receiving them. It is nearly always the case that a man will draw away disciples after him. But we happened to know some who have written to Elder Little, and what some have said would have but little weight at their home. We read one statement from an old preacher concerning his church, how they were in confusion, etc., since he had grown old and could not preach for them, etc. We happened to be acquainted there.

When that church got another pastor they had members who believed in open communion, instrumentalities in regeneration, and some members affiliating with secret orders, though the church had agreed to lay the secret orders down when they got another to preach for them. Of course they have had some trouble and confusion in trying to get themselves straight. Will Elder Little endorse what that church had, and what that pastor evidently encouraged? Whether he would or not, Elder Little boasts of receiving such endorsements.

Elder Little begins one of his articles concerning us by quoting questions 16 and 17 and the answers thereto on page 7 of The Primitive Baptist of January 5. It seems that he was very careful not to quote questions 9 and 13 and their answers in the same article. If he would read them again and take some of it to himself and act accordingly, it is our opinion that he would raise himself in the estimation of some of the brethren who are acquainted with the course he is now pursuing.

Today (January 30, 1915) we received a letter from Elder Little dated at 2 o'clock a. m., January 30, Abbott, Ark., which was mailed at Abbott, Ark., January 29 at 6 p. m., and received in Martin this morning. If our readers will excuse a slang expression we will say "That is going some." Following is the letter:

Dear Brother-Your letter of recent date in which you inform me that your subscription list (or address of your subscribers) is not for sale received. And after serious meditation about what duty to God demanded of me, and the proper way to discharge that duty, and considering with sadness of heart the present factionized condition of the Primitive Baptists, I felt a desire to pray to God for wisdom to guide me right. Notwithstanding the fact that I had as I thought written you my last private letter relative to your articles and your attacks on my order and course in The Primitive Baptist of Jan. 5th, 12th, and 17th. I had a (to me) comforting dream after retiring last night, in which you and I, together with a very large concourse of Baptists were gathered together at my house (I have in days past had the pleasure of feeding more than one hundred persons at one time at my home during gatherings of our people). In my dream last night I saw a much larger gathering of Baptists at my home than I ever had seen, or had even ever thought of having, and I addressed you with some of the words I used in my reply to your article of January 5th, "Out of Order."

I refer to my words on page 412 of the Feb. No. of the Old Paths where I said, "The statement of yours that J. B. Little was excluded I brand as false." This expression being to me a very serious, as well as a very emphatic one, was in my mind much for a short time after written. I picked up my Bible one day and opened at (Jeremiah 37), and read what I could not remember ever having read before, thus, "Then said Jeremiah, It is false: I fall not away to the Chaldeans." I felt to be the Jeremiah (in figure) in this case and I was strengthened and confirmed. In my dream last night I repeated these words to your face, and I thought you and I were both moved to embrace each other in our arms, and tears of joy and love flowed freely from our eyes. There were other prominent and to me very important and comforting things in my dream or vision, of which I will not now speak, but wish to say that I feel that that dream is in some degree at least the cause of me writing you this letter.

I wish now to ask you plainly if you would be willing to come here and investigate the situation here. I will pay all your expenses myself if you will do this. My dream gave me some hope that the breach between us can, by the direction of that providence which no finite mind can comprehend, be healed, and that love which cannot be expressed with words may be mutually felt between you and I for each other. Please let me know soon if you would be willing to come. Your brother, I hope, J. B. Little. 2 o'clock a. m., January 30th, 1915.

As to Brother Little's dream, we know nothing. However, will say that a charge of falsifying is not very likely, it seems to us, to cause one to desire to embrace him in love. As we have said before, we did love and esteem Elder Little, but his course is proving to us that he is in the flesh, or following after the flesh. His course is not right. As to going there to investigate the matters there will say that if both sides desire that we, with others, go there to investigate the troubles and the differences between the brethren and try to reconcile matters, and, if we fail to do that, then find who is the church in order, we are willing to go.

We do not care to investigate only one side. Now, if it is desired that this trouble cease, let the brethren on both sides agree for an investigation, and then let it be shown how the investigation shows matters to be. The brethren abroad who love order would certainly recognise that. We do not care to keep up a continued controversy in our paper concerning the matter. We are just in receipt of a letter from Elder J. J. Turnipseed which we publish in this issue. In his letter he mentions a matter in Alabama, about Chana Creek, and perhaps another place. We have received a notice concerning that from some other party. We know nothing of the particulars of that matter, and we are not in a position to say who is wrong, or anything about the matter. Hence we have said nothing and published nothing. This is the course we think best to pursue until we are satisfied in our own mind to some extent, at least, as to whether one is doing right or not. C. H. C.

Christmas

---February 9, 1915

We have received a request from Mrs. B. Mullis, of Marshville, N. C, for more information concerning Christmas. We stated it was of Roman Catholic origin, and that December 25th was not the birthday of our Saviour. For the benefit of all our readers we have decided to copy the following articles concerning the matter. First, we copy the following from the Schaff Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge: Christmas, a Christmas festival celebrated on December 25, in memory of the birth of Jesus Christ. The English name Christmas, like the Dutch Kerstmisse, or Kersmis, is formed analogous to such names as Candlemas, Michaelmas, etc. In the Romanic languages the name is derived from the Latin Natalis, Natalitia, or Nativitis, Italian Natal, Spanish Nadal, or Natividad, French Noel. The German Weihnacht is a literal translation of the Hebrew Chanukah, the name of the Jewish festival of the dedication or purification of the temple by Judas Maccabeus. The Scandinavian Juul, and the Anglo-Saxon Geol, mean "wheel," and refer to the winter solstice.

When the festival of Christmas is first spoken of in the ancient church it was celebrated by the Eastern Church on January 6, under the name of Epiphania, and by the Western Church on December 25, under the name of Natalis. This discrepancy is easily accounted for, however, by the circumstance that the gospel gives no date of Christ's birth, but simply tells that it took place during night. But the date of the Epiphania is arbitrary, so far as it rests upon an inference of merely allegorical import,-the first Adam was born on the sixth day: consequently the second Adam ought to be born on the sixth day, -and the festival itself had something allegorical in its character. It was celebrated, not so much in memory of the actual birth of Christ, as in memory of the first manifestation of the divinity of Christ; the name Epiphania being the word commonly used in the Greek language to denote the manifestation of a god in human shape. Later on, however, from the beginning of the fourth century, when the restless searchings of the nature and person of Christ drove men's minds into many singular errors, the Eastern Church began to feel the importance of emphasising the actual birth of Christ by a separate festival distinct from the Epiphania, with its somewhat vague historical bearing; and from a sermon of Chrysostom, delivered, it is believed, on Christmas Day, 386, it appears that the Natalis of the Western Church was rapidly though gradually adopted throughout the East. (The reader will bear in mind here that the Eastern and Western Churches were the Eastern and Western Catholic Churches.-C. H. C.)

What foundation there originally was for the Roman date of December 25 is difficult to decide. On account of this date, some connect the Christian festival of Christmas with the above mentioned Jewish feast, Chanukah; and many features seem to speak for such a relation between them. Others connect it with the Saturnalia, or Brumalia, or some other Pagan Roman feast; and here, too, the single features are often strikingly resemblant. Others, again, inveigh against the date as arbitrary, and not in harmony with the gospel narrative, etc. Nevertheless the fact remains, that the whole Western Church unanimously agreed upon this date, and that the Eastern Church adopted it without much contradiction; which fact goes far to show that the date cannot well have been a mere assumption, but must have had some kind of tradition to support it. The date once fixed, Christmas gradually became one of the three great annual festivals of the church. The whole period from Nativity to Epiphany was consecrated,-December 26 as a memorial of the martyr Stephen; December 27, of St. John; December 28, of the Massacre of the Innocents, etc. The four Sundays preceding Christmas were incorporated with the cycle, under the title of Advent, as a preparation for the festival. The day itself was celebrated by three masses-one in the night, one at daybreak, and one in the morning; and the costliest of utensils and furniture were used. During the middle ages the celebration assumed, in accordance with the taste of the time, quite a theatrical aspect.

The manger was shown, with the Virgin sitting beside it, surrounded with chanting angels. The wise men, the shepherds, Joseph, etc., were also represented; and a complete Mystery was formed. As a remnant of this symbolical representation of biblical events which formerly found so much favor both with the priests and with their flocks, it may be mentioned, that, in the third decade of the present century, the custom was still kept up of rocking a doll, in a cradle adorned with lights, on the top of the spire of the Cathedral of Tubingen at twelve o'clock Christmas night, while a band of wind instruments blew the Hymn of the Nativity.

No other Christian festival penetrated so deeply into the household as Christmas, probably because its character is essentially joy. Such as it appears in the household, however, many features indicate that there were non Christian elements present in its origin. The use of lighted tapers reminds forcibly of the Jewish festival of purification. The giving of presents was a Roman custom. The Yule tree and the Yule log are remnants of an old Teutonic nature worship. In the household also, the festival gradually sank down into a mere revelry. In England an abbot of misrule was chosen in every large household; in Scotland an abbot of unreason; and during the term of the festival he was the master of the house. By an act of Parliament this custom was forbidden in 1555; and in England, as everywhere, the Reformation brought in a kind of refinement in the celebration of Christmas by emphasizing its Christian elements, and excluding every feature which had not, or could not be given, a religious character. Under the influence of evangelical Christianity, Christmas has become a children's feast, and the Roman Catholic Church has followed the example. The dissenters of the Church of England, taking offense at the coarse and unchristian character which the festival had retained from the middle ages, abolished it altogether; but of late years the celebration of Christmas in some form or other has become wellnigh universal in England and America.

We also copy the following from the "International Cyclopaedia," published by Dodd, Mead & Co., of New York: Christmas, the day on which the nativity of the Saviour is observed. The institution of this festival is attributed by the spurious Decretals to Telesphorus, who flourished in the reign of Antoninus Pius (13861 A. D.), but the first certain traces of it are found about the time of the emperor Commodus (18-92 A. D.). In the reign of Diocletian (284-305 A. D.), while that ruler was keeping court at Nicomedia, he learned that a multitude of Christians were assembled in the city to celebrate the birthday of Jesus, and having ordered the church doots to be closed, he set fire to the building, and all the worshipers perished in the flames. It does not appear, however, that there was any uniformity in the period of observing the nativity among the early churches; some held the festival in the month of May or April, others in January. It is, nevertheless, almost certain that the 25th of December cannot be the nativity of the Saviour, for it is then the height of the rainy season in Judea, and shepherds could hardly be watching their flocks by night in the plains.

Christmas not only became the parent of many later festivals, such as those of the Virgin, but especially from the fifth to the eighth century, gathered round it, as it were, several other festivals, partly old and partly new, so that what may be termed a Christmas cycle sprang up, which surpassed all other groups of Christian holidays in the manifold richness of its festal usages, and furthered, more than any other, the completion of the orderly and systematic distribution of church festivals over the whole year. Not casually or arbitrarily was the festival of the Nativity celebrated on the 25th of December.

Among the causes that cooperated in fixing this period as the proper one, perhaps the most powerful was, that almost all the heathen nations regarded the winter solstice as a most important point of the year, as the beginning of the renewed life and activity of the powers of nature, and of the gods, who were originally merely the symbolical personification of these. In more northern countries, this fact must have made itself peculiarly palpable-hence the Celts and Germans, from the oldest times, celebrated the season with the greatest festivities. At the winter solstice, the Germans held their great Yule feast, in commemoration of the return of the fiery sun wheel; and believed that, during the twelve nights reaching from the 25th of December to the 6th of January, they could trace the personal movements and interferences on earth of their great deities, Odin, Berchta, etc.

Many of the beliefs and usages of the old Germans, and also of the Romans, relating to this matter, passed over from heathenism to Christianity, and have partly survived to the present day. But the church also sought to combat and banish (and it was to a large extent successful) the deep rooted heathen feeling, by adding (for the purification of the heathen customs and feasts which it retained) its grandly devised liturgy, besides dramatic representations of the birth of Christ and the first events of His life. Hence sprang the so-called "manger songs," and the multitude of Christmas carols, as well as Christmas dramas, which at certain times and places, degenerated into farces or fools feasts (q. v.).

Hence also originated, at a later period, the Christ trees, or Christmas trees, adorned with lights and gifts, the custom of reciprocal presents, and of special Christmas meats and dishes, such as Christmas rolls, cakes, currant loaves, dumplings, etc. Thus, Christmas became a universal social festival for young and old, high and low, as no other Christian festival could become.

In the Roman Catholic church, three masses are performed at Christmas- one at midnight, one at daybreak, and one in the morning. The day is also celebrated by the Anglo-Catholic church-special psalms are sung, a special preface is made in the communion service, and the Athanasian creed is said or sung.

The Lutheran church, on the continent, likewise observes Christmas; but the Presbyterian churches in Scotland, and the whole of the English dissenters, reject it in its religious aspect, as & "human invention," and a "savoring of papistical will worship," although, in England, dissenters as well as churchmen keep it as a social holiday, on which there is a complete cessation from all business. But within the last hundred years, the festivities once appropriate to Christmas have much fallen off. These at one time lasted with more or less brilliancy till Candlemas, and with great spirit till twelfthday.

The following is copied from Hassell's History, page 182: The precise time of our Saviour's birth, for some wise purpose, seems to have been lost eight of by chronologists. But it may be set down as having most probably occurred a few months before the death of Herod the Great, four years before the common Christian era, in the year of Rome 750, and in the year of the world 4000. Learned men have investigated this point, but, with all their researches, have not been able to fix precisely either the year or the day of His birth.

The early Christians were divided on this subject, and of course it must be a matter of uncertainty to all succeeding generations. In view of this uncertainty, not even the exact year, much less the exact month being known, how groundless and puerile appears the custom of the Romish and English, as well as other communions, as holding sacred the twenty-fifth day of December (new style) as the day of Christ's nativity, and adorning their houses of worship with flowers and evergreens as a part of their religious devotion on that day!

The following is from the same book (Hassell's History) page 408: Not even the exact year, much less the exact month and day, when Christ was born is stated in the Scriptures, or is known to mortals. The sixth of January was in the second and third centuries thought to have been the day; but it was decided by the Catholics in the fourth and fifth centuries that the 25th day of December was the day. (A footnote says, "December being the height of the rainy season in Judea, it is not likely that flocks and shepherds were, during that month, found by night in the fields of Bethlehem.") As Rome, the centre of Paganism, was made the centre of Catholicism, so the Pagan festivities of the Saturnalia, Juvenalia and Brumalia, which occurred in December, were very conveniently and hilariously transmuted by a worldly "Christianity" into the festival of Christmas. We suppose the foregoing is sufficient evidence concerning the matter of Christmas. Much more such evidence could be produced, but this is enough. We wish our people would cease the Christmas celebrations. C. H. C.

Drunkards and Tunkers

---February 9, 1915

On another page of this paper will be seen a request from Sister Martha Shearer that we tell her where the Dunkard Church started. We quote the following from "The Religious Denominations of the World," published by Wm. Garretson & Co., page 162: The first appearing of these people in America was in the fall of the year 1719, when about twenty families landed in Philadelphia, and dispersed themselves, some to Germantown, some to Skippeck, some to Oley, some to Conestogo, and elsewhere. This dispersion incapacitated them to meet for public worship, and therefore they began to grow lukewarm in religion. But in the year 1722, Messrs.

Baker, Gomery, Gants, and the Trautes, visited their scattered brethren which was attended with a great revival, insomuch that societies were formed wherever a number of families were within reach one of another. But this lasted not above three years. They settled on their lees again, till about thirty families more of their persecuted brethren arrived in the fall of the year 1729, which both quickened them again and increased their numbers everywhere. These two companies had been members of one and the same church, which originated in Schwardzenau, in the year 1708.

The first constituents were Alexander Mack and wife, John Kipin and wife, George Grevy, Andreas Bloney, Lucas Fetter, and Foanna Nethibeim. These had been bred Presbyterians, except Kipin, who was a Lutheran; and being neighbors, they consorted together to read the Bible, and edify one another in the way they had been brought up, for as yet they did not know there were any Baptists in the world. However, believersbaptism and a congregational church soon gained upon them, insomuch that they had determined to obey the gospel in these matters. They desired Alexander Mack to baptise them; but he, deeming himself in reality unbaptised, refused; upon which they cast lots to find who should be administrator. On whom the lot fell hath been carefully concealed.

However, baptised they were in the river Eder by Echwardsenau, and then formed themselves into a church, choosing Alexander Mack to be their minister. They increased fast, and began to spread their branches to Merienborn and Epstein, having John Nass and Christian Levy to their ministers in those places. But persecution drove them thence, some to Holland and some to Creyfelt. Soon after the mother church voluntarily moved from Schwarzenau to Serustervin, in Friejland, and from thence migrated towards America, in 1719; and in 1729, those of Grey felt and Holland followed their brethren.

Thus we see that all the Tunker churches in America sprang from the church at Schwarzenau, in Germany; that the church began in 1708, with only seven souls, and that in a place where no Baptist had been in the memory of man, nor any now are. In sixtytwo years that little one became a thousand, and the small one a great nation. The above is sufficient as to the claim of the Dunkards. As to the Sabbath, will say that the old Jewish Sabbath was Saturday, the seventh day. Constantine the Great, the father of the Catholic Church, instituted the Sunday Sabbath. The Gentiles were never under the Sabbath law. C. H. C.

The European War

---February 16, 1915

Brother B. A. Akers, of Tekoa, Wash., asks us to give our views concerning the great war now being waged in Europe. Somehow we do not feel like writing at length on the matter just now. We know that it is dreadful, and we feel that the Lord is pouring out His wrath upon those people, or that He will do so. It seems to us that the recent great earthquake in Italy is but a manifestation of the judgment of God. It is true that Italy is not actively engaged in the war now; but may we not reasonably suspect that Romanism is in some way responsible for it? The Pope, the head of Romanism, you know, has headquarters at Rome, Italy. As time passes, indications are that still more nations are going to become involved in the conflict. We would not be surprised that our own country becomes involved before the war ends, though we sincerely trust not. Our humble prayer is that the Lord, in His providence, may so direct and control and overrule affairs that our own nation may not become involved in the wholesale slaughter of men.

What the end of it all will be we cannot tell. It looks dark and gloomy to us. We feel sure that prophecy is being fulfilled, but we cannot tell what the outcome will be. It may be that it will finally result in the complete overthrow and destruction of the power of Romanism. We are sure, from the teachings of God's word, that the power will be finally destroyed, but we cannot tell whether this war will result in this or not. It may result in her gaining more power; or, rather, regaining power she once had; but if it does so result, she will finally lose the power entirely. She is to be overthrown. However this may be, it behooves us to be watchful and prayerful.

There seems to be a restless spirit everywhere among all the people. There is a spirit of unrest, a warring spirit, evidently manifested everywhere, even in the church-the true church. This spirit of strife, war, confusion, and unrest will surely be visited with the sore judgments of God. It may be that in the European war Rome will regain her power and the Lord's poor will again be visited by Roman persecution, and thus allowed to suffer for their wrongs, and thereby brought together in love and union once more. We would be glad to see the brethren all bury their little differences and dwell together in love, peace, and union; but we would be grieved to see them driven to that by persecution. We mean that it would grieve us to see the persecution come, even though it may take that to bring them together. May the Lord look upon His poor and afflicted and bleeding Zion in mercy and pity, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Foreign Mission Gifts

---February 16, 1915

On page 1 of the Advent Review and Sabbath Herald of October 8, 1914, the following statement appears over the signature of A. G. Daniells, President of the General Conference: The toil and sacrifice, the separations and the sorrows, of this movement for a single year are too great either to trace or to express. Every year death reaps its cruel harvest. Filling the gaps breaks hundreds of family circles, and causes the repetition of hard labor to master the languages and make necessary adjustments all around. To hold the ground already occupied and to enter the doors everywhere thrown open to the missionary forces require constant and earnest effort on the part of all believers in foreign missions.

And the work of raising funds can never cease. The years pass quickly and consume the annual appropriations. There can be no letup in giving, The movement is on in full force. The missionaries are at the front with their wives and children. The schools, printing houses and dispensaries are all operating. This great work cannot stop. To continue means the full expenditure of present appropriations, and that calls for continued giving on as large a scale as the church has ever contributed to the cause of foreign missions.

And why should not a work so helpful, so uplifting, and so transforming, continue and steadily enlarge? If any endeavor in the world is worthwhile, this is. If money is of value for any purpose, it is of special value for this movement. Of course every effort must be exerted to hold every inch of ground they have already taken, and that requires strenuous effort. Then, the work must not be allowed to come to a standstill, for it could not so remain for a very long time; for everything will go backward unless it be pushed forward. Hence, "The work of raising funds can never cease" while the world stands, or until the people discover the humbuggery of this foreign mission business and simply quit giving for its support." There is a generation that curseth their father, and doth not bless their mother.

There is a generation that are pure in their own eyes, and yet is not washed from their filthiness. There is a generation, O how lofty their eyes! and their eyelids are lifted up. There is a generation whose teeth are as swords, and their jaw teeth as knives, to devour the poor from off the earth, and the needy from among men. The horseleech bath two daughters, crying, Give, give. There are three things that are never satisfied, yea, four things say not, It is enough." --(0:11) (Proverbs 30:11-15). C. H. C.

More About Elder Little

---February 16, 1915

In the February issue of the Old Paths Elder Little quoted the following questions and answers from Elder Lee Hanks in The Primitive Baptist of January 5, 1915:

Q. 16. Can a church receive or restore a member without the unanimous consent of all the members, and can a council force fellowship? Ans. No. It is a rule among Primitive Baptists to receive members by the unanimous consent of all the members present. We cannot receive a member if one objects. We cannot force fellowship. The church is the only disciplinary body.

Q. 17. Do associations have the right to recognize factions or ministers setting aside the decision of a church? Ans. No; the association cannot lord it over the church. When a church settles a question there is no appeal to a higher court, for there is none. The law is already made.

Elder Little copied these questions and answers in making his reply to what we had said concerning him. Then he comments as follows:

Now, dear reader, listen! listen listen! There was a difference in opinion among Baptists here on the above two questions, and I took the position, the precise position, the exact position, of Elder Lee Hanks, who answered these two questions, and who is associate editor of Elder Cayce's paper. The brethren who differed with me here took the exact opposite position to Elder Hanks answers, and there sprang division among the churches here over these two points of order.

The above statement from Elder Little pointedly states that the trouble there is an associational matter, association ruling churches, etc. While we do not know all about the trouble- we are not acquainted with every move made and everything that has been said-yet we do know that this is not the cause of the trouble. It was not over these points at all. These questions have never been raised. Elder Little came all the way from Abbott, Ark., to our home to see us regarding the trouble there. He then spoke of publishing a pamphlet to "expose" things there.

We advised him not to do that, and told him it was the wrong course for him to pursue. We told him it would not, and could not, help to settle the trouble or to get the brethren together, but would only make bad matters worse. He has not only published a pamphlet, but is publishing a little monthly magazine, the whole of which is devoted to making war on the brethren everywhere who do not fall in line with him, and especially against the churches of the Salem Association and other associations in that country. He is evidently doing all he can, not to heal the breach and get the brethren united together, but to make bad matters worse. Judging from the course Elder Little is pursuing, there can be no question in our mind but what he is determined to rule or ruin.

We are in receipt of the following statement concerning the questions and answers above: While we have seen the above questions with answers published, this is the first we have ever heard there was a difference among the brethren here on these questions. We heartily endorse the answers to these questions, and nothing else than this has been done by church or association. Signed: John A. McNeely, Clerk of Salem Association. J. D. Caudle, Clerk of Little Flock Church.

In the same issue (February) of the Old Paths is an acknowledgment from Elder Little's party for calling a council. Our readers will remember that in our issue of February 9th is a letter from Elder Little in which he proposes to pay our way if we will go there and investigate the matter. It seems that he wants a council composed of only one, provided he can get us to go there and take testimony from his side only. We wonder who gave him the authority to ask us to go there in the capacity mentioned? His “church” certainly did not do so, just after they had made confession that they did wrong in calling a council before.

If they did wrong then in calling for a council, it appears to us that it would be wrong for us to go there for the purpose he requests, and wrong for him to ask us to do so. That acknowledgment says that they called the council to settle a difference in their church. If it was to settle a difference in their church, then the trouble was not on account of a difference concerning the questions quoted by Elder Little from The Primitive Baptist, as referred to at the beginning of this article.

But Elder Little is now sending circulars over the country concerning us, and offering pamphlets to persons to get them to send him the names of persons who are taking our paper. A letter in this issue from Albert M. Ruth shows that a circular was sent to him. Brother Ruth sent it to us. One was also sent to Elder James Duncan, Ripley, Miss. Elder Duncan was a member of the council which Elder Little's party is now sorry they called. Elder Duncan sent the circular to us, and says: Dear Brother-I am sending you a circular received of Elder J. B. Little. I have no desire to assist any man that is in disorder to scatter his troubles. And I know that Little is in disorder. Yours in hope, James Duncan.

The acknowledgment of Elder Little's party for calling the council also virtually acknowledges that they did not abide the decision of the same, although they had agreed that they would do so before it was called. They claim that some things were suppressed which should have been made known to the council. If that be true, no one is to blame only the council or Elder Little's party. If the council did not refuse them the right or privilege, then they had the privilege of making everything known that was necessary. We do not suppose the council denied them this privilege.

Then they must have had the privilege of bringing everything before the council that pertained to the matter, and if they did not do so, it was their own fault. No one else is to blame. We do not desire to be continually referring to this matter, as stated last week. We shall not now, if ever, notice the harsh letter of Elder Denton in the February number of the Old Paths. His article shows that he is in a “strait.” It does not deserve attention. We have only referred to these matters to warn our brethren of the disorder, and that in aiding Elder Little they are only aiding disorder. We have now done what was our duty to do. If the brethren refuse to heed the warning we are clear. C. H. C.

Remarks to W. E. Wilson

REMARKS TO W. E. WILSON ---February 16, 1915

We have serious doubts as to whether the person should have been received. He showed that his sympathy was with the “Absoluters” when he tried to get back among them. It looks rather bad to us that our people will take a man who is so bad that the “Absoluters” will not have him. He should be required to prove by his life that he is all right before he is received. The church of Christ is no reformatory. C. H. C.

John 9:6-7

---February 23, 1915

Brother C. H. Gilliam, R. 2, Fulton, Ky., asks our views on (John 9:6-7) and asks, “Was the blind man a child of God before he washed or did he become a child by the washing?” The text reads, “When He had thus spoken, He spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and He anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay, and said unto him, Go wash in the pool of Siloam, (which is by interpretation, Sent.) He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing.” As to whether the washing was necessary in order that he become a child of God, it is only necessary to observe that the text says he “washed, and came seeing.” If the washing was necessary in order that he become a child of God, or in order that he have eternal life, it should have said that he “washed and received life.” A child of God may be blind to the truth, and need anointing in order that he be able to see the truth. Apply this to your own experience. It is applicable to the experience of the Lord's children, and to many things they realize in their experience. It has no application to the unregenerate. But the blind Pharisee, or the unregenerate sinner, cannot understand how the eyes of God's children are opened to many things along the line, typified by this circumstance. Make the application here, Brother Gilliam, and you will have no difficulty with this text; and the Arminian cannot refute your position. C. H. C

Remarks to W. T. Morrisett

---March 2, 1915

We cannot find words to express the gratitude of our poor heart for such expressions and manifestations of Christian love and fellowship which the above letter brought to us. We could not keep back the tears of gratitude. Were it not for such manifestations of Christian love as this, we feel that we would surely sink down in dark despair. Somehow, it seems that the good Lord does put it into the hearts of His dear children sometimes to cheer us along the way. Yes, Brother Morrisett was here at our association, and it did our poor hearts good to have him and many other dear brethren and sisters in our home. Our home has been an Old Baptist home all our life. Our brethren are always welcome there. It seems to us that we have been passing through the furnace of affliction for several months. We trust our brethren and sisters will pray the Lord in our behalf. Brother Morrisett, we do appreciate your kindness more than we can tell. May our blessed Master bestow His kindness upon you and your dear ones, and manifest His love to you, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Holiness and Hebrews 12:14

HOLINESS AND (Hebrews 12:14)---March 2, 1915

Brother J. A. Martin, Vardaman, Miss., wrote us some time ago that he is living among a number of persons who claim to have reached a state of sinless perfection in the flesh, and that they quote (Hebrews 12:14) in support of their position, and asks our views on this text. It reads, “Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord.” According to the contention of these “Holiness” folks a man is required, in this text, to attain to a state of holiness in the flesh in order to see the Lord, or in order to enter heaven. If their contention be true, then no man will ever enter heaven, for Solomon, the wisest man, said, “For there is no man that sinneth not.” -((Ki 8:46) (I Kings 8:46); ((Chr 6:36) (II Chronicles 6:36). In both of these places he uses the exact words quoted. The man who says he does not sin, admits he is not a man. Again, the same wise man said, “For there is not a just man upon earth, that doeth good, and sinneth not.” -(((0) (Ecclesiastes 7:20).

This language is plain, and the man who claims that he does not sin simply denies these plain statements, and there are many others. As to (Hebrews 12:14), the text does not at all teach that one must reach a state of sinless perfection in order to be saved in heaven; it does not even intimate such a thing. If it did teach that, it would be a positive contradiction of the statements already referred to. The Bible contains no such contradiction as that. The word which is translated holiness in that text means sanctification. Sanctification means set apart to a holy or religious use. They do not attain to this by their own acts or life. It is the work of God. "But ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God." -(I Corinthians 6:11). Here it is plainly stated that they were sanctified by the Spirit of our God. They were set apart to a holy or religious use by the Spirit of God. Again: "By the which will we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all." - ((0:10) (Hebrews 10:10)). Here it is plainly stated that they were sanctified by the will of God through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ. This is the way they were set apart to a religious use. Again: "Jude, the servant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James, to them that are sanctified by God the Father, and preserved in Jesus Christ, and called." -(Jude 1:1) (Jude 1:1-25). Here it is plainly stated that they were sanctified, set apart to a holy or religious use, by God the Father. Now, that this work has been done, since the Lord has set them apart to a holy or religious use, they should follow after that, as admonished in (Hebrews 12:14).

They should follow after that unto which the Lord has set them apart. In other words, as the Lord has set them apart to a religious use, they should endeavor to walk in obedience to His commandments. This is the teaching of the Scriptures, and no intimation of the doctrine is found which is taught by these modern "Holiness" people. Some folks may be so blinded and deluded as to believe that they have reached a state of sinless perfection in this life, but they are few. There may be many who hypocritically claim they have reached such a state. We have but little confidence in a man who makes such a claim. C. H. C.

Foreknowledge of God

---March 2, 1915

Sometime last year Elder A. J. Webb, of Lawrenceville, Ga. sent us an article clipped from a county paper there, which was signed W. B. McDonald, on the foreknowledge of God. The gentleman denied that God foreknows all things, and his main reason is that God did not want to foreknow all things. Well, if his reason be true, and there is one thing which God did not foreknow because He did not want to foreknow it, we would like to know how God found out that He did not want to foreknow that thing. Hence, it is clearly seen that the gentleman admits the very thing he is trying to deny.

"Remember the former things of old: for I am God, and there is none else; I am God, and there is none like me, declaring the end from the beginning, and from ancient times the things that are not yet done, saying, My counsel shall stand, and I will do all my pleasure." -((9) (Isaiah 46:9,10)). In this text the Lord declares that He declared the end from the beginning. As He did declare the end from the beginning, He must have known from the beginning everything that would transpire unto the end. And He says, "My counsel shall stand." He could not have known that His counsel should, or would, stand, unless He knew everything that would have a tendency to prevent His counsel standing, and that He had power to overcome it.

If He did not know everything that would transpire unto the end, He could not have known but what something might transpire which He could not control. But as He knew nothing could transpire which He could not control, He therefore knew everything that would transpire. Again, He said, "I will do all my pleasure." If He did not know everything that would transpire, He did not know but what something might transpire which would prevent Him doing some of His pleasure. But He knew that He would do all His pleasure. Therefore, He knew everything that would transpire. This text is enough to forever settle the fact that God foreknew all things, no matter how much some other passages may seem to contradict that point. C. H. C.

Exodus 2:12 AND Proverbs 9:1

---March 9, 1915

Brother J. M. Boshart, Woodville, Ala., requests our views on ((2) (Exodus 2:12). He asks, "What did Moses hide in the sand?" The text says, "He slew the Egyptain, and hid him in the sand." The Egyptain was an enemy of the Israelites. He asks "What are the seven pillars in ((9:1) (Proverbs 9:1)" We do not know what they represent. If any of our brethren have any mind on that point, we will give space for an article from them. They may represent the seven divine attributes of Jehovah; and then they may not. We are not able to understand figures so well as to make everything represent something. C. H. C.

Matthew 5:13 AND Mark 9:49-50

---March 9, 1915

Brother J. B. Foster, of Settle, Ky., has requested our views of (Matthew 5:13) and ((9:49) (Mark 9:49-50). (Matthew 5:13) reads, "Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men." This language is in the Saviour's sermon on the mount, and was addressed to His disciples. Salt has a preserving quality, and in that sense a saving quality. Meat is preserved by the application of salt. Salt never has made any meat, but it saves the meat already made.

So, the disciples of the Lord have a preserving quality.. It is for the sake of His people that the Lord preserves the earth today. They have a preserving quality, and for their sake the world stands. In another sense also the disciples, ministers, and witnesses of the Lord have a preserving or saving quality. They do not possess this by reason of themselves or their own merit; but the Lord has seen fit to bestow this upon them. "Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them; for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee." -(I Timothy 4:16). This saving is not unto eternal life. It is not a saving in the sense of regeneration, for Timothy was already a child of God and a minister of the gospel. Besides this, those who hear in the sense of this text are those who are already children of God, those who are already born of God- "We are of God: he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us." -(I John 4:6). By taking heed unto himself and unto the doctrine, Timothy would save himself and those who heard him with the same kind of saving, or in the same way. By doing this (taking heed unto himself and unto the doctrine) he would save those who heard him in the same way that he would save himself. He would save himself, and those who heard him, from delusion, from false ways, and from false doctrines. In that respect he was the salt of the earth; and so are God's ministers now. But if they lose the savour, or preserving quality, by failing to take heed unto themselves and unto the doctrine, they become worthless. They become good for nothing, but to be cast out, and trodden under foot of men.

When one of the Lord's followers, and especially a minister, fails to take heed unto himself and unto the doctrine, thus living a life unbecoming the Lord's children, and imbibes false doctrines, advocates heresy, he loses that saving quality. He is then good for nothing. He should be cast out of the church. We should all take heed unto our selves. We are required to take heed unto ourselves first, not take heed unto others first. Some of us may be so busy trying to get the mote out of our brother's eye that we have no time to get the beam out of our own eye. If we would spend the proper amount of time in taking heed unto ourselves, getting the beam out of our own eye, we might not have much time to even look for a mote in a brother's eye, much less to be spending time trying to get the mote out of his eye.

We do not feel just now to be well enough satisfied concerning ((9:49) (Mark 9:49-50) to write upon that text. At least, we do not now feel like writing upon it. We will ask Elder John R. Daily to look into this and the preceding verses in connection with (Matthew 18:6-9), and write an article on the same. Brother Daily, please examine the original language in these places, and give us your conclusions. C. H. C.

Romans 6:1-6, 23

---March 9, 1915

R. F. Osborn, Shannon, Miss., requests our views on (Romans 6:1-6,23). We haven't space to comment at length, and must make our comments brief. "What shall we say then?" The things previously stated in the preceding chapter being true, what shall we say? "Shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound?" The apostle here anticipates and answers an objection which the world often offers to the doctrine of grace. They often say that if they believed this doctrine they would take their fill of sin. This only shows they have not had their fill; they still love sin; they have not been killed to it. Hence the apostle answers, "God forbid." Because salvation from sin is all of grace, and the grace of God abounds in salvation, is no reason why the child of God should continue in sin.

The doctrine of grace is not a licentious doctrine. "How shall we, that are dead to sin, live any longer therein?" This is a statement made in the form of a question. It is a stronger way of saying that one who has been killed to sin cannot live any longer therein,. A child of God cannot live in sin. He may "drag out a miserable existence" there, but he cannot live there. There is no living in sin for him. His living is in the way of righteousness, not unrighteousness. The child of God is dead to sin, but alive unto God; see (Romans 6:11). "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into His death?" This is the baptism which puts the sinner into Christ and is by the Spirit of God; see (I Corinthians 12:13). "Therefore," for this reason; this being true; "we are buried with Him by baptism into death." Start

Baptism is a burial, and in baptism we are separated from the world; we are brought out from the world in our life by baptism because we have been baptized into Christ by the Holy Spirit. "That like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life." As Christ was raised up from the dead, and as we have been raised up out of death into life-being baptized into Christ, into the one body by the Spirit-and now, this being true, we are buried with Him by baptism, and being raised up (baptized-buried and raised again), we should now walk in newness of life. Our life should be such as that we may say by our walk that "we have been with Jesus and learned of Him." "For if we have been planted together in the likeness of His death."

The word which is translated planted means "born together with, of joint origin; connate, congenital, innate, implanted by birth or nature; grown together; united with; kindred." Thayer's Greek Lexicon says, "If we have become united with the likeness of His death (which likeness consists in the fact that in the death of Christ our former corruption and wickedness has been slain and has been buried in Christ's tomb), i. e., if that is part and parcel of the very nature of a genuine Christian to be utterly dead to sin, we shall be united also with the likeness of His resurrection, i. e., our intimate fellowship with His return to life will show itself in a new life consecrated to God." "Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with Him."

The expression, "our old man," means, "as we were before our mode of thought, feeling, action, had been changed." -Thayer. The old man denotes our former condition, as we were in nature; but we have been killed to that. Our old former condition has been crucified or destroyed. This is done when one is born again, made partaker of the divine nature, killed to sin. This is done by the operation of the Spirit of God upon the soul or spirit of the man, "that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin." We should then follow the divine nature, which the Lord has given. We should "through the Spirit mortify the deeds of the body." We should not live after the flesh, or that old corrupt nature, but should live after the Spirit, walk in Him.

(Romans 6:23) reads, "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Wages is what one gets for what he does. Sin is the transgression of the law. Sin, then, is what men do. Death is what they get for it. "The wages of sin is death." Death is what men get for what they do, for they transgress God's law. This death is everlasting banishment from the peaceful presence of God. Men are lost on account of sin. Reprobation is not unconditional; but eternal life is unconditional.. The whole race of man has been plunged into everlasting ruin and misery by sin. "But the gift of God is eternal life."

God, in His mercy, intervenes, in the person of His Son, and through what He has done some of the race are snatched from everlasting ruin. He gives eternal life to them. He does not simply offer life, but He lifts them up out of their deplorable state, and makes them alive in Christ; He gives them eternal life; He gives them a righteous life; He gives them that life by which they will live with Him in eternity. This is done "through Jesus Christ our Lord." C. H. C.

John 17:20 AND John 20:31

---March 16. 1915

Brother J. E. Yancey, Boas, Ala., asks our views on the above named passages of Scripture. ((0) (John 17:20) reads, "Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word." We think the expression "these alone" refers especially to the apostles. Those "which shall believe on me through their word" refers to those who believe on the Saviour from the teaching of the apostles. This text is often quoted to prove that belief is necessary in order to eternal life; but it does not intimate such a thing. One must have life in order to believe. Just as one must have natural life in order to believe a natural truth, even so one must have spiritual life in order to believe a spiritual truth. Hence, those who believe on Him through their word are those who have been born again. We showed in The Primitive Baptist of February 2 that one who believes is one who has already been born again. ((0:31) (John 20:31) says, "But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through His name." The farmer works his farm that his family may have life; but he does not work his farm in order that his family may obtain life. Even so, one does not believe in order to obtain life; but having life, he believes and continues to live. C. H. C.

2 Corinthians 5:20

---March 16, 1915

J. A. Hogan, Hartley, Ark., has requested our views of (II Corinthians 5:20), which reads, "Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God. The apostles, and the Lord's ministers now, are ambassadors for Christ." Knowing the terror of the Lord, we persuade men," says the apostle. He did not persuade dead people to do something in order to obtain life; but he would persuade the living to obey the Lord. He would persuade them to walk right, to talk right, to act right, and to live right. The Corinthians had been deluded into believing a false doctrine, and were not walking right. In this respect they were not reconciled to God. They were not satisfied with the doctrine of God our Saviour. In this respect, also, they were not reconciled to God. The apostle would beseech them to be reconciled to God, to His doctrine, and to His ordinances. He would beseech them to be content with that. So should the ministers of the gospel today beseech the Lord's people to be satisfied and content with the doctrine of the Bible, and with the ordinances of the Lord's house. C. H. C.

Foreknowledge and Predestination

---March 16, 1915

Brother J. M. Conner, Caledonia, Miss., has asked us to explain the difference between God's foreknowledge and His predestination. We haven't the time nor space to write at length upon the question now, and will only state that God's foreknowledge or His wisdom is one of His attributes. It is a part of His very being. But His predestination is His act; it is the act of His mind. This is the difference-at least, a great difference. To make them one and the same thing is to destroy the teaching of the Bible. "For whom He did foreknow, He also did predestinate to be conformed to the image of His Son." Foreknowledge and predestination are not the same here; for predestination comes after foreknowledge. C. H. C.

Revelation 5:6

---March 23, 1915

Sister J. H. Brock, Eldorado, Okla., has requested our views of (Revelation 5:6), which reads, "And I beheld, and, Io, in the midst of the throne and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the elders, stood a Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth." We think the four beasts are the four evangelists, Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John. The Lamb is Christ, the Saviour. He was the Lamb, and He was slain for the redemption of His people.

The horns and eyes, it is said, are the seven Spirits of God, or the seven divine attributes of Jehovah. He was God manifest in the flesh. In Him dwelt all the fullness of the Godhead bodily. It pleased the Father that in Him should all fullness dwell. He possessed all the attributes of the Father. He is and was one with the Father, and was equal with Him. C. H. C.

Jacob and Esau

---March 23, 1915

Brother G. W. Burnsed, Groveland, Ga., requests our views on Jacob and Esau, and the text, "Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated." Jacob was a representative character, representing the Lord's people. See (Deuteronomy 32:9). The Lord loved Jacob. His name was changed to Israel. The Lord loved Israel. He loved His people. He did not love Esau. He passed Esau by and bestowed the blessing upon Jacob.

Just as the Lord made choice of Jacob, {see (Romans 9:11)} so He made choice of His people, for Jacob represented them. Just where the Lord found Jacob, {see (Deuteronomy 32:10)} that is where He finds all His people-in the wilderness of sin. The Lord leads them all, as He did Jacob of old. The Lord finds them, and makes them akin to Him. He leads them about and instructs them, and keeps them. C. H. C.

Remarks to Elder C. L. Clark

---April 13, 1915

Words are inadequate to express our appreciation of Brother Clark's words of sympathy and encouragement. Were it not for such expressions as these from the dear children of God, we feel that we would often despair. But thanks be to the Master that He gives us such range now and then among the "pleasant fields of Holy Writ." Yes, our position is a trying one. We are often from two to six months behind with articles coming in for publication, and most all of them are old when published, as we desire to take them in their turn, publishing only the really necessary ahead, but some people become so impatient that they think we are not going to publish their article and write and tell us to stop the paper on that account.

Oh, that God may give us grace to hold up under all circumstances, all criticisms and abuses, and with an eye single to God's glory and the help and advancement of His cause push onward in sending forth the paper each week filled with such matter as God gives us to see is right. We also appreciate Brother Clark's renewal and suggestion that all our readers renew. If every reader of the paper would send us as much as one dollar now, though they are ahead with us, it would enable us to get on our feet again from the terrible strain caused by sickness and financial embarrassment, and no doubt relieve our mind to such an extent that we would be free to think and act for the better in our editorial work. May God bless our dear readers, and place it in their minds to render such aid as is necessary to hold us up under all circumstances. C. H. C.

Sunday School Frauds

---April 13, 1915

Mayor Roberts and some of his machine of Terre Haute, Ind., are having a good deal of trouble in Uncle Sam's court for using repeaters in elections and other election frauds. If fraudulent, dishonest and criminal for a man to vote in one precinct in a city and then be rushed in an automobile to another city precinct and voted, is it any less reprehensible or any more honest for a church or Sunday school to use repeaters, who have already been counted in one Sunday school in a city, and are almost bodily pulled into another in order to be counted and to make a show?

Up in Pike County, Ky., men have been tried and convicted recently for selling their votes for $1 and the rise, in a recent Kentucky election. Is a church or Sunday school any the less reprehensible, that pays Sunday school pupils cigars or free shaves to get them to attend on a given Sunday, when they want to make a big show? Does the fact that it is done in the name of religion and on Sunday make such methods any more honest or honorable than when done on a week day in a state or national election?

The above appeared in the News and Truths of March 31, 1915, which paper is edited by H. B. Taylor, at Murray, Ky. Here we have a plain admission that the Sunday schools practice such frauds as that men are prosecuted for by the courts of the land, when practiced in state affairs. And this, too, by an institution which claims for its object the bringing of souls to Christ! Oh, shame, where is thy blush! What honest, well informed person can believe that such a thing as this can have for its real object the salvation of souls? Such practice as this only educates the young and rising generation to engage in deceptive practices, and even engage in swindling schemes for worldly gain. No wonder the jails and penitentiaries are crowded. No wonder that murder, theft, robbery, lying, cheating, and all kinds of immorality are increasing so rapidly. The Lord only knows what the end will be. And in the face of all such things as these, some Old Baptists allow their children to go to Sunday school. If you love your children, for the Lord's sake keep them away from such schools. C. H. C.

Paul's Regeneration

---April 13, 1915

Brother D. M. Raulston, of East Chattanooga, Tenn., asks when Paul was regenerated. He says, "I feel almost sure I know what you will say, or what you teach, but I want to be positive." He was regenerated while on his way from Jerusalem to Damascus to bind and cast in prison those who called on the name of the Lord. When he was brought before the king, Agrippa, for the doctrine he taught, and his teaching was there called in question, and he made his memorable defense before the king, the first thing he did was to relate his experience; he told what "great things the Lord had done for him."

As he was on his way the Lord spoke to him. When the Lord speaks to the dead, He imparts life. Saul was in love with sin, and a hater of the Lord; but he was made alive to his condition. He saw that he was a great sinner, and cried out, "Who art thou, Lord?" The Lord did not need a preacher to introduce Him, or to make Him known to Saul He said, "I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest." This was equivalent to saying, "I am your Saviour." Saul now possessed a will which he did not have when he left Jerusalem. When he started on the journey he had a will to persecute the saints of God; but now he had a will to know and do the Lord's will. Hence he said, "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" Will springs from life, and as he now has a righteous will—a will to serve the Lord—which he did not have before, it simply shows that he now has a life which he did not have before. C. H. C.

Revelation 22:17-19

---April 13, 1915

Brother T. A. Simmons, Belleville, Ala., has requested our views of (Revelation 22:17-18,19), which reads, "And the Spirit and the bride say, Come. And let him that heareth say, Come. And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely. For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book: And if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book.'And the Spirit and the bride say, Come."

The Spirit of God in the heart of every child of God prompts him to right living. It says for him to come and walk in the right way, in obedience to the Master. It says for him to go home to his friends. And the church says for him to come. "Come and go with us, for the Lord hath spoken good concerning Israel." "And let him that heareth say, Come." The minister of the gospel of Christ, and those who hear with an understanding heart say, Come. Those who are required to come are those who are thirsty and who have the will. Thirst and will both spring from life.. The living are the ones who are required to come. "If any man shall add unto these things." We should do what the Lord requires, and no more. It is as bad to add to as it is to take from. Both are forbidden here. If one adds to, and does things not required, then the Lord has promised to add the plagues. If he takes away, fails to do what is required, then his part is taken away out of the book of life, or from the tree of life, and out of the holy city. The holy city is the church. His part is taken away. He is rejected, and the blessings which the Lord bestows upon His obedient children are denied him. C. H. C.

Hosea 2:3 AND Isaiah 50:1

---April 13, 1915

Brother C. H. Wells, Plattsburg, Miss., has asked us to give our views of ((Hos 2:3) (Hosea 2:3) and (Isaiah 1:1), and also asks us why the church is called the Baptist Church. As to the name, will say that John was called a Baptist, and the Lord gave him that name. He baptized the persons who first composed the church. The church was composed of baptized believers. Jesus organized His church and the first members, those whom He first placed in the church, were baptized persons who had been baptized by John.

We would call them Baptists, then. Hence what is known as the Baptist Church is the church of God. They have been called by different names in the different ages and countries since the days of the apostles; but the name of a thing does not change its nature. The identity of the church of God has remained with those who contended for Scriptural doctrine and practice in all the ages since the church was established by the Saviour while on earth. As we do not feel like writing on the two passages of Scripture referred to, we thought it would not be out of place to give our readers the benefit of Gill's comments on them as follows. C. H. C.

We do not deem it necessary to copy Gill's comments in this book.-C. H. C.

Isaiah 35:6-7

---April 13, 1915

Brother J.M. Coleman, Copeland, Ark., requests our views of ((6) (Isaiah 35:6-7)), which reads, "Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing: for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. And the parched ground shall become a pool, and the thirsty land springs of water: in the habitation of dragons, where each lay, shall be grass with reeds and rushes."

We have thought that this was figurative language, representing something of the joy and peace that fills the heart of the poor sinner who has realized his lost and ruined condition in and by reason of sin, when Jesus is manifested to him in the pardon and forgiveness of his sins. If you can remember when you first realized that Jesus was your Saviour, that He was the chiefest among ten thousand and altogether lovely, we think you have realized something of what the prophet here refers to. C. H. C.

Tour in Illinois and Missouri

---April 20, 1915

We left home on Friday morning, February 12, to fill appointments which had been arranged for us by Elder F. M. Pope in Illinois. We arrived in Neoga late in the afternoon. Brother Pope met us at the train, and conveyed us out to Concord Church, near Neoga, and we tried to preach there that night. Also filled appointments there Saturday and Sunday and in Neoga Sunday night at the home of a dear old brother who was not able to go to the church. Elders F. M. Pope and D. E. Baker were with us at this church.

Elder Pope was called home Sunday evening on account of illness of some of his family. Elder Baker remained with us at Neoga. The meetings were all pleasant, and we enjoyed our stay among those good people. From Neoga we went to Arthur, where we tried to preach on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, and spent the time at the home of Brother Floyd Butler, who moved to Illinois from Macon County, Tenn.

Many people in Arthur had never heard an Old Baptist preach. Some of them seemed to think the doctrine was not so bad as some people seemed to think it was. We tried to "give them something to talk about," if they did not believe it. We were kindly treated at this place, and were sorry to leave Brother Butler's family. We went from Arthur to Hindsboro, Brother Butler accompanying us, where we filled appointments Thursday and Friday, February 18 and 19. We met Elder F. M. Reeds at this place. This is his home; and we spent one night with him. He has not been well for some time, but we were glad to find him improving, and trust that he may be fully restored to health. We had a pleasant stay at Hindsboro, and shall not forget their kindness to us.

From Hindsboro we went to Providence, where we had meeting Saturday and Sunday. The meeting at Providence was very pleasant indeed.

Next, we went to Bethlehem, where we had meeting Monday night, Tuesday, and Tuesday night. This meeting was also pleasant. Then we went to Sugar Creek, where we filled appointments on Wednesday and Thursday. This church is in the village of Nevins, near Paris. We spent the two nights in Paris; Wednesday night with Brother H. E. Gill and family, and Thursday night with friend Silas Moffett and family. Both are very pleasant families. Mr. Moffett is a strong Old Baptist in belief, but will not come into the vineyard. The meetings at the church were pleasant, and the brethren and friends were all kind and good to us.

On Friday we went to Concord (New Concord), near Kansas, where we tried to preach that night, and also on Saturday and Sunday and at nights. Elder Pope was with us here, and is the pastor of the church. He is highly esteemed by the members and friends there. The meetings at this place were very much enjoyed; it was pleasant, indeed, to be with these people. We shall not soon forget their kindness to us.

On Monday we went to Mt. Zion, near Windsor, and filled appointments there on Monday night, Tuesday night, Wednesday and Wednesday night. The meetings at this place were very pleasant. Elder W. A. Chastain is the pastor, but he was not with us, as it is so far from his home. They were good and kind to us, and we trust the Lord may bestow His blessings upon them.

On Thursday we went to Bayle City, arriving there at about 7:51 that evening. Elder Pope met us at the train. The night was dark, the wind blowing a gale, and the snow falling thick and fast. But we were soon comfortably situated in the home of Elder Pope with him and his pleasant family. Elder Pope is a splendid companion, and we enjoyed being with him. Bayle City is the home of Elder D. E. Baker also. We filled appointments at the church near this place on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, and also Friday and Saturday nights, and on Sunday night at the home of Elder Baker. We enjoyed our stay with these good brethren. The meetings were all pleasant, and well attended, considering the inclemency of the weather. Elder J. L. Dobbs, of Springfield, was present Saturday and Sunday.

On Monday morning we took our leave of Elders Pope and Baker, regretting that we could not be with them more, going on our journey to Missouri to fill appointments as arranged by Elder E. B. Bartlett. The first appointment in that state was at Bryant's Creek, near Elsberry. We arrived in Elsberry in the afternoon. We were met at the train by Friend Perry (we do not remember his initials), who lives with his mother, and conveyed to their home, where we spent the night comfortably and pleasantly. Tuesday morning we went to the meetinghouse, where we had the pleasure of meeting Elders Bartlett and J. A. Conlee. Elder Conlee is the pastor of the church, though his home is in Waverly, I11. We filled appointments here Tuesday and Wednesday. The meetings were pleasant, though the congregations were small. We are hoping to hear that some have united with the church there soon, for some gave evidence of a desire to follow the Saviour.

On Thursday we went to the vicinity of Sand Run Church, Elder Bartlett accompanying us and Elder Conlee returning home. We regretted that Brother Conlee could not be with us more. On Friday we met with the brethren at Sand Run, and tried to preach to them. The meeting was pleasant, and we enjoyed being with those people. At about midnight we went with Elder Bartlett to his home in Buell; and met with the church at Elkhorn on Saturday and Sunday. Elder Stuart Flanigan, of Springfield, III, was with us here at this church. He and Elder Bartlett serve the church jointly.

The congregations were larger here than at some of the places we visited, and we trust that the church may prosper. They were kind and good to us, and we enjoyed their company and association. We next went to Bethel Church, Elder Bartlett still accompanying us, and filled appointments there on Monday and Tuesday. The attendance was small each day, but the meetings were pleasant. From Bethel we went to Macedonia, Elder Bartlett with us, where we filled appointments on Wednesday and Thursday. The meetings at this place were also pleasant, though the attendance was small.

Thursday night we again went with Elder Bartlett to his home, and on Friday he accompanied us to Siloam, or near there. The appointments were at a schoolhouse near the home of Brother Enoch Branstetter, as the Burnamites had the use of the meetinghouse at this time. There was a division at this place a number of years ago, the Burnamites leaving the original Old Baptist principles, but both sides continue to use the house, and this was the time that they had the use of it. On Friday a Sister Henderson died, and her funeral was to be conducted on Saturday; and as she had a number of relatives who lived in the vicinity of the schoolhouse who desired to attend the funeral, the appointment for Saturday was called in. We attended the funeral, which was preached by Elder W. J. Hardesty at Goshen Church. We filled an appointment at the schoolhouse that night and on Sunday. The meetings were pleasant at this place also. On Monday morning Elder Bartlett bade us farewell, he returning home. We were sorry to separate from him. He had been with us all the time that we had been in the state, and we enjoyed his company. We trust the Lord may bless his labors. We went that morning to visit our brother-in-law, Brother H. L. Miller, who was at Fulton for his health. We were agreeably surprised to find him so much improved as he was. That evening we took our leave of him, promising to try to return in a few days, and went to Moberly where we had to remain over night.

Next morning we went to Madison, where we were met and conveyed to Mt. Pleasant Church. We filled appointments there Tuesday and Wednesday. The congregations were large for weekdays and were very attentive. The meetings were very pleasant, indeed. Elder Hutchinson was present each day, and we enjoyed his company. Elder S. L. Pettus was with us on Wednesday. We were glad to see him again. The brethren all seemed to enjoy our feeble efforts in trying to proclaim the unsearchable riches of Christ, not only at this place, but at the other places visited. We returned to Moberly Wednesday evening, and on Thursday went to Fulton again. Our brother-in-law was so much improved that he was well enough to come home; so he came with us. We arrived home Friday morning, March 26, and found all as well as when we left. Our hearts were all made glad, that Brother Miller was able to be at home again, and those who had been at home were as well as when we left. We feel to be so thankful to the good Lord that everything is as well with us as it is.

This was a very pleasant tour, taken all in all, though the congregations were small at some places, and some seem to be in a kind of careless state; yet we found some faithful ones at the different places. The Lord will not leave Himself without witness. There will always be a few faithful ones. They were all kind and good to us, and we shall not soon forget the many acts of kindness shown us. May the Lord bless each one we met, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Throgmorton vs Throgmorton

---April 20, 1915

In the Illinois Baptist of April 3, 1915, under the heading of "Questions and Answers," we find the following, supposedly the production of the editor, Elder W. P. Throgmorton: Baptists, ever since the Freewills started as a separate people, held aloof from them, because of their doctrine and practice. It was a Baptist principle to make correct doctrine and practice a test of denominational fellowship. Now the Freewills are taken into denominational fellowship and not asked to surrender a single doctrine or practice. But Brother Wells says we have surrendered "not a one." Baptists formerly invited to the Lord's table only persons of "the same faith and order." Now Freewills are invited who are of different faith and order. Brother Wells declares that the Free Baptists have become Baptists. And yet they have not given up a single thing which has always differentiated them from the Baptists. According to Brother Wells it has come to pass among Baptists, "Men are free to preach the truth as they see it." So a man can preach anything which he thinks is truth and be a Baptist. No wonder the Northern Baptists are becoming like Alexander Campbell once said his people were. He said, "All kinds of men are preaching all kinds of doctrines under the broad banners of the reformation." And in the Northern Baptist Convention we have from Orthodoxy to Unitarianism; from open membership to "close communion" the strictest. We are glad to be so little identified with it as we are. Perhaps the Fullerites have been encouraged in their looseness and broad liberalities by the stand taken by this same Elder W. P. Throgmorton in his debate with Elder Lemuel Potter at Fulton, Ky., in July, 1887, on the question, "Who are the Primitive Baptists?" In his first speech in that debate Elder Throgmorton used the following language. See Throgmorton-Potter debate, pages 2, 3, 4:

Let me define a Missionary Baptist Church affirmatively and negatively, as to policy and as to constitution: 1st. It holds that the gospel should be preached to every creature, and that every sinner should be exhorted to repentance and faith; that repentance and faith are duties as well as graces; and that the reading, and especially the preaching of the word, is a means of conviction and conversion of sinners. 2nd. It holds (or may hold) that it is right to pay a minister a salary, but does not make such payment a test of denominational fellowship. 3rd. It holds (or may hold) that missionary associations, conventions, societies, boards and committees are warranted by the word of God; but it does not make cooperation with such things in the way of paying money into their treasuries a test of denominational fellowship. 4th. It holds (or may hold) that the Sunday school is authorized by the word of God; but it does not make participation in Sunday school work a test of denominational fellowship. 5th. It holds (or may hold) that it is right to have denominational institutions of learning; but it does not require patronage in the way of contributions, or otherwise, to such schools, as a test of denominational fellowship. 6th. It holds (or may hold) to the doctrines taught in the old Philadelphia confession of faith, but it does not make strict Calvinism a test of denominational fellowship, I wish to say a few more words on this matter of fellowship.

There is a distinction between Christian, church, associational, and denominational fellowship. We may entertain Christian fellowship for a man who is not even a Baptist. An individual Baptist Church may have tests of fellowship as to its own members which it does not make a test with sister churches. An individual Baptist Association may require tests as to the churches in its own membership that it does not require of other associations in order to fellowship with them. For a church or an association to belong to the Missionary Baptist denomination, it must simply be in a general union with the churches and associations of the denomination. There may be two associations of Missionary Baptists which have no correspondence directly with each other; yet both belong to the general union.

We judge that the Freewills, to whom Elder Throgmorton is now objecting, would accept each of the six principles which he laid down in defining what a Missionary Baptist Church is. They would not object to Number 1; they will agree with No. 2; they believe No. 3; they practice No. 4; they hold to No. 5; they will give their hand on No. 6. Then why may they not be with the Fullerites in general union?

The union of the Fullerites and the Freewills is no violation of a single principle laid down by Elder Throgmorton, or contended for by him, in that debate. He said, "For a church or an association to belong to the Missionary Baptist denomination, it must simply be in general union with the churches and associations of the denomination." All that is necessary to be a Missionary Baptist, according to this, is simply to be in general union with the churches and associations of the denomination. If that is all that is necessary, and Elder Throgmorton said it is all, then it makes no difference what they believe, teach, or practice, they are Missionary Baptists if they are in general union with the churches and associations of the denomination.

A great man like Elder Throgmorton should not shift his positions this way. How can we know, now, what a Missionary Baptist is? Was he right when he was in debate with Elder Potter? If so, he should stick to it now. Principles are eternal, and never change. If the principles he contended for then were right then, they are right now. If he refuses to stand upon those principles now, we will accord honesty to him and concede that it is because he does not now think those principles are right. If they are not right now, they were not right then. If they were not right then, the Missionary Baptists are not the Primitive Baptists; they are not the original Baptists.

If those principles were right then, and Elder Throgmorton is now departing from them, then he is now departing from the principles of the original Baptists. Hence, either way you take it, Elder Throgmorton is not one of the original Baptists. He is departing from the original Baptists, to say the least of it, whether he was right then, or whether he is right now. Poor fellow, he is in a hole, and a stopper is in the mouth of the hole. C. H. C.

Mourners Benches

---April 27, 1915

Elder C. H. Cayce: Dear Brother-I would like to have an expression from you on the following questions: Why, and in what way, are Baptists opposed to mourners benches and effort meetings held for the purpose of getting souls saved? Do you know of any Old Baptist Churches or associations that have declared non fellowship for them? In reading Baptist Articles of Faith can we not safely take it for granted that they are opposed to those things, even if they do not specify them? What would you say concerning the act of an Old Baptist brother who goes to a meeting of that kind and helps in that kind of work? Is an Old Baptist brother eligible to register under the name of Old Baptist who engages in that kind of work? Would like to have your answer through the paper in the near future. Yours in hope, Buford Oldham. Owenaville, Ind.

REMARKS

Old Baptists are opposed to mourners benches and effort meetings held for the purpose of getting souls saved, because the very object of such meetings is contrary to the whole teaching of the Scriptures. The eternal salvation of poor sinners does not depend upon the efforts of men. If the eternal salvation of sinners does depend upon the efforts of men, then they are justifiable in engaging in anything men may invent in order to the accomplishment of that end.

And if this be true, then anything may be engaged in, which has that object in view, whether the Bible authorizes it or not. But it is wrong to engage in any sort of religious practice which the Bible does not authorize. "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, throughly furnished unto all good works." (II Timothy 3:16-17).

The word throughly in this text has become obsolete (gone out of use), and means thoroughly. From this text we learn, (1) that all Scripture is given by inspiration of God; (2) that all Scripture is profitable; (3) that it is profitable, for doctrine; (4) that it is profitable for reproof; (5) that it is profitable for correction; (6) that it is profitable for instruction in righteousness-that is, in right living; (7) that it is all for the man of God-that is, for the child of God; (8) that it is given for the perfection of the child of God-that the child of God may reach a state of perfection in the service of God, not a state of holiness as taught by the modern Holiness people; (9) that it is given that the man of God may be thoroughly furnished unto all good works.

This being true-that the Scripture is given that the man of God may be thoroughly furnished unto all good works then it must be true that the Scripture teaches everything that we ought to believe or practice religiously. If the Scripture teaches everything that we ought to believe or practice religiously, then it is wrong to believe or practice anything religiously that the Scripture does not teach. The Scripture does not teach that sinners are regenerated, or born of God, through the efforts of men, but that regeneration is the work of God alone.

Hence, all such efforts are wrong. They are not only wrong, but are a flagrant denial that regeneration is the work of God alone. The man who engages in such says by his act that he does not believe that "salvation is of the Lord." His act proves that he believes salvation is of the efforts of men. It is really little better than infidelity. It is not much worse to deny the existence and being of God than to deny His word and His work. It is also presumption to engage in such work; for in so doing, the man presumes to accomplish the work that God has reserved to Himself, and which He, alone, does. The regeneration of the sinner is of God's own sovereign will and work. See (John 1:13).

In that text John denies that regeneration is of the will or work of man. It is not of the will of the flesh. It is not of blood. If it is not of the will of the flesh, the will of men has nothing whatever to do with it. If the will of men has nothing to do with it, then their effort meetings have nothing to do with the regeneration of sinners. They claim to be very willing and anxious to save souls; but they say the thing in the way of the salvation of the sinners is that the sinners are unwilling. But John says it is not of the will of the flesh; hence the will of the sinners has nothing to do with it. It is not of blood; hence it is not the work or doing of men that regenerates the sinner. The doings of men have nothing whatever to do with it. "But of God."

It is of the sovereign will and the sovereign work of Almighty God that sinners are regenerated or born of God. Sinners are born of God by the work of God, and not by the work of men. Aid societies and efforts of men will not result in the birth of a single heir of promise. "Now we, brethren, as Isaac was, are the children of promise." -Galatians iv. 28. Sarah's aid and Abraham's effort resulted in the birth of Ishmael, who was a mocker; but did not result in the birth of Isaac, the promised child. So, their aids and efforts now may result in the birth of Ishmaelites, but cannot, and do not, result in the birth of a single promised child. There is no good reason for such practice, and there is every reason for opposing it.

As to any Old Baptist Church or association declaring nonfellowship for such practice, will say that we know of no Old Baptist Church or association which believes in or practices such. In fact, to believe in or practice such is not to be an Old Baptist. In our articles of faith we have this item: "That the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments are a revelation from God, written by inspiration of God, teaching, as they do, all that we ought to believe, know or practice religiously." This is the second item in the articles of faith or abstract of principles appearing in our columns nearly every week, and which this paper has been pledged to defend ever since it has been published. All our churches have an article containing the same in substance.

The old London Confession of Faith teaches the same thing in the following language contained in Chapter I, Sec. 6: "The whole counsel of God concerning all things necessary for His own glory, man's salvation, faith and life, is either expressly set down or necessarily contained in the Holy Scripture; unto which nothing at any time is to be added, whether by new revelation of the Spirit, or tradition of men." This is what the apostle believed; it is what the Baptists believed in 1689, and it is what Old Baptists believe now. If one believes otherwise, he is not an Old Baptist. Hence, if one believes in those effort meetings for the salvation of sinners, he is not an Old Baptist. He is no more entitled to be called an Old Baptist than a bed bug is entitled to be called an angel of mercy.

These confessions show what Old Baptists believe. This is what they have fellowship for. It virtually says that they do not have fellowship for anything that is contrary to this. No person can fellowship a thing and at the same time fellowship another thing that is diametrically opposed to that thing. Hence, no man can endorse the Baptist confession of faith, and at the same time endorse effort meetings for the salvation of souls.

Any member of an Old Baptist Church who takes part in and engages in such effort meetings should be reprov'd or admonish'd, and unless he repents, should be excluded from the fellowship of the church. To engage in such is disorderly, because it denies the teaching of God's word, and every person who walks disorderly should be withdrawn from. "Now, we command you, brethren, in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, that ye withdraw yourselves from every brother that walketh disorderly, and not after the tradition which he received of us." -(Th 3:6) (II Thessalonians 3:6).

We think the foregoing answers all the questions propounded by the brother. We know that we have been plain. It was not with the intention of wounding the feelings of any person, but because we feel that the question needs to be dealt with plainly. We trust that what we have said may be blessed to the good of some of our readers. C. H. C.

Free Moral Agency

---April 27, 1915

L. E. Lindsey, of Statesboro, Ga., requests our views on "free moral agency," and refers to one who believes in a second work of the Holy Spirit, and that there is only one salvation, and that Christ died for everybody, and that we have got to meet the conditions or be damned forever.

As to "free moral agency" will say that the Arminian world talks about this as though they think the human will is on an equipoise or equilibrium, without any bias to either good or evil. They claim that the sinner is free to either accept or reject the Lord-accept the Lord and be saved, or reject the Lord and be condemned. They claim that the sinner is free to act for himself either way, hence a "free moral agent." As to the freedom, will say that man does act freely. The sinner acts freely in committing sin. The unregenerate sinner loves sin. He prefers sin rather than holiness or righteousness. If he rejects sin or unrighteousness, then, and accepts holiness, or accepts the Lord, he does not act freely, for he prefers unrighteousness.

The reason why he prefers sin and unrighteousness is because his nature is poisoned with sin. Unrighteousness is in harmony with his nature. No one can prefer that which is not in harmony with his nature. Therefore, the sinner is not free in the sense that his will is unbiased. Will being a product of life, it necessarily follows that the will is like the life from which it springs, the will and the life are necessarily alike in nature. From the natural life springs a will for natural things. The natural life is poisoned with sin, and the will which springs from that life, must, therefore, also be a poisoned will. The will is, therefore, biased to evil or sin.

This being true, if the sinner accepts Christ, he accepts what he does not really want. To say that God saves the sinner upon such a condition as that is absurd, to say the least of it. But that is about as good as any of the modern theology. In order that one act freely in the service of God, he must first possess the holy or righteous life, the life of Christ, which is a higher order of life than the natural life. From that holy or righteous life springs a holy will, or a will for righteousness. If one accepts Christ, then, because he prefers holiness or righteousness rather than unrighteousness, it is because he already possesses the righteous life, from which the righteous will springs. He is already a child of God. In talking to people who had not the love of God in them the Saviour said, "And ye will not come to me, that ye might have life." (John 6:40).

Those people had no will to come to the Saviour. "YE WILL NOT," is the language of our Lord. He certainly knew what He was talking about. These people did not have the love of God in them, and were destitute of a will to come to Christ. They had no such will as that. They did have a will for unrighteousness, but not for righteousness. This is a complete refutation of the doctrine of "free moral agency" as it is taught by the whole Arminian world. Much could be written on this line, but this will do for the present.

As to the second work of the Holy Spirit, will say that the Bible says nothing about such a thing as some people call a "second work of the Spirit" or a "second work of grace." It is the office work of the Holy Spirit, the third Person in the adorable Trinity, to regenerate sinners; and the Holy Spirit is also promised as a Comforter of God's children; but this in no wise teaches what some are pleased to call a "second work of the Holy Spirit." What they mean by such statements is that one must become wholly sinless, or reach a state of sinless perfection. The Bible in no place intimates that one can ever reach such a state in this life. We have already written some articles on this question, which have been published in our columns heretofore; so we will not write more on that now. If there is only one salvation, or one kind of saving, spoken of in the Bible, then no man under heaven can harmonize the Bible. In (Ephesians 2:5) the apostle says, "By grace ye are saved." They are saved by the unmerited favor of Christ.

This being true, they are not saved by reason of any good thing done by them. The same apostle says, in another place, "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us." -(Titus 3:5). They are saved according to God's mercy, and not by any righteous works performed by them. The same writer says, "Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee." -(I Timothy 4:16). Here is a saving which follows as a result of doing some thing, and that doing is a righteous doing. Here is a saving, then, which follows as a result of righteous doing. But this saving is not an eternal saving, or the receiving of eternal life. The receiving of eternal life is "not by works of righteousness which we have done," but according to God's mercy.

Timothy was a child of God, already in possession of eternal life, when Paul wrote the language to him just quoted. Hence, it was too late for him to save himself in that respect; but it was not too late for him to save himself from false doctrines and wrong practices by taking heed unto himself and to the doctrine and continuing therein. He would save others-"them that hear thee"-in the same way that he would save himself by doing what the apostle here admonished; hence he would save others from false doctrines and wrong practices. Christ said He laid down His life for the sheep. He did not lay down His life for the goats. Hence He did not die for all the race.

If the receiving of eternal life is conditional on the part of the sinner, and the sinner must hear and understand the conditions in order to perform them, then no sinner would ever be saved. "Why do ye not understand my speech? even because ye cannot hear my word." -John viii. 43. Jesus says they CANNOT hear. If they must do this in order to be saved, then they must do what they CANNOT do. Their salvation, therefore, would be IMPOSSIBLE. C. H. C.

Ephesians 2:1-5

---May 4, 1915

Brother D. M. Raulston, of East Chattanooga, Tenn., asks, "What do you believe (Ephesians 2:1) teaches-especially the word quickened?" The words hath he quickened in (Ephesians 2:1) are not in the original, but are in (Ephesians 2:5). The word quickened, as here used, means to make alive; to vivify; to revive; to resuscitate, as from death or an inanimate state. The language simply means that the Lord made them alive from the dead. They had been dead in trespasses and sins before this work was done; but when this was done they were raised up out of a state of death into a state of life. They possessed natural life before this work was done; but they now possess a higher order of life-the divine life. They have been made partakers of the divine nature, and have been given eternal life. C. H. C.

The Christian Sun

---May 4, 1915

A copy of a paper bearing the above name has been sent to us with a request that we notice some of the contents. The paper is published at Elon College, N. C, and the copy we have before us is dated February 3, 1915. We have been told by the so-called "Christians" that they have no creeds or confessions of faith, but we find one printed on the front page of this paper. The second article says that "Christian is a sufficient name for the church."

They are real anxious to wear the name Christian, whether they even resemble one or not. "And in that day seven women shall take hold of one man, saying, We will eat our own bread, and wear our own apparel: only let us be called by thy name, to take away our reproach." -(Isaiah 4:1). Evidently the order represented by The Christian Sun is one of the women the prophet mentioned, for they are evidently not depending on Christ for life and salvation, but upon their own works and righteousness.

Their third article of faith says that "The Bible is a sufficient rule of faith and practice;" but we notice that they have Sunday schools, Christian Endeavor societies, women's missionary boards and societies, and so on. If the Bible is a sufficient rule it authorizes everything that should be practiced in the name of Christianity; and no man can show Bible authority for these societies and institutions that these people are engaging in. When did any apostle organize a Christian Endeavor society or Women's Missionary society or board at Ephesus, or at Corinth, or at any other place? They did not do such a thing. These people have no right to claim that they have the Bible for their guide, for they are not following it.

There are several things in the editorial department which we notice that are contrary to the teaching of God's word. We haven't space for all of them. To give space to all the teaching the paper contains that is contrary to the Bible, we would have to reproduce most all of the paper. However, we will copy the following, which appears in that paper under the heading of "God's Quest of Men:" God is seeking ever to break into the lives of men. It doth not yet appear what we shall be when He will no longer break into our lives but will abide in us continuously. If we could see Him constantly, our desire for Him would be so great that He would abide in us to fill us with His own life and light and love.

God is seeking for men who will keep their faces turned toward Him and their eyes fixed on Him. Moses was such a man; David was such a man; Paul was. And God used them mightily to make His will and His way known unto others. God is depending on men and women who have their eyes upon Him, to make known to others His love and the power of salvation. He is not depending upon angels, nor institutions, nor societies, nor literature, nor invention, nor wealth; He is looking for and depending upon men to spread His truth, preach His gospel, make known His love. God will not, God cannot, save the world, the pagan, the heathen world, till men upon whom He is depending get ready to go forth to save for Him.

God is looking for and depending upon men, not ghosts or angels or spirits, to break the bread of life to the hungry and save those who are starving. God did not have to make Himself and His work of grace dependent upon men; but He did do so, of His own volition, of His own wisdom. "I heard the voice of the Lord, saying. Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me." - (Isaiah 6:8).

If that does not "cap the climax" we would like to see the statement that would. The very idea that "God is depending upon men and women" "to make known to others His love and the power of salvation," is preposterous. It is ignorance personified. The idea of a man posing as a teacher, and yet using such language as that, is astonishing, indeed. The very idea that the great Creator and upholder of all material things, the great Sovereign Ruler of the universe, being dependent on poor, weak, puny, insignificant man for anything! The nations of the earth are accounted as the small dust of the balance in His sight, yet He is dependent on some of those small particles to make His love known, and to make known the power of salvation! Lord, pity such ignorance. It must be either ignorance or brazen effrontery.

Then "God will not, God cannot, save the world, the pagan, the heathen world, till men upon whom He is depending get ready to go forth to save for Him." This is nothing less than blasphemy. "With men this is impossible" -impossible to be saved-" but with God all things are possible," says our Lord; but this modern Solomon, blasphemer, and perverter says that with God this is impossible, but with men it is possible! "Let God be true, and every man a liar." Shall we believe what the Lord says, or shall we believe what this perverter says?

As for us, we believe what the Lord said, and we know that this blasphemer has not told the truth concerning the matter. God is not dependent upon men or measures for the salvation of sinners from everlasting ruin. Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners, and He made perfect and complete satisfaction, reconciliation, atonement for the sins of all His people, and He is not depending on puny man for the work of atonement to be effectual. The Holy Spirit regenerates, and God is present everywhere at one and the same time, and is as able to save a sinner in heathendom as He is in America. He can save the sinner as well in one place as another. God looked one time and said that there was none to help. If this modern perverter tells the truth, God lied when He said there was none to help. But God did not lie; He told the truth; and this man has not told the truth. May the Lord pity such men. C. H. C.

Missionary Hope of Salvation

---May 11, 1915

Our Home Mission Board, through its evangelists, missionaries and missionary pastors is keeping the gospel fire burning. Your gifts are a part of the fuel. The gospel of Christ is the only hope of America's safety. America's safety is the greatest hope of the world's salvation.-Sel,

The above is from News and Truths, Murray, Ky., March 31, 1915. We find in this that the gifts from the people are a part of the fuel which keeps their gospel fire burning. We will agree with them that this is true; that the gifts of the people-the money they get by telling the people that the heathen are going to bell for want of the gospel-compose the greater portion of the fuel which keeps their gospel fire burning. We are aware that money is, by far, the greater part of the fire of their discourses and writings.

It is "money, money; give us money, or we die." With them, it is "no money, no gospel." Of course the fire will go out, unless it is supplied with fuel, and as money is the fuel, if money is not supplied, their gospel fire would cease to burn. Well, fox fire never did burn anything. It will scare people sometimes, who are in the dark; and their gospel fox fire has a great tendency to scare people into "getting religion." This may be one reason why they have so many members-perhaps many of them have been scared by their gospel fox fire. Fox fire never shines only in the dark. The shining of their gospel fox fire always stops when it comes in contact with the light of truth.

"America's safety is the greatest hope of the world's salvation." The hope of salvation, according to these fox fire Fullerites, is not in the atoning merits of the blood of Christ, or the work of the Holy Spirit in regeneration, but in America's safety. Poor hope, this. Their hope is very different from that of the apostle." In hope of eternal life, which God, that cannot lie, promised before the world began." -(Titus 1:2). Paul's hope was not based on the safety of America, but on the promise of God. He was depending alone on the Lord. "This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief." -(I Timothy 1:15). This was the apostle's hope of salvation, and it is the only hope of salvation now." Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation received by tradition from your fathers; but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot: who verily was foreordained before the foundation of the world, but was manifest in these last times for you, who by Him do believe in God, that raised Him up from the dead, and gave Him glory; that your faith and hope might be in God." - ((Pet 1:18) (I Peter 1:18-21)

The only hope of salvation is in God, and not in the safety of America. At least, that is where the hope of the child of God is-in God. The redeemed person, who has been born again, knows that he was not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold. All the silver and gold that these money sharks have ever begged from the people, or that they may ever yet beg from them, under the pretext of saving souls from eternal ruin, has never resulted in the eternal salvation of one sinner, and never will cause the salvation of one of the race. C. H. C.

Gill on Romans 7:2-3

---May 11, 1915

Brother E. M. Knighten, of Minden, La., requests us to publish Gill's comments on (Romans 7:2-3), and asks if this harmonises with his comments on (Matthew 19:9) and other such Scriptures. In order to show whether they harmonize or not, we give space for his comments on both passages. The following is on (Romans 7:2-3) "For the woman which hath an husband," etc. The former general rule here illustrated by a particular instance and example in the law of marriage; a woman that is married to a man," is bound by the law to her husband;" to live with him, in subjection and obedience to him, "so long as he liveth;" except in cases of adultery, (Matthew 19:9), and desertion, (I Corinthians 12:15); by which the bond of marriage is loosed, and for which a divorce or separation may be made, which are equal to death: "but if the husband be dead she is loosed from the law of her husband;" the bond of marriage is dissolved, the law of it is abolished, and she is at entire liberty to marry whom she will, ((9) (I Corinthians 7:39).

"So then if while her husband liveth," etc. True indeed it is, that whilst her husband is alive, if" she be married to another man, she shall be called an adulteress;" she will be noted and accounted of as such by everybody, except in the above mentioned cases: "but if her husband be dead," then there can be no exception to her marriage;" she is free from that law;" of marriage by which she was before bound:" "so that she is no adulteress;" nor will any reckon her such; she is clear from any such imputation:" though she be married to another man;" hence it appears that second marriages are lawful.

From the above it is evident that Gill here makes an exception from Paul's language in Corinthians-that if the unbelieving wife departs, then the believing husband is at liberty to marry another woman. It is clear to our minds that the apostle meant no such thing, for he said in the same chapter, in a preceding verse, "let them be reconciled." If the believing husband marries another woman after the unbelieving wife has left him, he places himself in a position which renders reconciliation impossible. We know that the apostle did not thus contradict himself, especially in the same chapter. Besides, our Lord makes no such provision. The only provision our Saviour makes whereby one may put away the companion and marry again is for fornication.

Here is what Gill says on (Matthew 19:9) "Whosoever shall put away his wife;" separate her from his person, house, and bed, and dismiss her as his wife, no more to be considered in that relation to him," except it be for fornication;" or whoredom, for defiling his bed: for this is not to be understood of fornication committed before, but of uncleanness after marriage, which destroys them being one flesh: "and shall marry another" woman" committeth adultery;" Mark adds, "against her;" which may be understood either of the woman he marries, which not being lawfully done, she lives in adultery with another woman's husband; of his former wife, and to whose injury he has married another; and he not only commits adultery himself, but, as in (Matthew 5:32) "causeth her to commit adultery" also, by being the occasion of marrying another man, when she is still his lawful wife; "and whoso marrieth her which is put away," for any other cause than adultery," doth commit adultery" also; since he cohabits with another man's wife. In this comment on (Matthew 19:9) Gill places the only construction which can be placed upon the Saviour's language. The apostle does not contradict the Saviour. C. H. C.

Close Communion

---May 18, 1915

J. A. Tomlin, Franklin, Tenn., has written us that he likes our doctrine, but cannot see into the "close communion" of the church. We have often remarked that our people do not practice close communion. We are aware that our practice on the communion question is called that; but it is not communion that we are "close" on- it is baptism upon which we are "close." We will commune with any member of our church who is in good standing and good order at home, no matter where his home is. But we do not commune with those who are not members of our own order. In order to become a member of the Primitive Baptist Church, one must be baptized by a Primitive Baptist minister-one who has been authorized to administer baptism for the Primitive Baptists. Those thus baptized break bread (commune) together. See (Acts 2:41-42). Only those who had been baptized broke bread. Those who had been baptized did not break bread with those who had not been baptized. We practice that yet. This one text is enough to show that our people are right on the communion question. Much could be written on the question, but our space is limited, and we have to be brief. C. H. C.

Heathen Souls

---May 18, 1915

In the words of Pastor Gossner: "Believe, hope, love, pray, burn, waken the dead! Hold fast by prayer; wrestle like Jacob! Up, up, my brethren! The Lord is coming: and to everyone He will say: 'Where hast thou left the soul of these heathen? With the devil? O, swiftly seek these souls, and enter not without them into the possession of the Lord.'"

The above appeared in the News and Truths, Murray, Ky., of March 31, 1915, from the pen of A. B. Simpson. We would like to know who can tell what these Fullerites believe. At one time they will claim to believe that salvation is altogether by grace, without creature effort or merit, and at another time they pose as soul savers, set aside the blood of Christ and the work of the Holy Spirit in the eternal salvation of poor lost souls. It depends upon where they are as to what they say, or upon what they are trying to do-at least, it seems so. If they are in combat with Campbellites, they are great sticklers for salvation by grace.

If they are endeavoring to raise some funds for the so-called mission business, then the whole responsibility for the salvation of souls-especially the heathen-rests upon the people here who have a few dimes saved from their hard earnings. We wonder how this man ever found out that the Lord would demand, or say, "Where hast thou left the souls of these heathen? With the devil?" There is no intimation of such a thing in God's Book. It is no better than the devil's own invention. It is for no other object than to humbug the people, and to get their hard earned dollars under the false pretense of saving souls. These people evidently think that the Lord cannot save sinners, and that He has committed the work into their hands.

The prophet must have seen some of their claims and works by revelation and inspiration from God for he describes them very plainly: "Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither His ear heavy, that it cannot hear; but your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid His face from you, that He will not hear. For your hands are defiled with blood, and your fingers with iniquity; your lips have spoken lies, your tongue hath muttered perverseness. None calleth for justice, nor any pleadeth for truth: they trust in vanity, and speak lies; they conceive mischief, and bring forth iniquity. They hatch cockatrice eggs, and weave the spider's web: he that eateth of their eggs dieth, and that which is crushed breaketh out into a viper. Their webs shall not become garments, neither shall they cover themselves with their works: their works are works of iniquity, and the act of violence is in their hands. Their feet run to evil, and they make haste to shed innocent blood: their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity; wasting and destruction are in their paths. The way of peace they know not; and there is no judgment in their goings: they have made them crooked paths: whosoever goeth therein shall not know peace." -Isaiah lix. 1 to 8. But the Lord is not dependent on these "soul-savers" for the salvation of sinners. He accepts of none of their help. The Lord saves them without the help of man." Who is this that cometh from Edom, with dyed garments from Bosrah? this that is glorious in His apparel, traveling in the greatness of His strength? I that speak in righteousness, mighty to save. Wherefore art thou red in thine apparel, and thy garments like him that treadeth in the winefat? I have trodden the winepress alone; and of the people there was none with me: for I will tread them in mine anger, and trample them in my fury; and their blood shall be sprinkled upon my garments, and I will stain all my raiment. For the day of vengeance is in mine heart, and the year of my redeemed is come. And I looked, and there was none to help; and I wondered that there was none to uphold: therefore mine own arm brought salvation unto me; and my fury, it upheld me. And I will tread down the people in mine anger, and make them drunk in my fury, and I will bring down their strength to the earth." -((63:1) (Isaiah 63:1-6). C. H. C.

Princeton and Billy Sunday

---May 18, 1915

Brother P. L. Combs, of Farmersburg, Ind., sent us the following clipping from the Literary Digest for April 24, 1915, which we reproduce without comment. Comment is unnecessary. The authorities of Princeton University refused to invite Mr. Sunday to hold services for the benefit of the students, and Professor West's objections to him are stated in the following clipping. We commend the stand taken by the authorities of Princeton University. It is a pity that all others do not take a like stand. C. H. C.

1. In matters of religion there is only one standard for Christians, and that standard is our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. I gladly admit that Mr. Sunday means to be evangelical in his statements. But many of his utterances are, to put it mildly, not Christlike, and some of them are travesties of the teaching of Christ. Take the following samples, less vulgar than many others, which are both a caricature and a perversion of one of the most sacred scenes in the New Testament: "Mary was one of those sort of unneedabiscuit, peanut butter, gelatin, and pimento sort of women. "Martha was a beefsteak, baked potato, applesauce with lemon and nutmeg, coffee and whipped cream, apple pie and cheese sort of women. "So you can have your pick, but I speak for Martha. So the churches have a lot of Marthas and a lot of Marys-merely benchwarmers. Hurrah for Martha!" "So Martha was getting dinner and poked her head in the door where Mary was sitting and said:" Mary, carest thou not that I serve alone?" Wouldn't it make you tired if you were doing all the work and had your hands all over dough and sweat rolling off as you cooked the potatoes, if your big, lazy sister was sitting doing nothing? Then Jesus said: "Tut, tut, Martha, thou carest for too many little things." Take another and worse instance, where Christ in prayer is turned to a jesting use: "And as he prayed the fashion of his countenance was altered. Ladies, do you want to look pretty? If some of you women would spend less on dope, pasassa, and cold cream, and get down on your knees and pray, God would make you prettier." Very funny, no doubt: and very blasphemous.

2. At times Mr. Sunday is irreverently familiar toward God. This appears clearly in the scene at his Philadelphia meeting on January 8:

"Why, if I thought I could get any nearer God by kneeling or get nearer to Him by taking off my coat, I'd do it." Here Sunday suited the action to the word and tore his coat from his back. Seizing it by the collar in his right hand, he swung it around to lend emphasis to his utterances.

Here is another sample: "When I am at heaven's gates I'll be free from old Philly's blood. I can see now the day of judgment, when the question of Philadelphia and of me is taken up by God." You were down in Philly, weren't you Billy? The Lord will ask me. "And I'll say to Him, Yes, sir, Lord, I was there. Did you give them my message of salvation, Billy?" I gave them your message, Lord. I gave it to them the best way I could and as I understood it. You get the files of the Philadelphia papers. They printed my sermons, Lord. You'll see in them what I preached, will be my answer.

"And the Lord will say, Come on in, Bill; you're free from Philadelphia's blood." Turning to the Bible as exemplar, Prof. West declares that "there is no place in that book for swaggering impiety." "Enter not into judgment with thy servant, O Lord, is the right attitude of soul in the presence of God." The professor goes on to charge that "many of Mr. Sunday's remarks are personally abusive, or disgusting, or slanderous."

Here are citations: "If a woman on the avenue plays a game of cards in her home, she is worse than any blackleg gambler in the slums." If a minister believes and teaches evolution, he is a stinking skunk, a hypocrite, and a liar.

"If I were the wife of some of you men, I'd refuse to clean your old spittoons. I say let every hog clean his own trough." Your wife has as good a right to line up before a bar and fill up her skin with the hoggut you do as you have."

The statements that are "plainly indecent" are "fortunately few," remarks the professor, but the following he thinks should be read with the thought in mind that they are "the words of a professed minister of the gospel of Christ spoken at a religious service:" "I can understand why young bloods go for dancing, but some of you old ginks-good night." Ma and I stopped in to look at a ball at an inauguration ceremony. Well, I will be hornswaggled if I didn't see a woman there dancing with all the men, and she wore a collar of her gown around her waist. She had a little corset on, Oh, I can't describe it, "You stand there and watch man after man as he claims her hand, and put his name on her list. Perhaps that fellow was her lover and you won her hand-and you stand and watch your wife folded in his long, voluptuous, sensual embrace, their bodies swaying one against the other, their limbs twining and entwining, her head resting on his breast, they breathe the vitiated air beneath the glittering candelabra, and the spell of the music, and you stand there and tell me there is no harm in it! You're too low down for me.

"I want to see the color of some buck's hair that can dance with my wife! I'm going to monopolize that hugging myself." Then Herodias came in and danced with her foot stuck out to a quarter of 12, and old Herod said: 'Sis, you're a peach. You can have anything you want, even to the half of my kingdom. She hiked off to her licentious mother."

Professor West closes in these words: "Every passage quoted in this article is taken from the official copyrighted report of Mr. Sunday's Philadelphia addresses, published with his sanction in the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph during January and February. Their accuracy cannot be questioned. It is true that these quotations are not the main stock and substance of his addresses, but some of the occasional ornaments, giving what is called punch to his discourses. They are things of the sort singled out for special separate printing in The Evening Telegraph, often in large type, as 'jolts. So they are.

"So in the name of decency and of the purity and sanctity of our Christian faith, Princeton University positively refuses to approve Mr. Sunday's performances as suitable for the edification of our students. In times of hysterical excitement we think it our right and duty to stand firm against all inflammatory moboratory in whatever field it may appear." For his quiet and sensible stand in this matter President Hibben deserves the thanks of all friends of education and religion.

A Debate

---May 25, 1915

Beginning on Tuesday, June 29, we will hold a four days debate at Headland, Ala., with W. T. Goalen, a Campbellite. The discussion will continue during Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, June 29 and 30, and July 1 and 2.

We have agreed to stay at the church near Headland and be with them on the first Sunday in July and Saturday before, after the debate closes. C. H. C.

Luke 16:19-31

---May 25, 1915

J. Rod Hilliard, of Goldston, N. C, requests our views on the "rich man and Lazarus," account of which is found in (Luke 16:19-31). He asks, "What hell is the rich man in?" Our opinion is that the rich man represented the Jews and Lazarus represented the Gentiles. During the law dispensation the rich man (Jews) fared sumptuously every day. They had the law and the prophets. The oracles of God were committed unto them. The Gentiles were poor, and were called dogs by the Jews. "The dogs came and licked his sores." "It is not meet to give the children's bread to the dogs." "Truth, Lord, but the dogs eat of the crumbs that fall from their master's table."

Hell is torment. The rich man had his good time during the law dispensation, but he is now in torment. The Jews are in torment, and are scattered over the earth, and have been ever since the destruction of the city of Jerusalem. The Gentiles have been carried to Abraham, and are resting in his bosom. They are now enjoying the blessings of the same faith which Abraham had. They are enjoying the blessings of the gospel, while the Jews are deprived of those blessings. C. H. C.

"Pastor" Russell

---May 25, 1915

A brother recently sent us a clipping from the Commercial Appeal, of Memphis, Tenn., giving a synopsis of one of the sermons of that modern religious humbug. The best class of newspapers are now refusing to publish his sermons. The brother asked us to copy the article and comment on the same. We are too crowded for space to give room for such humbugs as Russell. It seems to us that his miracle wheat deal is enough to convince any honest man that there is nothing to Mr. Russell.

We suppose he would be glad to know that there is no place of future punishment, called hell. We presume that he is such a man that it is not likely that he will escape that place, if there is such a place. That is the kind of fruit he seems to manifest. We suppose he would be glad to know that there is no such place, as the way for some people to escape it is for no such a place to exist. Russell's teachings cannot be true in the face of facts set forth in a little pamphlet we have published bearing the title, "General Judgment and Eternal Hell." The price is only ten cents for a single copy; 12 copies, $1; 100 copies, $5. Get a lot of them and circulate them among those who are being led into Russellism. C. H. C.
Note-The little pamphlet is now out of print.

All Infants Saved

---May 25, 1915

On another page of this paper will be found a letter and experience of a sister in Christ whose name is not given. In the letter she asks us this question: "Are the nonelect infants who die lost?" We would say to the sister, first, that this question supposes that there are some nonelect who die in infancy. Please remember, dear sister, that this can be only a supposition -that one dies in infancy who is not one of the elect. Now, let us say that God's elect are all saved. Those who are not of God's elect are not saved.

Then, if all who die in infancy are saved, it necessarily follows that all who die in infancy are of the elect of God. Then the question would necessarily be, Are all those saved who die in infancy? To this we would most emphatically say, YES. Then, we say that those not of God's elect do not die in infancy. Those who die in infancy are embraced in the number of God's elect, and all of God's elect are saved; hence, all that die in infancy are saved.

In ((0:15) (Mark 10:15)), the Saviour says: "Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein." You must receive the kingdom of God just as a little child receives it, or you shall not receive it at all. If you receive the kingdom of God as a little child, and a little child misses it, then you will miss it, too. If one of the adult family of Adam's race receives the kingdom of God, then every little child receives it. Not only is this true, but the language carries with it the very idea that a little child receives the kingdom of God-not simply that one special little child receives it, but A LITTLE CHILD.

That expression embraces every little child. It is therefore true that everyone who dies in infancy is saved. We would, therefore, say to the sister that she may be assured, from the language of our blessed Saviour, that her little child is now, in spirit, resting in the presence of God and enjoying the glories of heaven. We would also say that the sister, in her letter, certainly expresses the very breathing and desire of the heaven born soul. She certainly expresses the desire which springs from the renewed heart. We certainly believe that she is a child of God, and that heaven will be her home when she is done with the sorrows and heartaches of this life. We have taken the liberty of publishing her letter as well as her experience, trusting that she will not object. May the Lord continue to bless her, and lead her to a full understanding of His truth, and enable her by His grace to walk in the right way, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Atonement

---May 25, 1915

Elder C. H. Cayce:

Dear Friend and Brother, I Hope-I do not belong to any church, but am a strong believer in salvation by grace and grace alone. At times I feel like I want to go home to my friends (the Primitive Baptists) and tell them what I hope the Lord has done for me, as I believe they are the true church of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, but I am too sinful to be which such good people. Brother Cayce, please answer the following questions for me through your paper: Did Christ atone for the sins that His people commit after regeneration? Second, Is it the child of God that commits the unpardonable sin? Your friend, Andie Presnell. Rominger, N. C.
OUR REPLY

Yes, Christ atoned for all the sins of all His people, whether those sins be by word, thought, or deed. It is true that those who have been born of God are chastised for their disobedience, but suffering chastisement does not make atonement. If you have a child who violates the law, and the child is arrested and fined, you would chastise the child for his wrong, but that would not satisfy the law. You would pay the fine, and thus satisfy the law; but you would not allow the child to go unpunished. You would chastise the child.

So Christ has satisfied the law, or made atonement, for all the sins of all His people; but when they transgress the Lord's commandments they are chastised for the same. In answer to the second question we say, most emphatically, NO. God's people are not in danger of eternal damnation, but those who commit what is called the unpardonable sin are. See ((29) (Mark 3:29)). C. H. C.

Matthew 25:14-30

---June 1, 1915

Brother Oscar Campbell, Isabell, III, requests our views of the parable of the talents, as recorded in (Matthew 25:14-30). It is not necessary to take up space to quote the verses here. Get your Bible and read them. We have space to offer only a few remarks. There are three servants. One received five talents; another received two, and another received one. Each servant was given talents according to his ability.

The servant who received five talents had ability to improve five. The servant who received two talents had ability to improve two. The servant who received one talent had ability to improve one. Two of the servants used the ability which had been given them; for the Lord had certainly given them the ability which they possessed. The ability which the Lord's people have is the ability which He has given them.

The other servant did not use the ability, but abused it, and hid his Lord's money (the talent) in the earth. He was a wicked and slothful servant. Many of the Lord's children are slothful. We are commanded to "Be not slothful in business." We are often too slothful in the business the Lord requires. The Lord comes to reckon with His servants, and those who are faithful receive blessings from His hand, and those who are slothful are cast into outer darkness. He withdraws the manifestations of His presence from them, and they are left to grope in darkness. They have to suffer the chastening rod for their disobedience. These are some of our thoughts in connection with this parable. C. H. C.

1 Corinthians 14:34,35 AND 1 Timothy 2:9-12

---June 1, 1915

Brother F. M. Thornton, of Primrose, Ga., asks our views on (I Corinthians 14:34-35), and (I Timothy 2:9-12). The first text reads, "Let your women keep silent in the churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak; but they are commanded to be under obedience, as also saith the law. And if they will learn anything, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is a shame for women to speak in the church." The other text reads, "In like manner also, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefacedness and sobriety; not with braided hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly array; but (which becometh women professing godliness) with good works.

Let the women learn in silence with all subjection. But I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence." It seems to us that the language of the apostle recorded in these two places concerning a woman speaking in public is as plain as can be. We do not know how such a practice could be condemned in stronger terms. It is a plain command in the first text to "let your women keep silence in the churches." No one having regard for Holy Writ can say, in the face of this text, that it is Scriptural or right for a woman to preach, or to make a speech in church.

For a woman to do that is to simply flagrantly transgress this plain and positive command. No true church would, or should, tolerate it. From the teaching of the second text it is also plain and clear that the costly array, fine jewelry, and outward adornments worn nowadays by many women professing to be followers of the meek and lowly Nazarene, is very unbecoming the women professing godliness. Such costly and brilliant array is invented by the prostitutes, and comes from the slums, and then professing Christian women follow the examples coming from such persons and places. It is a shame and a disgrace to Christianity. We do not mean to advocate the idea, either, that one should be droll and dirty. One may pride himself in drollery as well as in costly array. Either extreme is wrong. The true followers of the lowly Jesus should try to be neat and clean. They can be clean, if they try. And they should try to wear clothing that is neat-not loud nor gaudy on the one hand, nor droll on the other hand. It is wicked and sinful to wear costly jewelry and dress, while so many of our fellowmen, and especially so many of the Lord's dear children, are in want-many of them having to go hungry for lack of food, and in winter many of them suffering for want of fuel and clothing.

If we are guilty, we may rest assured that the Lord will not let us escape the severity of His punishments. We may think that we are able to dodge the law, but we are only deceiving ourselves. The Lord does not reverse His law, nor allow the guilty to go unpunished. Sooner or later we will be overtaken, and the Lord's wrath will be poured out upon us. Some have said that the apostle was a woman hater, and that this is the reason of his penning the language here quoted from him. This kind of language will do very well for an infidel or for a blasphemer, but does not become a believer in the Lord. This language was written by inspiration as much as any other expression in the Book. It is God's will concerning the matter made known to us in His Book. There is only one way for the church of Christ and the meek and humble followers of the Lord to do in the matter, and that is to observe the teaching and follow the same. C. H. C.

News and Truths

---June 8, 1915

Hon. Rt. Rev. H. B. Taylor, of Murray, Ky., in his little sheet called News and Truths, rants at us for what we said some time ago concerning these so-called soul savers. He devotes a whole page to us in the issue of May 26. But the pages are very small. What he says amounts to but little. He succeeds very well in showing lack of ability to answer, and displays ability to blow and sling mud. He may be a fair sample of some of his cult. C. H. C.

1 Corinthians 15:22

---June 8, 1915

Sister Mollie Buttrey, of Burns, Tenn., requests our views of this text which reads, "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." The next verse says, "But every man in his own order: Christ the firstfruits; afterward they that are Christ's at His coming." Sister Buttrey says that some of the Baptist believers have some dispute regarding this text, and that some hold the all who are made alive in Christ are the same all who die in Adam, and "that the devil had a people from the beginning, and that the devil's people never fell in Adam. Now if the devil had a people from the beginning, that would be Two-Seed doctrine, one of Christ and one of the devil!" They are right in saying that the all who die in Adam, as mentioned in this text, are the same who are made alive in Christ.

In this chapter the apostle is treating upon the subject of the resurrection of the bodies of the saints. The others are not mentioned in this chapter at all. Besides, the text does not say "As in Adam all died," but "As in Adam all DIE." The whole race of Adam died in him when he transgressed God's law in the garden, and in that respect, or in that particular, they do not die now, but are already dead in that respect; but the text says die. The people under consideration are dying now-every day. This is a physical or corporeal death that the apostle is here talking about, and a deliverance therefrom. He is treating upon the resurrection of the bodies of the saints.

They all die in Adam, and they shall be made alive in Christ. Christ was the firstfruits. He is coming again to gather His jewels home; hence, "Afterward they that are Christ's at His coming." This is the order. Christ's people are all that are mentioned in this text. They shall all be made alive in Christ, notwithstanding the fact that they die in Adam. Their bodies may lie in the dust for a million of years, yet they shall be made alive in Christ at His coming. All the race of Adam are alike by nature; they all possess a nature that is poisoned with sin. But God made choice of some of them to eternal life, that they should be redeemed by Christ and regenerated by the Holy Spirit, and finally saved in heaven, soul, body, and spirit.

Christ died for them and redeemed them; satisfied the law in their behalf. The Holy Spirit regenerates them; and at the death of the body the spirit goes to God, where it rests until the last day. Then the Saviour will return to earth again-not as a sin bearer, but to gather together the bodies of His saints. In that day the Lord Himself will descend from heaven and awaken the nations under ground, and the bodies of the Lord's people will all be raised in the image and in the likeness of the risen body of the Saviour; they shall all be changed from natural bodies to spiritual bodies. This mortal shall have put on immortality. The grave will be swallowed up in victory. There will then be no more pain, sickness, sin and death, but an eternal day of love, joy, peace, and happiness in the presence of God, where His people shall all see Him as He is and be like Him. C. H. C.

The Word

---June 15, 1915

We wish to offer just a few remarks on one thing in the above, not simply to differ from Brother Fisher, nor to open a controversy, but to call attention to a fact, which is this: The word which John says was in the beginning with God, and was God, and was made flesh, was the logos word. Logos is the Greek word John uses, and he says the logos was made flesh. In (Romans 10:17) "So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God," the "word" here is rama, not logos. But it is the rama of God-the speech of God.

Rama means speech. It also often contains the idea of power. Hence it is by the power of God's speech that one receives or possesses hearing. God speaks and thereby gives the ability to hear. "The dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God." This gives life and ability to hear. Then when they hear gospel preaching after that work has been done for them, it begets a belief of the truth, a belief of the doctrine of God our Saviour-a gospel faith. We do not offer these remarks for controversy, but for the consideration of Brother Fisher, as well as all our readers.
C. H. C

Mark 16:16-18

---June 15, 1915

Brother J. T. McCool, of Reform, Ala., requests our views of ((6) (Mark 16:16-18), which reads, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that beieveth not shall be damned. And these signs shall follow them that believe; In my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover." This language follows the command of the Saviour to the eleven to "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature."

Then those who believe your preaching and obey the same (" He that beieveth and is baptized") shall be saved. They will be saved from false teaching, from false practice, and from false ways. They shall be saved from an untoward generation into the church of Christ." And these signs shall follow them that believe; In my name shall they cast out devils," etc. These things shall be signs that I have sent these men as apostles; these things shall be signs that I have sent these men under this command to "go into all the world," etc. ((20) (Mark 16:20) says," And they went forth, and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them, and confirming the word with signs following."

The apostles did all the things enumerated as the signs which should follow. No other persons have ever been able to do those things. No other persons, therefore, were ever under that command. He spoke directly to the eleven, and said unto them-the eleven-" Go YE." It was a part of the office work of Christ to send His apostles out, and He sent them; and they performed the miracles enumerated as signs that He did send them. Since that day it has been the office work of the Holy Spirit to call and send out ministers of the New Testament. The Holy Ghost makes them overseers of the flock; and they are not to preach for filthy lucre. A man who will not preach without the salary gives little evidence that he is called by the Holy Spirit. C. H. C.

1 Corinthians 15:29

---June 15, 1915

Brother George J. Dame, of Sacramento, Ky. requests our views of (I Corinthians 15:29), which reads, "Else what shall they do which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? why are they then baptized for the dead?" To our mind this text teaches that baptism is a figure or representation of a burial and a resurrection. In baptism we say that we believe in the resurrection of the dead, because it is a representation of a burial and a resurrection. In this chapter the apostle is dwelling upon the doctrine of the resurrection of the bodies of the saints, and in this verse he points out the fact that baptism is a representation of a burial and a resurrection. Now why do we baptize that way, if the dead rise not?

The language, therefore, proves that baptism is a complete immersion—a burial—and it also proves the doctrine of the resurrection of the body. When one is baptized, he is serving God, or else he is serving Satan. If he is serving God, and God accepts the service, then he must be rendering that service from a principle of love. If he is rendering the service from a principle of love, then he has already been born of God, for "Every one that loveth is born of God." (I John 4:7). When we baptize one, we baptize the body.

We do not baptize spirits. Then, if one is serving God in being baptized, and it is the body that is baptized, then the person baptized serves God in body. The body certainly engages in this service. We should be careful to avoid extremes. It is an easy matter to get into an extreme, or into an error. C. H. C.

Hebrews 10:26-27

---June 29, 1915

On another page of this paper will be found a request for our views on ((0:26) (Hebrews 10:26-27). The text reads, "For if we sin willfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins, but a certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries." If we consider the next two verses in connection with these they may throw some light on these. ((0:28) (Hebrews 10:28-29) reads, "He that despised Moses' law died without mercy under two or three witnesses: of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace?"

To our mind, this language teaches that the child of God may sin against light and knowledge. If one knows the truth, and has been given to see where the true church is, and yet remains out of the church, and out of duty, he is sinning willfully; he is sinning against light and knowledge. He has no excuse for his sins or rebellion. "There remaineth no more sacrifice for sins." There is "a certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation." He has a guilty conscience. Worry and trouble will be his lot. He will have an almost continual dread. He will probably spend many sleepless nights. There will be a continual dread on his mind all the time.

It was a fact that under the law dispensation, the transgressor was killed under the testimony of two or three witnesses. There was no excuse or mercy under the law. That being true, "Of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace?"

To sin against light and knowledge now; to refuse to walk in the commandments of the Lord under the gospel; to refuse to obey what little the Lord requires of His children, is to tread the Son of God under foot; it is to count the blood of the covenant an unholy thing, and is to do despite unto the Spirit of grace. One who does this is worthy of punishment worse than death. We say "what little the Lord requires of His children." We do not mean that there is only a little for them to do, but that it is a little in comparison with what He has done for them. There is plenty to do-enough to keep us busy. If we would all put in our time doing what the Lord requires of us, and not put in so much time trying to do what He has not commanded, we would be kept busy enough. We would have less time to bite and devour each other. We would have less time to be finding fault with our brethren, and making them "an offender for a word." There are some things worse than death; and the Lord sometimes visits His children with punishment that is worse than death for their disobedience. We have an idea that Brother Carnell has been enduring some of that punishment. We would kindly advise and admonish all such characters to deny themselves, take up their cross, and walk in humble obedience to the Master, and thereby find sweet rest that they are so much longing for. C. H. C.

Won't Let God

---July 20, 1915

We are in receipt of a letter from Brother W. M. Humphreys, of Mesquite, Texas, in which he says: "I heard a so-called preacher assert in a sermon a short time ago that the reason God did not save the sinners of Mesquite was because they would not let Him. Please state in The Primitive Baptist what you think of such preaching." It would be hard for us to find language to express just what we think of such preaching as that. It is no better than blasphemy. It is ignorance personified. The very idea that a sinner, a poor, little, insignificant particle of all God's creation will not let God save him! And yet God made all created things, and upholds all created things by the word of His own power, and is able to blot them all out of existence in the twinkling of an eye! For one to say that a small particle of all that creation will not let God save him, is to display his ignorance more than anything else would, Perhaps the sinners of Mesquite will not let God damn them, either. If they are able to prevent God saving them, and will not let Him do that, then they may also be able to keep God from damning them, and they may not let Him do that, either. They may not let God either save them or damn them. Poor god! This is the Arminian god, but not the God of the Bible. The God of the Bible is able to save, but the Arminian god cannot save. C. H. C.

Regeneration

---November 16, 1915

We have been urgently requested, and we promised some time ago, to write an article on the subject of regeneration. There seems to be much misunderstanding among the brethren on the question in some sections of the country, and we are of the opinion that there is no real or material difference among the brethren on that question. We think that some have become unduly alarmed, and are simply confused, and do not, perhaps, understand each other. But we will state our views just as we have always tried to preach, and just as we have ever believed since we have had a name among the Old Baptists. What we have tried to preach on the question has never caused trouble among them that we have ever heard of. The Saviour says, in (John 3:3), "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." The word man is translated from a word which means anyone. Hence, "Except anyone be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." The word again is translated from a word which means from above. Hence, "Except anyone be born from above, he cannot see the kingdom of God." The word man, or the word anyone, simply refers to the race-except anyone of the race of Adam be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. One must be born from above in order to that end. It is the sinner of Adam's race that is the subject of the new birth.

It is not some kind of spirit, or eternal child, that comes down and takes up its abode in the Adam man, and remains in him until the Adam man dies and then goes back to heaven where it came from, thus leaving the Adam man out of the benefits of salvation. In (John 3:6) the Saviour says, "That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit."

By the expression, "That which is born of the flesh is flesh," the Saviour does not mean to teach that the person born of the flesh is nothing more than a lump of flesh, for the Scriptures abundantly teach that man is a complex being—a being composed of soul, body, and spirit. He simply meant the same that is abundantly taught elsewhere, that in the natural birth the person partakes of the nature of the natural parentage. In creation, God gave a fixed and immutable law, that everything partakes of the nature of that from which it springs; and the Saviour teaches that great truth in that expression. Even so, in the expression, "That which is born of the Spirit is spirit," He teaches the great truth that in being born of the heavenly parentage one partakes of the nature of that parentage.

This language also teaches that as the first birth is natural, the second birth is spiritual. Regeneration is a spiritual work. As it is a spiritual work, it is accomplished or performed by the work of the Spirit of God upon the spirit of the man. The Spirit of God does not operate on the body in regeneration, but on the spirit of the man. The work of regeneration makes the sinner a partaker of the divine nature. See (II Peter 1:3-4): "According as His divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge of Him that hath called us to glory and virtue: whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust."

The work of regeneration is an inward work. See (Philippians 1:6) "Being confident of this very thing, that He which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ." This does not mean that regeneration is a progressive work, or that the Lord begins regeneration and completes it later on, for it is an instantaneous work. But he does mean that the work of the Holy Spirit, the Third Person in the Holy Trinity, in the salvation of the sinner, is begun in regeneration, and will be carried on to perfection. It was the work of Christ, the Second Person in the Trinity, to make atonement, and He carried that work on to perfection. No part of it was left undone. Even so, no part of the work of the Holy Spirit will be left undone, and it is the work of the Holy Spirit to bring in all the heirs of promise, and it was the work of Christ to make atonement for them.

In the work of regeneration, the sinner is given a new heart. He is not given a new lump of flesh which we call the heart, but he is given a new seat of affection, for the heart is the seat of affection. In a state of unregeneracy, the heart is wicked and deceitful. See (9) (Jeremiah 17:9) "The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked: who can know it?" Without the operation of the Spirit of God, the Spirit shining in the heart, no one can know the wickedness and deceitfulness of his heart; but the light of the Holy Spirit shining in the heart, makes the wickedness of the heart known to the sinner in whose heart the Spirit is thus shining.

Without this operation of the Spirit in the heart no one knows, or can know, the Lord. But the Lord gives a heart to know Him. See (Jeremiah 24:7) "And I will give them an heart to know me, that I am the Lord: and they shall be my people, and I will be their God: for they shall return unto me with their whole heart." The Lord gives the sinner a heart to know Him. In a state of unregeneracy the sinner has a stony heart; but the Lord takes away the stony heart and gives a heart of flesh. See ((9) (Ezekiel 11:19-20) "And I will give them one heart, and I will put a new spirit within you; and I will take the stony heart out of their flesh, and will give them an heart of flesh: that they may walk in my statutes, and keep mine ordinances, and do them: and they shall be my people, and I will be their God."

The stony heart is not susceptible of spiritual feeling or emotion, but the Lord gives a heart of flesh, which is susceptible of spiritual emotion. With this new heart, which makes the sinner a child of God, he hates sin; he loathes sin; he abhors unrighteousness, and longs to be free from sin, and to be pure and holy as Jesus is. The fact that one begins to hate sin, and to long to be free from it, and to be pure, and holy, and righteous, as Jesus is, is evidence that the Lord has given him a heart of flesh. It is proof of the inward work of grace. To take a man's heart out of him is to kill the man. A gentleman once said to us concerning this matter: "Cayce, you know that will never do! The very idea of taking a man's heart out of him! You have sense enough to know that this would kill the man right now!"

We replied that we were aware of the fact that it would kill the man to take his heart out of him; but that this is the very first thing the Lord does for the sinner in the work of regeneration-it is to kill him. Hence, the apostle says, (Romans 6:11) "Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord." The Lord kills to the love of sin, and makes alive to the love of holiness. See (Deuteronomy 32:39) "See now that I, even I, am He, and there is no god with me: I kill, and I make alive; I wound, and I heal: neither is there any that can deliver out of my hand." As the sinner is thus killed to sin, and to the love of it, he does not then love sin as he once did. He loves holiness and righteousness as he once did not.

In the work of regeneration, the Lord puts His Spirit within them. He gives them a new spirit. He gives them a new heart -a heart of flesh. See ((26) (Ezekiel 36:26-27) "A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you: and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh, and I will give you a heart of flesh. And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments, and do them." This brings about a great change in the sinner. He is no longer an unregenerate sinner, but a saved sinner, a sinner who has been born from above. It is accomplished by the operation of the Spirit of God in the heart, in the spirit or in the soul, of the sinner; and this makes the sinner a child of God. The work is not accomplished by the work of the Spirit on the body, for the Spirit does not operate on the body.

When we were a boy we heard an old preacher in this country use an expression which was amusing to us then. The quaintness and peculiarity of the illustration caused us to remember it. Since then we have been enabled to see more in it than the mere quaintness of it. He said: "The grace of God in the heart of the sinner is like grease in a gourd. You may put grease in a gourd, and it will soak through and show on the outside. So the grace of God in the heart cannot be hid; it will show on the outside."

There is much in this illustration. According to modern theology, if you put grease on the outside of a gourd, it would soak through to the inside; but it will not do so. If you rub grease on the outside of a gourd it will not soak through to the inside. Modern theologians seem to teach that the grace of God on the outside of the sinner will soak through to the inside. This is the reverse of the truth. The truth is that the grace of God implanted in the heart (put on the inside) by the work of the Holy Spirit, will soak through and show on the outside. This work of the Spirit will manifest itself in some way in the life of the recipient of it.

It makes known to him the fact that he is a sinner in the sight of God, and thus he is made to mourn on account of sin. He is brought low, at the foot-stool of God's sovereign grace and mercy, and made to plead for mercy—just what he realizes he must have if ever permitted to see God in peace. But the grease put in the gourd does not take away the old nature which it had, but the grease soaking through and showing itself on the outside makes manifest that something has been done on the inside.

There is another nature now permeating the gourd, and the two natures may both be seen in the same gourd. Even so, the grace of God in the heart of the sinner, implanted there in the work of regeneration, does not take away the old nature which he had, but it gives him another nature; and both natures may sometimes be seen manifested in the person. These two natures are contrary, the one to the other. This causes the warfare in the child of God; and this warfare will continue as long as he stays on earth.

This work of regeneration brings the sinner out from under the law of sin and death. The atonement of Christ satisfied that law, and regeneration brings the sinner out from under it and places him under another law. He is then under law to Christ. See (I Corinthians 9:21): "To them that are without law, as without law, (being not without law to God, but under the law to Christ,) that I might gain them that are without law." This brings him under obligation to render service to the Master. He is under law or obligation to Christ, because he has been made a child of God by the operation of the Holy Spirit in his heart or soul.

The unregenerate are in a state which the apostle calls in the flesh. The child of God is not in that condition, but is in the Spirit. See (Romans 8:8-9): "So then they that are in the flesh cannot please God. But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His." The child of God is not in the flesh in the same sense that the unregenerate sinner is, for he possesses the Spirit of Christ; and he is, therefore, said by the apostle to be in the Spirit. It is true that he still has the same old nature that he had before; and he may follow the inclinations of that old nature, and thereby fail to receive and enjoy the blessings which the obedient child receives and enjoys.

Hence, the apostle says, in (Romans 8:12-13): "Therefore, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh. For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live." The child of God should not follow after the flesh, or the inclinations of the old sinful nature; but he should follow after the Spirit; he should through the Spirit mortify the deeds of the body; he should follow after the inclinations of that divine nature which has been implanted in his heart or spirit; and in doing this he receives the approving smiles of the Saviour; by doing this he enjoys blessings which he would not otherwise enjoy.

A wonderful change is wrought in the sinner in the work of regeneration. Saul of Tarsus was a great man in his own estimation before regeneration. In those days names meant some thing. His name was Saul, and that name meant great. He was a Pharisee of the Pharisees. He was indeed a great man from a worldly point of view, in regard to worldly wisdom, or worldly attainments. He was not only great from that standpoint, but he was great in his own estimation; he was a self-righteous Pharisee. But while he was on his way from Jerusalem to Damascus with letters of authority to bind and cast in prison those who were calling on the name of the Lord, the Lord of glory spoke to him and said, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutes!" -((9:4) (Acts 9:4-5).

The Lord there made him alive from the dead; he was raised up out of a state of death in trespasses and sins into a state of life in Christ. When the Lord speaks to a sinner who is dead in trespasses and sins, He makes him alive from that state. See (John 5:25) "Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God: and they that hear shall live." Saul heard that voice and was made alive from that dead state. "Suddenly there shined round about him a light from heaven: and he fell to the earth," etc.- ((9:3) (Acts 9:3-4). Prior to this time he was very erect-he was great in his self righteousness; but now he is brought low before the throne of grace and mercy. His cry was, "Who art thou, Lord?"

He now realises something he had never before realized. He is found lying prostrate on the ground. Perhaps some of our readers can remember that they felt unworthy to kneel on God's footstool, and you prostrated yourself on the ground, and placed your face and lips in the dust, and plead for mercy. Saul's prayer was a prayer for mercy. It was an evidence of the quickening or regenerating power of the Spirit of God in his heart. After this, his name was called Paul. His name was changed-why? Because names meant something. The name Paul means little. He is no longer great, but is now little. The grace of God in the heart always makes the sinner little. It never causes one to be self exalted; but makes him feel and realize his own unworthiness. When he follows the influence of that grace after regeneration he feels his own imperfections, and he does not desire to make his brother an offender for a word, and he will not do so.

He is not so particular about the words used to convey an idea; his desire is to get the truth and the sentiment. The sentiment is what he desires, more than the words used to convey the sentiment. "Love suffers long, and is kind; envieth not; vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things." -(I Corinthians 13:4-7)

The Campbellite position is that regeneration is effected by moral suasion or moral influence. They do not hold that regeneration is a moral influence, but that it is brought about by moral influence. In fact, with them regeneration is nothing more than moral reformation, while it is a reformation instead of a reformation. In that work the sinner is formed anew in his soul, or spirit, or heart. The body is not formed anew in regeneration; it is still mortal and corruptible. It goes to the grave that way. In the resurrection at the last day the body will be formed anew; it will be made spiritual; it will be made immortal and incorruptible. Then the entire man will be made pure, holy, sinless, and be in the perfect image of Christ. You may call the resurrection of the body what you please, this is what is done for it in the resurrection. See (I Corinthians 15:42-57); (I John 3:2); ((21) (Philippians 3:21).

In regeneration the man is made good in heart. His heart is made good, and the man is then a good man, because he has a good heart. The Saviour says, in (Matthew 12:33-35): "Either make the tree good, and his fruit good; or else make the tree corrupt, and his fruit corrupt: for the tree is known by his fruit. O generation of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things." Why were these people not good? Because their hearts were not good.

That is the reason. How is the heart made good? The Lord gives a good heart. He takes away the stony heart, and gives a heart of flesh. This makes the man good. If not, the Saviour would not have said, in the very next verse, "A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things." The man having a good heart makes him a good man, but that does not make his body spiritual, nor remove the nature he had before. It gives him another nature, which is a divine nature; and that divine nature is implanted in his heart. If that does not make a man a better man, we confess that we do not know what would make him better. If it does not make him better, we do not see how a tree can be known by his fruit. We know a tree is a good tree because it produces good fruit. We know the man is a good man, because he brings forth good things. Regeneration gives him a good heart, and then the Saviour calls him a good man. Having been made a good man, he manifests the same by his life. He then brings forth good fruit.

Elder G. M. Thompson was considered one among the ablest men of his day. He wrote a book called "The Measuring Rod; or the Principles and Practice of the Primitive Baptists," which was published in 1861. It is a refutation of Two-Seedism. On pages 79, 80, 81, and 82 he says: The Bible represents the new birth or regeneration, as producing a great change in the sinner; but it does not only prove the change, but it proves that the sinner is the subject of that birth or regeneration. It is the sinner's heart that is circumcised to love the Lord; it is the sinner that is purged from an evil conscience to serve the Lord; and it is the dead sinner that is to hear the voice of the Son of God, and live. In the work of regeneration, the stranger is made a citizen, the enemy is made a friend, and those who know not God, are made to know Him and love Him.

The debtor receives forgiveness, the criminal receives pardon, the captive receives liberty, and the guilty receives justification. The change is great, and all this change is wrought in the sinner, the son or daughter of Adam. The change was so great in Saul, the vilest persecutor, that he became the humble follower of the Lord Jesus Christ, and labored to build up what he had tried to tear down. ... When Paul wrote to the Ephesians, he believed that in regeneration the sinner experienced a change, for he says, "Ye were once darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord."

Again, to the Colossians, he says, "Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness and translated us into the kingdom of His dear Son." As these people deny that in regeneration the sinner is "changed from the love of sin to the love of holiness," they cannot belong to the Apostolic church, for we see that the doctrine of a change in the sinner was a cardinal article in the Apostolic faith. The first Baptist I ever read of required all, before baptism, to "Bring forth fruits meet for repentance," or to give evidences of a change. If one of these Arians had gone to John, denying a change, and had demanded baptism of him, he would have rejected them, as he did the Pharisees and Sadducees. And they would today be rejected by the New Testament church, if they were to come declaring that "they had never experienced any change, that they loved sin as well as they ever did." By the "Golden Rule" they cannot be the true church, and have no right to bear its name. If there are any among them that have ever been born again; have ever been made a new creature in Christ Jesus; have ever been changed from the love of sin to the love of holiness, I would say, "Come out of her, my people," for the doctrine is at war with the Bible, is at war with the interests of the true church, and is at war with your own experience. Again, on pages 86 and 87, he says: The apostle tells us that the Son of God was "made of a woman, made under the law, to redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons. And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of His Son into your hearts, crying Abba, Father." -(Galatians 4:4-6).

In this passage it is the son that is redeemed, and it is the very same son and heir that receives the Spirit of God's Son, that also receives the adoption of sons; there is no distinction made by the apostle. The child, the heir, must be redeemed, because it had sinned, and fallen under the curse of the law; it must be made free, because in a state of bondage; and it having become an enemy to God, the Spirit of God's Son must be sent into its heart, to circumcise it to love God, and it is by the renewing and regenerating influence of that Spirit that it is enabled to cry, Abba, Father.

Again, on pages 169 and 170, he says: His elect are predestinated unto the adoption of children, and it is according to this unalterable purpose that in the fulness of the dispensation of times they are called to be saints, receive the adoption of sons, are born a second time, or become new creatures in Christ Jesus. The apostle's doctrine teaches that it is the man that is dead in sin that is quickened, that it is the enemy that is made a friend, and the stranger and foreigner that is made a child and fellow citizen. This is a great change, and is the work of God, for Paul tells the Ephesian saints that they are the workmanship of God, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God before ordained that they should walk in.

Just here we quote the following contained in a letter to us from Elder R. O. Raulston, 806 Dodds Avenue, Chattanooga, Tenn.: I have lived among the dear Old Baptists for more than forty years, and have heard our precious brethren preach from all parts of the country, and if I have ever been so enlightened by the sweet Spirit of the Lord as to be able to understand them, they have all believed and contended that the salvation enjoyed by the poor sinners of Adam's race in regeneration was an inward work of the Spirit of God upon, or in, the soul or spirit of the sinner; and all have understood that the individual thus dealt with through the mercy and goodness of God was a saved sinner, and looked upon as a child of God; and still all have fully agreed with the expression of the poet, where he says: Here I am, behold who will; Sure I am a sinner still; I believe our people fully understand that the unspeakable treasure possessed by them they have in an earthen vessel. They have believed that He who has begun a good work in them will perfect it, and they have hoped and trusted in the Lord to immortalise and spiritualize their vile bodies.

Now, we have stated our views plainly, it seems to us. This is just the way we see the matter. We do not care to, and we will not, "split hairs" on questions that some may bring in by speculation. If every church who has a preacher in it who is agitating this question would call in his liberty and stop him from preaching until he agrees to stop agitating the question, our people would have no trouble, no strife, no confusion, and no division on the same. The preachers are the ones who cause trouble in the Old Baptist Church.

It seems to us that we have been plain enough in the foregoing for anyone to know that we do not believe the "whole man" doctrine; but for fear some person might not remember, we will say, most emphatically, that WE DO NOT BELIEVE THE "WHOLE MAN" DOCTRINE. When we say we do not believe a thing, there is no man under heaven who has any right to say that we do, and no honest man who reads this will hereafter do so. Some have accused us of believing that, but every honest man who has thought so will say it no more, and will be willing to correct his statements that we did.

Now, we will say, in conclusion, that we do not want any agitation of this question, and we are not going to have it in our paper. This article ends the matter, so far as our columns are concerned. No one need to send us any communications arguing this question either way, for they will go into the fire as soon as we see what they are. We have written in plainness, but we have done so in love for the cause of our blessed Master. We have been silent for some time, and have written nothing for our columns, hoping that peace might be restored, until we have felt that circumstances and the cause absolutely demanded that we say this much, and give our readers to understand that we do not believe the "whole man" doctrine, and that we were not going to allow any quarrel in The Primitive Baptist on the question. While we do not believe the "whole man" doctrine, we wish it also understood that we do not believe what has been called the "hollow log" doctrine. Both are wrong and we will not accept either.

While we do not, as stated, believe the "whole man" doctrine, yet we are not responsible for any wrong construction which any man may place on our language; but no honest man who reads this article will hereafter place such a construction on our language as we here deny that we believe. May the Lord grant to give us all the spirit of love and forbearance, that we may be willing to bear with others, as we would wish them to bear with us. If we would manifest more of the spirit of love and forbearance, instead of secretly working to destroy a brother, we are sure there would be less trouble in our beloved Zion. May the Lord have mercy upon us all, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Statistics

---November 30, 1915

Brother J. S. Vickers, of Newton, Ala., requests us to publish the census reports concerning the number of Primitive Baptists in the United States.

According to the census report for 1906 there were 102,311 Primitive Baptists in the United States. This includes only the white members. A separate report is given of the colored Primitive Baptists. In the report for 1890 there were 13,960 more members reported, but that report included the colored Primitive Baptists. The 1906 report shows that there are 35,076 colored Primitive Baptists. Our readers can take these figures and make the calculations for themselves and see what the increase was, according to the 1906 census since 1890. But we will say that the census report does not give the correct total membership, as it could not be obtained. C. H. C.

About "The Good Old Songs"

---December 7, 1915

We believe The Good Old Songs is the best song book on the market, and everybody who sees it has words of praise for it. It is composed of the greatest old songs and tunes that have been sung by our fathers and mothers for a hundred years or more, and there is not a jig tune or an unsound sentiment in the book. If you love to hear sound preaching in your church, why not use a song book that is free of unsound sentiment? How do you like to hear a good, sound sermon and then a rotten song right after it? Song of Solomon service is part of the praise to the Lord for His goodness and mercy to poor sinners. Then isn't it right to sing the truth when you praise Him? C. H. C.

Remarks On An Experience

---December 21, 1915

We think that the above is an experience of grace. If the writer will but compare her own experience with the idea that it is "up to the sinner" to do his part in order to be saved, she will know that the Lord did all the work of saving in her own case. If the Lord did all the work of saving in her case, it must have been because the Lord had made choice of her to salvation -the Lord chose to save her. And if Christ died for her, it must have been because the Lord had chosen to save her. If the Lord does what He chooses to do, and He has chosen to save all that Christ died for; and if Christ died for all the race, then all the race will be saved. As some of the race will not be saved, and the Lord does what He chooses to do, then the Lord did not choose all the race, and Christ did not die for all the race. We would suggest that the sister send us $1 and get a copy of the Cayce-Penick debate and read that. She may get some light on the question of the atonement of Christ in reading that book. C. H. C.

Endorsement on Regeneration

---December 21, 1915

As Elder Cash was editor of the Messenger of Peace we deem it not to be out of place to put the following short article from him in this book:
THE ARTICLE In The Primitive Baptist for November 16, 1915, is an editorial by Elder C. H. Cayce on the subject of "Regeneration" which we wish to approve and indorse. The treatment of the subject from the Bible standpoint can never do harm, and this article of Brother Cayce's has no speculation in it, but treats the matter from the right point of investigation-What is done for the sinner in the new birth? which the Bible answers.

We gave this subject a brief treatment in the August 1, 1915, issue of the Messenger in a sketch of a sermon on the "New Heart." Like Elder Cayce, we have no use for what is known as the "whole man doctrine," as some have described it; neither do we believe it a safe and Scriptural way to treat it, as some have done, from the question, What part of man is born again in regeneration? There will always be a mystery about the subject, and it is better to leave it where the Scriptures leave it than to endeavor to explain as some have done who have brought confusion.-Elder Walter Cash, in Messenger of Peace.

Close of Volume 30

---December 21, 1915

This issue of The Primitive Baptist closes the thirtieth volume of the paper. Since the publication of this paper was begun, January 1, 1886, thirty years have passed by. Many changes have taken place during that time. Now another year is drawing to a close. Soon another leaf will be turned in the pages of time, and the pages of this year will be closed forever. Many have been the sorrows of some during the year 1915. Some have had their seasons of rejoicing.

There have been some seasons of sweet joy, and some of deep sorrow and regret. Truly life has been a mixture of joy and sorrow with us. Sometimes sorrows sweep down over the soul like billows. "Thy billows have gone over me," says David. Sometimes he was low down in the valley, in darkness and gloomy despair. Then, again, he was on the mountaintop, in adoration and praise to the Lord.

Sometimes I am exalted, On eagles' wings I fly. Thus wrote the poet, in describing his own life and daily experience. But these seasons of rejoicing, and of being on the mountaintop, do not last long. Darkness and gloomy despair seem to so soon hover down over us, and then, Sometimes I'm in the valley, And sinking down with woe. Oh, how the heart bleeds, then, and longs for a ray of heavenly light, and for a ray of sunshine from the face of the blessed Saviour. Were it not for His precious and sure promises we would surely give up in utter despair.

Our troubles and sorrows are many, and they are great. Sometimes it seems that they are almost unbearable. We have them to bear ourselves. No human on earth can help. Many of them have never been told. Only our Lord knows. He, only, can help. We used to look forward to joys and pleasures in life, but we do not now. We can only hope for rest and joy beyond the river. But we do feel to be reconciled to our lot here on earth, whatever that may be, and whatever may befall us. We have found the Lord's grace to be sufficient in the years that are past, and we now, in darkness and gloom, feel to trust implicitly in Him for restraining and sustaining grace.

We need His restraining grace to restrain us from doing things that are wrong, and we need His sustaining grace to sustain us in all our sorrows, trials, conflicts, and distresses. When the heart is broken and sad, we need His grace to bind up our broken hearts. The year 1915 has been one of much sorrow to us. As the year draws near a close it seems that the curtain of night is drawn around us. But we are humbly trusting that as another new year is ushered in it may bring the light and sunshine of a new day. With an aching heart and deep sorrow of soul, we bid adieu to the old year, and bid our readers adieu for the year 1915. We humbly ask an interest in the prayers of every one of our readers who love the Lord, His cause, and His service. Do pray the Lord to guide and direct us, and to sustain us by His grace, that we may be able to walk humbly before Him and in the right way. C. H. C.

END OF VOLUME TWO

1916

BY ELDER C. H. CAYCE

Volume III, 1937

CAYCE PUBLISHING COMPANY

THORNTON, ARKANSAS

TO MY BELOVED WIFE who has untiringly labored with me and for me during these many years, and TO MY SAINTED FATHER AND MOTHER who cared for me when I could not care for myself, and TO MY DEAR BRETHREN AND SISTERS who have been so kind and good to poor me all these years is this and any following volumes
LOVINGLY DEDICATED

PREFACE

We have received many words of endorsement of the previous volumes. This volume, and the volumes which may follow, if we are permitted to continue the publication of our editorial writings in this form, will show clearly that we are still endeavoring to maintain the same principles upon which we have stood during all these years. They will also show that our people are still standing where they have always stood.

If we know our poor heart our desire in the publication of these volumes is the glory of God and the advancement of His blessed cause, and the benefit of His humble poor. We desire that the Lord's dear children who are blinded by false teachers may be enabled, by the reading of some of these pages, to see where the true church is, and where the truth may be found. May the blessings of our Lord rest upon the reader, is the humble prayer of THE AUTHOR Thornton, Arkansas,

August 20, 1937

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME THIRTY-ONE

---January 4, 1916

Volume thirty-one of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST begins with this issue. Through trials and difficulties the paper has been published for thirty years, and established on a firm footing. So far as the financial outlook is concerned, it is not bad. It is true that the stringency of money matters during the past year has affected our business, and crippled us in a measure, yet the paper is on a better footing than it has ever been. This has been accomplished by hard work, close attention to business, rigid economy, and careful attention to detail in management. While this is true, it is also true that there is yet room for improvement along this line. Our subscription list is not as large as it should be for a paper the size of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. We should have a great many more subscribers, considering the amount of reading matter the paper contains. The price of the paper is exceedingly low, considering the size of the paper, and that it is issued weekly. We trust our readers will all take an interest in helping to increase the list this year.

We also trust that the brethren and sisters will continue to write for the paper. It is true that we have had much more matter sent to us than we had space for; but let it be remembered that the more we have, the more we can select from. A great many private letters have been sent to us with request for publication, many of which we have given space for. Many of these letters are good, and are of general interest, but it is more often the case that private letters are of interest to only a few—just to those who are personally acquainted with the writers. We will have to leave out many letters of that kind for want of space. The paper is for the benefit of the cause in general, and we wish to publish such things as will be of general interest to the readers. It is true that what may be of interest to one may not be of interest to another, but we desire to give as great a variety as possible.

We trust that our readers will take more interest in sending items concerning the good meetings. If you are at a good meeting, and there are some additions to the church, send us a short notice of it for publication. Such items are always read with pleasure. Do not send a long account of such meetings, telling when you left home, whom you visited, and where you went for dinner, and where you spent the night, and how many and who were there. Such detail as this is uninteresting, and is tiresome, and destroys all the pleasure which may have been realized by simply reading a statement of the fact that there was a good meeting, and that so and so were received into the fellowship of the church, or that so and so were baptized. Please bear these things in mind. It would save us much annoyance. Many times we have to ponder in our mind for an hour or more whether to give space to some article which may be considered to be very important to the writer, or perhaps to a few others, but which we know cannot be of general interest. We are puzzled to know whether we may be justified in using the space for matters of that kind for the satisfaction of the few who may possibly be interested, notwithstanding all the detail gone into.

There has been considerable discussion and quarreling in some sections over questions that we do not think should be disturbing our people. We have tried to refrain from taking any part in such matters. In our issue of November 16 we gave our views on regeneration, and stated that we would not allow the question discussed through our columns from the standpoint that some have been discussing it, which has been causing trouble in some sections. We still expect to adhere to that decision. No matter which side one may be on, we will not publish an article on the question which discusses it from that standpoint. If you want to tell the benefits of regeneration to a poor sinner of Adam's race, that is all right; but if you want to argue the question as to what part or how much of the sinner is born again, you will have to excuse us. We do not believe that there is any material difference among our people on that matter, and we do not intend to lend any aid to an unprofitable war on the question. The brethren may not all use the same words to express themselves; but a brother who is prompted by the love of God in his heart will not make a brother an offender for a word. We do not propose to do that.

We have learned that some are still trying to make it appear that we believe the "whole man" doctrine; and some have even gone so far as to say that we said some things which we did not say, and never even thought of saying. No honest man will do this. We must again call attention to what we said on that line in the issue of November 16, 1915. So far as we are concerned the discussion of that matter is at an end, either publicly or privately, and we have no more to say concerning it. If we know our heart, our desire is that THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST may be so conducted that it may tend to unify the Lord's humble poor, and be a source of comfort, consolation and encouragement to them. We desire that it may never be a source of war, strife, discord, and confusion among the Old Baptists. If we know our heart, we love the cause of the blessed Master above everything else in this world, and we love the Old Baptist Church above everything else. The Old Baptist cause is the cause of the Master. We do not wish to cause trouble among the Old Baptists. Neither do we wish to help spread confusion among them. We would rather give up the publication of the paper, and have our pen laid down forever, and our mouth be forever closed, than to cause trouble among them. Contending for the same old truths that have ever characterized the church of God will not cause trouble among them. Very often trouble is started by some evil-hearted or designing man. Such a man can usually put on a great show of humility. We are sure that we have met some of them in our time. They can put on a great pretense of zeal for what they call the truth, while, if you knew their secret life, it would make you shudder. No wonder the cause suffers, and no wonder the church is in confusion when she has such men in her midst.

We expect, by the Lord's help, to continue on in the same principles for which this paper has stood since the first issue of it in January, 1886. "The Holy Ghost witnesseth that bonds and afflictions abide me; but none of these things move me; neither count I my life as dear unto myself, so I finish my course with joy, and the ministry which I have received of the Lord Jesus," says Paul, the eminent apostle to the Gentiles. We feel to adopt that language as our own just now. Many times we have felt like our labors were all in vain and were a failure, and that we ourselves are a failure, and that it would be just as well for us to "ground arms" and quit; but we have not felt like we want to quit for some time. We used to, in our younger days, often think, "Well, we will quit; we will go home and stay there;" but for quite a while we have felt like we want to press on, notwithstanding all the trials and conflicts, for our hope is that the trials and conflicts will have an end after a while. No matter how hard the trials may be, nor how great the sufferings, nor how long they may last here, they will soon be over, and are but for a moment, as compared to eternity. They are not to be compared with the glory that shall be revealed in the Lord's dear children beyond the river. That glory and the joys over there are sometimes sweetly anticipated by us. Our hope reaches over there, and we sometimes long to go. Some of our loved ones are already there, we are sure. Our blessed and loving Saviour is there, and we so much desire to look into His blessed face. We wish to ascribe more perfect praise to Him than we can here on this earth. Until then, we desire to be reconciled to His will and to our lot here on earth, and to continue on in His service, patiently waiting the time when He will take us home unto Himself.

We humbly ask our dear brethren and sisters to remember us in their prayers. Please pray the Lord to direct and sustain us in the right way. C. H. C.

Reply to J. M. Hicks

---January 4, 1916

On another page of this paper will be found a letter from J. M. Hicks, of Rominger, N. C., in which he asks us some questions. We give the questions and our answers here.

1. Does God lead men to disobedience?

No. If men walk contrary to the commands of God, and they do so because God leads them that way, there would be no such thing as disobedience. It is not an act of disobedience for a man to go the way that God leads him. God does not lead men into disobedience at all.

2. Does God love to see His children in disobedience?

No. If He does, then He loves to see what is displeasing to Him; and that is an absurdity. Any sensible person can see that such a thing is an impossibility and an absurdity. The children of Israel in the wilderness walked in disobedience, and God did not love to see that, for we are told that "With many of them God was not well pleased: for they were overthrown in the wilderness." -(I Corinthians 10:5). They disobeyed the Lord, and the Lord was not well pleased with them. It is true, therefore, that God does not love to see His children in disobedience.

3. Don't God's children receive blessings by keeping His commandments? Yes. The Saviour says, "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them." (John 13:17). "If ye know these things." What things? The things He has commanded, of course. Then, "happy are ye if ye do them." There is a happiness promised here to those who do the things commanded which is not promised to those who fail to do them. No man under heaven can dispute this, without disputing the plain statement of the Son of God. No matter what men may say, the Lord cannot lie. His word is true. An abundance of testimony could be produced that God's people receive blessings by keeping His commandments, but this one plain statement is enough to convince any honest searcher after truth. C. H. C.

Acts 20:9-10

---February 15, 1916

Brother W. R. Walker, of Grant, Ala., requests our views on ((0:9) (Acts 20:9-10). The reader can turn and read it. It is the circumstance of the young man falling from the third loft and taken up dead when Paul had preached until midnight. Brother Walker wants to know if the apostles had power to raise those who were physically dead. It appears in this case that Paul healed this young man. It also appears that he raised some others to life again. It was all by the special influence of the Holy Spirit in enabling the apostles to work miracles, in accordance with His promise in ((4) (Mark 16:14-20).

C.H.C.

Discipline

---February 15, 1916

ELDER C. H. CAYCE:

Dear Brother-I am not a subscriber to your paper, but read your piece on regeneration in November issue and think it the best I ever read on the subject. I want your views on the three following subjects:

1. How should the church deal with a disorderly walker?
2. When a brother trespasses against another brother?
3. When a brother goes astray?

What I want to know is the difference between the three offenses, and how the church should deal with each. Yours in hope,

G. W. DAVIS.

R. 2, Boaz, Ala.

OUR REPLY

In answer to the first question, we would say that no general answer can be given that will cover every case that might come up. If a member is walking disorderly, and that disorder is such that can be forgiven, or amends made for it, such member should be labored with in order that he may be reclaimed. If the disorder is such as cannot be forgiven, or is so grievous that he cannot make amends for it, then he should be promptly excluded from the fellowship of the church.

Concerning the second question, will say the eighteenth chapter of Matthew explicitly covers such cases. If you will read that chapter you will find it to be so plain that no comment is necessary.

Our answer to the first question also applies to the third. There are some things of which a person may be guilty that the church cannot afford to bear with. There is a sin unto death; see (I John 5:16). No amends can be made for a sin unto death. The church cannot Scripturally reclaim such a person.

C. H. C.

Difference in Belief

---February 15, 1916

The unregenerate believes in Christ just as you believe in George Washington- because you have read about him and heard people talk about him. A Scriptural believer in Christ is one who has the witness within, and he believes from the testimony of that witness. See (I John 5:10). C. H. C.

King James Translation

---February 22, 1916

Brother J. J. Beck, of Sandy River, Va., writes as follows: "How and in what manner were the translators (of the King James Version) chosen? I have been told that they were chosen by the king; that there were one hundred and forty-four; that they were sent out in groups of twelve to do the work. Is that true?"

For the information of Brother Beck, and any others who may be interested, we copy the following from the Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge:

At the Hampton Court Conference (1604) the demand of Reynolds for a new translation was really the starting point which eventuated, mainly through the king's dislike (pretended or real) of the Geneva, in the Authorized Version, -the work (in all) of fifty-four scholars (forty-seven on the list), divided into six companies, of which two met at Westminster, two at Oxford, and two at Cambridge, for the space of six years; after which six men, two from each place, met in London to superintend the publication. Bilson, Bishop of Winchester, who wrote the arguments of the several books, and Dr. Miles Smith, who wrote the noble preface, were the final correctors. The preface states, among many other matters, that their object was to make of many good translations a principal good one, to avoid extremes and produce uniformity of rendering. "Never was a great enterprise like the production of our Authorized Version, carried out with less knowledge handed down to the posterity of the labours, their method, and order of working." It was published in 1611; and a number of years elapsed before its intrinsic superiority and merits drove all other English translations out of the field. Taken as a whole, it is the best and most truly English version. Couched in noble language, it abounds in felicities. It is musical, dramatic, and even tragical. It is, in turn, pathetic and sublime, and has, withal, a directness and force which commend it to all classes and conditions of men. But it is far from perfect; and wherein, in the opinion of many of its most ardent admirers, it should be made to conform more thoroughly and consistently with the original Scriptures remains to be briefly indicated under the following heads, etc.

The foregoing is a brief history or account of the work of the translators of our Authorized Version, or the King James translation of the Bible. C. H. C.

John 3:5-6

---February 29, 1916

ELDER C. H. CAYCE:

Dear Sir and Editor-May I ask you a few questions for information? Does the phrase "born of water" refer to baptism? In the Lofton-Smith discussion here is what is said of Alvah Hovey:

"In regard to (Titus 3:5), Alvah Hovey, one of the most learned Baptists this country ever produced, says, Paul had in mind baptism as representing and confessing the divine change called regeneration. Hence he teaches' that men are saved by an outworking obedient life, given and preserved by the Holy Spirit."

Here is what J. R. Graves says:

"If Brother Vaughn convinced us that 'born of water' refers to anything but the baptism of one previously born of the Spirit we never knew it, and we would have owned it to him and our readers. It means nothing else, and no Baptist that we ever heard or read of ever believed otherwise until A. Campbell frightened them away from an interpretation that is sustained by the concensus of all scholars of all denominations of all ages. So say Wesley, Adam Clark, McKnight, Albert Barnes and John Calvin in their comments on (Titus 3:5). It is the same washing to which Ananias referred when he said to the penitent Saul, 'Arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on His name.'

According to these scholars the phrase "born of water," in (John 3:5), and the term washing, in (Titus 3:5), refers to baptism. I will be glad to have your views on these Scriptures. If we will run the marginal references we will see that they refer to baptism. Were these marginal references inspired? If not, then who made these references, and what denomination did they belong to? Please answer through the columns of THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. I remain, very truly yours,

W. C. MOORE.

Bellefontaine, Miss.

OUR REPLY

The phrase born of water, in (John 3:5), does not refer to water baptism. Neither is the washing in (Titus 3:5) water baptism. However, you will note that Hovey says that baptism represents the divine change called regeneration. If it represents that, then it is not in order to it. One thing cannot represent another thing, and be in order to that thing. We are aware that the Campbellites quote Hovey to sustain their position on (John 3:5) and (Titus 3:5), but he does not set forth their view, as this clearly shows.

The statement made by Graves that "No Baptist that we ever heard or read of ever believed otherwise until A. Campbell frightened them away from an interpretation that is sustained by the consensus of all scholars of all denominations of all ages," only shows his lack of information. He did not seem to be so well informed concerning the opinion of Baptists in former ages as some seem to think, according to that statement. Gill was a Baptist, and he lived long before Graves. He wrote much, and he held no such view of (John 3:5). Here is what he says in his comments on that text:

Jesus answered, verily, verily, I say unto thee, etc. Explaining somewhat more clearly, what he before said: except a man be born of the water and of the Spirit: These are two words, which express the same thing, as Kimchi observes in many places in his commentaries, and signify the grace of the Spirit of God. The Vulgate Latin and Ethiopic versions read, the Holy Spirit, and so Nonnus; and who doubtless is intended: by water, is not meant material water, or baptismal water; for water baptism is never expressed by water only, without some additional word which shows, that the ordinance of water baptism is intended: nor has baptism any regenerating influence in it; a person may be baptized, as Simon Magus was, and yet not born again; and it is so far from having any such virtue; that a person ought to be born again, before he is admitted to that ordinance: and though submission to it is necessary, in order to a person's entrance into a gospel church-state; yet it is not necessary to the kingdom of heaven, or to eternal life and salvation: such a mistaken sense of this text, seems to have given the first birth and rise to infant baptism in the African churches; who taking the words in this bad sense, concluded their children must be baptized, or they could not be saved; whereas by water is meant in a figurative and metaphorical sense, the grace of God, as it is elsewhere; see ((25) (Ezekiel 36:25); (John 4:14). Which is the moving cause of this new birth, and according to which God begets men again to a lively hope, and that by which it is effected; for it is by the grace of God, and not by the power of man's free will, that any are regenerated, or made new creatures: and if Nicodemus was an officer in the temple, and took care to provide water at the feasts, as Dr. Lightfoot hints, and as it should seem Nicodemon ben Gorion was, by the story before related on him; see the note on ver. 1, very pertinently does our Lord make mention of water, it being his own element: regeneration is sometimes ascribed to God the Father, as in ((Pet 1:3) (I Peter 1:3); (James 1:15), and sometimes to the Son, (I John 2:29), and here to the Spirit, as in (Titus 3:5), who convinces of sin, sanctifies, renews, works faith, and every other grace; begins and carries on the work of grace, unto perfection; and unless a man has this work of His wrought on his soul, as he will never understand divine and spiritual things, so he can have no right to gospel ordinances, or things appertaining to the kingdom of God; nor can he be thought to have passed from death to life, and to have entered into an open state of grace, and the kingdom of it; or that living and dying so, he shall never enter into the kingdom of heaven; for unless a man is regenerated, he is not born heir-apparent to it; and without internal holiness, shall not enter into it, enjoy it, or see God.

Ver. 6. That which is born of the flesh is flesh, etc. Man by his natural birth, and as he is born according to the flesh of his natural parents, is a mere natural man; that is, he is carnal and corrupt, and cannot discern spiritual things; nor can he, as such, enter into, and inherit the kingdom of God; see (I Corinthians 2:14), and (I Corinthians 15:50) And therefore there is a necessity of being born again, or of the grace of the Spirit, and of his becoming a spiritual man; and if he was to be, or could be born again of the flesh, or ever so many times enter into his mother's womb, and be born, was it possible, he would be a natural and carnal man, and so unfit for the kingdom of God. By flesh here is not meant the fleshly part of man, the body, as generated of another fleshly substance; for this is no other than what may be said of brutes; and besides, if this was the sense, spirit, in the next clause, must mean the soul, whereas one soul is not generated from another: but by flesh is designed, the nature of man; not merely as weak and frail, but as unclean and corrupt, through sin; and which being propagated by natural generation from sinful men, cannot be otherwise; for who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean? Not one, ((Job 14:4) (Job 14:4)). And though the soul of man is of a spiritual nature, and remains a spirit, notwithstanding the pollution of sin; yet it being defiled with the flesh, and altogether under the power and influence of the lusts of the flesh, it may well be said to be carnal or fleshly: hence, flesh, as it stands opposed to spirit, signifies the corruption of nature, (Galatians 5:17), and such who are in a state of unregeneracy are said to be after the flesh, and in the flesh, and even the mind itself is said to be carnal, (Romans 8:5-6,7,5). And that which is born of the Spirit is spirit: a man that is regenerated by the Spirit of God, and the efficacy of His grace, is a spiritual man; he can discern and judge all things of a spiritual nature; he is a fit person to be admitted to spiritual ordinances and privileges; and appears to be in the spiritual kingdom of Christ; and has a right to the world of blessed spirits above; and when his body is raised a spiritual body, will be admitted in soul, body and spirit, into the joy of the Lord. Spirit in the first part of this clause, signifies the Holy Spirit of God, the author of regeneration and sanctification; whence that work is called the sanctification of the Spirit, and the renewing of the Holy Ghost, ((Pet 1:2) (I Peter 1:2); (Titus 3:5)). And spirit, in the latter part intends the internal work of grace upon the soul, from whence a man is denominated a spiritual man; and as a child bears the same name with its parents, so this is called by the same, as the author and efficient cause of it: and besides, it is of a spiritual nature itself, and exerts itself in spiritual acts and exercises, and directs to, and engages in spiritual things, and has its seat also in the spirit, or soul of man.

From the foregoing it is evident that Gill held the view that the term water in (John 3:5) and washing in (Titus 3:5) simply referred to the cleansing or purifying work of the Holy Spirit in regeneration.

The marginal references is the work of man. We do not remember the name of the man who did the work, and it is not convenient just now to search the matter to find out. C. H. C.

Acts 22:3

---March 7, 1916

Brother G. M. D. Ray, of Harpersville, Ala., writes us as follows: "I went a few nights ago to hear a young lady speak that was going to the foreign field. She doted on Paul being taught by Gamaliel. She claimed that this man educated Paul and sent him to the foreign field. The Scripture referred to is ((2:3) (Acts 22:3). I wish you would explain this for me.”

The text reads: “I am verily a man which am a Jew, born in Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, yet brought up in this city at the feet of Gamaliel, and taught according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers, and was zealous toward God, as ye all are this day.” This language was uttered by the apostle when he was making his defense before the people for the doctrine which he preached. He called their attention to the fact that he was a Jew, and that he was brought up in that very city at the feet of Gamaliel, having been taught by him, not the precepts or principles of the gospel, but taught according to the law and rule of the fathers. While under that influence and acting according to that training he was a persecutor of the saints. But he was regenerated, born of God, and converted from that which he had received from the teaching of Gamaliel. If the young lady proposes to be a follower of Paul, according to the life he lived while following the teaching and engaging in the practice which he engaged in while a follower of Gamaliel, then she would also be a persecutor of the saints. Those who were in line with Gamaliel, and who were of his persuasion concerning religious worship and service, gave Paul letters of authority to go to Damascus and to bind and cast in prison the Lord's humble poor. He persecuted the saints even unto strange cities. This while following the inclinations of those who were of the Gamaliel persuasion. It seems that those who are so much concerned about the foreign fields, and who are so ready to take the stomachache when the foreigners are named, are often persecutors. They are very much unconcerned about the distresses and trials and hunger of poor humanity here at home. Let us look after our own people at home, and follow the teaching of God's word, and we will get along better.
C.H.C.

Matthew 10:39

---March 14, 1916

Brother W. A. Clark, of Delvalle, Texas, requests our views of ((0:39) (Matthew 10:39). The text reads: “He that findeth his life shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it.” The Saviour is here teaching the great importance of His children following Him in obedience to His commandments, and in the ordinances of His house. The great principle is set forth that in the service of the Master the child of God enjoys a happiness and pleasure that is worth more than this natural life. On the other hand, to forsake the service of the Master for the world and the things of the world, is to fail to enjoy that pleasure, and is, therefore, to lose what is worth more than this natural life. This natural life, and the joys of it, are not to be compared to the sweet peace which is enjoyed by the Lord's humble poor as they walk in His delightful service. We think this is the great lesson the Saviour is here teaching.
C.H.C.

Salvation By Grace

---March 14, 1916

Brother H. P. Hamilton, of Carbon Hill, Ala., sent us a leaflet published by the Firm Foundation, a Campbellite sheet, at Austin, Texas. We had seen copies of that leaflet before, and would not notice it now had not Brother Hamilton requested us to do so. - We will not reply to it at length, for it is not worthy of notice, much less a lengthy reply.

The writer of the leaflet pretends to believe that salvation is by grace, and then labors to prove that it is not, just as the Campbellites usually do. He says that a man cannot be saved without working. The apostle says that "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."-(Romans 6:23). According to the statement of the apostle, condemnation is by works and salvation is by grace; but according to this Campbellite effusion condemnation is by grace, and salvation is by works. The apostle knew what he was talking about, and the Campbellite did not that is the difference.

The Campbellite prevaricator says:

The "Hardshells" teach that grace is "unmerited favor." And then they say this grace was exhausted at creation, i. e., that God's divine favor was bestowed on the elect "before the foundation of the world," and that now the only grace (favor) God bestows upon man is to reveal to him by a dream, vision or nightmare, that he is one of the specially elect, by the grace of God before the foundation of the world. These dreams, spooks, visions, nightmares, is God's grace bestowed upon them to let them know they are one of the "saved by grace." With them it is thus: "If you want religion you don't know it; if you know it, you can't get it; if you get it, you can't lose it; and if you lose it you never had it.

In this statement the writer either willfully or ignorantly misrepresents the people he is pleased to call "Hardshells." What the Primitive Baptists teach is that God "hath saved us, and called us with an holy calling, not according to our works, but according to His own purpose and grace, which was given us in Christ Jesus before the world began."-(II Timothy 1:9). The grace was given for them in Christ before the world began, and they are saved in time according to that. They are not saved according to what they do, as the Campbellite wind-jammer has it. Evidently the people he calls "Hardshells" are in line with the inspired apostle, and, therefore, preach the truth.

We suppose the Campbellite writer knows nothing about an experimental knowledge of heavenly things, taking his testimony concerning the matter. But the apostle says: "It is not expedient doubtless for me to glory. I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord. I knew a man in Christ above fourteen years ago, (whether in the body, I cannot tell; or whether out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;) such an one caught up to the third heaven. And I knew such a man, (whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;) how that he was caught up into paradise, and heard unspeakable words, which it is not lawful for a man to utter."-(II Corinthians 12:1-4). The apostle had a vision, and he could not tell it.. The Campbellite says the "Hardshells" have such things, too. Again he places us in good company. Well, we feel sorry for the poor fellow. We trust the Lord may have mercy on him, and show him what he has not yet learned-that without, an experimental knowledge of the Lord, heaven and immortal glory he will never see. May the Lord pity him. C. H. C.

Questions of Order

---March 14, 1916

The following questions are asked, not to elicit controversy, but in hope of stirring up the minds of the brethren to a study and knowledge of discipline:

1. Is it Scriptural and Baptistical to receive or restore members without the unanimous consent of all the members?

2. Can a church of Christ delegate to any other body or assembly of men the duties and obligations imposed on her by her King and Law-Giver?
3. Can a church of Christ lawfully agree to perform an unlawful act?
4. If a church should, while in a state of confusion, agree to do that which is unlawful, would it be right for that church to perform that which is not lawful and right because of her former agreement to do so?
5. Is the following statement, made by Elder G. W. Stewart, of Alabama, in the Gospel Messenger of January, 1915, according to Baptist discipline: "To undertake to make the findings, conclusions or decisions of a council binding upon the churches, or their rejection by the churches a test of fellowship, is utterly wrong, unscriptural, and usurpation of authority and power exceeding anything ever done by the Missionary Baptists in their state and Southern Baptist Conventions?"

OUR REPLY

In answer to the above questions we would say that no answer can be given such questions that will cover every case that might come up in a church. Every case must be dealt with on its own merits. Such questions as the above may be answered in a general way, and the answers apply to cases in general; but it is very seldom that any two cases are precisely alike. Hence the answer will not always apply to the case in hand. This should always be remembered in answering questions on points of order or discipline. Questions on order or discipline are often answered as though the same rule will apply in all cases, which brings confusion. Now, to the first question we will say that so far as our knowledge extends, and we believe we are very well acquainted with Baptist usage, it has been, and is now, the custom to require a unanimous voice in receiving members into fellowship, either by experience, by letter, or by restoration. While this is true, it is also true that if an applicant presents himself for membership, and a member objects to his reception, the church has a perfect right to inquire into the cause of the objection by the member. Then, if the church fails to bring about a reconciliation, and the member is at fault, the church has a right to deal with him for his fault.

In answer to question two we will say that the church has no authority to delegate her power or authority to any man or set of men under heaven. She cannot delegate her authority to anyone. She may, however, authorize her messengers, or appointees, to act for her in certain instances, or in some cases. But in doing this she does not delegate her authority to them.

To question three we say, No. If a church agrees to do an unlawful act, her agreement, itself, is unlawful. It would be a violation, of itself.

The answer to question three virtually answers question four. The right thing to do would be to confess her wrong in agreeing to do wrong. Two wrongs never made one right.

Concerning question five we will say that the language is rather strong. A council is not a law-making body. A church may be in confusion, and unable to settle a difficulty among themselves. In such a case they have a right to ask other brethren to meet with them to advise and counsel with them. The brethren thus met have no authority to rule over the church, and enforce their advice upon them, or to force them to act upon the advice. But other churches have the right to withdraw their fellowship from them for refusing to act according to the advice, if they judge the advice to be in harmony with the Scriptures or rules of Christ.

The foregoing is our opinion of the matters, expressed as briefly as we can. We do not claim to be a standard, nor to know everything. We may be wrong, but this is our opinion.

We will venture another thought here on something that has not been asked for, and that thought is this: There is entirely too much looking for something disorderly in the other fellow by a great many. Instead of examining self, and trying to keep self straight, too many of us are trying to find something in the other fellow to straighten out. If the Baptists should be divided up according to every person's notion of strict order, there would be almost as many factions as there are members. Somehow, we cannot help being afraid of the fellow who is such a "stickler" for order that he is always finding fault with somebody's "disorder." We are sometimes fearful that there is something wrong with such a person, and that he is simply trying to get attention attracted to others in order to keep his own meanness from being discovered. We do not say this with reference to the questions above, nor with reference to the party who asked them, but merely to call attention to a fact which exists, and which we would be glad were otherwise. May these thoughts be blessed to the good of our readers, is our humble desire. C. H. C.

Should Be Excluded

---March 21, 1916

Nearly a year ago we received a letter from Sister Lina Presnell, of Rominger, N. C., asking us what we thought about members of the Primitive Baptist Church being retained as members when they say they do not believe the Old Baptist doctrine. We have been a long time answering the question. We have had a number of questions that we have not answered for different reasons. One reason is that we have not had much time to devote to these matters, and have let them wait for a more convenient time. Sometimes we are asked for our views on certain Scriptures which we do not feel any impression or desire to write on. But we will now answer the sister's question by saying that we do not think a member should be retained in the church who says he does not believe the Old Baptist doctrine. There might be some of the strong doctrinal points that one might say he does not understand, and yet say he loves the Old Baptist Church, and loves their preaching, and wants a home with them, and he might be retained. But if he openly declares that he does not believe the doctrine, he should be excluded. C. H. C.

1 Corinthians 15:29

---March 21, 1916

In May, 1915, we received a request from Brother T. J. Braswell, of Lyons, Ga., for our views on (I Corinthians 15:29). The text reads: "Else what shall they do which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? Why are they then baptized for the dead?" In this chapter the apostle is treating upon the subject of the resurrection of the bodies of the Lord's children, and is arguing that question; and in arguing that question he uses the language of the text. To our mind the argument amounts to about this: If there is no resurrection of the bodies of the saints, then why do we administer baptism as we do? Baptism represents a burial and a resurrection-¹---or, rather, it is a burial and a resurrection. The person is buried in the water and is raised up again. This is baptism, when administered to the proper subject by the proper administrator. Hence, in baptism we say that we believe in the doctrine of the resurrection of the bodies of the saints, and that the body of Christ was raised from the grave. Now, if there is no resurrection of the bodies of the saints, we are wrong in our practice on baptism. If we administer baptism aright, then we are right in our teaching concerning the resurrection. This seems to us to be the line of the apostle's reasoning here. Not only is this true, but it is also true that if the doctrine of the resurrection be true, then baptism must be a burial and a resurrection. It signifies a burial and a resurrection of the body of Christ and of the bodies of the saints. It signifies this because baptism is a burial. "Therefore we are buried with Him by baptism into death."-(Romans 6:4). If one is buried by baptism, then anything short of a burial is not baptism. If we believe in the doctrine of the resurrection we should practice baptism that way. If we do not believe in the resurrection of the bodies of the saints, we should not practice baptism that way. In our humble judgment this is the real meaning of the text. C. H. C.

Campbell's Movement

---March 21, 1916

We are in receipt of a little magazine called The Gospel Message, published at Paducah, Ky., containing an article headed "The Old Paths," which we have been requested to reply to. The article is intended to defend Campbell's plea of restoring primitive Christianity. According to their usual plea, it contends that the whole church went into Babylon, and that the identity of the church was lost, and so on. As to that position, will say that it is plainly contradicted by the Prophet Daniel, ((Dan 2:44) (Daniel 2:44)): "And in the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed: and the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever." According to the Campbellite position the kingdom was left to other people, and it did not stand forever. The Saviour said, (Matthew 16:18): "Upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." According to Campbellism the gates of hell did prevail against it, for it was swallowed up by Romanism, they say. But they, do not say truly. It is true that pagan rites and ceremonies were introduced into the church, and that a flood of corruption swept into the church, but the church was not swallowed up by the flood of corruption. There was a great apostasy or falling away, as predicted by the apostle. They fell from the simplicity of the gospel worship and service, but all did not fall. It is abundantly proven by history that there were many who did not fall in with the corruptions but stood aloof from them in all ages from the days of the apostles to the present time. The church was not destroyed, but has remained separate from the world in every age, and that church is on earth yet, and was not restored by the Campbells, for she had gone to no place to be restored from. Alexander Campbell was, for a while, identified with that church (the Baptists), now known as Primitive Baptists, but when he began teaching his heretical inventions he and his followers were dropped from the fellowship of the Baptists; then they had to set out to sea without church affiliation, and they have none yet. All that they are identified with is a project, for Campbell called his movement a project. C.H.C.

The Two Witnesses

---March 28, 1916

Brother A. H. Green, of Doogan, Ga., asked our views concerning the two witnesses spoken of in (Revelation 11:7-8). He made the request last May. We think the two witnesses are the church and the ministry. We know that some do not think so-that some of our brethren think they are the Old and New Testaments; but we think, as stated, that they are the church and the ministry. The two witnesses were to prophesy for 1260 days, or years, in sackcloth; then after a time they are to be killed and their bodies are not going to be suffered to be put in graves; then the spirit of life is to enter into them again and they are to rise up and prophesy. Their bodies are to be seen lying in the street for three days and a half. We think that this signifies that there is to be a period of severe persecution lasting for three and a half years, which will be the most dreadful persecution the saints have ever known. The Old Baptists will not be allowed to meet and worship God in a public way then, and their ministers will not be allowed to preach. Many people would stop them now if they had the power. How often has it been said that they should not be allowed to preach such doctrine as they do! The spirit of persecution is not dead, by any means, and when the enemies of the truth get it in their power they will stop the Old Baptists from preaching, if they can. Do we appreciate the privileges we now enjoy? C.H.C.

MISSIONARY CLAIMS

---May 30, 1916

ELDER C. H. CAYCE:

We don't have anything here but the Missionary Baptists, and they think there is nobody but them. We have not heard a sermon preached in over four years. All the preaching we get is THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST, which comes every week filled with so much good reading, which my husband and I both greatly enjoy.

The Missionary Baptists have just had a protracted meeting, and oh! what a going out of unclean spirits! Alonzo Bryant said that the people in the wilderness of Judea were prepared and baptized by John the Baptist. He said that the Missionary Baptist Church was the only church in the world that bore the marks of the church Christ set up. He said two classes of people would be saved; said the bride would be there and the guests would be there; that the guests would be happy, but not as happy as the bride. He said there was a class of people who believed they would be saved regardless of what they did; so they would go on and do just as they pleased. Brother Cayce, if you can see anything in that and think it worth notice I would like to see a reply to it in THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

Brother Cayce, I do enjoy the good pieces that you write, and wish you would write more. Would be glad if you, or anyone else, could come through here this summer and preach for us. Remember me and mine when at a throne of grace. Your sister saved by grace, if saved at all,

MRS. FANNIE LINEBARGER

Huff, Ark.

REMARKS

We hardly think, dear sister, that the gentleman's statements are worth noticing. We are sure that they are not worth taking much space to reply to. As to the Missionaries bearing the only marks of an apostolic church, will say if that be true, then there is no apostolic church, for they have everything, almost, that the world has, and which the church of Christ did not have in New Testament times. There is no command, precept, or example in the Scriptures for a Sunday School, Woman's Auxiliary, Woman's Missionary Union, Ladies' Aid Society, Missionary Board, Southern Convention, Northern Union, State Convention, Baptist Young Peoples' Union, or the "hundred and one" other things that the Missionaries have. Andrew Fuller is the founder, and they are Fullerites, just as much as Campbell's followers are Campbellites. They are not Baptists, and have no right or title to the name.

They are Fullerites. Call them that, and you will call them by their right name. C. H. C.

Matthew 11:21

---June 13, 1916

Mrs. A. J. Nichols, of Dawson, Ky., asks our views on (Matthew 11:21), and says that "our conditional friends rely greatly on this Scripture to prove that salvation is conditional on the sinner's part." The text reads as follows: "Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida! for if the mighty works, which were done in you, had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would- have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes." There is no intimation in the text of a promise of eternal life. But if Tyre and Sidon would have received eternal life had they repented, then as they did not repent, of course, they did not receive eternal life-hence, when those cities were destroyed, the inhabitants of them all went to hell. Those conditionalists, who are such pretenders, accuse the Old Baptists of preaching that there are infants in hell. According to their teaching on this text, who is guilty? They, themselves, are guilty of the ugly thing they charge upon us. If their position be true, then all the people of those cities (men, women and children) were sent to hell when the cities were destroyed. This cannot be true; and, therefore, those conditionalists are teaching a false doctrine. They are only teaching doctrines of men and devils, and are not teaching the doctrine of God.

The truth of the matter is simply this: Tyre and Sidon were overthrown, literally destroyed, on account of their wickedness, and the Saviour was giving a warning to Chorazin and Bethsaida that the same calamity would come upon them, unless they repented, or turned from and ceased their wicked practices. This is the plain, simple, teaching of the text. C. H. C.

In Georgia

---June 13, 1916

We left home, in company with Elder J. H. Phillips, on Saturday, April 29, for Nashville Tenn., where we were at meeting with the Bethel Church on Sunday and Sunday night. The meeting was a sweet and pleasant one. This church was organized just a few months ago, and the writer is the unworthy pastor. It is a lovely and faithful little band. They are increasing in membership, and now have more than thirty. The prospects are very bright and flattering.

From Nashville we went to Burns on Monday, and enjoyed a very pleasant meeting there.

From Burns we went to Dickson, where we enjoyed a pleasant meeting Monday night.

On Tuesday morning we went to Murfreesboro, where we were met and conveyed out to Overalls by Brother George Beasley. The meeting at this church was also enjoyed by us.

We left Murfreesboro Tuesday evening, and filled other appointments as follows: Haleys, Tuesday night; Decherd, Wednesday, and Walnut Grove, Wednesday night; Crow Creek, Thursday; Chattanooga, Friday night; Woodville, Ala., Saturday and Sunday. The meetings at all these places were pleasant, and the congregations were good at most every place. The meeting at Woodville was the regular communion season. The services of communion and feet washing were engaged in on Saturday. A large crowd of Old Baptists were present. We think it was the largest crowd of Old Baptists that we ever saw engaged in this service at one time. It was a grand meeting.

From Woodville we went to Bethel on Monday; Clear Creek, Tuesday; Flint, Wednesday; Briar Fork, Thursday. We had good meetings at all these places. From Briar Fork we went to Gravel Hill, near Corinth, Miss., and attended the meeting there on Saturday and Sunday. Elder John T. Blanchard was with us at this meeting, which was a glorious meeting, indeed. This was the regular communion time, and the delightful service was engaged in. That meeting will be long remembered by us.

On Monday we and Brother Phillips left Corinth, Miss., for Edison, Ga., where we were met on Tuesday morning by Brother B. D. Jones, and conveyed to Mars Hill Church, where we had meeting that day and on Wednesday, and at the home of Brother Jones on Wednesday night. This was a delightful season, and we felt that the Lord's sweet presence was manifested.

On Thursday morning Brother Jones conveyed us to Edison, and from there we went to Vidalia, Ga., the home of our dear brother, Elder Lee Hanks, and we arrived there in the evening. We attended the three days meeting in Vidalia, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. This was another communion meeting, and that delightful service was engaged in on Sunday. This was another sweet meeting to us.

Since we were in Vidalia we have filled appointments at Oak Chapel, Pilgrim Rest, Norristown, New Hope, Canoochee, Long Creek, Hebron, Stilimore, Lott's Creek, Bethlehem, and Lower Mill Creek.. The meetings at all these places were sweet and delightful to us. At Oak Chapel, on May 22, a young Sister Moore, about twelve years of age, came to the church, with tears streaming from her eyes, and asked for a home with the Lord's people. She plainly manifested the work of divine grace in her heart. She was joyfully received into their fellowship and was baptized that afternoon by Elder H. V Hill, the pastor of the church. We did not have the pleasure of attending that service, as we had to go on toward the appointment for the next day.

A brother by the name of Phillips came to the church at Canoochee, on May 25, and asked for a home in the church. He formerly had membership with the Fullerites. He was received gladly and joyfully. He is to be baptized at the next regular meeting.

The meeting at Hebron began on Friday, May 26, the day we were at Long Creek. On that day Brother P. H. Byrd came back to the old church from the Progressives and asked that he be allowed to have a home with them. He was gladly received. Brother Byrd is highly esteemed, and the brethren have great confidence in him as a child of God. He has been preaching for a number of years, and was ordained by the Progressives. On Saturday, May 27, Sister Era Grimes came to the church and asked for a home. She was gladly received, and the unworthy writer was requested to administer the ordinance of baptism, which we did on Sunday morning. We spent Sunday night at the home of this sister and her parents. She told us that this was the happiest day of her life.

At Lott's Creek, on May 30, Brother C. A. Warnock was received on confession of faith from the Progressives. He stated that they were practicing and engaging in things at some of their churches which he thought were wrong and not in harmony with the teaching of God's word, and that he could see the spirit of humility and love among these Old Baptists which was Christ-like, and he wanted a home with them. He was warmly welcomed back home. Also Brother D. R. Dekle came forward and related a reason of his hope in the Saviour and asked for a home with those good people. He was also gladly received, and his baptism is to be attended to at the next regular meeting time.

Elder J. H. Phillips has been with us all the way on this trip until Wednesday morning, May 31. He left us that morning for home, but expects to return as soon as he can, either just after the second Sunday or just after the third Sunday, and remain with us until in August. We miss him very much.

This has been a pleasant trip to us up to the present. We are doing this writing at the home of Brother G. J. Lee, near Lower Mill Creek Church, on June 1st. We do not remember when we ever enjoyed a trip more than we have this one. We have felt that the Lord's sweet presence was surely manifested. True, we have passed through some dark places, but the light places have been bright, and were enjoyed. We have had so much trouble for several months that we feel now that we are prepared to enjoy these pleasant seasons. We humbly ask an interest in the prayers of our readers. We feel that we need their prayers. C. H. C.

The Beloved Disciple

---June 20, 1916

Several months ago Sister Fannie L. Herring, of Bluffton, Ga., asked us who was referred to by Peter when he said to the Saviour, "And what shall this man do?" {(John 21:21)} By reading a few preceding verses it may be clearly seen that he had reference to the one called the "beloved disciple." John was called the beloved disciple. The Saviour seemed to have a special love for him, and he is often referred to as "the disciple whom Jesus loved." At least, he is referred to that way. He seems to have been mentioned in that way because he Saviour seemed to have special love for him.
C. H. C.

Campbellite Leaflet

---June 20, 1916

We are in receipt of a Campbellite leaflet sent us from New Decatur, Ala., with the request that we reply to the same. These self-righteous Pharisees are sending out, or giving out, such literature all the time, and we do not have the space to notice all such productions. The leaflet mentioned is simply a small bundle of misapplications of God's word. To begin with, they claim to be the church of Christ, when they are at least 1800 years too young to be that church. Alexander Campbell is their acknowledged founder. This is a fact well known by all who have any knowledge at all of church history. They were excluded from the Baptists in 1827, and Campbell acknowledged that they were thereby forced to form themselves into a separate society. Campbell's movement thereby resulted in the forming of another new sect. They do not follow Christ, but are followers of Alexander Campbell, and are, therefore, Campbellites. They do not teach what Christ taught, but they teach what Campbell taught. Christ and the apostles taught the doctrine of the sovereign choice of God, the effectual and sovereign work of the Holy Spirit in regeneration, God's predestination or eternal purpose to save sinners, the final preservation of the saints, and other points in harmony therewith, none of which are taught by these followers of Alexander Campbell. They borrowed their doctrine of baptism in order to eternal salvation from Rome. They teach that water is the mother of God's children. See Campbell's Christian System. That book sets forth their system of theology. Campbell invented what he did not borrow from the Catholics. Christ is not the author of it. Order a copy of the Cayce-Srygley Debate and read that, and you will see the Campbellite heresy exposed. C. H. C.

The Baptist Church

---June 20, 1916

Several months ago we received a little leaflet published by one T. O. Reese, of the Fullerite persuasion. It was sent to us by W. W. Hollingsworth, of Bessemer, Ala. The Rev. Mr. Reese, in said leaflet, endeavors to show that the Fullerites are the original Baptists, and that said order is the church established by the Saviour A. D. 33.

It is true that at the Baptist Church is the church established by the Saviour during His personal ministry on earth, but the Fullerite party is not that church. For seventeen hundred years the Baptist Church existed without any Conventions, Boards, Presidents, Secretaries, Woman's Missionary Unions, Ladies' Aid Societies, Sunday Schools, Baptist Young Peoples Unions, Christian Endeavors, Young Men's Christian Associations, Young Women's Christian Associations, State Conventions, State Boards, State Secretaries, Agents for collecting funds, Colporteurs, Association Missionaries, State Missionaries, and the thousand-and-one other things that the Fullerites have. They are no more like the church that Christ established than the devil is like the angel Gabriel. It is a well-known fact that the first missionary society among the Baptists was established by Andrew Fuller, William Carey, and others, in the back parlor of Beeby Wallis in Kettering, England, in October, 1792. This was not done on the authority of Christ, for there is no authority for any such in the word of God. It is simply presumption. Presumption is as the sin of witchcraft and these Fullerites have bewitched many of God's people. What has the world got that these Fullerites haven't got? They are not followers of Christ and the apostles, for Christ did not authorize, and the apostles did not practice, any such things as these Fullerites have among them and are engaging in: Andrew Fuller is the author of their system. He is the "daddy" of it. Christ is not the author of it. Therefore, they are Fullerites. They are followers of Andrew Fuller, just as the Campbellites are followers of Alexander Campbell. They are no more entitled to the name Baptist than the Roman Catholics are. They were excluded from the Baptists in 1832 to 1845 for their departures from original Baptist principles. An excluded party is no church; it is not even a part of a church.

Mr. Reese says: "We have more schools, more money invested in school property, and more students in school, than any other denomination except the Catholics. There are over 200,000 white Baptists in Alabama-more Baptists than all Protestants combined." According to this statement, who are most like the Catholics? The Fullerites are. They patterned after the Catholics in inventing all the ponderous machinery which they have. They are more like the Catholics now than any other people are, according to Mr. Reese's statement. They do not favor the church of Christ at all, and have no more right to claim to be that than the Catholics have.

May the Lord grant to open the eyes of His children who are blinded and led astray by them, and may He pity such pretenders. C. H. C.

Acts 2; Acts 28:31

---June 27, 1916

Sister Martha Shearer, formerly of Branson, Mo., now of Dewey Ball, Mo., requests our view of the expression, "For the promise is unto you, "in ((39) (Acts 2:39).

This is a plain statement of the apostle, "The promise IS unto you," and "this is the promise that He hath promised us, even eternal life." The promise was eternal life. How did the apostle know that the promise was to them? Because they had been pricked in the heart by the preaching of the gospel, and a cry had been uttered by them as to what they should do. This was an evidence of life—an evidence that they had been born from above, and were already in possession of eternal life. "For the preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God."—(I Corinthians 1:18). Gospel preaching does not give life, but it manifests the life which the hearer already possesses. If this effect has been produced upon you by gospel preaching, as was produced upon those people on that day, then "the promise is unto you." This is evidence that the promise is unto you. May the Lord bless you. C. H. C.

John 8:30-47

---June 27, 1916

ELDER C. H. CAYCE:

Dear Brother in Christ—Will you, Brother Phillips, Brother O. F. Cayce, or some brother who has light on the subject write on the eighth chapter of St. John, beginning at the 30th verse, ((O) (John 8:30) "As. He spake these words, many believed on Him. Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on Him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed;" and the conversation on down to the 44th verse, and the 47th verse? Were those He called the children of the devil in the 44th verse and those not of God in the 47th verse the same characters that believed on Him in the 30th verse?

Now, Brother Cayce, I don't ask this through idle curiosity, nor to test somebody's ability, but with a heartfelt desire to learn the truth. I do so much enjoy the dear PRIMITIVE BAPTIST. It is ~ wonderful blessing to the scattered and isolated children of God. It is all the preaching I have heard this year—it and the Gospel Messenger. I have been confined at home sick, with little hope of being better from a natural point of view. Pray for me. Your unworthy brother,
WALTER LEONARD

Canton, Ga.

REMARKS

No; those persons addressed in verses 43, 44, and 47, were not those who believed, spoken of in verse 30. In verse 45 He tells them that they believe not. This language was not to the believing, but to the unbelieving Jews. There were two classes present, and He was talking to the unbelieving class, and John puts in a few words in relating the conversation, and tells in verse 30 that some believed on Him, and then tells in verses 31 and 32 what Jesus said to those who believed; then he returns to the conversation with the unbelieving Jews in verse 33., Read the chapter carefully with this thought in mind. C. H. C.

Ephesians 1 AND 2 Timothy 1

---June 27, 1916

ELDER C. H. CAYCE:

Dear Brother—I will ask you a question for some instruction. In the first chapter of Ephesians, Paul says, "According as He hath chosen us in Him before the foundation of the world." Now I would like for you to explain and tell me what the foundation of the world is.

Now (II Timothy 1:8) says, "Who hath saved us, and called us with an holy calling, not according to our works, but according to His own purpose and grace, which was given us in Christ Jesus before the world began." Explain and tell me what world the apostle had under consideration.

NEWT MALUGEN

R. 2, Trenton, Tenn.

REMARKS

The expression, "before the foundation of the world," in Ephesians i. means "before the ages of time began." That is the full and true meaning of the original language. The expression, "before the world began," in (II Timothy 1) means the same thing; They both mean that something was done by the Lord before this material universe had any existence. The Lord made choice of them before time began--before this material universe had any existence. He treasured grace in Christ before the material universe existed--before time began--for their salvation, and they are saved in time, or regenerated, born again, according to that grace and God's purpose. It is God's work to save, and He saves according to that purpose and grace. C. H. C.

Trial of the Robbers

---July 11, 1916

We have received a leaflet sent to us by Brother Abe Ryan, Eva, Ala., bearing the above title. It is published with the manifest object of obtaining money for the modern mission business, the foreign mission humbug, at that. We are requested to comment on the thing. It is a plain and palpable garbling of God's word. There is absolutely no sentence in all God's word which can possibly be construed to teach that the tithes required of the Israelites under the law were used in sending the law or its teachings among the Amorites, Hittites, Hivites, Jebusites, or other "ites" to make them Israelites. This leaflet has for its object the 'purpose of getting people to pay tithes (money) into the foreign mission business in order to get aliens to become fellowcitizens with the saints--to send the gospel to regenerate the heathen, and thus make them Israelites. This is a wrong application of the teaching of God's word, to begin with, and a misappropriation of funds. The proper name for such an act is embezzlement of funds, is it not? It seems to us that the fellow who is guilty of embezzlement is guilty of a penitentiary offense. Of course it is all right with these fellows to make a misappropriation of funds, since they do it under the cloak of Christianity and with the pretense of saving souls. We say pretense of saving souls--for it is only a pretense. The apostle says, "Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation received by tradition from your fathers; but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot."-((Pet 1:18) (I Peter 1:18-19)). These foreign mission zealots claim that the silver and gold contributed to the foreign mission cause is used to redeem the people from sin and from hell. Do they tell the truth, or did the apostle tell the truth? We confess that we are inclined to believe what the apostle said. If the apostle told the truth, then these foreign mission zealots are false witnesses. They are not entitled to credit upon their testimony in this case.

In Hebrews vii. the apostle is dwelling upon the law worship and law service, and speaks of the paying of tithes under the law and tells us in ((2) (Hebrews 7:12), "For the priesthood being changed, there is made of necessity a change also of the law." Here we are plainly informed that this business is changed. He also tells us in the tenth chapter that the law had a shadow of good things to come, and not the very image of those things. So the tithing under the law represented something else under gospel worship and service. This being true, the claims and teaching of these fellows cannot be true.

Under the New Testament, in gospel service, the giving is not to be done as it was under the law. In law service one-tenth was required. It was by levy and by taxation. Under the gospel it is not by taxation. It is contrary to the spirit of the gospel to assess a member, or to levy a tax upon the members.

"As a man purposeth in his heart, so let him give." The giving should be from a willing mind and heart-not because one is assessed

The whole spirit and tenor of the teaching of these modern missionary zealots is contrary to the spirit and teaching of the gospel. Their service in a law service, and is no kin to the services of the gospel. C. H. C.

Matthew 12:28; Luke 11:20; Luke 17:21

---July 11, 1916

G. W. Presnell, Hackett, N. C., has requested our views of (Matthew 12:28); (Luke 11:20), and (Luke 17:21). (Matthew 12:28) reads, "But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you." (Luke 11:20) reads, "But if I with the finger of God cast out devils, no doubt the kingdom of God is come upon you." These two passages have reference to the same thing. These passages teach that Jesus cast out devils by the Spirit, or finger, of God, meaning a divine agency. The fact that He performed such work as He did was evidence of the existence of the kingdom of God. The language teaches that the "kingdom of God is come unto you," or "come upon you"--that is, the kingdom of God has come among you. It was here then-at the time the Saviour used the language.

((0) (Luke 17:20-21) says, "And when He was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come, He answered them and said, The kingdom of God cometh not with observation: neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! For behold, the kingdom of God is within you." The kingdom of God did not come with observation-that is, with outward show. "Neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! For, behold, the kingdom of God is within you." That is, the kingdom of God is among you. The kingdom was among them then. It was already right in their midst, but they did not know it. They did not see it. They did not observe it. It did not come with outward show. They could see things of an earthly nature, for things of that nature, come with an outward show, and they could see and understand natural things. But the kingdom of God was not of this world, and is yet not of this world. It was composed of spiritual subjects then, and is composed of such subjects now. "But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God; for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned. But he that is spiritual judgeth all things, yet he himself is judged of no man. -(I Corinthians 2:14-15). The Old Baptist Church makes no outward show. The natural man, the unregenerate sinner, does not see it in its beauty. There is nothing in it for him to enjoy. The unregenerate do not love that kingdom. They hate and despise it. But the Lord organized it, and put it here, and He put it here to stay. No matter how much the world may despise that kingdom and try to destroy it, the Lord has preserved and kept it through the ages past, and He will continue to preserve and keep it. The world can not hurt the church. It is when vile and wicked men creep in among them that trouble comes. As long as the church harbors, shields, protects, and retains fornicators, whoremongers and others of impure lives, in her communion and fellowship, she may expect trouble, strife, discord and confusion. Of course, if a man loves sin as well as he ever did, we need not expect him to live a sober, or moral, upright life. If he has been killed to the love of sin, he does not love sin as he once did, and he would be found living a different kind of life. If he does not live a different kind of life, he has no business in the church of God, and the church will have trouble with such men, or on account of such men, as long as they are retained in the church. C. H. C.

Greater and Lesser Sins

---July 18, 1916

As Brother Clemons suggests that we answer the questions asked by Sister Fannie L. Herring, in her letter elsewhere in this paper, we will venture to offer a few remarks.

First, we will suggest that Jesus was God manifest in the flesh. He was God as well as man. He was not asking questions in order to learn. As God He knew all things. If He had been wanting to learn something, He would have asked the Father instead of lawyers and doctors. He knew these Pharisees and their teaching, and they could not answer His questions.

He chose Judas as a disciple, and as a witness-yet Judas was a devil. Why He would choose a devil to the work of the ministry in the beginning of the gospel kingdom is something we cannot understand, unless he was to be an object lesson for His humble followers in the coming ages. We may know them now by their fruits. If they bear such fruits as Judas did, we may know what they are. "By their fruits ye shall know them." He stands as an object lesson to us that such characters will betray the Saviour. They will betray His blessed truth. They will not do to trust. They can be hired to betray the truth and to betray the Lord's true and faithful and humble followers. Judases creep into the church sometimes now, and we know that is what they are by their fruits.

Yes, there are some crimes worse than others. There are some wrongs which the church can bear with. If there were not, then none of us could be borne with, and the church would have no members, for we all do wrong. But there are some wrongs which the church cannot bear with without becoming a transgressor herself. The church cannot afford to bear with drunkenness. She is commanded not to do so. She cannot afford to retain a fornicator. If the church retains and fellowships such characters, the judgments of God will be visited upon her. 'But now I have written unto you not to keep company, if any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such an one no not to eat.'" "Therefore put away from among yourselves that wicked person." --(I Corinthians 5:11,13). No body of persons claiming to be the church of Christ can retain in her fellowship persons who engage in such practices as these without living in open rebellion to the King and Lawgiver in Zion. And as certain as they do so, just that certain will they, sooner or later, suffer the vengeance of His wrath. The guilty shall not go unpunished. On the other hand, we all have our faults and failings, and are commanded and required to bear with each other's imperfections, shortcomings, and mistakes; to watch over each other for good, and not for evil. We are commanded to "walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called, with all lowliness and meekness, with longsuffering, forbearing one another in love; endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace." If Brother B or Brother R sets the standard, and all must come to that, and all must see just as Brother B or Brother R thinks, then Brother B or Brother R fail to "forbear in love." Such a spirit is dangerous and destructive to the welfare and peace of the church of God. We are sorry it is so, but must confess that we have seen such a spirit manifested. Is it akin to the spirit of Judas? Our readers may answer for themselves. But we do know that it is a bad spirit, and that it is dangerous. It is wrong--very wrong. We should remember that we all are guilty of wrongs, that we all make mistakes. But such a spirit is Pharisaical. It says that "I am perfect; I never do wrong; I make no mistakes; I need no forbearance exercised toward me, and shall exercise none toward others. Every brother must use my words or be accursed." We say this is wrong. We need each other. We should be willing to bear with each other; we should not make a brother an offender for a word; we should exercise longsuffering. Charity suffereth long--there is no end to it, as long as we do wrong ourselves. These little petty differences, minor offenses, and differences in expression should be borne with always. A spirit of "rule or ruin" will not do that. May the Lord help us all to remember these things, and to live accordingly, is our humble prayer. C. H. C.

Views Wanted

---July 25, 1916

ELDER C. H. CAYCE:

Dear Brother--Does a man have to be married and have children before he can be ordained to preach? There has a question arisen among us to that effect, and we want your views on same. You may answer through THE PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

J. A. BRADEN

Hornersville, Mo.

REMARKS

No, a man does not have to be married and have children before he can be ordained to preach. Paul was never married. The requirement that the bishop be the husband of one wife simply means that he should have only one wife at a time. It does not mean that he must marry in order that he be ordained. Neither does it mean that he should never be married more than once. It simply means that he should be the husband of one wife and one wife only. It does not mean that he must marry, as stated. Neither does it mean that he should not be allowed to have a wife. His circumstances may be such that, although he may have been married, yet he has no Scriptural wife. This does not forbid that he have a wife. If he has been married, and the woman is dead, or is a fornicator, then he has no wife. There is no law against a man having one wife, and he has the right to marry. He does not have that to do in order to be ordained to the work of the ministry, but he has the right. C. H. C.

Sunday Work

---August 1, 1916

We have received the following question: "Do the Primitive Baptists reject the fellowship of a member that is employed by a firm, such as a railroad company, and works seven days a week? Do Primitive Baptists bar against Sunday work?" We have never known of a Primitive Baptist Church withdrawing fellowship from a man because he was employed by a company that required him to work on Sunday, and we have met with quite a number of brethren who were employed by railroads. We have understood Primitive Baptists generally to think that people should not work on Sunday when it can be reasonably avoided; but we have always thought that they willingly excused the brother who had such a position with a company who required his services on Sunday. It would be just as reasonable and as justifiable in the church to exclude a sister for cooking breakfast or dinner on Sunday as to exclude the brother for working at his job on Sunday when his employer requires it. So far as we can learn, and so far as we can find, it is no more violation of the Scripture to work on Sunday than on any other day. The only reason we can see why one should not work on Sunday is because it is a violation of the law of the state, and the state law provides for certain lines of work being carried on. The Sabbath law, under the law dispensation, required the Jew to work six days, and a failure to work six days was as much a violation as a failure to observe the Sabbath. Besides, the seventh day (Saturday) was the Sabbath day. The Gentiles were never under that law. It was to the Jews only. The Gentiles have never been under it. As stated, the only reason why it is wrong to work on Sunday, as we understand the matter, is simply because the state law forbids it. It is as much wrong, morally, for the good sisters to work on Sunday as it is for the men to do so. The women generally have as much work to do on Sunday as they do on any other day--perhaps more. Why don't the men make provision by law to stop so much of the women's work being done on Sunday? Evidently they do not care to be deprived of the pleasure of the hot breakfast and dinner. They are not so much concerned as to the amount of work the women have to do; but they are concerned that they themselves have provision made so that they will not have to work on Sunday. Much of this, too, is under the cloak of Christianity--a pretense. C. H. C.

About The Minstry – Questions Answered

---August 8, 1916

The following is so timely, and so Scriptural, and so much in harmony with our own views, that we copy it from The Gospel Messenger for August, 1916. It deserves to be published in every Old Baptist paper in the United States, and it is a great pity--yes, a shame and a disgrace, that its teaching is not put in practice. It is a shame that some claiming to be Primitive Baptists will retain men in their fellowship, and shield and protect them, when they are guilty of such immoral practices as some of those things mentioned. No wonder there is trouble, strife, division, confusion and discord in the church, when such men are retained. When men are guilty of such immoral conduct, it is no wonder they claim that the body is still in the same condition as the alien sinner. May the Lord pity us. C. H. C.

THE ARTICLE

DEAR BROTHER STEWART:

For the information and satisfaction of a number of us, will you kindly answer the following questions through The Gospel Messenger:

1. Do you think Primitive Baptists should uphold, tolerate and fellowship preachers or elders who are known to be guilty of gross public offenses, sins or crimes, such as drunkenness, fornication, adultery, lying or fraud, etc.?

Answer. Genuine, orderly Primitive Baptists do not uphold, tolerate or fellowship such preachers, or elders, for such conduct as that just mentioned is not disorderly merely, but is downright wickedness and violations of the moral law of God, and will not be tolerated by our orderly people any more than would thieves, robbers and murderers, with which they are classed in (Revelation 22:15). Read it. The royal law governing the ministry provides that the bishop, preacher, pastor, minister, or elder (all these terms mean about one and the same thing) must be blameless, vigilant, sober, of good behaviour, a lover of good men, just, holy, temperate, a pattern of good works, in the doctrine showing uncorruptness, gravity, sincerity; must be faithful and be an example to the believers in the word, in conversation, in spirit, in faith, in purity, and must have a GOOD REPORT of them that are without. And he MUST NOT BE given to wine, nor greedy of filthy lucre, nor a brawler, nor covetous, not a novice, etc. St. Paul's letters to Timothy and Titus. Read them all carefully. Would you employ an unchaste person to -train and educate your daughters? Would you employ a drunkard, a liar, murderer, gambler or any other immoral person to train and educate your sons? Would you put a donkey in a parlor? Then if you would not, do not tolerate and fellowship a man of bad or doubtful character as a preacher, teacher or pastor, for as the other things mentioned would be an abomination among men, so the latter would be a greater abomination before God and men.

2. Suppose there is much common or general talk about a preacher that tends to show that his conduct is not such as becomes the gospel of Christ, and while perhaps there is nothing that has come to light or has actually been proven on him to 'show that he is guilty, yet his conduct is such as to cause general suspicion that he is guilty of dark, criminal, dishonorable practices, what then?

Answer. The Scriptures already referred to answer this question, when the apostle says he must have a good report of them that are without, lest he fall into reproach and the snare of the devil. See (I Timothy 3:7). The good report required relates to the moral character of the minister, and not to his doctrine, for many who do not like nor care for his doctrine or religion will give him credit for good character, and I can truly say that I have never yet known a minister that deserved a good report of them that are without who did not have it. A minister who has not a good report of those without is not likely to have a good report of those that are within, and if he has not this good report, then according to the Scriptures just quoted he is in reproach and the snare of the devil. And a minister in that condition preaching among Old Baptists! God forbid! Abominable! Horrible! Demoralizing! There is no more authority for putting a man of bad or suspicious character in the ministry and in the pulpit, than there is for putting a profane, ungodly man, or a heathen, or a Hottentot, there, because all such is forbidden. The duty of the minister is to teach, edify, build up and keep the flock together; but this other sort, the man of bad or suspicious character, will do exactly the opposite. The walk, character, and everyday life of the minister should be encouraging, confirming, inspiring to, and an actual defense for, the people and church of God, and such they are divinely intended or appointed to be. On the other hand, if his life is not above suspicion, many mourn, grieve, scatter and perish visibly. On the common report that a certain man was a fornicator, Paul told the church to put away from among them that wicked person. See (I Corinthians 5:1,13). In that good old church of Jesus Christ, when they wanted deacons, the direction was to look out men of "honest report." John says "Demetrius hath good report of all men, and of the truth itself." ((Jn 1:14) (III John 1:14). Hence we should never recognize a man of bad report or suspicious character as a minister of Jesus Christ, because, 1st, it is rebellion against God's law. Second, because such a man cannot edify, but mortifies the church of God, all lovers of truth and respectable people generally. Third, because the church and lovers of truth must droop their heads in shame among the sons of God and before all men. Fourth, because if such a preacher be tolerated, there are only a few places he can go and be tolerated at all, and then not by all perhaps, and because many sincere lovers of truth will not hear him, and if they learn that he is to be at a certain meeting, they will not go there, or if they have gone to meeting and find that such a preacher is there, it casts a dark shadow and a gloom over all to them, and there is no more joy in that meeting for them.

Would you undertake to introduce a fallen woman,--a woman of bad character, into good, honest, virtuous, and respectable society, and encourage or persuade them to recognize her as their equal, and to follow her example and teaching? Do you answer, No? Then, for God's sake and the church's sake, never do the other, for it is a far greater abomination before God. Toleration of such a preacher will have the effect of driving away some of the purest and noblest members of our churches and be the cause of many of the bleating lambs of God staying away and never entering or uniting with the church--in fine, such toleration would sooner or later cause the church to become extinct, visibly.

If the church where a man has membership tolerates such things, then what should the sister nearby churches do? Answer: If the church where such a character has membership, will not stop him from preaching and exclude him, too, then the sister churches in that section should labor with the offending church on account of her inconsistency and great sin before God, and then, if she refuses to deal with that man, they should, after due course of gospel labor, withdraw fellowship from her, and publish to all that they have withdrawn from them; for in this way only can the reproach and burden be taken off the church and cause of Christ. But if other churches refuse, or fear, or neglect to act, then the sin, and shame and reproach rest upon them all, and upon the ministry in particular, for if such a condition obtains or becomes a matter of toleration, you may ascribe it to a slothful or cowardly, or unfaithful ministry.

4. Where a minister has been expelled from the church on account of gross immorality or conduct, such as lying, stealing, public drunkenness, fornication, adultery, seduction, etc., and then repents and desires to be restored by the church to fellowship and to the ministry, can the church Scripturally restore him to his former position?

