In Trust With The Gospel

Elder Keith Ellis

Watching Corn

I overheard the other day that some people were in trouble for looking at pictures on the internet. I was obviously curious, so I wanted to see what the big fuss was about.

The pictures I found displayed both hard and soft versions,

So, if I have your attention let me ask a serious question.

Would looking at corn or being outright addicted to it constitute a violation of the marital relationship, based on Matt 5:28?

Should someone who is a church member (none in the church I attend that I know of) be labored with and eventually excluded for such an offense if they remained unrepentant?
